CONNECTICUT COURANT

OCT 29 1764 - 1
TO
JULY 14 1772 - 394

GRAPHIC MICROFILM SERVICE INC
WALTHAM MASS

The Connecticut Courant.

HARTFORD

Thomas Green founded the CONNECTICUT COURANT on October 29, 1764. From that day to this, the COURANT has been published in Hartford. During this period of more than 175 years, there have been but three lapses in publication. The first was for five weeks probably during the month of November, 1765. The last issue before this period bears the date, October 29, 1765 #49, the next available issue is December 30, 1765 #53. It seems likely then that Green suspended his paper until he was sure of the effects of the Stamp Act. On December 11, 1769 #260, Thomas Green and Ebenezer Watson, joint publishers at that time, threatened to stop the paper unless the subscribers paid their back bills. Apparently the threat bore results, for after a lapse of a week they resumed on December 25, 1769 #261.

Toward the end of 1775, there was difficulty in securing paper. Finally, not even blue wrapping paper could be located and the COURANT had to cease publication until the paper mill in East Hartford could supply their needs. Thus the issue of December 11, 1775 is #572 and the issue of January 15, 1776 is #573, a suspension of four weeks.

The best file of the CONNECTICUT COURANT is in the Connecticut Historical Society. Issues lacking in our file but available at the Library of Congress, New York Historical Society, Yale University, Massachusetts Historical Society, Connecticut State Library and the Hartford Courant office, are here included through the courtesy of those institutions.

We are greatly indebted to Mr. Clarence S. Brigham of the American Antiquarian Society, for checking the list of missing issues for possible location. The following numbers, through 1787, were not found to be in any library co-operating with Mr. Brigham's survey:

Nov. [?] 1764 #1
Jan. 28, 1765 #10
Feb. 4, 1765 #11
Feb. 11, 1765 #12
Feb. 18, 1765 #13
Feb. 25, 1765 #14
Mar. 18, 1765 #17
Apr. 8, 1765 #20
Apr. 15, 1765 #21
Apr. 22, 1765 #22
Oct. 21, 1765 #48
[Dec. ?] 1765 #50
[Dec. ?] 1765 #51
[Dec. ?] 1765 #52
June 9, 1766 #76
July 7, 1766 #80
Nov. 17, 1766 #99
July 6, 1767 #132
Aug. 15, 1768 #190
Nov. 21, 1768 #204
Jan. 8, 1770 #263
May 28, 1770 #283
Nov. 6, 1770 #306
Jan. 15 - 22, 1771 #317
Feb. 5 - 12, 1771 #320
May 14 - 21, 1771 #334
June 18 - 25, 1771 #339
Nov. 26 - Dec. 3, 1771 #362
Dec. 3 - 10, 1771 #363
Dec. 17 - 24, 1771 #365
July 14 - 21, 1772 #395
Feb. 23 - Mar. 2, 1773 #427
Oct. 12 - 19, 1773 #460

Thompson R. Harlow
Librarian
Connecticut Historical Society
October 15, 1941

The Connecticut Courant.

1126 Seth P. Beers's

MONDAY, October 29, 1764. (Number 00.) No 1

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown, near the North-Meeting-Houſe.

Hartford, October 29th, 1764.

OF all the Arts which have been introduc'd amongſt Mankind, for the civilizing Human-Nature, and rendering Life agreeable and happy, none appear of greater Advantage than that of Printing; for hereby the greateſt Genius's of all Ages, and Nations, live and ſpeak for the Benefit of future Generations.—

Was it not for the Preſs, we ſhould be left almoſt intirely ignorant of all thoſe noble Sentiments which the Antients were endow'd with.

By this Art, Men are brought acquainted with each other, though never ſo remote, as to Age or Situation; it lays open to View, the Manners, Genius and Policy of all Nations and Countries, and faithfully tranſmits them to Poſterity.—But not to inſiſt upon the Uſefulneſs of this Art in general, which muſt be obvious to every One, whoſe Thoughts are the leaſt exteſive.

The Benefit of a Weekly Paper, muſt in particular have its Advantages, as it is the Channel which conveys the Hiſtory of the preſent Times to every Part of the World.

The Articles of News from the different Papers (which we ſhall receive every Saturday, from the neighbouring Provinces) that ſhall appear to us, to be moſt authentic and intereſting ſhall always be carefully inſerted; and great Care will be taken to collect from Time to Time all domeſtic Occurrences, that are worthy the Notice of the Publick; for which, we ſhall always be obliged to any of our Correſpondents, within whoſe Knowledge they may happen.

The CONNECTICUT COURANT, (a Specimen of which, the Publick are now preſented with) will, on due Encouragement be continued every Monday, beginning on Monday, the 19th of November, next: Which Encouragement we hope to deſerve, by a coſtant Endeavour to render this Paper uſeful, and entertaining, not only as a Channel for News, but aſſiſting to all Thoſe who may have Occaſion to make uſe of it as an Advertiſer.

☞Subſcriptions for this Paper, will be taken in at the Printing-Office, near the North-Meeting-Houſe, in Hartford

BOSTON, October 1.

IT is now out of faſhion to put on mourning at the funeral of the neareſt relation, which will make a ſaving to this town of twenty thouſand ſterling per annum.—It is ſurprizing how ſuddenly, as well as how generally an old cuſtom is aboliſhed, it ſhows however, the good ſenſe of the town, for it is certainly prudent to retrench our extravagant expences, while we have ſomething left to ſubſiſt ourſelves, rather than be driven to it by fatal neceſſity.

We hear that the laudable practice of frugality is now introducing itſelf in all the neighbouring towns, (and it were to be wiſhed it might thro'out the government) an inſtance of which we have from Charleſtown, at a funeral there the beginning of laſt week, which the relatives and others attended, without any other mourning than which is preſcribed in a reſcent agreement.

October 8. There ſeems to be a diſpoſition in many of the inhabitants of this and the neighbouring governments to cloath themſelves with their own manufacture.—At Hampſtead, on Long Iſland, in the Province of N. York, a company of gentlemen have ſet up a new woolen manufactory, and having given notice to gentlemen ſhopkeepers and others, of any of the provinces, that by ſending proper patterns of any colour, they may be ſupplied with broad-cloths, equal in fineneſs, colour, and goodneſs, and cheaper than any imported: the proprietors give good encouragement to any perſon who are any way veſted in the woolen manufactory, ſuch as wool-combers, weavers, clothiers, ſhearers, dyers, ſpinners, carders, or underſtand any branch of the broad-cloth, blanket, or ſtroud manufactory.——At Jamaica on the ſaid iſland, one Tunis Polpham is erecting a fulling-mill, which will be compleat in about a month, and carry on all the branches of a fuller and dyer of cloth.

The Surveyor-General has appointed Charles Antrobus, Eſq; to be an officer of his majeſty's cuſtoms to ſeize prohibited and uncoſtomed goods in North-America. And,

William Brown, Eſq; to be collector of his majeſty's cuſtoms at Salem and Marblehead.

Yeſterday one of his majeſty's cruizers arrived in King-Road; tis thought to be the Cygnet.

By a letter from Barbados, we have advice, that Gidney Clark, Eſq; of that Iſland, died there on the 27th of Auguſt laſt, greatly lamented.

It is now confidently affirmed by ſome, which however may not be true in fact, that the ſeverity of the new a—t of p——t is to be imputed to letters, repreſentations, NARRATIVES, &c. tranſmitted to the m——y about two years ago by perſons of eminence this ſide the water—And that ſome copies of letters are actually in this town, and others ſoon expected.—To whatever cauſe theſe ſeverities are owing, it behoves the colonies to repreſent their grievances in the ſtrongeſt point of light, and to unite in ſuch meaſures as will be effectual to obtain redreſs.

The northern coloniſts have ſenſe enough, at leaſt the ſenſe of feeling; and can tell where the ſhoe pinches—The delicate ladies begin to find by experience, that the Shoes made at LYN are much eaſier than thoſe of the make of Mr. Hose of London—What is become of the noted ſhoemaker of Eſſex?

It is fear'd by many who wiſh well to Great-Britain, that the new A—t of P——t will greatly diſtreſs, if not totally ruin ſome of HER OWN manufactures—It is thought that by means of this A—t, leſs of her woolen cloths, to the amount of ſome thouſands ſterling, will be purchas'd in this cold climate the inſuing winter.

We are told that all the Funerals the laſt Week were conducted upon the new Plan of Frugality.

Nothing but FRUGALITY can now ſave the diſtreſs'd northern colonies from impending ruin—It ought to be a conſolation to the good people of a certain province, that the greateſt man in it exhibits the moſt rigid example of this political as well as moral virtue.

A ſurprizing concatenation of events to one man in one week.

Publiſhed a Sunday—married a Monday—had a Child a Tueſday—ſtole a horſe a Wedneſday—baniſhed a Thurſday,—died a Friday—buried a Saturday—all in one Week.

NEWPORT, October 15.

Letters from Jamaica inform us, that one of the Men of War on that Station called lately at the Cape, and brought away one of the People that had been carried thither from Turks-Iſland; the Captain on asking the Reaſon of their Behaviour there which was looked on as a Breach of the good Underſtanding between the two Crowns, received for Anſwer, It was done by Orders from the Courts of France and Spain. A King's Frigate was diſpatched by Admiral Sir William Burnaby to Turks-Iſland and the Cape.

The Squirrel man of war, Capt. Smith, ſailed from this port for Halifax laſt Thurſday.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

NAPLES, July 10.

THOUGH the ſickneſs decreaſes here, we ſtill have about 115 burials every day. Theſe diſtempers have alſo carried off ſeveral perſons of note, among whom are the Abbot Ruffini, Auditor of the Nunciature, the Duke de Montalte, Poſt Maſter General &c. They likewiſe make great havock in ſeveral other parts of the kingkom, particularly at Salerno, Sorento, and Capua.

MADRID, July 10. From the frequent arrival of couriers, and the profound ſilence obſerved in relation to their diſpatches, it is judged that there are ſome ſerious affairs on the carpet; and the more ſo, as the court is augmenting its forces by ſea and land, and ſhips of war are building in all the yards of the kingdom with more ardour than ever. Beſides, we think we perceive a coolneſs between two foreign Miniſters; and it is even reported, that one of thoſe Miniſters, who is but lately arrived, will ſoon receive orders, if he has not already, to return home. Be that as it may, it is certain that we look not with a good eye on the cloſe connection formed between two courts, one of which, by means of its conqueſt, and acquiſitions during the laſt war, and by the treaty of peace, ſeems to want to eſtabliſh in America a ſuperiority, which, if not prevented in time, may, in the ſequel, annihilate the Empire of the Spaniards in that part of the world.

CADIZ, July 10. Some veſſels arrived here within theſe few days report, that a great number of Barbary Corſairs are actually at ſea.

GENOA, July 28. His Royal Highneſs the Duke of York arrived here this morning in perfect health.

His Royal Highneſs was complimented by the government of Novi, at a ſmall diſtance from that town. This afternoon the Maſter of the Ceremonies waited on, and complimented his Royal Highneſs on his ſafe arrival, and acquainted him, that the Republic had named ſix Nobles, as a deputation from the Republick; his Royal Highneſs returned his thanks, and declined to accept of the deputation.

The Republick will endeavour to amuſe his Royal Highneſs with diverſions of Balls; and preparations are making to give a maſqued Ball at the Theatre to-morrow night.

TURIN, July 28. On Saturday laſt the 21ſt inſtant, his Royal Highneſs the Duke of York received a friendly viſit from the Duke of Savoy, the Prince of Piedmont, and the Duke of Chablais; and the day following his Royal Highneſs dined with his Sardinian Majeſty. The ſame night a magnificent ſupper and a great ball were given at the Palace, which his Royal Highneſs occupies; and two days after, the Prince of [illegible] who was in the country fifteen miles from Turin, came from thence to pay his reſpects to his Royal Highneſs, whom he invited to dine with him at his beautiful ſeat of Raconis; where he likewiſe aſked a number of the moſt conſpicuous of the ladies and noblemen of the court to come to a dinner, a concert and a ball, which altogether, made it a moſt complete and agreeable entertainment. Laſt Thurſday his Royal Highneſs took leave of the King of Sardinia, and the reſt of the Royal Family, by all of whom he was ſincerely regretted; and yeſterday, early in the Morning, his Royal Highneſs left Turin to go to Genoa.

STOCKHOLM, July 31. The king has ſent orders to all commanders of regiments to ſend him forthwith an exact liſt of their preſent number of men, and to complete their reſpective corps as ſoon as poſſible. His majeſty has alſo ordered the intendants of the baggage and ſtores of the army to keep in readineſs a ſufficient quantity of the ſame, to the end that the troops may immediately take the field in caſe of need. We are much puzzled to account for the motives to theſe orders.

PARIS, Auguſt 10. Within theſe laſt three days no leſs than 18 different couriers have been diſpatched to Madrid.——All is hurry and confuſion at Verſailles: Expreſſes are every moment ſent to the different ſeaports; and if ſome whiſpers are to be credited we are on the eve of a new rupture with the moſt formidable of our neighbours. This, and the diſtractions which are but too juſtly apprehended in Poland threaten to deluge Europe afreſh with blood, and throws an uncommon air of dejection over this metropolis, which was juſt beginning to recruit from the miſeries of the late war.

HAGUE. They write from Madrid, that that Court begins to take umbrage at that of Liſbon's continuing to repair their fortified towns, and augmenting their ſea and land forces, which neither the Court of Spain nor that of France can ſee without a jealous eye, eſpecially as the Portugueſe ſeem greatly devoted to the intereſt of the Court of Great Britain, with whom they have not long ſince concluded a treaty, and in conſequence of which the Courts of Madrid and Verſailles have agreed to counteract that of Portugal, in caſe ſhe ſhould attempt any thing againſt their common Intereſt.

LONDON.

St James's, July 21. In anſwer to the repreſentations made by his Majeſty's Ambaſſador at the Court of Madrid, upon the late tranſactions of their late Governor of Jacutan, and his proceedings towards the Britiſh ſubjects employed in cutting logwood in the Bay of Honduras, the Spaniſh Miniſtry have replied, That they have not received any advices from that Governor relative to this affair, but that it is certain the Catholic King has given poſitive orders to his Governor of Jacutan, to abide by, and obſerve the XVIIth article of the laſt treaty of peace, and that he will not approve of the conduct of his ſubjects who act in contravention to it. That it is the intention of his Catholic Majeſty, that no one ſhall impede the Engliſh in their cutting logwood in the ſtipulated places; and he will diſapprove of his Governors and Miniſters whenever they act to the contrary, and renew the moſt ſtrict orders to that effect.

Auguſt 3. His Majeſty in Council was this day pleaſed to order, that the Parliament, which ſtands prorogued to Thurſday the 16th of this inſtant Auguſt, ſhould be further prorogued to Tueſday the 30th of October next.

Auguſt 6. We are credibly informed, that a great man in a late conference, ſtrongly enforced the neceſſity of repealing the cyder act, as it now ſtands, which its thought will be effectually removed next ſeſſions, a numerous ſociety of noblemen and gentlemen having agreed to uſe all their influence in baniſhing this hydra headed monſter out of the kingdom.

We are informed, that in the courſe of the laſt month, 14,000l. have been remitted to Paris, in order to purchaſe tickets in the French lottery.

A piece of ore, weighing ſeveral pounds, has lately been brought over from Florida, which appears impregnated with divers particles of ſilver. It is now in the hands of an aſſayer, to ſee if any thing can be made of it.

Moſt of the gullies over which the Engliſh army were obliged to paſs in the late ſiege of Martinico, are now fortifying with ſtrong redoubts of cannon; and the ſame precautions have for ſome time paſt, been carrying on at Guadaloupe.

They write from Jamaica, that among other fortifications now carrying on by the Spaniards at the Havana, all the poſſible avenues to the citadel, and other ſtrong holds, are ſhutting up, by driving huge piles of timber into the ground, ſtrongly ſecured together with iron, and headed with ſharp ſpikes. Theſe piles are deſigned to render the future carriage of heavy artillery from the ſea impracticable; 20,000 trees having been cut down for this purpoſe by the direction of one Mannelly, an Iriſh engineer lately arrived from Spain.

Certain advice has been received, that the late report of the French having ceded New-Orleans to the Spaniards, is entirely without foundation.

According to the laſt advices from Naples, the mortality in that kingdom has already carried off between three and four hundred thouſand people, in that city and its environs.

Auguſt 7. Three Spaniſh galliots have taken, in the water of Palamos, an Algerine Rover, with 13 men on board, and carried her into Barcelona.

General de Block, in the Hanoverian ſervice, died lately at Gottingen, at a very advanced age: 60 years of which he was in the ſervice of the Electorate of Hanover.

Auguſt 8. Three elegant ſtatutes of white marble are now erecting in the Sale Room of the India Houſe, viz. Admiral Sir George Pococke the middle, Lord Clive on the right, and Colonel Laurence on the left hand.

The Lords of the Admiralty have been pleaſed to appoint the Hon. Spencer Percival to be principal Regiſter of the Vice-Admiralty Court for all America.

Auguſt 10. There is now a report, that ſeveral Lieutenants will be ſent out to command cruizing cutters on the Spaniſh Main, to act in like manner as thoſe ſome time ago appointed on the North American ſtation.

The following is an exact copy of the proclamation made at the great door of St. Margaret's church, Weſtminſter, on Sunday laſt, by the Under-Sheriff of Middleſex:

"JOHN WILKES, late of the pariſh of St. Margaret, within the Liberty of Weſtminſter, in the County of Middleſex, Eſq; appear before the Lord the King at Weſtminſter, on Tueſday next, after the morrow of All Souls, to ſatiſfy the Lord the King for your redemption, on account of certain Treſpaſſes, Contempts and Miſdemeanors, whereof you are impeached, and thereupon, by a certain Jury of the Country, taken before the King and you the ſaid John Wilks, you are convicted."

They write from Liſbon, that numbers of Engliſh ſeamen daily enter themſelves there, to ſerve on board his Moſt Faithful Majeſty's ſhips of war.

Monday died at Wilſden, Middleſex, the Hon. Gen. Otway, in the 78th year of his age.

Auguſt 11. A report is pretty current at the Eaſt end of the town, that a certain very great perſonage lately expreſſed a deſire that the importation of French manufactures might be made Felony the next meeting of the Parliament, and that the wearers of the minuteſt article ſhould either be fined a large ſum, or impriſoned ſix months.

We hear that three noble Earls joined the Minority laſt week.

The pretended Prince of Angola, at Paris, proves to be an impoſtor, and was therefore taken up, having, under that falſe title, contracted debts to a large amount, to ſupport his brilliant appearance. He had been a ſervant to an Iriſh merchant, who was very active in the late rebellion in Scotland in the year 1145, and is ſince ſettled in Nantz. This Chevalier d'Induſtrie had very proper talents for that profeſſion, having a fine addreſs, &c. However, he has got a lodging, with his attendants, in the Bicette of Paris.

There is now in Newgate one hundred and twelve felons for tranſportation.

It is again reported, that his royal highneſs the duke of York has had, or will have, an offer made him of the kingdom of Corſica.

As the wearing the manufactures of France is doubtleſs an injury to every individual in this kingdom, it muſt give every loyal ſubject pleaſure to hear that their Sovereign has very lately ſignified his diſapprobation in the following terms: "Do theſe people think that they make their court to me, by ſhewing me that they do what they can to ſtarve my ſubjects by enriching thoſe of France? I do not care to do a ſhocking thing to any body, or elſe I would forbid them the Court."

One of the cruiſing Cutters has brought into Cowes a Smuggler, with about two Tons of Tea on board.

The Tideſmen and other Officers are all ſuſpended, on account of the large quantities of goods that were ſuffered to be carried on ſhore at Blackwall.

There is now a talk that an old 60 gun ſhip is to be ſtationed for three years in the gulph of Honduras. She is to ſide Commodore, and act as a guard ſhip to the log wood cutters on the Spaniſh main Auguſt 14. They write from Cadiz, of the 12th ult. that the Rovers of Barbary of late have been very troubleſome on that coaſt; all the ſhips that have not proper paſſports going in or out of that Bay are in danger of being taken.

An Algerine Galliot is taken by the Spaniards and carried into Carthagena, after a ſharp action, in which ten of the Moors were killed, and 11 wounded.

We are informed that a very ſtrong memorial was on Saturday morning ſent off for France, touching the full payment of the Canada bills on Engliſh ſubjects, whoſe property in this kind of currency is ſaid to amount to four hundred thouſand pounds ſterling.

Some letters juſt received from Mr. Wilkes in France, ſeem greatly againſt thoſe Gentlemen who are ſaid to have laid conſiderable bets of his ſpeedy return to England; as not the leaſt mention is made in any of them of ſuch a deſign.

We can aſſure the Public, that there neither is, nor ever was, any ſcheme propoſed for appointing an Arch biſhop, or more than four Biſhops, in our American Plantations; or for placing them elſewhere than in the epiſcopal colonies, or for giving them any authority in civil matters, or over any Diſſenters from the Church of England, or which may be grievous to any members of that Church; or for levying any tax in any place, in order to their ſupport.

It is ſaid a ſtop will be put next ſeſſions to the further exportation of corn ſpirits to North America.

A great number of Stone-maſons are embarking at Liverpool for the two Floridies, where it is ſaid ſeveral important places of ſtrength are to be erected on the frontiers of thoſe provinces.

At Rome they expect that their diſpute with the Court of Portugal will be ſoon terminated, through the mediation of France.

LONDON, Auguſt 18.

It is now ſaid the court of France hath finally refuſed to reimburſe any ſums of money expended ſo generouſly by Great-Britain, in the cloathing and maintenance of their priſoners during the late War.

We are informed, the reſult of ſome late weighty conferences held on the Honduras affair, was, that proper inſtructions were this week diſpatched to the governors and commanders in the Weſt Indies, in caſe of any future moleſtation to his Majeſty's ſubjects in thoſe parts; and as ſoon as well atteſted accounts are received of the loſs ſuſtained by the Britiſh logwood cutters, the ſame are to be tranſmitted to the court of Madrid, where ſatiſfaction will be inſiſted upon, without further delay or equivocation.

There is a report current, that the Spaniards are fortifying the iſland of Heneago, one of the Behama iſlands, in the windward paſſage.

By letters received from Portſmouth and Plymouth on Tueſday laſt, we are informed, that there are a great number of ſhips of the line ordered to be got ready with all expedition at the ſeveral yards, and likewiſe ſtores of all kinds for them; as the preſent miniſtry ſeems to be determined at all events to have them put into a proper ſtate for the ſea ſervice; but it is a queſtion whether they will be ready ſo ſoon as they are wanted, eſpecially for want of ſeamen.

The Utrecht Gazette of Auguſt 13, Informs us, that in the laſt Conference Mr. Pitt had with his Majeſty, he earneſtly preſſed for the revocation of the late tax on cyder and perry: But they do not take upon them to ſay what regard his Majeſty paid to the ſolicitation.

One Broker at the weſt end of the town has ſold out within this week above 400,000 l. in funds, by commiſſion from ſome of the great ones.

Mr. Wilkes is gone from Paris to Bologne, in order to paſs ſome time with a very particular friend, who went from London to meet him at that place.

It was yeſterday morning reported, that orders were given to drop entirely three very material proſecutions againſt ſome late productions of the Preſs.

Auguſt 20. A Survey is ſhortly to be made of all the principal Sea Ports and Fortifications in Ireland, and put them into a good State of Defence in caſe of Emergency.

We are informed Mr. Pitt was to be in town on Saturday evening in conſequence of ſome diſpatches ſent on Friday night to Hayes.

Laſt Wedneſday one particular houſe in the city, it is ſaid ſold out 60,000l. in the public funds, which taking wind, was the next followed by ſeveral others. It makes people imagine, that there is not all this ſmoke without ſome fire.

The price of inſurance of ſhipping to the Weſt Indies, was on Saturday morning advanced two and half per cent. above the uſual premium.

By the Cruttenden Eaſt-Indiaman, Captain Bowler, from Bengal we learn, that Manilla is not yet delivered up to the Spaniards, owing to the ſhip having loſt her paſſage that was diſpatched there.

An experiment was made in Picadilly, on Saturday, by two natives of France, in order to make their fine ſoap which is made at Rouen; and, as they ſucceed, a large Soap houſe is going to be erected to carry on that manufacture.

They write from Lipſtadt, that the chapter of Oſnaburg, had ſent circular letters all over Germany, touching its difference with the regency of Hanover about their Biſhop.

It is ſaid that a bill will be brought in next Seſſions, to entitle a defendant to damages and coſts, in caſes of falſe informations or vexatious actions, at the ſuit of the crown.

INTELLIGENCE EXTRAORDINARY.

Deal, July 25. We have the ſatiſfaction of informing the public, that the Liberty, John Wilkes, Eſq; who was reported to have foundered, is ſafe arrived in France, having been blown over to that coaſt by a violent northerly wind, which proceeded from the highlands of Scotland; and in its paſſage has done great damage this ſide the Tweed.

We hear the ſhips Pitt, Temple and Devonſhire, (which for ſome time have been laid up) are immediately ordered into commiſſion, as his M——y is now ſenſible how active and ſucceſsful theſe ſhips have always been.——At which time its thought the Sloops Tyranny, Oppreſſion and Slavery, will be taken off their ſtations in America.

An irreparable defect has been diſcovered on board the Bute, Capt. Stuart, a ſurvey being made upon her by almoſt every principal and honeſt carpenter in the nation, and as ſhe has always been a remarkable bad ſhip, they have condemned her; ſhe is ordered up to Tower wharf, and as her head is a very curious piece of workmanſhip, it is to be taken off, and placed on Temple bar.

WE hear that if any Perſons can tell of any valuable Reverſions in the Gift of the Crown undiſpoſed of, they may have a good Premium for ſuch Intelligence; as there are ſome few of the Children of the Gentlemen now in Power ſtill unprovided for.

CHARLESTOWN, (South-Carolina) September 13.

The commiſſioners of his Majeſty's cuſtoms have appointed Mr. Robert Lightfoot to be collector of the cuſtoms at the town and port of Beaufort, Port Royal, in this province.

Williamsburg, (in Virginia) September 14.

Extract of a Letter from Fredericksburg, dated Sept. 5, 1764.

"Lieutenant Colonel Reid, of the Highland Regiment, got as far as Fort Ligonier, with the firſt Diviſion of the Troops under Col. Bouquet's Command, the 25th ult. without any Loſs from the Enemy; and Col. Bouquet marched from Fort Loudon, in Pennſylvania, on the 31ſt, with the reſt of the Troops. A Party of 4 Indians killed ſeveral People near Straſburgh on the 22d ult. and took one Mary Dillener Priſoner, but by the Activity of the Militia employed at the advanced Poſts, they intercepted the Indians, ſcalped one on the 26th, and retook the Priſoner.—Several ſmall Parties are down, conducted by white Men, who have lived with the Indians, and turned as ſavage as they; but ſuch Diſpoſitions are make for puſhing and intercepting them, that it is hoped they will not have an Opportunity of committing any Outrage. Sir William Johnſon has ſent ſome Northern Indians to Fort Pitt, to reclaim the Ohio Indians, and a general Peace is ſoon expected."

NEW-YORK, October 1.

Extract of a Letter from England, dated July 14, 1764.

"There have been ſeveral things before our Houſe of Commons, very pernicious to America; ſome have been dropt, ſome purſued, and ſome depending. The report of your gaiety and Luxury have reached your Mother Country; and they infer from thence your opulency, which is further confirmed by the extravagant expences of your youth ſent here for education, and therefore you are well able to bear part of the expences your defence has coſt the nation; and can you blame them for ſuch a concluſion? Is it not natural to infer it from the Premiſes?" [This is the effect, tis true, of our own prodigality; but we are corrected by thoſe who receive the Benefit of it.]

B O S T O N, October 25.

The following Abſtracts are from the London Prints bro't by Capt Bruce who had the ſhorteſt paſſage here. They are to the 15th of September.

THAT it has been intimated in the foreign papers that the late great preparations of the marine in France and Spain were in conſequence of the advices they had received, that a change in the Britiſh miniſtry would aſſuredly take place before Chriſtmaſs.—That ſome ſingular immunities would be granted the next ſeſſions of parliament, to the whale fiſhery on the coaſt of Newfoundland, Labrador and Hudſon's Bay, as they had heard that 41 large fiſh had been caught by adventurers from the ſmall iſland of Nantucker the paſt ſeaſon.—That the iron mines near Trois Reveries in the province of Canada, have been ſo well improved by able workmen, that near 1000 wt. of ore are run daily; one half more than while in the hands of the French—That a gentleman well acquainted with the ſtaples of America, gives it as his opinion, that the woolen manufactures can never come to any degree of perfection in the northern colonies, as their wool is inferior to that of Britain; and as there are ſevere penalties incurr'd upon carrying ſheep or wool from England.—That the Scotch are ſo greatly increas'd, and ſo nationally attached to each other at Kingſton in Jamaica, that ſcarce any Engliſh or Iriſh can get their bread in that place, unleſs by the addition of MAC to their names, or otherwiſe can perſuade their Scotch brethren that they are of that kingdom.—That the non-attendance of a certain noble peer of conſequence at court, tho' ſent for 3 times, much ambaraſſed the majority.—That the reaſon of a ſudden return of a certain great perſonage to England, was to mediate between the two contending parties, known under the title of majority and minority.—That in anſwer to the Britiſh ambaſſador at the court of France, his remonſtrances againſt the acts of violence, done by the commander of a French ſhip of war at one of the Turks Iſlands, that court has diſavowed the ſaid proceedings, and given orders to the governor of St. Domingo, to cauſe the ſaid iſlands to be abandoned on the part of the French, to reſtore every thing therein to the condition in which it was the 1ſt of June laſt, and to make reparation of the damages which any of his Majeſty's ſubjects ſhall be found to have ſuſtained in conſequence of the ſaid proceedings, according to an eſtimate to be ſettled forthwith by the ſaid governor, with his Majeſty's governor of Jamaica.—That the court of Spain have determined to effect a ſettlement on the coaſt of Guinea, in order to ſupply themſelves with ſlaves, without paying ſuch large ſums to foreigners for them; and that three men of war ſailed the 18th ult. on that deſign.—That the Spaniards at the Havana, being depriv'd by the conſent of both nations, of their uſual northern ſupplies, are oblig'd to apply to the French Iſlands for the ſubſiſtence of their numerous negroes, which has made Spaniſh gold and ſilver to be plenty at Martinico for ſome months paſt.—That it was ſaid that the Weſt Indies would not be the only quarter viſited by the men of war fitting out in the different parts of the kingdom; as the fleet at Spithead, when joined with thoſe from Chatham will conſiſt of nine ſail of the line; and a conſiderable number were alſo rendevouzing at Plymouth.——That Count Poniatwoſki was elected King of Poland on the 27th of Auguſt, under the name of Staniſlaus the ſecond.—That a great number of men of war were fitting out at Portſmouth and other ports, but that their deſtination was kept a profound ſecret; tho' it was generally thought the Weſt-Indies would be the ſcene of action, and that it was ſaid the Duke of York, who was arrived in England from his tour thro' Italy, &c. would ſhortly take the command of a ſquadron:—That by the number of ſhips fitting out, and other naval preparations, it is apparent the court is not diſpoſed to give any credit to the pretentions of France and Spain of their ignorance of ſome late tranſactions in the Weſt-Indies; and that three Engliſh admirals will ſpeedily renew their naval functions:—That the preſent ſpirited behaviour of our miniſtry have conſiderably affected the French funds:—That the accounts tranſmitted from Jamaica of the loſs of the Engliſh at Honduras amounts to 20000 l. and thoſe at Turks Iſland to 9000.—That a noble Duke will ſhortly ſet out in a very high character to a neighbouring kingdom on an important affair:—That on the 14th of September a meſſenger was ſent with diſpatches of the utmoſt conſequence to the Earl of Hartford at Paris.—That the late diſmiſſion of ſome perſons from their employments is like to be a fund of much political altercations in the enſuing ſeſſions; and that a certain noble peer had join'd the minority—That it was computed that by cramping the trade with the Spaniards in America, the Engliſh had already been ſufferers in the ſum of 100,000 piſtoles:—That a yatch was preparing to bring over his highneſs Adolphus Frederick, reigning Duke of Mecklingburg Strelitz, brother to her Majeſty, whom it is ſaid will ſhortly be married to the Princeſs Louiſa Ann, his Majeſty's ſecond ſiſter.—Various are the reports about the great armaments now fitting out, but Jamaica is thought will be the principal rendezvous; from whence, after having examined into the affair of Turks iſland and ſhewn the French we are prepared for them in that quarter, the whole ſquadron will bear away in ſight of the Havana, for the ſpaniſh main; where the appearance of 20 ſail of Britiſh ſhips of the line may have a better effect in reducing the Spaniards to their ſenſes than twenty tedious expoſtulations with the petty governors of Campeachy, Honduras or Jucatan:—It was ſaid preſs warrants would be ſhortly iſſued, as ſeamen enter very ſlowly on board the men of war.—And that it is ſaid in ſome of the foreign prints, that the ſupplies of ſeven millions for the enſuing year will be raiſ'd in the following manner.

From the land tax, continued at 4s. in	£. 2000000
the malt tax,	750000
the ſinking fund	3000000
A Lottery, unleſs can be raiſ'd by ſale lands in America, and the ranſom of Manillas.	1250000

A ſhip with 500 German Proteſtants, is ſhortly expected over to ſettle in the Eaſtern Parts of this Province.

A large Ship bound to Philadelphia with Palatines came out with Capt. Bruce.

In Capt. Montgomery who arrived here laſt Week from Scotland, came Paſſenger the Rev. Mr. Sandiman, ſaid to be the Author of the Letters on the Rev. Mr. Harvey's Theron and Aſpaſio—At the Requeſt of ſeveral Perſons he has twice diſcourſed in a publick Manner at Maſon's Hall in this Town; but we don't learn that any of his Auditors were either weak or wicked enough to become Proſelytes to his Tenets. On Tueſday he ſet off for Portſmouth.

N E W - Y O R K, October 25.

Extracts from the lateſt Engliſh papers and letters.

The French very buſy in raiſing recruits, and offer great rewards to volunteers.

Orders ſaid to be diſpatch'd by the laſt mail for the Weſt-Indies, to remove every impediment in the way of trade between the Spaniards and his Majeſty's American ſubjects; and to declare the ports in the neutral iſlands entirely free.

The Hereditary Prince Stadt Holder, with the Duke of Brunſwick Wolfenbuttle, Field Marſhal of the Dutch forces, viſiting and examining all the fortified places in Holland [illegible]

Strong remonſtrances from the northern colonies in America againſt ſome late meaſures, ruinous to their trade, and injurious to the mother country. Alſo, ſeveral petitions from the Britiſh iſlands in the Weſt-Indies, to be laid before the Parliament.

Five Engliſh ſhips with 200 Palatine paſſengers, men, women and children, paſſed the Needles for Philadelphia.

Complaints from New-England, that unleſs the obſtructions to their trade are ſpeedily removed, remittances to England will be impracticable. Reſolutions taking in all the colonies to prevent the exportation of ſilver to England.—No gold to be had, as it ſeems many commanders on the ſtation are reſolved none ſhould trade with the Spaniards but the K——'s ſhips.

A fleet of obſervation manned with 10,000 men, ſaid to be fitting out with all expedition.

Our laſt advices from the army under Col. Bouquet, are dated the 28th September when they had croſſed the Ohio, and were encamped on the other ſide, near Pittsburg.

Col. Bradſtreet, with the army under his command, was ſtill at St. Duſky, waiting for the arrival of the Indians to execute the articles of accommodation, according to the ſtipulated terms.—The Indians had been for ſome time paſt, very quiet in thoſe parts.—Yet many people doubt their ſincerity, and think, if they can gain time to get in their winter ſtores, and find pretences to delay the operations againſt them till the ſeaſon is paſt, and all our expenſive preparations, and the difficult, painful ſervices of the year, render'd entirely uſeleſs. That they will ſhow themſelves as inveterate, and as deſtructive enemies as ever; and that our eaſineſs in admitting a reconciliation after ſuffering the moſt provoking and cruel expreſſions of their implacable malice that they could poſſibly invent, will probably give them reaſon to ſuppoſe they may treat us in the ſame manner again with impunity.

The Lord Hyde packet, Capt. Goddard, was arrived at Falmouth before Capt. Goddard ſailed from thence.

H A R T F O R D, October 29.

On the 11th Inſtant, departed this Life, in the XXVth Year of her Age, Mrs SARAH LORD, Conſort to Mr. George Lord of this Town, Merchant, and the only Child of the Hon. Daniel Edwards, Eſq.

Laſt Saturday ſe'night, ſail'd from N London, for England, the Maſt Ship ——, on board of which went Paſſengers, Joſeph Harriſon Eſq; Collector of the Cuſtoms, for the Port of New-Haven, Jared Ingerſol Eſq; late Agent for this Colony, Capt. Samuel Willis, of Middletown, and Mr. Samuel Wyllys, of this Town, Son of the Secretary of this Colony.

The Commiſſioners of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms in England, and the Plantations, have appointed the Hon. Eliphalet Dyar, (one of the Council of this Colony) to be Comptroller for the Port of New-London; and George Mills Eſq; to be Comptroller for the Port of New-Haven.

We hear, that the General Aſſembly of this Colony, now conven'd at New-Haven, have appointed the 15th of November next, to be obſerved as a Day of public Thankſgiving thro'out this Colony.

Juſt Publiſhed, and to be ſold by the Printer hereof,
ELLSWORTH's ALMANACK for the Year 1765.
Calculated for the Meridian of Hartford.
Of whom alſo may be had, Blanks, Primers, Spelling-Books, Bibles, Watts's Pſalms, Catechiſms, Writing Paper &c.

A B R A H A M B E A C H,
NEAR the South Meeting-Houſe in Hartford, exchanges choice Saltertudas & Anguilla SALT for FLAX-SEED, on the beſt Terms.——

Monday, December 3, 1764. No 2

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

N°2

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

H A M B U R G H, Sept. 4.

THEY write from Sileſia, that cannon and warlike ſtores are daily arriving there; that the King of Pruſſia has reviewed the regiments which were encamped under Briege; and that a body of Auſtrians, commanded by Gen. Loudohn, is forming in Upper Sileſia, while another body of the ſame troops is aſſembling in Moldavia, near Olmutz.

Letters from Thorn of the 31ſt of Auguſt, and thoſe from Berlin of the 5th of September mention not a word of the election of the King of Poland.

L O N D O N, September 6.

At the three places of rendezvous lately opened at Wapping, for entertaining ſailors, none are admitted but thoſe who are good and able ſeamen, well cloathed, and have likewiſe cheſts and bedding.

Sept. 11. Letters from Upper Sileſia bring advice, that on the 12th ult. there happened the moſt violent ſtorm that ever was known, attended with thunder and lightning, the latter of which penetrated into 50 places in the circuit of 27 Engliſh miles. Several buildings were ſet on fire, and in the caſtle of Jegerſdorff it occaſioned a very great one. A great number of people were killed and wounded, and other very conſiderable damages done.

We hear from Conſtantinople, that a Moore, who had been 20 years a ſlave at Marſeilles, and afterwards remained near as long in Egypt, has preſented a plan to the Grand Vizer, the deſign of which is to ſhew, that the antient paſſage from the Mediterranean into the red ſea, which was compleated by the Caliph Omar, A. D. 635, and which was ſhut up on the ſide of the ſea by the Caliph Abugiafar Almanzor, A. D. 775, may be very eaſily reſtored, rendered navigable, and become thereby, not only a means of keeping Egypt in ſubjection, but of adding largely to the revenues of the Turkiſh empire. It is however apprehended, that this ſpecious propoſition will be liable to many political objections

We are aſſured that 10,000 ſeamen will forthwith be raiſed, in order to man the fleet that is now getting ready with all expedition.

It is computed that there are not leſs than 40,000 perſons in the ſeveral goals in this kingdom for debt.

Sept. 23. It is ſaid a regiment of Highlanders will ſoon be raiſed, in order to embark for the Eaſt Indies.

It is ſaid the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Halifax will be appointed Lord Lieutenant and Cuſtos Rotulorum of the county of Hertford, in the room of Earl Cowper, deceas'd.

We are informed that Capt. John Forbes, the antagoniſt of John Wilkes, Eſq; has been promoted by his Portugueſe Majeſty to the command of a regiment of foot in that ſervice. The ſame information ſays, that he narrowly eſcaped an aſſaſſination from five Portugueſe, ſince he received that command.

Wedneſday the Right Hon. the Earl of Bute made a preſent to her Royal Highneſs the Princeſs Dowager of Wales of two pair of Portugal pigeons and a parrot; one pair of the pigeons was a fine red.

Sept. 29. Yeſterday Thomas Harris, and Braſs Crosby, Eſqrs. the two new ſheriffs of this city, were ſworn into their office at Guildhall.

Extract of a Letter from New-England, July 27.

"All our money is gone and going to England to pay our debts. No money is like to be in the country. Our trade to the French and Spaniſh iſlands, from whence we uſed to get money is ſtopped; men of war being placed along our coaſts for that purpoſe. Husbandry is diſcouraged, for there is no vent for proviſions, Merchants and farmers are breaking, and all things going into confuſion."

Oct. 2. A letter from Paris ſays, "The codfiſhery on the Newfoundland bank has been this year equally plentiful and advantageous to the perſons concerned in it. The people of St. Malo in particular have made cent. per cent. of it; which no doubt will encourage our merchants to fit out next year a greater number of veſſels for this trade.

By the laſt French mail there is advice, that the number of their veſſels employed in the Newfoundland fiſhery, amounts to upwards of 500 ſail, from 50 to 300 tons, as appears from the following liſt: 50 from St. Maloes, 30 from Granville, 64 from St. Martin's 49 from the iſle of Rhee, 110 from Bayonne, 70 from St. Jean de Luz, 58 from Siboar 90 from Rockefort, and a large number of ſmall craft from the different ports of inferior note along the coaſt; and their cargoes have ſold from 30 to 36 livres the quintal.

The whole fiſhery at Bermudas has this ſummer turned out extremely advantageous.

Letters from Cadiz, by Friday's mail, mention the ſailing of the Glorious and Subtile men of war, with 1000 troops on board, for Carthagena, in New-Spain.

The merchants are afraid of a rupture with the Algerines; our court not being ſatisfied, by any means with the Divan's condemnation of the Genoeſe polacre taken under an Engliſh paſs, and the Dey ſeeming abſolutely determined not to give up the point in allowing us the liberty of granting paſſes to the veſſels of other nations.

Three additional companies of foot, and a large quantity of artillery, embarked at Jamaica the fourth of Auguſt laſt, to reinforce the Engliſh ſettlements on the Muſqueto ſhore, and to erect ſome ſtrong batteries on the Spaniſh ſide.—By this account it appears we are not idle, but always ready to defend our rights; and the Gazette confirms it.

According to an authentic account, Spain and France have already ſent 20 ſhips of the line, to the Weſt Indies ſince ſigning the treaty of Verſailles.

If ſome Indian prieſts were to take orders here, & go to America, it would not be amiſs; as the Indians, perhaps, would be readier to receive inſtructions from their own people than ours; as they would be better able to inculcate the principles of our worſhip in them.

On Sunday laſt died on a viſit at the Rev. Mr. Spence's at Durham, Mr. Robert Dodſley, author of Cleone, the Toyſhop, the King and the Miller of Manſfield, and ſeveral other pieces of a moral tendency, and late an eminent book ſeller in Pall Mall.

Wedneſday died at her houſe at Greenwich, Mrs. Wolfe, relict of Colonel Edward Wolfe, and mother to the late heroic General of the ſame name.

It is reported that two right hon. Commoners will ſoon retire from buſineſs, with penſions and titles.

The conductors of the French fiſhery at Newfoundland, have, we are told, made grievous complaints of the unmannerly intruſion of our cruiſers at the iſles of St. Pierre and Miquelon, who, it ſeems, are determined not to ſuffer them to take on board any quantities of fiſh for Europe which are not actually of their own catching: ſuch Engliſh boats as are detected on this illegal traffic, are publickly burnt at St. John's.

Oct. 2. An alteration in the Auſtrian miniſtry, and a marriage between the King of the Romans and a Princeſs of Portugal, are ſoon to take place.

Sunday his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland; the Rt Hon. the Earl and Counteſs of Northumberland, and ſeveral other perſons of diſtinction, ſet out for New-market to be preſent at the races.

Saturday ſe'night died in Dublin, Lieut. Gen. Dejean, Col. of the 3d regiment of Light Horſe, in the 85th year of his age.

Thurſday morning died at Bath, of the gout in his ſtomach, John Lord Trevor, Baron of Bremham, and F.R.S. His Lordſhip leaving no iſſue male, his title and eſtate deſcends to his Brother the Hon. Robert Hampden, Eſq; Poſt-Maſter-General, now Lord Trevor, married, (May 31. 1731) Elizabeth, daughter to the late celebrated Sir Richard Steel,; by whom he had an only daughter named Diana.

We are informed, that all the noble family of the York's have joined the Majority.

It is expected that the 44th regiment of foot, which has been for many years paſt, and now is on duty in North-America, will very ſoon receive orders to embark for Europe.

We are aſſured that 10,000 ſeamen will forthwith be raiſed, in order to man the fleet that is now getting ready with all expedition.

By Capt. Cole in a ſhort Paſſage from Falmouth in England, we have the following Advices.

Paris, October 1. It is ſaid that a Camp of 10,000 men is going to be formed near Breſt, and that part of them are to be employed in the great reparations and improvements which are intended to be made in the harbour and fortifications of that place.

Verſailles, October 8. The Count de Guerchy, his Majeſty's ambaſſador to the King of England, and the Counteſs de Guerchy, his Lady, took Leave of their Majeſties, and the Royal Family, on the 30th of laſt Month, in order to return to London.

LONDON,

Octo. 11. By Letters from Madrid it appears, the French are like to meet with many difficulties in their late projected trading Scheme to the Spaniſh Settlements in South America.

We are informed a certain great perſonage in the miniſtry, having been asked a few days ago what was to be done with ſo many ſhips of war as have lately been commiſſioned, ſeeing the French and Spaniards have diſavowed all hoſtile intentions, made anſwer, that even allowing it to be ſo, the legiſlature were nevertheleſs convinced of the utility of maintaining a conſiderable naval force, if it were only to keep our ſhips from rotting in the harbour, and the ſpirits of Britiſh ſailors from relaxing; that it was not enough to keep a few guard ſhips at home, and on the American ſtations; we ſhould alſo command reſpect abroad, by conſtant cruizers viſiting the Mediterranean, Baltic, and the ports of our allies: the former neglect of which has frequently expoſed Engliſh merchant ſhips to inſults from thoſe of other nations.

Oct. 15. They write from Norway, that four large Dutch ſhips are now loading there with oak plank, ſhip-timber, and other articles in the building way, for the uſe of the French yards at Breſt, &c.

It is ſaid, the Tenth of next Month is appointed for the ſolemnization of an enſuing Ceremony.

We are informed that Somerſet-houſe is ordered to be elegantly furniſhed and got ready for the reception of his Serene Highneſs the Duke of Mecklenbourg-Strelitz, whoſe arrival is expected here before the End of this Month.

We are informed that all the Clerks in the Office of Ordnance at the Tower, have had their Salaries augmented.

Advices from Franckfort on the Main, inform, that the Marquis d'Argens, Chamberlain to the King of Pruſſia, arrived there on the ſecond of this Month, in his Way to Paris, where he is going to execute a Commiſſion of Great Importance.

We are aſſured that a certain popular Gentleman, who was ſuppoſed to be confined to Fricaſſes and Soup-Meagre abroad, has lately been ſeen to take an Engliſh Dinner at the Houſe of an intimate Friend in Surry.

LONDON, October 16.

Extract of a private Letter, (brought by the Pigot Indiaman) from the Camp of Doudnagur in Bengal, dated March 5, 1764.

"Notwithſtanding the great Succeſs we met with in our late Campaign, our Affairs here are far from wearing a peaceful Aſpect. Coſſim Ali Cawn, the late Nabob of Bengal, has purchaſed, at an immence price, the Alliance of Sujah Doulah, a very powerful neighbouring Subah; yet I think it is to be queſtioned, if, in Conjunction, they dare diſpute the Superiority of our victorious Arms. But Cunning and Treachery are the Characteriſtics of moſt Orientals; and thoſe perhaps, may prove the Source of freſh Trouble to us."

We are informed, the Eaſt India Company will have two Regiments of Infantry granted them, for the more effectually re-eſtabliſhing their Affairs in the Province of Bengal.

The general report is, that the company's affairs abroad bear but an indifferent aſpect, that part of the Engliſh had deſerted to the enemy, and that Shah Sadir, Coſſim Aly Kawn, and the Prince to whom he fled after his defeat, were determined to unite their forces againſt the Engliſh.

We can with good Authority aſſure the Public, that altho' by the laſt Advices from Bengal, the Eaſt-India company were informed there had been a Mutiny among the Troops, inſtigated and encouraged by ſome French Soldiers, about 150 in Number, who had inliſted in the Company's Service; yet the ſame, at the Time of diſpatching thoſe Advices, was quelled without the loſs or detention of a ſingle European, except thoſe Frenchmen above mentioned. And the ſame Advices add, that the Settlements were then in perfect Safety; nor was it certain that Sujah Dowlah had eſpouſed the Cauſe of Coſſim Aly further than receiving him into his Dominions, which was long ago known, his Forces not having moved a Step out of his own Country.

It is ſaid a ſtrong reinforcement of Soldiers will be immediately ſent to Lord Clive at Bengal; and that ſeveral Serjeants and Corporals of the Guards will go over with them.

By letters arrived by the Pigot from Bengal, we hear, that at her departure there were very few troops at that place; that Coſſim Ali Cawn had been joined by ſome Princes of the country; that ſeveral mutines had happened among our troops, one of which was quelled, tho' with the loſs of an 100 Europeans, beſides ſeapoys, and that the different mutinies were not then ſubſided, and that it was much feared, that by this time Bengal is no longer in our hands.

and we further hear, another principal in command (feared to be Major Carnack) is dead alſo.

A correſpondent at Amſterdam writes that there were no leſs than ſeven ſhips of war upon the ſtocks at that port, viz. two of 70 guns, one of 60, two of 50, and two of 40. At Rotterdam, one of 64, and two of 36 Guns. And at Middleborough in Zealand, three of different ſtreights. At Amſterdam, they were alſo buſy in ſhipping 350 pieces of ordnance for France, beſides near 2000 tons of cordage.

It is ſaid a memorial has been tranſmitted to our miniſters at Liſbon, containing no leſs than 21 oppreſſive articles of trade which the Engliſh commerce now labours under through the partial, or rather ungrateful behaviour of the Portugueſe towards the trading ſubjects of this kingdom.

An additional number of hands are employed at Chatham, Portſmouth and Plymouth, in fitting out the ſhips of war at thoſe places, which are ordered for immediate ſervice.

We are informed a reſolution has lately been taken to fortify the entrance of the Gut of Canſo, as alſo that of the ſtraits of Belleiſle, on both ſides, with ſeveral new works and ſtrong platforms of cannon; as both theſe places are of great importance in the North-American ſeas.

The report of the French having a conſiderable naval force in the Newfoundland ſeas, is now actually confirmed; and as they have conſiderably exceeded the limits of the late treaty, in ſending ſuch a fleet on that ſtation, it is ſaid a leſs tedious method than protracted expoſtulations, is finally reſolved on; which, perhaps, may be better attended to when enforced from the mouth of a Britiſh Admiral on the ſpot, than that of any Ambaſſador whatever.

A gentleman, a priſoner in the rules of the king's bench, a branch of the family of the Hydes, Earls of Clarendon, has got a moſt remarkable coffin by him againſt his interment; is made out of a fine ſolid oak which grew on his eſtate in Kent, and hallowed out with a chizzel; it is 8 feet in length, 4 feet in breadth, 4 inches thick on the ſides, and 7 inches and an half at the ends, the lid is 3 inches thick, made out of the ſame oak. When the corpſe comes to be put in after death, it is to be faſtened down with oaken pegs, the weight of it is 500 lb. and was not long ſince filled with punch, which held 41 gallons, 2 quarts and one pint and a half. The ſaid gentleman often lies down and ſleeps in his coffin with the greateſt compoſure and ſecurity.

A Nobleman of the firſt Diſtinction will be ſent to congratulate his Poliſh Majeſty on his Acceſſion to the Throne.

Yeſterday ſe'nnight died at the German Spa, aged 44, his Grace William Cavendiſh, Duke of Devonſhire, whoſe amiable Manners, Sweetneſs of Diſpoſition, and Benevolence of Heart, not only endeared him to his Friends, but rendered him the Delight of Mankind.

Thurſday Night the Duke of Devonſhire's Will was opened, when the following Codicil, which, 'til then, had been a profound Secret, appeared in his Grace's own Hand-Writing, dated, July 23. "I give to General Conway five thouſand Pounds, as a Teſtimony of my Friendſhip for him; and of my Senſe of his Honourable Conduct and Friendſhip for me."

The Parliament which ſtood prorogued to Tueſday the 30th Day of this Inſtant, October, is, by the King's Proclamation, further prorogued to Thurſday, the 10th Day of January next, when it will ſit, for the Diſpatch of divers weighty and important Affairs.

A correſpondent from Paris informs us, that there are now in that city, no leſs than four well frequented academies for teaching the rudiments of the Engliſh tongue, and that one Mr. Cartwright, formerly Uſher to a boarding ſchool in London, has no leſs than 300 French youths of diſtinction under his care.

In the late Diſpatches to the Court of Madrid, among other important Articles, are ſaid to be contained Expreſs Orders to the Earl of Rochefort, to demand Spain's final Determination, with regard to the ranſom of the Manillas; according to which our Miniſtry are to regulate certain Affairs of importance now on the Carpet.

By a Letter from Paris we are adviſed, that an additional impoſt is ſoon expected to be laid on the Exportation of Salt out of the Kingdom, except to their own Colonies in the W. Indies.—Our Correſpondent adds, that ſhould this Scheme actually take Place, as great Quantities of Salt are annually exported by the Engliſh from Rochelle, Oleron, St. Martin's, &c. to Newfoundland, there will be the more Reaſon to ſuſpect that M. de Eſtaing's Proceedings at Turk's Iſland was the Conſequence of a premeditated Plan, to co-operate with Meaſures at home, to ſtrike an effectual blow to the very Root of the Britiſh Fiſhery.

PHILADELPHIA, Novem. 22.

Since our laſt a Gentleman arrived here from Mobille, who favoured us with the Sight of a Letter, which he received after he left that Place, dated the 10th of laſt Month, in which was the following Paragraph.

"I have no news to offer you from this Place, only that it is now certain that the Spaniards are coming to New-Orleans, which is mentioned in a Letter from the King of France to the Governor of the above Place. It was ceded in the Year 1762, to take Poſſeſſion of it.

And this Gentlemen received another Letter from the ſame Place, in which it was ſaid, that ſome of the Spaniards were actually arrived; and that the French General had given Notice to the Inhabitants, that thoſe of them who were inclined to remain under a Spaniſh Government, were at Liberty to ſtay; and any who had a mind to remove, Veſſels ſhould be got ready to carry them off.

NEW-YORK, November 29.

It having been thought neceſſary by a Number of Gentlemen in this City, in the preſent deplorable State of our Trade, to form a Society for promoting the true Intereſt of this Colony, both publick and private, ſuch a Society has accordingly been formed, by the Name of 'The Society for the promoting of Arts, Agriculture and Oeconomy, in the Province of New-York, in North-America, &c.

Tueſday, the 20th inſtant, a half mile race was run on Staten Iſland, for £. 300 between Mr. Water's Horſe True Briton, and a Gelding belonging to Mr. Coreel, of New-Jerſey, which was won by three Lengths by the former.

Falmouth, Caſco-Bay, Nov. 14. 1764

This day at noon, the ſun bright, and no cloud viſible, an uncommon noiſe in the air was heard here, and for many miles round about, proceeding from Weſt to Eaſt, and continuing near two Minutes; ſome of thoſe without doors compared it to the ſound of thunder or the report of a cannon paſſing over their heads; others to a fall of water at ſome diſtance; thoſe within doors to the noiſe that attends the burning of a chimney, all being apprehenſive of an Earthquake, without being ſenſible of the quake.

HARTFORD, December 3.

The Troops that were raiſed in this Colony laſt Spring, and went out under the Command of Col. Putman, have lately been diſbanded, and are return'd to their reſpective Homes; they were remarkably healthy the whole of the Campaign.

Mr. GREEN,

THE laudable Reſolution, and noble example of the ſtudents of Yale College (which your Correſpondent gave us an account of in your laſt paper) does great honor to that ſchool, and muſt be particularly pleaſing to every well wiſher to the real intereſt of his country, at this critical conjuncture.

Frugality and œconomy on the one hand, and induſtry, and a cloſe attention to the improvement of our agriculture, manufactures & commodities, ſeem to be the natural methods of evading the fatal conſequences of our late inattention to our natural advantages, our luxury and remiſſneſs, which now too nearly menace many of us with want, and its baleful attendants.

It will ſurely be needleſs to hint to thoſe who ſeem already ſo ſenſible, how happy to themſelves and to the public, a ſteady perſeverance in the ſalutary plan they have adopted, will prove to the young gentlemen of that ſchool of learning, and how great ſatisfaction will thereby be diffuſed thro' the whole circle of their parents, relations, friends, governors and the friends to the civil and religious intereſts of their country.

Nor will I take up your time, and that of your readers, in recommending this generous ſacrifice of a ſuperfluous (though innocent) gratification, as a worthy pattern for imitation to every order of people in this colony; though the preſent ſituation and temper of our people might enſure a candid acceptance of any thing offered on a ſubject ſo agreeable and neceſſary to their intereſt and happineſs.

I wiſh the luſtre of this example, may not be a little tarniſhed, by ſome retroſpective reflections drop't by your Correſpondent in the courſe of his narration, upon the too great indulgence lately uſed by the ſtudents, in the articles now given up; which certainly could not be intended to repreſent the ſcholars in general, ſo deeply ſunk in debauchery, as to impair their morals, health, and learning thereby, altho' ſome expreſſions therein have given ill-natur'd and ſatirical people, too juſt an occaſion to give his ſtory that turn.—All Eucrates could mean, muſt be only this, that the ſtudents, by force of example, had too much given in to the faſhionable method of entertaining, and beſtowed a little too much of their time and money in that way.——This, I ſay, muſt be all be could mean, becauſe this only is the truth, and it would be acting the part of an enemy, to college, rather than a friend, to repreſent them in any worſe light.

If you think the foregoing will be any means of clearing up the truth, and giving weight to this inſtance of a generous and virtuous aſſociation of youths (the influence of which, at this time, it were great pity to weaken, or ſlide by malicious ridicule) and will inſert the ſame in your next, you will oblige, at leaſt,

Your Reader, and Humble Servant,

Hartford, CANDIDUS.
Nov. 30, 1764.

Ames's Almanack, for 1765.

To be ſold by the Printer hereof, by Wholeſale and Retail, on the moſt reaſonable Terms.

---

and to be ſold by

Andrew Thompſon, & Com.

At the ſign of the Wheat-Sheaf, Broad Street, Hartford, wholeſale and retail, for caſh or ſhort credit, the following articles,

BRoad cloths, ratteens, ſtrouds, duffels, ſhalloons, tammies, durants, and callimancoes, chintzes, callicoes, Scotch and Iriſh linens, checks, ſtrip'd holland, ſilk, cotton & worſted hoſe, check'd & ſilk handkerchiefs, ſewing ſilks, nuns thread, black taffaty, beſt barcelona handkerchiefs & cravats, ſilk and worſted, black, buff, and cloth coloured breeches patterns; Scotch plaids, blankets, green and ſpotted rugs, ſilk, cotton and worſted caps; ſilver and Pinchbeck watches, ſtone, ſtock, & knee buckles; open ſteel, braſs, and metal, ſhoe & knee ditto; with a fine aſſortment of London pewter, and a fine variety of other articles too tedious to mention.

N.B. They have likewiſe to ſell, indigo, pepper, window glaſs, loaf-ſugar, rappee in caniſters, and Scotch ſnuff in bottles; delph ware by the hogſhead, and the beſt Anguilla ſalt. Country produce, will be taken in pay for any of the above goods if agreed for at the time of ſale.

ALL Perſons indebted to JONATHAN SEYMOUR, on account of his late Vendues, are requeſted immediately to diſcharge the ſame, as they would avoid Coſt and Trouble.

FOUND, about three Weeks ſince, near Doct. Timothy Kimball's, in Coventry, a ſmall Bundle, containing two Notes of Hand, dated Woodbury, December 23d, 1762, both in Favour of Joſeph Lamb, and ſome other Papers of little or no Value. Enquire of the Printer hereof.

STRAY'D from the ſubſcriber in Suffield, in April laſt, a ſorrel mare colt, three years old laſt ſpring, without brand or mark, near 14 hands high, both paces and trots, has a blaze in her face, her hind feet both white, and am not certain but her fore feet are white too, was not dock't.

Whoever ſhall take up ſaid mare, and return her to the owner, or inform where ſhe is, ſo that he have her again, ſhall receive two dollars reward, and all neceſſary charges paid by me

ELIJAH KENT.

Suffield, November 27th, 1764.

STray'd from the ſubſcriber, on the 20th of Nov. laſt, four horſe kine, viz One black pied horſe colt, two years old paſt, a large blaze in his face, & white in the end of his tail: one black roan colt of the ſame age; one black horſe of the ſame age & has loſt one of his eyes; and one bay colt about the ſame age as the former; they have never been dock'd or rode, are partly halter-broke, and are each of them branded on the hoof of the near fore-foot with the letters I F which are perhaps hardly at firſt viſible.

Whoever will take up, and ſend the above, or either of them to Me at Weatherſfield, or take them up, and inform where I can have them, ſhall be handſomely rewarded, and all neceſſary charges paid by SILAS DEAN.

N. B. The horſes are probably gone to the north, or north-weſtward, being bought up that way. Weatherſfield, December 1ſt. 1764.

Abraham Beach,

NEAR the South Meeting-Houſe in Hartford, exchanges choice Saltertudas & Anguilla SALT for FLAX-SEED, on the beſt Terms.

[illegible] Nov. 7th

y have a better eff than twenty tedious expoſtulations with the petty governors of Campeachy, Honduras or Jucatan:—It was ſaid preſs war-

IN choice Saltertudas & Anguilla SALT for FLAX-SEED, on the beſt Terms.——

LIST of LETTERS remaining in the Poſt-Office in Hartford, Nov. 26, 1764.

A
Aſhbel Anderſon	6
Henry Arnold,	1
Benjamin Allyn, Windſor	4
John Allyn, ibid	1
Capt. Anthony, Aborn Weathersfield	1
Seth Auſtin, Suffield	1
Rev. Tim. Allen, Windham	1
B
Daniel Bull,	14
Samuel Bidwell,	1
Moſes Butler,	1
Manning Bull,	2
Daniel Bidwell, jun.	1
Samuel Butler, Windſor	1
Daniel Biſſel, ibid	1
Mrs. Belding, Weathersfield	1
Reuben Belding, ibid	3
Tho's Belding, ibid	5
William Biattle, ibid	1
John Bunch, ibid	1
John Buckley, ibid	1
John Burbank, Suffield	1
Iſaac Brunſon, North Bolton	1
Benjamin Baldwin, Hebron	1
Samuel Blodgitt, Stafford	1
Timothy Brunſon, Salisbury	1
C
Daniel Chandler,	2
Jona. Curtis, Weathersfield	1
Nath. Chapin, Enfield	1
Ann Cogſwell, Hebron	2
William Clark, Lebanon	1
D
Silas Dean, Eſq, Weathersfield	1
Edmond Dorr, ibid	1
Jonathan Drake, Windſor	2
Ezekiel Drake, ibid	1
Richard Devenport, Coventry	2
Nath. Davis, Harwington	2
Edmond Davis, Lebanon	1
E
Abner Elyer,	1
Reuben Elſworth & Abner Prior,	1
Rev. Mr. Elles Glaſſenbury	1
Job Elſworth, Windſor	1
F
Samuel Fowler,	2
Samuel Farnſworth,	2
Harding Farrell,	1
Martha French, Windſor	1
Sim. Freeman, Weathersfield	2
Amos Fellows, Tolland	3
Joſeph Fox, Glaſſenbury	1
James Flint, Windham	1
Benj. Frezell, Woodſtock	1
G
Simeon Grimes,	1
Aſa Gillit,	1
James Gardiner Weathersfield	1
Ebenezer Gilbert, ibid	1
Michael Griſwold, ibid	1
Samuel Goodrich, ibid	1
John Grimes, ibid	1
John Goodrich, ibid	2
Wait Goodrich, Glaſſenbury	1
Fiſher Gay, Farmington	1
Rev. John Graham, Suffield,	1
Gideon Granger, ibid	1
H
Doct. Daniel Hooker,	1
Sarah How,	1
John Hurlbutt,	1
John Hills, Windſor	10
Joſeph Harper, jun. ibid	1
John Hall, ibid	1
Hannah Hibbard, Bolton,	1
Timothy Hawley, Simsbury	1
Noah Humphry, ibid	1
Joel Harmon, Suffield	1
Ambroſe Hart, Farmington	1
Robert Hafott, Panthorn	1
Patrick Horton, Summers	1
Peleg Heath, Willington	1
Charles Hinkley, Lebanon	4

I
Aſael Jillet,	1
Amaſſa Jones,	1
Mich. Judah, Weathersfield	1
K
George Kilburn, ibid	1
Zerah Kibby, Summers	1
John Kinkard, Windham	1
L
John Hains Lord,	1
Daniel Lyman,	1
Nath. Loomis, Windſor	2
Eliſha Lewis, Farmington	1
John Leavitt, Suffield	1
Abiel Leonard, Woodſtock	1
M
Mary Ann M'Arms	1
Edward Mercy	1
Stephen Mears, Windſor	2
Ebenezer Mills, Simsbury	1
James M'Cliſter, Enfield	1
Jacob Morrill, Rocky-Hill	1
Daniel Moulton, Mansfield	1
Arch. M'Neal, Litchfield	1
Henry Morriſs, Woodſtock	1
N
Gerſhom Nott Weathersfield	1
Stephen Noble, Kent	1
O
Peter Olcott, Bolton	1
P
Iſaac Pitkin,	8
Eliab Pratt	1
Moſes & Aaron Pratt	1
Timothy Phelps	1
Nathaniel Porter,	1
David Parſons & Comp.	1
Pelatiah Pierce,	1
Gideon Prior,	1
Tho's Phelps, Simsbury	1
Samuel Pierce, Wintonbury	1
John Porwine, Coventry	1
Tho's Pitkin, Bolton	1
William or Edward Patterſon Great Swamp	1
Moſes Pierce, Glaſſenbury	1
R
David Rumſey,	1
John Roberts, Windſor,	1
Rev. Wm Ruſſel ibid	1
Sarah Roſe, ibid	2
Aaron Riſing, Suffield	1
Wm Rowlſon, Weathersfield	1
Rev. Daniel Ruſſel, ibid	1
Jeſſe Root, Coventry,	2
Daniel Richardſon ibid	1
S
Mr. —— Samtolſad,	1
Ezekiel Scutt, Farmington	2
Zephaniah Snow Windſor	1
Shubael Strong, Simsbury	1
John Slaughter, Ibid	1
Nat. Stilman, Weathersfield	1
Lydia Shipman, Hebron	1
Rev. Rich. Salter, Mansfield	1
Seth Smith, New-Hartford,	1
Jonathan Sprague, Stafford	1
T
John Tryon,	1
Samuel Tudor, Windſor	2
Hugh Thomſon, ibid	1
Tim. Taylor, Weathersfield	1
John Taylor, ibid	1
Eph. Treadwell, Farmingt.	2
Maj. Elizur Talcot, Glaſſenbury	3
Nathaniel Terry, Enfield	1
U
William Utley, Suffield	2
W
Samuel Welles	1
Crafts Wright Weathersfield	3
John Warner, ibid	1
Gideon Wells, ibid	1
John Wilkinſon, ibid	1
Rev J. Willard, Stafford	1
Seth Waſhburn, ibid	2
Nath. Wales Eſq; Windham	1

N. B. Where the Town is not mentioned, the Direction is Hartford.

We hear from Dorcheſter, That at ſeveral Funerals lately in that Town, the Relations of the Deceaſed, and others, have followed the new Method now eſtabliſhed in Boſton; and thoſe who have been choſen Bearers to the Remains of the Deceaſed to the Grave, have refuſed the uſual Preſents of Gloves, to prevent a needleſs Expence to the ſurviving Relatives.

County Hampſhire, November 14. 1764.

The people in the country are charmed at the frugal projections and practices in Boſton: and they who heretofore have induſtriouſly imitated them in Cuſtoms to their prejudice, will not fail to follow their laudable example in new-faſhions ſo ſeaſonable, ſaving & publicly emolumentive. Great thanks are due to the leaders and patrons of this reformed œconomy, eſpecially conſidering their character, condition and influence— Perſons of power and diſtinction, we are ſenſible, always go foremoſt in the important article of manners, and ſtamp a ſuppoſed value upon every cuſtom and mode of living. Happy therefore for that people who have ſuch perſonages to conduct them in the paths of prudence and public virtue!

RUSTICOAT.

Meſſieurs Edes & Gill,

If you will publiſh the following queſtions in your next paper, you will oblige many of your readers, as well as your humble ſervant,

The QUERIST.

Qu. 1. WHether the conduct of Mr. S——n ever ſince his Appearance among us, his iſſuing forth from the Green-Dragon, his decrying the miniſterial Office, the Worſhip and Ordinances of theſe N. E. Churches, &c. hath not afforded Matter of Suſpicion, that he may be an Emiſſary of the Church of Rome, and of that particular Order,

" Whoſe Name's from Jeſus and whoſe Arts from Hell? "

Qu. 2. Whether the importing of foreign ſtrange Preachers among us, of whatever Denomination, and encouraging them by crouding to hear their Preachments, if it be only to gratify Itching Ears; will not ſoon open a Door wide enough for the Admiſſion, of ſome of thoſe Holy Fathers of the Romiſh Church, who compaſs Sea and Land to make Proſelytes, and to ſerve their Purpoſe will transform themſelves into ſo many different ſhapes, as all the Metamorphoſes of Ovid; "always going about ſeeking whom they may devour?

Qu. 3. Whether, as theſe Locuſt who have gone over the Face of the Earth, have been moleſted in divers Parts of the World, it is not reaſonable to ſuppoſe they will take their Flight to other Parts, where they have not yet been diſcovered, and that we in our Turn may be favour'd with ſome of their Friendly Viſits?

" ☞ A Word to the Wiſe is ſufficient."

TO BE SOLD, at a public VENDUE, on Thurſday, the 24th of January next, at One o'Clock in the Afternoon, at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. David Bull, in HARTFORD;

A Dwelling-Houſe, Barn and Blackſmith's Shop, with about one Quarter of an Acre of Land; ſituated about 30 Rods Weſt of the Court-Houſe.

Any Perſon inclining to purchaſe at private Sale, may know the Terms, by enquiring of the Subſcribers,

Robert Sloan,
Thomas Sloan.

Farmington, November 19, 1764.

STRAYD or STOLEN,
Out of the Commons, near the North-Meadow-Gate, in FARMINGTON.

A Roan Horſe, with a ſtrake down his Face, both hind, and one fore foot white; the fore white Hough ſplit up to the Hair, a Piece cut off the End of his Ears, about ſeven Years old. Whoever takes up ſaid Horſe, and returns him to the Owner in Farmington, ſhall have Ten Shillings Reward, and all neceſſary Charges paid by

SAMUEL BIRD.

BENJAMIN WILLIARD,
Laſt-Maker, from Boſton;

HAS lately ſet up his Buſineſs at Eaſt-Hartford at the Houſe of Benjamin Cheny, where Shoe Makers and others, who want Laſts, may be ſupplied on the moſt reaſonable Terms, either by the Set or ſingle One.

N. B. Said Laſts may alſo be had at Caleb Bull's, in Hartford, at the Sign of the Boot and Shoe, in King-Street

---

Juſt Publiſhed, and to be ſold by the Printer hereof.
ELLWORTH's ALMANACK for the Year 1765. Calculated for the Meridian of Hartford.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown near the North-Meeting Houſe.

ay have than twenty tedio of Campeachy, Honduras on the beſt Terms.——
FLAX-SEED,

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.
Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick. N^o 3

LEGHORN, September 3.

COM. Hariſon is at Port-mahon, from whence he had orders to go over to Algiers with four men of war, and demand ſatisfaction of the Dey for the inſult committed againſt the Britiſh Conſul.

Liſbon, Aug. 7. Don Juan de Braganza, who is appointed by the king, general of the ſea, will ſail to morrow with four men of war, but with what view is not known. It is ſaid that he is going on a cruiſe, but as he has embarked his equipages, and has taken upon him the title of Count d'Eſtremos, that report ſeems to be without foundation.

Amſterdam September 4. The Dutch merchants here are not a little uneaſy at ſome late taxes impoſed on the ſhipping of the republic trading to the French ſettlements in the Weſt Indies; which is but a proper recompence for the ſervices rendered to France laſt war, in certain myſterious branches of traffic, which could not be carried on ſafely in any other than neutral bottoms.

LONDON, September 19.

We can aſſure the public, that there is not the leaſt foundation for the report that new inſtructions are to be ſent to the governors of Gibralter and Minorca, in conſequence of advices received from France and Spain.

By letters from Aix la Chappelle, of the 4th inſtant, we are informed, that an officer, who was in the laſt war a captain in the Partizan Fiſcher's corps, had ſupported himſelf there ſome time by gaming, but was reduced ſo low, that he had nothing remaining but his clothes. In order therefore to make a better figure, he had recourſe to forging bills of exchange, which were ſoon diſcovered, and two grenadiers were ſent to take him under an arreſt, from whom he diſengaged himſelf, on which they went to the main-guard, and fetched ten more ſoldiers; by that time the captain had barricadoed his appartment with his bed, bedſtead, tables, chairs, &c. and ſtood upon his defence with fire-arms; ſoon after he was attacked, in which he made a brave defence, and wounded two men; but being apprehenſive that they would make a ſecond attack, he charged his arms afreſh to receive them. The aſſailants having been reinforc'd, made a general aſſault on the door of his room, and the captain firing a carbine, ſhot the ſubaltern officer who commanded the detachment, through his mouth into his ſhoulder, of which he ſoon after died. Our hero being almoſt overpowered, attempted to ſhoot himſelf, but the piſtol miſſed fire, on which the ſoldiers ruſhing in upon him, he received a ſhot and four ſtabs from their bayonets, when they took him, being much wounded, and laid him acroſs ſix muskets, and thus carried him to priſon where he died the next day.

The merchants are extremely uneaſy that the ſettlement of the damages ſuſtained by the infraction of the late peace at Turks Iſland is left to a man of ſo bad a character as the Count d'Eſtaign, and a gentleman of ſo eaſy a temper as the Governor of Jamaica. It is certain the fiſheries of the New-Englanders will fall greatly ſhort this year, through this affair, for want of ſalt.

It was this morning currently reported, that our ambaſſador at Paris, by laſt Wedneſday night's diſpatches, actually received orders to inſiſt on more ſubſtantial ſecurity from France than the parole royal. But whether this was to conſiſt in the delivery of any place of ſtrength, or ſending over hoſtages, is not aſcertained.

It is now ſaid, our court will oppoſe any deſign the Spaniards may have formed, to effect a ſettlement on the coaſt of Guinea; which is contrary to ſeveral antient treaties now ſubſiſting between the two crowns.

We hear that a certain g—l o—r was very lately offered the command of a r——t, which he refuſed, till it ſhould be pointed out for what reaſons he loſt his laſt.

The very unequal diſtribution of prize money in the royal navy, we are informed, has for ſome time paſt been under the conſideration of an honourable board; and it is now ſaid, that, excluſive of a moderate monthly augmentation of ſeamen's wages, it has alſo been propoſed, for the greater encouragement of that uſeful body of men the common ſailors, that full one fourth of the prize money may be ſet apart for the foremaſt-men in future captures.

Sept. 18. They write from Dublin, that orders have been very lately tranſmitted to his Majeſty's commanders in the W. Indies, to ſtop all victualling ſhips from that kingdom to the French and Spaniſh iſlands. Their cargoes are to be paid for and appropriated to the uſe of the Britiſh garriſons in that part of the world.

Sept. 21. By very recent advices from America, it now appears that the garriſoning of forts on the frontiers has been found expenſive, but of very little advantage for the protection of the back ſettlements; and that the raiſing a ſufficient number of light horſe or rangers are vaſtly preferable for the ſecurity of the colonies. In Georgia, Capt. M'Gillivray's troops of horſe has been conſiderably augmented, and they are doing the ſame in all the northern provinces.

Sept. 25. A perſon of a ſcheming turn has a plan to lay before the government, whereby he propoſes a ſaving of 50,000l ſterling annually, without any new taxes.

His Majeſty has been pleaſed to appoint Major William Forbes, to be lieutenant colonel to the 55th regiment of foot, in the room of col. John Fletcher, preferred to the command of the ſaid regiment.

Oct. 2. Letters from Peterſbourg of the 4th ult. mention, that the empreſs's maniſeſto lately publiſhed, relative to the late unfortunate prince John, engroſſed all the converſation of the publick, and occaſioned various ſpeculations among the better ſort of people.

The moſt ſanguine ſticklers for the peace are at preſent diſpoſed to doubt whether even the very ſhadow of it can poſſibly exiſt beyond the expiration of the preſent year.

113

There is a ſtrong report, that his excellency the Earl of Northumberland, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, will ſet out for Dublin the latter end of this month, on account of ſome very intereſting affairs relative to the welfare of that kingdom.

Briſtol, Sept. 29. On Thurſday noon a relation of Mrs. Frances Ruſcombe, in College Green, went in order to dine with her; when on opening the door, ſhe immediately ſaw Mrs. Ruſcombe dead on the ſtairs, with her throat cut, a wound in her mouth, one of her eyes beat out, and a wound in her head ſo violent, that the ſkull was beat into the brain. Mary Sweet, her maid, was found in the back parlour, with her head almoſt ſevered from her body, her jaw broke, a violent blow on her forehead, and her ſkull cleaved as with a wedge. It is generally ſuppoſed that the horrid deed was committed between ten and eleven o'clock; but there has not any circumſtances yet appeared that can fix the ſuſpicion on any perſon. The houſe, it is ſaid, is not robbed, only ſome of the things in the rooms thrown into confuſion. The mayor and aldermen of this city have offered 100l. reward for the diſcovery of the offenders.

It is reported that a large quantity of naval ſtores will be ſpeedily ſent to Gibralter, for conveniency of refitting any of our ſhips that may have occaſion to put in there.

We hear that ſome additional troops will ſoon be added to the garriſon of Minorca, and ſome new fortifications made there to ſtrengthen that important place.

NEW-PORT, November 10.

John Shearman was executed here laſt Friday. He was convicted of burglary in March, 1762, and then received ſentence of death; but on petitioning to the hon. general aſſembly, obtained a reſpite for 14 months, in order to apply for his Majeſty's pardon: But no application being made, and he breaking goal during the time of his reſpite, was ordered by the aſſembly to be executed as above. He behaved with much decency and ſubmiſſion before and at the time of his execution.—It is remarkable that the perſon he refers to in his ſpeech, who was the means of his being apprehended in Boſton, and whom he hints was concerted with him, was buried the ſame day he was executed.

LONDON, October 11.

The report of the death of his royal highneſs the Duke of Cumberland, at Newmarket, which univerſally prevailed on Thurſday evening, is happily without foundation.

The above rumor occaſioned a greater demand for black and grey cloth than the ſhops could well furniſh.

Letters from Warſaw of the 1[illegible]th of September ſay, that their new King on receiving the Diploma of his Election, addreſſed himſelf ſo movingly to the Primate, that he drew Tears from the Eyes of every one preſent, in which they were plentifully joined by his Majeſty. The ſame Letters take Notice, that the Pruſſian Ambaſſador has already had a private Audience of his Majeſty, but that they knew not what may be the Object of it.

We hear it has been reſolved, in conſequence of a late Board held on the exorbitant demands of foreign Commiſſaries, employed in the late German War, to trace the ſaid Bills to the Fountain Head, which, though a Work of Time, it is thought will be a National ſaving of many Thouſand Pounds.

A Correſpondent at Paris writes, that the Jeſuits are moving Heaven and Earth to re-eſtabliſh themſelves in France. In the Parliament of Provence, they have obtained a Majority in their favour; in thoſe of Grenoble, Beſaucon, Dijon and Metz, they have gained many Votes; that of Douai is unanimous for them; and even in the Parliaments of Paris, Rouen, Rennes, Toulouſe, Bourdeaux, and Pau, which have been ſo ſtrenuous againſt them, they are now ſaid to have ſeveral powerful Friends.

A Report prevailed at Vienna, on the 29th paſt, that their Truce with the Ottoman Court was renewed for 25 Years, but as no public Declaration had then been made of it, the Matter was much doubted.

In the late Diſpatches to the Court of Madrid, among other important Articles, are ſaid to be contained expreſs Orders to the Earl of Rochefort, to demand Spain's final Determination, with regard to the Ranſom of the Manillas; according to which our Miniſtry are to regulate certain Affairs of importance now upon the Carpet.

By a Gentleman lately arrived from the Havana, we are informed, that the climate of that place is much mended ſince the cutting down the ſeveral large foreſts which ſurrounded that city on the land ſide; 30,000 of which trees have been appropriated for the purpoſes of ſhip building.

We hear that a Memorial is preparing to be laid before a certain great Board, on the Subject of our Newfoundland fiſhery, and the cutting of Logwood.

Extract of a letter from Scarborough, September 11.

"On the 6th inſt. the freedom of the ancient corporation of Scarborough was preſented to the Right Hon. the Marquis of Granby in a gold box, as a proof of their ſenſe of his glorious exploits in Germany during the laſt war, and of their unmerited obligations to his Lordſhip for his particular attachment to that place. His Lordſhip, with his accuſtomed generoſity, gave a grand and ſplendid entertainment at Browne's Room, to the Bailiffs and the reſt of the corporation, this day, at which likewiſe were preſent ſeveral of the nobility and gentry that were at the Spa, to the number, in all, of about ſeventy.

A few days ago a dead body was landed at Cadiz, incloſed in a large ſkin, nearly reſembling that of a bear. It was found with ſeveral others of the ſame kind, in ſome caverns in the Canary iſlands, where they are ſuppoſed to have been buried before the conqueſt of thoſe iſlands by John Betancourt, a Norman, in 1417, and by Peter de Vera, a Spaniard, in 1483. The fleſh of this body, though dried, is nevertheleſs preſerved, and is not flexible, but hard as wood, ſo that, upon touching the body, it ſeems petrified, though it is not. The features of the face are very perfect, and appear to be thoſe of a young man; nor is that, or any other part of the body decayed; the body is no more ſhrunk than if it had not been dead above two or three days, only the ſkin appears a little ſhrivelled. This body is ſent to Madrid to be depoſited in the royal ſurgery. The caſe in which this body was placed, had another ſmall caſe within it, containing two or three vaſes, and a hand mill which were found in the ſame cavern; from which it is ſuppoſed that it was cuſtomary with the old inhabitants of the Canary Iſlands to place the vaſes in their burial places.

NEW-YORK, November 29.

[The following letter was wrote from the commander of the Viper ſloop of war, to Archibald Kennedy, Eſq; Commander of the Coventry, in this Port, dated, Viper Sloop, Cape Fear, Oct. 24.

"As I have this Opportunity to write to my Lord Colvill, by meeting Mr. Tongue, who will take it to New-York, ſhall beg the favour of you to forward it, as it contains a Miſfortune I lately met with, which I ſhall give you a ſhort Account of. The 5th Inſtant, at Noon, had a hard Guſt of Wind, with ſmart Rain; clewed up all the Sails, and handed all but the Mizen ſail, which blew to Pieces; the Wind ſhifted from the S. E. to N. E. and N. W. and laid her Hatches in the Water, which made me heave over 4 of the Lee Guns, and was cutting away the Mizen-Maſt, but the Wind blew it away 14 Feet above the Deck, tho' the Mizen-topſail Yard was on Deck, and the Topmaſt ſtruck. The Main Maſt, was ſprung in two Places; the Sloop not righting, nor veering, obliged us to cut away the Main Maſt; ſhe then wore, and made good Weather.——I am ſorry to acquaint you the Uprive, Captain Blake, is loſt, and all periſhed. Governor Wright's Lady and Daughter were on board. I am, Sir, Yours

JACOB LOBB.

A charity Sermon is to be preached on Sunday next, in the Forenoon, at Trinity Church, by the Rev. Mr. Auchmuty. And on the Sunday following, another will be preached by the Rev. Mr. Ogilvie, at St. George's Chapel; at each of which a Collection will be made for the Benefit of the Charity School in this City. A proper Hymn to be ſung at Trinity Church, and an Anthem at the Chapel; to be join'd in the Chorus by the Charity Scholars.

A DIALOGUE.

CUT Logwood! cries the Lord of Spain;
Not while I rule the Weſtern main,
Shall Engliſh Heretics, ſo late
The foes of me and my eſtate,
From any nook of my domain,
A ſingle benefit obtain!
Great Prince, reply'd a ſage Grandee,
(Cover'd his head, but bent his knee)
The privilege, by Britons wanted,
Your Majeſty by Treaty granted.
K. I care for Treaties not a fig;
By G—d they ſhall not cut a twig.
Gra. They on your royal Word rely'd,
Great Sir, and have their Forts deſtroy'd.
K. Oh! have they ſo! the more fools they!
They'll wiſer be another day.
But I, like them, all ſenſe ſhould want,
What now they cannot take, to grant.
And here, Don Counſellor, I know
A ſtory very appropos,
It is in Æſop's fables told,
A book in much eſteem I hold.
The ſavage monarch of the wood,
Ador'd a nymph of fleſh and blood.
Subdu'd by love to Hymen's law,
He offer'd her his crown and paw.
Her ſire, a ſubtle wight, comply'd
On articles to grant the bride,
Name your conditions, ſaid the beaſt;
Send for the Lawyer and the Prieſt.
My paſſion any terms will ſign,
Make but your lovely daughter mine.
'Thus then your highneſs' ſuit prevails;
'Pluck out your teeth, and pare your nails.
'That ſacrifice our terror cures;
'Then on a chriſtian's word ſhe's yours.'
The blinded lion yields: his jaws
Are ſoon diſarm'd, diſarm'd his paws:
But helpleſs, forceleſs, now he finds
How ill an empty promiſe binds:
His fooliſh ſkull the father ſplits,
Now tell me if the fable hits:
Nor wonder if my promiſe fails,
When Engliſh fools have par'd their nails.

Whereas we the Subſcribers, were ſome time ſince, agreeable to the act made for relief of inſolvent debtors, appointed aſſignees of all the eſtate of Daniel Newcomb, of Hebron, in the county of Hartford, an inſolvent debtor, and to make a dividend of the ſame, to and among his ſeveral creditors, as in, and by ſaid act is eſpecially provided. And whereas we have carefully examined, and ſought after the eſtate of him the ſaid Daniel, can as yet find nothing whereof to make diſtribution or diviſion, to and among his Creditors, as aforeſaid. Hebron, December 8, 1764.

OBADIAH HORSFORD } Aſſignees.
JOHN PHELPS, Jun. }

All Perſons indebted to the Subſcriber, either by Note or Book, are deſir'd to ſettle the ſame by the laſt of this Month, or they may depend on a very diſagreeable Compliment.

JOHN COLEMAN.

[illegible] on the beſt Terms.

QUEBEC, [illegible]

On Saturday Evening laſt, Three Perſons were detected at the Houſe of Mr. Leamy, Tavernkeeper, in paſſing counterfeit Money; and Information having been made thereof, before His Majeſty's Juſtices of the Peace, then ſitting at the Seſſions-Houſe, a Warrant was granted againſt them, whereupon they were apprehended and brought before Meſſrs. Gridley, Walker and Finley, about 11 o'clock at Night. One of them, upon Examination, confeſs'd they had coined ſeveral Pieces of Coin; and a Search-Warrant being immediately granted, ſeveral Pieces of counterfeit Dollars, and half Dollars, together with the two Crucibles were found in his Apartments.

N. B. Several Pieces of ſaid counterfeit half Dollars were found upon them.

NEW-PORT, November 26.

By late accounts from the Weſt-Indies we learn, that the French at their iſlands are entering largely into the manufactory of diſtilling Molaſſes, the better to enable them to carry on the African trade; by which means they can be ſupplied with their ſlaves at a much cheaper rate than they can be imported into any of the Engliſh iſlands—This undertaking carried into execution, muſt ſoon open the eyes of the Engliſh planters in the Weſt Indies, and will very ſenſibly injure the trade of Liverpool.—Query, Whether the French would have purſued ſuch meaſures, had not the duties on foreign Molaſſes, with the prohibition of Rum, really compelled them?—Would they not have been contented with being ſupplied from the Engliſh as uſual, while they could vend their Molaſſes to the colonies?—And which will be moſt for the intereſt of the nation, the colonies and the plantations enjoying the profits ariſing from the Molaſſes trade of the French and other foreign ports, which naturally furniſhes their ſupply of ſlaves; or the French, &c. procuring them by means of this manufactory, eſtabliſhed in conſequence of the duty and prohibition aforeſaid.

NEW-YORK, Supreme-Court, Oct. 25. 1764.

This day the cauſe between Thomas Forſey, Plaintiff, and Waddel Cunningham, defendant, for a violent aſſault, battery and wounding, came on to be tryed by a ſtruck jury of the city and county of New-York: The trial laſted ten hours, and being a cauſe of much expectation was attended by a crouded audience. The next morning the jury brought in a verdict for the plaintiff, for one thouſand five hundred pounds, damages, beſides coſts of ſuit.

Council for the plaintiff were, John T. Kempe, Eſq; attorney-general. John Morrin, Eſq; and Thomas Smith, Eſq; Council for the defendant were, William Livingſton, William Smith, junr. Whitehead Hicks, and James Duane, Eſquires.

We hear that on the Saturday following a motion was made by the defendant's council for a new trial, on account of the largeneſs of the damages: But the court being of opinion that the damages were not exceſſive, the motion was immediately rejected, and the judgment given for the plaintiff.

PHILADELPHIA, November 29.

Tueſday arrived an expreſs from Fort Louden, by whom we learn, that all was quiet there, and that they ſoon expected the return of the troops under Col. Bouquet, as they was expected to arrive at Fort Pitt, about the 22d of November.

Yeſterday arrived the Brig Succeſs, Capt. Marſhall, from the Havana, by whom we learn, that the Spaniards are ſecuring every place, by ſtrong works, that was any way liable to danger, in caſe of an attack: and that about a week before he failed, 4 Spaniſh men of war ſailed for Old Spain, with about 15,000,000 of dollars.

NEW-YORK, December 6.

Laſt Night arrived the Brig Bumper, Capt. Duncan Brown, from Ivica in the Mediterranean, laſt from Newfoundland. We have Advice that the Algerines have taken many Veſſels under Engliſh Colours, and with Engliſh Paſſes, belonging to other nations; and that the Perſons who granted thoſe Paſſes, will be called to Account for it in England. At Naples, the Plague ſucceeded the Famine, and carried off great Numbers. A large Ship that went from Virginia loaded with Wheat was arrived there from Dublin, her Cargo much damaged.

We are credibly aſſured, That Sir William Johnſon propoſes calling down the Chiefs of every nation this Winter, to his Hall on Buſineſs of great Importance to England, and the People in America. A great Number of Indians came to Sir William's the 6th of laſt Month.

BOSTON, December 6.

The ſurveyor General has appointed Henry Harvey, Eſq; (commander of the Magdalene Cutter) to be an officer of his majeſty's cuſtoms in the plaintations.

And we hear that he has been pleaſed to appoint Capt. John Phillips (formerly of this town) to be ſurveyor and [illegible] Montreal in the room of officers deceaſed.

The Eſſex maſt ſhip, Capt. Mallard, ſailed from hence the 22d ult. for Piſcataqua, but meeting with contrary winds put back into Nantasket the 25th, and on the 29th ſailed again for that port: But the 30th, in a ſnow ſtorm, ſhe ran aſhore near Hampton, and ſtriking on a rock, the ſhip fill'd with water, and it is ſaid will be loſt; the men ſaved their lives. The goods on board are doubtleſs much damaged, the ſea running high ever ſince prevented their taking any out of her: The moſt of theſe goods were ſhipp'd laſt winter in London on board the St. George maſt-ſhip, who ſailed in April, ſoon after ſhe got to ſea, ſhe ſprung a-leak, and put back into Portſmouth. The goods were taken out, and put on board the Eſſex, and Capt. Mallard took the command; after the Eſſex had been out ſome time ſhe alſo ſprung a leak, and put into Liſbon, where ſhe unloaded, and was repaired: The Eſſex arrived here in October, and having taken out what freight belong'd to this place, ſhe proceeded with the remainder for Piſcataqua, and met with the diſaſter abovementioned.

We hear that Capt. Welſhman, who lately ſailed in a ſchooner from this place, bound to the Weſt-Indies, meeting with contrary winds put back, and in returning in a very dark night ran upon the rocks, called the Miſeries, off Mancheſter and filled; the people were ſaved.

Laſt week arrived here the ſnow ——, Capt. Dunn, from Newfoundland, in whom came ſeveral gentlemen paſſengers, as alſo about one hundred perſons who had been employed there in the fiſhery laſt ſeaſon; upon the ſnow's entering the harbour, boats from his Majeſty's ſloop Cygnet and Jamaica were mann'd and arm'd, and boarded her; the men imagining they were in danger of being impreſs'd ſtood on their defence: an Affray immediately enſued, and one of the paſſengers, named Edward Rammich, received a thruſt from the ſword of the Lieutenant of the Cygnet, which entered deep into his body, and whereby his life is greatly in danger: Soon after the ſnow got up to town, application was made to a Magiſtrate and a warrant iſſued for the perſon who gave the ſuppos'd mortal wound; but being ſtormy, no opportunity was had for the bailiff to go on board till Monday, at which time he went with ſeveral attendants to Nantasket harbour, where the Cygnet then lay, as ſoon as the boat came within call of the ſhip, he was ordered to ſtand off; and immediately all on board the Cygnet were arm'd, as the bailiff imagin'd to oppoſe his coming on board; whereupon he returned to town without executing the warrant.

Monday arrived here the ſchooner Magdalene, in his Majeſty's ſervice, from Halifax, commanded by Lieut Henry Harvey, of his Majeſty's ſhip Marmaid, Capt. Dougdale, late commander was ſuſpended at Halifax. The ſchooner ſails from hence this day.

The Fortune ſloop of war, Capt. Biſhop, and the Diligence were under ſailing orders laſt week at Halifax: one deſigned for this place, the other for Virginia.

The Cygnet is ſailed for her ſtation at New-London.

Alſo, the Jamaica for her's at Salem.

The Maidſtone ſailed ſome time ago for Rhode-Iſland.

Saturday laſt put into Cape-Ann the Brig. Abigal, Capt. Degget, from Briſtol, in ſix weeks paſſage: ſhe is not yet arrived here, nor have we received any prints or letters. The occaſion of her being there is, that ſome of the hands, who have families in town, were in great fear on account of the late conduct of ſome of the officers of the veſſels that have been here for the protection of his majeſty's ſubjects and their trade.

HARTFORD, December 10.

A few Days ago, a ſmall Veſſel, belonging to Rocky-Hill, bound to Boſton, deep loaded with Grain, Cheeſe, &c. ſunk ſo ſuddenly, as ſhe was going through Fiſher's-Iſland Sound, that the People on board had ſcarce Time to ſave themſelves, in their Boat. The Veſſel and Cargo are intirely loſt.

The Perſon mentioned (under the Boſton Head) to have been wounded by the Lieutenant of the Cygnet is, we hear, ſince dead of his Wounds.

William Ellery,

ONCE more requeſts all thoſe who are ſtill indebted to the Eſtate of Mr. John Ellery, deceas'd, immediately to pay their reſpective Ballances, or they will be ſued to January Court, without Diſtinction. 3

Ames's Almanack, for 1765.

To be ſold by the Printer hereof, by Wholeſale and Retail, on the moſt reaſonable Terms.

[illegible]

WILLIAMSBURG, (in Virginia) Nov. 2.

About 8 days ago, a topſail veſſel was ſeen in the Bay, by ſome gentlemen on the eaſtern ſhore, on fire, the wind blowing very hard at N. W. As no perſon from on board the veſſel has been heard of, it is thought the crew muſt have periſhed. A good many hogſheads of tobacco, ſuppoſed to belong to this veſſel, have ſince drove aſhore.

NEW-YORK, November 29.

On Tueſday arrived the ſloop Friend, Capt. John Malcom, in 16 days from Quebec.——By whom we hear that a conſiderable quantity of ſnow had already fallen there, and the winter ſeem'd to be ſet in earlier than uſual; but the people were generally healthy, and extremely happy under the civil government lately eſtabliſhed there, which was ſo judiciouſly regulated as to give general ſatisfaction and advantage, both to the Engliſh and French; and the appointment and conduct of all the officers in the adminiſtration, eſpecially of his Excellency the governor, met with the higheſt approbation from all ranks of people.

Whereas the eſtate of Thomas Dibble, late of Torrington, in Litchfield diſtrict, deceas'd, has been repreſented to the honorable court of probate for ſaid diſtrict, to be inſolvent: Whereupon ſaid court did appoint us the ſubſcribers, commiſſioners, to receive and examine the claims of the ſeveral creditors to the ſaid eſtate, and make our report thereon, to ſaid court, within ſix months. We do therefore, hereby notify all the ſeveral creditors to the ſaid eſtate, to bring in their claims and demands on the laſt Tueſday of January next, at ten of the clock in the morning, at the dwelling houſe of Epaphras Shelden in ſaid Torrington, in the county aforeſaid, where we ſhall attend ſaid buſineſs. Dated at Torrington, November the 14th, 1764.

JOHN COOK,
EBENEZER HILL,
EPAPHRAS SHELDON. } Commiſſioners.

TO BE SOLD, BY
JOSEPH BARRIT,

CHOICE OIL and BLUBBER, for Tanners Uſe. Alſo, a Quantity of Salt MACKAREL, by the Barrel.

N. B. The ſaid Barrit, takes any Sort of Grain, at the caſh Price, for the above Articles, or pays the Caſh for Rye, at 2/6. per Buſhel. np 3

Juſt imported in the York, Capt. Berton from London, and to be ſold by

Andrew Thompſon, & Com.

At the ſign of the Wheat-Sheaf, Broad Street, Hartford, wholeſale and retail, for caſh or ſhort credit, the following articles,

BRoad cloths, ratteens, ſtrouds, duffles, ſhalloons, tammies, durants, and callimancoes, chintzes, callicoes, Scotch and Iriſh linens, checks, strip'd holland, ſilk, cotton & worſted hoſe, check'd & ſilk handkerchiefs, ſewing ſilks, nuns thread, black taffaty, beſt barcelona handkerchiefs & cravats, ſilk and worſted, black, buff, and cloth coloured breeches patterns; Scotch plaids, blankets, green and ſpotted rugs, ſilk, cotton and worſted caps; ſilver and Pinchbeck watches, ſtone, ſtock, & knee buckles; open ſteel, braſs, and metal, ſhoe & knee ditto; with a fine aſſortment of London pewter, and a fine variety of other articles too tedious to mention.

N. B. They have likewiſe to ſell, indigo, pepper, window glaſs, loaf-ſugar, rappee in caniſters, and Scotch ſnuff in bottles; delph ware by the hogſhead, and the beſt Anguilla ſalt. Country produce, will be taken in pay for any of the above goods if agreed for at the time of ſale.

FOUND, about three Weeks ſince, near Doct. Timothy Kimball's, in Coventry, a ſmall Bundle, containing two Notes of Hand, dated Woodbury, December 23d, 1763, both in Favour of Joſeph Lamb, and ſome other Papers of little or no Value. Enquire of the Printer hereof.

STRAY'D from the ſubſcriber in Suffield, in April laſt, a ſorrel mare colt, three years old laſt ſpring, without brand or mark, near 14 hands high, both paces and trots, has a blaze in her face, her hind feet both white, and am not certain but her fore feet are white too, was not dock't.

Whoever ſhall take up ſaid mare, and return her to the owner, or inform where ſhe is, ſo that he have her again, ſhall receive two dollars reward, and all neceſſary charges paid by me

ELIJAH KENT.

Suffield, November 27th, 1764.

STray'd from the ſubſcriber, on the 20th of Nov. laſt, four horſe kine, viz One black pied horſe colt, two years old paſt, a large blaze in his face, & white in the end of his tail: one black roan colt of the ſame age; one black horſe of the ſame age & has loſt one of his eyes; and one bay colt about the ſame age as the former; they have never been dock'd or rode, are partly halter-broke, and are, each of them branded on the hoof of the near fore-foot with the letters I F which are perhaps hardly at firſt viſible.

Whoever will take up, and ſend the above, or either of them to Me at Weathersfield, or take them up, and inform where I can have them, ſhall be handſomely rewarded, and all neceſſary charges paid by SILAS DEAN.

N. B. The horſes are probably gone to the north, or north-weſtward, being bought up that way. Weathersfield, December 1ſt. 1764.

ALL Perſons indebted to JONATHAN SEYMOUR, on account of his late Vendues, are requeſted immediately to diſcharge the ſame, as they would avoid Coſt and Trouble.

TO BE SOLD, at a public VENDUE, on Thurſday, the 24th of January next, at One o'Clock in the Afternoon, at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. David Bull, in HARTFORD;

A Dwelling Houſe, Barn and Blackſmith's Shop, with about one Quarter of an Acre of Land; ſituated about 30 Rods Weſt of the Court-Houſe.

Any Perſon inclining to purchaſe at private Sale, may know the Terms, by enquiring of the Subſcribers,

Robert Sloan,
Thomas Sloan.

Farmington, November 10, 1764.

STRAYD or STOLEN,
Out of the Commons, near the North-Meadow-Gate, in FARMINGTON.

A Roan Horſe, with a ſtrake down his Face, both hind, and one fore foot white; the fore white Hough ſplit up to the Hair, a Piece cut off the End of his Ears, about ſeven Years old. Whoever takes up ſaid Horſe, and returns him to the Owner in Farmington, ſhall have Ten Shillings Reward, and all neceſſary Charges paid by

SAMUEL BIRD.

BENJAMIN WILLIARD,
Laſt-Maker, from Boſton;

HAs lately ſet up his Buſineſs at Eaſt-Hartford at the Houſe of Benjamin Cheny, where Shoe Makers and others, who want Laſts, may be ſupplied on the moſt reaſonable Terms, either by the Set or ſingle One.

N. B. Said Laſts may alſo be had at Caleb Bull's, in Hartford, at the Sign of the Boot and Shoe, in King-Street

---

Juſt Publiſhed, and to be ſold by the Printer hereof,
ELLSWORTH's ALMANACK for the Year 1765.
Calculated for the Meridian of Hartford.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown near the North-Meeting-Houſe.

[illegible] on the beſt Terms.——

MONDAY, December 17, 1764. [Number 4.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

[From a Boſton Paper.]

——Abſentem qui rodit Amicum,
Qui non defendit alio culpante, ſolutos
Qui captat riſus Hominum, Famamque Dicacis;
Fingere qui viſa poteſt, commiſſa tacere
Qui nequit, hic niger eſt, hunc tu Romane caveto.

Hor. ſat 4. lib. 1.

WHEN ill-grounded prejudices once gain the aſcendency over our minds ſo far, as to ſuffer our ears to be ſhut againſt a candid examination of the truth, we can never expect either with propriety or equity, to be admitted as judges in any controverſy;—the Latin proverb may here be pertinently applied,—"Oportet judices juſte judicare," i. e. Judges ſhould judge juſtly, free from partiality, no ways influenced by fear on one ſide, or favour on the other; never wilfully preventing the ſenſe of the evidence, nor artfully concealing the cardinal hinge upon which the caſe will turn—This principle of integrity, and this alone, will forever keep the mind of ſuch an unbyaſſed judge calm and unruffled amidſt the reflections and calumnies of his moſt inveterate enemies——If, in our reſearches after the truth, we ſhould unhappily adopt falſe principles, yet ſurely we cannot be juſtified in falſefying what we know to be the truth—therefore I am greatly at a loſs to account for many poſſitive miſrepreſentations reſpecting the Doctrines, ſaid to be propogated by Mr. Sandiman, in his letters on Theron and Aſpaſio, which for my own ſatiſfaction I have examined, and find ſo diametrically oppoſite, that I think it but juſt to ſet them in a true point of light, and leave to the impartial inquirers their undoubted right of cenſuring or applauding.

The objections commonly brought againſt Mr. Sandiman, are, that faith, or a bare belief of the Goſpel, is ſufficient for the ſalvation of a ſinner——That good works are not neceſſary, and conſequently perſons may live as they liſt——That he denies the two ſacraments, Baptiſm and the Lord's Supper, and alſo the obſervation of the Sabbath——And the operations of the Holy-Spirit.—To obviate theſe, the following paſſages are quoted from his letters.—Page 314. Vol. 2 Second Edition. "If a teſtimony perſuades me of the reality of excellent things, utterly unknown to me before, and aſſures me of good things to come; this perſuaſion or faith may juſtly be called, the ſubſtance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not ſeen.—"

—Page 408 "No ſooner does any man know the grace of God in truth, than love to it takes place in his heart. Love is the activity of that life which a man obtains by faith; for faith worketh by love. No man then, however ſound his profeſſion of the faith may be, can enjoy that life which lies in God's favour, further than he loves God and keeps his commandments. Let a man talk like an angel about the things of God, if he wants this love he is nothing. The change made upon a man by the goſpel, is called repentance unto life."—

—P. 411. "The Lord's ſupper ſhews the unity of Chriſt's people, and ſerves as a notable occaſion for their enjoying the comfort of love. A company of Chriſt's diſciples muſt come together to this ordinance, finding nothing, any of them, to recommend him to God, but the ſacrifice of Chriſt."

—P. 413. "They who have made the beſt profeſſion of the faith, are to be called to repentance, ſtill to be put in mind of the neceſſity of converſion. The apoſtles themſelves could have no further evidence that they belonged to Chriſt, than as they were daily influenced by the ſame temper of mind that appeared in him."—

—P. 415: "A teſtimony of one's own conſcience muſt give no ſmall confidence: Yet this is but one witneſs, and needs to be ſupported. For in this caſe one may be liable to doubts, leſt even his own conſcience ſhould be partial in his favour. Here then the Spirit of truth, who never fails to bear witneſs to the genuine effects thereof, gives his teſtimony as a ſecond witneſs ſupporting the former. Thus Paul, after he had ſaid, as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the ſons of God; adds, the Spirit itſelf beareth witneſs with our ſpirit, that we are the children of God. And this he does, by ſhedding abroad in the heart ſuch an abundant ſenſe of the divine love, as leaves no room for, ſo caſts out the anxious fear of coming ſhort of life everlaſting."

—Page 420. "It is evident, that to have the Holy Spirit as the Comforter, and earneſt of the heavenly inheritance, is an attainment far beyond any influence of the Spirit that are common to thoſe who believe for a time, and thoſe who believe to the ſaving of the ſoul; yea beyond the regenerating work of the ſpirit by which men are at firſt brought to the knowledge of the truth, and taught to love it."

—P. 454 "Charity has ſacred regard for all the inſtitutions of worſhip delivered in the New-Teſtament, as baptiſm, the Lord's-day, and the ſeveral ordinances wherein the firſt Chriſtians continued ſtedfaſtly on that day; as all theſe have the truth evidently ſtamped upon them, and ſerve to bring it to remembrance, and ſo to promote the happineſs reſulting from it—In a word, charity deſpiſes all the little ſingularities of parties, but it has a high veneration for the public ſtatutes of the kingdom of heaven, which all ſerve to promote righteouſneſs, & peace and joy in the Holy Ghoſt. Charity bears good will to all men and is ready to do them good as opportunity preſents; but its joy is confined to thoſe in whom the truth dwells."—

Theſe quotations plainly evince Mr. Sandiman's ſentiments, that his principles have been miſtaken; and if he has but a clear conſcience, he may laugh at the falſe accuſations of others, and juſtly obſerve, that empty veſſels make the greateſt ſound in a vault, and ſhallow brains the greateſt noiſe in company.—For my part I ſhall conclude, that that Religion cannot be right that a man is the worſe for having Philalethes.

LONDON,

September 17. Saturday, about eleven o'clock, the different proprietors of the new-invented preſervatives againſt drowning, met at black-Friars, to convince the public of the utility of their inventions; and after ſettling ſome diſputes, it was agreed to try them at London bridge, at which time there was a conſiderable fall, accordingly two men with cork jackets went through erect without uſing their arms or legs, one of them having a drawn cutlaſs in his hand; then two men and a woman with a mob cap on and red ribbands, dreſſed in air jackets, went likewiſe through, and were followed by two men with the marine collar and belt on: they continued dancing in the eddy a conſiderable time, to the no ſmall diverſion of thouſands of ſpectators, who ſurrounded them in boats. One of the men in an air jacket preſented the ladies with apples, regaled himſelf with bread and cheeſe, and after which he fired a piſtol; theſe things were contained in his cap made on purpoſe. Upon the whole it was a droll and not indecent ſight, they all being dreſſed in flannel ſhifts and linnen breeches.

Poſtſcript of a Letter from New-York.

"I could vend goods in your way to the amount of the whole produce of your's and the neighbouring country, if there was a free trade here; but it is whiſpered about that a certain Noble Lord envies the proſperity of great traders, and would willingly give them a check—" A tree is known by its fruits."

Sept. 22. Letters from Senegal mention, that advice has been received there from Governor Debatt, of Gambia, that a French frigate of 56 guns, double manned, with the Governor of Goree on board, was come into the river Gambia; that the French behaved with great inſolence, telling the Engliſh they were determined to force a trade in that river; that they had entirely prevented Governor Debatt from receiving freſh proviſions.

Letters from Liſbon of the 29th ult. bring advice, that his moſt Faithful Majeſty has not only approved and confirmed all the military regulations made by Count de Lippe, but has heaped alſo immenſe riches and other extraordinary favours on that Nobleman; which has occaſioned ſome of the Portugueſe Nobility to look on the Count with a jealous eye.

Some foreign advices ſeem to intimate, that war has already been declared againſt Denmark by the Dey of Algiers.

LONDON, September 27.

It is ſaid Commiſſions are come over by the laſt mail, to build thirty nine frigates for the ſervice of Portugal.

They write from Berlin, that extraordinary military preparations are making throughout the Pruſſian dominion; but the motive was not known.

They write from Lisbon, that the Court of Madrid, no longer able to behold with a placid eye the great naval and military preparations of his moſt Faithful Majeſty, and the perfect unanimity at preſent ſubſiſting between that kingdom and Great Britain, have at laſt begun to manifeſt their jealouſy in ſomething more than words, as undoubted intelligence had been received, that for ſome time paſt the Spaniards have been marching ſeveral regiments from the interior provinces, eſpecially from thoſe of Arragon and Caſtile, with intent to form an army of obſervation on the ſide of Portugal; and that large quantities of heavy artillery were daily arriving on the frontiers.

Letters by yeſterday's mail bring an account of 200 of the Whiteboys coming to Dungannon in the county of Tyrone, when they demanded a ſum of money of the Mayor and Corporation; upon which a party of dragoons was ſent for. Juſtice Knox attempted to read the riot act, but was obliged to deſiſt, otherwiſe he would have been murdered. There was an obſtinate engagement between the Dragoons and Whiteboys, but the former obliged them to retire with the loſs of eighteen, beſides twenty five, which were taken priſoners.

NEW-LONDON, November 30.

The following letter was wrote by Col. Putnam, at Sandusky, to Maj. Durkee, in Norwich.

Camp at Sandusky, near the Carrying-Place,
October 7, 1764.

Dear Sir,

"ACCORDING to your deſire I have wrote to you ſeveral times, but have had no anſwer from you, nor any body, ſince I left home; nor don't know but you are all dead. I think you and Mr. Parke was to meet us ſomewhere hereabouts; but believe you had better let it alone; for I can tell you, the land is good eno', and ſuppoſe you would think it ſtrange if I ſhould tell you, that, in many places in this country, there is 10 or 20,000 acres of Land in a place, that has not a buſh nor twigg on it, but all covered with graſs ſo big and high that it is very difficult to travel;—and all as good plow-land, as you ever ſaw; any of it fit for hemp; but there is too many hemp-birds among it; which will make it very unhealthy to live among.

"Detroit is a very beautiful place, and the country round about it. We ſent out an officer and three Indians to the Delawares and Shawaneſe from Priskeal, who returned and were illy uſed.—We ſent the like number from Sandusky, and from the Moamme River, but all before any returned.

"From Sandusky we ſent Capt. Montieur and Capt. Peter; from Moamme we ſent Capt. Morris, of the 17th, and one Thomas King with three Indians. Capt. Morris returned ſome time ago, and was much abuſed, and ſtrip'd and whip'd and threaten'd to be tomahawk'd, but had his life ſpar'd, in caſe he would return. Capt. Thomas King and three of the Conawawas proceed,——this Capt. King is one of the chiefs of Oneida Caſtle; and about ten days ago, King came in to Detroit, almoſt dead, and had left all the Conawawas; who gave out, for want of proviſions, and could not travail: he ſuppoſes they all periſhed in the woods. And three days ago he arrived here, and yeſterday he had a conference with the Indians; and when all aſſembled he made a ſpeech to them, after ſome talk with them he expreſſed himſelf in this manner, ——Friends and Brothers, I am now about to acquaint you with facts too obvious to deny: I have been ſince I left you, to Monſieur Pontuck's Camp, and waited on him to ſee if he was willing to come in and make peace with our brothers the Engliſh. He asked me what I could mean by all that; ſaying you have always encouraged me to carry on the war againſt the Engliſh: and ſaid the only reaſon you did not join me laſt year was for want of ammunition: and as ſoon as you could get ammunition, you would join me. King ſaid, there was nothing in it; at which Pontuck produced ſix belts of wampum, that he had had laſt year, from the ſix nations, to join with them to carry on the war againſt the Engliſh. King ſaid he did not know what to ſay about that; but ſaid, he knew nothing of it. Pontuck ſaid, that the ſix nations ſaid, the Engliſh were ſo exhauſted, that they could do no more; and that one year's war well puſhed, would drive them all into the ſea. King then made a ſtop for ſome time——Brothers, you know this to be true, and you have always deceived me——At which the ſix nations were all angry, and this day are all packing up to go off; and what will be the event I don't know, nor don't care, for I have no faith in an Indian peace, patched up by preſents.

Yeſterday Capt. Peter arrived, which is the laſt party we have out. Capt. Peter ſays, the Windots are all coming in; but the Delewares and Shawaneſe are not coming, nor durſt to come, for they are afraid, if they ſhould come here, Col. Bouquet will be on their towns and caſtles; for he has ſent to them to come to make peace; and on the contrary, if they ſhould go to him, we ſhould be on them. And they intend to lay ſtill, until Bouquet comes firſt to them; and then ſend out and make peace, if poſſible, if not, to fight him, as long as they have a man left. But believe they wait to get ſome advantage of us, before they try for peace: but Capt. Peter ſays, Bouquet is within 30 miles of their towns; and believes, is to make no peace with them, for Col. Bradſtreet had orders from Gen. Gage, eight days ago, to make no peace with them, and to march to meet Bouquet. But, on calling a council of war and examining the Indians and Frenchmen that were acquainted with the road, found it to be 30 leagues to travel by land, and nothing to carry any proviſions but on men's backs; which, allowing for hindrances, muſt take 40 days to go and come; and four large rivers to paſs, two of which muſt be croſſed by rafts, and that very difficult, and conſidering the ſeaſon of the year, it was judged impracticable. And here we are, and for what I know not; nor when we are to leave it.

I am, &c. ISRAEL PUTNAM.

NEW-HAVEN, Yale-College, December 8, 1764.

TO THE PRINTER.

SIR,

WHEN I wrote the Letter, you was ſo good as to publiſh, in your Firſt, I little expected to ſee any public Animadverſions upon it: My chief Deſign being to inform the Public of an Article which I apprehended would be very pleaſing to them, and honorable to College; I was not over careful about my Expreſſions, ſome of which, it ſeems have been conſtrued to the Diſadvantage of the Society, whoſe Honor I have much at Heart. The Gentleman who remarks upon my Letter, is, I doubt not, a true Friend, and deſerving the Name he has aſſumed: He ſeems rather diſpoſed to apologize for, than find Fault with my Letter; though he ſays, I have given "too juſt Occaſion for ill-natured and ſatirical People to give my ſtory a Turn as though the Students were deeply ſunk in Debauchery." I will not ſay there is no Occaſion given by any Expreſſions, for ſuch a Turn, nor can I clearly ſee, that there is any juſt Occaſion for it. However, if any retroſpective Reflections look that way, I freely retract them, and thank Candidus for the Turn he has given them, which is full as much, or rather more than I deſigned. I am far from charging the Students with an uncommon Uſe of ſtrong Liquors, or any of the Vices conſequent upon Exceſſes of this Kind. All I ment by any Expreſſions, that look the moſt like ſuch an Intimation in my Letter, was, that ſome of the Students, may have ſome Times uſed ſtrong Liquor more freely than was convenient for ſedentary Perſons, ſeeing that in Truth, a very ſmall Quantity is rather prejudical to ſuch. However, if my Expreſſions will admit of a more harſh Conſtruction, I hope I may have Liberty to recall them, which I now do, and freely declare that I am fully perſuaded from conſiderable Acquaintance with them, that the preſent Students well deſerve the Character of virtuous and ſtudious young Gentlemen. Their late Reſolution ſhews them at once Lovers of Temperance and of their Country, this ſhews them capable of that which many Gentlemen of riper Years, have not been able to do; I mean to ſtem the Torrent of Cuſtom and Mode. This laudable compact of the preſent Members, will be a Mark of Honour to them, and the Public have good Reaſon to entertain pleaſing Expectations from the Youth now here; and I cannot but congratulate all Lovers of Learning and Virtue on the Proſpect which the College now affords. Long may it flouriſh the Nurſery of Virtue and Learning, and the Ornaments of Church and State.

I ask the Favour of a Place in your Paper once more; and am, Your Humble Servant,

EUCRATES.

Woodbury, December 8, 1764.

To the PRINTER.

SIR,

As the Knowledge of the following Fact may be of Uſe to the Public, you are deſired to give it a Place in your Paper.

ABOUT nine Years ago, in Conſequence of the Pleuriſy, an Ulcer gathered and broke outwardly on my right Side, continued running about five Years;—all Means failing, till I applied to Doct. HARPIN, of Milford, who gave me a perfect Cure; and I have enjoyed a good State of Health ever ſince.

LUKE STEEL.

NEW-PORT, December 3.

The celebrated Mr. Sandeman came to Town laſt Wedneſday from the Eaſtward, and on Saturday preached two Sermons in the Sabbatarian Church.

The General Aſſembly of this Colony roſe on Friday laſt. Among other Things, they voted an Addreſs to his Majeſty, reſpecting the Stamp Duties propoſed to be levied in the Colonies, and the Grievancies they are already ſubjected to by the late Act of Parliament. They alſo approved an Eſſay on the Rights of the Coloniſts; laid before them by the ſame Committee who prepared the Addreſs, and ordered a Copy to be ſent to the Agent in Great-Britain, that he may print it, or make ſuch Uſe of it as he ſhall think proper.

December 10.

At the interment of the remains of Joſeph Scott, Eſq; laſt Monday, was exhibited an inſtance of that oeconomy in Funerals lately eſtabliſhed in Boſton, which met with the applauſe of vaſt numbers.——Such a laudable example, ſo evidently deſigned for general benefit, moſt certainly merits the higheſt commendations from the public; and began in a family ſo reſpectable, will doubtleſs excite a ſpirit of imitation.

His Majeſty's ſhip the Maidſtone, Charles Anſtrobus, Eſq; commander, arrived here from Boſton laſt Thurſday.

The ſame day Mr. Sandeman left this place for Connecticut.

BOSTON, December 13.

We hear from Palmer, that on the 5th inſtant, Mr. John Lammon of that place and Mr. John Davis, of Ware, being out hunting after an Otter, unknown to each other, as Lammon was in the buſhes on a bank near a Mill-pond, Davis came on his back at about ſix rods diſtance, and imagining Lammon's head to be the Otter's, fired a large charge of buck ſhot at him, which pitch'd him into the water; Lammon was dangerouſly wounded, one of the ſhot lodg'd in his back, one in his neck, beſides ſeveral ſmall wounds.

On Monday laſt one Jane Logan, travelling from Boſton to Salem, having with her a bundle of goods, containing Lawns, Cambricks, Ribbonds and Stockings to the amount of about 70 Dollars, was met with on the road, by two ruffians who preſented a piſtol at her, ſwearing to take away her life, if ſhe did not inſtantly deliver the bundle, on which the poor woman was obliged to deliver it.—And as ſoon as they received that, demanded her money alſo, on which ſhe gave them all her money to the amount of 30 Dollars, and then the robbers made off. They appeared to be ſea-faring men of about 30 years of age, one of which had on a dark grey, coat, a dark wigg, and the other a pea jacket, and wore his own ſhort dark hair.—A reward of TEN DOLLARS has been offered to any perſon who will bring them to juſtice, to be paid by John Blackley, living near the wind mills in Marblehead.

PHILADELPHIA, December 6.

On Monday laſt arrived here Major Small, in his Way to New-York, with Diſpatches from Col. Bouquet to General Gage; our Advices by that Gentleman are as follows.

That he left the Army in high Spirits, encamped at the Forks of Muskingham, on the 18th ult. That the Expedition into the Indian Country has had the deſired Effect, the Mingoe, Delaware and Shawaneſe Indians, after a long Struggle, having at laſt ſubmitted to the Terms preſcribed to them, viz.

1. To deliver up all the priſoners without exception.
2. To give fourteen hoſtages, to remain in our hands, as a ſecurity for the ſtrict performance of the foregoing Article; and that they ſhall commit no hoſtilities againſt his Majeſty's ſubjects.

That upon theſe conditions they are permitted to ſend deputies from each Nation to Sir William Johnſon, to make their peace. That the Mingoes have given two of the abovementioned hoſtages, the Delawares ſix, and the Shawaneſe ſix. That from the preſent humble diſpoſition of the ſavages, it was thought our frontier inhabitants might return in ſafety to their deſerted plantations. That the Indians had brought in above 200 priſoners before the Major left the camp, and above one hundred more were daily expected. That the Delawares and Mingoes have not only delivered all their priſoners but even their own children, born by white women. That the Shawaneſe had been very obſtinate, but were forced to ſubmit to the ſame conditions as the other nations. That the enemy were ſaid to be in the greateſt diſtreſs, having neither proviſions, clothing, nor powder: their women, we hear, being covered with skins only, and the men in a ſtill worſe condition; and that it was generally believed they are now ſincere, and the peace will be laſting, as they are convinced, at laſt, that even their woods could not protect them, when followed by ſo brave and judicious a Commander, at the head of a gallant, though but ſmall Army; that the whole of the troops on the expedition have behaved in the moſt regular manner, and ſhewn the greateſt activity and reſolution; and it is particularly mentioned, that the men from this province have carried on the ſervice with great zeal and cheerfulneſs, and that their conduct does them honour in every reſpect. That the troops from this Government were to be ſent immediately to Carliſle, and with them the priſoners belonging to it. That the army have been very healthy, and had met with no loſs ſince they left Pittsburgh, only one of the light horſe, who was killed by ſome Indians, ſuppoſed to be Wyondotts, but that there were other Indians out after them, who promiſed to bring them in, if poſſible. And that the Colonel, with the Forces it was expected, would be at Fort Pitt on Sunday laſt.

Saturday laſt arrived the ſnow Tryal, Captain Clapp from Rotterdam with Palatines.

Since our laſt arrived a number of veſſels, who all agree that on ſaturday and ſunday the 24th and 25th of laſt month, they had as violent a ſtorm on the coſt as has been known for ſome years.

NEW-YORK, December 8.

Yeſterday arrived the ſloop Induſtry, Capt. Roſe from Porto-Rico, laſt from Santa-Croix, by whom we hear, that the Spaniards had taken two or three Engliſh veſſels, ſaid to be on ſome trade not allowed by the Spaniards; A paſſenger on board the above ſloop declares, that while he was at Santa-Croix, news came there, that the French had taken 40 or 50 ſail of Engliſh merchantmen, bound from Jamaica to Europe.

December 13. On Monday evening was held a numerous meeting of the ſociety for the promotion of arts, agriculture & oeconomy, in the colony of New-York, in North-America, when the committees for arts and agriculture propoſed ſeveral articles as deſerving encouragement; which were agreed to: And on Monday next, will be held a meeting, when ſuch premiums as the ſociety ſhall then agree upon will be affixed to the ſaid articles.

HARTFORD, December 17.

Our River is now full of Ice, and the Navigation ſtopt.

Governor Penn, has publiſh'd a proclamation, ordering a ſuſpenſion of hoſtilities between the province of Pennſylvania, and the Indian nations of Delaware, Shaweneſe and Seneca on the Ohio, till further Orders.

On Friday the fifth inſtant, arrived at New-York, the Lord Hide Packet, Capt. Goddard in ſix weeks and four days from Falmouth, but has brought no Accounts of a later date than has already been publiſhed in this paper.

Port of Boſton. Entered In.
Butler and Freeman from Connecticut.
Cleared Out.
Harlow and Mitchel for Connecticut.
Outward Bound.
Butler for Connecticut.

ALL Perſons who have neglected to pay their Country Rates, (that Doſephius Humphry, deceaſed, was appointed to collect) are requeſted to pay the ſame to the Subſcriber, within Ten Days, or they may expect to be diſtrained upon.

Daniel Butler.

Hartford, December 17, 1764.

Ashbel Strong Esq

Whereas we the Subſcribers,

were ſome time ſince, agreeable to the act made for relief of inſolvent debtors, appointed aſſignees of all the eſtate of Daniel Newcomb, of Hebron, in the county of Hartſord, an inſolvent debtor, and to make a dividend of the ſame, to and among his ſeveral creditors, as in, and by ſaid act is eſpecially provided. And whereas we have carefully examined, and ſought after the eſtate of him the ſaid Daniel, can as yet find nothing whereof to make diſtribution or diviſion, to and among his Creditors, as aforeſaid. Hebron, December 8, 1764.

OBADIAH HORSFORD } Aſſignees.
JOHN PHELPS, Jun. }

All Perſons indebted to the

Subſcriber, either by Note or Book, are deſir'd to ſettle the ſame by the laſt of this Month, or they may depend on a very diſagreeable Compliment.

JOHN COLEMAN.

William Ellery,

ONCE more requeſts all thoſe who are ſtill indebted to the Eſtate of Mr. John Ellery, deceas'd, immediately to pay their reſpective Ballances, or they will be ſued to January Court, without Diſtinction. 3

Whereas the eſtate of Thomas Dibble, late of Torrington, in Litchfield diſtrict, deceas'd, has been repreſented to the honorable court of probate for ſaid diſtrict, to be inſolvent: Whereupon ſaid court did appoint us the ſubſcribers, commiſſioners, to receive and examine the claims of the ſeveral creditors to the ſaid eſtate, and make our report thereon, to ſaid court, within ſix months. We do therefore, hereby notify all the ſeveral creditors to the ſaid eſtate, to bring in their claims and demands on the laſt Tueſday of January next, at ten of the clock in the morning, at the dwelling houſe of Epaphras Sheldon, in ſaid Torrington, in the county aforeſaid, where we ſhall attend ſaid buſineſs. Dated at Torrington, November the 14th, 1764.

JOHN COOK, }
EBENEZER HILL, } Commiſſioners.
EPAPHRAS SHELDON. }

TO BE SOLD, BY

JOSEPH BARRIT,

CHOICE OIL and BLUBBER, for Tanners Uſe. Alſo, a Quantity of Salt MACKAREL, by the Barril.

N. B. The ſaid Barrit, takes any Sort of Grain, at the caſh Price, for the above Articles, or pays the Caſh for Rye, at 2/6. per Buſhel. np 3

TO BE SOLD, at a public VENDUE, on Thurſday, the 24th of January next, at One o'Clock in the Afternoon, at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. David Bull, in HARTFORD;

A Dwelling-Houſe, Barn and Blackſmith's Shop, with about one Quarter of an Acre of Land; ſituated about 30 Rods Weſt of the Court-Houſe.

Any Perſon inclining to purchaſe at private Sale, may know the Terms, by enquiring of the Subſcribers,

Robert Sloan,
Thomas Sloan.

ALL Perſons indebted to JONATHAN SEYMOUR, on account of his late Vendues, are requeſted immediately to diſcharge the ſame, as they would avoid Coſt and Trouble.

Ames's Almanack, for 1765.

To be ſold by the Printer hereof, by Wholeſale and Retail, on the moſt reaſonable Terms.

Juſt imported in the York, Capt. Berton from London, and to be ſold by

Andrew Thompſon, & Com.

At the ſign of the Wheat-Sheaf, Broad Street, Hartford, wholeſale and retail, for caſh or ſhort credit, the following articles,

BRoad cloths, ratteens, ſtrouds, duffles, ſhalloons, tammies, durants, and callimancoes, chintzes, callicoes, Scotch and Iriſh linens, checks, ſtrip'd holland, ſilk, cotton & worſted hoſe, check'd & ſilk handkerchiefs, ſewing ſilks, nuns thread, black taffaty, beſt barcelona handkerchiefs & cravats, ſilk and worſted, black, buff, and cloth coloured breeches patterns; Scotch plaids, blankets, green and ſpotted rugs, ſilk, cotton and worſted caps; ſilver and Pinchbeck watches, ſtone, ſtock, & knee buckles; open ſteel, braſs, and metal, ſhoe & knee ditto; with a fine aſſortment of London pewter, and a fine variety of other articles too tedious to mention.

N.B. They have likewiſe to ſell, indigo, pepper, window glaſs, loaf-ſugar, rappee in caniſters, and Scotch ſnuff in bottles; delph ware by the hogſhead, and the beſt Anguilla ſalt. Country produce, will be taken in pay for any of the above goods if agreed for at the time of ſale.

STray'd from the ſubſcriber, on the 20th of Nov. laſt, four horſe kine, viz. One black pied horſe colt, two years old paſt, a large blaze in his face, & white in the end of his tail: one black roan colt of the ſame age; one black horſe of the ſame age & has loſt one of his eyes; and one bay colt about the ſame age as the former; they have never been dock'd or rode, are partly halter-broke, and are each of them branded on the hoof of the near fore-foot with the letters I F which are perhaps hardly at firſt viſible.

Whoever will take up, and ſend the above, or either of them to Me at Weathersfield, or take them up, and inform where I can have them, ſhall be handſomely rewarded, and all neceſſary charges paid by SILAS DEAN.

N. B. The horſes are probably gone to the north, or north-weſtward, being bought up that way. Weathersfield, December 1ſt. 1764.

STRAY'D from the ſubſcriber in Suffield, in April laſt, a ſorrel mare colt, three years old laſt ſpring, without brand or mark, near 14 hands high, both paces and trots, has a blaze in her face, her hind feet both white, and am not certain but her fore feet are white too, was not dock't.

Whoever ſhall take up ſaid mare, and return her to the owner, or inform where ſhe is, ſo that he have her again, ſhall receive two dollars reward, and all neceſſary charges paid by me

ELIJAH KENT.

Suffield, November 27th, 1764.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown near the North-Meeting-Houſe.

Jedediah Strong Esq

MONDAY, December 24, 1764. [Number 5.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

Of Detraction.

DETRACTION is one of the meaneſt vices of the ſoul, and ſuch a vice as none are found guilty of, who have an elevated genius. We commonly find this unmanly blemiſh ſtick to groveling minds. Low people, by a miſtaken notion, imagining a thirſt of revenge ſpeaks a greatneſs of ſpirit, and find as much ſatiſfaction in throwing dirt (which, contrary to their expectations, is often fuller's earth, and rather cleans than defiles) as the generous man does in conquering his paſſions, and making reaſon get the better of the brute. Two grounds of this unbecoming, this poor, this unmanly weakneſs, are envy and revenge, both which men of real greatneſs of ſoul are ſtrangers to. Cornelius Tacitus, ſpeaking of men in general, ſays, "We are much more inclined to injure than ſhew our gratitude. This is a burden to us, that we look upon as an advantage." Plato reckons a defamer among madmen. "There are (ſays he) ſeveral ſorts of madmen; ſome are chained in their beds; others, by a depravity of nature, by bad nouriſhment, and a weakneſs of mind, are enraged againſt each other, and tear to pieces the reputation of thoſe by whom they think themſelves injured." Herodotus looks upon detraction as very injurious to a ſtate in general; and obſerves, that in calumniating there are always two that are injurious, and one who ſuffers, viz. The detractor, who throws his dirt, the man who liſtens with pleaſure to it, and the perſon againſt whom their malice is directed. Plato in his laws expreſsly forbids all ſcurrility.

Men wounded in their reputation, muſt in a manner be more than men, to overcome their reſentment; and we ſee by daily experience, that gentlemen, men of honor, eſteem their lives cheap when in compariſon with their character. The anſwer a Gaſcon gentleman gave Charles the VIIth. King of France, is very remarkable. He had ſerved that monarch with fidelity, and being asked by him if any thing could prevail upon him to deſert him, the Gaſcon replied, "No, not if I could gain your kingdom, nor univerſal empire, and poſſeſſion of all the treaſures in the world; if you do not injure me in my reputation."

We may boaſt as much as we pleaſe our forbearance and calmneſs under injuries, eſpecially under thoſe almoſt indelible ſtains which we receive in our reputation; but ſtrength of reaſon, without help of religion, we ſhall find too weak. Marcus Antonius, who had ſo great a command over his paſſions, grounded his philoſophy upon religion. He was not only one of the wiſeſt, but one of the moſt pious, not of princes only, but of men. This good emperor ſpeaking of revenge, expreſſes himſelf ſomewhere in his works, to this purpoſe: "Perhaps you are not really injured, and you are angry without a cauſe; but ſuppoſing you are indeed calumniated, yet it is not you that he is angry with; your character is different from that he gives you; and therefore you are enraged, becauſe he is miſtaken, and does not know you. Give way to reaſon, and reflect that time is leading you both to your graves, where he'll ceaſe his injuries, and you will forget your reſentment."

The moſt glorious victory we can obtain is that over ourſelves; and the moſt certain road to happineſs is to endeavour to imitate the divine attributes, as nearly as the frailty of human nature will allow us. This will make us rather compaſſionate, than revenge ourſelves on the man who injures us. When we reflect on the forbearance of that tremendous Ens Entium, whom we daily affront, we ſhall bear with patience injuries from our fellow creatures. How ridiculous a figure does the bluſtering man make, who is for ſending his adverſary to the grave for the ſlighteſt affront, and is not himſelf ſure of life to end his threats? How is the haughty bubble broke; and how quiet does he lie when in the grave, to be trampled over by the perſons he deſpiſed; and in a little time mixed with his kindred duſt, he becomes the ſport of winds? I never ſee a man boaſting his power, his courage, or his ſtrength, but it reminds me of the fly upon the the knave of a coach wheel, What a duſt do I raiſe.

Envy, which I have mentioned as one of the grounds of calumny, is ſo excellently delineated by the Rev. Dr. Young, in his Sermon upon that ſubject, that I ſhall refer my readers to that piece, as I am ſatisfied I can ſay nothing but what will fall vaſtly ſhort of that incomparable diſcourſe.

I ſhall conclude with a ſpeech which I had the pleaſure to hear applauded. "O Belleſleur, I ſee pity ſtruggling with reſentment; cheriſh the godlike virtue. Brutes can revenge, but only man forgive: Mercy is the darling attribute of heaven; and he who ſhews it moſt, approaches neareſt to the divinity."

Married Philoſopher, a Comedy.

IRELAND.

Waterford, Oct. 1. We hear from Carrick, that on Saturday laſt as a party of the Earl of Drogheda's light horſe conſiſting of a ſerjeant, corporal, and 18 private men, were conducting on foot four perſons, charged of being of the rebels called white-boys, to Kilkenny goal, they were attacked near Newmarket, by 3 or 400 riotous perſons, who, armed with ſtones, and ſlanes, charged the ſoldiery with ſhowers of ſtones, which knocked down ſeveral of them; the others no ways diſmayed, kept up a continual fire 'til their comrades recovered their feet, when they gave them one volley, which killed ſix men and a woman, and wounded ſeveral, four of whom, it is ſaid cannot recover, The light horſe at firſt fired only powder, to intimidate them, but the ring-leader told this credulous rabble they had no ball, which encouraged them to advance, when ſeveral of them being killed and wounded, they were ſoon convinced of their miſtake, and made a precipitate retreat. In the fray the priſoners eſcaped.

In this engagement ſerjeant Johnſon and corporal Sparks were killed, and ſeveral of the private men dangerouſly wounded. Johnſon after receiving a cut on his arm with a ſlane, & a chop in the ſide with a hatchet, drew his piſtols, and ſhot the perſons dead who had wounded him: but as he was reloading, he received a thruſt through the body, which put an end to his life, having only time to ſay, "Keep up your fire, my boys, it is all you have for your lives."

The news of this affair ſoon reached Callan, when a party of the 10th regiment quartered there immediately marched to Newmarket, and came time enough to pick up 19 of the wounded, whom they put on cars, and conveyed them to Kilkenny goal, but two of them died in the way. In the evening the remainder of the light horſe went in purſuit of the rioters.

Kinſale, Sept. 22. On the 7th inſt. a ſnow, called the King William, Jacob Thede, maſter, from Virginia, ſtruck on a rock called bullman, and filled with water; on the 21ſt inſt. ſhe got off and put into Kinſale, with two pumps going. She had 228 hogſheads of tobacco which is almoſt ruined; but the ſnow and the reſt of the cargo will be ſaved.

Jedediah Strong Esq

NAPLES, September 11.

The Town of Valone, in Upper Albania, having failed in the payment of their annual tribute to the Grand Senior, his Highneſs ſent a Baſhaw, at the head of 20,000 men to force them to obedience; but the inhabitants having joined the Cimariots, killed 6000 of the people ſent againſt them, and among them the Baſhaw himſelf, wounded ſeveral others, and put the reſt to flight.

Lower Elbe, Sept. 27. The Ottoman troops which had marched towards Hungary, have ſuddenly turned off upon Poland, and are haſtily advancing that way. And on the other ſide, a body of Pruſſian troops hath entered Great-Poland.

LONDON,

September 1. On the 21ſt of June laſt, the St. Peter, Capt. Heer Ganſz, bound from Hamburgh to Porto, about five o'clock in the afternoon, was attacked by a pirate off Beachy-head, who ſhewed Engliſh colours, and whom he took for a double ſloop or cutter, having ſix guns on deck, and a long pendant flying. The pirate fired a gun at them, when they ſtruck their topſail, and hoiſted their jack. This was ſcarce done, before a ſecond gun, with a ball was fired at them; which the Captain perceiving, ſlooped, or it would have ſtruck him. The pirates then boarded them, armed with piſtols and blunderbuſſes, which they put to the Captain's breaſt, and forced him into the cabin, where they left him with a man at the cabin door with two loaded piſtols, as a centinel over him. They then went on deck, ordered the hatches to be opened, and the carpenter refuſing to take off the hoops from the hatches, they beat and forced him to do it. They then obliged the mate to unlock the hatches, which to preſerve his life, he did. They then confined the mate, carpenter, cook, and two other men in the ſteerage, and being now maſters of the veſſel, loaded their boat with ſheets of copper, which they carried on board their own ſhip; at eight o'clock the ſame evening they went to the Captain, and told him he might go about his buſineſs; upon which coming on deck, he found a great quantity of goods lying, but chiefly pipe ſtaves; but in the hold every thing was cut to pieces and deſtroyed. On the ſecond of July they boarded a ſmall Engliſh veſſel or cutter, armed with cutlaſſes, &c. which had but one gun; this was near Ornay on the French coaſt, when after asking ſeveral queſtions, they returned to their own ſhip. The Captain declares, that while he was robbed, a three maſt veſſel was not far off, which made a ſignal, and approached the ſmall one; when the robbery was over, the ſmall one fired a gun as a ſignal.

September 28. A number of people were got together this forenoon on the market hill and other parts of the town to admire (as they ſaid) the Prodigy of a ſtar appearing in the day-time. On enquiry among our learned friends we find there is at this time the extraordinary appearance of the Planet Venus, which is the moſt illuminated poſſible, when at 40 degrees diſtance from the ſun, and is once in eight years in poſition to be viſible to us for ſeveral days together.

On Monday laſt, a couple that had been out asked in Mary-bone church went thither to be married. As the Rev. Mr. Boot was reading the ceremony, when he came to the words, "Wilt thou have this man to thy wedded huſband?" The woman anſwered, no: and upon the miniſter's asking the reaſon, ſhe ſaid, "I have told him ſeveral times I would not marry him." The clergyman then asked her why ſhe came to the church; ſhe replied, "I came to tell you I will not marry him;" and immediately went away with two men who came to attend the ceremony, leaving the diſappointed bridegroom in the church.

O Rare A few Days ſince died at Liverpool, Mrs. Magee, Wiſe of Mr. Magee, who was her tenth huſband.

Sept. 30. By a French ſhip which is put into Corunna, there is advice, that the Negroes on the ſide of Juida in Africa, have lately made upon their neighbours, with whom they are always at war, upwards of 10,000 priſoners; a circumſtance which will haſten the loading of ſhips.

October 1.

Laſt Sunday the Pariſh clerk of a church ſouth of London bridge, having given out a Pſalm which the miniſter did not approve of, was called to from the pulpit to ſing Gloria Patri, which he not inſtantly complying with, was pulled out of his desk by the miniſter, who kick'd him very heartily in the ſight of the congregation, who were greatly ſcandalized, and ſurpriſed, at ſuch an exertion of eccleſiaſtical authority.

Early on Tueſday morning a certain young man (not a mile from St. Paul's) who was married the preceeding day, took his leave af his wiſe. The drummers paying their uſual compliments on ſuch occaſions, a little after, the lady went to take ſome money in order to make them a preſent, when to her great ſurpriſe, ſhe found her new ſpouſe had walked off with her whole fortune.

Oct. 11. By letters from Madrid it appears, the French are like to meet with many difficulties in their late projected [illegible] ſcheme to the Spaniſh ſettlements in South-America.

A French ſhip, bound from Honfleur to Guadaloupe, with a cargo of 500 barrels of meal, 200 barrels of beef, and 50 of butter, and 80 bales of linen of different kinds, is taken by the Corſairs of Morocco, and carried into Santa Cruz in Barbary. There were ſeveral paſſengers on board, and the captain, we are told, did not ſtrike 'til he had received four wounds from a ſabre, two upon the head, and two upon his back, and after having one man killed, and one mortally wounded, and five others diſabled.

It is computed that upwards of 90,000 l. have been ſpent at Rome only by Engliſh ſubjects, in the courſe of the preſent year; and this week, bills of exchange to the amount of 11,000l. more, have been remitted to the ſame place, the greateſt part of which, we are informed, is intended to be laid out by a noble Engliſh connoiſſeur in the purchaſe of Roman Virtue, and other Italian curioſities.

They write from Erfurth, that the diſtemper among the horned cattle in Franconia was making a moſt dreadful havock, and which ſeemed to increaſe more and more.

They write from Cadiz, that Le Dragon, the Marquis de Caſmas, Commodore Le Glorieux, and Le Ruſe men of war; La Jucon and Soledad frigates; the Jupiter, a Daniſh ſhip, with ſeveral other merchantmen, having on board 2500 men with plenty of warlike ſtores, ſailed from that bay for Vera Cruz on the 4th ult.

The prize money for taking Martinico and the Granadoes hath been already begun to be paid, and for which each brave ſeaman and marine hath received the full ſum of four ſhillings! Thoſe concerned in taking Guadaloupe would be glad to be informed when and how much prize-money will be paid for the ſaid conqueſt, as ſeveral men who came from great diſtances expended, to their great hurt, conſiderable more than their ſhares came to, in receiving their poor pittance for the above important conqueſts — As ſuch encouragement is given to thoſe intrepid fellows who would not fight?

Cork, (in Ireland) Sept. 24. The Right Worſhipful the Mayor and Corporation have concluded an agreement with Mr. Satterwight, Engineer, at the rate of 6,500 pounds, for bringing a ſupply of water from the lands of Blarney, to the higheſt part of Blarney lane, where an elegant reſervoir is to be made, for ſupplying the inhabitants of that city with water, agreeable to an act paſſed the laſt ſeſſions of parliament.

They write from Hanover, that letters patent are iſſued, whereby the king of Great-Britain, in quality of Father and Tutor of the minor prince his ſon, biſhop of Oſnabrug, advertiſes all thoſe who poſſeſs fiſes depending on that biſhoprick, to get them renewed and to take the inveſture within the term of the three firſt months of the next year.

The number of ſhipwrights from England now in the Portugueſe ſervice are ſaid to exceed 300.

BOSTON, December 20.

Tueſday laſt a ſhip came to anchor in Nantasket road, ſuppos'd to be one of his Majeſty's Frigates from Halifax, ſtationed here this winter for the Protection of the trade.

Yeſterday arrived here a ſchooner, Capt. Burnham, from Falmouth in England, he ſailed the 4th of November laſt, but bro't no public prints.

Tueſday evening about 8 o'clock a woman was attacked near dock-ſquare, by a man, who held her till another woman robb'd her of the money ſhe had in her pocket, as alſo her cloak and Bonnet. They ran off, before aſſiſtance came up.

We hear from Palmer, that Mr. John Lammon died there of the wounds he received by Mr. John Davis, who ſhot at him for an Otter, as mentioned in our laſt.

We hear from Worceſter, that about a fortnight ago one ——Cooke was committed to goal there for forging ſundry notes of hand, orders, &c. to the amount of ſeveral hundred pounds.

A gentleman in Marlborough ſent a quarter of mutton to his friend in town a few days ago, which weighed 25 lb. The 4 quarters of the ſheep, after it was kill'd weighed 90 lb. 24 lb. rough tallow. The ſheering laſt ſummer was 5 lb. and 3 quarters of wool, and the pulled wool upon the fleece, 4 lb. and a quarter, in the whole, 10 lb. of wool. This was a weather and a coſit, worth 18 pounds old tenor. A good encouragement for the keeping of ſheep.

We hear that a ſmall ſchooner, tender to the Maidſtone, frigate, which lately ſailed from hence for Rhode Iſland, foundered near the ſhoal of George's bank, in ſight of ſaid ſhip, but the wind blew ſo violent they could afford her no aſſiſtance, and the crew, twelve in number, all periſhed.

Extract of a Letter from CASCO-BAY, December 10. 1764.

"Laſt Friday morning arrived here one of his Majeſty's Cutters, or arm'd ſloops called the Gaſpee, Thomas Allen, Commander. She came to anchor juſt at the mouth of the harbour, and the wind being South-Weſt, a number of veſſels belonging to this port happened to arrive the ſame day, ſome from the Weſt Indies, and others from Boſton, Rhode-Iſland, &c. Maſter Allen brought them all too, boarded them and preſſed a number of their hands, all which belonged to this town; one, in particular was mate of one of the veſſels, and another had a wife and young children depending upon the Father's return to ſupport them. The friends of one or two went down to the cutter, to plead for the relief of the poor diſtreſſed men, but all to no purpoſe, and meeting with ill treatment, ‖ irritated a number of hearty fellows belonging to the town, who gathered together on ſaturday morning, and immediately upon Maſter Allin's coming aſhore in the yawl, they ſeiz'd ſaid yawl & carried her to the top of a high hill the back of the town, and ſet a guard upon her, in order to ſecure the retreat of the Captain and Men to the veſſel, and then a number ſurrounded the Captain of the Cutter, and ſhowing a true Britiſh ſpirit, inſiſted upon his giving immediate orders to give the poor preſs'd men their liberty, which he promiſed, upon his honor, he would, upon his going on board. They would not take his word, but made him give written orders to his officer on board to deliver up the men, and inſiſted on his ſtaying as Hoſtage till their redemption; which he complied with, whilſt a number went and fetched up the men, after which they brought down the yawl, launch'd her in the water, and delivered her ſafe to him, not uſing him in the leaſt rough manner, during their whole proceeding."——

Yours, &c.

‖ "What irritated the people more was, that he let a ſhip paſs him from Liverpool, without taking out one hand, and ſeem'd to ſhow his reſentment only againſt the men who belonged to this town."——

December 13, 1764.

To the PRINTER.

SIR,

By inſerting the following Account of Tea, in your weekly Paper, you will much oblige your Friend, &c.

THE tea uſed in England is of ſix kinds,——The firſt is called bohea, the ſecond congo, the third peco, the fourth green tea, the fifth imperial, the ſixth is called hyſon tea. All theſe ſorts of tea, are brought from China, and are ſaid to be leaves of the ſame ſhrub, and are only diſtinguiſhed by the time of gathering, and the method of curing. The greateſt advantage of tea, conſidering the quantity of what is drank, ſeems to be, that it prevents the hot weather from relaxing the ſtomach to too great a degree, owing to its aſtringenſy. All the other effects of this faſhionable liquor, ſeem to proceed from the hot water.——We are informed, that one Darma, an Indian king, and a kind of pope, (who liv'd 1023 years before Chriſt) firſt uſed tea. This Darma was a moſt auſtere man, who, from an aim at perfect holineſs, reſolv'd to deny himſelf all reſt, ſleep, and relaxation of body, and conſecrate his mind, day and night, without intermiſſion, to God. After he had watch'd many years, being one day weary, and over faſted, he unluckily dropt aſleep; awaking next day full of ſorrow for breaking his ſolemn vow, he cut off both his eye-brows, theſe inſtruments of his crime, and with indignation, threw them on the ground. Returning next day to the ſame place, behold! out of his eye-brows were grown two beautiful tea ſhrubs. Darma eating ſome of the leaves, was preſently filled with holy joy and ſtrength to purſue his divine meditations. He preſently communicated to his diſciples, what great benefit he had found from tea, which they publiſhed to mankind. Doctor James, a late medical author, after recounting the virtues which the Japoneſe aſcribed to tea, ſays, 'Whatever virtues are aſcribed to tea, or however uſeful, as a medicine, it may be in China, I am very certain, that either the tea, or the water, or both, are extremely prejudicial as an habitual drink in England; inſomuch, that I have known many hyſterical caſes relieved, and ſome cured, by leaving off tea, without taking any remedy whatever, and one in particular, which was attended with terrible convulſions.'

'Drinking of tea, and coffee, &c. (ſays the learned Boerhaave) are like the enticement of a harlot, beginning very agreeable, and for the preſent recruit all the actions, both of body and mind, and excite them to a briſk activity; but then, like Venus, they leave fatal effects behind them; a weakneſs of the whole habit, an inactivity of the juices, a relaxation and weakneſs of the fibres, and a whole train of hypocondrical diſorders, extending themſelves even to future generations.

HARTFORD, December 24.

We hear from Coventry, that laſt Monday, Mr. Samuel Kendrick, (Son of Mr. Nathaniel Kendrick) a very promiſing Youth, about Seventeen, fell through the Ice, as he was Scating on a Pond, and was drowned; his Brother, had like to have ſhared the ſame Fate, in endeavouring to ſave him.

[The New York Poſt, not arrived, at the Publication of This Paper.]

WHEREAS we the ſubſcribers, were, ſome time ſince, agreeable to the act made for the relief of inſolvent debtors, appointed aſſignees of all the eſtate of Doct. Robert Brownlie, of Windſor, in the county of Hartford, an inſolvent debtor, to make a dividend of the ſame, to and among his ſeveral creditors, as in and by ſaid act is provided.——And whereas we have carefully examin'd and ſought after the eſtate of him the ſaid Robert, can as yet find nothing whereof to make diviſion to and among his creditors, nor even ſufficient to pay our own coſt. And ſaid creditors are hereby notified, that we ſhall meet at the houſe of Mr. John Tayloe inn-holder in Windſor aforeſaid, on the laſt Monday in Dec. inſtant, where we ſhall be ready to ſhew to any of ſaid creditors, our doings in ſaid affair. Dated at Windſor, the 6th Day of December, 1764.

ABNER BURROUGHS, }
JOSEPH HARPER, jun. } Aſſignees.

5

WHEREAS we the ſubſcribers were, ſome time ſince, agreeable to the act made for relief of inſolvent debtors, appointed aſſignees of all the eſtate of Iſaac Pitkin, of Hartford, an inſolvent debtor, and to make a dividend of the ſame, to and among his ſeveral creditors, as in and by ſaid act is eſpecially provided. And whereas we have carefully examined and ſaught after the eſtate of him the ſaid Iſaac Pitkin, can as yet find nothing whereof to make diſtribution or diviſion to and among his creditors as aforeſaid. And we the ſubſcribers have appointed to meet on ſaid buſineſs at the houſe of Daniel Pitkin, inn-holder in ſaid Hartford, on the firſt Monday of January next, and ſo on the firſt Monday of every month till April. Hartford, December the 22d 1764.

WILLIAM STANLEY, }
SAMUEL WELLS. } Aſſignees.

TO BE SOLD, to the higheſt bidder, on Thurſday the 3d Day of January, 1765 in Middletown, the dwelling-houſe lately in the poſſeſſion of Capt. Charles-Hobby Hubbard, 2 large rooms below well finiſhed, and a kitchen on the Eaſt ſide, together with half an acre of land, and the beſt well in town. Said houſe is ſituated on the Weſt ſide of the main ſtreet, a little North of the church. Conditions of ſale are ninety pounds down, and the remainder in ten days. The ſale to be held at ſaid houſe.

5

ALL Perſons indebted to the Subſcriber, by Book, are deſired to ſettle the ſame immediately, either by Caſh, or their Obligations; or they will be ſued without Exception; as he is about to remove into a diſtant Part of the Continent.

WILLIAM WHITING.

N. B. Any Kind of Proviſions will be accepted as Caſh.

Whereas the eſtate of Thomas Dibble, late of Torrington, in Litchfield diſtrict, deceas'd, has been repreſented to the honorable court of probate for ſaid diſtrict, to be inſolvent: Whereupon ſaid court did appoint us the ſubſcribers, commiſſioners, to receive and examine the claims of the ſeveral creditors to the ſaid eſtate, and make out report thereon, to ſaid court, within ſix months. We do therefore, hereby notify all the ſeveral creditors to the ſaid eſtate, to bring in their claims and demands on the laſt Tueſday of January next, at ten of the clock in the morning, at the dwelling houſe of Epaphras Sheldon, in ſaid Torrington, in the county aforeſaid, where we ſhall attend ſaid buſineſs. Dated at Torrington, November the 14th, 1764.

JOHN COOK, }
EBENEZER HILL, } Commiſſioners.
EPAPHRAS SHELDON. }

3

TO BE SOLD, BY
JOSEPH BARRIT,

CHOICE OIL and BLUBBER, for Tanners Uſe. Alſo, a Quantity of Salt MACKAREL, by the Barril.

N. B. The ſaid Barrit, takes any Sort of Grain, at the caſh Price, for the above Articles, or pays the Caſh for Rye, at 2/6, per Buſhel.

np 3

Ames's Almanack, for 1765.

To be ſold by the Printer hereof, by Wholeſale and Retail, on the moſt reaſonable Terms.

[illegible] Strong Esq

Glorious MAGNANIMITY of a PEASANT.

AT an inundation of the Adige, the bridge of Verona was carried away, one arch after another, the middle one only remaining; on it ſtood a houſe, and the whole family in it, ſtretching out their arms, and imploring aſſiſtance. In the mean time, the force of the torrent was ſeen gradually weakening the pillars of the arch. Count Spolverini affected with this ſcene of diſtreſs offered a purſe of 100 Louis d'Ors to any one who would go in a boat and bring away thoſe poor creatures: Here was a double danger; the being carried away by the rapidity of the river, or the arch tumbling down when the boat ſhould get under the houſe. Amidſt the innumerable concourſe of people, not one offered to make the attempt, though the reward was ſo conſiderable. A countryman happening to come by juſt at the time, and hearing of the enterprize propoſed, and the reward, he ſteps into a boat, and by dexterity and ſtrength gains the middle of the river; then laying the boat under the houſe cloſe to the arch, ſtaid till all the family, old and young, ſliding down a rope, were got into the boat. Now, ſaid he, chear up, you are ſafe. Then betaking himſelf to his oars again, he ſtems the force of the current, and gets on ſhore. Count Spolverini going up to him, ſaid, Thou art a brave worthy man, and here is the purſe for thee. The Countryman made anſwer, No Sir, I don't ſell my life, my labour provides for me and my wife and children; rather, if you pleaſe, give it to this poor family, who want it more than I do.

Montin's Poetique Francoiſe.

ALL Perſons who have neglected to pay their Country Rates, (that Doſephius Humphry, deceaſed, was appointed to collect) are requeſted to pay the ſame to the Subſcriber, within Ten Days, or they may expect to be diſtrained upon.

Daniel Butler.

Hartford, December 17, 1764.

Whereas we the Subſcribers,

were ſome time ſince, agreeable to the act made for relief of inſolvent debtors, appointed aſſignees of all the eſtate of Daniel Newcomb, of Hebron, in the county of Hartford, an inſolvent debtor, and to make a dividend of the ſame, to and among his ſeveral creditors, as in, and by ſaid act is eſpecially provided. And whereas we have carefully examined, and ſought after the eſtate of him the ſaid Daniel, can as yet find nothing whereof to make diſtribution or diviſion, to and among his Creditors, as aforeſaid. Hebron, December 8, 1764.

OBADIAH HORSFORD }
JOHN PHELPS, Jun. } Aſſignees.

All Perſons indebted to the

Subſcriber, either by Note or Book, are deſir'd to ſettle the ſame by the laſt of this Month, or they may depend on a very diſagreeable Compliment.

JOHN COLEMAN.

William Ellery,

ONCE more requeſts all thoſe who are ſtill indebted to the Eſtate of Mr. John Ellery, deceas'd, immediately to pay their reſpective Ballances, or they will be ſued to January Court, without Diſtinction.

Benjamin Henſhaw,

HEREBY informs the public, That he intends ſetting up a public vendue, at his chamber over his ſtore, in Middletown, on Tueſday evenings, to begin at duſk. That he has more than Three Hundred Pounds Lawful Money in Goods, of various kinds, already put into his hands for ſale that way; and ſtands ready to take in any ſort of goods or eſtate to ſell for any perſon who ſhall ſee fit to employ him on low commiſſions:—And will pay them their caſh within forty-eight hours after the ſale.

The conditions of ſale, will be as follows, viz.

I. That the higheſt bidder ſhall be the purchaſer. And if a diſpute ariſe between two bidders, the article in diſpute ſhall be put up again.

II. That earneſt money ſhall be paid down by the purchaſer, two ſhillings on twenty, and ſo in proportion to the purchaſe.

III. That the maſter ſhall not bid without the conſent of the company.

IV. That every bidder ſhall bid three pence on five ſhillings, ſix pence on ten ſhillings, and one ſhiling on twenty ſhillings.

V. That every purchaſer ſhall pay for his goods ſo purchaſed, and take them away within thirty hours after; on forfeiture of his earneſt money.——Conſtant attendance will be given at ſaid chamber, the next day after ſale, for the delivery of goods ſold.

VI. That no underbidder ſhall be employed by any perſon having goods there for ſale, upon penalty of the forfeiture of ſuch goods to the company then preſent, upon the diſcovery and proof made.

And as no under bidder will be countenanced or allowed, as mean and diſhonorable; ſo it will be look'd upon as mean and baſe for the company to get together, and agree not to bid on one another, in order to get the goods at too great an under-value.———

As this vendue is ſet up on principles of honor, it is hoped it will meet with ſuitable encouragement.

Among the goods to be ſold at vendue, are the following, viz.

BROAD cloths, ratteens, bearſkins, german ſerges, ſingle and double ruſſel, callamanco, black, blue and ſcarlet, worſted and hair pluſh, velvet veſt patterns, thick ſetts, ſhalloons, durants, &c. Diaper napkins, table cloths, white callicoes, lawn border'd handkerchiefs, linnen ditto, Iriſh hollands, men's and women's white and colour'd gloves, men and women, boys and girls ſtockings, women's Engliſh brocaded ruſſel ſhoes, of Hoſe's make, men's worſted caps, a variety of white wax beads, and other necklaces, a large parcel of hatter's trimmings, as linings, worſted and ſilk loopings, buttons, frogs, &c. a large ſtock of paper for papering of rooms, of various qualities, buck and fawn ſkins, nearly dreſſed with the hair on, for waiſtcoats, leather breeches, fire ſhovels and tongs, cloth, table, tooth, comb, ſhoe, hearth and ſcrubing bruſhes, barber's hair, ſtrops, raſors, bruſhes, ribbons, &c. with travelling boxes & bruſhes for barbers & others, watchmaker's bruſhes, glaſſes, ſtrings, ſeals, keys, &c. joyner's and carpenter's rules, chiſels, gouges, ſaws, files, &c. locks, and hinges, ſmall nails and brads; with many other goods in the hard ware way, and ſundry ſhoemaker's tools——part of a ſet of blackſmith's tools, ſundry ſecond hand and new houſhold furniture, as braſs kettles, looking-glaſſes, tables, chairs &c. a good riding chair, with a top to take off, and good tackling, a new ſilver watch with a china face; and many other things too many to be enumerated here.

N. B. The ſaid vendue opens the firſt Tueſday evening in January next.

⁂ Said HENSHAW has to ſell in his ſtore, under ſaid chamber, a freſh aſſortment of Engliſh, Weſt, and Eaſt India goods;—and particularly a large quantity of goods ſuitable for the ſeaſon. To be ſold on the very loweſt rates for the CASH, and low on ſhort credit, or pork, grain, flax-ſeed, or other country produce. He deſires all perſons that have been indebted to him more than ſix months, either by book or note that they will immediately pay him, as he can wait no longer. He gives caſh for pork.

STray'd from ſaid Henſhaw, laſt ſummer, a mare colt, paſt 3 years old, brown colour, a ſtar in her face, never dock'd nor ſhod, ſmall of her age, has the ſcar of a wound in her left thigh, under her dock. Whoever ſhall take up and bring ſaid colt to the ſaid Henſhaw, ſhall have twenty ſhillings reward, and all neceſſary charges paid.

Middletown, December 15, 1764.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown, near the North Meeting-Houſe.

MONDAY, December 31, 1764. [Number 6.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

LONDON, October 8.

Extract of a Letter from Algiers, September 12.

NEAR eight hundred ſlaves are conſtantly employed here in making a back water ſufficient to contain the whole Algerine navy, ſecure from the effects of a bombardment, and ſtrongly flank'd with nine batteries of heavy cannon. Perhaps you may wonder how this petty ſtate is bold enough to maintain almoſt conſtant hoſtilities with half the naval powers of Europe; but ſo long as they continue to be ſupplied with ammunition and warlike ſtores from the other half, with whom they are at peace, it is no ſurprize they ſhould ridicule the report that Spain in conjunction with the ſtates of Italy, are arming on an expedition againſt them. Europe has ſeen a much more formidable power than Spain can pretend to, ſome years ago, and even at this juncture, trifled with, after a long diſpute about an illegal capture by the Algerine Dey.

Letters from Vienna, of the 22d ult. adviſe, that by the Ottoman Porte delaying the renewal of the treaty with the Empreſs Queen, and the Turks tranſporting of troops from Aſia into Europe, and their ſending large quantities of artillery and other warlike ſtores into Hungary, alarms the Auſtrian court and miniſtry greatly, which has been the chief motive of ſuch a great number of Auſtrian troops being ſent into Hungary, Croatia, Sclavonia, &c.

We hear commiſſions are come over from Jamaica to ſhip by the firſt opportunity, goods proper for the Spaniſh market, to the value of 90,000l.

Mr. Wilkes continues in very good health at Paris, and in his uſual great ſpirits. He complains indeed that every change of weather affects his ſide.

A gentleman who has been at ſome pains to enumerate the ſeveral accounts we have had of the French and Spaniſh navy, by preparations, ſince the peace, obſerves, that allowing the ſaid accounts to be true, both theſe powers muſt have made a ſurprizing progreſs indeed, as in that caſe France will be found to be now actually poſſeſs'd of 112 ſhips of the line, 43 frigates, beſides ſloops: and the Spaniſh navy, by the ſame calculation will amount to 71 ſhips of the line, and 55 frigates, &c.—Our correſpondent adds, that ſetting aſide the frequent and alarming paragraphs from Breſt, Toulon, Rochfort, and other capital ſeaports of France, as extravagant, and allowing that every court engaged in the late war are endeavouring, by various arts of policy, to recover thoſe ſpirits and vigour, which that war had almoſt exhauſted; nevertheleſs, France has ſuch natural advantages over her neighbours, that there are grounds to ſuſpect ſhe will ſooner accompliſh this great end, than any other chriſtian power, unleſs our partial prejudice ſhould induce us to except ourſelves.

To the Printer of the Public Ledger.

THE following Extract is taken from a letter, which I have juſt now received, from a Gentleman of undoubted veracity at Santa Cruz, (a Daniſh Iſland in the Weſt Indies.)

"THE prohibition lately laid by Great-Britain, on the "trade of its ſeveral colonies in this part of the world "is likely to be attended with the moſt fatal effects to the "ſubjects of that kingdom. It has already induced the French "to declare two of their Iſlands free ports; and the Danes "are now going to declare the Iſlands of Saint Thomas and "Saint John, free ports likewiſe, in imitation of ſo ſenſible an "example; by which means the Spaniards will be plentifully "ſupplied with whatever they want of European growth or "manufacture; and the immenſe ſums be engroſſed by the "French and Danes for the various neceſſaries, which 'til the "late act of parliament, were intirely laid out with the people "of England. Saint Thomas's will certainly be a great Mart "of trade, when free, as the Spaniards are every day coming "to Santa Cruz for goods, which are not to be got without "many difficulties, as we are under a neceſſity, from a total "want of the neceſſary commodities ourſelves, to ſmuggle "them continually from St. Kitt's and Antigua."

Amongſt the numberleſs complaints which have been brought to the bar of the public, againſt the preſent adminiſtration, I know of nothing which has been ſo ſlenderly ſupported, or which ought to deſerve a greater ſhare of the national attention, than the reſtrictions lately laid upon our American colonies.—The continuation of the land tax, and the extenſion of exciſe, are evils of a leſs dangerous tendency, for theſe can only affect us at home; whereas the reſtriction of our North-American commerce, not only prejudices the Mother country in a [illegible] ner to the opulence of our natural enemies: In fact, Sir, the ſyſtem of politics, by which our affairs is regulated, cannot but be looked upon in an extraordinary light.—We throw away millions of money, and oceans of blood, to get the poſſeſſion of ſettlements in America; yet no ſooner are theſe poſſeſſions in our hands, than we contrive by every method to render them totally uſeleſs, inſtead of labouring to turn them to any profitable account.—'Til the late act of parliament, prohibiting all intercourſe between our North-American colonies and the ſettlements of any other nation in that quarter of the world, our colonies continually purchaſed immenſe quantities of manufacture from the mother country, and ſold them to a very great advantage to the Spaniſh and other Iſlands, by which means the mother country was equally a gainer with the colonies in that trade; and conſequently her intereſt obliged her at all events to carry it on: The act of parliament, however, has at once put a ſtop to all the benefits which we enjoy'd in this reſpect, and the very ſame adminiſtration which, at the concluſion of the peace, ſo liberally reſtored all the ſettlements of the French, have now put a finiſhing hand to the work, as if they had not done enough in that infamous treaty,——and provided an infallible expedient for beggaring the principal of our own.

'Tis no wonder, Mr. Printer, that ſuch a number of deſperate ruffians are eternally infeſting our roads, or ſuch crowds of beggars ſhould be conſtantly found in our ſtreets. The trade between our North-American colonies, and the Spaniſh and other iſlands, furniſhed theſe unhappy people with ſufficient employment.—That trade being once cut off, they are ſtript of their bread, and [illegible] reduces them to prowl for a ſubſiſtance, without any conſideration of means.—Unleſs the legiſlative power is very ſpeedy in remedying ſo great an evil, we muſt naturally look for the moſt diſagreeable conſequences; the French, Daniſh and Dutch free ports, will entirely engroſs the Spaniſh trade; and our very colonies themſelves will be obliged, in their own defence, to eſtabliſh manufactories of all ſorts, to ſupply their immediate neceſſities; ſince it is impoſſible they can continue their former commerce with the Mother country, when they are diveſted of the Spaniſh traffic which was the only means they had of carrying it on.——Thus, Mr. Printer, has this act of parliament turned all the Spaniſh wealth into the hands of our national rivals and enemies; and even materially leſſened the dependence which our colonies had upon us, by driving them to a neceſſity of ſupplying all thoſe wants at home, which were formerly adminiſtered to them by the Mother country.

Your's, &c.

A BRITISH MERCHANT.

From the Public Ledger, October 10.

I HAVE not language to deſcribe the horror and remorſe, in which a late affair has involved me, and would to God I had been ignorant of both the cauſe and conſequences of it. I am a young fellow ſcarce nineteen, apprenticed to an eminent merchant in this city, and have for ſome months paſt unhappily indulged myſelf in every kind of licentiouſneſs, eſpecially with the abandoned of the other ſex, ſeldom neglecting any opportunity of frequenting the moſt infamous brothels. During my Maſter's excurſions to his country houſe, lately, my whole attention has been engroſſed by a moſt beautiful creature, not more than ſixteen years of age. Laſt Monday I went as uſual with rapture to the infernal houſe ſhe was kept at; but how is it poſſible for me to expreſs the diſtraction and aſtoniſhment which ſeized me, when I was informed, that the amiable wretch died the preceeding Friday evening, and died in ſo ſhocking a manner that humanity muſt ſhudder at the bar of imagination; and the boſoms of the guilty be almoſt maddened at the thought! She was taken ill on Friday morning, and immediately declared ſhe knew herſelf ſtruck with death, and damned to all eternity. In her ravings, ſhe repeatedly cried, that the Devil had told her ſo, and that he would drag her to endleſs torture at ſix o'clock: her agonies were inexpreſſible, ſo that even the wretches her accomplices were ſo much affected at it, as to mention a neceſſity of ſending for a clergyman; but the miſerable girl, with ſcreams of horror, exclaim'd, nothing could ſave her; that the fatal ſentence was already pronounced; and that there was no poſſibility of forgiveneſs or eſcape. The man who kept the houſe deſired earneſtly to ſee her, but ſhe would by no means conſent to his requeſt: "Tell him (ſays ſhe) that I curſe him in "the bitterneſs of heart, and wiſh, with my lateſt breath that "he may very ſoon follow me to endleſs miſery; It is to him "I owe my deſtruction; he firſt ſeduced me to guilt and ruin, when I was but 13 years of age.—Perdition, no doubt, "will be his portion, as well as the lot of numbers beſides, "who, like him, have laboured for the deſtruction of innocence and virtue."——She ſeveral times jumped out of bed, and ſcreaming in a moſt dreadful manner, cried out, "You ſhall not have me yet, it is not ſix o'clock."—She continued raving in this ſhocking manner till the hour ſhe mentioned, and then expired. I aſſure you, Mr. Printer, every circumſtance I have mentioned is an abſolute fact, and I make no doubt but that you may be ſatisfied of the truth of it yourſelf upon inquiry. My own reflections almoſt make me mad! Good God! if ſuch is the end of the ſeduced, what muſt be that of the ſeducers, and thoſe who aid and aſſiſt them in the road to perdition? This laſt crime, with ſhame and ſorrow I confeſs I have been moſt notoriouſly guilty of. But I have ever revered a virtuous woman, and cannot accuſe myſelf of betraying unſuſpecting innocence; my crimes want not this addition; they are already ſufficient to make me wiſh I had never been indued with reaſon and underſtanding, ſince I have ſo unhappily miſapplied them. This melancholly affair has left ſuch an impreſſion on my mind, as I believe never can be effaced.

[illegible] Morey Esq.

S—— W——.

LONDON, October 1.

Extract of a private letter from a gentleman at Dijon to his friend at London, dated Auguſt 5, 1764.

"Since my arrival here, there has been a man broke on the wheel, with no other Proof to condemn him than that of a Water Spanil about the ſize of your's; the circumſtances attending being ſo very ſingular and ſtriking, I beg leave to communicate them to you.—A farmer, who had been to receive a ſum of money, was waylaid, robbed, and murdered by two villains: The farmer's dog returned with all ſpeed to the gentleman's houſe who had paid the money, and expreſſed ſuch amazing anxiety for the gentleman to follow him, pulling him ſeveral times by the ſleeve and ſkirt of his coat, that at length the gentleman ſubmitted: The dog led him to the field, a little from the road ſide, where the body lay; from thence the gentleman went to a public houſe, in order to alarm the country: The moment he entered, (as the two villains were drinking) the dog ſeized the murderer by the throat and the other made his eſcape. This man lay in priſon three months, during which time they viſited him once a week with the dog: and tho' they made him change his cloaths with other priſoners, and always ſtood in the midſt of a croud, yet would the dog find him out, and always fly at him. On the day of trial, when the priſoner was at the bar, the dog was let looſe into the court houſe, and in the midſt of ſome hundreds he always found him out, (tho' dreſſed entirely in new cloaths) and would have torn him to pieces, had he been allowed: in conſequence of which, he was condemned, and at the place of execution, confeſſed the fact.——Surely ſo uſeful, ſo diſintereſtedly faithful an animal, ſhould not be ſo barbarouſly treated as I have often ſeen them, particularly in London."——

Yeſterday the commiſſioners of the victualling office contracted for 600 oxen and 2000 hogs, to be delivered for the ſervice of his Majeſty's navy.

Tueſday morning, about five o'clock, three perſons (committed for various offences) found means to break out of Bridewell, one of them was a tailor with one leg, and another one Weſt, a notorious pickpocket, who had been double ironed, and the fetters rivetted. Not above three hours after their eſcape, Weſt ſent back the irons in an handkerchief, with a letter, in which he ſaid he was much obliged to the keeper for the uſe of them, but now had no further occaſion for them.

NEW-YORK, December 20.

On Monday laſt was held a Meeting of the ſociety for promoting Arts, Agriculture and Oeconomy, in this Province, when the Committee for arts made their report, which being conſidered by the Society, the following Articles and premiums were agreed to and ordered to be publiſhed, viz.

FOR the greateſt Quantity of Pot-Aſh, (not leſs than five Tons) made in this Province, in the Year 1765,	Thirty Pounds.
For the greateſt Quantity of Linen Yarn, ſpun under the Direction of one Perſon in this Province, in 1765. Regard being had to the Quality,	Thirty Pounds.
For the Second Ditto	Twenty Five Pounds.
For the Third Do.	Twenty Pounds.
For the Fourth Do.	Fifteen Pounds.
For the Fifth Do.	Ten Pounds.
For the greateſt Quantity of Linen Cloth, made under the Direction of one Perſon, in this Province, in 1765, (Regard being had to the Quality,	Twenty five Pounds.
For the ſecond Ditto,	Twenty Pounds.
For the third Do.	Fifteen Pounds.
For the fourth Do.	Ten Pounds.
For the fifth Do.	Five Pounds.
For the greateſt Quantity of Tow Cloth, made under the Direction of one Perſon in this Province, in 1765,	Fifteen Pounds.
For the ſecond Ditto,	Ten Pounds.
For the third Do.	Five Pounds.
For the greateſt Quantity of Wove Thread Stockings, (not leſs than three Threads) made under the Direction of one Perſon in this Province, in 1765,	Sixteen Pounds.
For the ſecond Ditto,	Twelve Pounds.
For tanning the beſt 20 Hides of Bend Leather, in this Province, in 1765,	Twenty Pounds.
For tanning the beſt Sole Leather, (not leſs than 50 Hides,) in 1766,	Ten Pounds.
For the beſt made 100 Pair of Women's Shoes, the Soles to be of Leather, tanned in this Province, and covered in Stuff,	Ten Pounds.
For the beſt dreſſed 100 Deer Skins for Breeches,	Ten Pounds
For the beſt made 100 Pair of Beaver Skin Gloves,	Ten Pounds.
For making the greateſt Quantity of good Pan Tiles, (not leſs than Thirty Thouſand) in the Year 1765,	Twenty Five Pounds.
For raiſing from the Quarry and manufacturing, and bringing to this Market, in 1765, the greateſt Quantity of good Slate (not leſs than two Hundred ſquares) for covering Houſes,	Twenty Five Pounds.
For curing the greateſt Quantity of Sturgeon, (not leſs than 100 Kegs)	Twenty Pounds.
For the greateſt Quantity of Whale Oil made in 1765, and brought to this Market, being the Produce of Whales, taken by the Crew of any Veſſel belonging to this Port,	One Hundred and Fifty Dollars
For the ſecond Ditto,	One Hundred Dollars.
For the third Do.	Seventy Five Dollars.

Which laſt three premiums are to be divided among the reſpective Owners and Crews.

——The Mode of proof, to entitle reſpective Gainers to the above Bounties will be hereafter publiſhed in the News papers.

Time not permitting to determine upon the Bounties, recommended in the Report of the Committee for Agriculture; the conſideration thereof was referred to the next Meeting.

Upon the Report made by the Committee for Schemes of Oeconomy, the Society came to the following Reſolutions—to wit.

That no Member of the Society, after ſix Months, on the Death of any Relation put himſelf in Mourning.

That to retrench the ill-timed and pernicious Extravagance of our Funerals, no Member give any Scarfs, (except to the Clergy) nor hot Wine to any Perſon whatever.

That no Member do receive into his ſervice any Overſeer, or Gardiner, or white ſervant, Male or Female, who ſhall not be able to produce a Recommendation in Writing, from the Maſter or Miſtreſs, whom they laſt ſerved in this Colony.

And Notice is hereby given, that there will be a Meeting of the Society, on Monday Evening next, at 6 o'Clock, at Mr. Francis's Publiſhed by Order of the ſociety.

BENJAMIN KISSAM, Secretary.

New-York, December 17, 1764.

Laſt week a man of a pretty good appearance, went to ſeveral ſhops in town, where he choſe and agreed for goods to a conſiderable value, which he deſired to be pack'd up and got ready for him by the time he ſhould call for them, which was to be in a few hours; but from each place he took away with him ſome articles which he pretended an immediate occaſion for, and was to pay for with the reſt. By this contrivance he carried off from ſeveral places, where he took care to call no more; but at laſt being diſcovered, or ſuſpected, he was laſt monday taken up and carried before a magiſtrate who committed him to goal.

The ſame day two perſons in town had their pockets pick'd and we hear, that of late ſeveral others have been ſerved in the ſame manner.——It is therefore neceſſary for all people to be careful of their pockets, eſpecially when in a crowd.

HARTFORD, December 31.

We hear from Simsbury, that a few days ago, Deacon Oliver Humphry of that place, was ſo much wounded by the fall of a tree, that his life was deſpaired of.

[As neither of the Poſts are arrived, the Publication of this Paper will be deferred till To-Morrow.]

December 26, 1764.

To the PRINTER.

Pleaſe to inſert in your Weekly Paper, a further Account of TEA, &c. taken from the Authors undermentioned, and you will oblige a Friend and Cuſtomer.

"TEA (ſays Doct Quincy) is admirably grateful to the Smell and Taſte; and carries an agreable Roughneſs along with it into the Stomach; which gently aſtringes the Fibres, and gives them ſuch a Tenſity as is requiſite to a good Digeſtion. It is one of the beſt, pleaſanteſt and ſafeſt Herbs, that was perhaps ever introduced into Food or Medicine; and in the frequent Uſe of which Perſons generally enjoy a confirmed Health."

"There have not wanted (ſays Doct. Cheyne) learned Phyſicians who have aſcribed the frequency of nervous Diſtempers of late, eſpecially among the fair Sex to Tea, Coffee, Chocolate and Snuff: I would not affirm that there could be no Abuſes of theſe, otherwiſe innocent Foods or Amuſements; but they are ſo weak, inſenſible and tranſitory, if they meet with Conſtitutions tollerably clean and healthy, that whoever would attribute any conſiderable Diſorder to them, argues with as much Reaſon and true Philoſophy, as he who aſcribes his good Liquor intirely to the Yeaſt, or other Helps of its Fermentation; or the Death of a Man kill'd by a Gun ſhot, to the Paper or Tow, that held down the Bullet: Health and Life, however frail and brittle, are too ſtrong Forts to be taken or deſtroyed by ſuch punny and inſufficient Pop-Gun Artillery."

WHEREAS we the ſubſcribers, were, ſome time ſince, agreeable to the act made for relief of inſolvent debtors, appointed aſſignees of all the eſtate of Benjamin Allin, Joſeph Rockwell, and Daniel Hayden, all of Windſor, inſolvent debtors, & to make a dividend of the ſame, to and among the ſeveral creditors, as in and by ſaid act is eſpecially provided.——And whereas we have carefully examin'd and ſought after the eſtate of them the ſaid Joſeph Rockwell, Benjamin Allin, and Daniel Hayden, can as yet find nothing of the eſtate of ſaid Rockwell, and ſaid Hayden, whereof to make diſtribution or diviſion to and among the creditors, as aforeſaid. And we the ſubſcribers, have appointed to meet on ſaid buſineſs at the houſe of Henry Allin, inn holder in ſaid Windſor, on the 10th of January next, and on the firſt Mondays of the three following months; and ſtand ready on ſaid firſt Monday of January, to make the firſt diviſion of the eſtate of ſaid Benjamin Allin. Dated in Windſor, December, 28th, 1764.

DANIEL BISSEL,
ROGER NEWBURY } Aſſignees.

WHereas we the ſubſcribers, agreeable to the act made for the relief of inſolvent debtors, were appointed aſſignees of all the eſtate of Deacon Medinah Fitch, of Windſor, in the county of Hartford, an inſolvent debtor, and to make a dividend of the ſame to and among his ſeveral creditors, as in and by ſaid act is eſpecially provided. And whereas we have carefully examined and got as much of the eſtate into our hands as can be found, which will not half pay us the ſubſcribers for our trouble and charge; we appoint the 31ſt of December inſtant, to produce our accounts, at the houſe of Mr. John Taylor, in Windſor, if any of the creditors ſee cauſe.

Ebenezer Ruſſel,
John M'Knight, | Aſſignees.

December Firſt, 1764.

POST-OFFICE, Hartford, December 31, 1764.

ALL Perſons indebted to the Subſcriber for Poſtage of Letters, are deſired to pay the ſame immediately, to prevent Trouble.

No Letters will be delivered to any Perſon whatever, after the Sixth Day of next Month, unleſs the Poſtage is firſt paid.

JOHN WALKER, D. P. Mr.

TUESDAY, January 1, 1765.

POSTSCRIPT.

HARTFORD, January 1, 1765.

We hear from Sharon, that a Girl of that place, twelve years old, and ſmall of her age, was a few days ago delivered of a Son, weighing when it was born, near fourteen pounds, and that the mother and child are likely to do well. A rare inſtance of the prolific conſtitutions of the country.

As it is a matter of importance, that a road ſhould be kept open through the Green-Woods, to Canaan and Saliſbury; eſpecially ſince there has been a furnace erected in the latter, from whence the principal refiners in the colony are ſupplied; we have the pleaſure to inform the public, that a number of publick-ſpirited Gentlemen ſet out from thoſe towns, with eleven ſleys, on Friday laſt, and broke a path to New-Hartford, through the Green-Woods, and that they returned on Saturday, after the ſtorm. 'Tis to be hoped that others will do likewiſe, on the different roads, for the benefit of travellers, at this difficult ſeaſon.

Saliſbury, December 26. A few days ago, as a man was going up a pair of ſtares, with a bag of [illegible] on his ſhoulders, he accidentally ſlipt, and broke one of his legs ſhort off, but being immediately aſſiſted by a very able ſurgeon, he could walk again within twenty-four hours as well as uſual.

VII o'clock Afternoon, the Poſts not arrived.

The following HYMN was ſung in St. Andrew's Church Symsbury, upon Chriſtmaſs-Day laſt; being compoſed that Time and Place.

From ISAIAH IX. 6 and 7.

TO us, THIS DAY, a Child is born,
To us a Son is giv'n,
On whom ſhall reſt the Government,
And Rule of Earth and Heav'n.

His Name ſhall be the Wonderful,
The Great and mighty Lord,
The wiſe and prudent Counſeller,
The true, incarnate Word.

The high and everlaſting GOD,
The Prince of Joy and Peace;
His Goſpel ſhall forever ſpread,
His Reign ſhall never ceaſe.

Peace ſhall be multiply'd on Earth,
Good-Will among Mankind;
From his Example ſhall prevail,
And fill the human Mind.

On David's Throne, in David's Stead,
He proſp'rouſly ſhall reign;
His Scepter ſway in Righteouſneſs,
O'er Heav'n and Earth and Main.

In perfect Harmony and Peace,
His Kingdom ſhall ſucceed,
With a kind Shepherd's tender Care,
The Saints (his Sheep) he'll feed.

Firmly eſtabliſh'd ſhall his Throne,
On Truth and Judgment ſtand;
Eaſy and light ſhall be his Yoke,
And gentle his Command.

This, GOD has ſworn, who to his Oaths
Has infinite Reſpect;
And what with Love he promiſed,
With Zeal he will effect.

WHereas the eſtate of Lieut. David Andrus, late of Farmington, in Hartford diſtrict, deceas'd, has been repreſented to the honorable court of Probates for ſaid diſtrict, to be inſolvent; whereupon ſaid court did appoint us the ſubſcribers commiſſioners to receive and examine the claims of the ſeveral creditors to ſaid eſtate, and make our report thereon to ſaid court, within nine Months. We do therefore, hereby notify all the ſeveral creditors to ſaid eſtate, to bring in their claims and demands, on the laſt Monday of January next, at one o'clock afternoon, at the dwelling houſe of Daniel Curtis, in ſaid Farmington, where we ſhall attend ſaid buſineſs. Dated at Farmington, November 26. 1764.

SOLOMON WHITMAN,
DANIEL CURTIS,
JAMES JUDD. } Commiſſioners.

Benjamin Henſhaw,

HEREBY informs the public, That he intends ſetting up a public vendue, at his chamber over his ſtore, in Middletown, on Tueſday evenings, to begin at duſk. That he has more than Three Hundred Pounds Lawful Money in Goods, of various kinds, already put into his hands for ſale that way; and ſtands ready to take in any ſort of goods or eſtate to ſell for any perſon who ſhall ſee fit to employ him on low commiſſions.—And will pay them their caſh within forty-eight hours after the ſale.

The conditions of ſale, will be as follows, viz.

I. That the higheſt bidder ſhall be the purchaſer. And if a diſpute ariſe between two bidders, the article in diſpute ſhall be put up again.

II. That earneſt money ſhall be paid down by the purchaſer, two ſhillings on twenty, and ſo in proportion to the purchaſe.

III. That the maſter ſhall not bid without the conſent of the company.

IV. That every bidder ſhall bid three pence on five ſhillings, ſix pence on ten ſhillings, and one ſhilling on twenty ſhillings.

V. That every purchaſer ſhall pay for his goods ſo purchaſed, and take them away within thirty hours after, on forfeiture of his earneſt money.——Conſtant attendance will be given at ſaid chamber, the next day after ſale, for the delivery of goods ſold.

VI. That no underbidder ſhall be employed by any perſon having goods there for ſale, upon penalty of the forfeiture of ſuch goods to the company then preſent, upon the diſcovery and proof made.

And as no under-bidder will be countenanced or allowed, as mean and diſhonourable; ſo it will be look'd upon as mean and baſe for the company to get together, and agree not to bid on one another, in order to get the goods at too great an under value.——

As this vendue is ſet up on principles of honor, it is hoped it will meet with ſuitable encouragement.

Among the goods to be ſold at vendue, are the following, viz.

BROAD cloths, ratteens, bearſkins, german ſerges, ſingle and double ruſſel, callamanco, black, blue and ſcarlet, worſted and hair pluſh, velvet veſt patterns, thick ſetts, ſhalloons, durants, &c. Diaper napkins, table cloths, white callicoes, lawn border'd handkerchiefs, linnen ditto, Iriſh hollands, men's and women's white and colour'd gloves, men and women, boys and girls ſtockings, women's Engliſh brocaded ruſſel ſhoes, of Hoſe's make, men's worſted caps, a variety of white wax beads, and other necklaces, a large parcel of hatter's trimmings, as hatings, worſted and ſilk loopings, buttons, frogs, &c. a large ſtock of paper for papering of rooms, of various qualities, buck and fawn ſkins, neatly dreſſed with the hair on, for waiſtcoats, leather breeches, fire ſhovels and tongs, cloth, table, tooth, comb, ſhoe, hearth and ſcrubing bruſhes, barber's hair, ſtrops, raſors, bruſhes, ribbons, &c. with travelling boxes & bruſhes for barbers & others, watchmaker's bruſhes, glaſſes, ſtrings, ſeals, keys, &c. joyner's and carpenter's rules, chizels, gouges, ſaws, files, &c. locks, and hinges, ſmall nails and brads; with many other goods in the hard ware way, and ſundry ſhoemaker's tools——part of a ſet of blackſmith's tools, ſundry ſecond hand and new houſhold furniture, as braſs kettles, looking-glaſſes, tables, chairs &c. a good riding chair, with a top to take off, and good tackling, a new ſilver watch with a china face; and many other things too many to be enumerated here.

N. B. The ſaid vendue opens the firſt Tueſday evening in January next.

, Said HENSHAW has to ſell in his ſtore, under ſaid chamber, a freſh aſſortment of Engliſh, Weſt and Eaſt India goods;—and particularly a large quantity of goods ſuitable for the ſeaſon. To be ſold on the very loweſt rates for the CASH, and low on ſhort credit, or pork, grain, flax-ſeed, or other country produce. He deſires all perſons that have been indebted to him more than ſix months, either by book or note that they will immediately pay him, as he can wait no longer. He gives caſh for pork.

All Perſons indebted to the Subſcriber, either by Note or Book, are deſir'd to ſettle the ſame by the laſt of this Month, or they may depend on a very diſagreeable Compliment.

JOHN COLEMAN.

Whereas we the Subſcribers, were ſome time ſince, agreeable to the act made for relief of inſolvent debtors, appointed aſſignees of all the eſtate of Daniel Newcomb, of Hebron, in the county of Hartford, an inſolvent debtor, and to make a dividend of the ſame, to and among his ſeveral creditors, as in, and by ſaid act is eſpecially provided. And whereas we have carefully examined, and ſought after the eſtate of him the ſaid Daniel, can as yet find nothing whereof to make diſtribution or diviſion, to and among his Creditors, as aforeſaid. Hebron, December 8, 1764.

OBADIAH HORSFORD } Aſſignees.
JOHN PHELPS, Jun.

William Ellery,

ONCE more requeſts all thoſe who are ſtill indebted to the Eſtate of Mr. John Ellery, deceas'd, immediately to pay their reſpective Ballances, or they will be ſued to January Court, without Diſtinction. 3

WHEREAS we the ſubſcribers were, ſome time ſince, agreeable to the act made for relief of inſolvent debtors, appointed aſſignees of all the eſtate of Iſaac Pitkin, of Hartford, an inſolvent debtor, and to make a dividend of the ſame, to and among his ſeveral creditors, as in and by ſaid act is eſpecially provided. And whereas we have carefully examined and ſought after the eſtate of him the ſaid Iſaac Pitkin, can as yet find nothing whereof to make diſtribution or diviſion to and among his creditors as aforeſaid. And we the ſubſcribers have appointed to meet on ſaid buſineſs at the houſe of Daniel Pitkin, inn-holder in ſaid Hartford, on the firſt Monday of January next, and ſo on the firſt Monday of every month till April. Hartford, December the 22d 1764.

WILLIAM STANLEY, } Aſſignees.
SAMUEL WELLS.

WHEREAS we the ſubſcribers, were, ſome time ſince, agreeable to the act made for the relief of inſolvent debtors, appointed aſſignees of all the eſtate of Doct. Robert Brownlie, of Windſor, in the county of Hartford, an inſolvent debtor, to make a dividend of the ſame, to and among his ſeveral creditors, as in and by ſaid act is provided.——And whereas we have carefully examin'd and ſought after the eſtate of him the ſaid Robert, can as yet find nothing whereof to make diviſion to and among his creditors, nor even ſufficient to pay our own coſt. And ſaid creditors are hereby notified, that we ſhall meet at the houſe of Mr. John Taylor inn-holder in Windſor aforeſaid, on the laſt Monday in Dec. inſtant, where we ſhall be ready to ſhew to any of ſaid creditors, our doings in ſaid affair. Dated at Windſor, the 6th Day of December, 1764.

ABNER BURROUGHS, } Aſſignees
5 JOSEPH HARPER, jun.

TO BE SOLD, to the higheſt bidder, on Thurſday the 31ſt Day of January, 1765 in Middletown, the dwelling-houſe lately in the poſſeſſion of Capt. Charles Hobby Hubbard, 2 large rooms below well finiſhed, and a kitchen on the Weſt ſide, together with half an acre of land, and the beſt well in town. Said houſe is ſituated on the Weſt ſide of the main ſtreet, a little North of the church. Conditions of ſale are ninety pounds down, and the remainder in ten days. The ſale to be held at ſaid houſe. 5

ALL Perſons indebted to the Subſcriber, by Book, are deſired to ſettle the ſame immediately, either by Caſh, or their Obligations; or they will be ſued without Exception; as he is about to remove into a diſtant Part of the Continent.

WILLIAM WHITING.

N. B. Any Kind of Proviſions will be accepted as Caſh.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Sign of the Heart and Crown, near the North Meeting-Houſe.

TUESDAY, January 8, 1765. [Number 7.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

A PRAYER. By M. de Voltaire.

Traite ſur la Tolerance, chap. xxiii.

NOT unto men, but unto thee, the God of all beings of all worlds, and of all ages, do I addreſs myſelf; if feeble creatures, loſt in thy immenſity, and imperceptible to the reſt of the univerſe, may preſume to aſk of thee any thing; of thee who haſt given all; of thee whoſe decrees are unchangeable, as they are eternal: Condeſcend to look in pity on the errors which are inſeperable from our nature, & let them not be to us the grounds of calamities. Thou haſt not given us hearts to hate one another, nor hands to cut one another's throats; grant that we may mutually aſſiſt one another to ſupport the burden of a painful and tranſitory life: Let not the little differences between the veſtments that cover our feeble bodies, between our defective languages, between our ridiculous cuſtoms, between our many imperfect laws, between our many fooliſh opinions, between our ſeveral conditions, ſo unequal in our eyes, and ſo equal in thine; let not the many little diſtinctions that denote the ſeveral claſſes of atoms called men, be ſignals of hatred and perſecution. May thoſe who light up wax tapers at noon day to celebrate thee, bear with thoſe who are content with the light of the ſun thou haſt placed in the firmament. Let not thoſe, who, to tell us we muſt love thee, cover their robe with white linen, hold in deteſtation thoſe who tell us the ſame in a cloak of black woolen. May it be the ſame to adore thee in a jargon formed from an ancient language, or in a jargon more modern. May thoſe whoſe veſtere is died with red or with purple, who rule over a ſmall parcel of a ſmall heap of the mud of this earth, and who poſſeſs ſome rounded bits of a certain metal, enjoy without pride what they call grandeur and riches; and may others behold them without envy: For thou knoweſt that in theſe vanities there is nothing to be envied, nothing to be proud of. May all men remember that they are brethren, may they abhor the tyranny that is exerciſed over the mind, as they execrate the violence that takes by force the fruit of labour and peaceful induſtry: If the ſcourge of war be neceſſary, let us not hate, let us not devour one another, in the midſt of peace; but let us employ our momentary exiſtence in bleſſing, equally in a thouſand different languages, from Siam to California, thy goodneſs which has given us this momentary exiſtence.

NEW-YORK,

December 27. On Tueſday Night, we had a very hard Gale of Wind, with much Snow; ſeveral Veſſels in the Harbour received much Damage—and one Ship overſet.

We hear from Wilmington, in Carolina, that Mr. Whitefield, is not drowned as was reported, but is gone to Charles-Town.

PROVIDENCE, December 15.

Friday the 7th inſtant departed this life, after a ſhort illneſs, at his houſe in Cranſton, in the fifty-ſecond year of his age Chriſtopher Lippitt, Eſq; a gentleman whoſe amiable deportment in life, juſtly gain'd him univerſal eſteem, and renders his death equally regretted.

NEW-LONDON,

December 14. At the Inferior Court held at Norwich, laſt Week, one Grace Edgecome, a young Woman late of this town, was convicted of Forgery, and ſentenced to be ſet in the Pillory three ſeveral Times; which Puniſhment has ſince been inflicted on her.

BOSTON, January 5, 1765.

We hear from Lynn, that on the 19th of laſt month, as Mr. Silsby Dymond was travelling in a chair, between Danvers and Wenham, juſt at the beginning of the evening, he was aſſaulted by two ruffins who ſtop'd his horſe and told him he muſt deliver all he had; but Dymond reſolutely reſiſted them, and knocked down both the fellows with the but end of his whip, and left them bleeding on the ground. By the diſcription he gives of them, they muſt be the ſame fellows who robbed miſs Jane Logane, going to Marblehead the 3d of December, as has been mentioned. It is probable they have the marks of the blows given by ſaid Dymond, whereby they may be diſcovered and brought to juſtice.

Tueſday evening the 25th ult. came on a violent ſtorm of ſnow, which continued all that night and moſt of the next day; the wind was very high at N. E. which drove the tide more than uſual into the harbour, and did ſome damage among the ſhipping, &c.

And we hear from Salem, that the ſame ſtorm was very violent there; 'tis ſaid the tide roſe higher than has been known for 20 years paſt, which did great damage to their wharves, ſtores, &c.—One gentleman alone loſt upwards of £. 200 ſterling, in ſugars, which were deſtroyed by the tide.

In the ſame ſtorm a new brig coming round from Newport to this place, was drove aſhore on Plumb-Iſland, and 'tis thought will not be got off.

A ſchooner, Capt. Brock, from this place bound to Nantucket, was caſt aſhore on the back of Cape-Ann, where 'tis probable ſhe will lay until ſpring.

In Capt. Robinſon came paſſenger, the Rev. Mr. John Lyon, who lately went from hence, for England, to receive epiſcopal ordination at Taunton in this province.

The Rev'd Mr. Frink, a miſſionary from the ſociety for the propagating the goſpel in foreign parts, took paſſage in Capt. Linney laſt week, and failed for South-Carolina, from whence he proceeds to Auguſta.

HARTFORD, January 8.

We hear from Suffield, that laſt Saturday, as Mr. Elijah Kent of that Place was ſleying Wood, he overtook a young Man on the Road, named Hardy, with a loaded Gun, going a gunning—Mr. Kent invited him to ride with him; but juſt as Mr. Hardy was ſtepping into the ſley, the Horſes took a Fright, which threw him down, and in endeavouring to recover, by ſome means the Gun catched in his Clothes, and went off, and the whole Charge, with the Wadd, went through the upper Part of one of Mr. Kent's Thighs, and wounded him ſo much, that his Life is in great Danger.

‖ The Boſton Poſt did'nt arrive till laſt Evening—The bad Travelling having prevented his getting in before.—As we had no Poſt from Boſton laſt Week, the Publication of this Paper was put off till To Day, that we might have an Opportunity to give our Readers the freſheſt Advices from that Quarter.

§‖ The Mails will be made up this Evening, and the Poſts ſet off early To Morrow Morning.

GROTON, December 12.

Mr. Robert Sandeman, on his Paſſage from Newport to Danbury, being detained by contrary winds at this place, preached laſt Saturday evening from Luke 17. 20, to 26, on Lord's day evening from Heb. 13. 7, 8, 9. and on Monday P. M. from 1 John 3. 23. At the two laſt meetings, he had many hearers. We are told he is to tarry at Danbury till April next.

Wethersfield, January, 1, 1765.

ALL perſons indebted to the eſtate of Mr. JOSEPH WEBB, late of Weathersfield, deceaſed, whither by note taken before or ſince his deceaſe; or by book account ſtill unſettled, are requeſted to ſettle and diſcharge the ſame immediately; Thoſe who neglect, muſt not take it unkind, to be put to charge, ſince their debts have been due three years, the greater part of them much longer, and the final ſettlement of ſaid eſtate has been put off on the ſame account. Alſo, thoſe who have dealt at the STORE, of the ſaid deceaſed, ſince his death, and have open accounts of one year's ſtanding, or upwards, are deſired to cloſe them by caſh, pork, Indian corn, rye, wheat or oats, or even notes of hand; which will oblige their humble ſervant,

SILAS DEANE.

SAID DEANE has to ſell a quantity of choice OLD BRANDY, which he will part with at a very low rate for caſh, either by the hogſhead, barrel or kegg. 7--12

ALL perſons Indebted to RALPH and ELEAZAR POMEROY, on Book, are deſired immediately to ſettle their Accounts.

Hartford, January 7, 1765.

From a late LONDON MAGAZINE.

[The Famous MAGPYE TRIAL of BRENTFORD.]

The trial of John Foſter, at the Old-Bailey, for Felony June 1, 1693, in the reign of William and Mary.

THE priſoner being brought from Newgate, to the bar at the Seſſions Houſe, the court proceeded on the trial as follows, after he had been arraigned on the indictment.

Clerk of the Crown. You, the priſoner at the bar, theſe men that you ſhall hear called, and perſonally do appear, are to paſs between our ſovereign lord and lady the king & queen and you, upon trial of life and death; if you will challenge them, or any of them, your time is to ſpeak to them as they come to the book to be ſworn, and before they are ſworn.

The priſoner made no exceptions, and 12 jurors were ſworn to try the iſſue.

Clerk of the Crown. John Foſter, hold up thy hand (which he did.)

Gentlemen of the jury, and you that are ſworn, look upon the priſoner, and hearken to his cauſe. He ſtands indicted by the name of John Foſter, of the pariſh of Hanwell, in the county of Middleſex, labourer, for that he, the 24th day of May, in the fifth year of the reign of our ſovereign lord and lady the king and queen, with force and arms, at the pariſh aforeſaid, one bird called a magpye, value two pence, and one bird-cage, value four pence, the goods and chattles of one Robert Connisbey, gent. then and there being found felloniouſly he did ſteal, take, and bear away, againſt the piece of our ſovereign lord and lady the king and queen, their crown and dignity, &c. To this indictment he hath pleaded not guilty, and for his trial he hath put himſelf upon God and his country, which country you are: Your buſineſs is to enquire whether he be guilty or not guilty; if you find him guilty, you are to enquire of his goods and chattles, and whether he fled for it; if you find him not guilty, nor that he did fly for it, ſay ſo, and no more, and hear your evidence.

Crier. Call Robert Connisbey, and Richard Seating, who appeared in court, and were ſworn, and Mr. Connisbey ſtood up.

Court. Come Sir, what have you to ſay againſt the priſoner at the bar, about a magpye that you loſt?

Mr. Connisbey. My lord, I have loſt a magpye and a cage, the 14th of May laſt, it was taken from my door, off the hook that it hung upon; but truly, my lord, I can't ſay the priſoner at the bar ſtole it from me.

Court. What made you bring him here then? It is a very ſmall, inconſiderable buſineſs, to put a man to Newgate for.

Connisbey. My lord, it was none of my doings, it was the juſtice of peace's fault that committed him, I was unwilling he ſhould go to priſon: I am ſorry it happened ſo, my lord.

Court. What is the juſtice of peace's name?

Connisbey. His name is Hawley, my lord.

Court. Pray where does he live?

Connisbey. At new Brentford.

Court. He was but a fooliſh man for his pains, to commit a poor fellow to goal for ſuch a trifling buſineſs as this is: He had better have ſent him to his captain, and let him have run the gantlet, &c. Have you any other witneſs, Sir?

Connisbey. I have no more, but the conſtable that took the priſoner.

Court. Took him, do you call it? why ſurely you had no great difficulty about the taking of him; he was not in ſuch fear as to run away for a magpye: However, we will hear the conſtable.

Clerk of the Crown. Stand up, Mr. Conſtable (which he did.)

Court. Is the conſtable ſworn?

Mr. Conſtable. Yes, my lord, I am ſworn.

Court. Come, Mr. Conſtable, what ſay you to the matter? Do you know the priſoner at the bar?

Conſtable. Yes, my lord, This gentleman brought me a warrant from Mr. Juſtice Hawley, againſt the priſoner at the bar, and I ſerved it at his quarters at Old Brentford, where I found the cage and a magpye, and I took them and the priſoner, and carried them before Mr. Juſtice Hawley, and his worſhip was pleaſed to commit him to priſon.

Court. Poor fellow; friend, how long haſt thou been in priſon?

Foſter. Almoſt three weeks, my lord; and I have endured a great deal of hardſhip, and many a hungry belly I am ſure, God help me; I am very poor, my lord.

Court. Hark you, Mr. Connisbey; pray what did the worthy juſtice of peace bid you do with the magpye, after he had committed the priſoner?

Connisbey. My lord, he ordered me to keep the magpye and the cage ſafe, till the biſhop of London's bailiff came for it, it being a waſte, he ſaid, it was forfeited to the lord of the manor (at which the court laughed heartily.)

Court. Pray Mr. Connisbey, what was your magpye worth, and your cage: was it a wire cage?

Connisbey. Worth, my lord, I do not know very well what it is worth; about a groat or ſix pence, as the indictment ſets forth; the cage was a twiggen cage

Court. Fie, fie! a ſilly buſineſs! a wiſe juſtice indeed! he deſerves to be committed himſelf, till he learns more wit: Have you done for the king and queen, Mr. Connisbey?

Connisbey. I have no more to ſay, my lord, I would not have come here to ſay this, if I could have helped it.

Court. Come, Mr. Foſter, you have heard what has been ſworn againſt you, now make your defence.

Foſter. My lord, indeed my lord, I did not ſteal the magpye: There was a man overtook me (who was an entire ſtranger to me) in the way between the two Brentford's, and deſired me to carry the bird and the cage for him, which I did; and when we came to old Brentford, he deſired me to keep it, till he called for it; He went away, my lord, but never came any more; ſo, my lord. I was loth to kill the bird, and I did not know whoſe it was, if I had, I would have reſtored it to the owner.

Court. A good defence. Look you, gentlemen of the jury, the priſoner at the bar, John Foſter, ſtands indicted for felony, for ſtealing a magpye and cage, of the value of ſixpence, which is a very inconſiderable value. And you have heard the evidence for the king, who told you the magpye was loſt, and that it was found upon the priſoner. But Mr. Connisbey does not take upon him to ſwear, that the priſoner ſtole it from him; and the priſoner he denies it, and tells you, that truly he did not take it away, but that he had it of a ſtranger, that he accidentally met withal upon the road between the two Brentfords, therefore I do not ſee any colour of evidence againſt the priſoner: And I muſt needs ſay it was a very ſimple, weak thing, done of the Juſtice of peace, to commit a poor fellow for ſuch a trifle; I ſhall leave it to you to conſider of the evidence, and if you find him guilty, you are to ſay ſo; But if you think in your conſcience, that he did not ſteal the magpye, then you are to acquit the priſoner. You had beſt go over to each other and conſider; you need not give yourſelf the trouble to go out of the court about ſuch a ſmall indifferent matter as this.

Then the Jury having conſidered of their verdict, and being returned to their ſeats, the court ſpake as followeth.

Clerk of the crown. Gentlemen of the Jury, are you agreed of a verdit?

Jury. Yes.

Clerk of the crown. Keeper, ſet John Foſter to the bar (which was done)

Clerk of the crown. John Foſter, hold up thy hand (which he did.)

Gentlemen of the Jury, look upon the priſoner; how ſay you, is he guilty of the felony whereof he ſtands indicted, or not guilty?

Foreman. Not guilty.

Court. Keeper, bring the priſoner about into the middle of the court (which was done.)

Court. Look you, Foſter, becauſe you are a poor man, the court hath conſidered of your condition, and acquitted you of the fees; get you home about your buſineſs, but have a care how you meet with a magpye again.

Foſter. Indeed, my lord, I will. Pray God bleſs king William and queen Mary, and all the honourable bench; God be with you, my lord.

MADRID, September 7.

THE Spaniſh miniſtry continue the purſuit of ſuch meaſures as they judge will be moſt for the benefit of the monarchy, excluſive of a land army conſiſting of 24,000 effective men added to the eſtabliſhment. One M'Namara is to have the command of a ſecret expedition, which, it is ſaid, will conſiſt of five ſhips of the line, beſides tranſports. Their deſtination is conjectured to be for the Phillipine iſlands.

LONDON,

October 5. Some late advices from Rome, mention, that the revenue accruing from the ſale of Popiſh bulls, indulgences, &c. in the Spaniſh Weſt Indies, South America, and the Brazils, has been deficient this year in the ſum of one hundred thouſand crowns.

It is ſaid the wound his Royal Highneſs received at the battle of Dettingen has broke out afreſh, and is attended, as is uſual in ſuch caſes, with a St. Anthony's fire: This gave riſe to the report yeſterday of his Royal Highneſſes's death.

This week four ſail-cloth weavers were engaged for Carolina, where we are informed this manufacture is going to be eſtabliſhed.

October 9 Laſt Sunday morning the Palatines broke up their camp behind Whitechapel church. The treaſurer, and other gentlemen of the very benevolent committee, attended on that occaſion, and accompanied them to the water-ſide, and particularly the Rev. Mr. Wachſell, who has been indefatigable during their abode in England, and whoſe pious labours are above all praiſe. His taking leave of them was a moſt moving ſpectacle, tears flowing plentifully on both ſides, eſpecially from the ſick, and pregnant women who were near their time. Many of the perſons could not refrain from ſympathizing with them. They were carried in lighters to the ſhips lying at Blackwall, ſinging hymns all the way, and a great number of ſpectators attending them, who ſeemed greatly affected with their devote behaviour, and demonſtrations of gratitude to the nation which had ſo hoſpitably treated them.

October 16 By our correſpondent at Newmarket we learn that next Friday ſe'nnight the great match between King Herod, a horſe belonging to his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland, and Antonius, a horſe belonging to the Duke of Grafton, will be run. They are matched for 1000l. but it is thought the betts on this occaſion are more than was ever known; ſome ſay, that they will run for near 50,000l. as many large betts are depending; one gentleman in particular, has a bett of 5000l.

Oct. 11. On Wedneſday the 19th of September laſt, an American lady was introduced to his Majeſty at Richmond, and preſented a petition. His Majeſty received the diſtreſſed ſtranger with his wonted charitable goodneſs, and aſſured her of his Royal Protection. It is imagined her prayer will be granted, ſhe being the only American lady that has had occaſion to apply to his Majeſty.

It is expected that the next accounts from New-York will adviſe, the removal of grievances from the trade of North-America, as we are informed orders for that purpoſe were diſpatched about 3 weeks ago.

Monday the Count de Guerchy, Ambaſſador from France, with his retinue, landed at Dover from Callis, and ſet out immediately for London.

All the letters from the maritime parts of Spain and France are filled with accounts of the formidable preparations at all their ports. What can this mean?

The laſt letters from Paris mentions a very ſingular propoſal for abandoning the ports of St. Valery and Crotrot, at the mouth of the river Sommes, as it now falls into the ſea, cutting a large baſon under the walls of Amiens, in Picardy; and by making a new bed for the river, bringing up veſſels thither, of two or three hundred tons, which it is aſſerted may be done, at the expence of about ſix millions.

We hear that the lords of the Admiralty have ordered two men of war, a ſloop, and two cutters, to ſail immediately to the coaſt of Africa, for the better protection of the trade in thoſe parts.

An ambaſſador from a nearly allied power, has deſired to be informed whether we apprehended any probability of a rupture likely to happen, that we were preparing ſo great an armament; for if that was the caſe, it was neceſſary his maſter ſhould take the ſame precaution; but he was given to underſtand, that we knew of no reaſon to expect a rupture; but that we armed only in complaiſance to our friends the French and Spaniards.

The following ſtory is handed to us as a matter of fact: An old fellow, well known in the neighbourhood of Rotherhithe, who goes by the name of Balaam, from his going about with an aſs and carrying greens, being irritated at ſome people playing tricks with his aſs, was carried before a magiſtrate, and fined 15s. for ſwearing ſo many oaths. Balaam ſome days after paſſing along the ſtreet, and hearing the ſame magiſtrate ſwear at his workmen, immediately went before another magiſtrate, and laid his information againſt him for four oaths, which as a magiſtrate, being 5l. an oath, amounted to 20l. and was paid accordingly.

The following tragical Event happened in the County of Cambridgeſhire, not many Years ſince.

SOME ſtrollers having brought down a puppetſhew, it was exhibited in a large thatched barn, at Barnwell, a little village near Cambridge, on the 8th of September, 1727. Juſt as the ſhew was about to begin, an idle fellow attempted to thruſt himſelf in without paying, which the people of the ſhew prevented, and a quarrel enſued; after ſome altercation, the fellow went away, and the door being made faſt, all was quiet; but this execrable villain, to revenge the ſuppoſed incivility he had received from the ſhewmen, went to a heap of hay and ſtraw, which ſtood cloſe to the barn, and ſecretly ſet it on fire. The ſpectators of the ſhew, who were in the midſt of the entertainment, were ſoon alarmed by the flames, which had communicated themſelves to the barn; in the ſudden terror which inſtantly ſeized the whole aſſembly every one ruſhed to the door, but it happened unfortunately that the door opened inwards, and the crowd that was behind, ſtill urging on thoſe that were before, they preſſed ſo violently againſt it, that it could not be opened; and being too well ſecured to give way, the whole company, conſiſting of above 120 perſons, were kept confined in the building till the roof fell in; this accident covered them with fire and ſmoak; ſome were ſuffocated in the mouldering thatch, and others were conſumed alive in the flames; ſix only eſcaped with life; the reſt, of whom ſeveral were young ladies of fortune, and many little boys and girls were reduced to one undiſtinguiſhable heap of mangled fleſh and bones, the bodies being half conſumed and totally diſfigured. The ſurviving friends of the dead not knowing which were the relicts that they ſought, a large hole was dug in the church yard, and all were promiſcuouſly interred together. As it is not eaſy to conceive any circumſtances of greater diſtreſs and horror, than thoſe that attended this cataſtrophee, neither is it eaſy to conceive more agravated wickedneſs than concurred in the perpetration.

The favour which was refuſed, was ſuch as the wretch had no pretence to aſk, nor reaſon to expect. The barn which he fired did not belong to the man that had offended him; and the people that were in it were admitted only upon terms with which he refuſed to comply; he had therefore no provocation, either to envy or malice, yet he was guilty of a crime which only a diabolical exceſs of both could commit. It might reaſonably have been ſuppoſed, that indignation would have prompted the firſt relators of this event to have expreſſed ſome ſatisfaction in the puniſhment of this criminal, and ſome regret at his eſcape, and that this particular would, from the ſame emotion, have been conſtantly preſerved with the ſtory, yet it is totally omitted in all the accounts given of this affair.

PHILADELPHIA,

December 20. On Wedneſday the 12th inſtant, pretty late in the night, two men were found lying in Lancaſter road, about 13 miles from town, in a moſt diſtreſſed condition, and muſt both have died, it is thought, before morning, if they had not been taken up, and carried to a houſe, by ſome perſons, going that way. One of the men after a while, ſo far recovered, as to tell that they were met by two men on horſeback, who uſed them moſt barbarouſly, and robbed him of 8l. but what they took from his companion he could not tell, as he did not know what he had about him; this perſon, we here is like to recover, but the other is ſo badly wounded in the head, and, it is ſaid the skull broke, that it was feared he could not live.

WHEREAS we the ſubſcribers, were, ſome time ſince, agreeable to the act made for relief of inſolvent debtors, appointed aſſignees of all the eſtate of Benjamin Allin, Joſeph Rockwell, and Daniel Hayden, all of Windſor, inſolvent debtors, & to make a dividend of the ſame, to and among the ſeveral creditors, as in and by ſaid act is eſpecially provided. ——And whereas we have carefully examin'd and ſought after the eſtate of them the ſaid Joſeph Rockwell, Benjamin Allin, and Daniel Hayden, can as yet find nothing of the eſtate of ſaid Rockwell, and ſaid Hayden, whereof to make diſtribution or diviſion to and among the creditors, as aforeſaid. And we the ſubſcribers, have appointed to meet on ſaid buſineſs at the houſe of Henry Allin, inn holder in ſaid Windſor, on the 10th of January next, and on the firſt Mondays of the three following months, and ſtand ready on ſaid firſt Monday of January, to make the firſt diviſion of the eſtate of ſaid Benjamin Allin. Dated in Windſor, December, 28th, 1764.

DANIEL BISSEL } Aſſignees.
ROGER NEWBURY }

Advertiſements

Juſt imported from London, in the ſhip Weſtmoreland, Capt. Lilee, and to be ſold by

THOMAS DAVIDSON and COMPANY,

At Mrs. Nevans's, in Hartford, the following Articles, Wholeſale and Retail, Viz.

BROAD and narrow Cloths,
Superfine Scarlet ditto,
Bearſkins,
Pennyſtins,
Swanſkins,
Duffels,
Shalloons,
Rattinetts.
Callimancoes of all Colours,
Black, Genoa and Cotton Velvets,
Mecklenburg Stuffs of intire new Patterns,
Silk gauze, flower'd and plain,
Plain and flower'd Lawns, of all ſorts,
Cambricks of all Kinds,
Ribbons of all Sorts, plain and flower'd,
Silk and Worſted Mitts,
Black Barcelona Handkerchiefs,
Cravats ditto,
Check'd Cotton and Linen of all Kinds,
French and Engliſh ſtrip'd ditto,
Strip'd Hollands,
Iriſh and Scotch white Linens and Hollands,
Men's, Women's and Children's Silk and Worſted Stockings of all Sorts,
Women's Shoes,
Women's leather Mitts,
Fringe Silk Handkerchiefs,
India Silk ditto,
Check'd and Cotton Linens of all Sorts,
Great Variety of Chintzes and Callicoes,
Poplins and Silverets,
Tammies,
Durants,
Nankeen Patterns,
Silk and Worſted ditto,
Pins and Needles,
Colour'd Thread,
White ditto of all Kinds,
Fans and Garlands,
Head Flowers,
Black Pelong,
Perſian Taffeties,
Paduſoy,
Flower'd Damask,
Silk of ſundry Kinds,
Figur'd Alimode ditto,
Gimps and Fringe for Cardinals,
Garters,
Quality Bindings,
Shoe Bindings,
Silk and Worſted Camblets,
A large Quantity of narrow Diaper,
Writing Paper of all Sorts,
Lombazines,
Tiffeny and black Crape,
Dreſden Porlins,
Strip'd Stuffs,
A few Wool Hats, to be ſold low
Ivory and Horn Combs,
Apron and Cap Tapes,
Garnet Necklaces and Ear Rings,
Briſtol ſtone Buttons, ſet in ſilver,
Peeble ſtone ditto ſet in ditto,
French paſte Necklaces,
Great Variety of Glaſs ditto, of a new Faſhion
Silver Buckels,
Metal Buttons of different Kinds.
Buckram,
Common Cutto Knives of all Sorts,
Pen Knives ditto,
Variety of Snuff Boxes,
Double ſet Gimblets,
Table Knives and Forks,
Common Sleeve Buttons, of all Kinds,
London Calf Skins for Boot Legs,
Beſt Scotch Snuff,
Pigtail Tobacco,
Paper'd Shag ditto,
Ink Powder,
Play books,
Loaf-ſugar at One Shilling, per Pound,
Green Tea, warranted Good, at Fifteen Shillings, and
Bohea ditto, at Seven Shillings per Pound,
Beſt French Indigo,
Likewiſe ſundry other Goods, too tedious to mention

And as we intend ſettling in this place, will take in exchange, all ſorts of lumber: ſuch as pine boards, deck plank, hogſhead ſtaves, barrel ditto, ſhingles, cherry tree boards; alſo, pork, beef, &c. at the market price.

All Gentlemen and Ladies, who pleaſe to favour us with their Cuſtom, may depend upon having the aforeſaid Goods at a very ſmall Advance upon the ſterling Coſt.

From their moſt obedient Servants,

Tho's Davidſon and Comp.

ALL Perſons indebted to the Eſtate of Capt. Hezekiah Collier, late of Hartford, deceaſed, are hereby deſired to ſettle the ſame ſpeedily with the Subſcriber, ſole Executor of ſaid deceaſed's laſt Will and Teſtament.

Alſo, Thoſe indebted to him, to make ſpeedy Payment, which will prevent Trouble.

7 Hezekiah Collier.

WHereas the eſtate of Lieut. David Andrus, late of Farmington, in Hartford diſtrict, deceas'd, has been repreſented to the honorable court of Probates for ſaid diſtrict, to be inſolvent; whereupon ſaid court did appoint us the ſubſcribers commiſſioners to receive and examine the claims of the ſeveral creditors to ſaid eſtate, and make our report thereon to ſaid court, within nine Months. We do therefore, hereby notify all the ſeveral creditors to ſaid eſtate, to bring in their claims and demands, on the laſt Monday of January next, at one o'clock afternoon, at the dwelling houſe of Daniel Curtis, in ſaid Farmington, where we ſhall attend ſaid buſineſs.

Dated at Farmington, November 26. 1764.

SOLOMON WHITMAN, }
DANIEL CURTIS, } Commiſſioners.
6 JAMES JUDD. }

ALL Perſons indebted to the Subſcriber for Poſtage of Letters, are deſired to pay the ſame immediately, to prevent Trouble.

No Letters will be delivered for the future, to any Perſon whatever, unleſs the Poſtage is firſt paid.

JOHN WALKER, D. P. Mr

Benjamin Henſhaw,

HEREBY informs the public, That he intends ſetting up a public vendue, at his chamber over his ſtore, in Middletown, on Tueſday evenings, to begin at duſk. That he has more than Three Hundred Pounds Lawful Money in Goods, of various kinds, already put into his hands for ſale that way; and ſtands ready to take in any ſort of goods or eſtate to ſell for any perſon who ſhall ſee fit to employ him on low commiſſions:—And will pay them their caſh within forty-eight hours after the ſale.

The conditions of ſale, will be as follows, viz.

I. That the higheſt bidder ſhall be the purchaſer. And if a diſpute ariſe between two bidders, the article in diſpute ſhall be put up again.

II. That earneſt money ſhall be paid down by the purchaſer, two ſhillings on twenty, and ſo in proportion to the purchaſe.

III. That the maſter ſhall not bid without the conſent of the company.

IV. That every bidder ſhall bid three pence on five ſhillings, ſix pence on ten ſhillings, and one ſhilling on twenty ſhillings.

V. That every purchaſer ſhall pay for his goods ſo purchaſed, and take them away within thirty hours after, on forfeiture of his earneſt money.——Conſtant attendance will be given at ſaid chamber, the next day after ſale, for the delivery of goods ſold.

VI. That no underbidder ſhall be employed by any perſon having goods there for ſale, upon penalty of the forfeiture of ſuch goods to the company then preſent, upon the diſcovery and proof made.

And as no under-bidder will be countenanced or allowed, as mean and diſhonorable; ſo it will be look'd upon as mean and baſe for the company to get together, and agree not to bid on one another, in order to get the goods at too great an under-value.——

As this vendue is ſet up on principles of honor, it is hoped it will meet with ſuitable encouragement.

Among the goods to be ſold at vendue, are the following, viz.

BROAD cloths, ratteens, bearſkins, german ferges, ſingle and double ruſſel, callamanco, black, blue and ſcarlet, worſted and hair pluſh, velvet veſt patterns, thick ſetts, ſhalloons, durants, &c. Diaper napkins, table cloths, white callicoes, lawn border'd handkerchiefs, linnen ditto, Iriſh hollands, men's and women's white and colour'd gloves, men and women, boys and girls ſtockings, women's Engliſh brocaded ruſſel ſhoes, of Hoſe's make, men's worſted caps, a variety of white wax beads, and other necklaces, a large parcel of hatter's trimmings, as linings, worſted and ſilk loopings, buttons, frogs, &c. a large ſtock of paper for papering of rooms, of various qualities, buck and fawn ſkins, neatly dreſſed with the hair on, for waiſtcoats, leather breeches, fire ſhovels and tongs, cloth, table, tooth, comb, ſhoe, hearth and ſcrubing bruſhes, barber's hair, ſtrops, raſors, bruſhes, ribbons, &c. with travelling boxes & bruſhes for barbers & others, watchmaker's bruſhes, glaſſes, ſtrings, ſeals, keys, &c. joyner's and carpenter's rules, chizels, gouges, ſaws, files, &c. locks, and hinges, ſmall nails and brads; with many other goods in the hard ware way, and ſundry ſhoemaker's tools——part of a ſet of blackſmith's tools, ſondry ſecond hand and new houſhold furniture, as braſs kettles, looking-glaſſes, tables, chairs, &c. a good riding chair, with a top to take off, and good tackling, a new ſilver watch with a china face; and many other things too many to be enumerated here.

N. B. The ſaid vendue opens the firſt Tueſday evening in January next.

⁂ Said HENSHAW has to ſell in his ſtore, under ſaid chamber, a freſh aſſortment of Engliſh, Weſt and Eaſt India goods;—and particularly a large quantity of goods ſuitable for the ſeaſon. To be ſold on the very loweſt rates for the CASH, and low on ſhort credit, or pork, grain, flax-ſeed, or other country produce. He deſires all perſons that have been indebted to him more then ſix months, either by book or note that they will immediately pay him, as he can wait no longer. He gives caſh for pork.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Sign of the Heart and Crown, near the North Meeting-Houſe.

MONDAY, January 14. 1765. [Number 8.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

L O N D O N, October 1.

A ſurpriſing account of the ſudden effect of fear in a deſerter.

GEO. Grochantzy, a polander, who had enliſted as a ſoldier in the ſervice of the king of Pruſſia, deſerted during the laſt war; a ſmall party was ſent in purſuit of him, and when he leaſt ſuſpected it, they ſurpriſed him ſinging and dancing among a company of peaſants, who were got together in an inn, and were making merry. This event, ſo ſudden and unforeſeen, and at the ſame time ſo dreadful in its conſequences, ſtruck him in ſuch a manner, that giving a great cry, he became at once altogether ſtupid and inſenſible, and was ſeiſed without the leaſt reſiſtance.

They carried him away to Glocau, where he was brought before the council of war, and received ſentence as a deſerter: He ſuffered himſelf to be had and diſpoſed of at the will of thoſe about him, without uttering a word, or giving the leaſt ſign that he knew what had happened, or would happen to him; he remained immoveable as a ſtatue wherever he was placed, and was wholly paſſive with reſpect to all that was done to him or about him. During all the time that he was in cuſtody he neither eat, nor drank, nor ſlept, nor had any evacuation: ſome of his comrades were ſent to ſee him; after that he was viſited, by ſome officers of his corps, and by ſome prieſts; but he ſtill continued in the ſame ſtate, without diſcovering the leaſt ſigns of ſenſibility. Promiſes, entreaties, and threatnings, were equally ineffectual, the phyſicians who were conſulted upon his caſe were of opinion, that he was in a ſtate of hopeleſs idiotcy. It was at firſt ſuſpected, that theſe appearances were feigned, but theſe ſuſpicions neceſſarily gave way, when it was known that he took no ſuſtenance, and that the involuntary functions of nature were in a great meaſure ſuſpended.

After ſome time they knocked off his fetters, and left him at liberty to go whither he would; he received his liberty with the ſame inſenſibility that he had ſhewed upon other occaſions; he remained fixed and immoveable, his eyes turned wildly here and there, without taking cognizance of any object; and the muſcles of his face were fallen and fixed like thoſe of a dead body.

Being left to himſelf he paſſed twenty days in this condition, without eating, drinking, or any evacuation, and died on the 20th day; he had been ſometimes heard to fetch deep ſighs, and once ruſhed with great violence on a ſoldier who had a mug of liquor in his hand, forced the mug from him, and having drank the liquor with great eagerneſs, let the mug drop to the ground.

On Saturday laſt, during the ſtorm of thunder and lightning, a grocer at Bath ſent his ſervant to fetch ſome goods out of a warehouſe, who took a candle with him, which he placed in a barrel filled with gunpowder, the top of which was taken out, and 3 other large barrels ſtood near it; when the man came away and left the candle behind him. Being asked by his maſter what he had done with it? he replied, he had left it burning at the top of ſome black ſeed in the warehouſe; the maſter in the greateſt terror ran and brought the candle away, without any damage enſuing; for, had a ſpark flown, the whole building muſt inevitably have been blown up.

Tueſday an old cloaths man in Rag fair drank four Tankards of Porter, in four draughts for a wager of five ſhillings; he was allowed a minute to each Tankard, but did not take up above half the time; unhappily however, whether the exceſſive hurry, in which he loaded his ſtomach had an effect upon him, or whether he laboured under any latent complaint, is not known, but he grew delirous immediately after, and has continued tied down to his bed ever ſince.

We are informed, that the lands belonging to the crown of Great Britain, ſituated on the Muſqueto Shore, and which extended almoſt two hundred miles in length, are from ſome late accounts, ſaid to be better worth ſettling than either of the Floridas.

Extravagance and folly is come to ſuch a height, that on Thurſday a pretended gentleman of faſhion had the modeſty to publickly ask between twenty and thirty pounds ſterling for a lady's lap-dog.

It is a juſt remark, no matter who made it, that the wiſeſt and beſt men are ſooneſt forgotten. Every man's experience muſt furniſh him with inſtances of this kind, and it has been recently exemplified in the little regard which has been paid to the memory of the late Mr. LEGGE, who has ſcarce ever been mentioned ſince his death, but for the ſake of ſome idle pun upon his name. Yet, though ſome perhaps might boaſt of more ſpecious and ornamental accompliſhments, yet few were poſſeſſed of more uſeful and reſpectable talents. Sir Robert Walpole, who was no bad judge of men, upon his early acquaintance with Mr. Legge, gave his opinion of him in very aukward, yet in very reſpectful terms. He obſerved, that he never met with a man that had ſo little rubbiſh about him. Mr. Legge's conduct juſtified this ſentiment of Sir Robert's; for in every department he filled, he appeared to be perfect maſter of his office, and was at once, clear, ſolid, judicious and conſiſtent. We may remember when he received, from every quarter, joint honors with Mr. Pitt: And they who read the anſwers which each of them returned on thoſe occaſions, know which of them diſplayed the moſt good ſenſe and juſtneſs of expreſſion. We may remember likewiſe, the time when he thought proper to withdraw from his colleague: Mr. Legge had too much judgment not to foreſee the bad conſequences of his friend's thirſt for conqueſts; and he was too well acquainted with the ſtate of our finances, to be ignorant that the Miniſter was only purchaſing popularity among the unthinking Multitude, for which generations to come muſt dearly pay. In ſhort, Mr. Legge throughout ſupported the character of a ſenſible and moderate ſtateſmen, without being a tool to any party, or a ſlave to his own paſſions.

Extract of a Letter from Kingſton, July 23.

"We ſhall now very ſhortly have the trade with the Spaniards again opened as a veſſel has juſt now brought orders to the Governor and Admiral, to take off the prohibition, and to permit the Spaniards to enter our ports as uſual, which has given freſh ſpirits to the merchants here.—The goods proper for the Spaniſh trade are, Mancheſter linens of all ſorts that are fine, printed handkerchiefs, cambricks, britannia's, ſileſia linens, hats, &c.

They write from Marſeilles of the 4th inſt. that a Tartan was arrived there from Saffy, which brought an Account, that the Saletines had carried two French Ships into St. Caux, one from Rochelle, and the other from Nants, richly laden. They were bound to the French Iſlands in America.

The Monſter, who was lately executed at Abbeville in France, for poiſoning his Mother, and attempting to poiſon three of his Uncles and Aunts, beſides eight other Perſons, on being interrogated in Regard to his Motives, anſwered, that he wanted to enjoy the Wealth which was to come to him on the Death of his Relations, but particularly to get rid of his Uncle, who was his Tutor.

Extract of a Letter from Auguſtine.

Believe me, the Engliſh Papers have greatly exaggerated in their favourable Accounts of this Place. I never ſaw in my Life a more unpromiſing Spot, though I have been a Sojourner in both the Indies. The whole Province of Eaſt Florida is little better than a ſandy Deſart, parch'd and dry; the very Cattle can hardly ſubſiſt. God knows how we ſhould live here, if Proviſions were not brought us from the Northern Colonies: New-England Cheeſe at 16 per Pound; Butter, or rather putrified Oil, a vaſt Price, and every thing dear in proportion. Our common Currency are Spaniſh Piaſters and Dollars, the latter of which does juſt purchaſe a dinner notwithſtanding, if it were not for ſome Turtle from Providence and the Muſquito Shore, we ſhould hardly be ſaid to eat; judge then, if out of my 60l per Annum, I can ſave Money. Such is the Place we have wiſely exchanged for the Terreſtrial Paradiſe of Martinico. I ſhall be home in December next. Adieu.

Oct. 2. We hear the department of his Excellency Sir William Johnſon, is going to be put on a better and more regular footing than heretofore, much to the advantage of our northern colonies.

October 3. We are informed that the late Mr. Bonner of Field-lane, who dealt in ſheep heads, amaſſed very near 10,000l. in that low occupation.

PARIS, October 3. The Chevalier de Turgot, and M. de Behagne, one of whom is appointed Commandant-General, and the other Governor General of the Guyanne, embarked the third ult. for that place. Our miniſtry proposes to improve the ſettlements in that Colony, as well as the Cayenne. The Guyanne is ſituated between the rivers of Oroonoko and of the Amazons, to the eaſt of Peru; abounds with ſugar-canes, and enjoys a preperual ſpring. The Dutch have a part of it; and what belongs to us is in an extent of 120 leagues. The Cayenne is a ſmall iſland 18 leagues in circumference, upon the Coaſt of the Guyanne, 30 leagues ſouth eaſt of Surinam, produces indigo ſuperior to that of Guatimala, fine cotton, cocoa, and cinnamon; beſides fine woods for cabinet work, and ſome ſilver mines. We ſettled there in 1635, gave it up to the Engliſh in 1655, retook it from them ten years afterwards, were obliged to cede it to the Dutch in 1676, and eſtabliſhed ourſelves again there the year following.

A ſingular Cataſtrophe of a Genoeſe Nobleman and his Lady

THERE lived, not long ſince, in Genoa, a young Nobleman, named Marini, who had a large eſtate in the iſland of Corſica, whither he went every five or ſix years to regulate his affairs. At the age of five and twenty he was married to a beautiful lady, the daughter of a Venetian ſenator, called Monimia, who had refuſed the greateſt matches in Italy, to prefer the fortunate Marini. As their marriage was founded upon a mutual eſteem, their paſſion increaſed inſtead of diminiſhing by enjoyment, 'til they became an example of conjugal duty to all that knew them. They had lived many years in this uninterupted ſtate of felicity, when Marini was obliged to make a voyage into Corſica, which was then diſturbed by a rebellious inſurrection, in order to ſecure his patrimory, by encouraging his dependants to ſtand ſirm in defence of their country. But the greateſt affliction, and which abſorbed all the reſt, was his being neceſſitated to part for a while from Monimia, who being then very big with child, was incapacitated to go with him as uſual. When the fatal time of parting come, they embraced with the utmoſt grief and the warmeſt prayers to heaven for one another's ſafety. As ſoon as this afflicting ſcene was over, Marini embarked, and having a fair wind, arrived ſafe at Baſtia, in a few hours. The ſucceſs of the rebels being ſtopped, and the affairs of the iſland a little ſettled again, our lover began to prepare for his return to Genoa; but as he was walking one day by the harbour where the ſhips of burthen lay, he heard two ſailors who were juſt arrived, talking of the death of a Genoeſe nobleman's wife, then abſent from the republic. This caſual circumſtance greatly alarmed him, and excited his curioſity to liſten to their converſation; where, after a little pauſe, he heard one of them mention the name of his dear Monimia. At theſe words his ſurpriſe and affliction was ſo great, that he had not power to follow the mariners to ſatiſfy his doubt, but inſtantly ſwooned away, and when he recovered, found himſelf ſurrounded by his ſervants lamenting over him. At the ſame time that this happened to Marini, ſomething of the ſame nature equally diſtreſſed Monimia; for an imperfect account came to Genoa, by the Captain of a Venetian veſſel, that a gentleman named Marini, had been ſurpriſed near Baſtia, by a remaining party of rebels, and that he and all his attendants were killed by them. Theſe two accounts involved our unfortunate pair in the greateſt diſtreſs; they immediately took ſhipping, in order to be convinced of what they ſo much dreaded to know; the one for Corſica, the other for Genoa. They were both ſailed, when a violent ſtorm aroſe, which drove their veſſels upon a little iſland in the Mediterranean. Marini's ſhip landed firſt, where, while the reſt of the crew were refreſhing themſelves, the diſconſolate widower, as he thought himſelf, wandered with one ſervant only, into a little wood that was near the ſame ſea ſhore, to give a looſe to his immoderate grief. Soon after, the Genoeſe ſhip landed too, and the ſame motive led Monimia with one of her maids into the wood where her huſband was lamenting her unfortunate condition. They had not been long there, before they heard each other's complaint, and drew nearer mutually, to ſee if there was any wretch living equally miſerable with themſelves. But how great was the aſtoniſhment of both when they met in a little path, and ſaw each other! their immoderate joy was ſuch, and the tranſition from one extreme to the other ſo inſtantaneous, that all the power they had was to fall into each other's arms, where they expired in a few minutes after. Their bodies were conveyed to Italy, and were interred with all the ſolemnity and magnificence due to their quality and eminent virtues.

Account of an intended Duel between his late Majeſty King George the ſecond, and Frederick William, late King of Pruſſia.

"THE perſonal enmity which had ſubſiſted between the two monarchs above mentioned, even from their early years, and often to the no ſmall perplexity of their miniſters, went ſo far, (ſays Baron Bielfeld) that, as he is informed from a good quarter, they conceived the very ſingular deſign of gratifying it in a duel. King George had already made choice of Brigadier Sutton for his ſecond, and the king of Pruſſia of Colonel Derſchau. The territory of Hildeſchiem had been pitched on for the meeting. His Britannic majeſty was then at Hanover, and his Pruſſian majeſty was come as far as Saltzdahl, near Brunſwick. Baron Borck, his miniſter at London, and lately diſmiſſed from that court in a very abrupt manner, being come to the king his maſter, at Saltzdahl, found him in ſuch a violent paſſion that he did not think it adviſeable directly to oppoſe his deſign; but to gain time feigned to approve the extraordinary combat which that prince meditated, and he even offered to carry the challenge. But coming into the king's apartment an hour after, he took the liberty of ſpeaking to him in this manner. "Sire, I allow that your majeſty's quarrel is not to be terminated any other way than by a duel; but your majeſty being juſt raiſed from a dangerous ſickneſs, and your health being ſtill precarious, ſhould you be taken with a relapſe the day before the affair, or perhaps at the very time, what would the world ſay, and how would the king of England make his boaſts? How many ſcandalous conſtructions would be put on this accident? What an odious ſuſpicion might it not bring on your majeſty's courage? theſe things conſidered, do not you think, Sire, it would be better to ſtay a fortnight?" The king is ſaid to have come into theſe reaſons, though with ſome difficulty; the challenge was not ſent: the miniſters on both ſides gained time: The choler of both parties evaporated, and the following year the quarrel was made up.

"Give us leave to add a ſhort, but leſs ſerious anecdote concerning Frederick. It ſeems he was very far from being favourably diſpoſed to literature, and by way of contempt, would now and then propoſe to the academy of Sciences, at Berlin, meer trifles or jokes. The academy's anſwer indeed was generally of no better turn. One day, for inſtance, his majeſty ſent them the following queſtion; "What might be the phyſical cauſes why two glaſſes filled with champaigne, and ſtruck one againſt the other, the ſound, inſtead of being ſhrill and clear as that of two glaſſes filled with any other wine, was faint and dull? The academicians returned for anſwer, "That their pockets not reaching Champaigne, they were ignorant of the effect." The king to convince them of the phenomenon, ſent them a dozen of flasks; they drank the wine, without elucidating the royal problem."

NEW-YORK, December 21.

At a Meeting of the Society for promoting of Arts, Agriculture and Oeconomy, in this Province, held the 24th Inſt. the following Premiums, upon the Report of the Committee for Agriculture, were agreed to, and ordered to be publiſhed, VIZ.

FOR the greateſt Quantity of good Flax, raiſed by any one Farmer in this Colony in the Year 1765, Thirty Pounds.
For the ſecond greateſt ditto, Twenty Pounds.
For the third greateſt ditto, Ten Pounds.
For the greateſt Quantity of good Flax, raiſed off one Acre, in the Year 1765, Fifteen Pounds.
For the ſecond greateſt ditto, Ten Pounds.
For the third greateſt ditto, Five Pounds.
For the greateſt Quantity of Hemp, raiſed by any one Farmer in 1765, An honorary Medal.

N. B. The Reaſon of giving only an honorary Reward for this uſeful Article, is, the great Encouragement already given to it; there being Eight Pounds Sterling per Ton allowed by Parliament, Twenty Pounds Currency per Ton by the Legiſlature of this Province, and a Bounty of One Hundred Pounds Sterling for Twenty Tons, by the Society for the Encouragement of Arts, Manufacture and Commerce in London.

For the greateſt Quantity of good Hemp Seed, raiſed by any one Farmer, off one Acre, in 1765. Ten Pounds.
For the ſecond greateſt ditto, Eight Pounds.
For the third greateſt ditto, Five Pounds.
For the greateſt Quantity of either ſwamp or bog Meadow, cleared by any one Farmer in this Colony, from the firſt of January, 1765, to the firſt of June, 1766, and ſowing it with Hemp, Flax, Graſs ſeeds or Turnips, An honorary Medal.
For the greateſt Number of young Apple Trees, properly ſet out in a Nurſery, and incloſed by 1761, Ten Pounds.
For the beſt and largeſt Cheeſe, made in this Province, and brought for Sale to New-York in 1765, Six Pounds.
For the ſecond ditto, Four Pounds.
For the third ditto, Two Pounds.
For the greateſt Number of Mules, foaled in 1761, (not leſs than Ten) Thirty Pounds.
For the greateſt Quantity of the beſt Hops, raiſed in this Province, and properly cured in 1766, Ten Pounds.
For preparing the greateſt Quantity of Land for Graſs, and ſowing it either with Clover, Timothy, Lucern, or any other uſeful Graſs ſeeds, An honorary Medal.
For the beſt and greateſt Quantity of Barley, raiſed by any one Farmer off one Acre, in this Colony, in 1765, Ten Pounds.
For the greateſt Quantity of Thorn Hedge, properly planted by any one Farmer in this Colony, (not leſs than one hundred Rods) by the firſt of June, 1766, Ten Pounds.

N. B. The Premiums given by the Society, are intended only for Articles within this Province.

BOSTON, January 3.

The Great and General Court or Aſſembly of this Province is to meet here on Wedneſday next, the Ninth of January.

On the 27th ultimo died at Cambridge, aged 87, Mrs. Sarah Boucher, the virtuous relict of Mr. Lewis Boucher, deceas'd, once an eminent merchant in this town. He was of a good family of the city of Rochelle in France, but being a Proteſtant was excluded from the ſucceſſion to the real eſtate of his anceſters. Mrs. Boucher was ſenſible, polite, ſincere and pious. She was on both ſides deſcended from ſome of the firſt Families in the Province. There is a tradition that her Grandmother was the firſt European of her ſex that trod the ſhores of New-England. 'Tis added that in order to attain this ſignal and unappropriated honor, ſhe being the firſt boat with the female paſſengers, leaped thence into the water in the month of December, the inſtant it ſtruck the ground, tho' the country then ſwarmed with wild beaſts and more ſavage men, and tho' ſome of the latter had a few days before warmly attacked a party of Engliſhmen.

We hear from Shrewsbury, in the county of Worceſter, that a Gentleman there let out a cow the ſummer-ſeaſon to the halves, as it is called; [illegible] the fall received in butter ſixty pounds, [illegible] cheeſe one hundred and thirty-three pounds, for [illegible] part.—Very great encouragement to keep good cows.

We hear from Halifax, That on Monday night the 5th of November, the ſchooner Lunenburg Packet, Frederick Arenbergo, maſter, was caſt away on an iſland in Mahon-Bay, when the ſaid maſter, his brother and every perſon on board were drowned.

We learn from the ſame place, That on Tueſday the 27th of November, about eleven o'clock in the forenoon, was executed on board his Majeſty's ſhip Romney in that harbour, purſuant to their ſentance, a ſailor and marine for deſertion; being two of the ringleaders of the ſix that run-away with the boat from the admiral's tender. They behaved with great decency, as became men in their ſituation, and calmly ſubmitted to their fate.

By the weekly accounts of burials and baptiſms it appears that from Janury 3d, 1764, to December 31, 1764. there have been buried in this town.

Whites, 471. Blacks 77. In all 548.

Baptiſed in the ſeveral churches, 367.

We hear that Capt. Foſſey in a ſhip from the Weſt Indies, was drove aſhore laſt Friday at a place called Quickſett's-Hole near Martha's-Vineyard: The veſſel will be loſt, but moſt of the cargo and her rigging ſav'd.

HARTFORD, January 14.

Laſt Saturday died of an Apoplexy, Miſs Mary Hooker, of this Town, an aged Maiden, near Seventy Years old.

Some Months ſince, one Mr. Hubbard, of Glaſſenbury, put up to fat, two Barrow Hogs, (both of one Litter) which he fed plentifully with Indian Corn, but they did'nt ſeem to fat any, tho' they grew larger, and after taking ſeveral fruitleſs Methods, for ſix Months, to make good Pork of them, he kill'd them a few Days ago—they weighed about eight Score apiece, though there was not one Pound of Fat in both of them; their Skins were near an Inch and Half thick, and each of their harſlets weighed forty Pounds.

William Jepſon,

HEREBY notifies all perſons indebted to the late company of Gardiner and Jepſon, by book, which books are now finiſhed, that unleſs their accounts are ſettled, either by caſh or their obligations, by the 12th Day of March next, they will have to ſettle them with his Attorney, as on that Day he is determined to put them into his hands, that next April court may cloſe them; and thinks no one can take it amiſs, after this notice, to be ſued, as he has advertiſed them of the co partnerſhip's being near expiring, and deſiring them to ſettle their accounts for twelve Months paſt. And all whoſe obligations are of long ſtanding, are, for the laſt time, deſired to pay them, or they will be ſued at April Court.

Hartford, January 10th, 1765. 8

WHereas we the ſubſcribers, were ſome time ſince, agreeable to act of aſſembly for relief of inſolvent debtors, appointed aſſignees of all the eſtate of Daniel Enſign, jun. of Hartland, Ephraim Patterſon, of Cornwal, and Aaron Bailey, of Saliſbury, in Litchfield County, inſolvent debtors, and to make devidend of the ſame to and among their reſpective creditors; having carefully enquired and ſought after the eſtates of the ſaid inſolvents, can as yet, find no eſtate of the ſaid debtors to divide, nor even ſufficient to anſwer the Coſts.

Litchfield, 20th of December, 1764.

Iſaac Baldwin, } Aſſignees.
Reuben Smith, }

WHEREAS the Agent for the Suſquehannah, and firſt and ſecond Delaware Companies, is lately returned from Great Britain, and has many Things of Conſequence to communicate to thoſe Companies, relative to his Agency, in thoſe Affairs, and the Proceedings therein at Great Britain.

The ſaid Companies are therefore, hereby Warned to meet at the Court-Houſe, in Windham, on Wedneſday, the ſixteenth Day of January next, in order to hear the Report of ſaid Agent, in thoſe Affairs, and thereon to act, and do what may be thought beſt towards a further Proſecution thereof.

Dated December 21ſt, 1764.

Jabez Fitch,
John Curtiſs,
Iſaac Tracy,
Eliſha Tracy,
Ebenezer Backus, } Delaware Committee.

Eliphalet Dyer,
Jedidiah Elderkin,
Samuel Gray,
John Smith, } Suſquehannah Committee.

ALL Perſons indebted to the Subſcriber for Poſtage of Letters, are deſired to pay the ſame immediately, to prevent Trouble.

No Letters will be delivered for the future, to any Perſon whatever, unleſs the Poſtage is firſt paid.

JOHN WALKER, D.P.M.

ALL perſons Indebted to RALPH and ELEAZAR POMEROY, on Book, are deſired immediately to ſettle their Accounts. Hartford, January 7, 1765.

LONDON, October 13.

One of the reaſons aſſigned, tho' perhaps without foundation, for his Royal Highneſs the Duke of York, paſſing through France without viſiting Paris, is, the coolneſs between the two courts of London and Verſailles, on account of the late infractions of the peace on the part of the latter, from whence ſome people inſinuate, we are even now upon the eve of a new war. What Carthage and Rome were of old, ſay they, Great Britain and France are now, natural jealous rivals and implacable enemies; hoſtilities are therefore never more ceaſed between the latter, than they were between the former. Rival nations can never reſt 'til one or the other has gained the ſuperiority: G. Britain was lately in poſſeſſion of the ſuperiority, and by deſtroying the maratime ſtrength of her enemy, might have maintained it, but the great defect of the late peace, was the premature concluſion of it before the naval force of France was effectually deſtroyed, which all the world knows the naval officers of England were able and eagar to have done; and experience has ſhewn how dangerous it is to leave a weapon in an enemy's hand. France by her vigilance in repairing and augmenting her navy; by redeeming her ſailors at an expence, and by properly employing them in the ſervice of the ſtate, is again in condition to inſult her conquerers and refuſe them juſtice. The fate of Carthage ſhall never be forgotten; when Rome got the ſuperiority at ſea, the fate of Carthage drew near; when France gains the aſcendency on that element, the ruin of England will not be far off; ancient example is therefore her beſt leſſon of true policy. The report of an order being iſſued out for preſſing a number of ſeamen to man a fleet of obſervation, has given an occaſion to expoſe an abuſe, which would perhaps be thought a hardſhip at preſent to reform, as former officers have been favoured with the like indulgence. There are, it is ſaid, 22 guardſhips in the three ports of Portſmouth, Plymouth and Chatham, the complement of which is 100 ſeamen, and 60 marines to each ſhip; but take out of the ſeamen, the officers with their ſervants, midſhipmen, &c. many of whom are boys at ſchool, and the 100 will be reduced to 10; to theſe it is propos'd to add 60 ſeamen, in room of the 60 marines, who are of little uſe on board, there will then be 1500 men always ready to put to ſea upon an emergency, who might ſoon be replaced on board the guardſhips without preſſing; but the profits of the perquiſite renders every ſcheme of this kind, chimerical.

From the London Gazette.

Admiralty Office, October 2, 1764.

BY letters lately received from Commodore Paliſſer, dated at St. John's in Newfoundland the firſt of laſt month, it appears, that having diſpatched a ſloop with a letter to the French Governor at St. Pierre, to enquire into the truth of the reports which have prevailed of the French having mounted cannon and erected works on that iſland, contrary to treaty, he, in anſwer, received aſſurances from the ſaid Governor, that there was only one 4 pounder gun without a platform, and with no other intention than to anſwer ſignals to their fiſhermen in foggy weather; that there were no buildings erected or works contrary to treaty; and that the guard conſiſted of no more than 41 men, and never exceeded fifty. It farther appears by the Commodore's ſaid letters, that there had not been, or were at that time, at the iſlands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, more than one French ſhip of war of 50 guns, one frigate of 26 guns, and another of leſs force, with 2 large ſhips en flute, the deſtination of one of the ſaid ſhips en Flute, being for Cayenne, and the other for St. Domingo: That none of thoſe ſhips had, and, the commanding officer aſſured the Commodore, none of them would, enter into any of the harbours on the coaſt of Newfoundland. And the Commodore adds, that the concurrent fiſhery in thoſe parts of the ſaid coaſts, whereon the French are by treaties permitted to fiſh, had been carried on in perfect tranquility.

Wetherſfield, January, 1, 1765.

ALL perſons indebted to the eſtate of Mr. JOSEPH WEBB, late of Weathersfield, deceaſed, whither by note taken before or ſince his deceaſe; or by book account ſtill unſettled, are requeſted to ſettle and diſcharge the ſame immediately; Thoſe who neglect, muſt not take it unkind, to be put to charge, ſince their debts have been due three years, the greater part of them much longer, and the final ſettlement of ſaid eſtate has been put off on the ſame account. Alſo, thoſe who have dealt at the STORE, of the ſaid deceaſed, ſince his death, and have open accounts of one year's ſtanding, or upwards, are deſired to cloſe them by caſh, pork, Indian corn, rye, wheat or oats, or even notes of hand; which will oblige their humble ſervant,

SILAS DEANE.

SAID DEANE has to ſell a quantity of choice OLD BRANDY, which he will part with at a very low rate for caſh, either by the hogſhead, barrel or kegg. 7--12

Juſt imported from London, in the ſhip Weſtmoreland, Capt. Luce, and to be ſold by

THOMAS DAVIDSON and COMPANY,

At Mrs. Nevans's, in Hartford, the following Articles Wholeſale and Retail, Viz.

BROAD and narrow Cloths,
Superfine Scarlet ditto,
Bearskins,
Pennyſtins,
Swanskins,
Duffels,
Shalloons,
Rattinetts,
Callimancoes of all Colours,
Black, Genoa and Cotton Velvets,
Mecklenburg Stuffs of intire new Patterns,
Silk gauze, flower'd and plain,
Plain and flower'd Lawns, of all ſorts,
Cambricks of all Kinds,
Ribbons of all Sorts, plain and flower'd,
Silk and Worſted Mitts,
Black Barcelona Handkerchiefs,
Cravats ditto,
Check'd Cotton and Linen of all Kinds,
French and English ſtrip'd ditto,
Strip'd Hollands,
Iriſh and Scotch white Linens and Hollands,
Men's, Women's and Children's Silk and Worſted Stockings of all Sorts,
Women's Shoes,
Women's ſeather Mitts,
Lunge Silk Handkerchiefs,
India Silk ditto,
Check'd and Cotton Linens of all Sorts,
Great Variety of Chintzes and Callicoes,
Poplins and Silverets,
Tammies,
Durants,
Nankeen Patterns,
Silk and Worſted ditto,
Pins and Needles,
Colour'd Thread,
White ditto of all Kinds,
Fans and Garlands,
Head Flowers,
Black Pelong,
Perſian Taffeties,
Paduſoy,
Flower'd Damask,
Silk of ſundry Kinds,
Figur'd Alimode ditto,
Gimps and Fringe for Cardinals,
Garters,
Quality Bindings,
Shoe Bindings,
Silk and Worſted Camblets,
A large Quantity of narrow Diaper,
Writing Paper of all Sorts,
Bombazines,
Tiffeny and black Crape,
Dreſden Poplins,
Strip'd Stuffs,
A few Wool Hats, to be ſold low
Ivory and Horn Combs,
Apron and Cap Tapes,
Garnet Necklaces and Ear Rings,
Briſtol ſtone Buttons, ſet in ſilver,
Peeble ſtone ditto ſet in ditto,
French paſte Necklaces,
Great Variety of Glaſs ditto, of a new Faſhion
Silver Buckels,
Metal Buttons of different Kinds,
Buckram,
Common Cutto Knives of all Sorts,
Pen Knives ditto,
Variety of Snuff Boxes,
Double ſet Gimblets,
Table Knives and Forks,
Common Sleeve Buttons, of all Kinds,
London Calf Skins for Boot Legs,
Beſt Scotch Snuff,
Pigtail Tobacco,
Paper'd Shag ditto,
Ink Powder,
Play books,
Loaf-ſugar at One Shilling, per Pound,
Green Tea, warranted Good, at Fifteen Shillings, and
Bohea ditto, at Seven Shillings per Pound,
Beſt French Indigo,
Likewiſe ſundry other Goods, too tedious to mention

And as we intend ſettling in this place, will take in change, all ſorts of lumber: ſuch as pine boards, deck [illegible], hogſhead ſtaves, barrel ditto, ſhingles, cherry tree boards; alſo, pork, beef, &c. at the market price.

All Gentlemen and Ladies, who pleaſe to favour us with their Cuſtom, may depend upon having the aforeſaid Goods at a very ſmall Advance upon the ſterling Coſt.

From their moſt obedient Servants,

Tho's Davidſon and Comp.

ALL Perſons indebted to the Eſtate of Capt. Hezekiah Collier, late of Hartford, deceaſed, are hereby deſired to ſettle the ſame ſpeedily with the Subſcriber, ſole Executor of ſaid deceaſed's laſt Will and Teſtament.

Alſo, Thoſe indebted to him, to make ſpeedy Payment, which will prevent Trouble.

7 HEZEKIAH COLLIER.

WHereas the eſtate of Lieut. David Andrus, late of Farmington, in Hartford diſtrict, deceas'd, has been repreſented to the honorable court of Probates for ſaid diſtrict, to be inſolvent; whereupon ſaid court did appoint us the ſubſcribers commiſſioners to receive and examine the claims of the ſeveral creditors to ſaid eſtate, and make our report thereon to ſaid court, within nine Months. We do therefore, hereby notify all the ſeveral creditors to ſaid eſtate, to bring in their claims and demands, on the laſt Monday of January next, at one o'clock afternoon, at the dwelling houſe of Daniel Curtis, in ſaid Farmington, where we ſhall attend ſaid buſineſs.

Dated at Farmington, November 26. 1764.

SOLOMON WHITMAN, } Commiſſioners.
DANIEL CURTIS,
6 JAMES JUDD.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Sign of the Heart and Crown, near the North Meeting-Houſe.

[illegible] Esq

MONDAY, January 21, 1765. [Number [illegible]]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

The ſurprizing Account of thoſe Spectres called VAMPYRES

THESE Vampyres are ſuppoſed to be the bodies of deceaſed perſons animated by evil ſpirits, which come out of the graves in the night-time, ſuck the blood of many of the living, and thereby deſtroy them. Such a notion will probably, be look'd upon as fabulous: but it is related and maintained by authors of great authority. From one of whom take the following extract.

'The Vampyres, which come out of the graves in the night-time, ruſh upon people ſleeping in their beds, ſuck out their blood, and deſtroy them. They attack men, women, and children, ſparing neither age nor ſex. The people attacked by them complain of ſuffocation, and a great interception of ſpirits; after which they ſoon expire. Some of them, being asked, at the point of death, what is the matter with them, ſay, they ſuffer in the manner juſt related from people lately dead, or rather, the ſpectres of thoſe people; upon which, their bodies, from the deſcription given of them by the ſick perſon, being dug out of the graves, appear, in all parts, as the noſtrils, cheeks, breaſt, mouth, &c. turgid and full of blood. Their countenances are freſh and ruddy, and their nails, as well as hair, very much grown. And, though they have been much longer dead than many other bodies, which are perfectly putrified, not the leaſt mark of corruption is viſible upon them. Thoſe who are deſtroyed by them, after their death, become Vampyres; ſo that to prevent ſo ſpreading an evil, it is found requiſite to drive a ſtake through the dead body, from whence, on this occaſion the blood flows as if the perſon was alive. Sometimes the body is dug out of the grave, and burnt to aſhes; upon which, all diſturbances ceaſe. The Hungarians call theſe ſpectres Pamgri, and the Servians, Vampyres; but the etymon, or reaſon of theſe names is not known.

M. J. Henr Zopfius.

Theſe ſpectres are reported to have infeſted ſeveral diſtricts of Servia, and the bannat of Temeſwaer, in the year 1725, and for ſeven or eight years afterwards, particularly thoſe of Medvadia, or Meadia, and Parakin near the Morava. In 1732, we had a relation of ſome of their feats in the neighbourhood of Caſſovia; and the public prints took notice of the tragedies they acted in the bannat of Temeſwaer, in the year 1738. Father Gabriel Rzacynski, in his natural hiſtory of the kingdom of Poland, and the great dutchy of Lithuania, publiſhed at Sendomir, in 1721, affirms, that in Ruſſia, Poland, and the great dutchy of Lithuania, dead bodies, actuated by infernal ſpirits, ſometimes enter people's houſes in the night, fall upon men, women and children, and attempt to ſuffocate them; and that of ſuch diabolical facts his countrymen have ſeveral very authentic relations.

The Poles call a man's body thus infeſted Upier, and that of a woman Upierzyco, i. e. a winged, or feather'd creature; which name ſeems to be deduced from the ſurprizing lightneſs and activity of theſe incarnate demons. If we remember right, an account of them alſo, from Poland, is to be met with in ſome of the news papers for 1693, perfectly agreeing with thoſe of the Servian Vampyres given us by M. Zopfius. In fine, the notion of ſuch peſtiferous beings has prevailed from time immemorial over a great part of Hungary, Servia, Corniola, Poland, &c. as is evinced by ſeveral authors in conjunction with the aforeſaid M. Zopfius. To which we ſhall beg leave to add, that the antient Greeks alſo ſeem to have been firmly perſuaded, that dead bodies were ſometimes acted by ſeveral ſpirits, as appears from a fragment of Phlegon. Neither is this opinion, however it may be ridiculed by many people, altogether without foundation; ſince the ſupreme Being may make wicked ſpirits his inſtruments of puniſhment here as well as plagues, wars, famines, &c. and that he actually has done ſo, is ſufficiently apparent from ſcripture, to omit what has been ſaid on this head by ſome of the moſt eminent profane authors. See Calmet's diſſertation upon good and bad angels: his articles of Angels, Demon, Devil, Satan, &c. in dict. bibl. and the following texts of ſcripture, Pſ. lxxviii. 49. Job i. Matt. xii. 22—23. Mark iii. 22—31. Luke xi. 14—21. xiii. 16. Acts xix. 13—17.

A comical MIRACLE.

AS a couple of men were digging a grave in the church-yard at Mocon in France, they turned up the head of a dead perſon, which they threw upon the graſs; but it had not lain there long e'er it was perceiv'd to move. The fellows went in a very great hurry to acquaint the parſon of the pariſh, that a ſaint had been interred in the very place where they were at work: whereupon the parſon went immediately to the ſpot, and was ſo ſurprized at the prodigy when he ſaw it, that he cried out, A Miracle! a Miracle! as did alſo the reſt of the ſpectators: and not being willing to ſtir from ſo precious a relick, he ſent for his crucifix, his holy-water bottle, his ſurplus, his ſtole, and his ſquare cap, and cauſed all the bells to be rung, to give notice of it to the pariſhioners; who aſſembling together in great numbers, he ordered a diſh to be brought, wherein he put the head, cover'd it with a napkin, and carried it in proceſſion to the church. The people had great diſputes by the way upon account of the ſeveral claims of affinity to the ſacred ſcull; but they were ſoon pacified; for when the head was arrived at the church, and placed upon the high altar, while Te Deum was ſinging upon the occaſion, juſt as they came to that verſe, 'The whole church throughout the world doth acknowledge thee,' &c. a mole leaped out of the head: upon which diſcovery of the cauſe of its motion, the parſon put a ſtop to Te Deum, and the inhabitants went quietly home.

BOSTON, January 14.

Laſt week arrived here the Captains Hatch and Skilling from London, by whom we have prints to the 3d of November, from which we have extracted the following Articles of Intelligence, viz.

LONDON, October 20.

THE new commercial regulations in North America are complained of as grievous to the colonies. Every king's ſhip is a Guarda-Coſta, and every cargo of the American product is deemed prohibited goods. Flower, bread, ſalt proviſions, lumber, fiſh, live ſtock, poultry, fram'd rafters, iron work, cooperage ſtores, &c. are commodities always welcome to the French and Spaniards, by the exportation of which the planters in America are enabled to make their remittances to England, and for which they receive in return, from the French and Spaniards either money or rum, ſugar, and treacle, at 30 per cent in their favour; if, therefore, this traffic is prohibited, the colonies muſt be ruined, and the mother country, by that means, loſe the only gainful branch of trade, by which her manufactures are principally ſupported.

A moſt affecting letter has appeared in the papers from Capt. Sumniers, commander of an American veſſel from New-London for Dominica with horſes, lumber, fiſh, and onions, but, happening in hazy weather to fall in with Martinique, was boarded by a Guarda Coſta, his ſhip ſeized, himſelf and men ſtript and impriſoned in a dungeon among Negroes and felons, the veſſel and cargo confiſcated, the owners fined, and the captain charged with the expences of confiſcation; which not being able to pay, he has remained in that miſerable ſituation 6 months.

On Saturday the 13th, 23 French Hair-dreſſers, 19 milliners 21 cooks, &c. landed at Union ſtairs from France!

The duties impoſed upon the merchants at the Havannah, by the noble commander there, being refuſed by the treaſury, are ordered to be refunded, without intereſt, and ſubject to 9 per cent exchange, 2-1-half freight home, and 5 per cent commiſſions to the collector.

Differences have ariſen between the king of Great Britain, and the Chapter of Oſnaburg, relating to the adminiſtration of affairs in that Biſhoprick during the minority of the young prince.

On the 21ſt died the Rev. Mr. Roe, Ordinary of Newgate.

The 26th died William Hogarth, Eſq; the celebrated painter.

Oct. 31. It is ſaid an expreſs is ſent to Plymouth for the Edgar man of war to ſail directly with ſome diſpatches of conſequence.

When the corpſe of the duke of Devonſhire arrived at Dover, the cuſtom houſe officers behaved in a manner that gave very great offence to every body preſent. They not only inſiſted upon opening the coffin, to ſee if any contraband goods were in it; but on ſeeing the body, ſtruck it with a ſtick to be convinced it was a real corpſe.—But however improperly they may have behaved on this occaſion, it is certain that the ſtrict ſearches made of late have been owing to the very great frauds practiſed by the ſtale trick of putting goods of value into coffins. This was very commonly practiſed about 40 years ſince, and with pretty good ſucceſs.—But once, upon the uncommon appearance of a clergyman, an undertaker, and the reſt of the apparatus of a funeral, the officers at Dover were a little ſuſpicious, and determined to open the coffin, and, to their great ſatisfaction, found a moſt valuable cargo of fine laces, &c. This did not diſcourage a late high bailiff of Weſtminſter, who when biſhop Atterbury's corpſe was ſet out from Calais to England for interment, took the opportunity of running into the coffin, goods to the amount of 1000l. which were ſeized and condemned at Dover.

Yeſterday morning a meſſenger arrived from the Right Hon. the Earl of Hertford our ambaſſador at the court of France.

The King of France has promoted the Sieur de Nelivos, Captain of the French foot guards, to a Major General of his armies; and has appointed him Governor of the iſlands of Guadaloupe, in the room of the Marquis de Bourlamaque.

As much has been lately ſaid of the people on the continent of America ſetting up manufactures at this time, to rival ours, it may not be amiſs to obſerve, that this is no new complaint; and we have it from the beſt authority, that in 1719, when Col. Shute was Governor of Maſſachuſett's Bay, in New-England, he informed the then board of trade, that in ſome parts of the province the inhabitants then worked up their wool and flax, and made a coarſe ſort for their own uſe; there were alſo hatters in the maritime towns; they alſo manufactured the greateſt part of their leather; and that ſix iron furnaces and ten forges were ſet up for making iron.—Governor Belcher, who ſucceeded him in 1731, confirms the ſame; and Colonel Dunbar, ſurveyor general of his Majeſty's woods in North-America, in his letter to the ſame board, of Sept. 1730, mentions their manufacturing and exporting hats to Spain, Portugal, and the Weſt-Indies And the above Col. Dunbar concludes his account with obſerving to their Lordſhips, 'That it is with the greateſt difficulty we are able to procure true information of the trade and manufactures of New-England; which will not appear extraordinary, when we acquaint your Lordſhips, that the aſſembly of the Maſſachuſett's Bay had the boldneſs to ſummon Mr. Jeremiah Dunbar, deputy ſurveyor of the woods, before them, and paſs a ſevere cenſure upon him for having given evidence at the bar of the houſe of commons of Great Britain, with reſpect to the trade and manufactures of this province.'

It is now ſaid that a further reduction of land forces will ſoon take place; in conſequence of a reſolution to fill up the marine corps to their uſual complement, and to retain thirty ſhips of the line, beſides cruiſing frigates, ſloops and tenders, in commiſſion.

It is now ſaid the vacant blue ribbon will be given to Earl Gower, who is to go Lord Lieutenant to Ireland; and it is alſo ſaid, that the Earl of Northumberland will be appointed firſt Lord of the treaſury.

LONDON, October 24.

The leaders in the epiſcopal ſociety for the propagation of the goſpel in foreign parts may conſider, whether it might not be more proper to employ their wiſdom and revenue, for ſome years in recovering their own thinned flocks from popery at home, lurking intolerant popery, then in miſſions abroad, and in epiſcopizing proteſtant diſſenters, and converting the Indians.

Oct. 25. The king of Denmark has received a mail from the ſociety of learned men whom he ſent into Arabia. This mail contains five hundred volumes extremely ancient, all wrote in Arabic, and amongſt them there are ſeveral bibles, one of which was wrote above 1000 years ago.

It is ſaid a ſcheme is on foot for the more regularly relieving the ſeveral Britiſh regiments now on ſtation in the Weſt-Indies and North-America, by which ſuch troops as are order'd abroad, may have an opportunity of returning again to their own country, without being condemned to ſpend half their lives in the torrid Zone.

They write from Liſbon, that in digging up the foundation of an old palace burnt down in the late fire, the workmen found an urn containing three hundred gold medals of the Emperor Titus, which appear to have been ſtruck ſoon after that prince's laſt ſucceſsful expedition againſt the Jews, having this inſcription. TITO VESPASIANI AVGVSTI FILIO, JVDÆIS SUBACTIS.

Oct. 29. His Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland's horſe King Herod, beat the Duke of Grafton's Antonius for a thouſand guineas. The betts on this occaſion are ſaid to have amounted to more than a hundred thouſand pounds. The difference that determined this enormous ſum was no more than half a neck's length.—His Royal Highneſs, whoſe life was tho't in danger, is greatly recovered. An inciſion was made in his leg, juſt under the knee, and a ſurprizing quantity of matter diſcharged, but the wound is not healed.

Wedneſday was held a board of trade, when ſeveral American petitions were conſidered and agreed to be laid before the enſuing parliament.

Oct. 31. The advices received from America, are full of the bad effects of the late act of parliament for regulating the trade of the plantations, and for laying a duty on their exports and imports, in order to defray the expences of their own government.—The prohibitions lain upon their trade by this act, are grievouſly complained of, and the rigor with which theſe prohibitions are inforced by the men of war ſtationed on their coaſts for that purpoſe, are by no means reliſhed by the Americans, who ſubſiſt in a manner by their clandeſtine commerce with the French and Spaniards, and which muſt be connived at, if any advantage is to be expected from them by their mother country. On the other hand, the Weſt-In[illegible] complain of this indulgence, and are preparing me[illegible] preſented to parliament, to put a ſtop to the North [illegible] diſtilleries from French materials.

They write from Glaſgow, that great numbers of journeymen lately employed in the ſtocking manufacture, and buoyed up with high proſpects of encouragement made them by ſome American agents, have embarked this ſummer for Boſton and Philadelphia; where it is ſaid four new different branches in the weaving buſineſs have been already ſet up.

Nov. 1. It is now ſaid, that France has totally relinquiſhed all claim to Turk's Iſland, by virtue of ſome conceſſions on the part of Great-Britain; and as this place is ſo materially advantageous to our fiſheries, it is ſaid, ſome ſtrong fortifications will be ſoon erected thereon.

We hear an additional duty will ſoon be laid on the foreign importation of hemp, hemp ſeed and flax, particularly from Ruſſia and the Baltic; great quantities, the growth of our own American Colonies, being expected over early in the ſpring.

An evening paper ſays, that ſome great changes in the adminiſtration have already been made, but will not be publicly declared 'til after the meeting of the parliament.

Commiſſions are come over from New-York, for implements of huſbandry and gardening, to the amount of 5000l. to be forwarded with all ſpeed.

Nov. 2. By a private letter from Newmarket we are informed, that his Royal Highneſs had taken cold on Friday laſt, which occaſioned an inflammation and ſwelling in his throat, but that having been bled, his Royal Highneſs was much better, and his leg was as well as could be expected.

By recent letters from Cleves, there is an account, that ſome of the Rain, of a red Colour, reſembling Blood, which fell there the 9th ult. has been examined into by Doct. Schutte of that Place, who has delivered the Reſult of this Operation and Obſervations to the Lords of the Regency.

It is now ſaid, that for very prudential reaſons, never leſs than five regiments on the Britiſh eſtabliſhment will from henceforth be kept in commiſſion in the province of New-York, Pennſylvania and New-England.—It is expected, that Penſacola in Florida, and two Britiſh Iſlands in the Weſt-Indies, will ſpeedily be declared free ports.

We hear a liſt of all ſuch goods as are hereafter to be deemed contraband in any of the colonies of North America, are now making out, and will be ſent over by the next Packet; according to which his Majeſty's ſea and land officers, collectors of the cuſtoms, are to regulate their conduct with regard to all future ſeizures.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman at Virginia, to his Friend in this City, Sept. 4.

"There is the ſame dull Round of Buſineſs purſued as uſual; the Courts are filled with Law-ſuits, and many People are obliged to ſell their Eſtates. Melancholy and uneaſineſs are viſible in moſt countenances, and happy is the Man that can keep his Effects together. Tobacco is low, and Grain of all Sorts much fallen; from whence then is our relief to come? It can happen, in my opinion, only from the ſtricteſt Frugality in our Affairs. Hemp and Flax are the two Objects that are looked on, as if they would deliver us, and ſo they would in a great Meaſure, but ſomething elſe is neceſſary.

We hear the North American Colonies endeavouring to rival the mother country in diverſe material articles of manufacture, will occaſion ſome wholeſome regulations ſhortly to take place, in particular with regard to the future tranſmigration of artificers out of the kingdom.

Charleſtown, S. Carolina, November 5.

The Engliſh in the Bay of Honduras are ſtill reſtricted in cutting of logwood, to about 20 leages up the river, and on one ſide only. Some have 10000 tons cut at Bacalos and other places, which the Spaniſh Governor of Jucatan will not ſuffer them to bring away. Theſe advices from th[illegible] ſo late as the 4th ult.

December 1. The number of new ſettlers [illegible] warrants of land granted them in this provinc[illegible] laſt paſt, amounts to upwards of 870.

The Governor of New Orleans has iſſue[illegible]ation by order of his maſter the French King, [illegible] that the Iſland and City of New Orleans, &c. are [illegible] to his Moſt Catholick Majeſty. So that now we [illegible] congratulate the true friends of their country on the [illegible]on of the French from all North America.

NEW-Y[illegible] December 31.

A Letter from Detro[illegible] the 12th ult. ſays, "Yeſterday ſome of the Indians b[illegible]ging to this Place, who had been out on a Scout againſt the Shewaneſe, returned, with the Scalp of one of their Chiefs Wives: They were extremely well received here by Col. Cambell, our Commandant, who made them ſeveral Preſents, with which they ſeemed well contented.

[illegible] an in this City whoſe only Son was interred laſt [illegible] ed a the Funeral without any other mourning [illegible] nd, and the Bearers without Scarfs.

Laſt Wedneſd[illegible] at New-York, the Harriot Packet Boat, Capt. Ro[illegible] in 8 Weeks and 6 Days from Falmouth; by whom [illegible] is the following Advices.

LONDON, Nov. 8.

ON Thurſday laſt, [illegible] inſt. John Wilkes, Eſq; had [illegible] againſt him, at the Sheriff's county co[illegible] in Holborn, by the Sheriff, Coroner, and other officers.

We are informed a reſolution has lately been taken to erect ſome ſtrong fortifications on the Iſland of Anticoſti, in the Gulph of St. Laurence, which from the late ſurveys has been found to be a place of great conſequence, in caſe of any future war.

Nov. 9. We are informed a ſcheme for impoſing a general ſtamp duty in N. America is now finiſhed, upon a new plan, againſt the enſuing ſeſſions; the profits to be applied for the better ſecurity and defence of the Colonies.

It is ſaid that a Scheme is now under conſideration for leſſening the National Debt by an Annuity Lottery. The Tickets to be 10ol. each, to be purchaſed at Par at the Bank for a limited Time, thereby to hinder the evil Effects of Alley Jobbing: The Blanks are to be an Annuity of Three per Cent for the Life of the Owner. Eight per Cent. Intereſt to be allowed upon the whole Sum to be raiſed, Three per Cent. of which to be for the Blanks as above; and from the other Five, &c. to be deducted, and the Remainder to be divided to Prizes.

It is ſaid a new Academy, in the Manner of that at Woolwich, is to be endowed at New-York, for the future training young gentlemen in the art of engineering, and to ſupply the artillery of that and the neighbouring provinces, without being under the neceſſity of being obliged to make draughts from the Royal artillery in England.

Nov. 10. The tranſports are yet detained at Spithead, the Wind being very boiſterous and foul.—That there is an Account of a French 54 Gun Ship being gone upon the Coaſt of Guiney, to effect a Settlement ſome where near Gambia. That the Edgar Man of War, of 60 Guns, has been lying theſe ſix Weeks in Plymouth Sound, waiting only for ſailing Orders; tis ſaid ſhe is going Commodore upon the Coaſt of Guiney, and there are great Numbers of young Gentlemen upon Preferment going in her.—The ultimate Reſolution of the French and Spaniards, the Former in Relation of the Payment of the Canada Bills, and the Maintenance of their Priſoners during the War; the Latter in reſpect to the Ranſom of the Manilles, are expected ſpeedily to be made public, anſwers being received from both thoſe Courts.

Several gardeners and huſbandmen have, within theſe few days, engaged themſelves to go to N. York, where great encouragement is given them.

We hear, that on a memorial being preſented by the Earl of Hertford to the French Court, ſetting forth the illegal proceedings of the Governor of Goree, in attempting to eſtabliſh a ſettlement near the river Gambia, in Africa, that Court has declared its diſapprobation of his proceedings, and he is recalled to give an account of his irregular behaviour.

We are credibly informed, the Merchants of the 3 American Colonies N. England, Pennſylvania, and N. York, by the late mail have remonſtrated to the Miniſtry, in very moving terms, againſt the cruel and illegal proceedings of the French governors in the W. Indies, on account of their behaviour to ſuch Britiſh ſubjects as have the misfortune either thro' ſtreſs of weather, or other involuntary cauſes to approach their coaſt; in which caſe confiſcation and impriſonment enſue. It is ſaid this petition, couched in the terms, will occaſion ſuch a fleet to be conſtantly kept cruiſing in the Weſt-Indies, that ſhall not only revenge the paſt, but prevent the future inſult to the meaneſt ſubject in that part of the world.

NEW-YORK, Jan. 17. Monday laſt, being the birth day of the Marquis of Granby, maſter of the ordnance, in the evening an elegant entertainment was provided, by the officers of the artillery—and ſeveral curious fire-works were exhibited in the fields.

HARTFORD, January 21.

A large ſtore of the Pennſylvania manufactured cloths, ſwanſkins, ſtriped linſeys, &c. is lately opened at Philadelphia, and meets with great ſales. It is to be wiſhed that ſuch a ſtore was open'd in [illegible] colony.—

WHEREAS the proprietors of the [illegible] of Hanover, in the province of New-Hampſhire, did, at their legal meeting the 6th day of Auguſt laſt, vote to raiſe a tax of twelve ſhillings, lawful money, upon each original right or ſhare in ſaid townſhip, to defray the coſt of laying out and clearing highways in ſaid townſhip: and the aſſeſſors having committed to me the ſubſcriber, a bill, or liſt thereof, with a warrant to collect the ſame, and pay it into the treaſury of ſaid propriety: This is to notify ſaid proprietors, that each of them pay the ſum of twelve ſhillings, lawful money, to me the ſubſcriber, at my dwelling houſe in Coventry, in the colony of Connecticut, on the firſt day of March next: And thoſe proprietors, who ſhall neglect to pay his, or their proportion aforeſaid, may depend that the money will be levied according to law.

And likewiſe, notice is hereby given to the aforeſaid proprietors, that are delinquent in paying the tax of twelve ſhillings, lawful money, or any part thereof, which was granted in March 13th, 1764. and advertiſed in the New-London Gazette on the twenty-fifth of May following, according to law; that ſo much of their rights or lands as is ſufficient to pay ſaid delinquents taxes, with incident charges, will be ſold at publick vendue, on the third monday in March next, at the dwelling houſe of Lieut. Jeſſe Root, inn holder [illegible] Coventry. Said ſale to begin at ten o'clock in the [illegible] on ſaid day, and to continue by adjournment, from [illegible] time till all be ſold. Dated at Coventry, January 15th, [illegible]

9 Amos Richardſon, Collector.

WHEREAS many of the proprietors of the townſhip of Andover, in the province of New-Hampſhire, have not paid their reſpective taxes raiſed on ſaid land, to defray the coſt thereof according to the votes of ſaid propriety: Theſe are therefore, to give PUBLIC NOTICE, That there is to be a vendue of ſaid negligent proprietors rights, at the dwelling-houſe of Nathaniel Houſe, inn-holder in Lebanon, to begin at one of the clock in the afternoon, on the 25th day of February next, and continue until the whole of ſaid rights ſhall be ſold. Dated at Lebanon, the 14th day of January, A. D. 1765.

9 Per Nathaniel Houſe, Collector.

TO be ſold at publick vendue, at the dwelling-houſe of Mr. Abel Foſter, inn-keeper in the ſociety of Ellington in Windſor, on the ſecond Tueſday of February next; the farm belonging to the Rev'd Mr. Seth Norton's heirs. Said farm contains 53 acres, with a good dwelling-houſe, barn and orchard.

9 Ichabod Norton, Executor.

Kent, January 15, 1765.

STray'd from the ſubſcriber of Kent, ſome time in March or April laſt, a light bay mare, about 14 hands high, about 13 years old, ſhod all round, a black mane and tail, a natural pacer, ſuppoſed to be with fole, ſhe was bred in Colcheſter. Whoever hath, or ſhall take up ſaid mare and give notice to the owner, ſo that he may have her, with her colt, if ſhe hath one, ſhall be well rewarded, and all neceſſary charges paid by me, 9 Daniel Mack.

STOLEN, out of the houſe of Elisha Brewſter of Middletown, on, or about the 2d of November laſt, a ſmall ſilver watch, with a cheney face, the maker's name, J. Wink, London, No. 519, with a large ſilver ſeal. Whoever ſhall give information of the above watch, ſo that the owner may have it again, ſhall receive a handſome reward, by 9 Eliſha Brewſter.

STray'd or ſtolen from the ſubſcriber in Hartford, on Tueſday the 15th of this inſtant, a dark ſorril mare, about 14 hands and a half high, brand uncertain, both paces and trots, but inclines rather to pace than trot, has a ſmall blaze down her face, and a ſaddle ſpot on her left ſide; ſhe was bred by Samuel Smith, Nine-Partners; ſhod all round, and in good fleſh when ſhe went off. Whoever will take up ſaid mare and deliver her at Mr. Ball's tavern, in Hartford, within ten days, from the date hereof, ſhall receive a good, new beaver hat, and all neceſſary charges paid, by Timothy Church.

Hartford, January 21ſt, 1765. 9

---

†§† The Boſton Poſt is not arrived at the Publication hereof;—Laſt Thurſday we received a Boſton Paper, of the 14th Inſtant, by a private Hand.—The York Poſt arrived laſt Evening, and ſets off again as ſoon as the Boſton Mail comes to Hand.—

BOSTON, January 14. We have advice that the French are ſettling, with 4000 perſons, a colony at a place call'd the Triangles, a little to windward of Surrinam: That they claim as far weſtward as the river Mariwina, part of which claim is within a few leagues of ſome Dutch plantations.—This procedure of the French very much alarms their good friends the Dutch, who have ſent an expreſs to the States with an account of this affair, and another to the commander of this new French colony, to know the reaſon of their forming this ſettlement.—This ſtep is the more alarming on account of the great number of wild Negroes on the back of the Dutch plantations, who, tho' at peace now, may perhaps be made the ſame uſe of againſt the Dutch, as the Indians on this continent have been againſt the Britiſh ſettlements.

Monday laſt Capt. Attwood arrived here in but 3 Days from Halifax; by the Papers we learn, that all the Neutrals, (ſo called) conſiſting of between 5 and 600, except 4 or 5 Families who have taken the Oath of Allegiance, have embarked on board Veſſels for Cape Francois. They had a weekly Allowance in that Province of Proviſions, the ſame as Soldiers, in hopes of their becoming Subjects of Great Britain.—Their removing is felt by the Inhabitants in the extraordinary Riſe of Wood there, which they uſed to cut and ſupply the Town with.

Some time ſince a number of Neutrals ſailed from this Province for the Cape; but it is imagined, that many of them will not be able to endure the Climate ſo different from their own.

Monday evening about 6 o'clock a man was ſtopped by a fellow in an alley at the north-end, who bruiſ'd him conſiderably, the fellow drew out a kniſe and threatned to kill him if he did not deliver what money he had, which was a dollar. Two other fellows, ſuppoſed to be in combination, ſtood at a little diſtance the whole of the time.

We hear the Rev. Dr. Mayhew is choſen to preach the Dudleian Lecture at Harvard College, in May next.

Captains Hatch and Skillings had very ſevere weather on the coaſt, and it was with great difficulty they got into Port.

We hear that Jaſper Maudit, Eſq; has reſigned the Agency of the Province, on account of his decling ſtate of health.

WHereas we the ſubſcribers, were ſome time ſince, agreeable to act of aſſembly for relief of inſolvent debtors, appointed aſſignees of all the eſtate of Daniel Enſign, jun. of Hartland, Ephraim Patterſon, of Cornwal, and Aaron Bailey, of Salisbury, in Litchfield County, inſolvent debtors, and to make devidend of the ſame to and among their reſpective creditors; having carefully enquired and ſought after the eſtates of the ſaid inſolvents, can as yet, find no eſtate of the ſaid debtors to divide, nor even ſufficient to anſwer the Coſts.

Litchfield, 20th of December, 1764.

Iſaac Baldwin, } Aſſignees.
Reuben Smith, }

William Jepſon,

HEREBY notifies all perſons indebted to the late company of Gardiner and Jepſon, by book, which books are now finiſhed, that unleſs their accounts are ſettled, either by caſh or their obligations, by the 12th Day of March next, they will have to ſettle them with his Attorney, as on that Day he is determined to put them into his hands, that next April court may cloſe them; and thinks no one can take it amiſs, after this notice, to be ſued, as he has adveitiſed them of the co-partnerſhip's being near expiring, and deſiring them to ſettle their accounts for twelve Months paſt. And all whoſe obligations are of long ſtanding, are, for the laſt time, deſired to pay them, or they will be ſued at April Court.

Hartford, January 10th, 1765.

ALL Perſons indebted to the Subſcriber for Poſtage of Letters, are deſired to pay the ſame immediately, to prevent Trouble.

No Letters will be delivered for the future, to any Perſon whatever, unleſs the Poſtage is firſt paid.

JOHN WALKER, D. P. Mr.

Wethersfield, January, 1, 1765.

[illegible]ons indebted to the eſtate of Mr. JOSEPH [illegible]B, late of Weathersfield, deceaſed, whither by [illegible] before or ſince his deceaſe; or by book account ſtill un[illegible] are requeſted to ſettle and diſcharge the ſame immediately; [illegible]hoſe who neglect, muſt not take it unkind, to be put to c[illegible] ſince their debts have been due three years, the greate[illegible] [illegible] them much longer, and the final ſettlement of ſaid eſt[illegible] [illegible] put off on the ſame account. Alſo, thoſe who have [illegible] STORE, of the ſaid deceaſed, ſince his death, and [illegible] open accounts of one year's ſtanding, or upwards, are deſired to cloſe them by caſh, pork, Indian corn, rye, wheat or oats, or even notes of hand; which will oblige their humble ſervant,

SILAS DEANE.

SAID DEANE has to ſell a quantity of choice OLD BRANDY, which he will part with [illegible] very low rate for caſh, either by the hogſhead, barrel [illegible]

Juſt imported from London, in the ſhi[illegible]and, Capt. Luce, and to be ſold by

THOMAS DAVIDSON [illegible] COMPANY,

At Mrs. Nevans's, in Hartford, [illegible] following Articles, Wholeſale and Retail, Viz.

BROAD and narrow Cloths,
Superfine Scarlet ditto,
Bearſkins,
Pennyſtins,
Swanskins,
Duffels,
Shalloons,
Rattinets,
Callimancoes of all Colours,
Black, Genoa and Cotton Velvets,
Mecklenburg Stuffs of intire new Patterns,
Silk gauze, flower'd and plain,
Plain and flower'd Lawns, of all ſorts,
Cambricks of all Kinds,
Ribbons of all Sorts, plain and flower'd,
Silk and Worſted Mitts,
Black Barcelona Handkerchiefs,
Cravats ditto,
Check'd Cotton and Linen of all Kinds,
French and Engliſh ſtrip'd ditto,
Strip'd Hollands,
Iriſh and Scotch white Linens and Hollands,
Men's, Women's and Children's Silk and Worſted Stockings of all Sorts,
Women's Shoes,
Women's leather Mitts,
Lunge Silk Handkerchiefs,
India Silk ditto,
Check'd and Cotton Linens of all Sorts,
Great Variety of Chintzes and Callicoes,
Poplins and Silverets,
Tammies,
Durants,
Nankeen Patterns,
Silk and Worſted ditto,
Pins and Needles,
Colour'd Thread,
White ditto of all Kinds,
Fans and Garlands,
Head Flowers,
Black Pelong,
Perſian Taffeties,
[illegible]ſoy,
[illegible]er'd Damask,
[illegible] of ſundry Kinds,
[illegible]gur'd Alſmode ditto,
Gimps and Fringe for Cardinals,
Garters,
Quality Bindings,
Shoe Bindings,
Silk and Worſted Camblets,
A large Quantity of narrow Diaper,
Writing Paper of all Sorts,
Bombazines,
Tiffeny and black Crape,
Dreſden Poplins,
Strip'd Stuffs,
A few Wool Hats, to be ſold low
Ivory and Horn Combs,
Apron and Cap Tapes,
Garnet Necklaces and Ear Rings,
Briſtol ſtone Buttons, ſet in ſilver,
Peeble ſtone ditto ſet in ditto,
French paſte Necklaces,
Great Variety of Glaſs ditto, of a new Faſhion
Silver Buckels,
Metal Buttons of different Kinds,
Buckram,
Common Cutto Knives of all Sorts,
Pen Knives ditto,
Variety of Snuff Boxes,
Double ſet Gimblets,
Table Knives and Forks,
Common Sleeve Buttons, of all Kinds,
London Calf Skins for Boot Legs,
Beſt Scotch Snuff,
Pigtail Tobacco,
Paper'd Shag ditto,
Ink Powder,
Play books,
Loaf-ſugar at One Shilling, per Pound,
Green Tea, warranted Good, at Fifteen Shillings, and
Bohea ditto, at Seven Shillings per Pound,
Beſt French Indigo,
Likewiſe ſundry other Goods, too tedious to mention

And as we intend ſettling in this place, will take in exchange, all ſorts of lumber: ſuch as pine boards, deck plank, hogſhead ſtaves, barrel ditto, ſhingles, cherry tree boards; alſo, pork, beef, &c. at the market price.

All Gentlemen and Ladies, who pleaſe to favour us with their Cuſtom, may depend upon having the aforeſaid Goods at a very ſmall Advance upon the ſterling Coſt.

From their moſt obedient Servants,

Tho's Davidſon and Comp.

ALL Perſons indebted to the Eſtate of Capt. Hezekiah Collier, late of Hartford, deceaſed, are hereby deſired to ſettle the ſame ſpeedily with the Subſcriber, ſole Executor of ſaid deceaſed's laſt Will and Teſtament.

Alſo, Thoſe indebted to him, to make ſpeedy Payment, which will prevent Trouble.

7 HEZEKIAH COLLIER.

ALL perſons Indebted to RALPH and ELEAZAR POMEROY, on Book, are deſired immediately to ſettle their Accounts. Hartford, January 7, 1765.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Sign of the Heart and Crown, near the North Meeting-Houſe.

MONDAY, March 4, 1765. [Number 15.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

CHARLESTOWN, (in South Carolina) Dec. 14.

THE following is a tranſlation of the French King's orders for delivering to the Spaniards all his poſſeſſions in North-America, which had not been ceded by the definative treaty to Great-Britain, from the original, printed by Dennis Braud, printer to the King at New-Orleans, in October laſt, and publiſhed among all the French inhabitants.

"Extract of the King's letter to M. D'Abbadie, director general and commandant for his Majeſty in Louiſiana.

"Monſ. D'Abbadie, by a ſpecial act, done at Fontainbleau, Nov. 3, 1762, of my own will and mere motion, having ceded to my very dear and beſt beloved couſin the King of Spain, and to his heirs and ſucceſſors, in full property, purely and ſimply, and without any exceptions, the whole country known by the name of Louiſiana, together with New Orleans and the iſland in which the ſaid city is ſituated; and by another act done at the Eſcurial, Nov. 13th, in the ſame year, his Catholick Majeſty having accepted the ceſſion of the ſaid country of Louiſiana, and the city and iſland of New-Orleans, agreeable to the copies of the ſaid acts, which you will find hereunto annexed: I write you this letter to inform you, that my intention is, That on receipt of theſe preſents, whether they come to your hands by the officers of his Catholick Majeſty, or directly by ſuch French veſſels as may be charged with the ſame, You are to deliver up to the governor, or officer appointed for that purpoſe by the King of Spain, the ſaid country and colony of Louiſiana, and the poſts thereon depending; likewiſe the city and iſland of New-Orleans, in ſuch ſtate and condition as they ſhall be found to be in on the day of the ſaid ceſſion, willing that in all time to come they ſhall belong to his Catholick Majeſty, to be governed and adminiſtered by his governors and officers, and as poſſeſſed by him in full property without any exceptions. At the ſame time I hope for the proſperity and peace of the inhabitants of the colony of Louiſiana, and promiſe myſelf, from the friendſhip and affection of his Catholick Majeſty, that he will be pleaſed to give orders to his governor and all other officers employed in his ſervice in the ſaid colony, and in the city of New-Orleans, That, the eccleſiaſtics and religious houſes who have the care of the pariſhes and of the miſſions, may continue to exerciſe their functions, and enjoy the rights, privileges and immunities granted by their ſeveral charters of eſtabliſhments. That the ordinary judges do continue, together with the ſuperior council, to adminiſter juſtice according to the laws, forms and uſages of the colony: That the inhabitants be preſerved and maintained in their poſſeſſions: That they be confirmed in the property of their eſtates, according to the grants which have been made by the governors and directors of the colony, and that all the ſaid grants be holden and taken as confirmed by his Catholick Majeſty, even though not, as yet, ever confirmed by me.

"Hoping above all, that his Catholick Majeſty will be pleaſed to beſtow on his new ſubjects of Louiſiana, the ſame marks of protection and good will, which they enjoyed while under my dominion, and of which the misfortunes of war alone have prevented their experiencing greater effects; I command you to cauſe my preſent letter to be recorded in the ſuperior council of New-Orleans, to the end that the ſeveral eſtates of the colony may be informed of its contents, and may have recourſe thereto when neceſſary. And the preſent being for no other purpoſes, I pray God, Monſ. D'Abbadie, to have you in his holy keeping. Given at Verſailles, April 21, 1764. Signed Louis, and underneath, Le Duc de Choiſeul."

The Spaniards are actually arrived at New-Orleans, to take poſſeſſion of the city and colony. Monſ. D'Abbadie told the French officers they were at liberty to enter into the King of Spain's ſervice, and at the ſame time informed them, that the French King had no further occaſion for them. It was mentioned in a former paper, that the French were ſending off their military ſtores, ordnance, &c. ſo that very little, if any, would remain on the day of their ceſſion. It is well worth notice, that the date of the act of ceſſion is the ſame with that of the preliminary articles of peace, which ſhews that our peace-makers were not ſo unmindful of the Britiſh intereſt in America, as the ſowers of ſedition would have us belive.

They write from St. Auguſtine, that the gentlemen there have ſubſcribed 200 guineas towards making a road for carriages from that town to Fort Barrington in Georgia, whereby a communication will be opened for all ſorts of carriages between Eaſt Florida, and all the provinces in America to the northward of it.

Jan. 11. William Gerhard de Brahm, Eſq; appointed ſurveyor general of the ſouthern diſtrict of North-America, has engaged a veſſel well manned and victualled for 18 weeks, in order to proceed from Savannah in Georgia, to make a ſurvey of the coaſt and [illegible] from St. Auguſtine to Cape Florida. The ſouthern and northern diſtricts in America are divided by the river Potomack, and a due weſt line drawn from the head of the main branch of that river as far as his Majeſty's dominions extend.

On Saturday laſt his Majeſty's ſhip Trial, commanded by James Wallace, Eſq, arrived here from a cruiſe. The ſaltrakers have been reſettled peaceably on Turks-Iſland for a conſiderable time paſt; and we hear the loſs they ſuſtained has been liquidated by his excellency governor Littleton and the Count d'Eſtaing.

The culture of hemp increaſes in this province. Since January laſt the publick treaſurer has paid the bounty upon little leſs than one hundred thouſand pounds weight. The bounty is about ten ſhillings, three pence ſterling (21s. 8d. currency) on every 100 lb.

The Count d'Eſtaing, governor general of Martineco, &c. ſays he has received advices that our court has ſent four ſhips of the line with two regiments, in order to ſettle and fortify the iſland of Ruatan.

The laſt advices from the Cherokee country inform us, that every thing continued quiet amongſt thoſe Indians. Oreſſite or Judd's Friend, who went with a party ſome time ago, to intercept the ſupplies which it was expected the French were ſending to the enemy Indians, was not returned, nor has any account been received from him.

Major Loftus was preparing in Nov. laſt to go up the Miſſiſippi to take poſſeſſion of fort Natchez, the Illinois and other poſts. The 32d regiment goes to Mobille inſtead of the 22d. Capt. John Ormsby of the 35th is appointed Major thereof in the room of Major Forbes appointed Lieutenant-Colonel.

From the Creek country they write, that the Mortar has declared his deſire of having no trade but with this province and Georgia, by the old Auguſta path.

Andrew Johnſon,

[At Mr. KENT's, in Middletown]

BEGS Leave to inform his Friends and Cuſtomers, that, being obliged to go for England in a very ſhort Time, will diſpoſe of the few Goods remaining unſold, conſiſting of ſtrip'd and check'd Linens, Cambricks, &c. &c. for a very moderate Profit: And as he purchaſed theſe Goods from the Makers, on the beſt Terms, flatters himſelf that they will be thought as Cheap as ever any Thing of their Kinds, have been ſold in this Country.

N. B. The beſt BOHEA TEA, at 6/10 by the Pound, or Half Pound; and by the Hundred, Half or Quarter, 6/6.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN,

TO the Owners of the ſeveral Rights or Shares of the Townſhip of Bromley, in the Province of New-Hampſhire, who are delinquent in paying the Tax of One Pound, Ten Shillings, Lawful Money, or any Part thereof; which was granted at a legal Meeting, on the third Tueſday of Auguſt, 1763, and advertiſed in the Connecticut Courant for three Weeks paſt, according to Law, that ſo much of their Land or Rights there, ſufficient to pay ſaid Delinquent's Tax with incident Charges, will be ſold at Publick Vendue, on the 25th of March next, at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. Samuel Gilbert, jun. Inn Holder in Hebron, in Connecticut: Said Sale to begin at Ten o'Clock in the Morning, on ſaid Day, and to continue from Day to Day; or to be kept alive by adjournment till all be ſold.

Dated at Hebron, the 4th Day of March, 1765.

15 THOMAS SUMNER, Collector.

DUBLIN, November 10.

The following Letter was read laſt Sunday in all the Romiſh Chapels of Kilkenny, and the reſt of the Dioceſe of Oſſory.

To the Rev. Roman Catholick Paſtors and other Clergymen of the Dioceſe of Oſſory.

The enormous outrages committed by the unruly people called White Boys, are too well known to you all, even to ſuch an exceſs as that ſome of his Majeſty's light horſe loſt their lives. This I mention, becauſe there are many Roman Catholicks amongſt them, though they act directly in oppoſition to the principles of their religion, nay to the law of nature, made clear to mankind by the very light of reaſon. If they think themſelves grieved in any reſpect, they might be redreſſed by lawful ways and means. They ought to be amenable to the laws of the nation, & not provoke the government, which is mild beyond expreſſion. Hence in the name of the Roman Catholick church I abhor and deteſt their doings; and I declare, that their combination oath does not bind them; they committed a moſt grievous ſin when they took it or any other wicked oath, and they are guilty of another grievous ſin as often as they obſerve it. Wherefore I command them to behave as peaceable ſubjects, and ſo deſerve a continuance of that lenity and moderation we have experienced theſe many years paſt, otherwiſe I will puniſh them to the utmoſt of the power I have from God and the church. I am not only encouraged but likewiſe requeſted to do ſo by perſonages in power. Finally I command you to read this paper with an audible voice from your reſpective altars on three ſundays immediately after you will receive it, and to exert yourſelves agreeable thereto with zeal and prudence. Given at Kilkenny, the 1ſt of November, 1764.

Your ſervant in Chriſt, T. B.

To be explained in Iriſh.

Dublin, Oct 13. We are well informed, that Mr Richard Brewer, of this city, (who took his paſſage laſt week in the Kildare, Capt. M'Colloh, for Parkgate) is actually gone to London, to ſolicit a patent from his Majeſty, for inſtituting a quadrant of his own invention, which is formed on principles ſo accurately and admirably adapted, as to be ſaid infinitely to ſurpaſs any conſtruction of that kind, that ever was known. It is likewiſe affirm'd, that he alſo intends to exhibit a plan on an entire new ſyſtem, for the effectual diſcovery of the longitude.

Corke, October 27. We hear from Kanturk, that a married woman of that place, being jealous of the wife of a perſon there, got a number of fellows to ſet upon the woman, whom they forced out of her houſe, killing a child about two years old in the ſcuffle, dragging her ſeveral times through the river at Kanturk, and otherwiſe abuſed her ſo inhumanly, that ſhe expired in a ſhort time, with the horrible aggravation of the death of an unborn Infant, ſhe being then big with child.

LONDON.

Nov. 8. By letters from Boſton in New-England, dated Sept. 11, we learn, that complaints having been tranſmitted to his Majeſty, that exorbitant fees have been heretofore demanded and taken in the public offices of the ſeveral Engliſh colonies in America; and that ſuch illegal practices not only diſhonor the ſervice, but alſo operate to the prejudice of the public intereſt, by obſtructing the ſpeedy ſettlement of the colonies: His Majeſty's royal proclamation has been publiſhed in the above colonies, wherein his Majeſty expreſſes his juſt indignation at ſuch unwarrantable and diſhonorable practices; and ſtrictly enjoins all public officers whatever in their reſpective ſtations, not to demand or receive any other fees for public buſineſs tranſacted in their offices than what have been eſtabliſhed by proper authority, upon pain of being removed from their offices, and proſecuted with the utmoſt rigour of the law.

QUEBEC, December 13.

The following Abſtract is taken from the Mate's Journal of the Ship Friendſhip, Captain James Benſley Commander, who ſailed from this Port on Monday the 25th ult. in Company with the Sloop Pilot Fiſh, Magnus Bruſh, Commander.

" At ſeven o'clock P. M. anchored off St. John's church, at nine a large flake of ice came athwart. The 26th, at 8 A. M. came ſo much ice that it cut the cable; got under ſail a great quantity of ice driving up and down the river; ſaw the ſloop along way aſtern. The twenty-ſeventh, at 5 P. M. there being ſuch a quantity of ice in the river, we could not command the ſhip; the firſt of the flood ſet us directly on the rocks of Cape Maillard, the water flowing, and ice ſetting up, carried us along ſhore from rock to rock. At 8 we came to an anchor At nine weighed and got under ſail: no commanding the ſhip but as the tide and ice drove; the Captain, Pilot, and I, conſulted, and agreed to run the ſhip on ſhore, which we did, about two leagues from Little River. The twenty eighth, on ſearching, we found the ſheathing entirely cut through by the ice, alſo the plank cut in ſeveral places, two or three inches in, and a hole on the ſtarbord ſide four inches and a half long, and three inches wide. The twenty ninth got the ſhip into a clear, ſandy birth; ſaw the ſloop driving up with the flood. The 30th employed in endeavouring to get the ſhip farther in; had the cable cut cloſe to the ring of the anchor: At two P.M. the ſhip ſhifted her birth, and thumped on a ſtone, which made a dint in the plank: Saw the ſloop off St Paul's Bay. Firſt December employed in getting proviſions out of the ſhip. The 2d employed in getting ſhip's ſtores out: The ſloop about a mile from us entirely beſet with ice; hoiſted our Enſign; ſhe made a ſignal of diſtreſs, at four ſaw her almoſt as high as Cape Torment with her gib up."

Philadelphia, Feb. 7.

Through the late ſevere cold weather, our river is now like Terra Firma, and ſleds with heavy loads of wood, &c. come to town on the ice, for many miles And on Tueſday laſt an whole OX was roaſted on the ice oppoſite to this city, which drew many thouſand ſpectators, it being never done here before.

TO BD SOLD, BY
THOMAS DAVIDSON, & Co.
(At Mrs. Nivins's, in Hartford,)

Good Bohea TEA,

AT Six and Ten Pence per Pound.——Alſo, a fine Aſſortment of Engliſh and Eaſt-India GOODS, to be ſold very Low for Caſh——

All Perſons indebted to Thomas Davidſon & Comp. are deſired to cloſe their Accounts with Caſh, immediately to prevent further Trouble. 15

ALL Perſons indebted to the Subſcriber, are deſired to ſettle their Accounts immediately, to prevent Trouble.

13 JOHN M'LEAN.

Hartford, February 16th, 1765.

ALL perſons indebted to the eſtate of Doct. Normand Moriſon, late of Hartford, deceas'd, whither by note, or book account, ſtill unſettled, are once more requeſted to ſettle the ſame immediately; thoſe who neglect, muſt not take it unkind to be put to charge, as their debts have been ſo long due—A ſpeedy compliance will oblige their

Humble Servant

13 JOHN WALKER.

WHereas a number of perſons in the colony of Connecticut, are claimeants, to that tract of land, commonly known and called New-Harbour, Muſcongus and Demaraſcontee, formerly in the county of York, and province of the Maſſachuſetts-Bay; and as their ſeveral titles are become very much perplex'd, by reaſon of many conveyances, deſcents, &c. from the original proprietors, Pierce and Brown. It is therefore neceſſary that the ſeveral claimers in this colony, to ſaid lands meet together, and adviſe what is beſt to be done in the premiſſes.

Therefore, all perſons concerned in ſaid lands, are hereby deſired to meet at the dwelling-houſe of Mr. David Bull inn-keeper in Hartford, on Tueſday, the 19th Day of March next, at two o'clock in the afternoon, to act and tranſact any buſineſs they may then think neceſſary to be done: and it is expected each and every perſon will bring their ſeveral titles to ſaid lands (whether by deſcent or purchaſe, from the original proprietors) in as clear a manner as poſſible, which will greatly facilitate the principal part of what is to be done.

Publiſhed at the deſire of ſeveral proprietors.

JOHN WALKER.

Hartford, February 18, 1765. 13 4n

THE Proprietors of the Townſhip of Lyman, and the Proprietors of the Townſhip of Ludlow in the Province of New-Hampſhire, are hereby warned to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. Medad Lyman, Innholder in New Haven, on the 12th March next, at two of Clock in the Afternoon, to agree upon a Diviſion of their Lands and to conſult proper Meaſures, to promote the ſpeedy Settlement of each of ſaid Townſhips.

Application having been made, as the Law of ſaid Province directs.

13 D. LYMAN, Juſtice of the Peace.

ALL Perſons indebted to the Eſtate of Robert Nivins, late of Hartford, deceas'd, are for the laſt Time, requeſted to ſettle their Accounts, or they may depend upon being ſued, and thoſe that have any Demands on ſaid Eſtate, are deſired to bring in their Accounts in order for a Settlement to 14 MARY NIVINS, Adminiſt.

GOOD FLAX, to be ſold at Deacon JOHN STILMAN's, in Weathersfield. 14

A new Diſcovery or Contrivance, whereby Men will ride much eaſier than in the common Way, eſpecially Gentlemen in Years or infirm, or they who ride long Journeys, or but ſeldom, viz.

WHEN you are mounted, take a broad girdle and place it under your thighs, and buckle it tight over them, and you will be thereby enabled to ride much eaſier than in the common way.

I. They that think it dangerous to have their thighs buckled together, if they ſhould fall from their horſe, may have a hinge fixed to the girdle, with a looſe pin through it, with a cord fixed one end to the pin, and the other to the fore part of the ſaddle, and it will unavoidably draw out the pin, and ſet all at liberty, if any fall or misfortune ſhould happen.

II. To make the girdle keep its place, fix a button to that part of the ſurſingle that lies on the middle of the ſaddle, and put the button through the hole in the girdle made for that purpoſe.

They that have no ſurſingle may have a ſmall ſtrap, with a buckle in the middle and button on one end, to be fixed to the girdle, as the button on the ſurſingle is deſcribed, and the other end of the ſmall ſtrap fixed to a loop or ſtaple at the fore part of the ſaddle, and it will keep the girdle in its place, and the button muſt give way upon any accident.

Whoever uſes this method, and finds it to anſwer their expectation, will ('tis preſumed) be ſo grateful as to make ſome ſmall return to the inventor, Thomas Robinſon, in Bridleſmith gate, Nottingham, he being the only perſon who found out the uſe, eaſe, and benefit of the above girdle.

Further Advices, by the laſt Packet.

LONDON.

Nov. 17. It was this morning reported, that certain advice had been receiv'd of the death of the old Chevalier, de St. George, at Rome.

We hear ſeveral additional forts are ordered to be built on the coaſt of Guinea, for the better ſecurity of the African trade. It is again aſſured, that the Earl of Bute will be appointed Lord Chamberlain.

From a late ſurvey of the iſland of Cape Breton the engineers have declared, that the fortifications of that place are capable of far greater improvements, which as this iſland has juſtly been reckoned the key to the fiſheries and the gulph of St. Lawrence, it is ſaid, will be accompliſhed early in the ſpring.

On the firſt of November died the Count de Vaudreuil, late Governor of Canada. Other Advices are,

—THAT Coſſim Ali Cawn had made himſelf maſter of the Portugueſe ſettlements in the neighbourhood of Goa in the Eaſt Indies, from whence they get their pepper, which had advanced the price of that article cent per cent:—That the circulation of bank notes in North-America, under proper regulations, 'tis thought would ſoon take place:——That diſpatches of great importance were received from the K. of Pruſſia, which occaſioned three grand councils at St. James's:—That a certain diſtinguiſhed nobleman is ſtill intended for the office of ——— but the noble Lord now in poſſeſſion refuſes to reſign, tho' various offers have been made him for that purpoſe:—That Pere Brion, grand vicar-general of the Jeſuites at Quebec, was arrived at London, on ſome buſineſs of importance:—That it was certainly on the carpet that the Britiſh plantations were to have the privilege of repreſentatives in the houſe of commons, but that they were not to be choſe by the whole body of the people, but from among the members of the aſſemblies of the ſeveral provinces.——That Sir William Johnſon, now in America, would ſoon be created a Britiſh peer:—That ſeveral men of war of the line, were ordered to ſail immediately for the Mediterranean, and to take on board their full compliment of marines.—That experiments are making on ſome American timber, which, if found anſwerable, the importation of it from thence will be encouraged by the government:——That William Howe, Eſq; is appointed Colonel of the 46th regiment in the room of General Thomas Murray, deceaſed, and Ralph Burton, Eſq; to be Colonel of the 3d regiment in the room of Col. Crauford, deceas'd. That three Engliſh officers of diſtinction are ſhortly to embark to command in an expedition to the Portugueſe ſettlements in the Eaſt Indies: —That his Pruſſian Majeſty has much at heart the eſtabliſhing a ſettlement ſomewhere on the continent of America:—That ſeveral journeymen curriers are engaged to embark for New-England:—That the French were building more flat-bottom'd boats, and have called in their old ones which were let out to the merchants, in order to tranſport troops to Corſica; but that the earl of Hertford was ordered to remonſtrate againſt their ſending any; and that Adm. Harriſon with his ſquadron was to do the ſame by the mouth of his cannon before Genoa, in caſe the other means ſhould fail of their effect:—That the reports of the ſailing of ſeveral fleets and other warlike preparations, were only occaſioned by orders for replacing the ſhips on the Weſt-India ſtation, which is done every year.—And that the Turks were making great warlike preparations, tho' it was not known where they were to be directed.

BOSTON, February 28.

By a Letter from Hiſpaniola, received ſince our laſt, dated January 10, we have further Advice of the Mortality among the Acadians, that at that Time there were but 280 living out of 700.

HARTFORD, March 4.

Laſt Wedneſday, the Reverend Mr. BURRAGE MERRIAM, was Ordained to the Miniſterial Office, over the Church and Congregation at Stepney, in Wethersfield. The Reverend Mr. Eells of Middletown, preached a Sermon, on the Occaſion.

The next Day, the Reverend Mr. JOSEPH DENISON, was Ordained to the Miniſterial Office, over the Church and Congregation at Middlefield, in Middletown. The Reverend Mr. White of Windham, preached a Sermon on the Occaſion.

III. o'Clock P. M. The Weſtern Poſt not arrived.

WHereas in purſuance of a late act of the general aſſembly of the province of New Hampſhire, the proprietors of the townſhip of Tunbridge, in ſaid province, being met on the 19th day of April, 1763; which meeting was warned as the ſaid act of aſſembly directed; wherein aſſeſſors was choſen to ſupervize, allow and aſſeſs all paſt charges in laying out ſaid townſhip: And they have made an aſſeſſment of the ſum of one pound, four ſhillings on each right or ſhare in ſaid townſhip, by a warrant to me directed and delivered, requiring me to collect and pay the ſame to Eliſha Noble, of Sheffield, treaſurer of ſaid townſhip.

Theſe are therefore to notify each and every proprietor of ſaid townſhip, to pay the ſaid ſum of twenty four ſhillings lawful money, to me the ſubſcriber, on or before the 12th day of March next, at the dwelling houſe of Capt. Eliſha Noble in Sheffield; otherwiſe they may expect their reſpective rights or ſhares in ſaid townſhip, will be ſold at a publick vendue, to pay the ſame, as the ſaid act of aſſembly directs, by me

JOHN PELL, Collector for ſaid proprietors.

February 8, 1765. 14

WILLIAM GARDINER

NOtifies his cuſtomers, that he has lately removed his ſtore from Capt. George Smith's, to his houſe, near the town-bridge, in Hartford; where he has to ſell a fine aſſortment of Engliſh goods, ſuitable for the ſeaſon; alſo, a variety of burnt China plates, and diſhes, blue and white, ditto, tea diſhes, and coffee cups, ſmall China bowles, quart decanters, plain and letter'd, point ditto, vinegar cruits, ſalts, point, half point, and jill tumblers, wine glaſſes, &c. Cheap for caſh or ſhort credit. N.B. 4d. 8d. 10d. & 20 nails, by the caſk or pound. 14

Gilſom, (in the Province of New Hampſhire) July 25, 1764

THEN was holden a proprietors meeting in ſaid town, at the dwelling houſe of Jonathan Smith, when it was voted, to raiſe a tax of two dollars on each right in ſaid town, to be paid by the firſt of March 1765, to defray the charge of clearing and mending the high-ways, in ſaid town; theſe that refuſe or neglect to pay ſaid tax to the ſubſcriber, at his dwelling houſe, in ſaid Gilſom, may depend on having their rights or ſhares, ſold at a public vendue, on the the firſt monday of May next, at the dwelling houſe of the ſaid Jonathan Smith, to pay the tax, as the law directs.

14 Nathaniel Dart, Collector.

WHEREAS I have received a requeſt from a number of the proprietors of the townſhip of Hartwood, in the county of Berkſhire, in the province of the Maſſachuſett's Bay, to call a meeting of the proprietors of ſaid townſhip, to meet at Hartford, in the colony of Connecticut; to act on the following articles, viz.

1ſt To conſider and determine what ſhall be done about erecting a ſaw mill in ſaid townſhip, and to determine, whether they will, at their own coſt and charge, erect any, or whether they will make a grant of land in ſaid townſhip to any perſon or perſons, that ſhall undertake to erect the ſame.

2ndly To grant ſuch ſum or ſums of money, as ſhall be neceſſary for clearing the roads in ſaid townſhip; and to pay off the arrears due to the perſons heretofore employed by ſaid proprietors, and in what manner the ſame ſhall be collected.

3dly To appoint a committee to make ſale of the lands of ſuch of the proprietors as have been, or ſhall be delinquent in paying their taxes.———

THESE ARE THEREFORE, to notify and warn the proprietors of the townſhip of Hartwood aforeſaid, to meet at the houſe of Mr. David Bull, inn-keeper in Hartford aforeſaid, on the 20th day of March next, at two o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpoſes aforeſaid.

WILLIAM KNOX, Proprietor's Clerk.

N. B. Many of the proprietors think it will be greatly for their intereſt that a ſpeedy ſettlement be made on their plantation; and as they have a proſpect of about thirty families, and a miniſter, who will ſettle there, on due encouragement. The ſeveral proprietors are deſired to take that affair into conſideration, until ſaid meeting, when it is expected, that all concerned will attend, and then determine, what encouragement each proprietor will give to ſettlers in ſaid townſhip.

[illegible]

To the PRINTER.

By inſerting the following in your next Paper, you may oblige, &c.

THE deſire of life is ſo natural and ſtrong a paſſion, that I have long ſince ceas'd to wonder at the great encouragement which the practice of phyſick finds among us.—Thoſe who have little or no faith in the genius, or abilities of a Quack, will apply themſelves to him, either becauſe they think he is willing to ſell medicine, receipts, and advice, cheaper, or the patient, like a drowning man, catches at every twig, and hopes for relief from the moſt ignorant, when the moſt able phyſicians give him none.——

The author of a paper in the Spectator, ſays, " There is a ſet of pretenders to phyſick, who lie ſnug in a garret, and ſend down notice to the world, of their extraordinary genius and abilities, by printed bills and advertiſements. Theſe ſeem to have derived their cuſtom from the eaſtern nation, which Herodotus ſpeaks of; among whom it was a law, that whenever any cure was performed, both the method of the cure, and an account of the diſtemper, ſhould be fixed in ſome publick place: But as cuſtoms will corrupt, theſe our moderns, provide themſelves of perſons to atteſt the cure, before they publiſh or make an experiment of the preſcription. I have heard of a porter, who, though he was never ſick in his life, has been cured of all the diſeaſes to which the human body is incident. Theſe are the men whoſe ſagacity has invented elixers of all ſorts, pills, lozenges, powders, drops, &c. &c. &c. Their medicines are infallible, and never fail of ſucceſs; that is, of enriching the doctor, and ſending the patient to the world unknown.

Lately, in a ſhop, I found advertiſements of elixers, tinctures, pills, electuaries, ; and, in ſhort, more remedies than I believe there are diſeaſes. At the ſight of ſo many inventions, I could not but imagine myſelf in a kind of arſenal or magazine, where ſtore of arms was repoſited, againſt any ſudden invaſion. Should you be attack'd by the enemy, ſideways, here was an infallible piece of defenſive armour to cure the pleuriſy: Should a diſtemper beat up your head quarters, here you might purchaſe an impenetrable helmet; or, in the language of the artiſt, a cephalick tincture. If your main body be aſſaulted, here are various kinds of armour, in caſe of various onſets. I began to congratulate the preſent age, upon the happineſs men might reaſonably hope for, in life, when death was thus in a manner defeated; and when pain itſelf would be of ſo ſhort a duration, that it would but juſt ſerve to enhance the value of pleaſure.——

While I was in theſe thoughts, I unluckily called to mind a ſtory of an ingenious gentleman of the laſt age, who lying violently afflicted with the gout, a perſon came and offer'd to cure him, by a method which he aſſur'd him was infallible: the ſervant who received the meſſage, carried it up to his maſter, who enquiring whether the perſon came on foot, or in a chariot; and being anſwer'd that he was on foot; Go, ſays he, ſend the knave about his buſineſs; was his method as infallible as he pretends, he would long before now have been in his coach and ſix. In like manner, I conclude, that had all theſe advertiſers arrived to that ſkill they pretend to, they would have had no need, for ſo many years, ſucceſſively to publiſh to the world the place of their abode, and the virtues of their medicines. One of theſe gentlemen indeed pretends to an effectual cure for leanneſs: What effect it may have on thoſe who have try'd it, I cannot tell; but I am credibly informed, that the call for it has been ſo great, that it has effectually cured the doctor himſelf of that diſtemper.——

Could each of them produce ſo good an inſtance of the ſucceſs of his medicines, they might ſoon perſuade the world into an opinion of them. I obſerve that moſt of the bills agree in one expreſſion, viz. That, (with God's bleſſing) they perform ſuch and ſuch cures; (the populace never once conſidering that medicines, ill applied, cannot have a good effect; and that God never vouchſafes his bleſſing to medicines wrongly applied.) This expreſſion is certainly very proper and emphatical, for that is all they have for it. And if ever a cure is performed on a patient, where they are concerned, they can claim no greater ſhare in it, than Virgil's Japis in the curing of Æneas; he tried his ſkill, was very aſſiduous about the wound, and, indeed, was the only viſible means that relieved the hero; the poet aſſures us it was the particular aſſiſtance of a Deity that ſpeeded the operation. By what is gone before, the publick may judge in ſome manner, of the under written (noſtrums) and their compounders, ſo often advertiſed in the York paper, viz. Turlington's balſam of life, Bateman's drops; Godfrey's cordial; female elixar; jeſuit's drops; King's honey water; tincture of valerian; James's powders; ſugar plumbs for deſtroying worms; Anderſon's pills; Locker's ditto; Hooper's ditto, &c. &c. &c.

If theſe, and a hundred other medicines, deſerv'd the encomiums given of them by their inventors; pain, diſeaſes and death would long ſince been put to flight. We might with reaſon ſuſpect that the deſign of the inventors of theſe medicines was the inriching themſelves, and not benefiting the publick. Your's,

24th Feb. 1765. PHILANTHROPOS.

LONDON, November 8.

During the races at Newmarket, a young gentleman laid down his pocket book to a certain great perſon, and betted the contents, which was won by the latter, and proved to be 1500l. The great perſon asked him if he did not know there was a law, that no ſum ſhould be laid above 500 pounds? which he anſwered in the negative; whereupon the great perſon gave him a genteel reprimand, and returned the pocket book and contents.

We hear that ——Huske, Eſq; repreſentative for Malden in Eſſex, will ſoon ſet out for France.

On ſaturday laſt Mr. Singer, gardener to Madam North of Cherſey, fired off a gun againſt a wall; he having forgot to take out the ram rod, it recoiled again after the piece went off, into the barrel of the gun, without doing any miſchief, and remained as if the gun had not been diſcharged.

A correſpondent informs us, that a ſhopkeeper, who lives at a pretty large village in the country, has, out of thirty perſons who have applied to him to be cured of the toothach, relieved twenty eight, ſince the latter end of Auguſt laſt, by the touch of an artificial magnet. Since which it has been found upon trial on a perſon afflicted when facing the north pole, he was cured by the touch; notwithſtanding, a few minutes before the magnet was applied to his tooth when he faced a contrary point of the compaſs, it had not the deſired effect.

PROVIDENCE, February 9.

Laſt Tueſday happened a very melancholy accident. Four perſons of this town went upon the ice a gunning after ſea-fowl as they flew up the river. Accordingly, three of the company, in a ſlender bark croſſed the channel to a ſmall rock oppoſite the point called Field's point, leaving the other on the point. One of the three who went to the rock, whoſe name was Simeon Stevens, left the two others behind him, and, contrary to advice, paddled down the river to ſcare up the fowl; but the wind blowing exceſſive high from the Northweſt filled the boat. The unfortunate adventurer betook himſelf to the ice, for the preſervation of his life, but it being rotten, he fell through; and keeping his head juſt above the water, cried for aſſiſtance, but all attempts for that purpoſe were in vain, for before they could poſſibly get to his relief, he ſunk to the bottom.

The body of the deceaſed has been ſince found, and decently interr'd.

Capt. Angell, who lately arrived here from Montego-Bay, in Jamaica, informs us, That a few days before he ſailed from thence; which was on the 17th of December laſt, advice was received from Spaniſh-Town, that the Negroes in and about that place, who are very numerous, had formed a horrid conſpiracy for maſſacreing all the white inhabitants, and taking poſſeſſion of their eſtates; for which purpoſe they had actually provided a large magazine of arms and ammunition of almoſt every kind, a little diſtance from the town, which being happily diſcovered, their whole plot was laid open, before it was quite ripe for execution: That many of the ringleaders were apprehended and ſecured, and would ſoon meet with their deſerts; and that every neceſſary precaution was purſuing to preſerve the tranquility of the iſland.—Theſe rebellious Negroes, it appears, intended to have began their operations on chriſtmaſs day, by murdering all the white people in Spaniſh Town, and after that to march to Kingſton, and every other place, and repeat the ſame cruel ſcene, 'til they had gained the maſtery of the whole iſland, in which they expected the chearful aſſiſtance of numerous bodies of their fellow ſlaves. Notwithſtanding this ſeaſonable diſcovery, it was expected at Montego-Bay that Marſhal law would be declared in a few days.

WHereas in purſuance of a late act of the general aſſembly of the province of New-Hampſhire, the proprietors of the townſhip of Wybridge, in the ſaid province, being met on the 19th day of April, 1763, which meeting was warned as the ſaid act of aſſembly directed; wherein aſſeſſors was choſen, to ſupervize, allow and aſſeſs all paſt charges in laying out ſaid townſhip: And they have made an aſſeſſment of the ſum of eighteen ſhillings on each right or ſhare in ſaid townſhip, by a warrant to me directed and delivered, requiring me to collect and pay the ſame to Aaron Root of Sheffield, treaſurer of ſaid townſhip.

Theſe are therefore to notify each and every proprietor of ſaid townſhip to pay the ſaid ſum of eighteen ſhillings, lawful money, to me the ſubſcriber, on or before the 12th day of March next, at my dwelling houſe in Sheffield, otherwiſe they may expect their reſpective rights or ſhares in ſaid townſhip will be ſold at a public vendue, to pay the ſame, as the ſaid act of aſſembly directs, by me,

14 JOHN PELL, Collector for ſaid proprietors.

ALL perſons indebted to ISRAEL SEYMOUR, of Hartford, by book, are deſired to ſettle the ſame, by the 10th day of March next, or they will be ſued.

February 22d, 1765. 14.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Sign of the Heart and Crown, near the North Meeting-Houſe.

MONDAY, March 11, 1765. [Number 16.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

Jedediah Strong

Mr. GREEN,

There has of late appeared in your paper, ſeveral obſervations on TEA, eſpecially that of Feb. 4th.—If you will inſert the following, in your next, you may oblige many of your readers, and eſpecially your humble ſervant,

A. B.

WHICH of thoſe learned phyſicians obſerve the beſt on tea, Boerhaave or Cheyne, &c. being no phyſician, ſhall not undertake to ſay, nor whether tea is hurtful to an American, or not: Yet may we not conſider whether it is prudent, or rather, whether it is not imprudent to the laſt degree, for rich and poor to make ſo general uſe of it, in this remote part of the world, from the place where it grows, as is at preſent made. It cannot but be obſerved by every one, that families of all ranks in this colony, make great uſe of tea; the exact quantity uſed is unknown to any one, I ſuppoſe; tho' by ſome more, others leſs—The procuring of which, in this remote part of the Globe, conſumes near four years, viz. three years to bring it to Europe, and another to America, which of neceſſity makes it very dear; why then ſhould we make ſuch uſe of it? certainly to a reaſonable eye, becauſe our land is barren and unfruitful, in which caſe only would reaſon allow ſo general uſe of it:—But is not the caſe far otherwiſe? is not our country fruitful, even flowing with milk and honey? like a Canaan of old.—Have we no growth of our own climate, that will intirely anſwer, as well as that ſhrub, even for tea? to inſtance one only; have we no ſage in our gardens? which Bayley ſays is a ſweet ſmelling, wholeſome herb, comfortable to the brain and nerves, purifying the blood, good for wounds, &c. and which the antients eſteemed almoſt as the tree of life; the uſe of which, one month, in the neglect of this Aſian leaf, I doubt not, would be as good to the taſte, as healthy to our bodies, and a little better for our purſes: may I not therefore almoſt ſay, it is a wickedneſs for us to make ſuch a uſe of it.

This colony was ſome years ſince computed at one hundred thouſand inhabitants; being, we will ſuppoſe, 15,000 families (ſince which are much increaſed) ſuppoſe each family uſes two pound of tea a year, purchaſed at 7s. per pound, which I think is a moderate computation, the whole will amount to £.10,500; and be it ſuppoſed, that in this extreme time, the whole colony, as one, ſhould intirely break off the uſe of it by the ſpace of four years next, and uſe ſage, &c. its own produce, and ſave what is now expended for tea, it would amount to forty two thouſand pounds; tho' it is ſaid that computation is too low; but if it is a juſt computation, it may be remembred that it is what coſts the merchant ready money or equivalent, and would greatly help in this extreme time, though now expended. Could tea be obtained by a two month's voyage, and proportionably cheaper, it would be tolerable, but as the caſe now is hardly pardonable! And not intirely to paſs over other extraordinaries, be it alſo ſuppoſed the colony ſhould drop the uſe of foreign liquors, carrying on a trade to the Weſt-Indies, only for ſugar, molaſſes and ſalt, &c. and ſave as much more, and omit ſuperfluities in dreſs, and ſave five times as much; What a ſaving would it make! what happineſs might be enjoy, enſtead of the miſery we now feel! In ſuch caſe, inſtead of employing lawyers and ſheriffs, thronging of courts, and going to priſons, might we not ſit under our own vines and fig-trees in plenty and eaſe.

To the PRINTER.

SIR,

If you are diſpoſed to give the following remarks a place in your paper, they are at the ſervice of the public.

THE preſent ſtate of this colony affords a melancholly aſpect; foreign trade embaraſſed, our private debts many, and the cries of the needy continually increaſing; this our ſtate demands induſtry and frugallity, and invites every perſon according to his character and circumſtances in life, to encourage and promote the ſame: And it is worthy our notice, that the national premium on raiſing of hemp, and the generous premiums from the hon. ſociety of London, both on hemp and ſome other articles, prove but little relief to us, on two accounts.

1. The premiums are not on all articles and branches neceſſary for us to improve in.

2. The premiums are generally affixed to ſo great quantities, that but few can make the experiment, without expoſing their families to want, if it ſhould fail, for want of proper ſale, or judgment in manufacturing and tilling.

Should this colony attempt a remedy, by granting premiums to be raiſed by a public tax, it would ſtill diſtreſs the diſtreſſed. It is therefore propoſed (which may at leaſt excite ſome gentlemen better acquainted, and of a more political genious, to write on the ſubject) that a number of generous and well diſpoſed gentlemen in each town, unite for promoting ſuch branches of husbandry and manufactures in ſaid town, as they ſhall judge would prove moſt advantageous, by giving ſmall premiums (to ſuch perſons as ſhall merit them) ſo directed that the poor as well as the rich, by induſtry, may reap the benefit.

For example; a premium upon any branch of agriculture, might be limited to the greateſt quantity produced from a certain given quantity of land. A premium upon any manufacture, might be limited to a particular quantity beſt manufactured, &c.

The advantage of ſuch a method for promoting induſtry, appears from the following conſiderations, viz.

1. Each town is (commonly) beſt acquainted with its own ſoil, and the imports that moſt impoveriſh them; and of conſequence what improvements in agriculture and manufactures would prove the moſt ſpeedy and ſafe relief; for nature's deſign in ſoil and ſituation muſt alway be regarded.

2. ſhould a few principal gentlemen in each town motion ſomething of this kind; it is highly probable that a ſufficient number would ſoon join them, and readily communicate to ſo laudable a deſign.

3. The ſums neceſſary to be raiſed in each town to effect the purpoſe, need not be large.

4. The generous promoters would upon the whole, experience great advantage, from the ſpeedy increaſe of exports, bringing a competency of current coin into the government, which is ſo highly neceſſary, and diminiſhing the expence for relieving the poor.

5. Such a method would raiſe the ambition of both high and low, to excel in induſtry, either from a view of honor, or the premium, or both

6. Some ſuch method would be ſubject to feweſt exceptions abroad, therefore moſt elligible.

Though the beginning might appear ſmall, yet great and happy effects might ſoon follow. As a ſpecimen of the advantage of ſmall things, when properly directed and encouraged. The following ſtory is worth notice (which I had from the late Rev. Mr. Elliot of Killingſworth.)

A lord in Ireland, whoſe lands rented low, and his tenants poor, ſet up horſe racing, expecting to bring and leave much money among his tenants, ſo as to raiſe the rent of his lands; but from poor, they became more poor, wicked and miſerable: His lordſhip ſoon put a ſtop to that exerciſe, and ordered his tenants to apply themſelves to raiſing and manufacturing of flax, under the following encouragement, viz.

The tenant that ſhould raiſe the moſt flax, to be entitled to the improvement of the beſt houſe of his lordſhip, one year, rent free. The maſter weaver, who ſhould manufacture the moſt, and beſt; the journeyman, that ſhould weave the moſt, and beſt; together with the ſervant that ſhould weave the moſt, and beſt in one year, ſhould be the judges to determine all controverſies between the maſters, and their journeymen and apprentices.

The woman that ſhould ſpin the moſt, and beſt linen, in one year, ſhould be entitled to 20s. premium, and a badge of honor, by which ſhe ſhould be diſtinguiſhed for her virtue. His lordſhip's daughters ſpun with the ſervants.

This ſcheme ſucceeded; the tenants ſoon became rich and his lordſhip's rent increaſed to ten times its former ſum.

ALL perſons indebted to ISRAEL SEYMOUR, of Hartford, by book, are deſired to ſettle the ſame, by the 10th day of March next, or they will be ſued.

February 22d, 1765. 14.

STOCKHOLM, October 12.

THE Iron Mine in Diſtrop in the Weſtern Nencia, which after 150 Years Diſuſe was re-opened in 1759, was entirely cleared for Working laſt Auguſt. At the Depth of 120 Elles the body of a Man was found, who had periſhed there, and who according to Tradition, was named David. He had a Woollen Double, Breeches of Leather, Woollen Stocking and Shoes. The Brain was white and ſoft. The Teeth were firm, and in their place; and the Body had the property of Iron. The Proprietor of the Mine cauſed the Body to be placed in a Coffin, and it was interred the 26th of Auguſt. It was carried to the Grave by eight of the Miners, and followed by forty others.

Account of a man who never pulled of his cloaths for the ſpace of forty years.

John Baker, of Channing in the county of Kent, labourer, was born in the year 1700, and died in the year 1756. At the age of ſixteen, he was diſappointed in a love affair, on which he vowed, never to pull off his cloaths, or go to bed, till he ſhould gain the affections of his miſtreſs—which vow he religiouſly kept; and continued to ſleep on the ground, or in a chair (without pulling off his cloaths) the remaining 40 years of his life.

When his cloaths were much wore, he uſed to have them ſewed or patched by any good-natured neighbour, who would take the trouble to do it; and at the time of his deceaſe, his coat was at leaſt of twenty ſeven colours, from the patches, which, from time to time, had been ſewn on it.

This ſtory the inhabitants of Channing well know to be true.

LONDON.

Nov. 19. It is ſaid that the ſalary intended to be ſettled on his Royal Highneſs Prince William, on his aſſuming the title of Duke of Glouceſter, will be [illegible] the ſame which his Royal highneſs the Duke of Cumberland enjoyed before the rebellion in 1745.

Letters from Gibralter mention, that the garriſon continues to be ſupplied with plenty of proviſions and live cattle from the coaſt of Barbary, in conſequence of every thing being amicably ſettled between Com. Harriſon and the Algerines.

Capt. Penfold, of the Nancy, lately from Gambia, informs us that ſoon after he had left the coaſt, he loſt his bowſprit, and five of his men ſeized the veſſel, with an intention to go pirating on the Spaniſh Main; they had taken the opportunity, while the Captain, Mate, and two men, were below, to collect what offenſive weapons they could find, and then called, in an inſolent manner, for them to come on deck; but Capt. Penfold, hearing they intended to throw him overboard, and thoſe that would join to oppoſe them in their villainous ſcheme, endeavoured to retake the veſſel, aſſiſted by the two men. They ſtabbed one of the villains, and another jumped overboard; the reſt were eaſily ſecured, and chain'd to the deck. After this they were reduced to the moſt miſerable diſtreſs, being ſix weeks without bread, and having but four pounds of beef divided among eleven men, and one pint of water per day. The 4th of September they had the happineſs to make the Iſland of Teneriff, after a paſſage of 115 days, having loſt two ſlaves, notwithſtanding they had the ſmall-pox during the voyage, and no Doctor to attend them.

Dec. 3. We are aſſured that the officer who was lately ſent to view the ſea-coaſt of France is returned, and has laid his obſervations before two Right Honorable Boards, but the particulars are kept a profound ſecret.

December 4. A letter from Geneva, mentions that the celebrated Voltaire intended ſpeedily to write a tragedy on the ſtory of Charles the Firſt, which he intends to call, "The Fate of Tyranny!" and the ſame letter adds, that he has already ſketched an outline of the performance.

A very great perſonage, who was lately indiſpoſed, on being informed that his illneſs was univerſally lamented by the Kingdom, replied, as we are aſſured, "Alas! what confidence is to be placed in popular applauſe; ſince the man who enjoys it to day, may, from prejudice or miſtake, be made to morrow the object of univerſal deteſtation."

As many perſons think that the title of Duke of Edinburgh (which his moſt gracious Majeſty has juſt conferred on his royal brother, Prince Henry William) is entirely new, it may be neceſſary to inform ſuch, that our moſt beloved Sovereign's father, Frederick, late Prince of Wales, enjoyed the ſame amongſt his other titles.

They write from Cadiz, that advice had been received from America of twenty four mule loads of ſilver having been ſeized near Porto Bello, by the King's revenue officers. The dollars were hid in jars covered with meal, the property of ſome Spaniſh merchants, who were alſo diſguiſed like country mulers, and had come over the Iſthmus of Darien, to trade with the Engliſh Jamaica ſloops, ſeveral of which had been ſeen in the Gulph.

"On ſunday night a French veſſel, laden with pitch and tar, came into Cowes road all on fire! having had the accident ſome little time before they came in, and could not get the better of the fire: they endeavoured to run into the harbour of Cowes, but run on the mud before ſhe could get in, and burnt to the water's edge: all the men were ſaved.

December [illegible] Thurſday laſt the powder was taken out of the grand magazine at Portſmouth, and put into veſſels, in order to be ſecured in a better place.

The ſame precautions to ſecure the Iriſh magazines from incendiaries, we are told, are taking, as now practiſed in the ſeveral ports in this Kingdom.

A letter from Portſmouth ſays, that a very ſtrict guard is kept at the dock-yard there, and centinels are placed in every part of it, at 100 yards diſtance from each other. All perſons coming into the yard are examined. This precaution is taken on account of private intelligence received from France, that ſome perſons intend ſetting fire to it. The like guard is kept on board all his Majeſty's ſhips in the harbor; and at night their ladders are pulled on board, and the ports ſhut.

His Royal Highneſs the Duke of Glouceſter appeared at Court on Friday laſt, in a peach coloured ſuit of broadcloth, trimmed with ſilver, of Engliſh manufacture.

It is ſaid a certain Northern Court has lately acceeded to the Family Compact in a manner the Britiſh Miniſtry can by no means overlook.

We hear it has been lately reſolved in Council to render the Iſland of Minorca, a compleat Magazine for the future ſupply of his Majeſty's fleets in the Mediterranean with all kinds of naval ſtores. Both wet and dry docks are alſo conſtructing, capable to careen ſhips of the line.

An eminent Dutch merchant's houſe here, drew on France on Friday laſt, Bills of Exchange to the amount of one million and an half of livers.

We are informed, that for the future no more 40 gun ſhips on the new conſtruction are to be built in any port in this kingdom, their lower tiers having been found quite uſeleſs in the laſt blowing weather.

They write from the Granadoes, that French planters from St. Domingo, Martinico, &c. continue to arrive every day, with a vew to become Britiſh Subjects, and purchaſe lands, owing chiefly to the late additional impoſts laid by authority on the produce of the French ſettlements in the W. Indies.

They write from Jamaica, that four Deputies from the nation of Muſquito Indians, ſituate between Troxillo and Honduras, arrived there the 24th of laſt Auguſt, to renew the ancient league and oaths to the Britiſh government.

In a Letter from a Merchant at Liſbon, to his correſpondent, it is ſaid, freſh troubles are ſpeedily expected in that kingdom by all ranks of people; and that, to guard againſt the worſt, the Court was taking all neceſſary precautions for defence, their forces, horſe and foot, being cantoned at convenient ſtations on the frontiers for that purpoſe.

Since the firſt inſtant, upwards of twenty ſhip carpenters, who among many others had been inveigled ſoon after the peace to enter into the French ſervice, on promiſe of high encouragement, have returned home, heartily ſick of their late expedition.

We ſhall not pretend to ſay what will be the event of the diſputes between Spain and Portugal; but ſo far will we ventura to aſſure our readers, that ſome diſputes do ſubſiſt, which, if not ſpeedily ſettled, may involve all Europe.

The court of Portugal has ordered all the vines to be grubbed up in thoſe parts of the kingdom where the lands are fit to be ploughed and ſown, excepting thoſe which are planted in the neighbourhood of Liſbon, and in other places too barren to bear corn.

A manufactory of ſmall nails has this ſummer been eſtabliſhed at Quebec, from whence upwards of 300 tons have already been exported to the Grenadoes, and other ceded iſlands in the Weſt-Indies for domeſtic uſes, large quantities have alſo been ſhipped for the two Floridas.

Laſt week Mr. White, from Henchley, was choſen Paſtor of a large and opulent congregation of Diſſenters at Leeds, in the room of Mr. Walker, deceaſed.

The Engliſh factors who reſide in Spain, have deſired their correſpondents here, not to mention any thing in letters relative to poletical affairs, becauſe they were all opened before delivery.

We are credibly informed that the circulation of Bank Notes in North America, under proper regulations, is now upon the carpet.

Private letters from Portugal mention that the Court of Liſbon ſeem very apprehenſive of ſome hoſtile attempt upon the Madeiras, and are taking meaſures accordingly.

We are credibly informed, that the final purchaſe of the Iſle of Man to the Crown, is now upon the carpet.

It is reported a treaty of marriage is on the carpet, and ſoon will take place, between his Grace the Duke of Gorden, and Lady —— Stuart, third Daughter to the Right Hon. John Earl of Bute.

It has been computed by an ingenious calculation, that there are not leſs than ten thouſand Romiſh familes at this time in Great Britain.

It is ſaid, that ſome amendments will be made to the act of toleration next ſeſſions of Parliament, and ſeveral clauſes added to it.

We hear that three tradeſmen of this metropolis, a cheeſe-

[illegible] ed prieſts to two chapels, one in the weſt and the other in the eaſt, by a Greek Biſhop ſent for from Amſterdam for that purpoſe. Quere, Whether ſuch an ordination is valid.

The following remarkable quotation from a diſcourſe delivered laſt Sunday at a certain Popiſh meeting houſe, is inſerted not only for its ſingularity, but to ſhew what dangerous doctrines are every day broached with impunity, by Popiſh recuſants and diſguiſed Jeſuits, in the very heart of the metropolis—"Dearly beloved brethren, the chain of St. Peter is the centre of Catholic unity; for the defence and ſupport of which let all things periſh, rather than God ſhould not be glorified."

The Clergymen belonging to the chapels of the ambaſſadors are not prohibited from preaching in the Engliſh Language, as was reported.

They write from Dublin, that among other goods lately ſeized on board a ſmuggling veſſel in the North channel, were found a conſiderable quantity of crucifixes, a chalice, ſeveral rich togas, and a great number of maſs books, both in French and Engliſh; from which it is inferred that the number of Popiſh recuſants in that kingdom begin to appear really alarming.

BOSTON, February 28.

We hear from Quebec, that on the 2d of laſt Month, one Anderſon, belonging to the Train of Artillery, ſhot himſelf in the Breaſt:—The Way he completed his horrid Deſign was, by tying his Garter to the Trigger of his Fuſee and to his Great Toe. There was no one in the Houſe at the Time but a Child who lay in the Cradle, having previouſly ſent his Wife out of the Way.

We hear from Long Meadow in Springfield, that they have been favoured with ſuch a general Health, that there was not one Perſon died among them from January 26, 1764, to January 1765. In which Time there were 25 Baptiſms in the Place. This Inſtance of Divine Goodneſs is taken Notice of to the Praiſe of the great Preſerver of Men. S. W.

NEW-YORK, February 28.

Tueſday laſt the Halifax Packet, Capt. Boulderſon, ſail'd with the Mail for Falmouth.—He reports that the Day before he ſailed from Falmouth, a Letter was received there by a Gentleman, from his Friend in Plymouth, acquainting him, that ſeveral Frenchmen had juſt been taken up there, as Spies; and that on ſearching their Baggage, there was found Plans of every Sea Port Town in England, and that it was currently reported, that every party intended to ſet Fire to all the Men of War building at Plymouth, &c.

PROVIDENCE, February 23.

We are aſſured that his Majeſty has nominated ſixteen commiſſioners (who are officers of the crown in different parts of North America) to adjuſt and aſcertain the boundaries of the New-England and other neighbouring colonies; that four of theſe gentlemen reſide at Halifax, and are ſoon expect from thence at Boſton, to meet the hon John Temple, Eſq; who is appointed preſident in this buſineſs, which is to commence very ſpeedily.—We have not heard the names of all the commiſſioners, or any other circumſtances relative to this affair, but as ſoon as we can collect a more perfect account we ſhall lay it before the public.

We hear from Hopkinton, in King's County, that one Nathan Button was, on the 26th ult. committed to goal, on ſuſpicion of murdering a baſtard child, in conjunction with one Sarah Wallace, who was ſaid to be the mother, and who was to be taken the ſame care of as ſoon as her condition would admit of it.

BOSTON, March 4.

Friday afternoon laſt was committed to goal here one William Pruſt, on ſuſpicion, we hear, of murdering, or being concerned in murdering, one Capt. Gould, maſter of a brig, belonging to Meſſrs. Thomas and Benjamin Forſey, merchants in New-London, on her return from the Coaſt of Guinea to the Weſt-Indies, ſome time in May laſt.

We hear that Capt. McPhillimy, who ſail'd from hence for Halifax about the middle of January laſt, was caſt away about 20 leagues this ſide Halifax.

We hear that the ſeveral French Governors in the Weſt-Indies, have abſolutely forbid all trade with the Engliſh.

NEW-YORK, March 4.

Tueſday laſt his Majeſty's ſloop of war the Gaſpey, Capt. Allen, arrived here [illegible] Halifax, after a tedious paſſage of four weeks. The following ſhips of war were at Halifax, when ſhe ſailed, viz. Romney, Aldborough, Senegal, Mermaid and Squirrel; and we hear the Coventry, Archibald Kennedy, Eſq; commander; and the Garland, —— St. John, Eſq, commander, now in this port, are to proceed, as ſoon as fitted for Halifax, there to join the ſquadron on that ſtation under Lord Colvil, who, we are told, will, as ſoon as the ſeaſon permits, proceed to Newfoundland in order to watch the motions of whatever French ſhips may arrive there from Old France in the ſpring.

PROVIDENCE, March 2.

Thurſday laſt, Capt. Joſeph Crawford, in the ſloop Squirrel of this port, arrived here in 21 days from the Weſt Indies.—He informs us, that on the 3d of February, in lat. 22. 30. N. and long. 65. 7. W. he fell in with a large brigantine, which fired upon him under a red burgee, and ordered him to bring to, hoiſt out his boat, and come on board, which he found himſelf obliged to do, notwithſtanding it was attended [illegible] be a Spaniſh veſſel of 14 carriage guns, and had about 50 men; he was there detain'd about five hours, and uſed with great inſolence and contempt by the haughty commander:—During this time, the brig's barge, with a number of arm'd men, were diſpatch'd to over haul and ſearch the ſloop, which they did effectually, in hopes of finding money; and after committing ſeveral diſorders, they returned with the ſmall booty of 17 dollars, which they took from one of the foremaſt men.—Capt Crawford was then diſcharged, but he could not diſcover whether ſhe was a Guarda Coſta, or an uncommiſſion'd Pirate.

New-London, March 8.

By a letter from Surinam, we have advice, that the French ſettlers in the Neighbourhood of Surinam, are exceedingly ſickly, and die very faſt, and that out of 5000 people lately arrived there, not leſs than 4000 are already dead. This has in ſome meaſure diſſipated the apprehenſions of the Dutch, who now begin to flatter themſelves that none but Dutchmen can live in that country.

We hear from the Grenades, that on the 12th of December laſt, his Excellency Governor Melvill landed there under a general ſalute from the cannon of the fort and ſhips in the harbour. His excellency was received on his landing by governor Scott, the former commander in chief, attended by the civil officers and principal inhabitants, and proceeded to the government houſe, where his commiſſion was publiſhed; after which his excellency and a great number of gentlemen were elegantly entertained by Governor Scott.

We have a report, that a large French Man of War, lately took one of his Majeſty's Ships of 20 Guns, and carried her into a French Port in the Weſt Indies, on Account of the latter's taking poſſeſſion of ſome of their ſmuggling Veſſels.

HARTFORD, March 11.

Connecticut-River which has been froze, for near three Months, is now entirely clear of Ice, to this place.

ALL Perſons indebted to James Taylor, of Hartford, by Book, are deſired to ſettle their Accounts.——

Thoſe whoſe Accounts have been of long Standing, and are partly in Old Tenor, are requeſted to ſettle, to prevent Trouble. 16

Hartford, March 9th, 1765.

THESE are to notify all my attornies, who have any bonds or notes of hand, &c. in my favour, to ſue for the ſame, for the uſe and benefit of my creditors, in whoſe hands the ſame are lodged.

16 Robert Nugent.

TO be ſold at publick vendue, at the dwelling-houſe of Mr. Moſes Butler, in Hartford, on the 29th day of inſtant, March, at 5 o'clock P. M. the following diſcrib'd piece of land, viz. Lying in Hartford South Meadow, containing about four acres, bounding north on land lately belonging to Capt. William Nichols, ſouth on Mr. George Lord, and eaſt on the Great River, &c.

N. B. Any perſon inclining to purchaſe by private ſale, may apply to the ſubſcriber.

16 John H. Lord.

Hartford, 9th of March 1765.

WILLIAM HIERLIHY, Chaiſe-Harneſs-Maker, and Saddler, from Europe; has lately ſet up his Buſineſs in Middletown, near the Town-Houſe—where Perſons may be ſupplied with all ſorts of Harneſſes for Chaiſe, Chairs, &c. Draft Collars, made very eaſy and convenient—he alſo trims Chairs, and intends to carry on the Saddling Buſineſs, in the neweſt Faſhions that are now practiſed in London; on the moſt reaſonable Terms. 16

THESE are to notify the creditors of Mr. Jedediah Mills, of Derby, in the county of New-Haven, in the Colony of Connecticut, an inſolvent debtor: That we the ſubſcribers, aſſignees of the ſaid Mills, have agreed to meet at the houſe of Mr. Medad Lyman, tavern keeper, in New-Haven, on the firſt Tueſday of April next; to examine and aſcertain the debts due to each creditor; in order that a dividend of the eſtate (if any there be) of the ſaid Mills, many be made, between his creditors, of which due notice will be given.

Thomas Darling,
New-Haven, John Mix,
March Firſt, 1765. 16. John Daviſe.

WHereas many of the proprietors of the townſhip of Cornwall, in the province of New-Hampſhire, have not paid their reſpective taxes raiſed on ſaid land, to defray the coſt thereof, according to the votes of ſaid proprietors, Theſe are therefore to give public notice, that there is to be a vendue of the ſaid negligent proprietors' rights, at the dwelling houſe of Mr. David Beebe, inn holder in Saliſbury, to begin at nine of the clock forenoon, on the firſt Tueſday in April next, and to continue by an adjournment, from time to time, until the whole of ſaid rights are ſold.

Dated at Saliſbury, the 13th day of Feb. A. D. 1765.

16 Thomas Tuttle, Collector.

HAVING received Letters of Adminiſtration on the eſtate of Moſes Bull, late of Sheffield, Phyſician, deceas'd; his ſeveral Creditors and Debtors, are hereby requeſted to exhibit their reſpective Accounts to Mark Hopkins, of Great-Barrington, Eſq; or to their morigerous Friend,

14 JEDIDIAH STRONG.

Metropolis of Litchfield County, 15th Feb. 1765.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN,

TO the Owners of the ſeveral Rights or Shares of the Townſhip of Brumley, in the Province of New-Hampſhire, who are delinquent in paying the Tax of One Pound, Ten Shillings, Lawful Money, or any Part thereof; which was granted at a legal Meeting, on the third Tueſday of Auguſt, 1763, and advertiſed in the Connecticut Courant for three Weeks paſt, according to Law, that ſo much of their Land or Rights there, ſufficient to pay ſaid Delinquent's Tax with incident Charges, will be ſold at Publick Vendue, on the 25th of March next, at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. Samuel Gilbert, jun. Inn-holder in Hebron, in Connecticut: Said Sale to begin at Ten o'Clock in the Morning, on ſaid Day, and to continue from Day to Day; or to be kept alive by adjournment till all be ſold.

Dated at Hebron, the 4th Day of March, 1765.

15 THOMAS SUMNER, Collector

ALL Perſons indebted to the Eſtate of Robert Nivins, late of Hartford, deceas'd, are for the laſt Time, requeſted to ſettle their Accounts, or they may depend upon being ſued, and thoſe that have any Demands on ſaid Eſtate, are deſired to bring in their Accounts in order for a Settlement to

14 MARY NIVINS, Adminiſt.

THE Proprietors of the Townſhip of Lyman, and the Proprietors of the Townſhip of Ludlow in the Province of New-Hampſhire, are hereby warned to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. Medad Lyman, Innholder in New-Haven, on the 12th March next, at two of Clock in the Afternoon, to agree upon a Diviſion of their Lands and to conſult proper Meaſures, to promote the ſpeedy Settlement of each of ſaid Townſhips.

Application having been made, as the Law of ſaid Province directs. D. LYMAN, Juſtice of the Peace.

WHereas a number of perſons in the colony of Connecticut, are claiments, to that tract of land, commonly known and called New-Harbour, Muſcongus and Damaraſcontee, formerly in the county of York, and province of the Maſſachuſetts-Bay; and as their ſeveral titles are become very much perplex'd, by reaſon of many conveyances, deſcents, &c. from the original proprietors, Pierce and Brown. It is therefore neceſſary that the ſeveral claimers in this colony, to ſaid lands meet together, and adviſe what is beſt to be done in the premiſſes.

Therefore, all perſons concerned in ſaid lands, are hereby deſired to meet at the dwelling houſe of Mr. David Bull inn-keeper in Hartford, on Tueſday, the 19th Day of March inſt. at two o'clock in the afternoon, to act and tranſact any buſineſs they may then think neceſſary to be done, and it is expected each and every perſon will bring their ſeveral titles to ſaid lands (whether by deſcent or purchaſe, from the original proprietors) in as clear a manner as poſſible, which will greatly facilitate the principal part of what is to be done.

Publiſhed at the deſire of ſeveral proprietors.

JOHN WALKER

WHereas in purſuance of a late act of the general aſſembly of the province of New-Hampſhire, the proprietors of the townſhip of Wybridge, in the ſaid province, being met on the 19th day of April, 1763, which meeting was warned as the ſaid act of aſſembly directed; wherein aſſeſſors was choſen, to ſupervize, allow and aſſeſs all paſt charges in laying out ſaid townſhip: And they have made an aſſeſſment of the ſum of eighteen ſhillings, on each right or ſhare in ſaid townſhip, by a warrant to me directed and delivered, requiring me to collect and pay the ſame to Aaron Root of Sheffield, treaſurer of ſaid townſhip.

Theſe are therefore to notify each and every proprietor of ſaid townſhip to pay the ſaid ſum of eighteen ſhillings, lawful money, to me the ſubſcriber, on or before the 12th day of March next, at my dwelling houſe in Sheffield, otherwiſe they may expect their reſpective rights or ſhares in ſaid townſhip will be ſold at a public vendue, to pay the ſame, as the ſaid act of aſſembly directs, by me,

14 JOHN PELL, Collector for ſaid proprietors.

WILLIAM GARDINER,

NOtifies his cuſtomers, that he has lately removed his ſtore from Capt. George Smith's, to his houſe, near the town-bridge, in Hartford; where he has to ſell a fine aſſortment of Engliſh goods, ſuitable for the ſeaſon; alſo, a variety of burnt China plates, and diſhes, blue and white, ditto, tea-diſhes, and coffee cups, ſmall China bowles, quart decanters, plain and letter'd, point ditto, vinegar cruits, ſalts, point, half point, and jill tumblers, wine glaſſes, &c. Cheap for caſh or ſhort credit. N. B. 4d. 8d. 10d. & 20 nails, by the caſk or pound. 14

Andrew Johnſon,

[At Mr. KENT's, in Middletown]

BEGS Leave to inform his Friends and Cuſtomers, that, being obliged to go for England in a very ſhort Time, will diſpoſe of the few Goods remaining unſold, conſiſting of ſtrip'd and check'd Linens, Camblicks, &c. &c. for a very moderate Profit: And as he purchaſed theſe Goods from the Makers, on the beſt Terms, flatters himſelf that they will be thought as Cheap as ever any Thing of their Kinds, have been ſold in this Country.

N. B. The beſt BOHEA TEA, at 6/10 by the Pound, or Half Pound; and by the Hundred, Half or Quarter, 6/6. 15

TO BE SOLD, BY

THOMAS DAVIDSON, & Co.

(At Mrs. Nicolt's, in Hartford,)

Good Bohea TEA,

AT Six and Ten Pence per Pound.——Alſo, a fine Aſſortment of Engliſh and Eaſt-India GOODS, to be ſold very Low for Caſh——

All Perſons indebted to Thomas Davidſon & Comp. are deſired to cloſe their Accounts with Caſh, immediately to prevent further Trouble. 15

WHereas in purſuance of a late act of the general aſſembly of the province of New Hampſhire, the proprietors of the townſhip of Tunbridge, in ſaid province, being met on the 19th day of April, 1763; which meeting was warned as the ſaid act of aſſembly directed; wherein aſſeſſors was choſen to ſupervize, allow and aſſeſs all paſt charges in laying out ſaid townſhip: And they have made an aſſeſſment of the ſum of one pound, four ſhillings on each right or ſhare in ſaid townſhip, by a warrant to me directed and delivered, requiring me to collect and pay the ſame to Eliſha Noble, of Sheffield, treaſurer of ſaid townſhip.

Theſe are therefore to notify each and every proprietor of ſaid townſhip, to pay the ſaid ſum of twenty four ſhillings lawful money, to me the ſubſcriber, on or before the 12th day of March next, at the dwelling houſe of Capt. Eliſha Noble in Sheffield; otherwiſe they may expect their reſpective rights or ſhares in ſaid townſhip, will be ſold at a publick vendue, to pay the ſame, as the ſaid act of aſſembly directs, by me

JOHN PELL, Collector for ſaid proprietors.

February 8, 1765. 14

WHEREAS I have received a requeſt from a number of the proprietors of the townſhip of Hartwood, in the county of Berkſhire, in the province of the Maſſachuſett's-Bay, to call a meeting of the proprietors of ſaid townſhip, to meet at Hartford, in the colony of Connecticut; to act on the following articles, viz.

1ſt To conſider and determine what ſhall be done about erecting a ſaw mill in ſaid townſhip, and to determine, whether they will, at their own coſt and charge, erect any, or whether they will make a grant of land in ſaid townſhip to any perſon or perſons, that ſhall undertake to erect the ſame.

2dly To grant ſuch ſum or ſums of money, as ſhall be neceſſary for clearing the roads in ſaid townſhip; and to pay off the arrears due to the perſons heretofore employed by ſaid proprietors, and in what manner the ſame ſhall be collected.

3dly To appoint a committee to make ſale of the lands of ſuch of the proprietors as have been, or ſhall be delinquent in paying their taxes.——

THESE ARE THEREFORE, to notify and warn the proprietors of the townſhip of Hartwood aforeſaid, to meet at the houſe of Mr. David Bull, inn-keeper in Hartford aforeſaid, on the 20th day of March next, at two o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpoſes aforeſaid.

WILLIAM KNOX, Proprietor's Clerk.

N. B. Many of the proprietors think it will be greatly for their intereſt that a ſpeedy ſettlement be made on their plantation; and as they have a proſpect of about thirty families, and a miniſter, who will ſettle there, on due encouragement. The ſeveral proprietors are deſired to take that affair into conſideration, until ſaid meeting, when it is expected, that all concerned will attend, and then determine, what encouragement each proprietor will give to ſettlers in ſaid townſhip.

Gilſom, (in the Province of New-Hampſhire) July 15, 1764.

THEN was holden a proprietors meeting in ſaid town, at the dwelling-houſe of Jonathan Smith, when it was voted, to raiſe a tax of two dollars on each right in ſaid town, to be paid by the firſt of March 1765, to defray the charge of clearing and mending the high-ways, in ſaid town; thoſe that refuſe or neglect to pay ſaid tax, to the ſubſcriber, at his dwelling-houſe, in ſaid Gilſom, may depend on having their rights or ſhares, ſold at a public vendue, on the the firſt monday of May next, at the dwelling-houſe of the ſaid Jonathan Smith, to pay the tax, as the law directs.

14 Nathaniel Dart, Collector.

GOOD FLAX, to be ſold at Deacon JOHN STILMAN's, in Weathersfield. 14

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Sign of the Heart and Crown, near the North Meeting-Houſe.

[illegible]

No 18

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

TO THE PUBLIC.

SINCE Life's a dear precarious Thing,
Tho' ſhort, [illegible], always on the Wing;
A ſhort liv'd Vapour, that ſoon flies away,
A fading Flow'r, that laſts but for a Day;
Perplex'd with numerous Ills of ev'ry Kind,
And ſcarce one Joy to chear the drooping Mind;
Since this our Lot! firſt then our great Concern
Muſt be the quiet Paths of Peace to learn;
To paſs with pleaſing Joy, this tranſient Scene,
Serene from Ills, and [illegible] Spleen.
We ſeek for Happineſs, that ſov'reign Good,
So much deſir'd, ſo little underſtood:
This is the Goal to which we always tend,
Our Beings greateſt Aim, our glorious End.
Now all the ſolid Joys of humane Kind,
Are [illegible] Peace of Mind:
For who the Sweets of fleeting Life can taſte,
With Guilt and Fear, or anxious Care oppreſt?
'Tis Peace of Mind, that gives the Smile a Grace,
And adds a Beauty to the gloomy Face.
It eaſes the Soul, with [illegible] Grief oppreſt,
And drives the [illegible] Paſſions from the Breaſt.
'Tis this that ſmooths the furrow'd Brow of Care,
And drives away all frightful, dull Deſpair.
It loves the Breaſt, where Senſe and Judgment join,
To form the Nature, and the Soul divine:
Where Truth and Good, their noble Empire raiſe,
On the ſtrong Fabric of [illegible] Praiſe.
O! Peace of Mind! Thou [illegible] ſeraphic Joy!
Which Envy cannot blaſt, nor Rage deſtroy!
Thou Source of Happineſs, and [illegible] of Health!
By far ſurpaſſing India's much lov'd Wealth!
Thou Siſter of Contentment, gay, and mild,
And Heaven born Virtue, thy dear, happy Child!
Should baleful Slander dart her double Tongue,
Which oft with odious Characters has rung:
Or gnawing Malice ever judging ill;
And mad Revenge, ſtill rul'd by ſtubborn Will.
Should the World frown, or Fortune prove unkind,
Their Force is loſt upon a peaceful Mind.
Nor Hatred, Fury, party Rage, or Strife,
Can e'er effect this bleſſed Calm of Life;
Secur'd by Innocence and void of Guile,
It dares Affliction with an hearty Smile.
The frowning World, with Scorn it can deride,
And paſs ſerenely through Life's varying Tide.
[illegible] chiefly Love, thou Tyrant of the Main,
[illegible] ſcorns thy Fetters, and diſdains thy Chain.
Blind Love! whoſe tempting, ſoft, unmanly Sway,
Draws heedleſs Youth from Reaſon far away:
Which ſpoils the Judgment, fills the Hearts with Sighs;
And drives ſweet balmy Sleep from humid Eyes.
While Peace of Mind gives Raptures to the Breaſt;
Of ev'ry Joy, of ev'ry Grace poſſeſt.
It fills the Soul with Mirth, with Calm and Eaſe,
How diſtant then's mad Love, and ſacred Peace!
Wou'd we, my Readers, gain this heavenly Charm,
Let ſacred Friendſhip all our Paſſions warm:
Let ſmiling Virtue, all our Faults correct,
And Innocency's Paths, our Steps direct.
Thus our ſhort, mortal Days in Peace we'll ſpend,
And all our Sorrows in immortal Joys ſhall End.

[Hartford] Philopacis.

LONDON.

Dec. 8. Laſt week a labouring man and his wife, who live at Iſlington, having ſome words together, he ſwore he would drown himſelf; the wife anſwered, ſo would ſhe: upon which they both immediately ſet out with a full reſolution to put their deſign in execution; when they came to the new river, the only queſtion was, who ſhould go in firſt? however, after a ſhort pauſe he jumped in, but finding his wife had more wit than himſelf, and was not inclined to follow him, he was by her entreaties and aſſiſtance, prevailed on to get out again; and they both returned home with great cordiality.

To the Printer.

Pleaſe to inſert the following in your next Paper, and you'l oblige yours, &c.

The Alphabets of Letters, with ſome very eſſential, needful and uſeful Terms, for Some of the Letters, different from what is in common Uſe in America.

ITALIAN. ROMAN.

Capitals	[illegible]	Capitals	[illegible]	[illegible]
A	a	A	a	a
B	b	B	b	bee
C	c	C	c	ke
D	d	D	d	de
E	e	E	e	ee
F	f	F	f	eff
G	g	G	g	ghee
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	je
H	h	H	h	aitch
I	i	I	i	i
J	j	J	j	ice
K	k	K	k	ka
L	l	L	l	ell
M	m	M	m	em
N	n	N	n	en
O	o	O	o	o
P	p	P	p	pee
Q	q	Q	q	que
R	r	R	r	ar
S	s	S	s	eſs
T	t	T	t	tee
U	u	U	u	eu
V	v	V	v	ev
W	w	W	w	wu
X	x	X	x	ecks
Y	y	Y	y	yi
Z	z	Z	z	ez
	&		&	and

Peterſburgh, Oct. 26. Laſt Sunday there was a court at [illegible], and another at night, when a perſon of great diſtinction was pleaſed to relate a very ſingular event, the principal circumſtances of which are as follow:

A ſoldier of the regiment of Horſe Guards being married the 15th or 16th inſt. ſupped that evening with his wife, in company with his father and mother in law, and two other relations. They had ſeveral diſhes, [illegible] for ſuch company, and were all extremely merry; when all on a ſudden five of them were ſeized with ſuch a violent fit of laughing that they fell into convulſions like thoſe of perſons in the falling ſickneſs. Some hours after, the convulſions ceaſed, and did not return that evening or night; but the next day, preciſely at the ſame hour that they were ſeized, they were taken in the ſame way, and continued for ſome days at the ſame hour, and to the ſame five perſons. It is remarkable that the new-married woman was the only one of the company that was not affected with the fit of laughing above deſcribed. The cauſe of ſo extraordinary a diſorder much engages the attention of the curious.

Iſaac Bull, of Litchfield,

INforms his Neighbours, that he intends to open a School at his own Houſe, the firſt of May next; where will be taught Spelling, Reading, Writing, Cyphering, and the Rules of Muſic; on reaſonable Terms. Thoſe that pleaſe to favour him with the Teaching of their Children, are deſired to ſend in their Names by the Tenth of April. He propoſes to board the Children, at his Houſe.

Choice Madeira WINE,

IMported directly from Madeira, without any Adulterations—Good, old Barbadoes RUM and Sugar—To be ſold (by Retail) very cheap for Caſh; by

LATHROP and SMITH,

In Hartford.

TO be ſold at publick vendue, at the dwelling-houſe of Mr. Moſes Butler, in Hartford, on the 29th day of inſtant, March, at 5 o'clock P. M. the following deſcrib'd piece of land, viz. Lying in Hartford South-Meadow, containing about four acres, bounding north on land lately belonging to Capt. William Nichols, ſouth on Mr. George Lord, and eaſt on the Great River, &c.

N. B. Any perſon inclining to purchaſe by private ſale, may apply to the ſubſcriber.

16 John H. Lord.

Dantzick, (a free imperial city, and one of the Hanſe towns) October 15.

Letters from Ruſſia adviſe, that great quantities of ſalt-petre have been bought up there, with the conſent of the Empreſs, for the uſe of the King of Pruſſia, even to the excluſion of all other nations; inſomuch that the ſalt-petre which was put on board Engliſh and Dutch ſhips to be ſent to other countries, had been landed again and delivered to the Pruſſian commiſſaries.

Turin, October 21. The French troops deſtined for Corſica, are now quite ready at Toulon, expecting every day final orders to embark; and the 18th inſtant a Genoeſe galley, with five large b[illegible] ſailed from Genoa for Baſtia, to bring back the troops [illegible] the republick, as ſoon as the French ſhall have taken poſſeſſion of thoſe places which they are to garriſon.

An Account of the Plague at Aleppo, in the Year 1761, by the Rev. Mr. Daws chaplin to the Factory.

THis plague began in the ſummer of 1761, and continued till 1762; but it was proceeded by ſundry calamities, of which we received no authentic or particular account.

The winter of 1756, and 1757 was ſo ſevere, that the mercury in Farenhek's thermometer, after being a few minutes expoſed to the open air, ſunk intirely into the ball of the tube; yet Aleppo lies in latitue 36 deg. which is 16 degrees nearer to the line than London: This cold deſtroyed millions of olive trees that had ſurvived 50 winters, and alſo many thouſand people. The failure of a crop the ſucceeding Harveſt produced a famine, for, in this land of indolence and oppreſſion no proviſion is made but from hand to mouth. The famine was ſo ſevere, that in many places children expired in the arms of their mothers, who devoured them as ſoon as they were dead: Many people from the adjacent mountains and villages, came and offered their wives and children to ſale at Aleppo for a few dollars, to procure a ſhort reſpite from the pangs of hunger, and the approach of death; and men and dogs might be ſearching at the ſame dunghill for a piece of carrion or a bone. This famine was followed by a plague, which laſted the greateſt part of the year 1758, and ſwept away near ſixty thouſand ſouls.

The years 1759 and 1760 were diſtinguiſhed by troubles and earthquakes; and at the end of March 1761, the plague, which had laid dormant ſince the autumn, made its appearance again, and about May, ſpread univerſally, and ſome continued to die of it till the middle of September 1762; during the months of June and July, the burials were from [illegible] to 300 a day; the factory was ſhut up, but the ſound of men ſinging before the corps, and the ſhreiks of women for the dead were never out of their ears; as the heat of the weather obliged them to ſleep on the terrace of the houſes, their reſt was perpetually interrupted by the ſounds of horror, which the ſilence of the night made it ſtill more affecting.

Among other particulars related of this plague are the following:

A woman was delivered of a child with the plague ſores upon it, though the mother was entirely free. A woman that ſuckled her own child, which was about five months old, was ſeized with the plague, and died in a week, yet the child though it ſuckled and lay in the ſame bed, during the whole diſorder, eſcaped the infection: A woman more than 100 years of age, was ſeized with the plague and recovered; her two grand children, one of which was 12 years old, and the other 16, both caught the infection from her and died.

A plague which raged in the Iſle of Cyprus, in the ſpring of 1760, is ſaid to have carried off ten men to one woman, and [illegible] have been moſt fatal to the youth of both ſexes.

Extract of a letter from Algiers.

"The marine of this place really begins to appear formidable, conſidering their Mediterranean ſituation, which makes it appear the more ſtrange, that European Princes ſhould continue to ſupply the Dey with ammunition & naval ſtores: Excluſive of the numerous cruiſers now at ſea there are at preſent in port, one old ſixty four gun ſhip; two Engliſh built frigates of thirty; fourteen row gallies, and two new fifty gun ſhips, almoſt ready to be launched: He has alſo ſhip builders from England, France and Denmark, in abundance."

Paris, Nov. 10. Seventeen Engineers ſet out the firſt inſt. for Port L'Orient, to embark on board the Gracieuſe appointed to carry Eaſt-India troops and ſtores for the iſland of Mauritus and Bourbon.

Nov. 11. An arret of the Council of State is juſt publiſhed, which ſurpaſſes a pamphlet entitled, "Moſt humble and moſt reſpectful Remonſtrances at Rennes to the King, with the pieces which have given riſe thereto." And all the Lieut.-Generals of the police of the kingdom are ordered to [illegible] the perſons concerned in the printing and publiſhing the ſaid pamphlet, that they may be dealt with according to the rigour of the laws.

Warſaw, Nov. 14. The King has received letters from the Pope, and from the Kings of England and Denmark, in anſwer to thoſe which his Majeſty wrote to inform them of his election; and thoſe three Sovereigns acknowledge his Majeſty in his quality of King of Poland and Great Duke of Lithuania: ſo that this acknowledgement is already made by five reſpectable Powers.

Hamburgh, Nov. 27. We have an account from the Lower Elbe, that an earthquake has ſwallowed up thirty acres of land in the neighbourhood of that river, and ſubſtituted a lake of the ſame ſurface, and upwards of 40 fathom deep.

LONDON.

Nov. 15. It has been computed from an eſtimate ſent over by laſt New York mail, that five hundred pieces of iron ordnance, great and ſmall, will be required to fortify the moſt important frontier paſſes extending from the forks of Delaware to the weſtern confines of that province, including the cannon to be put on board the ſeveral armed veſſels for the greater ſecurity of navigation on the lakes Erie, Ontario and Michigan.

It is ſaid the ſix independent companies of New-York, which were broke ſoon after the peace, will ſpeedily be put in commiſſion under proper regulations, and to be in the pay of that province.

They write from Breſt, that a French frigate ſailed from thence the ſeventh inſtant for Belleiſle, with deſign to rout out a deſperate gang of Engliſh & French ſmugglers, or rather pirates, who have for ſome months paſt infeſted that iſland, and the neighbouring coaſts, and are ſaid to be in the poſſeſſion of ſeveral armed cutters.

His Majeſty's ſhip Ruſſel, of 74 guns, lately built at Deptford, is rigging with all expedition.

The Emperor of Morocco has requeſted ſupplies of ammunition and men from the Ottoman Porte, on the apprehenſion of the Spaniards intended attack upon Mogador.

It is ſaid a new promotion of Admirals, will ſoon take place, among whom, we are informed, Commodore Harriſon will be included.

We hear that three Engliſh officers of diſtinction will ſpeedily embark for Liſbon, to command in an expedition to the Portugueſe ſettlement in the Eaſt Indies.

The new King of Poland expreſſes a ſtrong attachment to the Engliſh nation, from ſeveral circumſtances he greatly affects the manners, cuſtoms, and faſhions of that country. Mr. Whorton, the Britiſh reſident is his conſtant companion, and we juſt hear, that his Majeſty has appointed Mr. Montague (an Engliſh Advocate, his Charge des Affairs at the Court of London.

December 8. The following is a tranſlation of a letter, which (as we are aſſured from Poland by this day's Holland mail) has been written by the King of Great-Britain to his Poliſh Majeſty:

"SIR,

"IT is with great ſatisfaction that I have learnt by your "own letter, the agreeable news, that your Majeſty had "been elected King and poſſeſſor of the throne of Po-"land.

"An election made ſo peaceably and ſo unanimouſly muſt "one day enrich the annals of that kingdom: and your "ſubjects have the greateſt reaſon to promiſe themſelves e-"very thing from their Sovereign, who, in his private tra-"vels, having ſeen the different Courts of Europe, and "made himſelf acquainted with them, will conſequently be "the better enabled as a King to conduct his ſubjects, to "watch over their preſervation, and to defend their laws and "their liberties.

"The pleaſure I feel in recollecting the eſteem which I "conceived for you in private, increaſes that which I now "have to congratulate your Majeſty on your advancement "to the throne; and I take this opportunity with great ſer-"vency, to aſſure your Majeſty of the ſincere friendſhip with "which I am, Sir, your Friend and Brother, (Signed) GEORGE R.

St. James's, 9th of October 1764.

Dec. 15. The True Briton, Harriſon, from the Havanna to London, foundered 6 weeks ago off the Groyn, and 13 of the people periſhed. She had 70,000 l. on board for the merchants of this city.

It is now ſaid, that one million only will be raiſed for the ſervice of next year, on an entire new plan, being a lottery of 6 per. cent. life annuities.

Tueſday came on before the right. hon. chief juſtice Pratt, at the court of common pleas, the caſe between Mr. Beardmore, an eminent attorney at law, plaintiff, and the earl of Halifax and others, defendants, in an action for falſe impriſonment; when after a hearing of eight hours, the jury in about three quarters of an hour bro't in a verdict for the plaintiff, with 1500 l. And,

Yeſterday came on at the ſame court, the ſeveral cauſes between the Rev. Mr. Entick, Meſſrs. Willſon and Fell, and Mr. Meredith, clerk to Mr. Beardmore, and the earl of Halifax, for falſe impriſonment, when after ſhort trials, the juries gave verdicts in favor of the plaintiffs, with the following damages, viz Mr. Entick, 20l. Mr. Willſon 40l. Mr. Fell 10l. and Mr. Meredith 200l. The warrants upon which theſe plaintiffs were apprehended, were determined to be legal, and the verdicts were given for detaining them longer than was neceſſary before they were examined.

January 3, 1765.

Yeſterday morning the wife of Mr. Huggett, a chairmaker, was brought to bed of a daughter, in St. John's ſtreet, Smithfield, in the 55th year of her age:—her huſband is in his 73d year, and the woman is his fourth wife.

Extract of a Letter from Portſmouth, Jan. 1.

"There are parties of marines again to be put on board his Majeſty's ſhips in the harbour. On board the ſhips of the line, a Captain, firſt and ſecond Lieutenant, and 40 men; on board the frigates, a Lieutenant only, and we hear 30 men.

PHILADELPHIA, February 28.

At a meeting of the SUN FIRE COMPANY of this city, on the twenty ſecond inſtant, in order to reduce the preſent high price of mutton in ſome meaſure, and to promote the growth of ſheep in this province, as much as in them lies, it was agreed not to purchaſe any lamb this ſeaſon.—And we hear a great number of the other inhabitants of this place, have come into reſolutions of the ſame kind.

NEW-YORK, March 11.

Extract of a Letter from London, dated Nov. 30.

"The minority, by death and other accidents are mouldered away almoſt to nothing. The miniſtry are now employed in preparing ſome bills againſt next ſeſſions, which will render them very popular; and they have, in particular under their ſerious conſideration, the purchaſe of the ſuperiority of the Iſle of Man, which hath been for many years, the grand theatre of ſmuggling. This will increaſe the revenue to a prodigious degree. I have alſo the pleaſure to acquaint you, that, by the unuſual care of the officers of the revenue, and by ſome excellent regulations lately made in it, as well as by the great increaſe of our commerce in general, the ſinking fund hath this year much exceeded two millions; a ſum which a man in high office told me the other day, neither their hopes nor wiſhes ever preſumed to reach before."

NEWPORT, March 11.

A ſloop from the Weſt-Indies, for New-London, put in here laſt Saturday evening, and ſailed again yeſterday morning. She had been from Barbadoes 22 days; at which iſland, the maſter informs 8 or 10 veſſels, juſt before he ſailed were ſeized by the officers of the King's cuſtoms, for not being able each to produce a certificate that they had given in the bond required for moloſſes, agreeable to the late act of parliament.

The maſter of the above ſloop ſays, tha the heard nothing of one of his majeſty's cruiſers having been taken by a French man of war; ſo that it's concluded the advice received at St. Kitts, of ſuch a capture, and brought hither by Capt. Smith, was without foundation.

Laſt week, at the ſuperior court, came on the cauſe between John Baniſter, Eſq; plaintiff, and the heirs of the late Capt. John Brown, defendants; and on Saturday the jury delivered in their verdict, by which a ballance of £. 2500 and upwards, appeared due to the defendants.

BOSTON, March 18.

Friday laſt Capt. Atwood arrived here in 5 days from Halifax, by whom we learn that Capt. McPhilliny's veſſel was ſtove to pieces, and moſt of the cargo loſt. Capt. Atwood alſo informs, that about a fortnight before he ſailed the following ſorrowful accident befel three young men belonging to the town, viz. They had been to Tangier, about 16 miles from Halifax in an open ſhallop, and on their return, were driven by a violent gale of wind on a reef of rocks near a place called the Devil's Iſland, and it being extreme cold, they all periſhed. One of them (brother to Mr. John Fillis, formerly of this town, merchant, but now of Halifax) was afterwards found in the boat, with tears froze from his eye-lids down the ſide of his cheeks; another was found on the reef, froze to death in a praying poſture, and 'tis ſuppoſed the 3d was drowned.——Their bodies were ſoon after taken up and decently buried at Halifax.

Capt. Atwood alſo informs, of a man named Hallahon, as he was travelling near the King's yard, and ſuppoſed to have miſs'd his way, fell over the wharff and was drowned.

About the ſame time the body of a man was taken up at the dock yard, ſuppoſed to have been drowned about five months before, belonging to the Rainbow man of war.

Portſmouth, (in New-Hampſhire) March 15.

Friday the 5th of April next is appointed by authority, as a day of faſting and prayer throughout this province.

We hear that Captain Philip Hooker, in a brig belonging to this place, which was blown off this coaſt, about [illegible] months ago, coming round from Cape Ann, is arrived in the Weſt Indies, in 27 days paſſage. They were very ſhort of proviſions.

Laſt Friday his Excellency the governor was pleaſed to diſſolve the general aſſembly of this province.

BOSTON, March 21.

The Rev. Mr. Whitefield arrived at Savannah in Georgia from South-Carolina.

HARTFORD, March 25.

The Eclipſe of the Sun, as mentioned in our laſt (under the Boſton Head) made its Appearance, about the Time, and the Continuance was the ſame as mentioned there. It was proceeded by a violent Storm of Snow, which began the next Day, and continued (with ſome Intermiſſions) till this Morning. The Height of the Gale, was about Midnight on Saturday Night.

We have a Report in Town, that a Veſſel lately arrived at New-Haven, from the Weſt Indies, brought in three Men which they took off of a Wreck at Sea, which belonged to Connecticut River.

We hear from Rye, that the Family of Doct. Wright of that Town, was poiſon'd with ſome Rat's-Bane, which was procured for deſtroying Rats, and by ſome Accident, got into the Food, which the Family afterwards eat of; and they were all more or leſs affected, — they all happily recovered but the Doctor's eldeſt Son, who expired in a few Hours after he had taken the fatal Doſe.

We hear from Dutches-County, New-York Government, that an aged Gentleman, of that Place, about a Month ago, ſhot himſelf——He, a few Months before, married a ſprightly Girl, about 20 Years of Age.

MORE than twenty Hogſheads of choice Weſt India RUM, imported laſt Summer, may be had for Caſh, or ſhort Credit, on the moſt reaſonable Terms, by applying to Thomas Seymore, jun. or Eliſha Pitkin, of Hartford.

March 23d, 1765. 18

TO be ſold at publick vendue, or otherwiſe, on Thurſday, the fourth Day of April next, at the dwelling-houſe of ——— Strickland, Inn-holder in the pariſh of Middlefield, in the town of Middletown, in the county of Hartford;—The farm of land, lately belonging to Captain Abraham Camp; containing, in the whole, one hundred and fifteen acres, more or leſs; has a good houſe, barn, well and orchard thereon, almoſt wholly under improvement, and is, perhaps, one of the moſt commodious and valuable tracts of land within ſaid pariſh.——At ſame time will be ſold, another farm or rather meadow, lately Moſes Parſon's, ſituate in the pariſh aforeſaid, containing ſeventy acres, all within fence, and is wholly improv'd for mowing, in which it exceeds;—two barns ſtand on the ſame.——Any perſon inclining to purchaſe, before ſaid day, may, by applying to Thomas Seymour, jun. of Hartford, who will procure an indiſputable title to the premiſes.

March 23d, 1765. 18

SEVERAL of the perſons claimants of thoſe lands advertiſed in this paper by the name of New-Harbour, Miſcongus and Demaraſcontee, to the eaſtward of Boſton, met, agreeable to ſaid advertiſement, at the dwelling-houſe of Mr. David Bull, inn-keeper in Hartford, the 19th inſtant, but not ſo many attended as was expected: They reſolved to adjourn ſaid meeting to Tueſday the 9th Day of April next; in order that all perſons concerned might have this further notice, and time to aſcertain their reſpective claims: At which time and place aforeſaid, it is expected thoſe concerned will attend, and proceed upon ſome method to ſecure their intereſt; as there is a townſhip already laid out on ſaid lands, and ſettling faſt. JOHN WALKER.

Hartford, March 25, 1765. 18

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Sign of the Heart and Crown, near the North Meeting-House.

BERLIN, December 5.

This morning the King of Pruſſia arrived here in perfect health from Potzdam, accompanied by his Royal Highneſs the Prince of Pruſſia, and young Prince Henry. Baron Plotho, his Pruſſian Majeſty's miniſter at Ratiſbon, is arrived here.

Madrid, Dec. 5. It is aſſured, that in Conſequence of a Report made to the King, that ſeveral Veſſels from ſome Northern States were expected ſoon to paſs the Straits of Gibraltar, laden with warlike Stores for the Regency of Barbary, his Majeſty has given Orders for four Ships of the Line to put to Sea, in order to intercept thoſe Convoys, and to ſeize the Veſſels.

From the Viſtula, Dec. 6. The Turks and the Tartars continue approaching, by little and little, the Frontiers of Poland; and we believe it will not be long before the World becomes acquainted with the Reſolution of the Divan, which has hitherto been kept ſurprizingly ſecret.

Genoa, Dec. 17. On the 13th ſeveral tranſports, with ench troops on board, arrived at Baſtia: but as M. de beaul was not arrived, the troops had not begun to land.

LONDON, December 29.

The intended marriage of the King of Poland, with a rinceſs of Saxony, is confirmed from many Places by yeſter ay's mails.

Yeſterday Morning [illegible] kiſs [illegible] appointed [illegible] governor of Weſt-Florida.

Tueſday laſt the hon. Lady Juliana Penn was brought to bed of a Daughther, at her Houſe in Spring Garden.

January 1. Letters from Conſtantinople, of the 17th of Nov. laſt, bring advice, that Abdy Aga, Governor of Cyprus, being accuſed of holding a correſpondence, and having a cloſe connection with the late depoſed Cham of Tartary, was beheaded by order of the Grand Signior, and his head expoſed to the view of the populace for three days.

From ſome papers lately ſeized on board a ſmuggling veſſel, it is ſaid a very important diſcovery has been made, of certain perſons long concerned in the illegal practice of tranſporting Britiſh wool to France and Holland.

On Friday laſt a journeyman cabinet maker, was taken into cuſtody in the Borough for running away and leaving his maſter's work unfiniſhed; and being on Saturday brought efore the Lord mayor, was for the ſaid offence committed to [illegible] labour at Bridewell.

[illegible] of a letter from Portſmouth, Dec. 3.

"W[illegible] theſe three days his majeſty's frigate Zephyr and Hound [illegible] ſailed from Spithead for Plymouth; the former to go in company with ſome ſhips of the line to the coaſt of Guinea, and the latter took money to pay the ſhipping in the above port.

Sunday morning a duel was fought in a field near Marybone, between two Iriſh Gentlemen who quarrelled at one of the Covent Garden bagnios the preceding evening about a lady of that neighbourhood; in which the aggreſſor having the misfortune to loſe three fingers by the firſt ſhot he acknowledged himſelf to be in an error and retired to the houſe of an eminent ſurgeon near Oxford road perfectly reconciled to his antagoniſt.

Yeſterday morning died in the 80th year of his age at Putney, Mr. Wagner Hatter to his Majeſty and the army.

They write from Cadiz, that the fleet deſtined for America will not ſail till January or February. There has been a violent hurricane at Malaga, which has done prodigious damage even to the amount of three millions of piaſtres.

They write from Naples that the Prince de Francavilla had been juſt ſent for to Madrid to receive inſtructions concerning the intended marriage between the King of the Two-Sicilies and one of the Archducheſſes, daughter of their Imperial Majeſties; after which he is to go to ſettle this alliance at the Court of Vienna.

Letters from Honfleur, by the way of Paris, ſay, that ſeveral veſſels were arrived there in a few days; and amongſt them 2 from the Banks of Newfoundland, with upwards of 25,000 ſtock-fiſh; and other merchandize.

About ten days ago a lagre pike was caught in the River Ouſe which weigh'd upwards of 28 pounds, and was ſold to a gentleman in the neighbourhood for a guinea. As the cook maid was gutting the fiſh ſhe found, to her great aſtoniſhment, a watch with a black ribbon and two ſteel ſeals annext, in the body of the pike; the gentleman's butler, upon opening the watch found the maker's name, Thomas Grancfield, Burnham, Norfolk. Upon a ſtrict enquiry it appears, that the ſaid watch was ſold to a gentleman's ſervant, who was unfortunately drownend about ſix weeks ago, in his way to Cambridge, between this place and South Ferry. The watch is ſtill in the poſſeſſion of Mr. John Roberts, at the Croſs Keys in Littleport, for inſpection of the publick.

They write from Liſbon, that two bomb veſſels, on the Engliſh conſtruction, the firſt ever built in Portugal, were launched there the 18th of November laſt, and that four others were nearly finiſhed.

LOST, laſt Monday, between the Houſes of John S and Caleb Spencer, in Hartford; a large Black Cloak with a Head on it, wide Gimp on the Fore Part of the Head, the Collar lined with Black Sattin; it was wrapt in a check'd linen Handkerchief. Whoever finds and brings ſaid Cloke and Handkerchief to the Subſcriber in Hartford, ſhall be well Rewarded, by Widow ELIZABETH WADSWORTH.

March 11th, 1765. 11

Middletown, March 15, 1765.

ALL Perſons who have Accounts open with the Eſtate of Mr. Rowland Allen, late of Middletown, deceas'd, are deſired to ſettle the ſame immediately, to prevent Trouble, and oblige, ELIZABETH ALLEN, Adminiſtratrix.

Hartford, March 16, 1765.

For NEW-YORK,

The SLOOP

BLACK-PRINCE,

DONALD M'AWLEY, Maſter,

WILL certainly ſail in Ten Days, from the Date hereof; for Freight or Paſſage, apply to Thomas Davidſon, and Company, or the ſaid Maſter. She now lies at Mr. Jones's Wharff, in Hartford; and will take Goods in any Part of the River. She is a prime Sailer, and has good Accomodations for Paſſengers. Thoſe Gentlemen who have any Freight, may depend upon its being carried upon the moſt reaſonable Terms.

THESE are to notify all my attornies, who have any bonds or notes of hand, &c. in my favour, to ſue for the ſame, for the uſe and benefit of my creditors, in whoſe hands the ſame are lodged.

16 Robert Nugent.

WILLIAM HIERLIHY, Chaiſe-Harneſs-Maker, and Saddler, from Europe; has lately ſet up his Buſineſs in Middletown, near the Town-Houſe—where Perſons may be ſupplied with all ſorts of Harneſſes for Chaiſe, Chairs, &c. Draft-Collars, made very eaſy and convenient—he alſo trims Chairs, and intends to carry on the Saddling Buſineſs, in the neweſt Faſhions that are now practiſed in London; on the moſt reaſonable Terms. 16

THESE are to notify the creditors of Mr. Jedidiah Mills, of Derby, in the county of New-Haven, in the Colony of Connecticut, an inſolvent debtor: That we the ſubſcribers, aſſignees of the ſaid Mills, have agreed to meet at the houſe of Mr. Medad Lyman, tavern-keeper, in New-Haven, on the firſt Tueſday of April next; to examine and aſcertain the debts due to each creditor; in order that a dividend of the eſtate (if any there be) of the ſaid Mills, may be made, between his creditors, of which due notice will be given.

Thomas Darling,
John Mix,
John Daviſe.

New-Haven,
March Firſt, 1765. 16.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN,

TO the Owners of the ſeveral Rights or Shares of the Townſhip of Brumley, in the Province of New-Hampſhire, who are delinquent in paying the Tax of One Pound, Ten Shillings, Lawful Money, or any Part thereof; which was granted at a legal Meeting, on the third Tueſday of Auguſt, 1763, and advertiſed in the Connecticut Courant for three Weeks paſt, according to Law, that ſo much of their Land or Rights there, ſufficient to pay ſaid Delinquents Tax with incident Charges, will be ſold at Publick Vendue, on the 1ſt of April next, at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. Samuel Gilbert, jun Inn-Holder in Hebron, in Connecticut: Said Sale to begin at Ten o'Clock in the Morning, on ſaid Day, and to continue from Day to Day; or to be kept alive by adjournment till all be ſold.

Dated at Hebron, the 4th Day of March, 1765.

THOMAS SUMNER, Collector.

WHereas many of the proprietors of the townſhip of Cornwall, in the province of New-Hampſhire, have not paid their reſpective taxes raiſed on ſaid land, to defray the coſt thereof, according to the votes of ſaid proprietors. Theſe are therefore to give public notice, that there is to be a vendue of the ſaid negligent proprietors' rights, at the dwelling-houſe of Mr. David Beebe, inn holder in Saliſbury, to begin at nine of the clock fore noon, on the firſt Tueſday in April next, and to continue by an adjournment, from time to time, until the whole of ſaid rights are ſold.

Dated at Saliſbury, the 13th day of Feb. A. D. 1765.

16 Thomas Tuttle, Collector.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Sign of the Heart and Crown, near the North Meeting-Houſe.

MONDAY, April 1, 176[illegible] Number 1[illegible]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

At a Lodge of FREE-MASONS, held at the Fountain Tavern, in New-Haven, Tueſday, [illegible] March, 1765.

Lodge duly Formed.

THIS Lodge taking into Conſideration the [illegible] Circumſtances of the Colony, ariſing from [illegible] being greatly in Debt, are willing to Contribute what little Aſſiſtance in their Power [illegible] the Promotion of Arts, Agriculture and Oeconomy; which appears to them the only Means to extricate the Colony [illegible] of its preſent Difficulty, and prevent it for the future. And, accordingly have voted Premiums to be given on the following Articles, raiſed and made in the County of New-Haven, in the Manner following, viz.

For the greateſt Quantity of good Hemp, raiſed by one Farmer in the County of New-Haven, in the Year 1765, Five Pounds; for the ſecond greateſt Quantity, raiſed as aforeſaid, Four Pounds; for the third greateſt Quantity, raiſed as aforeſaid, Three Pounds.

For the greateſt Quantity of Good Flax, raiſed by any one Farmer, in the County aforeſaid, Four Pounds.

For the greateſt Quantity of Linen Yarn, ſpun by one Perſon, between the firſt of July 1765 and the firſt of July 1766, in the County aforeſaid, Two Pounds Ten Shillings.

For the ſecond greateſt Quantity, ſpun as aforeſaid, One Pound Ten Shillings.

N. B. The Quantity of Yarn to be computed by the Run.

Proof of the Quantity of the Hemp, and Flax raiſed, and Quantity of Linen Yarn ſpun, to be by Affidavit of the Grower or Spinner, before any one Juſtice of the Peace, for the County, ſpecifying the Quantity; and that the Hemp or Flax, was raiſed by one Farmer in the County aforeſaid, in the Year 1765, and the Yarn ſpun by one Perſon, between the Periods above mentioned.

On a Certificate's being produced, from any one Juſtice, in the County, of ſuch Affidavit's being made, the Perſon or Perſons, that appears to have raiſed and ſpun the greateſt Quantity of the above Articles, within the Times above limited, ſhall receive the above Premiums by applying to the Treaſurer of the Lodge, for the Time being.

N. B The Period of waiting, for ſuch Proofs, will be till the Firſt of April, 1766, for Hemp and Flax; and the Firſt of July 1766, for the Yarn; and the Certificates to be ſent to Col. NATHAN WHITING, or the Maſter of the Lodge, for the Time being.

By Order of the Lodge,

TIMOTHY JONES, jun. Secretary.

LISBON, (Portugal) Nov. 20.

TO an exceſſive cold, there have now ſucceeded violent heats, which occaſion many illneſſes. This Year has been remarkably dry: it has rained but twice ſince the month of March: That is to ſay, the 21ſt of September, on which day was a violent ſtorm, and laſt Sunday. There is great want of ſoft water, and the next harveſt it is feared, will be very indifferent.

Peterſburg, (in Ruſſia) Nov. 28. It is certain that her imperial Majeſty intereſts herſelf ſtrongly for the proteſtants of Poland; and her ambaſſador at Warſaw is authoriſed, in conſequence, to act in concert upon this object with the miniſters reſiding there, on the part of the kings of Pruſſia, Great Britain and Denmark.

Genoa, Dec. 1. One of our Ladies has received a letter from His Royal Highneſs the Duke of York, in which that prince promiſes to be here again the next carnival.

Paris, Dec. 14. Two young women, one of them eſpouſed the other at Lyons, were lately ſent to goal du Palais, and the deceiver has been ſentenced by the Judges of Lyons to be whipt, branded and baniſhed, her male habit to be previouſly torn from her back by the executioner; but it is doubted whether the parliament will confirm this ſentence.—The marriage of theſe two girls has ſubſiſted three years. The fear of ridicule, it ſeems made the deceived one keep a profound ſilence. How it came to be diſcovered at laſt, is not known.

LONDON.

Dec. 29. We are [illegible] that the Kent, Capt. Mills, which ſet ſail from [illegible] on the 4th of June laſt, with Lord Clive on board, [illegible] ſpoke with by an American veſſel beyond the line, in [illegible] weeks and two days after the above date, and all well; [illegible] it is thought his Lordſhip muſt have arrived at Bengal [illegible] beginning of this month, the firſt [illegible] paſſage being ſo very quick.

[illegible] the remains of [illegible] George Stone, late archbiſhop of Armagh, and Primate of all Ireland, were carried from his brother's houſe in Spring Garden, to the Jeruſ[illegible] in [illegible] after lying in [illegible], were laſt night interred in a grand manner in a [illegible] in Weſtminſter Abbey.

We are [illegible] orders lately diſpatched to the Britiſh commanders [illegible] India ſtation has been in conſequence of advice received that the French are forming ſome deſigns on the Spaniſh continent of America, ſaid to be prejudicial to the Intereſt of Great Britain.

A gentleman of immenſe fortune, in the city ſhot himſelf at his country houſe on Wedneſday laſt. The reaſon of it is not yet diſcovered.

A few days ſince a certain great nobleman was carrying in a chair through St. James's Park, a mob gathered, and followed it a conſiderably way, and continually called out, "No B—." at laſt the chair was ordered to ſtop, and upon its being opened, the nobleman ſtood up, and demanded what they wanted with him? This queſtion, and ſome of the foot [illegible] being near, ſo intimidated the Mobility, that they [illegible] and let the great perſon proceed to the place where he was going, without further moleſtation.

It is reported ſome extraordinary advices are received from the court of Spain, which has occaſioned a council to be held: Some people imagine things in the Bay of Honduras are not rightly ſettled; however, orders of a very ſpirited nature have been ſent to the Governor of Jamaica, as well as to the Admiral on that ſtation.

There is not the leaſt truth in the various reports about Mr. Wilkes being to leave France. So far from it, he will certainly reſide in ſome of the neareſt ports of that kingdom to the Engliſh ſhore, during the whole next ſeſſion of parliament.

Mr. Wilkes is ſaid to have announced Mr. Churchill's death to a genius here in town, in the following laconick epiſtle: "Dear Bob, damn'd hard times!—Churchill is dead; Lloyd in the Fleet; and Wilkes little better than a tranſport for life.—Damn'd hard times indeed!

It is further ſaid, that Sir Edward Hawke will ſoon take upon him the command of a Fleet of obſervation, to cruiſe on the French coaſts.

We are aſſured, that the officer who was lately ſent out to view the ſea coaſt of France is returned, and has laid his obſervations before two Right Hon. Boards, but the particulars are kept a profound ſecret.

January 3. Notwithſtanding reports to the contrary, we hear that only one million will be raiſed for the ſervice of the year enſuing.

Jan 5. Certain advices are received, that the Spaniards have already formed one encampment on the borders of Portugal, near Almedia, and are in great forwardneſs with another, to conſiſt of fifteen battalions, and twenty four ſquadrons. The King of Portugal has ordered all his officers to join their corps.

Private letters from Cadiz ſay, that 4 ſhips of the line, 3 frigates and a bomb ketch, are fitting out in that port, intended, it is thought, for an expedition againſt the Portugueſe ſettlements in the Brazils.

Laſt night an expreſs arrived at the Secretary of States office, and this morning, we hear, the ſame was laid before his Majeſty: It is ſaid to have come from France, and to have bro't a concluſive agreement relative to certain matters lately conteſted.

A ſpeedy commencement of hoſtilities on the coaſt of Guiney is now looked upon as hardly avoidable, conſidering the naval ſtrength of the French on that ſtation, who are actually ſaid to have five men of war of the line, beſides frigates appointed and tranſports, with a conſiderable number of land forces on board.

We are informed, the laſt Weſt India mail diſpatched, contained orders for Sir William Burnaby to grant a ſufficient convoy from the ſhips of his ſquadron to the Britiſh logwood cutters in the Bay of Honduras, with poſitive orders to repel any offered indignities by force.

The laſt letters from Liſbon adviſe, that four large tranſports, under convoy of a King's ſhip, ſailed from the Tagus the 10th of December, with materials and ordnance ſtores for his Portugueſe Majeſty's weſtern iſlands, where ſome additional forts are to be erected.

Extract of a Letter from Plymouth Dock, Jan. 1.

" An expreſs arrived yeſterday morning at Plymouth dock, with ſailing orders for the Edgar, (who has been lying 15 weeks in the Sound) The crew were very ſickly, and their diſorder ſeem epidemical. It is ſaid there are near 70 upon the ſick liſt; owing principally to want of freſh air, the weather in winter time being ſo bad in the Sound, that it is very ſeldom ſhips can open their lower tier of ports.

" The Edgar is to ſail in company with the Shannon and Hound to the coaſt of Guinea, to demoliſh a Fort called Albralca, which the French have erected oppoſite to ours in the new river Gambia; ſhe is not to touch at any of the Engliſh ſettlements at all, but after touching at Cape Coaſt and Anamaboo, make the beſt of her way back, without going to Jamaica.

" Commodore Graves, who commands the Edgar, is to hoiſt a broad pendant as ſoon as he ſails."

We are told in letters from Konigsberg, that the violence of the late fire there was ſo great, that pieces of timber were found kindled, which had been driven by it to the diſtance of two leagues; and bundles of paper were perceived hanging to the branches of the trees in ſeveral of the woods around, which caſt forth ſo great a blaze, that the flames were ſeen diſtinctly at Dantzig, tho' forty eight leagues off. [The German league is between four and five of our Engliſh miles.]

They write from Jamaica, that Sir William Burnaby, commander in chief of the Weſt India ſtation, has iſſued orders to all his cruizers to bring in all pretended guarda coſtas, whether French or Spaniſh, which may be found in certain latitudes, not actually King's ſhips, being determined that no private commiſſion from their reſpective governors, ſhall countenance or protect acts of piracy or inſults offered to his Majeſty's ſubjects in thoſe ſeas.

We are info[illegible] the Britiſh commanders on the Weſt-India ſtation, has been in conſequence of advice received that the French are forming ſome deſigns on the Spaniſh continent of America, ſaid to be prejudicial to the intereſts of Great Britain.

We hear application is going to be made to parliament for obtaining a certain bounty per ton on ſhips fitted out from the Britiſh colonies, for carrying on a whale fiſhery in the North American ſeas.

We are aſſured that the eſtate of the Duke of Devonſhire, before his Grace comes of age will be at leaſt 50,000l. per annum.

One day laſt week, as a gentleman was riding towards Kingſton, he was met by a highwayman, who accoſted him in a moſt genteel manner, and asked him for what he had about him. The gentleman immediately gave him his watch and ſix guineas; but deſired, as the watch was a family one, that he would return it. This he directly complied with; and told the gentleman, if he wanted any of his money returned, he ſhould have it; and the gentleman telling him that he undoubtedly ſhould, for travelling expences, as he had given him all he had about him, he immediately returned him two guineas, ſaying, he was too well acquainted with diſtreſs, to ſuffer any one to remain in it, when he had it in his power to relieve it.—The gentleman was ſo ſtruck with the behaviour of the robber, that he told him, if real want had driven him to commit an act by which he had forfeited his life, if he would meet him at a place which he named, and let him know his caſe, he would give him his honor he ſhould be ſafe, and beſides would relieve him with ten guineas; but the robber did not chooſe to appear at the place appointed.—This we are told for a fact.

We are informed an eſtimate of the civil eſtabliſhment of all the Britiſh North American colonies on the continent, is now preparing to be laid before the parliament, previous to ſome important regulations intended to take place in theſe provinces.

I R E L A N D.

CORK, Jan. 10. A rumour is ſpread here of ſome diſcoveries being made of an extraordinary nature; but as we know not what foundation there is for ſuch a rumour, we ſhall defer ſaying any thing on that head. However, we know the troops quartered here have orders to march under arms to Church next Sunday, and to be ſupplied with 16 rounds of powder and ball each man.

DUBLIN, January 12.

Extract of a Letter from Waterford, Jan. 10. 1765.

" We are in great hopes here, that the whole plot of the White Boys will be diſcovered, which you may rely on was no leſs than an intended rebellion—Lord Carrick brought a Woman here laſt Saturday, who, it is expected, will diſcover the whole. We have a French officer in priſon here."

BOSTON, March 28.

Friday laſt we had here a ſevere Wind at about E. N. E. accompanied with Rain and Snow, which encreaſed, excepting at ſome Intervals, until Saturday Night, when a very violent Storm began, and continued till next Day in the Afternoon: The Full Sea was about Two o'Clock; after which Time the Tide, or rather the Sea drove in higher than it had done for many Years paſt, almoſt all the Wharves in Town, (excepting Hancock's, which had lately been raiſed and repaired) and ſeveral Streets near them, were laid under Water; the Cellars and lower Floors of many Stores, Shops, and Houſes were alſo overflowed, and the Goods that were therein much wet: But the greateſt Damage which accrued was by the Violence of the Waves that ruſhed in like a Flood, and beat up a great many of the Wharves, carrying off the Ship Timber, Cord-Wood, Boards, Shingles, and almoſt every [illegible] the Veſſels in the Harbour were ſcarcely holden by their Anchors and Faſts, ſeveral of them drove up to the Heads of Docks, beating againſt each other and againſt the Shops, &c. near which they were driven, and being ſurrounded with the floating Timber, they received great Damage, ſome loſing their Booms, Bowſprits, Maſts, &c. and two or three were ſunk: At the Time of the greateſt Difficulty, the Wind was extreme high, the Rain & Snow fell in Abundance, and the Sea flowed in with ſuch Impetuoſity, that ſcarce any were able to give Aſſiſtance, until the Storm abated, which was at the Ebbing of the Tide, about 3 o'Clock. P. M.—but the Storm did not ſubſide until the next Morning. We are not able to make a Computation of the Loſs hereby ſuſtained, to many of the Inhabitants of the Town; certainly it muſt take conſiderable Sums to repair the Wharves, Veſſels, Stores, Shops, &c that have greatly ſuffered, beſides the Loſs of Salt, Rice, & other Articles, which were in Warehouſes that the Tide came into, and the floating away the Lumber, which has been drove promiſcuouſly to all Parts of the Harbour, and left where the Waves carried it. [illegible] much Sugar has been damaged at this Time, this is attributed to the prudential Care of thoſe who had any of that valuable Article, by their ſtoring and timely laying the Hogſheads on Skids, to a Heighth above extraordinary Tides.——

The Wharves, ſtores, &c. at Charleſtown, have ſuffered conſiderable by the above ſtorm.

We hear that in the country towns great damage has been done alſo in the blowing down apple and other fruit trees, fences, ſheds, &c. There was not much rain with them, but the ſnow fell in many places in the roads above a foot high.

We hear that much damage was ſuſtained at Marblehead, one ſchooner belonging to Piſcataqua outward bound, ſtove to pieces, and another drove up ſo high on the ſhore, as not to be got off again.

At Newbury Point we hear that vaſt damage was done there, by the ſea beating into the ſtores, and waſhing away vaſt quantities of ſalt, ſugars, &c. and damaging the wharves and veſſels that lay in the harbour; we alſo hear, that the hulls of ſeveral veſſels building there, were drove from off their ſtocks, and carried to places from whence it will be very difficult to remove them.

As there are many veſſels expected about this time on the coaſt, we are not without fears of ſome of them having been too near the ſhore in the ſtorm.

From Portſmouth in N. Hampſhire, we hear the ſtorm was extreme there, carrying all before it where the tide come, deſtroying vaſt quantities of goods that were in warehouſes near the waterſide.——

Laſt night died in the goal in this town, William Preeſt, who was lately committed there, on ſuſpicion of being concerned in the murder of Capt. Goold, of the Brig Hope of New-London, on the coaſt of Africa.

Portſmouth, New-Hampſhire, March 22.

We hear from Exeter, that the week before laſt, a ſheep being ailing for ſeveral days, and no hopes of her recovery, the owner thereof cut her throat, and ripping up her belly immediately, took out two fine lambs which are like to do well.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.

Extract of a letter from Carliſle, dated March 14.

" An affair lately happened in the upper end of Cumberland, which has given us, and the beſt thinking people of the country, much uneaſineſs. Some time ago Capt. Callender employed ſeveral waggons to carry Indian goods to Mr Polland's, in Conogochieg, to be carried thence by pack horſes to fort Pitt. Unhappily the head came out of one of the barrels which was full of ſcalping knives (ſay the people) pruning knives ſay others, the news of this alarmed the upper end of the county, and the neighbouring parts of Maryland, and Virginia; upon which advertiſements were poſted up, inviting all to join to prevent the carrying ammunition and ſuch like things to the Indians, by which the frontiers had ſuffered ſo much. (This we in Carliſle heard by the pack horſe maſters who came down to the ſettlement.) Our next news was, that a number from Maryland, Virginia, and Conogochieg, had followed and overtaken eighty-one horſes, fired at the drivers, and burned the goods, which alarmed us very much. Hereupon Mr. Calender rode thither, by whom on his return we learned, that 4 or 5 horſes were ſhot, and ſixty-one horſe load of goods were burned; 18 loads of rum, and two of match coating were ſaved: we underſtood likewiſe that Robert Aliſon, who had undertaken to carry out part of ſaid goods, was diſpatched from Loudon with a number of Highlanders to the place where this happened, viz. near Sidling-Hill and upon their return to Loudon, took up two or three people whom they ſuſpected, and brought to Loudon, upon which we are informed, ſeveral parties appeared in arms about London, and demanded the men to be enlarged upon bail, which was accordingly done, and then Mr. Calender returned to Carliſle.

We are further informed that another party, ſuppoſed to be moſtly from the borders of Maryland, met at Polliar's, alias Howe's, and examined the remainder of the goods, and ſearched for ammunition, but finding none went to Mr. Maxwel's, where they found and burned ſome casks of powder.—This, Sir, is the trueſt account we can learn.—It gives us much concern that an affair of this nature ſhould have at all happened, and the rather as the innocent will ſhare in the reproach: But this is not to be omitted, which gives us a good deal of ſatisfaction, that few, if any of the principal inhabitants of Conogochieg were concerned, and that upon underſtanding that there was a deſign of this nature carried on by ſome hot-headed, ſtiff people, they uſed their utmoſt endeavours to diſcourage and diſſuade them from ſuch an undertaking; and that particularly William Smith Eſq; and John M'Dowel, ſtrove with all their might to cruſh it.

We make no doubt, Sir, from the temper that ſeems to prevail with ſome, but that the body of Conogochieg ſettlement, will be repreſented as concerned, and from the diſpoſition which ſome are already diſcovering, we are ready to apprehend, that endeavours will be uſed, and Innuendo's given that the whole county will be traduced as privy, or acceſſaries to a fact which we heartily condemn; we therefore moſt humbly requeſt, Sir, that you will inform our friends of the true ſtate of the affair, and we hope that the moſt thinking and virtuous of every ſociety, will not eaſily admit innuendoes and indiſcriminate reflections, which men may too liberally pour out on the county in general."

NEW-YORK, March 28.

The ſchooner Newport Packet, captain Johnſon, bound from Newport to New-York, with a conſiderable number of paſſengers on board, among whom were ſeveral gentlemen and ladies, was in the bad weather about one o'clock on Saturday morning laſt, driven aſhore on Long-Iſland, not far from Satucket, where all the people were for many hours in the utmoſt danger of being loſt, but after being a long time in the water, and ſuffering great hardſhip and diſtreſs, they were happily all put ſafe on ſhore by a whale boat, on Long-Iſland, from whence ſome of the paſſengers came to town on Tueſday laſt. The veſſel, we hear, if the weather proves favourable, will not be loſt, and moſt of the cargo, conſiſting of rum, ſperma-ceti candles, &c. will be ſaved.

The ſchooner loſt her foremaſt on Friday, near Fiſhers Iſland, and off Saybrooke was taken in tow by the ſnow Nancy, Capt. Napier, but the tow rope breaking when it was ſuppoſed they were off New Haven, the weather being ſtormy and night approaching, Capt. Napier thought neceſſity to provide for his own ſafety, proceeded, and came to an anchor behind Stratford point; mean while the ſchooner being not under proper command, they laid her to, till ſhe ſtruck as above mention'd.

The following paragraph in a private letter from a gentleman in London, appears ſo intereſting we gladly give it, in hopes 'tis well founded.

" The reſources of remittances, which you ſo juſtly complain of being obſtructed, by the ill-judg'd proceedure of the government, we hope will be free as ever, as orders are gone out to prevent further miſchief; which will re eſtabliſh trade, and render money once more plenty."

HARTFORD, April 1.

His Honor, our Governor has iſſued a Proclamation, Ordering and Directing that Wedneſday, the Seventeenth Day of April, Inſtant, be obſerved as a Day of public Faſting and Prayer, throughout this Colony.

Lately died at Norwich, after a lingering illneſs, Capt. Charles Whiting of that Place.

The people that were taken off the wreck, and brought into New-Haven, (mentiond in our laſt) belonged to Norwich, as did alſo the veſſel, which was homeward bound, with a cargo of rum on board. There was no lives loſt;—the maſter, mate and all the crew being taken off the wreck.

We hear from ſome of the weſtern towns, that the late ſnow fell in ſuch quantities, as to render travelling very difficult.

A R E B U S.

THREE Fouths of a Weed, univerſally known,
Both here, and in England, in plenty is ſown;
A Sixth of a Bird, in Foreign Parts ſeen,
And for the moſt Part, its Colour is Green;
A Third of the Eye, of burthenſome Ships
A Part, with th' Fourth of a Lady's ſweet Lips,
Add rightly to theſe, Three Fourths of a Year,
And plain as a Pike Staff, then will appear,
The Name of a Lady, and ſurely you'll own,
She's a Lady of Worth, and lives in the Town.

Hartford, March 29th 1765.

TO be ſold, forty acres of good land, lying in the pariſh of Ellington, about 2 miles and a half from the meeting-houſe, with two dwelling houſes, a good orchard, well and other conveniences on the ſame, ſuitable for a farmer or tradeſman, one half of the pay will be accetable in ſtock, and the other, as ſhall be agreed on, at the time of bargaining. Said eſtate lately belonged to Iſaac Clark, deceas'd. Any perſon inclining to purchaſe, are deſired to apply to the ſubſcriber in Hartford, by whom an indiſputable title will be given.

Hartford, March 29. Elijah Spencer.

STRAYD away from Joſeph Holtum of Hartford, about the Tenth of this Inſtant, March, a Red Roan Mare, Six or Seven Years old, about 13 Hands and an Half high, Wall Ey'd, bald Face, trots and paces, has not been much uſed of late: Whoever will take up ſaid Mare, and convey her to the Subſcriber, ſhall have a handſome Reward, paid by me.

JOSEPH HOLTUM.

Hartford, March the 29th, 1765. 19

Choice Madeira WINE,

IMported directly from Madeira, without any Adulteration.—Good, old Barbadoes RUM and Sugar—To be ſold (by Retail) very cheap for Caſh; by

LATHROP and SMITH,

In Hartford.

SEVERAL of the perſons claimants of thoſe lands advertiſed in this paper by the name of New-Harbour, Miſcongus and Demaraſcontee, to the eaſtward of Boſton, met; agreeable to ſaid advertiſement, at the dwelling houſe of Mr. David Bull, inn-keeper in Hartford, the 19th inſtant, but not ſo many attended as was expected: They reſolved to adjourn ſaid meeting to Tueſday the 9th Day of April next, in order that all perſons concerned might have this further notice, and time to aſcertain their reſpective claims: At which time and place aforeſaid, it is expected thoſe concerned will attend, and proceed upon ſome method to ſecure their intereſt; as there is a townſhip already laid out on ſaid lands, and ſettling faſt. JOHN WALKER.

Hartford, March 25, 1765. 18

MORE than twenty Hogſheads of choice Weſt India RUM, imported laſt Summer, may be had for Caſh, or ſhort Credit, on the moſt reaſonable Terms, by applying to Thomas Seymore, jun. or Eliſha Pitkin, of Hartford.

March 23d, 1765. 18

TO be ſold at publick vendue, or otherwiſe, on Thurſday, the fourth Day of April next, at the dwelling-houſe of ——— Strickland, inn-holder in the pariſh of Middlefield, in the town of Middletown, in the county of Hartford;—The farm of land, lately belonging to Captain Abraham Camp; containing, in the whole, one hundred and fifteen acres, more or leſs; has a good houſe, barn, well and orchard thereon, almoſt wholly under improvement, and is, perhaps, one of the moſt commodious and valuable tracts of land within ſaid pariſh.——At ſame time will be ſold, another farm or rather meadow, lately Moſes Parſon's, ſituate in the pariſh aforeſaid, containing ſeventy acres, all within fence, and is wholly improv'd for mowing, in which it exceeds;—two barns ſtand on the ſame.——Any perſon inclining to purchaſe, before ſaid day, may, by applying to Thomas Seymour, jun. of Hartford, who will procure an indiſputable title to the premiſes.

March 23d, 1765. 18

Extracts from the South-Carolina, Papers, Jan. 4.

Major Loftus was preparing in November laſt, to go up the Miſſiſippi, to take poſſeſſion of Fort Natchez, the Illinois and other poſts.

Jan. 25. From a late account, taken of the whitemen in Charles-Town from 16 to 60 it appears, that in the four laſt years they have increaſed 360, and in the whole province about 2000.

A plan is under conſideration, by his majeſty's poſt-maſters general in Great-Britain, and will ſpeedily be carried into execution, for the more effectual, ſafe and ſpeedy conveyance of letters, &c. by poſt throughout all his majeſty's dominions in North-America.

Charles-Town, Jan. 31. On monday laſt arrived from London, Giles Philips, Eſq; with his family, on his way to Weſt Florida, where he is going to ſettle.

Feb. 6. The ſmall nations of Indians on the Miſſiſippi, who ſtopped major Loftus's progreſs, ſeem now better affected to the Engliſh nation, the ſuperintendant having ſent a deputy among them.

The 34th regiment commanded by major Farmer, is preparing to take poſſeſſion of the Illinois, the ſuperintendant ſends two gentlemen, well acquainted with the Indians en that rout, to go before the troops and made the path ſtraight. The Spaniſh troops were not arrived at New Orleans, but were hourly expected, and are ſaid to be in number 4000. Mr. D'abaddie the French governor, gives the ſtrongeſt aſſurances of his readineſs to facilitate every meaſure neceſſary for our taking poſſeſſion of the Illinois, and other poſts on the Miſſiſippi. His catholic majeſty has appointed M. Iſaſs firſt, and M. Villemont ſecond in command, in his new acquired country of Louiſiana.

The ſhip Dolphin of and for Liverpool, with ſugar, coffee, cotton, pimento and mahogany, ſail'd from Kingſtown in Jamaica, the 7th paſt, and on the 20th, in the night, was ſtranded on a ſandbank near ſalt key in crooked Iſland. The maſter and ſailors were all taken off the wreck the next day, by capt Hinſon in the ſloop Mary, from Jamaica, and arrived here the 3d inſtant; ſome of the pimento, cotton and mahogany, ſome ſails and a little rigging were ſaved by capt. Hinſon, and capt John Seymore, in the ſloop Phenix belonging to Bermudas.

Feb. 13 On monday laſt arrived here the ſhip Planters Adventure, Miles' Lowry maſter, from London, with the laſt of Stumple's Germans, in number 40, who had been very healthy on the paſſage tho' long. Capt. Lowry, alſo bro't over the baggage belonging to thoſe arrived before.

The ſhip ſea Nymph, John Grant, maſter, is ſailed from George-Town in this province for London, having on board 42,909 lb. of indigo, beſides deerſkins, &c ſaid to be the richeſt veſſel, that ever ſail'd from that port.

Feb. 14. The True-Briton, from the Havana for London, founder'd on her paſſage. She had on board 70,000l in Dollars, and 40 paſſengers. A French ſchooner took out above three fourths of the men, at three trips of her boat, but before they could make another, ſhe ſunk with the 13 others. Great inſurance was made on her.

The aſſembly have voted 1500l. for the further ſupport of the French proteſtants at Hilſborough, and a ſum for defraying the expence of marking out a boundary between this province and the Cherokee indians.

Wilmington, North Carolina, January 23. A Brig, capt. Charles Shaw, from New-York, and a Brig from Boſton, both for Newbern, are loſt on Cape-Hatteras: the crews are ſaved.

Feb. 6. Since our laſt arrived here in 20 days from the Havana, the ſhip Boyd, capt. Dunlop, who ſpoke with a boat from the brig Polly, capt. Tudor, belonging to New-York, but laſt from New-Providence bound to Penſacola, who was driven on ſhore on the Beminnis, one of the Bahama Iſlands, on Sunday the 13th January paſt; the veſſel its thought will be loſt, ſhe had 45 of the king's troops on board, who are all ſafe.

The laſt crop at Jamaica produced 50,000 hhds. of ſugar, and 15,000 puncheons of rum.

Charleſtown, Feb. 27. Letters from the Cherokee country inform us of the return of Ottaſſite or Judd's Friend, who went out at the deſire of the ſuperintendant in order to intercept the ſupplies ſaid to be going up the Miſſiſippi from the French to the enemy indians, and that he had brought in two Frenchmen priſoners, who were ſpeedily to be ſent to Fort Prince George. Fourteen Cherokees, five men and nine women and children were lately killed by ſome Indians who live near the Miſſiſippi.

Letters from Eaſt Florida inform us that Lieutenant Moncrief, engineer had completed the ſurvey of the Muſkitoe harbour, which is ſafe, the bar good, timber fine, the ſoil rich, and the climate very favourable.

March 6. Several white men from the weſtern parts of this province and North-Carolina, have lately gone into this province and killed beaver, which occaſions ſome uneaſineſs as it is expreſly contrary to treaty; and we hear the Cherokees have complained of it; but in the ſame modeſt terms they have adopted for two or three years paſt.

NEW-YORK, March 21.

Friday laſt capt. Benſon arrived here from Dover, and laſt from Plymouth, which Place he left the 4th of Feb. but has brought no late Prints: He ſays Capt. Berton, in the Ship York, of and from this Port, paſſed by Dover, on his Paſſage to London; that the Packet from Falmouth, for this place, ſailed about the middle of January; and the Cornelia, Capt. Montgomery, about ten Days before him, for this place alſo.

Capt. Benſon ſays, that about the middle of January, an Indiaman, outward bound, was caſt away on the Kentiſh Knock, but that the Cargo and moſt of the Crew was ſaved.

Friday alſo Capt. Weight arrived here from the Bay of Honduras, in 30 Days; he ſailed from thence in Company with the Captains Shoals and Elder, of this Port, who may be hourly expected.——

The North River which has been ſo long cloſed up with Ice this Winter, is now open, ſeveral Sloops from Albany having arrived laſt Saturday and Sunday, and others ſailed for that Place.

On Saturday laſt were brought to Town, near 2000 fine Baſs, taken up the North River near the Highlands, being much freſher and better than thoſe uſually brought from Long-Iſland, which are not ſo ſoon brought to Market after they are taken.

On Saturday Night laſt, James Brumpton, and William Kickie, two Sailors belonging to the Garland Man of War, being aſhore, and getting very much intoxicated with Liquor, went to Barns's Wharf in order to go on board their Ship, and ſhoving one another in Jeſt, both fell over the Dock, and were drowned; and on Saturday Morning their Bodies were taken up, when the Coroner's Inqueſt ſat, and brought in their Verdict Accidental.

The General Aſſembly of this Province is prorogued to Tueſday the 14th of May next.

NEW-LONDON, March. 15.

Laſt Sunday arrived here from Anguilla, in 22 Days, the Sloop Sally, Capt. Hugh Thomſon, & informs, that he ſailed from this Port on the 23d of Dec. laſt, with a Cargo of Horſes, bound for Barbadoes, and that two Days after, they met with a moſt violent Gale of Wind, that twice overſet the Veſſel, and obliged them to throw over their Horſes—The Gale continued 10 Days; in the height of it they ſaw a Schooner of about 45 Tons, with a white Bottom, which they judged to be a Wreck.

The following Veſſels were arrived at Barbados, that had ſuffered in the above Storm, viz. Capt. Thomas Rice, in a new Brig from New-Haven, who had been overſet and loſt 18 Horſes—Capt. Nath. Doane, loſt two Horſes—Capt. Rich. Hall, loſt two Horſes—Capt. Giles Hall, loſt 7 8ths of his Cargo—A new Brig, from Rhode-Iſland, which had been overſet 24 Hours, and loſt one Maſt—A Ship of 500 Tons, bound from Madeira to New-York, but drove off the Coaſt when within 50 Leagues of the Hook, was alſo overſet in the Storm, and received conſiderable Damage; and another Ship of 500 Tons, from the Coaſt of Africa, bound to Virginia, but drove off the Coaſt.—Capt. Fenning from this Port, had arrived without receiving any conſiderable Damage, except himſelf and ſome of his People being much Froze in going off the Coaſt—A Schooner of 45 Tons, bound from Liverpool in Nova-Scotia, to Halifax, with only two Men in her, was drove off the Coaſt, and arrived at St. Martins: they loſt their Rudder in the above Storm, and was ſo leaky they were compelled to keep moſt of the Time at the Pumps.

Capt. Greenman is arrived at Stonington, from St. Kitts: he met with the above Storm in his outward bound Paſſage, and loſt a Cargo of Oxen.

Since our laſt, the celebrated Mr. Robert Sandeman came to Town from the Weſtward, and Yeſterday delivered a vivacious Diſcourſe, at the Court-Houſe, to a large Auditory, from Rom. 10. 10.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN,

TO the Owners of the ſeveral Rights or Shares of the Townſhip of Bromley, in the Province of New Hampſhire, who are delinquent in paying the Tax of One Pound, Ten Shillings, Lawful Money, or any Part thereof; which was granted at a legal Meeting, on the third Tueſday of Auguſt, 1763, and advertiſed in the Connecticut Courant for three Weeks paſt, according to Law, that ſo much of their Land or Rights there, ſufficient to pay ſaid Delinquent's Tax with incident Charges, will be ſold at Publick Vendue, on the 1ſt of April next, at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. Samuel Gilbert, jun Inn-Holder in Hebron, in Connecticut: Said Sale to begin at Ten o'Clock in the Morning, on ſaid Day, and to continue from Day to Day; or to be kept alive by adjournment till all be ſold.

Dated at Hebron, the 4th Day of March, 1765.

THOMAS SUMNER, Collector.

HARTFORD; Printed by Thomas Green.

MONDAY, April 29, 1765. [Number 23.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

Jedidiah Strong Esqr

The following letter was lately wrote to a NOBLE LORD, by an eminent Merchant in London, who has, on all occaſions, ſhewn himſelf a true friend to theſe provinces, which juſtly entitle him to the eſteem of all that love their proſperity.

MY LORD,

THE inhabitants of America, and merchants here, who are connected with them, ſtill look on your lordſhip as their patron; who have the welfare of the colonies at heart; from a juſt ſenſe of their importance to their mother-country.

Although your lordſhip is engaged in a more extenſive ſervice, you will not be an unconcerned ſpectator of the hardſhips the colonies muſt ſuffer, if the new regulations concerning their trade are carried into execution; and the damage that will thereby accrue to Great-Britain.

Waving the conſideration of the privileges of Engliſhmen, for the preſervation of which entire and uncontrouled, the forefathers of the preſent inhabitants preferred an inhoſpitable deſart to their native ſoil, and the ſeveral charters which were the condition (under the ſanction of royal authority) of the ſettling thoſe colonies; of all which they are exceedingly and juſtly tenacious and jealous, tho' as zealouſly affected, and as loyal ſubjects, to his Majeſty as any in his dominions.

I will only conſider how theſe new regulations, if put in execution, or not repealed, will operate on our commerce.

That any difficulties ſhould be put on the ſale of American lumber, is unaccountable, when that country is covered with timber, and cannot be cultivated until that is cut down and diſpoſed of, but muſt become an incumbrance inſtead of an uſeful acquiſition. This is ſtunting the growth of the colonies, by the growth of which only, we can reap advantage by an acceſſion of territory.

Rather open all the markets that can be found for American timber, as well as the whole produce of that continent, and allow a bounty for importing it into Great Britain, who now pays large ſums of money for timber from the North.

Which is the intereſt of Great Britain? to pay a bounty to her own ſubjects in America, or the whole value of the timber to foreigners?

The duty on wine will immediately affect the fiſhery, as they are purchaſed of popiſh countries, by their conſumption of fiſh, and in what meaſure they affect the fiſhery, in that proportion they affect the ſource of our riches and naval power.

The prohibition of foreign ſpirits, and the large duty laid on moloſſes, is alſo a tax on the fiſhery, which in thoſe cold countries cannot be carried on without the uſe of ſpirituous liquors; whatever therefore renders ſpirituous liquors dear, is a burthen on that trade, which is of more value to us than the mines of Mexico and Peru; is it not an unaccountable miſtake in politicks to clog the greateſt ſource of our riches and naval power?

What the particular difficulties are which this new regulation will bring on the provinces you will beſt learn from ſeveral memorials; but this is evident, it will diminiſh their commerce to England, for want of a capacity to pay for the goods they would otherways take; and put them on manufacturing neceſſaries for themſelves.

The goods I export to America yearly employ 2000 men, women and children, ſuppoſe in the city of London there are thirty merchants who in common export the like quantity, and many much more, our exports then from London at a modeſt computation muſt employ 60,000 pair of hands, how amazing then muſt be the whole number of manufactures employed by the exports from Briſtol, Liverpool, and all the out ports added together.

Is ſuch a commerce to be trifled with and endangered? (I may ſay the moſt advantageous to Great Britain) which employs at leaſt 100,000 poor, who if unemployed muſt be reduced to one of theſe deſtructive neceſſities, either to fall on the lands of the nobility and gentry for ſupport or go to America and ſet up their reſpective manufactures there, which reckoning 300 working days to the year, and eſtimating their labour at one ſhilling a day, would be an annual loſs to Great Britain of £. 1,500,000.

Laying any difficulties and burthens on the continent and iſlands of America is giving the cramp, if not the dead palſy, to their commerce and navigation, and the dead palſy in a limb muſt inevitably affect the whole body.

It is not to be ſuppoſed this deſtruction of our commerce will come upon us immediately, or at once, No: trade will die by gradual conſumption, which will be as fatal and certain as a ſudden apoplexy: and when trade is once got out of its old channel, it is like the courſe of a river that never returns more.

Your Lordſhip will ſay, what are the advantages that muſt compenſate for all theſe deſtructive evils? I know of none but that the lumber by having but one open market, may come cheaper to the iſlands, and the material for rum being advanced to the continent, the rum alſo of the iſlands will bear a better price, but this is diſtreſſing the continent to ſupport the opulency and luxury of the iſlands, which notwithſtanding the affected epithet of poor planters, is undeniably exceeding great.

The avow'd advantage is bringing in a ſum of money into the treaſury, which will in the operation be found a deception; for the ſupport of a ſufficient number of officers and cruiſers to prevent ſmuggling, on that extenſive coaſt, will devour the whole duty, and one penny per gallon on the moloſſes collected with the good will of the people, will produce more neat money than three pence collected by the dint of officers: for it is always found in fact, raiſing the duty leſſens the revenue.

But ſuppoſing this ſum ſhould ariſe to the moſt ſanguine expectation of the author of theſe meaſures, can it compenſate for the non cultivation of the wild country of America?

Diſcouraging the fiſhery of America, our moſt valuable treaſure?

Creating fears and jealouſies in the minds of thouſands of his Majeſty's moſt faithful and loyal ſubjects, on a tract of land above 1,000 miles extent? and,

Hazarding the gradual loſs of a commerce that circulates a million and half yearly, and prevents 100,000 manufacturers from either falling on the landed eſtates for ſupport, or leaving their native land to ſeek employment where trade will be encouraged?

Since theſe conſiderations will rouſe your lordſhip's attention, and engage your influence with the miniſtry, to adopt a ſyſtem of politicks which will promote the mutual advantage, eſteem and affection that ought always to ſubſiſt between the colonies and their mother country: to which I may venture to ſay they are ſtrongly attach'd, ſo ſtrongly that nothing but opreſſion will ever weaken.

Colonies ſeated on ſo large a tract of land, if markets were found for their produce, the inhabitants would improve and cultivate to the encreaſing and unſpeakble advantage of Great Britain. The importance of the affair will I hope be a ſufficient apology for this trouble given your lordſhip by most obedient humble Servant, ——— ———.

Your Lordſhip's

L O N D O N.

January 18. Private letters from Cadiz adviſe, that two men of war of the line, a frigate, and three large tranſports, with a quantity of artillery and ſtores on board, ſailed from thence the 19th of December laſt, on a ſecret expedition; though a rumour prevailed, that the above ſquadron was deſigned to join the French on the coaſt of Guinea, to execute certain commiſſions of importance, after which the Spaniſh ſhips were to bear away for the Havana.

nd brown beer are now carried on with great briſkneſs in Spaniards for the coaſt of Guinea.

LONDON. December 10.

To the PRINTER.

HA! Mr. Printer, is it come to this at laſt! And is there really nothing in all we have been lately told, of ſome great doings upon the carpet?—Portugal dreads a Spaniſh invaſion; Spain opens all Britiſh letters; the dock yards, men of war, and magazines are ſtrictly guarded; the king's troops of horſe attendants doubled; men of war fitting out; the workmen at Portſmouth, Plymouth, and Chatham, increaſed; important ſecret machinations at Verſailles; extraordinary cabinet councils; boards of trade and treaſury at home; and all for nothing! This is ſuch a bare faced political humbug, that——but I have done; for we are told, there is nothing at all in it; and on my conſcience, I am of opinion, that were another army of rebels at Derby, and the French actually landed in Suſſex, we ſhould be told the ſame tale.

I am, Sir, Your old correſpondent,

THOMAS DIDIMUS.

Kingſton, in Jamaica, Jan. 26.

On Sunday laſt the remains of the once proſperous, gay, beautiful, and almoſt irreſiſtably engaging Miſs TERESIA CONSTANTIA PHILLIPS, were interred in the Church-yard in this town, unattended by a ſingle friend of either ſex! While we hope no ungenerous inſults will be offered to her aſhes, we cannot forbear adding our wiſhes, that a cataſtrophe ſo ſtriking and melancholy may prove an advantageous leſſon to many of the ſurviving fair; and convince them, however flattering appearances may be, on their firſt deviation from the paths of rectitude and honour, that no admiration will be laſting, no happineſs ſecure, which is not founded on the baſis of virtue.

Willmington, (N. Carolina) March 6.

The ſnow——Capt. Dunn, from Boſton, arrived in this port on Saturday laſt:—While ſhe lay at Brunſwick, two young men belonging to her, having ſome angry words with each other, determined to decide the matter in diſpute by blows; but in the conteſt, they unfortunately fell overboard, and both were drowned: So,

——"DEATH got the Victory."——

Philadelphia, April 18.

On Wedneſday evening, the 10th inſtant, at the College-Hall in this city, was performed a ſolemn entertainment of muſic, under the direction of Mr. Bremner; interſperſed with orations by ſome of the young ſtudents. The whole was conducted with great order and decorum, to the ſatisfaction of a polite and numerous audience; by which, near 120 pounds was raiſed for the benefit of the charity ſchools belonging to the ſaid college.

Capt. Miller, in a ſloop from this port for the Grenades, meeting with violent gales of wind on our coaſt, he and the cooper were knocked overboard, by ſomething giving way in the veſſel and both drowned; the ſloop, after a paſſage of 42 days arrived at Dominico.

On Saturday laſt the great guns at our fort were diſcovered to be all ſpiked up; and on looking at thoſe at the barracks, they were found to be ſerved in the ſame manner, which occaſioned great ſurprize and uneaſineſs among the inhabitants; but as a ſmith in town has ſince owned that he made ſome of the ſpikes, and informed of the perſon for whom he made them, who is now in cuſtody, and has been examined by the chief juſtice, his intentions, or thoſe of others, it is hoped, will ſoon be found out.

We hear that Edward Bradfield, of Kenſington, has obtained from the royal ſociety in England, fifty pounds ſterling, being the firſt premium for curing of ſturgeon; and that the ſecond premium, of twenty-five pounds ſterling, has likewiſe been obtained by ſome other perſon in North-America.

On the 17th ult. died in the northern liberties of this city, in the 60th year of her age, one Margaret Gray, remarkable for having had 9 huſbands.

New-York, April 25.

On Monday laſt, one Joſeph Paulden, of this city, carman; a poor man, who has been ſome time diſorder'd in his ſenſes, and has made ſeveral attempts upon his own life, was found hanging in his own houſe: his knees, as he hung, almoſt touch'd the ground. The jury brought in their verdict Lunacy.

The Lord Hyde Packet Boat, Capt. Goddard, will be ready to ſail for Falmouth on Sunday next; the mail will be cloſed on Saturday.

Newport, April 22.

On the 19th ult. the Rev. Mr. Whitefield left Charleſtown, in South Carolina, in order to proceed to Philadelphia, by Land, where he intends to embark next June for England.

Two New England veſſels, with molaſſes, have been lately condemned and ſold at New-Providence.

By Capt. Briggs, who arrived here laſt Thurſday from the Weſt-Indies, we learn, that a ſloop, belonging to Boſton, ſailed from St. Kitts on the 25th of December laſt, for Virginia, and in lat. 34 run foul of a wreck, by which ſhe received conſiderable damage, and leaked much, ſo that both pumps could ſcarcely keep her free. After beating three weeks on this coaſt, her proviſions almoſt expended, and finding it impracticable to gain her port, bore away for the Weſt Indies, and arrived at St. Kitts on the 15th of March, having been eighty days at ſea, reduced to great diſtreſs, and in the moſt eminent danger of being loſt. Captain Briggs can't tell either the Captain's or Veſſel's name.

Captain Briggs was laſt at Turks-Iſland, for ſalt, which was ſcarcely to be procured for want of rain. A veſſel there lay ready to ſail for Jamaica, with an eſtimate of the damages ſuſtained when the French had poſſeſſion of theſe iſlands.

Boſton, April 25.

Friday laſt the ſloop Two Friends Capt. Abraham Gybuat arrived here in 18 days from Savannah, in Georgia, by whom we learn, That An Act impoſing a Duty on the following Articles imported from any of the Colonies to the Northward of South-Carolina, paſs'd the General Aſſembly in their late Seſſion at Savannah, viz.

For every gallon of rum or molaſſes, one penny ſterling.
Every barrel of beer, one ſhilling and ſixpence.
Every barrel of cyder, one ſhilling.
Every barrel of apples, one ſhilling.
Every barrel of any ſort of pickled fiſh, one ſhilling and three pence.
Every keg of white biſcuit, three pence.
Every 100 wt. of dry fiſh, one ſhilling.
Every 100 wt. of ſperma cæti candles, eight ſhillings and four pence.
Every 100 wt. of butter, four ſhillings and two pence.
Every 100 of hams or bacon, two ſhillings and ſixpence.
Every 100 wt of ſoap, four ſhillings and two pence.
Every buſhel of potatoes, three pence.
Every buſhel of onions, one ſhilling.
Every ſtring of ditto, one penny.

On all cabinet ware or other goods, wares and merchandize not before mentioned (flour, ſhip bread, tallow candles, pitch, tar and turpentine only excepted) imported from any of the aforeſaid colonies, at the rate of five per cent on the prime coſt, excluſive of the former tax of two and half per cent on tranſient trade.

His Majeſty's writs are iſſued for calling a new aſſembly for the province of the Maſſachuſetts-Bay, and precepts ſent to the reſpective towns to chuſe perſons to repreſent them in the great and general court to be aſſembled at the court houſe in Boſton on Wedneſday the 29th of May next, being the anniverſary of the election of His Majeſty's Council, agreeable to royal charter.

We hear from Brookfield, that on the 4th inſtant Oliver Heyward, Eſq; in the 78th year of his age, was married to Mrs. Hannah Stevens of 55; A Lady poſſeſſed of an aſſemble of virtues calculated to ſooth the troubles and to ſupport the burden of age; and to render ſo late a marriage tolerably comfortable, particularly ſhe is an excellent nurſe, and a good midwife, as were both the Squire's former Wives.

Laſt Saturday died here Benjamin Coleman Eſq; formerly a noted merchant in this town.

HARTFORD, April 29.

Doct. Benjamin Gale, of Killingworth, is elected a Correſpondent Member of the Society of Arts, &c. in London.

We hear from Stafford, that a few Days ago, a Yew, belonging to Mr. Nathan Johnſon of that Place, brought forth at one Birth, Four Lambs, which are all likely to live.

A Quantity of choice OLD RUM, and beſt MOLASSES to be ſold on the very loweſt Terms, for Caſh, or ſhort Credit, by ELISHA PITKIN, or THOMAS SEYMOUR, jun. of Hartford. (23)

Juſt Publiſhed,

And to be ſold at the Heart and Crown, in Hartford. (Price 4 Pence.)

Some ſhort, and plain Directions for the raiſing of HEMP.

London, January 8.

THE following odd circumſtance, which lately happened in this metropolis is ſaid to be authentic: A ſhopman to a capital ſilk mercer, having, for many days, obſerved a young lady take an opportunity to ſecrete ſome goods every time ſhe came, and knowing her to have an independent fortune, formed a reſolution to convert her crime & avarice to his own advantage; accordingly the next time ſhe came, he artfully laid ſome things of value in her way, which ſhe did not fail to pocket; but at going away, the ſhopman deſired her to walk into a back parlour, where he roundly charged her with the theft. In the midſt of the terrors which this accuſation threw her into, he propoſed an expedient he obſerved was the only method to ſave her honor and her life, which was, to marry him: She conſented, and the young fellow is now in poſſeſſion of a very handſome young thief, and twelve thouſand pounds ſterling.

At Berlin lately died M. Pierre Kretzchmar, counſellor of ſtate to the King; a man of great merit, particularly in agriculture; in which he had made a great number of experiments. Not long before his death, he wrote a treatiſe on the extraordinary increaſe of a grain of barley, an abſtract of which is briefly this:

"A grain of barley was put laſt ſpring was twelve months in the earth, in a garden well dunged: it quickly ſhot forth a tuft compoſed of ſeveral ſtalks, which the gardener ſeparated from the main root, and tranſplanted ſingly. Each of theſe branches formed new tufts as at firſt, which were ſeparated and planted as before; and theſe plants thus tranſplanted produced new ſhoots, which being multiplied in this manner ſucceſſively for 16 or 18 months, one ſingle grain was found to produce above 13,000 ears. This experiment proves the prodigious fecundity of nature; it is however to be noted, that a buſhel of barley cultivated in this manner, would require a much greater number of hands than the cuſtomary method."

Feb. 9. On Monday next a great number of peruke makers are to meet at St. James's Park, to attend his Majeſty with an humble petition, that he may encourage their trade by wearing a wig. The maſters are to aſſemble at the gun tavern, oppoſite to ſpring garden gate, and to lead the cavalcade to St. James's.

Newport, April 15.

Capt. Hathaway, who arrived here laſt Saturday from N. Carolina, in 18 days paſſage, relates the following, viz. That Mr. Whitehouſe, Lieutenant, and Mr. Simſon, Maſter, of his Majeſty's ſloop Viper, lying at Brunſwick, in that province, about three weeks ſince, fought a duel by which the former received a mortal wound, and died a few days after; and the latter, it was thought, could not long ſurvive. What produced this rencounter, was, as related at Wilmington, the Maſter's marrying a girl who had cohabited with a midſhipman of the Viper, between whom and the Maſter an antipathy had ſome time ſubſiſted, on the girl's account; and a freſh miſunderſtanding induced the midſhipman to offer the maſter a challenge, which he declined accepting, on account of their inequality of rank; and that this was really the cauſe, and not want of courage, his conduct afterwards ſeemed to evince; for on the midſhipman's asking him if he would fight his ſecond, who was Lieutenant Whitehouſe, he conſented. Mr. Whitehouſe being informed of the propoſed combat, readily agreed to it; previous to which they retired for a ſhort time, in order to make their reſpective wills, for the diſpoſal of their effects. They then repaired to a ſuitable place, and walking a few yards from each other, turned about to diſcharge. The Lieutenant's piſtol miſſed fire, the Maſter diſcharged, wounded his antagoniſt in one of his thighs, and in that ſituation was about to leave him; but the other reaching another piſtol, ſhot the Maſter through the ſhoulder; on receiving which he came back, and, with the diſcharged piſtol, very much bruiſed the Lieutenant about the head, which was thought to be the only cauſe of his death. The jury brought in their verdict, MURDER; and a guard ordered for the ſecurity of the Maſter's perſon, in caſe he ſhould ſurvive.—Capt. Hathaway ſaw both theſe unfortunate men, after this unhappy event was over, and their perſons taken proper care of. Mr. Simpſon aſked him if he had heard from Whitehouſe, and on Capt. Hathaway's telling him he had, and that he was dangerouſly ill, ſaid he was afraid he would die. And being aſked how it was with himſelf, ſaid he ſhould certainly die alſo.——Had this unhappy gentleman (Mr. Simpſon) been as delicate in his ſentiment with reſpect to marrying, as he was with regard to fighting; an action, ſo fatal in its conſequences, might have been prevented, and the incenſed midſhipman would probably have remained in quiet poſſeſſion of his female partner.

UNION, 12th March, 1765.

RUNAWAY from me the Subſcriber, a Negro Man named Briſtol, about 30 Years of Age. Theſe are therefore to forbid all Perſons imploying, harbouring or entertaining ſaid Negro, in their Houſes, on Penalty of the Law provided in that Caſe.

JOSEPH ENOS.

TO BE LET,

(And entered upon immediately)

A Convenient, new Dwelling Houſe, very advantageouſly ſituated, for any Kind of Buſineſs; having a fine Store under the Whole, and Garden ſufficient for the largeſt Family. For further Particulars, enquire of

ABRAHAM BEACH:

Who has juſt opened, an Aſſortment of Summer GOODS, amongſt which are,

LInens and Checks of different Kinds—Callicoes—Fuſtians—Brown Holland—Gauze—Lawn—Pewter—Men's and Women's white Cotton Stockings—Black and mix'd Worſted ditto, &c. &c. &c.——He has likewiſe for Sale, choice Saltertudas and Anguila SALT, at the loweſt Prices, for Caſh or Country Produce in Hand.

Hartford, 29th April, 1765. (23)

FOUR Shillings, N. York Money, per Doz. will be given for empty Snuff Bottles, by PATRICK & ANDREW THOMSON, Merchants in Hartford. (23)

Hartford, April 29, 1765.

Juſt Imported in the Ship Edward, Capt. Davis, and the Ship Hope, Capt. Jacobſon from LONDON, and to be ſold by THOMAS DAVIDSON, and COMPANY, at the Houſe of Mr. Hezekiah Collyer, oppoſite the North End of the State Houſe, the following Goods, to be ſold Wholeſale and Retail, VIZ.

BRoad and narrow cloaths, ſuperfine ſcarlet ditto. ſhalloons, ratiners, calimancoes of all colours, black Genoa and cotton velvets, Mecklinburgh ſtuffs, ſilk gauze, flowered and plain, flowered lawns of all ſorts, cambricks of all kinds, from 4s. to 15s. per yard, ribbons of all ſorts plain and figured, black Barcelona handkerchiefs, black barcelona cravats, check't cotton and linen of all kinds, French and Engliſh ſtrip't ditto, ſtrip't hollands, Iriſh and Scotch white linens and holland, men, woman and children's ſilk, worſted, cotton and thread ſtockings, woman's ſhoes, woman's leather mitts, culgee ſilk handkerchiefs, Indian ſilk ditto, check cotton and linen ditto of all ſorts, great variety of dark & light coloured chintces and calliceos, poplins & ſilverets, brogaded ditto, tammies, durants, nankeen patterns, ſilk and worſted ditto, pins and needles, coloured threads, white ditto, of all kinds, fans and garlands, head flowers, perſians and tafferies, paduſoys, flowerd damaſks, ſilks of ſundry kinds, figured alimodes ditto, of all colours, gimps and fringes of all kinds, black & white lace ditto, ſtamped ditto of all kinds, garters & quality bindings, ſhoe bindings, ſilk camblets, worſted ditto, ſagathees, thickſetts, fuſtians, a large quantity of diaper, & diaper table cloths, writing paper of all kinds, bombazines, tiffiny, black crape, Dreſden poplins, ſtrip't ſtuffs, Mancheſter ſtripes for jackets, Turky ſtripe for ditto, a large quantity of wool hats, bound & unbound for men and boys, ivory and horn combs, apron and cap tapes, garnet necklaces and ear-rings, Briſtol ſtone buttons ſet in ſilver, peable ſtone ſet in ditto, ſilver watches, French paſte necklaces, great choice of glaſs ditto, ſilver buckles, metal buttons of different kinds, buckram, ſewing ſilks, twiſt, ſtay tape and dowlaſs, common cuttoe knives of all ſorts, variety of ſnuff boxes, double ſet gimbles, table knives and forks, common ſleeve buttons of all kinds, beſt Scotch ſnuff in bottles, pigtail tobacco, prepared ſhagg ditto, ink powder, playing cards, loaf ſugar at one ſhilling per pound, rum by the hogſhead, barrel or ſmaller quantity, choice Teneriffe and Madeira wine, claret by the barrel or dozen, Dorcheſter ale, Briſtol beer, London porter, bohea tea, by the pound ſix ſhillings, and a variety of other articles too numerous to mention. Any gentlemen, or ladies who pleaſe to favor us with their cuſtom, may depend upon being ſupplied with any of the above goods, as cheap as can be purchaſed in N-York, only allowing freight, from their humble ſervants,

T. DAVIDSON, & Co.

N. B. Wanted 100 barrels of pork, for which a reaſonable price will be given; any quantity of pot-aſh will be purchaſed by us, and as good a price given, as in Boſton or New-York, or carried to London, next September, upon frieght, if deſired.

WILLIAM JEPSON,

At the Sign of the Unicorn and Mortar, in Queen-Street, Hartford, New England, continues to import twice a Year,

LARGE Quantities of the freſheſt and beſt Drugs and Medicines of all Kinds; where Apothecaries, and Doctors, may be ſuppl ed with any Quantity, at the cheapeſt Rate. He ſells by Appointment of the Patentees, Locker's Pills, Bateman's pectoral Drops, Hooper's Female Pills, and Turlington's Balſam of Life. All Sorts of Vials and Gallipots, Surgeons pocket Inſtruments, crooked Needles, ſmall Scales and Weights, and the beſt BOOKS in Phyſick, Surgery and Anatomy. He ſells moſt Kinds of Grocery, Dye ſtuffs, Painter's Colours; and a great Variety of other Articles.

N. B. Doctors and Traders may be as well ſupplied, by Letter as if preſent themſelves.

and brown beer are now carried on with great briskneſs in Spaniards for the coaſt of Guinea.

To the PRINTER.

AT a time of ſuch univerſal diſtreſs as now prevails among us, it is natural to ſuppoſe, there will be very great enquiry made to find out the ſource of our misfortunes. And as Mr. CRABTREE, very juſtly obſerves in your paper No. 13. "Each one endeavours to find the riſe of the "public calamity, among men of an occupation different "from his own."——But I am very ſorry to find, that he ſhould ſo little conſider the force of his own obſervations, as to fall into the ſame error himſelf.

To ſhew us that he is able to handle his ſubject with propriety, he gives us in a liſt of his qualifications——the firſt of which it would be ungenerous to deny him; the ſecond will perhaps be readily granted; and it would be well if the third did not ſo univerſally prevail; the fourth is what moſt are in purſuit of, but none can attain to; the fifth is truly worth notice; the ſixth he has in common with all men; and the laſt, I could wiſh was more generally practiſed. But as tho' he doubted the ſufficiency of them, he adds, "Beſides a ſmall "income independant of his neighbours," ſome other conſiderations to ſhew, that he is no way connected with them, nor intereſted in their good or bad fortune; ſo "conſe-"quently" a proper judge of the Grand Debate, "Who "have contributed the largeſt ſhare to the preſent deplora-"ble ſtate of Connecticut?" And then, without further preamble, attacks the trader, in a different manner from what perhaps he would have done, if he had conſidered, that agriculture, manufacture and trade, are the chief pillars that ſupport a ſtate: And moſt of the other profeſſions, are (if I may be allowed the expreſſion) uſeful only as a covering to ſecure theſe from external injuries.

Mr. Crabtree will perhaps be found to labour under a miſtake in his firſt aſſertion, reſpecting the "command of the "market," if it is compared with ſome articles he has produced in Mr. Careleſs's account, which are not only to be found there, but, if I am rightly informed, in the accounts of moſt, if not all the traders in this colony.

In the next paragraph, he profeſſes to have "no envy, "no prejudice, againſt the mercantile part of our colony;" and perhaps he was fearful it would be judged he had from what followed, if he had not by paſſing his word, given us ſuch ſtrong aſſurance to the contrary.——He is ſo good, indeed, to allow, that trade, "rightly managed, is not only "profitable, but abſolutely neceſſary to the very being of a "nation or colony." But (by his repreſentation of it, under the character of two perſons, neither of which are proper objects of our imitation) has, I think, ſet it in a light much to its diſadvantage: eſpecially if we recollect, that he lays this down, that a man who with a ſmall ſtock, enters into trade, and is unacquainted with the rules and practices of it; which perhaps he meant to give a ſpecimen of in the character of Mr. Cloſehide, is almoſt ſure of failing, as well as the unfortunate Mr. Careleſs.

As to the Grand Debate (as it's called) I think it too trifling to enter into at this time o'day; for it is very plain, that idleneſs and extravagance, are the ſource of our misfortunes; and whoever can be charged with either, which ſome men in all ranks may juſtly be, have proportionably contributed their ſhare to our calamity: And it is as plain, that nothing but the united induſtry and frugality of all orders of men, will retrieve our circumſtances. If this is true, as 'tis univerſally allow'd to be, I imagine it is to no purpoſe to enquire who had the largeſt ſhare in bringing our misfortunes upon us; but how we ſha'l moſt ſafely and readily get free from them? The way to which perhaps the ingenious Mr. Crabtree will undertake to point us out——But here let me add, as it is very probable that many wild ſchemes, and chimerical projects will be run into, which will tend to ſink the projectors of them ſtill the deeper in diſtreſs; ſo it is much to be feared, that many uſeful improvements, in agriculture, arts and commerce; as they will not be found to anſwer the ſanguine hopes of deſperate fortunes, will be looked upon as trifling, and not worth much notice, if not entirely diſcarded and thrown aſide: And this may be the reaſon, why Mr. Crabtree rather choſe to exerciſe his genius upon a ſubject that might be diverting to ſome, rather than to oblige us with what perhaps might be uſeful to all.

A, C.

To be ſold at publick vendue, at the houſe of Mr. Moſes Butler, in Hartford, on Monday the 6th day of May next, at ſix o'clock in the afternoon;

A Dwelling houſe, barn and about ſeven or eight acres of good land, with a young orchard on the ſame, very convenient for a tavern, lying on the great road from Hartford to Farmingtown, at a place called Rocky-Hill. The premiſſes formerly belonged to Zachariah Seymour. The conditions of ſale will be made known at the time abovementioned, and an indiſputable title given by

JOHN SKINNER, jun.

Imported, in the Capts. Hunter and Calef, from LONDON, to BOSTON, (about a Fortnight ago) and to be ſold, by

BENJAMIN HENSHAW,

At his Shop in Middletown,

3-4, 7-8, and yard wide Iriſh hollands, of all qualities, 3 4 and 7 8 garlets, dowlaſs, ſheeting and oznabrigs, 7-8, yard wide and ſix quarter'd checks, flower'd, ſpotted, long, plain and packet lawns, cambricks: A variety of chintzes, callicoes and printed linens, bed tickings, crimſon, black, dark and light blue paduſoys, taffeties and Perſians of different colours, neweſt faſhion'd ſtriped luteſtrings, ſeveral colours; black, ditto; pelong ſattin, alamode, &c. crimſon, black, blue, brown and drab colour'd broadcloths; German ſerges, ſagathees, duroys, and thickſetts of various colours; ſhalloons, callimancoes, durants and tammies of all colours; nankeens; a variety of linen and ſilk handkerchiefs; ſilk mitts, women's ruſſel and callimanco ſhoes, poplins, fans, ribbons, tapes, thread, &c. &c. &c.—Powder, ſhot, led, nails and hard ware of all ſorts.——Beſides which, he has to ſell, moſt ſorts of other Engliſh GOODS——and the beſt French indigo, by the hundred, dozen, pound or quarter; coffee, chocolate, rice, loaf and brown ſugar, rum, moloſſes, ſalt; all ſorts of braſs and cop[illegible] English and Dutch [illegible] looking glaſſes all ſizes, gilt and plain, mehogany, black walnut and common frames. Any of which he will ſell, for the caſh, or produce, as low as can be purchaſed in any ſtore in the government.

N. B. He has continued his vendue every Tueſday evening, ſince the firſt of January laſt, agreable to his propoſal in the firſt of theſe papers, to the mutual ſatisfaction of buyer & ſeller. Any perſon that has caſh to ſpare, may there lay it out to great advantage: And any perſon in want of caſh may there be ſupply'd, by bringing proper articles to him; which will be duly paid them, within 48 hours after the ſale of their goods.

There will be ſold at the ſaid vendue, the firſt Tueſday in May next, to begin at 6 o'clock P. M. a riding chair, or chaiſe, with the top to take off: Part of a ſet of blackſmith's tools, as bellows, vice, ſledges, beek iron, &c. watch glaſs, ſeals, ſtrings and keys, watch & clock-maker's bruſhes, broad cloths, German ſerges, linens; a large quantity of the moſt beautiful and neweſt faſhion'd paper hangings for rooms, &c. &c. &c. And what of theſe articles can't be ſold, for want of time in ſaid evening, will be continued from Tueſday to Tueſday, till the whole be ſold.——Three months credit will be given to the purchaſer of the chaiſe.——All perſons indebted to ſaid Henſhaw, more than 6 months, are deſired to pay him forthwith, as he never agreed to truſt any longer, and is obliged himſelf very ſoon to raiſe a large ſum of money.

April 16th, 1765. 22 (6m)

To be ſold at publick vendue, on Monday the 13th day of May next, at 4 o'clock, afternoon, at the dwelling-houſe of Capt. Solomon Cowles, inn-holder in Farmington, on twelve months credit, with good ſecurity;

TWenty acres and half of good land, well fenced, and finely improved, lying in the pariſh of New-Cambridge, in ſaid Farmington, having thereon ſtanding, a houſe and ſhop. Lately the property of Joſeph Gaylord; to which a good title will be procured for the higheſt bidder, by Jedidiah Strong.

JOnathan Seymour, jun. (once more) requeſts all thoſe that are indebted to him, on account of his late vendues, immediately to diſcharge the ſame, or they may depend on being diſobliged, very ſoon, with a Law ſuit.

To be ſold, at PUBLIC VENDUE, at the Dwelling-houſe of Abijah Catling, Eſq; in Harwinton, on the 7th day of May next, at 4 o'Clock in the Afternoon:

ABOUT 60 Acres of Land, lying in Harwinton, about 3 Miles from the Meeting-houſe, under Improvement, good both for Plowing and Paſturing, with a Dwelling-houſe and orchard upon it, lately belonging to Mr. Noah Loomis, jun. of ſaid Town.

N. B. Any Perſon inclining to purchaſe by private Sale, may apply to the Subſcribers.

Harwinton, 6th April, 1765. 22

Iſaac Bidwell,
John Watkins,
Samuel S. Butler.

Choice Madeira WINE,

Retail'd by LATHROP and SMITH, in Hartford.

Hartford: Printed by T. GREEN.

MONDAY, May 6, 1765. [Number 24.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

V I E N N A, January 17.

LETTERS from Corinthia mention, that towards the concluſion of laſt month was killed a ſavage beaſt, like a Hyena, which had already devoured a number of perſons. A hunter of the ſame province has alſo had the addreſs to kill with one ſhot, a wolf of an enormous ſize. At the moment when the ball entered its flank, it was beginning to tear a girl on whom it had juſt ſprung; but happily the ball miſſed her, and ſhe has been cured of the wounds ſhe received from the wolf.

London, January 25.

On Saturday night, about nine o'clock, a duel was fought at the Star and Garter tavern in Pallmall, between a certain nobleman and a gentleman poſſeſſed of a very large eſtate in Nottinghamſhire; when the latter was run through the body, and died yeſterday morning about ten o'clock.

Laſt night the coroner's inqueſt ſat on the body of the unfortunate Mr. Chaworth, that was killed in the duel with Lord Biron, but had not brought in a verdict when this paper went to the preſs. We are aſſured he was ſenſible to the laſt, had his will made before he died; and on Sunday, at noon, an expreſs was ſent to his mother in Nottinghamſhire, to inform her of the melancholy accident that had happened.

January 30. By recent letters from Spain, it appears, that ever ſince the expulſion of the Jeſuits from Portugal, on account of the late conſpiracy againſt his Moſt Faithful Majeſty's life, upwards of ninety thouſand ſmall arms, a vaſt quantity of artillery and warlike ſtores have been occaſionally ſhipped from different ports of Europe, for their ſettlements in South-America.

By the acceſſion of the Spaniards to Orleans and part of Louiſiana, we hear it will be inſiſted upon, on the part of Great-Britain, that a free navigation in the mouths of the Ohio and Miſſiſippi rivers, from the Atlantic ocean, may be enjoyed by Britiſh ſubjects, in order to facilitate an inland trade by means of theſe rivers, with the other northern colonies in America.

Private letters from Madrid mention, that by a ſecret treaty between the courts of France and Spain, the former are to enjoy, in lieu of New-Orleans, certain tracts of land on the Spaniſh main, ſufficient to form a ſettlement; and it was imagined the province of Truxillo, or part of it, would be given up for this purpoſe.

Feb. 1. By a gentleman who arrived laſt week from Tantumquerry fort, on the coaſt of Guiney, we are informed, that they are making great preparations all along that coaſt to put themſelves into a poſture of defence, in caſe of any attack by the French, from whom they ſoon expect a viſit.

It is reported that more ſhips of war will ſhortly ſail for the coaſt of Africa, to be ſtationed there for twelve months.

We hear a certain bounty to be paid per ton on the importation of American hemp will be ſettled this ſeſſions, excluſive of that granted by the colonies, in order to encourage more extenſive cultivation of this uſeful plant.

Feb. 2. Letters from Leghorn import that Paoli continues to be ſupplied underhand by ſome foreign powers not only with ammunition, but money: That the Corſicans to a man are obſtinate not to ſubmit to any terms or treaty with the republic of Genoa, but in their ſeveral manifeſtoes ſet forth that they are ready to ſubmit to become a province to any other chriſtian power, provided they may enjoy their religion and liberties unmoleſted.

Feb. 4. It is certain that the French are fitting out ſeveral men of war in different ports, but they take all precautions to prevent ſtrangers from knowing the particulars of their deſtination.

Feb. 6. We hear that, the reaſon of a gentleman, who has deſervedly made a great talk in the world, left the metropolies of a neighbouring kingdom ſo much in a hurry, was owing to ſome words, &c. between him and a perſon in a public character, in a coffee houſe; in conſequence of which he was ordered, or at leaſt adviſed, to depart the dominions of that power as quick as poſſible.

They write from New-York, that two breweries, for pale, and brown beer are now carried on with great briſkneſs in that city; the former producing a malt liquor little inferior to the moſt admired ales imported from England: Several hundred thouſand bottles of it have been exported to the neighbouring iſlands and colonies in America, in the courſe of laſt year.

Letters from Worceſterſhire, Shropſhire, and Cheſhire, ſay, that there is the fineſt proſpect of a forward ſpring, in thoſe counties, that has been known for above forty years paſt.

The buſineſs of quilting bed-carpets and petticoats, which formerly the females ingroſſed, is now totally going into a different channel, the weavers in Spittlefields having ſtruck upon a method of quilting in their looms, which is much cheaper and neater than any perſon with a needle can do.

We hear a regular government is going to be formed of the Engliſh ſettlement on the Black River, on the Muſqueto ſhore where ſome additional forts are alſo to be erected, for the better defence of the colony.

We hear that her Majeſty is three months advanced in her pregnancy.

The week before laſt an order was received at Weavers-Hall for the proper officers of that company, to take down the names of ſuch journeymen weavers as are out of employ, in order to be laid before a great aſſembly; accordingly upwards of 1000 gave in their names the ſame week, and laſt week more than double that number.

Extract of a letter from Portſmouth, Feb. 4.

"On Sunday evening eleven cheſts of ſmall arms arrived here from London, for a French merchant in our harbour: She put in here to repair ſome damage ſhe received at ſea: She is bound for the Guinea coaſt, and mounts 22 carriage guns: The arms were put on board her on monday morning, when ſhe got under ſail and proceeded to ſea directly, having a fair wind."

Letter from Plymouth, Feb. 4.

"This day arrived the Neptune of this place, Campbell, (late maſter, Archibald Nicholſon having run from his veſſel at Port l'Orient) which place they left the 29th ult. where there is building five ſail of men of war, viz. one of 112 guns, two of 74, and two of 64. In the harbour there were ſeven ſail of Indiamen, three of whom were near ready to ſail."

During laſt year 1452 ſhips arrived at Goree (in Holland) and in the river Maes; and 1329 ſhips ſailed from thence, in the whole 2781 ſhips; of which 65 were from London, 22 from Newcaſtle, and 310 from Sunderland with coals.

Feb. 8. Private letters from Paris mention that the court have determined to lay ſome reſtrictions on the unlimited trade which for two years paſt has been carried on between the French iſlands and the Britiſh colonies in America; which on experience has been found not only to affect their Weſt-India company, but alſo drain away immenſe ſums which would otherwiſe be remitted to France.

We hear the erecting a ſcaffold in Weſtminſter-hall for the trial of a noble peer, is now under the conſideration of [illegible] board of works.

Feb. 9. Several ſmall ſhips of war have been ordered [illegible] der repair in the dock-yards, which are to ſail in [illegible] next for Newfoundland, under convoy of Commodore [illegible] ſer, to be ſtationed as guarda coſtas of the trade and [illegible] of that iſland, and to prevent ſmuggling.

Feb. 12. It is ſaid the grant of an extenſive tract [illegible] conveniently ſituated on the borders of the Indian cou[illegible] is now making out for Sir William Johnſon, where he [illegible] tends to build a town and erect fortifications, with a [illegible] of eſtabliſhing a mart of trade with the ſeveral ſavage [illegible] ons in America; a ſcheme which that gentleman's great [illegible] and influence with the natives will render the more [illegible] cable.

We are aſſured that an additional duty on ſtamps is to [illegible] place in all the Britiſh colonies in America.

They write from Bermudas, that twenty-ſeven [illegible] pierced for mounting 14 guns, are now building at that [illegible] on commiſſion from the Havana, ſaid to be deſigned [illegible] Spaniards for the coaſt of Guinea.

Imported in the Capts. Hunter and Calef, from LONDON,

LONDON.

Jan. 10. Dr. Robinſon, Biſhop of Kildare, is appointed Archbiſhop of Armagh, and Primate of all Ireland, in the Room of Dr. Stone deceaſed.

Alexander Middleton, Eſq; is appointed Poſtmaſter General to the Iſlands of Granada, Dominica, Tobago, and St. Vincent's; and ſets out by the Packet this Day for the ſaid Iſlands.

Jan. 25. We are informed from Bedford, that three poor women, all living next door to each other, have within theſe two months been brought to bed of twins, and all likely to do well.

A perſon of high rank has lately taken a young Milliner, near L——Fields, of exquiſite beauty, under his protection, on whom he has ſettled an annuity of 600l. per annum, with a promiſe of marriage in caſe of accidents.

We hear that by letters from Italy, advice is received of the death of the right hon. Earl Tilney.

Laſt week it was proved by the company of weavers, that there were at this time, no leſs than 1700 looms unemployed in London only, and further inquiry were making to aſcertain the particular number unemployed elſewhere.

By Sir William Pynſent's will, which is now in Doctors Commons, it appears, that he hath left one thouſand guineas to his nephew, one thouſand guneas each to three of his niece's children, ſome other ſmall legacies and annuities to his ſervants. All the reſidue of his real and perſonal eſtate, he leaves to the right hon. William Pitt, late ſecretary of ſtate to his preſent majeſty.

NEW-YORK, May 2.

By our lateſt advices from England, among which we have many particulars from a gentleman who was preſent and heard all the debates in parliament when the ſtamp bill was bro't in, we have collected the following articles, viz. That the accounts which have been publiſh'd in the papers relating to the circumſtances that attended the paſſing of that bill, were extremely erronious.——That the ſpeakers in favour of the colonies were more numerous than there appoſers, much better ſpeakers, and incomparably ſuperior in point of argument, tho' out number'd by the miniſterial party, and dependants upon court favour.

The bill was introduced by Lord Grenville, Chancellor of the Exchequer, with a long ſpeech, more ſpecious than ſolid. Several members then ſpoke on each ſide the queſtion, but the moſt remarkable in favour of the Colonies was Col. BARRE, (a gentleman of the army, member for the borough of Chipping Wycomb, in the county of Bucks; he was a major and an adjutant general at the taking of Quebeck, where he was wounded, and for his ſervices was rewarded with the place of governor of a caſtle; but was diſmiſſed from it on his voting againſt ſome miniſterial meaſures.) He made a moſt excellent ſpeech, wherein he aſſerted the colonies rights, urged their ſervices and importance to Great Britain, reſented the hardſhips and indignities that had been put upon them, particularly, in cramping their trade, in extending the juriſdiction of the court of admiralty, (ſo that a man might be called 1500 miles from Georgia, to anſwer an information laid againſt him in Halifax) and in the appointment of perſons to places of high truſt and importance without either characters or qualifications to fill them with dignity, or diſcharge the neceſſary duties.——He mention'd the appointment of a judge for one of the colonies, who he ſaid to his certain knowledge had not long before been obliged to hold up his hand at a bar.—He obſerved that Great Britain called herſelf the mother country, but cautioned her to beware that ſhe did not give the colonies juſt reaſon to think her rather a cruel ſtep dame than a mother; he ſaid they had been planted with little or no coſt to Great Britain, many of them without any, and had amply repaid her by their trade, for all the ſervices ſhe had ever done them; that the very charges of the war for which the tax was propoſed to be raiſed, was for her own ſake, not theirs, who had likewiſe been at great expences on their own account in the ſame cauſe; and that it was more unreaſonable to impoſe a tax on them for defending them, than it would have been to demand a reimburſement for the expences of defending Portugal and Germany. He ſaid the Americans were a brave people, [illegible] loyal, and affectionately attached to his majeſty's [illegible] and family, and the Britiſh conſtitution; and ſtill re[illegible] that high ſenſe and eſtimation of freedom, and their [illegible] rights, to preſerve which they quitted their native [illegible], and fled to a wilderneſs inhabited by barbarous ſa[illegible] whom they choſe to encounter rather than bear oppreſ[illegible] and that if they were permitted peaceably to enjoy their rights, they would in a few years be the ſtrongeſt bul[illegible] the Britiſh monarchy. That in a late war they had defended themſelves, without any aſſiſtance from Great Bri[illegible] by taking Cape Breton had given peace to Eng[illegible] In ſhort, it was obſerved of this gentleman, that he ſaid all that could be expected or deſired from a warm friend to the colonies, heartily attach'd to, and acquainted with their intereſts.—And for his diſintereſted endeavours in defence of conſtitutional rights, and the injured colonies, deſerves to have ſtatues erected to his honour.

We are further informed, that though every art had been uſed to make the ſtamp duty a popular meaſure, yet that in a full houſe, ſuppoſed to be about 400, there was but a majority of about 40 voices in favour of the bill——(other accounts indeed mention that there was but about 40 againſt the bill on a diviſion, but both the accounts my poſſibly be right, for when the majority is certainly known, many that voted with the majority do not divide with them.) Without doors we hear, every perſon who was at all qualified to form any judgment of the matter, ſeem'd unanimous in favour of the colonies. And it was hoped they would aſſert their rights, by reſolves entered on the journals of their ſeveral houſes of aſſembly, and remonſtrate by petitions to his Majeſty and the other branches of the legiſlature, and by every means in their power endeavour to fruſtrate the deſigns form'd to deprive them of one of the moſt valuable bleſſings that God has beſtowed upon them, and reduce them to a level with abject ſlaves that groan under the tyranny of the moſt arbitrary monarchs in the univerſe.

Saturday laſt Capt. Papley arrived here from Santa Croix, in 24 days, by whom we have advice that Capt. Campbell, in a ſhip belonging to this port was lately taken on the coaſt of Porto Rico, by ſome Spaniſh Craft, and that Capt. Campbell was murdered in his cabbin, by the Spaniards after they took poſſeſſion of the ſhip.

Saturday laſt the Lord Hyde packet, Capt. Goddard, ſail'd with the mail for Falmouth.

Extract of a Letter from London, Jan. 24.

"There is great talk at the other end of the town about the alteration of governments to be made the next ſeſſion of parliament, in the northern diſtrict of America: It is ſaid there will be but four, viz. Nova-Scotia, province of Main, New-Hampſhire and New-York.——The Maſſachuſetts, Rhode-Iſland, and Connecticut, to be divided between New-York, and New-Hampſhire."

Boſton, May 2.

We hear from South Brimfield, in this province, that a farmer there who was owner of 14 ewes, 13 of which bro't him lately 26 lambs, and the fourteenth bro't four lambs; likewiſe a cow brought two calves, all alive and likely to do well.

We hear from Virginia, that the Ship Don Carlos, Capt. Parker, from Havana to Virginia, having on board about 20,000 dollars foundered at ſea and moſt of the dollars loſt.

Newport, April 29.

We hear from Rehoboth, that on Wedneſday night laſt, the dwelling-houſe of Mr. James Dagget, of that place, took fire, by ſome unknown accident, and was entirely conſumed, with all the furniture, and other effects which it contained. What render the ſufferers more deſervedly commiſerable, is the lamentable condition in which two unhappy children were loſt, who, we are told, underwent the excruciating torture of periſhing in the mercileſs flames. We alſo hear, that Mr. Dagget, by jumping out of a window, broke one of his arms; and his wife, being reduced to the ſame expedient, for the preſervation of her life, was conſiderably bruiſed.

We hear that the woods in Tiverton, in this colony, took fire, ſome time laſt week, and burnt with great rapidity, conſuming, in its progreſs, many fences, &c. to the conſiderable loſs of many perſons.

We hear from Groton, in Connecticut, that on Wedneſday laſt, Mr. James Packer, of that place, having made a fire of ſome bruſh, which endangered his barn, went in to prevent its catching the ſtraw, &c. but before he could get out was ſuppoſed to be ſuffocated by the ſmoke, the barn having took fire which was entirely conſumed, and himſelf periſhed therein. He was about 90 years of age.

Laſt night a dwelling-houſe belonging to Mr. John Mancheſter, of Portſmouth, on this iſland, was conſumed by fire, with the greateſt part of the furniture, &c.

On Monday the 22d ult. arrived at Philadelphia from London, the Captains Budden and M'Pherſon, by whom we have Engliſh Papers down to the ſecond of March, from which we have extracted the following Articles of News, VIZ.

This day, about 11 o'clock, Mr. John Williams, bookſeller in Fleet ſtreet, was brought, purſuant to his ſentence, from the king's bench priſon, to ſtand in the pillory in New Pallas Yard, Weſtminſter, for republiſhing the North Briton, No. 45, in volumes. It is remarkable, that the coach which carried him there, was No. 45. A few minutes after twelve he mounted, amidſt the repeated acclamations of upwards of 10,000 people, who never ceaſed ſhouting till his hour of ſtanding was expired. Oppoſite to the pillory were erected four ladders with cords running from each other, on which were hung a jack boot, an ax and a Scotch bonnet. The two latter remaining there ſome time, were burnt, and the boot beheaded. During his ſtanding alſo, a purple purſe, very richly ornamented with ribbons of an orange colour, was produced by a gentleman noted for his patriotiſm, who began a collection in favour of the culprit, by putting a guinea into it himſelf, after which the purſe being carried round, every body contributed according to his own fancy, to the amount in the whole, it was ſuppoſed, of upwards of 200 guineas: one gentleman, it is ſaid, gave 50 guineas. Mr. Williams, at getting into the pillory, and at getting out, politely bowed to the ſpectators. He held a ſprig of laurel in his hand all the time.

After Mr. Williams returned to the king's bench priſon in a hackney coach, No. 45, which drove him from thence, and waited all the time, he aſked the coachman what was his demand, who replied that he would not take any thing; but Mr. Williams inſiſting on paying him, the coachman warmly declared the honour of driving him on that occaſion was a ſufficient reward for his trouble; and abſolutely refuſed receiving any payment.

Feb. 15. This week 14 tons of iron ordnance, moſtly ſix and nine pounders, were bought up on commiſſion to be ſhipped to France.

Letters from Paris of the 26th ult. bring advice, that the famous Mr. Wilkes had left that capital very abruptly, and very much in debt. Something worſe is likewiſe alledged againſt him, but of what nature is not hinted. Where he is gone, no perſon can tell; but a very diligent ſearch is making after him.

Laſt week 1200l ſterling were laid out on commiſſion from North America, in the purchaſe of mens and womens cloaths and wearing apparel proper for introducing the Engliſh dreſs among the ſeveral tribes of Indians at the back of our ſettlements.

A treaty of commerce is now in train of accomodation, between the courts of Copenhagen and London, by which, among other beneficial articles, the ſubjects of Great Britain are to enjoy an excluſive privilege, in caſe of any future war, in being ſupplied with naval and military ſtores from the Daniſh ſettlements in the Weſt Indies.

Feb. 26. On Sunday evening the Right. Hon. Lord Byron arrived from France, at his houſe in Great Marlbrough ſtreet and ſurrendered himſelf at the bar of the Right Hon. Houſe of Peers, and was committed to the Tower.

Yeſterday there was a board of works, when orders were given for the ſcaffolding in Weſtminſter hall to be erected & finiſhed, for the trial of L. Byron, againſt the 16th April next.

We are informed, that ſince the plantation agents failed in oppoſing the intended duty on American ſtamps, the Commiſſioners for the receipt of this duty are to be appointed from the natives of each province where the tax is going to take place.

We are told a further extention of exciſe Laws now is upon the tapis, with regard to Scotland.

March 2. Letters from Dronthem in Norway, by way of Copenhagen, mention, that from Chriſtmaſs day till the Epiphany the cold had been ſo exceſſive, that ſeveral people had abſolutely died through the ſeverity of the weather.

HARTFORD, May 6.

Laſt Saturday Evening was brought to Town, and committed to Goal, (where he reſted 'til Yeſterday Morning, and then was conducted to New-Haven Goal, there to wait for his Trial) the Perſon who lately broke open, and robbed the Shop of Mr. Richard Cutler, Goldſmith in New-Haven.

To be ſold, by JOHN TOWNLEY,

A Few Pair of Women and Children's, choice London made STAYS.

Juſt imported from LONDON, and now come to hand, in the ſhip Ruby, Capt Dowrick, and to be ſold by

CALEB BULL,

at his ſtore in Hartford, King ſtreet, oppoſite Capt. John Keith's,

A Small aſſortment of European and India GOODS.—Alſo, a general aſſortment of articles in the grocery way.——As alſo, cutlary and crokery ware; choice Malaga wine, brandy, and other ſpirits; German and Engliſh ſteel; 12d. 10d. 8d. and 4d nails; 7 by 9 glaſs; paints; linſeed oil; verniſh; gun powder, ſhot and bar lead; loaf ſugar at 12d. per pound; bohea tea, warranted to be of the beſt quality, and as cheap at 6s and 8d. as any to be had at a lower price.—And many other articles needleſs to mention. Thoſe who are pleaſed to favour ſaid Bull with their cuſtom, may be ſupply'd in the retailing way, on as reaſonable terms as any in the town, or government, without exception. (24)

Thoſe that entered their names with ſaid BULL, for HEMP-SEED, are informed that it is now come to hand, and ready for Delivery.

STolen from under Landlord John Wyard's Horſe-Houſe, the 19th of April laſt, at Evening, a Sorrel Horſe, with a bald Face, all his Feet white, branded X on the left Shoulder, about 13 Hands high, trots and paces, moſt natural to pace, with a good Saddle and a good, blue broad-cloth Great Coat mail'd on the Saddle. Whoever will take up ſaid Horſe, and bring him to the Owner, ſhall be entitled to Five Dollars, paid by

(24) ELIHU NEWEL, of New-Cambridge.

ALL Perſons indebted to JOHN M'LEAN, of Hartford, are deſired immediately to ſettle their Accounts, either by Caſh or their Obligations, to prevent Trouble. (24)

TO be ſold, a likely, healthy, good-natured NEGRO BOY, about 15 years old. Inquire of T. Green.

TO BE LET,

(And entered upon immediately)

A Convenient, new Dwelling-Houſe, very advantageouſly ſituated, for any Kind of Buſineſs; having a fine Store under the Whole, and Garden ſufficient for the largeſt Family. For further Particulars, enquire of

ABRAHAM BEACH:

Who has juſt opened, an Aſſortment of Summer GOODS, amongſt which are,

LInens and Checks of different Kinds—Callicoes—Fuſtians—Brown Holland—Gauze—Lawn—Pewter—Men's and Women's white Cotton Stockings—Black and mix'd Worſted ditto, &c. &c. &c.——He has likewiſe for Sale, choice Saltertudas and Anguilla SALT, at the loweſt Prices, for Caſh or Country Produce in Hand.

Hartford, 29th April, 1765. (23)

Hartford, April 29, 1765.

Juſt Imported in the Ship Edward, Capt. Davis, and the Ship Hope, Capt. Jacobſon from LONDON, and to be ſold by THOMAS DAVIDSON, and COMPANY, at the Houſe of Mr. Hezekiah Collyer, oppoſite the North End of the State Houſe, the following Goods, to be ſold Wholeſale and Retail, VIZ.

BRoad and narrow cloaths, ſuperfine ſcarlet ditto, ſhalloons, ratinets, callimancoes of all colours, black Genoa and cotton velvets, Mecklinburgh ſtuffs, ſilk, gauze, flowered and plain, flowered lawns of all ſorts, cambricks of all kinds, from 4s. to 15s. per yard, ribbons of all ſorts plain and figured, black Barcelona handkerchiefs, black barcelona cravats, check't cotton and linen of all kinds, French and Engliſh ſtrip't ditto, ſtrip't hollands, Iriſh and Scotch white linens and holland, men, woman and children's ſilk, worſted, cotton and thread ſtockings, woman's ſhoes, woman's leather mitts, culgee ſilk handkerchiefs, Indian ſilk ditto, check cotton and linen ditto of all ſorts, great variety of dark & light coloured chinces and calliceos, poplins & ſilverets, brogaded ditto, tammies, durants, nankeen patterns, ſilk and worſted ditto, pins and needles, coloured threads, white ditto, of all kinds, fans and garlands, head flowers, perſians and tafferies, paduſoys, flowerd damasks, ſilks of ſundry kinds, figured alimodes ditto, of all colours, gimps and fringes of all kinds, black & white lace ditto, ſtamped ditto of all kinds, garters & quality bindings, ſhoe bindings, ſilk camblets, worſted ditto, ſagathees, thickſetts, fuſtians, a large quantity of diaper, & diaper table cloths, writing paper of all kinds, bombazines, tiffany, black crape, Dreſden poplins, ſtrip't ſtuffs, Mancheſter ſtripes for jackets, Turky ſtripe for ditto, a large quantity of wool hats, bound & unbound for men and boys, ivory and horn combs, ſpool and cap tapes, garnet necklaces and ear-rings, Briſtol ſtone buttons ſet in ſilver, peable ſtone ſet in ditto, ſilver watches, French paſte necklaces, great choice of glaſs ditto, ſilver buckles, metal buttons of different kinds, buckram, ſewing ſilks, twiſt, ſtay tape and dowlaſs, common cuttoe knives of all ſorts, variety of ſnuff boxes, double ſet gimbles, table knives and forks, common ſleeve buttons of all kinds, beſt Scotch ſnuff in bottles, pigtail tobacco, prepared ſhagg ditto, ink powder, playing cards, loaf ſugar at one ſhilling per pound, rum by the hogſhead, barrel or ſmaller quantity, choice Teneriffe and Madeira wine, claret by the barrel or dozen, Dorcheſter ale, Briſtol beer, London porter, bohea tea, by the pound ſix ſhillings, and a variety of other articles too numerous to mention. Any gentlemen, or ladies who pleaſe to favour us with their cuſtom, may depend upon being ſupplied with any of the above goods, as cheap as can be purchaſed in N York, only allowing freight, from their humble ſervants,

T. DAVIDSON, & Co.

N. B. Wanted 100 barrels of pork, for which a reaſonable price will be given; any quantity of pot-aſh will be purchaſed by us, and as good a price given, as in Boſton or New-York, or carried to London, next September, upon frieght, if deſired.

LONDON, February 12.

We hear informations have laſt week been given into a certain office, upon oath, and ſupported by credible witneſſes, of no leſs than fifteen private meeting-houſes, in and about this metropolis, which have hitherto paſſed for thoſe of diſſenters, but are in reality Jeſuitical ſeminaries, where the moſt dangerous doctrines are openly broached, equally tending to ſubvert the morals and allegiance of the deluded audience.

Our letters from Liſbon, Naples, Milan, Parma, and other places are filled with nothing but accounts of rains and earthquakes, particularly the great damage done by the former, in each of thoſe countries.

Feb. 13. By a private letter from Geneva, we are informed, that M. de Voltaire has ſent a preſſing invitation to Mr. Wilkes, to ſpend a few months with him, and that it is for the caſtle of this great writer, Mr. Wilkes has ſet out from Turin. It is alſo ſaid, that a picture of his Sardinian Majeſty, richly ornamented with diamonds, was preſented to our celebrated exile, a little before his departure, with a compliment of condolence on his ſituation.

A ſhip lately arrived from France, has, it is whiſpered bro't over a ſervice of plate, ſo exquiſitely executed, as to be worth 20,000l. by way of a preſent to a great perſonage, not very remarkable for his popularity.

There will be held three boards of treaſury this week on affairs of great importance.

CORK, (Ireland) Jan. 17. Tueſday night, (by the inceſſant rains) we had the greateſt flood ever known, before here; all Hammond's Marſh was entirely overflowed, in many parts upwards of five feet high, to the great terror of the inhabitants, who ſuffered greatly thereby; but, thanks to God, we hear of no lives loſt. Happily North-bridge ſtood the great torrent of water, notwithſtanding the many beams which were ſwept away from the timber yards. On one part of Hammond's marſh two gentlemen lay together, one of them finding himſelf wet in bed, charged the other with indecency, which he immediately retorted back in the ſame language: They were both ſo enraged at each other, that blows enſued, which was immediately terminated by their both tumbling out of bed into three feet water. One of the wheels belonging to the mills at Sunday's well was brought down the river to Goold's marſh. Blackpool bridge is conſiderably damaged.

To the Printer of the PUBLIC LEDGER.

The diſintereſtedneſs you ſhew, induces one of your conſtant cuſtomers to deſire you'll publiſh the within in your next paper.

WHETHER the North American ſmuggling trade is not deſtructive to the mother country in general and in particular to the Britiſh ſugar colonies, by taking off a commodity that otherwiſe would be of no uſe to our inveterate enemies the French? And if it does not drain the ſugar iſlands of their caſh?

2. Whether permitting the above mentioned injurious traffic will not impede the ſettlement of the ceded iſlands and in the end ruin thoſe already under cultivation?

3. Whether theſe new ſettlements will not open a trade to the N. American colonies adequate to that with the French?

4. Whether theſe northern poſſeſſions ſhou'd be ſupported in injury to any other colony by a deſtructive trade, to the great benefit of our natural enemies, who are ever undermining our trade?

5. Whether the people of North America are capable of putting their threats of independency in execution?

6. Whether the dilema they were under from a few Canadians and Indians before they were aſſiſted with Britiſh troops, does not ſhew their inability?

7. Whether the inclination they ſhew to be refractory, ſhou'd not induce the government to ſaddle them with troops which they ſhou'd pay?

8. Whether the great expence the government is at by keeping cruiſers to prevent the ſmuggling of Molaſſes, Rum, and Sugar, wou'd not be ſaved by putting down the diſtilleries in North-America?

9. Whether the threats of the coloniſts muſt not induce the government to look on the quarters from whence they come with a jealous eye, and moſt deſervedly?

Your moſt humble ſervant,

NO SMUGGLER.

A Quantity of choice OLD RUM, and beſt MOLASSES to be ſold on the very loweſt Terms, for Caſh, or ſhort Credit, by ELISHA PITKIN, or THOMAS SEYMOUR, jun. of Hartford. (23)

Imported, in the Capts. Hunter and Calef, from LONDON,

WILLIAM JEPSON,

At the Sign of the Unicorn and Mortar, in Queen-Street, Hartford, New-England, continues to import twice a Year,

LARGE Quantities of the freſheſt and beſt Drugs and Medicines of all Kinds; where Apothecaries, and Doctors, may be ſupplied with any Quantity, at the cheapeſt Rate. He ſells by Appointment of the Patentees, Locker's Pills, Bateman's pectoral Drops, Hooper's Female Pills, and Turlington's Balſam of Life. All Sorts of Vials and Gallipots, Surgeons pocket Inſtruments, crooked Needles, ſmall Scales and Weights, and the beſt BOOKS in Phyſick, Surgery and Anatomy. He ſells moſt Kinds of Grocery, Dye ſtuffs, Painter's Colours; and a great Variety of other Articles.

N. B. Doctors and Traders may be as well ſupplied, by Letter as if preſent themſelves.

Imported, in the Capts. Hunter and Calef, from LONDON, to BOSTON, (about a Fortnight ago) and to be ſold, by

BENJAMIN HENSHAW,

At his Shop in Middletown,

3-4, 7-8, and yard wide Iriſh hollands, of all qualities, 3-4 and 7-8 garlets, dowlaſs, ſheeting and oznabrigs, 7-8, yard wide and ſix quarter'd checks, flower'd, ſpotted, long, plain and packet lawns, cambricks: A variety of chintzes, callicoes and printed linens, bed tickings, crimſon, black, dark and light blue padufoys, taffeties and Perſians of different colours, neweſt faſhion'd ſtriped luteſtrings, ſeveral colours, black, ditto; pelong ſattin, alamode, &c crimſon, black, blue, brown and drab-colour'd broadcloths; German ſerges, ſagathees, duroys, and thickſets of various colours, ſhalloons, callimancoes, durants and tammies of all colours; nankeens; a variety of linen and ſilk handkerchiefs; ſilk mitts, women's ruſſel and calimanco ſhoes, poplins, fans, ribbons, tapes, thread, &c. &c. &c.— Powder, ſhot, led, nails and hard ware of all ſorts.—— Beſides which, he has to ſell, moſt ſorts of other Engliſh GOODS——and the beſt French indigo, by the hundred, dozen, pound or quarter; coffee, chocolate, rice, loaf and brown ſugar, rum, molaſſes, ſalt; all ſorts of braſs and copper wares; Engliſh and Dutch clover ſeed; looking glaſſes all ſizes, gilt and plain, mehogany, black walnut and common frames! Any of which he will ſell, for the caſh, or produce, as low as can be purchaſed in any ſtore in the government.

N. B. He has continued his vendue every Tueſday evening, ſince the firſt of January laſt, agreable to his propoſal in the firſt of theſe papers, to the mutual ſatisfaction of buyer & ſeller. Any perſon that has caſh to ſpare, may there lay it out to great advantage: And any perſon in want of caſh may there be ſupply'd, by bringing proper articles to him; which will be duly paid them, within 48 hours after the ſale of their goods.

There will be ſold at the ſaid vendue, the firſt Tueſday in May next, to begin at 6 o'clock P. M. a riding chair, or chaiſe, with the top to take off: Part of a ſet of blackſmith's tools, as bellows, vice, ſledges, beck iron, &c. watch glaſs, ſeals, ſtrings and keys, watch & clock maker's bruſhes, broad cloths, German ſerges, linens; a large quantity of the moſt beautiful and neweſt faſhion'd paper hangings for rooms, &c. &c. &c. And what of theſe articles can't be ſold, for want of time in ſaid evening, will be continued from Tueſday to Tueſday, till the whole be ſold.——Three months credit will be given to the purchaſer of the chaiſe.——All perſons indebted to ſaid Henſhaw, more than 6 months, are deſired to pay him forthwith, as he never agreed to truſt any longer, and is obliged himſelf very ſoon to raiſe a large ſum of money.

April 16th, 1765. 22 (69)

To be ſold, at PUBLIC VENDUE, at the Dwelling-houſe of Abijah Catling, Eſq; in Harwinton, on the 7th day of May next, at 4 o'Clock in the Afternoon:

ABOUT 60 Acres of Land, lying in Harwinton, about 3 Miles from the Meeting-houſe, under Improvement, good both for Plowing and Paſturing, with a Dwelling-houſe and orchard upon it, lately belonging to Mr. Noah Loomis, jun. of ſaid Town.

N. B. Any Perſon inclining to purchaſe by private Sale, may apply to the Subſcribers.

Harwinton, 6th
April, 1765.
22

Iſaac Bidwell,
John Watkins,
Samuel S. Butler.

FOUR Shillings, N. York Money, per Doz. will be given for empty Snuff Bottles, by PATRICK & ANDREW THOMSON, Merchants in Hartford. (23)

Hartford: Printed by T. GREEN.

The CONNECTICUT COURANT. No 25

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

ROME, February 2.

THE Rev. Father the general of the Jeſuits, as an acknowledgment of the Pope's Bull, which confirms the inſtitution of that ſociety, has ſent a circular letter, enjoining each prieſt of that order to celebrate ſix maſſes, and each brother to recite ſix chaplets, in order to obtain from heaven the preſervation of his holineſs's life.

Paris. Feb. 18. It is ſaid, that the parliament of provence has cauſed to be tore and burnt, by the hands of the common hangman, the Pope's Bull which confirms the inſtitution of the Jeſuits.

GENOA, Feb. 2. Letters from Baſtia, of the 20th paſt, ſay, that the French Troops had taken poſſeſſion of all the interior and exterior works of that City.

LONDON.

Feb. 8. It is ſaid a ſtrenuous oppoſition is intended to be made to the motion of introducing Church dignities in North America.

They write from Liſbon, that certain important advices from their ſettlements of Goa, will occaſion a Portugueſe ſquadron, with land forces on board, to make an early viſit to the Eaſt-Indies.

By a late eſtimate it appears, there are at preſent no leſs than 5000 Britiſh ſeamen in actual ſervice in the ſhips of war on the Weſt India and Colony ſtation. A number hardly to be equaled in any former peace.

We hear a patent will ſoon be made out, in favour of an eminent Engliſh actor, who intends to eſtabliſh a playhouſe in New-York.

We hear a bill is now preparing for the approbation of the houſe, to curtail the time limited for the arrival of the female ſex to the age of diſcretion according to law, by one full year.

It is now ſaid that the future uſe of ſtills in the Britiſh American provinces, except in caſes of chymiſtry and medicine, will this ſeſſion be prohibited under an high penalty.

A total ſtop to the exportation of American beaver and furs to France and Holland, is very quickly expected to take place; which will be an effectual Bar to our rivals in manufactures in the hat-making branch.

Feb. 18. It is confidently ſaid, certain duties, lately impoſed on the new Britiſh ceded iſlands and provinces in America, will ſpeedily be taken off, for the greater encouragement of agriculture and commerce in thoſe infant colonies.

Several tranſports are now taking up in the river, to carry artillery and troops to Africa.

His Grace the Duke of Athol has made ſtrong repreſentations againſt annexing the Iſle of Man to the Crown, it being granted to his predeceſſors by a Royal charter, and afterwards confirmed in other king's reigns.

Five thouſand pounds are to be added to the rewards already offered by parliament for thoſe who ſhall diſcover the longitude at ſea.

Feb. 20. It is ſaid that Commodore Graves, who is ſailed to the coaſt of Africa, has poſitive orders not only to deſtroy all the French forts on the river Gambia, but alſo to drive away all their ſettlers.

Feb. 26. On the 13th inſt. the Lords Juſtices of Ireland iſſued a proclamation, offering a reward of 300l. for the apprehending Nicholas Sheeby, Popiſh Prieſt of Shanraghan, in the county of Tipperary, who not only ſtands indicted at an aſſize for that county the 28th of March laſt, for high treaſon and rebellion; but is alſo charged on oath with having been ſince concerned in ſeveral treaſonable practices to raiſe a rebellion in that kingdom.

Letters from Paris mention, that the laſt Weſt-India packet brought over no leſs than 43 petitions of complaint, which the natives of the French part of Hiſpaniola had exhibited againſt count d'Eſtaing, governor of St. Domingo.

Extract of a letter from Paris, dated Feb. 15.

"The Parliament have iſſued two arrets, by which the Pope's late bull in favor of the Jeſuits, and his three briefs addreſſed to the Biſhops of Grenoble, Alais, and Angers, are ſuppreſſed; and no bulls or briefs are for the future to be accepted, unleſs they are accompanied by the King's letters patent.

"The Inhabitants of St. Domingo, amongſt their other complaints exhibited againſt the Count d'Eſtaing, charged him with having extorted from them five millions to excuſe them from the national militia, and to which, nevertheleſs, he afterwards wanted to ſubject them.

"The trial of Gen. Lally who commanded in chief in India when Pondicherry was taken, goes on with ardour; but it is ſuch an intricate affair, that it is impoſſible to judge how long it will be before it is finiſhed."

It is confidently ſaid, orders were laſt week diſpatched to the commanding officer on the Weſt India ſtation, to ſend certain men of war of his ſquadron, in order to diſcover what private deſigns the French have, for two years paſt, and under various pretences, been tranſacting in the Spaniſh South Seas.

On a late review of the fortifications in the Britiſh Weſt-India iſlands, upwards of 500 pieces of iron ordnance were found to be uſeleſs and honeycombed, which have ſince been replaced by artillery from England.

They write from Breſt, that an order was come down, appointing one forty gun ſhip, and three frigates to ſuperintend the French fiſhery this enſuing ſeaſon, on the banks of Newfoundland.

We hear that ſome experienced aſſayers will ſoon be appointed to embark for North-America, to make inſpection into the ſtate of ſome new diſcovered mines in that country, particularly at the back of the provinces of South-Carolina, which are ſaid to be very valuable.

Feb. 28. It is reported, that the exportation of malt liquor to foreign parts will be ſubjected to certain reſtrictions and limitations.

Private letters from Paris mention, that the court of France, alarmed at the riſing ſtate of manufactures in the north, particularly thoſe of Denmark and Sweden hath come to a reſolution to reduce ſtill farther, the price of wages in ſeveral mechanical branches of buſineſs throughout the kingdom; with a view to retain the ballance of trade at foreign markets in their own hands.

Laſt night the ſociety of arts, &c. in the ſtrand, gave a bounty of 100l to a poor tanner at Battle in Suſſex, for diſcloſing his invention for the improvement of the tanning buſineſs. This man has been kept in town ſeveral months, at the expence of the ſociety, to give ſatisfactory proofs of the uſefulneſs of his diſcovery, which he has done to the moſt ſkilful tanners and curriers in town, who declared the ſkins tanned by him were better leather than moſt that are ſold in Leaden hall market, though they had been in the tan pit but two thirds of the uſual time. They were tanned with oak ſawduſt only! This diſcovery has ſet the tanners to contrive engines for reducing to powder ſmall pieces of oak, which will greatly reduce the price of the bark, till now a very valuable commodity, on account of the great demand for it and ſmall quantity to be obtained. not one of the many contrivances to ſupply its place for ſeveral years paſt having anſwered any good purpoſe. From the above experiments ſome think the oak-duſt is more effectual in tanning leather, than the bark itſelf.

It is reported, that inſtructions have been ſent to our governors of the late acquired colonies in America, to keep exact regiſters of all the French ſubjects reſiding there, and to tranſmit the ſame, from time to time to England.

CORK, (in Ireland) Feb. 14. By a letter from Clonmell we are informed, that one of the perſons that were lodged in Clonmell goal laſt week, under the denomination of White Boys, was ſervant to one of the principal gentlemen of that place, and that no leſs than ten other perſons, againſt whom informations had been given, were abſconded for the ſame.

Corke, Feb. 18. Laſt Saturday Mr. Daniel M'Carthy, Sub-Sheriff of the County of Corke, went with five aſſiſtants, by virtue of his Majeſty's writ of injunction upon a Cuſtodium, to take poſſeſſion of the lands of Fuller's Park, in the ſaid county, where he was oppoſed by a riotous mob (ſome in arms) when the ſheriff and his men, for the ſafety of their own lives, were obliged to fire at them, but not till after the mob fired at his party, by which one Carthy, the ringleader, was killed, and ſeveral wounded. One of the ſheriff's men was dangerouſly wounded.

A law of this province was paſſed on the 24th of June, 1724. and is now in force, entitled, An act to prevent boats and other veſſels, and the Goods put on board them, from being interrupted whilſt their navigation is confined within this colony only.

Quere. Whether mr. ſurveyor general, as he lives in Boſton, was apprized of this law when he gave mr. John Fenton the deputy collectorſhip of Hudſon's river, between New-York and Albany.

We are told ſome ſeizures have lately been made at Albany by John Fenton, Eſq; collector for that port, in purſuance of his commiſſion Tueſday laſt his majeſty's ſhip Sardine, capt. Hawker, arrived at Philadelphia.

Benjamin Baron, Eſq; formerly ſecretary to Sir Charles Hardy, when governor here, is appointed poſtmaſter General of the ſouthern diſtrict of North-America, and will keep the general poſt office at Charleſtown, South Carolina.

Yeſterday arrived the Ketch Mercury, capt. Kennedy, in 40 days from Penſacola. We hear he brings advice that they have there given over the expectation of the Spaniard's coming to New Orleans.

On Friday morning laſt, one Godfrey Swan, a taylor, ſaid to be one of the beſt workmen in town, an induſtrious, ſober man, and in good circumſtances as to his ſubſtance, but who has for ſome time been under a melancholly diſorder, of a religious kind, fearing he ſhould not be ſaved, and has made ſeveral attempts upon his own life, took the opportunity, while his wife was at market, to murder his ſon, an infant about three months old, which he took from the cradle, and laying it on his left arm, with its head in his hand cut its throat with a pen knife. The neighbours being alarmed, found him with the murder'd child in his arms. He ſeem'd not at all ſurprized, deliberately wiped his bloody hands and the pen knife, and ſhutting it, put it in his pocket. He readily owned the fact, ſaid he had long been greatly diſtreſſed and weary of life; that he had made many attempts to deſtroy himſelf, but his heart fail'd him; and he had taken this method that he might die by the law, and hoped God would have mercy on his ſoul. He talked very religiouſly, and except on the particular ſubject of his uneaſineſs, very ſenſibly. He was immediately committed to goal and ſecured ſo as to prevent him from deſtroying himſelf. It was conjectured by ſome, that his diſorder might ſpring from ſome domeſtick uneaſineſs, and he was ask'd if he lived in good harmony with his wife,——he replied, that he never had any difference with her, ſhe was a good woman——and he expreſſed pity for her diſtreſs. He was carried to goal before ſhe came home. When ſhe heard of the diſaſter, ſhe was in the ſtreet, and fainted away. The jury brought in their verdict Wilful murder.

Since inſerting the above account we have ſeen the unhappy man's confeſſion made and ſigned by himſelf before the coroners jury, which is nothing materially different from the above.

He declares, that having concluded to deſtroy himſelf, and reflecting that the child might hereafter be reproached on his account, he had form'd the deſign of preventing that, and procuring his own death, by killing the child; and that he had once mentioned this to his wife. That as he was at work ripping a coat with a pen knife, and ſeeing the child ſtir in the cradle, no other perſon being preſent, he thought it a fit opportunity to execute his Purpoſe, which having done as above He held the child ſo that it might bleed freely, and die eaſily. He further declared that his diſcontent and wearineſs of life, was occaſioned by diſappointment and croſſes in buſineſs.—But it does not appear that he had met with any ſuch croſſes.

On monday morning laſt, mr. Garret Van Horne, of this city, merchant, died of a painful illneſs, which he bore with great patience and chriſtian fortitude. He has left behind him a ſorrowful widow, with many ſmall children, who juſtly lament the loſs of a kind provident husband, and a tender affectionate parent.—His remains were decently interred the tueſday evening next following

On the 21ſt of March laſt died, at Fiſhkill, in Dutches County, in the One Hundred and Twenty Eighth Year of his Age, Mr. Edglebert Hoff. He was born in Norway, and could help himſelf without Aſſiſtance, till about ten Days before he died, when he unluckily fell down, and mortally hurt his Hip, of which wound he died. He never uſed a Spectacle, and could read common print very fluently. He could remember that he was a Lad driving Team when the News was brought to his Country that King Charles the under the Prince of Orange in the time of King James the ſecond. After that he came to America, and went a Privateering out of this Port with the noted Capt. Claver, in Queen Ann's Wars, being then about 70 Years old. When he returned he married a Wife by whom he had 12 Children, afterward lived a Widower 33 years. He had his Senſes, and ſtrong memory till within a few Hours before he died. He was a man in low circumſtances, but of an honeſt Principle, and died ſeemingly a good Chriſtian.

NEWPORT, May 6.

The maſter of a whaling veſſel who arrived here laſt Saturday from Dominica, informs, that on the 5th ult. he put into that iſland, and, juſt after he had anchored, was ſurprized with a violent motion of the veſſel, which made him imagine ſhe had ſtruck, but the debth of the water convinced him it muſt be an earthquake: That he went on ſhore the next day, and was informed by a Frenchman, that for three months the inhabitants had been almoſt continually under the horrors of repeated earthquakes: That he (the maſter) believes he was ſenſible of not leſs than 150 ſhocks while he was on ſhore: That on monday the 8th he ſailed for St Kitt's, and the friday following, was not only informed by mr. French, of that iſland, but read it in the St. Kitts paper, that on Wedneſday the 10th the windward part of the iſland of Dominica, ſaid to be about one half, was entirely ſunk or ingulfed in the ocean, together with the inhabitants belonging thereto; but the number of the people we can't aſcertain.—Dominica is one of the Carribee iſlands, but little cultivated, lies 28 miles north of Martinico, and 149 N.W. of Barbados, inhabited chiefly by French. It was ceded to Great Britain by the laſt treaty of peace.

The account of the fire at Rehoboth, in our laſt, told us with ſo much plauſibility of truth, we have the pleaſure to hear was without foundation.

BOSTON, May 9.

Laſt Wedneſday mr. Samuel Vans arrived at Marblehead in a fiſhing-ſchooner from the Iſle Sables, on which Iſland he was caſt away on his paſſage from Newfoundland bound to New England the 18th of November laſt; where he, together with the veſſel's crew, conſiſting of 13 perſons, remained till the 16th of April, in the greateſt diſtreſs for want of proviſions, being when they were caſt aſhore, reduced to 4 biſcuit only, each man, 14 lb of beef, and about 6 lb of flower, which turned out only one ſpoonfull a day. During the above time they lived chiefly on ſeil and horſe fleſh, without any ſalt. The method they took to catch the horſes was digging pitts and driving them in, otherwiſe they muſt have periſhed. They had no ammunition, or might have killed wild beaſts enough. All the fire-wood they had during the winter was pieces of the wreck drove aſhore.

The maſter with the crew are alſo returned.

HARTFORD.

At the Election held at Newport, Rhode-Iſland, on Wedneſday the firſt Inſtant, were choſen, The Hon. Samuel Ward, Eſq; Governor, the Hon. Eliſha Brown, Eſq; Deputy-Governor, Henry Ward Eſq; Secretary, and Joſeph Clerke, Eſq; Treaſurer.

We hear from Saliſbury, that a child of Mr. Jabez Keep, accidentally fell into an Iron-Works pond, and was unfortunately drowned, to the great grief of the bereaved parents.

A few days ago, a child of one Mr. Loomis, of Turky-Hills, in Simsbury, fell into a Tub of water, and was drowned.

Laſt Monday arrived at New-London, from Mountſerrat, after a Paſſage of 20 Days, the Brig Hartford, Capt. Thomas Hopkins, the next morning alſo arrived at New-London, (Capt. Griſwold of Killingſworth, from Barbados, with whom came Paſſengers) the Captains John Olcott, and John Chenevard, all of this Place; and laſt Tueſday Evening they came to Town.

There has been a great Drought in the West-Indies, (which continued when the above Captains came away) they having had little or no Rain for three Months.

†*† The Publick are informed, that the Printing-Office is removed, to the Store of Mr. James Church, oppoſite the Court-Houſe, and next Door to Mr. Bull's Tavern.

Laſt Thurſday being the Anniverſary Election of the Governor and Company, agreeable to the Royal Charter granted to this Colony, the following Gentlemen were elected to the following Offices, viz.

The Hon. THOMAS FITCH, Eſq; Governor.
The Hon. WILLIAM PITKIN, Eſq; D. Gov.

ASSISTANTS.

Ebenezer Silliman, Eſq;
Jonathan Trumble, Eſq;
Hezekiah Huntington, Eſq;
John Cheſter, Eſq;
Benjamin Hall, Eſq;
Daniel Edwards, Eſq;
Jabez Hamlin, Eſq;
Matthew Griſwold, Eſq;
Shubael Conant, Eſq;
Eliſha Sheldon, Eſq;
Eliphalet Dyer, Eſq;
Jabez Huntington, Eſq;

Joſeph Talcott, Eſq; Treaſurer.
George Wyllys, Eſq; Secretary.

A LIST of Repreſentatives returned to the General Aſſembly, May 1765.

Hartford.
Col. William Pitkin,
Col. Samuel Talcott.

New-Haven.
Mr. Roger Sherman,
Mr. Samuel Biſhop, jun.

New-London.
Capt. Pygan Adams,
Mr. William Hillhouſe.

Fairfield.
Mr. David Rowland,
Capt. David Burr.

Windham.
Mr. Nathaniel Wales,
Mr. Hezekiah Manning.

Litchfield.
Col. Ebenezer Marſh,
Capt. Iſaac Baldwin.

Norwich.
Mr. Daniel Lathrop,
Mr. Samuel Huntington.

Stamford.
Col. Jonathan Hoit,
Mr. Abraham Devenport.

New-Hartford.
Capt. Abel Merril,
Capt. Matthew Gillet.

Stonington.
Capt. Joſeph Denniſon,
Mr. Charles Phelps.

Toland.
Capt. Zebulon Weſt,
Lieut. Elijah Chapman.

New-Town.
Mr. Richard Furman,
Capt. Henry Glover.

Haddam.
Maj. Hezekiah Brainard.

Lyme.
Mr. William Noyce,
Mr. Samuel Selden.

Pomphret.
Mr. Samuel Dreſſer,
Mr. Samuel Craft.

Canterbury.
Capt. Jabez Fitch,
Mr. Daniel Tyler.

East-Haddam.
Mr. Daniel Brainard.

Plainfield.
Capt. James Bradford,
Capt. Iſaac Coit.

Farmington.
Mr. Solomon Whitman,
Mr. Jonathan Root.

Killingly.
Mr. Bryant Brown,
Mr. Ebenezer Learnard.

Woodſtock.
Capt. Nehemiah Lyon,
Mr. Ebenezer Smith, jun.

Branford.
Capt. William Hoadley,
Mr. Joſiah Rogers.

Danbury.
Capt. John Benedict,
Mr. Samuel Dickenſon.

New-Milford.
Mr. Buſhnel Boſtwick,
Capt. Samuel Canfield.

Vollintown.
Mr. John Gorden,
Mr. Moſes Kenney.

Saliſbury.
Capt. Thomas Chittington,
Mr. Joſhua Porter.

Say-Brook.
Capt. John Shipman,
Capt. Samuel Moredock.

Milford.
Capt. John Fowler,
Capt. Thomas Clark.

Waterbury.
Mr. Joſeph Hopkins,
Capt. Timothy Judd.

Groton.
Capt. Moſes Fiſh,
Capt. Ben-Adam Gallop.

Cornwal.
Mr. Thomas Ruſſel,
Mr. Joſhua Pierce.

Hebron.
Capt. Samuel Gilbert,
Mr. John Phelps.

Stratford.
Capt. Wm. Samuel Johnſon,
Mr. Joſeph Curtice.

Colcheſter.
Capt. Dudley Wright,
Mr. Daniel Foot.

Durham.
Col. Elihu Chauncey,
Capt. James Wadſworth.

Woodbury.
Mr. Daniel Sherman,
Capt. Increaſe Moſeley.

Glaſtenbury.
Mr. John Kimberley,
Mr. William Welles.

Bolton.
Capt. Thomas Pitkin.

Canaan.
Mr. Benjamin Stevens,
Mr. Timothy Hurlbard.

Mansfield.
Mr. Benjamin Chaplin,
Mr. William Hall.

Willington.
Capt. Abner Barker,
Mr. Moſes Holms.

Stafford.
Capt. Iſaac Pinney,
Mr. Samuel Davis.

Coventry.
Mr. Phineas Strong,
Mr. Ephraim Root.

Ridgfield.
Mr. Samuel Olmſtead,
Mr. Timothy Keeler.

Greenwich.
Capt. Thomas Hobby,
Capt. Jabez Mead.

Derby.
Mr. Charles French.
Mr. Joſeph Hull.

Sharon.
Capt. John Williams,
Capt. Caleb Jewitt.

Goſhen.
Capt. Moſes Lyman,
Capt. Ebenezer Norton.

New-Fairfield.
Mr. Ephraim Hubbel,
Mr. William Burns.

Middletown.
Mr. Seth Wetmore,
Mr. Richard Alſop.

Suffield.
Mr. Simeon Hathaway,
Mr. Daniel Auſtin.

Preſton.
Capt. William Winter,
Mr. Nathaniel Brown.

Norwalk.
Mr. Thomas Fitch, jun.
Mr Joſeph Platt.

Wallingford.
Maj. Elihu Hall,
Mr. Titus Bracket.

Windſor.
Mr. Matthew Rockwell,
Mr. Henry Allyn.

Torrington.
Mr. John Cook,
Mr. Jonathan Coe.

Weathersfield.
Capt. Eliſha Williams,
Capt. Thomas Belding.

Enfield.
Mr. Edward Collins,
Capt. Joſeph Olmſtead.

Harwinton.
Capt. Daniel Catlin.

Guilford.
Col. Timothy Stone,
Mr. Nathaniel Hill.

Lebanon.
Capt. Joſhua Weſt,
Mr. William Williams.

Somers.
Mr. Emry Peaſe.

Aſhford.
Mr. Amos Babcock,
Capt. Jedediah Fay.

Symſbury.
Capt. Jonathan Pettibone,
Mr. Hezekiah Humphrys.

Killingſworth.
Mr. Benjamin Gale,
Capt. John Pierſon.

Kent.
Mr. Cyrus Marſh,
Mr. Ephraim Hubbel, jun.

AGRAHAM DAVENPORT, Eſq; was choſen Speaker, and WILLIAM PITKIN, jun. Eſq; Clerk.

WE the ſubſcribers being appointed commiſſioners by the honorable court of Probate for the diſtrict of New-Haven, to receive and examine the claims of the creditors to the eſtate of Mr. Philo Mills, late of Derby deceaſed, repreſented inſolvent: We ſhall attend that buſineſs on the firſt monday of Auguſt next, and ſo on the firſt mondays of each ſucceeding Month, until the firſt Monday of March next, from two of the clock on each of ſaid days, until eight, at the dwelling-houſe of Mr. Oliver Curtis, inn-keeper in ſaid Derby. Dated at Derby, March the 23d, 1765.

JAMES BEARD, } Commiſ-
JOSEPH HULL, jun. } ſioners.

(25)

SAMUEL MATTOCKS,
Periwig Maker, oppoſite Doctor Jepſon's, Queen-ſtreet, Hartford,

BEGS Leave to acquaint the Public, That he has hired a compleat Workman from London, who not only makes all Sorts of Wiggs that are worn on the Continent; but alſo a new Faſhion lately introduced in Boſton, in Imitation of Hair: And alſo cuts and dreſſes Hair in the neateſt and neweſt Faſhion, for ſuch as ſtill continue to wear their Hair, notwithſtanding it is ſo much out of Faſhion, both in Europe and the faſhionable Parts of America. And having the Advantage of a good Aſſortment of Hair, and Trimmings in the Shop, will make it his peculiar Care and Study to give univerſal Satisfaction to all who ſhall pleaſe to favour him with their Cuſtom; and will take for pay, Engliſh and Weſt-India Goods, Wood, and other Produce of the Country. (25)

N.B. He alſo buys all Sorts of Hair, ſuitable for Wiggs.

STray'd or ſtolen out of the ſtable of the widow Flagg, in Hartford, the night after the 9th inſtant, a dark brown horſe, about 14 hands high, branded with the letter F on the near ſhoulder, natural pacer, a ſmall ſtar in his forehead, both of his hind feet white, newly ſhod. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid ſtray, and return him to the owner in Fairfield, or the printer hereof, ſhall be well rewarded for their trouble, by (25) NATHAN BUCKLY.

THESE are to notify the Proprietors of the Suſquehannah Purchaſe, that the laſt Meeting of ſaid Company at Windham, ſtands adjourn'd to the 16th Day of May, Inſt. to meet at Hartford, at 10 of the Clock in the Forenoon.

Hartford, } Teſt
May 9, 1765. }

SAMUEL GRAY,
Clerk of ſaid Company.

AT a Meeting of the Proprietors of the Townſhip of Lyman, in the Province of New-Hampſhire, it was determined to give to any Ten Perſons, who will appear, and become immediate Settlers, Two Thouſand Acres of Land, in ſaid Townſhip, adjoining Connecticut River, on the Eaſt Side. Theſe are to give Notice to any Perſons that are deſirous to become Settlers on ſaid Townſhip, on the above Terms; that on the 2d Monday of July next, at the Houſe of Mr. Medad Lyman, in New Haven, will be a Meeting of the Proprietors above-ſaid, when an indiſputable Title will be given ſaid Settlers, by the Proprietors of ſaid Townſhip of Lyman. (24)

TO BE LET,
(And entered upon immediately)

A Convenient, new Dwelling Houſe, very advantageouſly ſituated, for any Kind of Buſineſs; having a fine Store under the Whole, and Garden ſufficient for the largeſt Family. For further Particulars, enquire of

ABRAHAM BEACH:

Who has juſt opened, an Aſſortment of Summer GOODS, amongſt which are,

LInens and Checks of different Kinds—Callicoes—Fuſtians—Brown Holland—Gauze—Lawn—Pewter—Men's and Women's white Cotton Stockings—Black and mix'd Worſted ditto, &c. &c. &c.——He has likewiſe for Sale, choice Saltartudas and Anguila SALT, at the loweſt Prices, for Caſh or Country Produce in Hand.

Hartford, [illegible] April, 1765. [illegible]

Hartford, April 29, 1765.

Juſt Imported in the Ship Edward, Capt. Davis, and the Ship Hope, Capt. Jacobſon from LONDON, and to be ſold by THOMAS DAVIDSON, and COMPANY, at the Houſe of Mr. Hezekiah Collyer, oppoſite the North End of the State Houſe, the following Goods, to be ſold Wholeſale and Retail, VIZ.

BRoad and narrow cloaths, ſuperfine ſcarlet ditto. ſhalloons, ratinets, calimancoes of all colours, black Genoa and cotton velvets, Mecklinburgh ſtuffs, ſilk gauze, flowered and plain, flowered lawns of all ſorts, cambricks of all kinds, from 4s. to 15s. per yard, ribbons of all ſorts plain and figured, black Barcelona handkerchiefs, black barcelona cravats, check't cotton and linen of all kinds, French and Engliſh ſtrip't ditto, ſtrip't hollands, Iriſh and Scotch white linens and holland, men, woman and children's ſilk, worſted, cotton and thread ſtockings, woman's ſhoes, woman's leather mitts, culgee ſilk handkerchiefs, Indian ſilk ditto, check cotton and linen ditto of all ſorts, great variety of dark & light coloured chintees and calliceos, poplins & ſilverets, brogaded ditto, tammies, durants, nankeen patterns, ſilk and worſted ditto, pins and needles, coloured threads, white ditto, of all kinds, fans and garlands, head flowers, perſians and taffeties, paduſoys, flowerd damasks, ſilks of ſundry kinds, figured alimodes ditto, of all colours, gimps and fringes of all kinds, black & white lace ditto, ſtamped ditto of all kinds, garters & quality bindings, ſhoe bindings, ſilk camblets, worſted ditto, ſagathees, thickſetts, fuſtians, a large quantity of diaper, & diaper table cloths, writing paper of all kinds, bombazines, riffiny, black ſcrape, Dreſden poplins, ſtrip't ſtuffs, Mancheſter ſtripes for jackets, Turky ſtripe for ditto, a large quantity of wool hats, bound & unbound for men and boys, ivory and horn combs, apron and cap tapes, garnet necklaces and ear-rings, Briſtol ſtone buttons ſet in ſilver, peable ſtone ſet in ditto, ſilver watches, French paſte necklaces, great choice of glaſs ditto, ſilver buckles, metal buttons of different kinds, buckram, ſewing ſilks, twiſt, ſtay tape and dowlaſs, common cuttoe knives of all ſorts, variety of ſnuff boxes, double ſet gimbles, table knives and forks, common ſleeve buttons of all kinds, beſt Scotch ſnuff in bottles, pigtail tobacco, prepared ſhagg ditto, ink powder, playing cards, loaf ſugar at one ſhilling per pound, rum by the hogſhead, barrel or ſmaller quantity, choice Teneriffe and Madeira wine, claret by the barrel or dozen, Dorcheſter ale, Briſtol beer, London porter, bohea tea, by the pound ſix ſhillings, and a variety of other articles too numerous to mention. Any gentlemen, or ladies who pleaſe to favor us with their cuſtom, may depend upon being ſupplied with any of the above goods, as cheap as can be purchaſed in N York, only allowing freight, from their humble ſervants,

T. DAVIDSON, & Co.

N. B. Wanted 100 barrels of pork, for which a reaſonable price will be given; any quantity of pot-aſh will be purchaſed by us, and as good a price given, as in Boſton or New-York, or carried to London, next September, upon freight, if deſired.

TO be ſold, a likely, healthy, good natured NEGRO BOY, about 15 years old. Inquire of T. Green.

S[illegible] the 19th of April laſt, at Evening, a Sorrel Horſe, with a bald Face, all his Feet white, branded X on the left Shoulder, about 13 Hands high, trots and paces, moſt natural to pace, with a good Saddle and a good, blue broad-cloth Great Coat mail'd on the Saddle. Whoever will take up ſaid Horſe, and bring him to the Owner, ſhall be entitled to Five Dollars, paid by (24) ELIHU NEWEL, of New Cambridge.

ALL Perſons indebted to JOHN M'LEAN, of Hartford, are deſired immediately to ſettle their Accounts, either by Caſh or their Obligations, to prevent Trouble. (24)

Imported, in the Capts. Hunter and Calef, from LONDON, to BOSTON, (about a Fortnight ago) and to be ſold, by

BENJAMIN HENSHAW,

At his Shop in Middletown,

3-4, 7-8, and yard wide Iriſh hollands, of all qualities, 3 4 and 7 8 garlets, dowlaſs; ſheeting and oznabrigs, 7-8, yard wide and ſix quarter'd checks, flower'd, ſpotted, long, plain and packet lawns, cambricks: A variety of chintzes, callicoes and printed linens; bed tickings, crimſon, black, dark and light blue paduſoys, taffeties and Perſians of different colours, neweſt faſhion'd ſtriped luteſtrings, ſeveral colours, black, ditto; pelong ſattins, damaſks, &c. crimſon, black, blue, brown, and drab colour'd broadcloths; German ſerges, ſagathees, duroys, and thickſetts of various colours; ſhalloons, callimancoes, durants and tammies of all colours; nankeens; a variety of linen and ſilk handkerchiefs; ſilk mitts, women's ruſſel and calimanco ſhoes, poplins, fans, ribbons, tapes, thread, &c. &c. &c.—Powder, ſhot, led, nails and hard ware of all ſorts——Beſides which, he has to ſell, moſt ſorts of other Engliſh GOODS——and the beſt French indigo, by the hundred, dozen, pound or quarter; coffee, chocolate, rice, loaf and brown ſugar, rum, molaſſes, ſalt; all ſorts of braſs and copper wares; Engliſh and Dutch clover ſeed; looking glaſſes all ſizes, gilt and plain, mehogany, black walnut and common frames. Any of which he will ſell, for the caſh, or produce, as low as can be purchaſed in any ſtore in the government.

April 16th, 1765. 22 (6n)

Juſt imported from LONDON, and now come to hand, in the ſhip Ruby, Capt. Dowzick, and to be ſold by

CALEB BULL,

at his ſtore in Hartford, King ſtreet, oppoſite Capt. John Keith's,

A Small aſſortment of European and India GOODS.—Alſo, a general aſſortment of articles in the grocery way.——As alſo, cutlary and crokery ware; choice Malaga wine, brandy, and other ſpirits; German and Engliſh ſteel; 12d. 10d. 8d. and 4d nails; 7 by 9 glaſs; paints; linſeed oil; verniſh; gun powder, ſhot and bar lead; loaf ſugar at 12d. per pound; bohea tea, warranted to be of the beſt quality, and as cheap at 6s. and 8d. as any to be had at a lower price.—And many other articles needleſs to mention. Thoſe who are pleaſed to favour ſaid Bull with their cuſtom, may be ſupply'd in the retailing way, on as reaſonable terms as any in the town, or government, without exception.

Thoſe that entered their names with ſaid BULL, for HEMP-SEED, are informed that it is now come to hand, and ready for Delivery. (24)

To be ſold, by JOHN TOWNLEY,

A Few Pair of Woman and Children's, choice London made STAYS.

FOUR Shillings, N. York Money, per Dz. will be given for empty Snuff Bottles, by PATRICK & ANDREW THOMSON, Merchants in Hartford. (25)

A Quantity of choice OLD RUM, and beſt MOLASSES to be ſold on the very loweſt Terms, for Caſh, or ſhort Credit, by ELISHA PITKIN, or THOMAS SEYMOUR, jun. of Hartford. (23)

Choice Madeira WINE,

Retail'd by LATHROP and SMITH, in Hartford.

Hartford: Printed by T. GREEN.

MONDAY, May 20, 1765. [Number 26.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

From the New-London Gazette.

To the PRINTER.

Sir,

I Take it for granted, there is not one of your readers, but has heard that moſt melancholly ſentence, repeated times without number, THERE IS NO MONEY: nor ſcarce one, who has not himſelf frequently joined in this epidemic complaint. Converſation among people of every rank, I have remarked for ſome months paſt to run in one invariable channel: and the hackneyed topicks of diſcourſe to be conſtantly introduced, in the ſame preciſe order, with admirable uniformity. Benevolent enquiries reſpecting health, and ingenious obſervations on the weather, according to the laudable cuſtom of our anceſtors, from time immemorial lead the van. As ſoon as theſe curious and important articles are diſcuſſed; the muſcles of the face being previouſly worked up into a mixt paſſion of diſtreſs and reſentment, tempered with a ſuitable proportion of political ſagacity; ſucceeds the wonderful diſcovery aforeſaid, THERE IS NO MONEY; which is inſtantly repeated by each party, with every token of aſtoniſhment. One would think, by the ſurprize viſible in their countenances, and the vehemence of their expreſſions, that neither of them had the leaſt ſuſpicion of ſuch a calamity, till that minute: tho', perhaps, it is not two hours ſince the ſame perſons converſed upon the ſame ſubject, and made exactly the ſame remark. Suppoſing a million of Engliſh inhabitans, upon this continent, endowed with the faculty of ſpeech; and that each one of thoſe inhabitants, at an average, repeats this obſervation but once in twenty minutes (in both which hypotheſes, I imagine my computation very moderate) it amounts to thirty ſix million times that this ſentence muſt neceſſarily be repeated within the compaſs of the twelve hours of the artificial day; which number muſt at leaſt riſe to fifty million, during one revolution of the earth about its axis; if we make reaſonable allowances for evening converſation; as alſo, for perſons talking in their ſleep upon a ſubject which engroſſed the whole attention of their waking hours. So great, and ſo innumerable, are the evils reſulting from the preſent ſcarcity of caſh, that I firmly believe, if the four cardinal virtues, with all their progeny and attendants, had entirely left the earth, and taken their everlaſting flight to the upper regions; their departure would not have been ſo univerſally perceived, nor their abſence ſo bitterly lamented.

Various expedients have been made uſe of, to remedy this inconvenience: and among the reſt, numberleſs eſſays have appeared in our public prints, recommending induſtry and frugality. But theſe are ſuch ſlow methods of riſing to an eſtate, and require ſuch uncommon ſteadineſs of temper,—ſuch cloſe application of body and mind, that I utterly deſpair of ever ſeeing them generally put in practice. My countrymen are happily diſtinguiſhed, by a genius ſo enterpriſing, and ſuch a peculiar vivacity of ſpirits, that they can by no means condeſcend to enrich themſelves by ſo tedious a proceſs. Induſtry and frugality are exotic plants: they flouriſh, indeed, among the mountains of Switzerland, and the fens of Holland: but ſoon wither and decay in the ſoil and climate of Britiſh America. The ſchemes I am upon, if well executed, will be vaſtly more expeditious; and I flatter myſelf, much more agreeable to the projecting taſte of the age.

I have bought a ſmall parcel of ground, where, after ſome ſecret cultivation of mine beſtowed upon it, I intend to plant a tree, whoſe trunk and limbs ſhall conſiſt of fine copper, which ſhall in a few weeks, ſhoot up and flouriſh in a very rich and ample manner. This uſeful vegetable, when it comes to perfection, is to bloſſom all in ſilver, the fruit is to be gold, and the leaves will ſhade a weary traveller with ſo many forty ſhilling bills. I cannot but pleaſe myſelf to imagine what flocks of people will come to view my little grove, as ſoon as it begins to ſprout: and in a little time, to ſee them obtain a branch or two of me, to tranſplant into their own lands, where they will ſpread abroad with a luxuriance that will cover the face of the whole country. Methinks, it will be very pleaſant to ſee a piece of eight in the bud; or a ripe guinea drop mellow upon the graſs. How welcome will the fall of the leaf be, after I have made this myſtery common! and with what rapture ſhall we hear a tempeſt whiſtling through the woods, when it only ſhakes us down money! A man who chooſes to walk in my foreſt, may have his head broke with a crown dropping on it: and I expect to have my windows often ſhattered by ſtones and brick-bats flung up at ſhillings and ſix pences. It will be very pretty, when a cart rumbles by a door, for a man to run out to buy wood, and come in muttering, "'Tis nothing but a cord of copper."

But I wake with reluctance from this pleaſing reverie,—this rapturous anticipation of future opulence; and proceed to acquaint you of another plan, which I have formed, for the good of my country. Our ports and harbours are ſo cloſely guarded by the policy and vigilence of the preſent miniſtry, that I have long been convinced, it is impoſſible for us to trade, to advantage, with any of our fellow-creatures. But we have diſcovered ſo great a propenſity of late, to wander from home, upon the moſt romantic expeditions; and to plant new colonies, before our own is half peopled, or one quarter cultivated; that I cannot but imagine, a propoſal would be very acceptable of opening a correſpondence with the Moon; and that if articles and ſubſcriptions were drawn up, and properly encouraged, the lunar company would ſoon be vaſtly more numerous than the Suſquehannah. In order to render ſuch a voyage practicable, I can aſſure the public, I have already conſtructed a machine, which wants nothing to compleat it, but to be raiſed from the earth, and continued moving in a due direction; ſufficient for the exportation of ſuch part of our fiſh, oil, lumber, pipe ſtaves, live ſtock, &c. as exceed what the Britiſh ſugar iſlands can poſſibly conſume; and make no ſcruple but we ſhall receive very profitable returns in green cheeſe; a commodity, which muſt needs run very low in the ſeveral markets of that planet; and by means of which we may, poſſibly, make ſome remittances to Europe. Should this ſcheme take effect, we ſhould, doubtleſs, in proceſs of time, have aerial cuſtom houſes eſtabliſhed; and our atmoſphere lined with ſloops and cutters; but it would, certainly, be a conſiderable while before ſuch new regulations could be brought to perfection. Beſides, it will be abſolutely impoſſible for the moſt artful officers entirely to prevent ſmuggling, when one of my machines ſhall be ſo contrived as to come down, plump, with equal convenience, upon any part of the continent.

But I am in ſuch haſte about theſe affairs, that I muſt break off abruptly;—only aſſuring you, that, amidſt all this important buſineſs, I am,

Your conſtant Reader,
ALEXANDER WINDMILL.

AT a Meeting of the Proprietors of the Townſhip of Lyman, in the Province of New-Hampſhire, it was determined to give to any Ten Perſons, who will appear, and become immediate Settlers, Two Thouſand Acres of Land, in ſaid Townſhip, adjoining Connecticut River, on the Eaſt Side. Theſe are to give Notice to any Perſons that are deſirous to become Settlers on ſaid Townſhip, on the above Terms; that on the 2d Monday of July next, at the Houſe of Mr. Medad Lyman, in New-Haven, will be a Meeting of the Proprietors above-ſaid, when an indiſputable Title will be given ſaid Settlers, by the Proprietors of ſaid Townſhip of Lyman. (24) part of Sweden, is connected with the true intereſts of the nation." A queſtion thus propoſed indicates a ſpirit of po-to fly to Vera Cruz.

---

BOSTON, May 16.

Tueſday laſt arrived here the brig Lydia, Capt. Scott, in five weeks from London: The Scarborough maſt ſhip, capt. Hugget, is alſo arrived at Piſcatuqua: Theſe veſſels ſailed from the Downes in company with near 200 ſail of veſſels bound to different parts; ſome of them had lain wind bound 5 or 6 weeks; among theſe were the capts. Marſhal, Davis, and Jarvis for this port, who are not yet arrived. — Captain Jacobſon was to leave London about the middle of April, and capts. Blake and Dixey ſoon after, for this place.

Altho' the ſtamp act is paſſed, we have not obtained intelligence when it takes place.

It has been reſolved in the houſe of commons that 1s. ſterling ſhall be paid for every ſingle letter, and in proportion for double, treble and packet, that is brought from London to any port in America. One penny ſterling to be paid for every letter delivered to any poſt maſter, from any veſſel except packet-boats. Alſo for every ſingle letter from any port in the Britiſh dominions in America to any other port in ſaid dominions, 4 pence ſterling is to be paid, and double, &c. in proportion.—There are alſo other reſolutions reſpecting the inland poſtage, which were ordered into a bill.

Our oral advices are, that the duties on molaſſes will not be taken off at leaſt this ſeſſion; but reſpecting lumber, there were ſome expectations of the burthen being taken off, and a bounty given for deals exported from America to Great Britain; ——— that inſtead of having a judge of admiralty only in Halifax, it was tho't there would be three others appointed one to reſide at Boſton, one at Philadelphia, the other at South Carolina: It is feared there will be almoſt a prohibition of the diſtilling and ſugar boiling buſineſs in America.

From the public prints brought by Capt. Scott from London, we have the following Advices.

LONDON, March 26. LAST week notice was given to the gentlemen employed in the ſeveral departments of the ſtamp-office, that a certain number would ſpeedily be wanted to embark for New-York, in order to eſtabliſh a ſtamp office in that province; when ſeveral, who were unmarried, voluntarily offered themſelves for that ſervice, and as ſoon as the proper materials can be got ready, will be ſent over at the government's expence.

March 22. The grand council held laſt Tueſday at the Cockpit, Whitehall, related entirely to American affairs, and to take into conſideration certain extraordinary petitions lately ſent over from that continent.

We are aſſured that another regiment of foot will ſpeedily embark for Quebec.

We hear that a ſcheme is now upon the carpet for introducing temporal dignities in North America, and that the firſt diſtinctions of this kind will be conferred upon Sir William Johnſon, and General Gage.

It is now ſaid a bounty of ten ſhillings per ton, on all ſhipping in the whale fiſhery on the American ſeas, between the entrance of Hudſon's bay and cape Florida, over and above that already paid on ſhips from Greenland, will be granted in order to encourage this valuable branch of commerce.

They write from Boſton, in New-England, that a native of that province, has diſcovered a method of making pearl aſhes, which are eſteemed equal to thoſe imported from Trieſte and other parts.

LONDON, March 27 to 30.

Tueſday four crape gauze manufacturers were engaged for New-York.

A bill is now depending to prevent any free indian under his majeſty's protection from being carried from any of his majeſty's colonies, without a licence firſt obtained for that purpoſe.

It is ſaid the heads of a bill for impoſing one penny ſtamp duty on all play houſe tickets, are now preparing for the inſpection of the houſe.

By letters from France it appears, that the number of veſſels fitted out this year by the merchants of that kingdom for the Newfoundland fiſhery, will exceed 1000 ſail; there being ſcarce a trader in any of their ſea ports who has not a ſhare in this valuable commerce.

It is confidently ſaid, the ſuppreſſion of vice-admiralty courts in the Britiſh provinces of America, are now under conſideration.

The hon. William Pitt continues ſo much indiſpoſed at his ſeat at Hayes, that he has not yet been able to attend his ſervice in parliament.

One capital houſe in the city has this week received commiſſions from the Weſt-Indies, to ſhip off goods proper for the Spaniſh American trade, to the amount of 50,000 l.

It is now ſaid, that the ſubject of erecting biſhopricks in America, will be ſpeedily reſumed; and it is thought the Biſhop of Man will have a ſeat in the houſe of peers, the moment that iſland is annexed to the government.

Much damage has been done this month by high winds and floods, & ſome perſons and cattle loſt their lives thereby.

Between ſix and ſeven thouſand men, women, and children reduced to diſtreſs for want of work, in Spittle-fields, have been relieved by public ſubſcriptions.

A fellow, either a Turk or a German, has gulled our over curious nobility and gentry of many hundred guineas, by ſhewing tricks upon the cards!

The freedom of London in a gold box, has been voted to the duke of Glouceſter,

APRIL 1. A very great addition to the plan of the poſt office is intended, and will ſpeedily take place. The general poſt will be extended to all American colonies; and the penny poſt is to be eſtabliſhed in all the parts of this kingdom.

The bills ready will be ſigned by commiſſion on Thurſday next; after which both houſes will adjourn for the holidays.

Some thouſand pounds ſterling value, in ſilver three penny peices, are ſoon to be coined at the mint, for the uſe of the American colonies, to ſupply the place of copper money, which the people there have long complained of.

We hear the ſums of money ariſing from the new ſtamp duties in N. America, for the firſt five years, are chiefly to be applied towards commodious poſt roads from one province to another, erecting bridges where neceſſary, and other public meaſures equally important.

From the GENTLEMAN's MAGAZINE, For March, 1765.

Miſcelaneous Articles from the Papers.

HIS majeſty has been pleaſed to order that North America be divided into two diſtricts, viz. Northern and Southern, by the river Potomack, and a due weſt line drawn from the head of the main branch of that river, as far as his majeſty's dominions extend, and a ſurveyor general appointed on each, to make general ſurveys both of coaſts and main, in order to facilitate the navigation, and promote the ſpeedy ſettlement of the new acquiſitions.

The Empreſs Queen of Hungary has ordered the regency of the Auſtrian Netherlands to lay a duty of four livres and a half (near 4s.) on every c wt. of ſugar imported into thoſe territories from England and Holland, in order to favour French ſugars.

The iſland of Grenada is already ſo far cultivated as to produce 10,000 hogſheads of ſugar, 3,500,000lb. of coffee, and 200,000lb. of cocoa, beſides cotton and indigo.

An expreſs has been diſpatched to the conquered iſlands not to levy the impoſt of 4 1-half per cent. as directed by prerogative of the king's letters patent, till further orders.

Letters from Paris ſpeak of a horrid murder committed on a baker who had got money in the lottery, by his man who came behind him with a cleaver, ſplit his ſkull, and then cut off his head. The villain afterwards went up ſtairs into his miſtreſs's bed chamber, who was ſome months gone with child, and ſtrangled her with a cord whilſt ſhe was aſleep, and then broke open the drawers, and took out all the money, plate, and other moveable effects of value, and made his eſcape.

Letters from Truxillo, about 50 miles from Vera Cruz in Mexico, bring a moſt ſhocking account of the mountain Mano Blanco, in that neighbourhood, opening and throwing out flames, combuſtible ſtuff, and black ſtones, ſome of great ſizes. As there never was a volcano there before, it intimidated the inhabitants to ſuch a degree, that a great number died of the fright. Many people were deſtroyed, with 118 Indian huts: The wild beaſts, as lyons, tygers, deer, &c. left the foreſt, and came into the town for refuge, ſixty three of which were ſhot in the ſtreets.

Mobs and inſurrections are frequent in many parts of the country, particularly in the weſtern counties on account of the dearneſs of proviſions.

A wonderful prophet from Podolia engroſſes the converſation of the German cities, as the card conjurer does that of the Britiſh. This man, with his ſon, about nine years old, has traverſed all Poland, Pruſſia, and many other parts of Germany, and from the accounts given of him is eagerly expected at Berlin; from whence, it is ſuppoſed, he'll viſit Holland, France and England.

LONDON, March.

Monday 5. A great council was this day held at his grace the Duke of Bedford's in Bloomſbury-ſquare, on affairs of importance.

A writ of certiorari for removing the trial of Lord Byron was laid before his peers; at the ſame time the depoſitions of the proceedings on the coroner's inqueſt on inſpecting the body of the deceaſed Mr. Chaworth, were laid before the houſe for their peruſal.

Monday 11. The workmen began building the galleries in Weſtminſter hall, for the trial of Lord Byron.

The Houſe of Commons came to a reſolution of raiſing 1,500,000l. two fifths of which by annuities of three per cent. two fifths of which by way of lottery, the tickets 10 l each, the blanks 6l. and the remaining fifth by way of tontine, or annuities upon lives, at 3 per cent. with benefit of ſurvivorſhip.—This laſt is divided into ſix claſſes, of 150l. each, ſo that the longeſt liver may enjoy the whole income. The new tickets have already been done in Change Alley, at 12 l. 3s.—The proprietors of navy and victualing bills, in courſe of payment have the preference in this ſubſcription, but the whole together bears ſcarce any præmium.

A moſt remarkable fall of ſnow covered the whole country in which many perſons loſt their lives. Near Newcaſtle a moſt remarkable accident happened to two men, who, riding full gallup in different directions, met each other with ſuch force that both horſes inſtantly died, and the riders were thrown againſt each other ſo violently, that the lives of both were deſpaired of.

At Wynchcomb, in that county, a labouring man having brewed a veſſel of ale againſt his wife's groaning, the goſſips at her labour agreed to tap it, and when the man came home at night, he found his ale gone, the goſſips drunk, and his wife dead.

Tueſday 13. The parliament, after a moſt ſtrict examination, come to a reſolution of granting Mr. Harriſon 10,000l for diſcovering the longitude by his time-piece, and 10,000l more if his time-piece ſhould equally anſwer in a voyage to be made by way of trial to Hudſon's Bay.

Friday 22. Lord Mansfield, as ſpeaker, and the Earls Gower and Marchmont, by virtue of a commiſſion from his majeſty, gave the royal aſſent to the following bills:

The bill for puniſhing mutiny and deſertion, &c.

— for the better regulation of his majeſty's marine forces.

— for permitting the free importation of cattle from Ireland.

— for providing a public reward for perſons who ſhall diſcover the longitude.

— for laying a ſtamp duty in the Britiſh colonies in America.

The number of bills ſigned, public and private, was thirty five.

At an ordination of prieſts and deacons at the chapel royal at St. James's by the hon. and rev. Dr. Keppel, biſhop of Exeter, a Black was ordained, whoſe devout behaviour attracted the notice of the whole congregation.

Tueſday 26. By the Albany Indiaman, who has made the quickeſt voyage that has been known, advice has been received at the India houſe, that the troubles were happily terminated on the Coromandel coaſt; that Madura and Polmacora were in the hands of the Engliſh; that the rebel Iſouph Caun (whoſe name we do not remember to have read before) was ſubdued and executed; and that all was quiet at Bengal where governor Vanſitart had overcome all difficulties, and was on the point of delivering up his government to Mr. Spencer, a gentleman of diſtinguiſhed character and ability. The death of Iſouph Caun is thus related; that M. Marchand, with ſome French troops, having undertaken to ſupport his pretenſions againſt the reigning Nabob, was in poſſeſſion of Madura; but finding the Nabob, by means of Engliſh auxiliaries, likely to prevail, he diſpatched a French officer with a flag of truce from the fort to the Engliſh camp, demanding ſafe guard for his own troops, pay for the black troops, & pardon for thoſe who had deſerted; and offering at the ſame time to deliver up Iſouph Caun the moment theſe terms were granted having already arreſted him for that purpoſe; the terms were accepted, the town was given up, and Iſouph Caun delivered over to the Nabob, who ordered him to be hanged the next day in front of the lines.

An evening paper of laſt night ſays, that a ſeiſure has lately been made at the cuſtom houſe of about 50 large prints, beautifully executed abroad, and containing a genealogical account of the royal houſe of Stuart, from its firſt origin to the preſent time, divided into two diſtinct branches, the firſt brought down to the late Royal Highneſs Frederick Prince of Wales, and the other to rt. hon. the earl of Bute, and his brother the hon. James Steuart McKinzie. The ſeiſure occaſions much ſpeculation.

His Grace the Duke of Athol has made ſtrong repreſentations againſt annexing the Iſle of Man to the Crown, it being granted to his Predeceſſor by a royal Charter, and afterwards confirmed in other king's reigns.

NEW-YORK May 16.

Sunday the 5th inſt. Capt. Aſhfield arrived here from Madeira, in 9 weeks: By him we learn, that his Majeſty's ſloop of war the Spy, Capt. Allwright, touch'd at that iſland in his way to Africa, to countermand the orders formerly ſent there for deſtroying the French ſettlements in the river Gambia, that matter having been amicably adjuſted between the courts of G. Britain and France.

We can aſſure the public, that Sir William Johnſon, at his ſeat at Johnſon Hall, on the 4th inſt. was ſurrounded by upwards of a thouſand Indians of different tribes, not in an hoſtile manner, all in friendſhip; and that every thing went on well in the negotiation greatly to the ſatisfaction of his Excellency, as tending to the good of his Majeſty's ſubjects.

HARTFORD, May 20.

We hear from ſeveral towns in Litchfield County, that within this month, a number of horned cattle have died with the Bites, which they had received from the Dogs which have of late run mad in thoſe Parts.—One Mr. Douglass of Cornwall loſt 6 or 7 Oxen and Cowes, laſt Week.

STray'd from Jonathan Butler, of Hartford, on the 8th inſtant, a light bay Dutch horſe, 14 hands high, 7 or 8 years old, large head, ſome grey hairs on his dock, and noſe, trots, well ſet, and round bodied. Whoever will take up ſaid horſe, and ſend word, or bring him to me the ſubſcriber, ſhall have a handſome reward paid by 26

May 20, 1765. JONATHAN BUTLER.

NOTICE is hereby given, to all the proprietors of the townſhip of Panton, in the province of N Hampſhire, in New-England; that at a legal proprietor's meeting of ſaid proprietors, holden on the firſt monday of April, 1764, was agreed upon, and voted a rate or tax of twenty ſhillings, lawful money, on the right of each original proprietor; and I the ſubſcriber, was legally choſen by ſaid proprietors, at ſaid meeting, a collector to collect the ſame: I do hereby give public notice to ſaid proprietors, that they reſpectively pay their rate or tax to me, on or before the 20th day of July next, enſuing the date hereof. Dated in Canaan, this 16th day of May, A. D. 1765.

(26) DAVID HOLCOMB, Collector.

AARON BULL, deſires every one indebted to him, by book, forthwith to ſettle their reſpective accounts; and thoſe indebted to him on note, to diſcharge the ſame, as he is very ſoon bound to ſea, and muſt leave his affairs that remain unſettled in the attorney's hands. May 17, 1765. (26

STray'd from Hartford, a few days ago, a brown or bay horſe, four years old, about 13 hands and three inches high, a large ſtar in his forehead, with ſome grey in it, one or both hind feet, and top of his noſe white, a natural pacer, no brand. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid ſtray, and return him to the ſubſcriber in Simsbury, ſhall be rewarded for their trouble by (May 20) 26 ISAAC ENO.

STray'd from Joſeph Bunce of Hartford, Poſt-Rider, on the 10th inſtant, a dark bay mare, eight years old, 13 hands & an half high, a white ſlip down her face, one hind foot white, paces and trots well, branded with an S with a mark a-croſs it, on her left ſhoulder, and with the figure of an anchor on her left thigh. Whoever will take up ſaid ſtray, and convey her to me the ſubſcriber, or ſend word ſo that I may have her again, ſhall have a handſome reward paid by me, 26 JOSEPH BUNCE.

N. B. Said mare has been rowel'd on her breaſt for a lameneſs in her ſhoulder. May 20, 1765.

STray'd out of paſture in Hartford, on the Weſt ſide the great river, on the 10th day of inſtant, May, a black horſe, ſhod all round, about fourteen hands and an half high, a little white on his left hind foot, ſeven years old, paces and trots well. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid horſe, and deliver him to Hezekiah Marſh, in Hartford, or to me the ſubſcriber, owner of ſaid horſe, in Norwich; ſhall be well rewarded for their kindneſs and trouble, by me,

SAMUEL HUNTINGTON.

Hartford, May 18th, A.D. 1765. (26)

Extract of a Letter from London.

"MR. Charles Townſend ſpoke in favour of the bill, [ſtamp duty] and concluded his ſpeech by ſaying to the following effect:

"Theſe children of our planting, (ſpeaking of Americans) nouriſhed by our indulgence, until they are grown to a good degree of ſtrength and opulence, and protected by our arms, will they grudge to contribute their mite to relieve us from the heavy load of national expence which we lie under?

"Which having ſaid, and ſat down, * Mr. Barre aroſe, and with eyes darting fire, and an out ſtretched arm, ſpoke as follows, with a voice ſomewhat elevated, and with a ſternneſs in his countenance, which expreſſed in a moſt lively manner the feelings of his heart:

"Children planted by your care? No! Your oppreſſion planted them in America; they fled from your tyranny, into a then uncultivated land, where they were expoſed to almoſt all the hardſhips, to which human nature is liable; and among others, to the ſavage cruelty of the enemy of the country; a people the moſt ſubtile, and I take upon me to ſay, the moſt truly terrible, of any people that ever inhabited any part of God's earth, and yet actuated by principles of true Engliſh liberty; they met all theſe hardſhips with pleaſure, compared with thoſe they ſuffered in their own country, from the hands of thoſe that ſhould have been their friends.

"They nouriſhed by your indulgence? They grew by your neglect of them: As ſoon as you began to care about them, that care was exerciſed in ſending perſons to rule over them, in one department and another; who were, perhaps the deputies of ſome deputy, of members of this houſe, ſent to ſpy out their liberty, to miſrepreſent their actions, and to prey upon them; men whoſe behaviour, on many occaſions, has cauſed the blood of thoſe ſons of liberty, to recoil within them; men promoted to the higheſt ſeats of juſtice, ſome to my knowledge, were glad by going to foriegn countries, to eſcape being brought to a bar of juſtice, in their own.

"They protected by your arms? They have nobly taken up arms in your defence, have exerted their valour, amidſt their conſtant and laborious induſtry, for the defence of a country whoſe frontiers, while drench'd in blood, its interior parts have yielded all its little ſavings to your enlargement: And believe me, remember I this day told you ſo, That the ſame ſpirit which actuated that people at firſt, will continue with them ſtill: But prudence forbids me to explain myſelf any further. God knows, I do not at this time ſpeak from motives of party heat: What I deliver, are the genuine ſentiments of my heart: However ſuperior to me in general knowledge and experience, the reſpectable body of this houſe may be, yet I claim to know more of America than moſt of you, having ſeen and been converſant in that country. The people there are as truly loyal, I believe, as any ſubjects the King has: But a people jealous of their liberties, and who will vindicate them, if they ſhould be violated; but the ſubject is too delicate, I will ſay no more.

"* A gentleman of the army, member for the borough of Chipping Wycomb, in the county of Bucks; he was a major and an adjutant general at the taking of Quebec, where he was wounded, and for his ſervices was rewarded with the place of governor of a caſtle, but was diſmiſſed from it on his voting againſt ſome miniſterial meaſures.

SAMUEL MATTOCKS,
Perriwig-Maker, oppoſite Doctor Jepſon's, Queen ſtreet,
Hartford,

BEGS Leave to acquaint the Public, That he has hired a compleat Workman from London, who not only makes all Sorts of Wigs that are worn on the Continent; but alſo a new Faſhion lately introduced in Boſton, in Imitation of Hair: And alſo cuts and dreſſes Hair in the neateſt and neweſt Faſhion, for ſuch as ſtill continue to wear their Hair, notwithſtanding it is ſo much out of Faſhion, both in Europe and the faſhionable Parts of America. And having the Advantage of a good Aſſortment of Hair, and Trimmings in the Shop, will make it his peculiar Care, and Study to give univerſal Satisfaction to all who ſhall pleaſe to favour him with their Cuſtom; and will take for pay, Engliſh and Weſt-India Goods, Wood, and other Produce of the Country. (25)

N.B. He alſo buys all Sorts of Hair, ſuitable for Wigs.

ALL Perſons indebted to JOHN M'LEAN, of Hartford, are deſired immediately to ſettle their Accounts, either by Caſh or their Obligations, to prevent Trouble. (24)

WE the ſubſcribers being appointed commiſſioners by the honorable court of Probate for the diſtrict of New-Haven, to receive and examine the claims of the creditors to the eſtate of Mr. Philo Mills, late of Derby deceaſed, repreſented inſolvent: We ſhall attend that buſineſs on the firſt monday of Auguſt next, and ſo on the firſt mondays of each ſucceeding Month, until the firſt Monday of March next, from two of the clock on each of ſaid days, until eight, at the dwelling-houſe of Mr. Oliver Curtis, inn-keeper in ſaid Derby. Dated at Derby, March the 23d, 1765.

JAMES BEARD, } Commiſ-
(25) JOSEPH HULL, jun. } ſioners.

STolen from under Landlord John Wyard's Horſe-Houſe, the 19th of April laſt, at Evening, a Sorrel Horſe, with a bald Face, all his Feet white, branded X on the left Shoulder, about 13 Hands high, trots and paces, moſt natural to pace, with a good Saddle and a good, blue broad-cloth Great Coat mail'd on the Saddle. Whoever will take up ſaid Horſe, and bring him to the Owner, ſhall be entitled to Five Dollars, paid by

(24) ELIHU NEWEL, of New-Cambridge.

Imported, in the Capts. Hunter and Cathcart from LONDON, to BOSTON, (about a Fortnight ago) and to be ſold, by

BENJAMIN HENSHAW,
At his Shop in Middletown,

3-4, 7-8, and yard wide Iriſh hollands, of all qualities, 3 4 and 7-8 garlets, dowlaſs, ſheeting and oznabrigs, 7-8, yard wide and ſix quarter'd checks, flower'd, ſpotted, long, plain and packet lawns, cambricks: A variety of chintzes, callicoes and printed linens, bed tickings, crimſon, black, dark and light blue paduſoys, tafferies and Perſians of different colours, neweſt faſhion'd ſtriped luteſtrings, ſeveral colours; black, ditto; pelong ſattin, alamode, &c crimſon, black, blue, brown and drab-colour'd broadcloths; German ſerges, ſagathees, duroys, and thickſetts of various colours; ſhalloons, callimancoes, durants and tammies of all colours; nankeens; a variety of linen and ſilk handkerchiefs; ſilk mitts, women's ruſſel and calimanco ſhoes, poplins, fans, ribbons, tapes, thread, &c. &c. &c.—Powder, ſhot, led, nails and hard ware of all ſorts.——Beſides which, he has to ſell, moſt ſorts of other Engliſh GOODS——and the beſt French indigo, by the hundred, dozen, pound or quarter; coffee, chocolate, rice, loaf and brown ſugar, rum, molaſſes, ſalt; all ſorts of braſs and copper wares; Engliſh and Dutch clover ſeed; looking glaſſes all ſizes, gilt and plain, mehogany, black walnut and common frames. Any of which he will ſell, for the caſh, or produce, as low as can be purchaſed in any ſtore in the government.

April 16th, 1765. 22 (60)

Juſt imported from LONDON, and now come to hand, in the ſhip Ruby, Capt. Dowzick, and to be ſold by

CALEB BULL,

at his ſtore in Hartford, King ſtreet, oppoſite Capt. John Keith's,

A Small aſſortment of European and India GOODS.—Alſo, a general aſſortment of articles in the grocery way.——As alſo, cutlery and crokery ware; choice Malaga wine, brandy, and other ſpirits; German and Engliſh ſteel; 12d. 10d. 8d. and 4d. nails; 7 by 9 glaſs; paints; linſeed oil; varniſh; gun powder, ſhot and bar lead; loaf ſugar at 12d. per pound; bohea tea, warranted to be of the beſt quality, and as cheap at 6s and 8d. as any to be had at a lower price—And many other articles needleſs to mention. Thoſe who are pleaſed to favour ſaid Bull with their cuſtom, may be ſupply'd in the retailing way, on as reaſonable terms as any in the town, or government, without exception.

Thoſe that entered their names with ſaid BULL, for HEMP-SEED, are informed that it is now come to hand, and ready for Delivery. (24)

To be ſold, by JOHN TOWNLEY,

A Few Pair of Woman and Children's, choice London made STAYS.

TO be ſold, a likely, healthy, good natured NEGRO BOY, about 15 years old. Inquire of T. Green.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown, oppoſite the Court-Houſe.

MONDAY, May 27, 1765. [Number 27]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

LONDON.

Extract of a Letter from Paris, dated, Feb. 15.

"SOME gentlemen who are very expert in the art of hunting all ſorts of wild beaſts, are ſet out from hence to go in purſuit of the terrible animal which deſolates the Gevaudan.

Public notice has been given at Paris, that 12,000 livres are depoſited with the receiver general of the finances of the generality of Soiſſons, to be given as a reward to any one who ſhall prove, in the ſpace of ſix years, from the firſt of this preſent February, that a perſon inoculated has had the ſmall-pox a ſecond time.

Feb. 12. The fortifications of St. Philip, in the iſland of Minorca, are ordered this ſummer to be conſiderably augmented, and divers materials for the building a new town will ſpeedily be ſhipped on board ſome government tranſports now in the river.

Feb. 15. By letters from Smyrna we hear, the governor of that place had repeatedly and wantonly oppreſſed the inhabitants to ſuch a degree, that at laſt they came to a reſolution to lay their complaints before the Grand Signior at Conſtantinople: upon which a proper officer was diſpatched to enquire into the truth of theſe complaints: When the governor finding he muſt undergo an examination, deſired it might be in his own houſe, where a room ſhould be prepared to hold 300 of the inhabitants. This being agreed to, and the day fixed, they accordingly began the examination; but, before they got into the merits of the affair, the floor gave way, and fell in with all the people, by which means a great many of them were killed, and others dangerouſly wounded. On examining the beams, they were found to have been ſawed through, and the floor ſupported by props, which, on a ſign given, were taken away by people placed there on purpoſe. The wicked deſign being diſcovered, ſo enraged the populace, that they immediately broke into the houſe, killed the governor, and deſtroyed every thing valuable; ſo that the place was in the greateſt confuſion when this account came away.

Several of the frigates ordered to be got ready, are intended with a view to watch the motions of the Dutch fiſhery, who have ſo many years unjuſtly invaded our coaſts, to the great prejudice of our own fiſhery.

The ſettlement of St. John's iſland, in Newfoundland, this ſummer, we hear, is now under conſideration on a new plan. [Query, are they to be taxed without their own conſent?]

Paris, Dec. 29. The effects of the late Marchioneſs de Pompadour are now ſelling here by auction. Never before have we here ſeen ſo many valuable things expoſed to ſale at one time. The magnificence, the beauty, and the prodigious quantities of her houſehold furniture, are inconceiveable, and forms a ſhew which attracts all Paris, through curioſity; but the oppulent only are able to become purchaſers for all the things fetch an exceeding high price, as they are exquiſite and perfect in their kind.

We are informed, that an eminent divine in this city has lately received in a letter from a clergyman of great veracity, in Virginia, the following particulars relating to the ſtate of religion in that country. "It would be unpardonable in me to let paſs by the ſtate of religion in this country to a gentleman of your known attachment to its intereſts. I wiſh I could give you ſome account that would be agreeable; but, alas! we are torn by factions and diviſions. Virginia is no more the ſeat of peace, and concord, but of madneſs and enthuſiaſm. The methodiſts from the North come down upon us like a torrent; and I can ſee no method ſo effectual of preventing their growth, as diſperſing books in favour of the church among our people; which propoſal I wiſh the ſociety [for promoting chriſtian knowledge] would take into their ſerious conſideration, eſpecially as the different circumſtances of the clergy of this country in general will not enable them to purchaſe."

LONDON, March 26.

Extract of a Letter from Paris dated March 14.

"You will have had notice, by the laſt poſt, of the concluſion of the great law ſuit in the family of Calais, of the 9th of inſt. exactly, day by day, three years after the condemnation and execution of the unfortunate Mr. Calas, the victim of his frantic enemies.

His widow madam Calas, her ſon, the maid ſervant, and Mr. Lavaiſſe, have been diſcharged of the horrid accuſation. The late Mr. Callas the father, is declared innocent; his memory of former good reputation has been re-eſtabliſhed, with liberty of proſecuting his judges, called capitouls, who condemned him; the former proceſs to be cancelled, with the ſentence of the ſaid judges; and the arret of his innocence to be printed, publiſhed, and fixed up at all the public courts and places required.

The parliament have reſolved that the preſident and his reporter ſhall write to the chancellor, deſiring him to be pleaſed to requeſt the king to take the family of Calas into his royal protection, and to forbid the judges of Thoulouſe to make uſe for the future of proceedings called Breſt Interdits.

Inſtead of ſeven judges, who are obliged to ſit at every chamber, there were more than forty; and the ſaid priſoners who had ſurrendered at the Concergie, were cleared and diſcharged out of the court by the great ſtairs, through a vaſt crowd of ſpectators, ſome ſhedding tears, and others clapping their hands for joy.

The family of Calas is hourly viſited by a vaſt number of perſons of diſtinction, both catholicks and proteſtants, and even dukes and dutcheſſes, to wiſh them joy. It is incredible the pleaſure this decision gives to all honeſt people."

They write from France, that two French interlopers, ſeized in the river St. Laurence, by one of his Majeſty's cruizers in that ſtation, having been brought in there; their cargoes conſiſted of ammunition and fire arms, hard ware, and ten hogſheads of valuable ſkins, taken in exchange, ſuppoſed to be from the Labrador Indians.

Letters from Rome mention, that Mr. Wilkes had not been twenty four hours in that city before it was known he had bills of credit on ſome of the principal Bankers there, to the amount of two thouſand pounds ſterling.

A duty of five per cent. will be laid on certain kinds of Eaſt India goods, which are bro't hither for exportation.

An account of all wrought ſilks or herba of the manufacture of Perſia, China, or the Eaſt Indies which have been exported from Chriſtmas 1760 to 1764, diſtinguiſhing each year, and to what countries, have been preſented to the Houſe.

We hear that a curious diamond button for a hat, worth upwards of 2000l. is now making for his royal highneſs the Prince of Wales.

Juſt Publiſhed at Boſton, and to be ſold by ROGER SHERMAN, Eſq;
of New-Haven;

THE Hiſtory of the Colony of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, from its firſt Settlement, to its incorporation; with the Colony of Plymouth, &c.

By the Honorable T. HUTCHINSON, Eſq;
Lieutenant Governor of the Maſſachuſetts.

N. B. In the ſaid Hiſtory, there are divers Things relative to the Colony of Connecticut; ſome of which are very curious. (27)

The following articles are from the Engliſh prints which came in the veſſels that have arrived at Boſton, from London, ſince our laſt.

LONDON, March 2.

WE hear a bill, for licenſing lotteries in the American colonies, is now upon the carpet: the profits to be applied towards building a chain of forts on the moſt critical frontier paſſes of the Indian country, at the back of each province.

They write from America, that the celebrated ſir William Johnſon, is greatly idolized by the Indians; and that his indefatigable aſſiduity in the ſervice of the public, joined to his great complaceency to the various Indian nations, has been almoſt as eſſential to the general intereſt, as the national armies in that quarter of the globe.

They write from New-York, that 8000 yards of woollen cloth were imported there the 21ſt of laſt December, in the Sarah, Dickenton, from Connecticut, being part of the contract laſt year with that government and New England, for 50,000 yards of American manufacture, to anſwer the demands of home conſumption, which heretofore uſed to be [illegible] wholly ſupplied from England.

Col. James Prevoſt, is promoted by his Majeſty to the rank of major general.

March 12. Letters from the North American Colonies are filled with the moſt melancholly accounts of their poverty and wretchedneſs, occaſioned by the reſtriction on their commerce with the French and Spaniſh ſettlements.

Several fullers and dyers have lately been agreed with to ſettle at Boſton, in New England: where a woollen manufactory is going to be eſtabliſhed.

March 30. Diſpatches of a ſingular nature have this week been received from ſir William Johnſon in America, which are ſaid to have occaſioned ſome important reſolutions at the Cockpit, Whitehall.

They write from Quebec, that the hopes of finding a communication with the Weſtern Ocean, by means of the inland lakes of Canada, have been grounded on the favourable reports of ſome Indians of Lake Superior, who inform, that a vaſt river runs weſtward many hundred miles, as large as the Miſſippi,

We now hear that no change will take place in a certain High Board, 'til the power of the Whole is veſted in a Royal Perſonage, who has long been intended for that great employment.

The bounties upon hemp and flax of the growth of our colonies, which were given firſt by Queen Anne, and continued by ſeveral other acts, being ſuffered to drop, the culture of hemp did not ſucceed, and hardly any was imported; but the encreaſe of the Colonies having enabled them to attend to it again, the bounties of eight pounds per ton for ſeven years, or ſix pounds per ton for the next ſeven years more, are allowed on all hemp imported from America.

The ſame bounties on the like quantities of flax imported from thence, are, ſo far as that alſo is a naval ſtore, likewiſe granted.

Our whole conſumption of hemp for the laſt ten years, amount, at a medium, to more than 300,000l. per annum.

Several thouſand ſtand of muſkets, bayonets, and other military accoutrements, are ordered to be got ready to be ſhipped on the government's account for Africa.

We hear, that in the intended diviſion of his majeſty's American dominions into nothern and ſouthern diſtricts inſcriptional plates of braſs obelisks, &c. are ordered to be placed at proper diſtricts on the frontiers, after the manner of the other European powers ſettled on the continent.

March 26. Samples of woollen cloth made in Connecticut government have within theſe few days, been received by a gentleman in town from his friend in N. York; and by the above ſpecimen of American manufacture, it plainly appears, they have not as yet arrived to even a tolerable degree of perfection in this ſtaple commodity, the cloth being coarſe, flimſy and irregular.

They write from New York, that a very rich ſulphur mine has lately been diſcovered near Albany, from which great commercial advantages are expected.

We hear four eminent preachers of Mr. Whitefield's perſuaſion are preparing to embark on board the next packet for New York, having been invited not only by letters from the above gentleman, but many perſons of note in North-America, to undertake ſome ſpiritual concerns of great importance among the Indians in alliance with the Engliſh.

March 28. We are informed, that the laſt advices from Paris brought a confirmation of the French having effected a new ſettlement on the continent of America.

The parliament of Paris have ſuppreſſed the Pope's late Bull in favour of the Jeſuits, and his three briefs, addreſſed to the biſhops of Grenoble, Alars, and Angér; and no bulls or briefs are for the future to be accepted, unleſs they are accompanied by the king's letters patent.

A cod fiſh was lately ſold by a fiſherman of Blyth near Newcaſtle, in the belly of which a gold ring was found, which had remained there ſo long, that the inſcription was wore off, though the ſcrolls in which it had been written remained entire.

Two ſhips, one from Kowima in Siberia, the other from Kamtſchatka having ſailed upon diſcoveries to the northward, that from Kowima had the good fortune to double the cape of Iſchutſchi, at 74 degrees of latitude; and ſailing down towards the ſouth through the ſtraight, which ſeperates Siberia from America, they diſcovered iſlands that were inhabited, at the ſixty-fourth degree of latitude. They ſettled there a trade in the moſt beautiful peltries with the inhabitants. Thoſe of Kamſchatka went towards the north, and there met with their companions among theſe iſles.

April 1. Wedneſday laſt a right honorable perſon, who ſo eminently preſides at the firſt board of the kingdom, laid the ſtate of the nation before an auguſt aſſembly, in ſuch a manner as met with the higheſt approbation.

April 6. Some letters of great conſequence it is ſaid are under conſideration relative to the ſituation of affairs between us and the two powers of France and Spain. It is certain that one great man in the miniſtry has declared his determined reſolution that ſuch ſteps ſhall be taken, in reſpect to the Canada bills and the Manilla ranſom, as are conſiſtent with the honour and dignity of Great Britain: or that, otherwiſe, he will reſign,

It was this morning rumoured at the weſt end of the town, that an anſwer of great importance has been received by the laſt diſpatches from the court of Madrid.

We hear that ſince the acts paſſed for allowing rice to be carried directly from the plantations to any part of Europe, lying ſouthward of Cape Finiſterre, the charge of double freight being by that means taken off, Spain and Portugal who uſed to bring all their rice from the Levant, receive it now from our colonies, and conſume 20,000 barrels every year, which no doubt has been one great means of raiſing Carolina to its preſent flouriſhing condition.

Upon a general computation of the goods imported annually from Great Britain into America, they amount in value to 1,400,000l one third of which are foreign goods, re exported from hence; and it is commonly ſuppoſed, that foreign goods, to the amount of 700,000l are annually ſmuggled into the colonies, which, by ſome regulations lately made, it is hoped will entirely put a ſtop to this illicit trade.

We hear that ſhould the ſcheme for introducing American repreſentatives in parliament be laid aſide, ſuch colony agents, during their reſidence here in a public character, will nevertheleſs be veſted with certain privileges; among others the liberty of franking letters, and their to be exempted from arreſts for debt, in common with the members of the houſe.

We hear the eſtabliſhment of a royal mint at New York will certainly take place, but that only the coining ſilver will be permitted.

When the laſt letters were received from Quebec, there was a report that four perſons of ſome note in that province would very probably viſit England this ſummer in irons.

We hear a total exchange of army forces in a certain American province has lately been reſolved on, as the moſt effectual means to prevent the ill conſequences reſulting from a ſettled miſunderſtanding between the civil and military eſtabliſhments of an infant colony.

April 9. Saturday laſt the Spaniſh ambaſſador received ſome diſpatches of impotance from his catholic Majeſty's miniſter at the court of Vienna.

Notwithſtanding what has been inſerted, we are well informed neither the of Dukes York or Glouceſter are to go out in the intended expedition to Copenhagen.

It is now affirmed that the right hon. Sir Edward Hawke will ſoon hoiſt his flag on board the Charlotte Yatch.

The oak timber in the iſland of Cape Breton has, from late experiments at Portſmouth, been found ſo excellent for ſhip building, that we hear large quantities are to be imported for the deck yards.

Friday laſt died, advanced in years, the celebrated Dr. Edward Young, Clerk of the Cloſet to her Royal Highneſs the Princeſs Dowager of Wales, and author of the Univerſal Paſſion, the Revenge, Night Thoughts, and other poetical works.

BOSTON, May 23.

The STAMP ACT! is to take place in theſe Colonies, on the firſt Day of November One Thouſand ſeven hundred and ſixty five.

Capt. Taylor arrived at Newport in 9 weeks from Liſbon adviſes, that the Spaniards are advancing towards the frontiers of Portugal, with conſiderable bodies of men; and that the Portugueſe are not inactive, but are uſing neceſſary precautions for fruſtrating any ill deſigns which their enemies may be diſpoſed to execute.

A cuſtom houſe in the room of that which was ſome time ſince burnt, is building at Liſbon, which, it is ſaid, for largeneſs and magnificence, will exceed any edifice of that kind in Europe.

By letters from London by the laſt ſhips we learn, that thoſe who had the care of the petitions from the colonies choſe to defer, (for what reaſon we can't ſay) the preſenting the ſame to the houſe of commons, till the ſtamp bill was brought in, and then it was too late.—The firſt of which was offered againſt it was from the Weſt-Indies, the ſecond from Virginia, the third from Carolina, then Mr. Jackſon produced his petition for Connecticut, which though the moſt moderate, was rejected as ſoon as read; he then offered one (committed to his care) from this government, which met with the ſame fate. The ground of rejecting all the petitions was the ſtanding order of the houſe to receive none againſt a money bill. How thoſe to whom the care of theſe ſeveral petitions was committed came to delay the preſentation of them ſo long, is unaccountable, eſpecially as ſome if not all of them were members of parliament, and all of them were reſident in England, and muſt know the conſtant uſage of parliament, never to admit a petition againſt a money bill.

We further learn, that there is not like to be any alteration with reſpect to the molaſſes duty this ſeſſion: the miniſtry chuſe firſt to have ſome experiment of its efficacy. It was affirmed by ſome of the advocates for that duty that it would produce a very great ſum of money, at leaſt 60,000 ſterling per annum, and that he was credibly informed that during the two firſt months of the commencement of the act there had been collected at Boſton 14000l. and at Charleſtown 10,000l. ſterling, whereas it was known here that during the time aforementioned, the whole of the collection did not exceed 1400l ſterling. It is from hence probable that a certain great aſſ—bly has been amuſed and carried away with idle and falſe reports, and have been made to expect great things from the late regulations, and led into meaſures that in the end will prove detrimental to Great Britain as well as her colonies—We learn that ſome relief will be granted us with reſpect to the lumber trade, and we ſhall be permitted to carry ſtaves and lumber to Ireland and the Azores, and perhaps to all places to the ſouthward of Cape Finiſterre.

That inſtead of one vice admiralty court at Halifax, there will be three appointed for all America, with a right of appeal, each of the judges are to have 800l. ſterling a year to ſet them above all corruption, one of theſe courts to be at Boſton, another at Philadelphia, and the third at Carolina.

From Quebec we have advice that by accounts received there from different parts of that province, the ſmall pox continues to rage, and with peculiar fatality to the antient inhabitants, they being prejudiced againſt inoculation on religious principles: In order to remove their prejudices, Mr. Brooke, chaplin of Quebec, is publiſhing in the Gazette, in French and Engliſh, M. de la Condamine's journal of a tour thro' Italy, &c from which it appears that innoculation is approved of at Rome, and practiſed there, and in other Italian ſtates.

NEW-YORK, May 23.

We hear his Majeſty's ſhips on the North American ſtation, under the command of the Right Hon. Admiral Lord Colvill, are ordered to Halifax in Nova Scotia, there to receive his Lordſhip's orders.

The Rev. Mr. Harry Munro, who arrived in the York, Capt. Berton, having obtained epiſcopal ordination, is, we hear, appointed by the venerable ſociety for the propagation of the goſpel in foreign parts, as their miſſionary at Philipsburg in this province.

Wedneſday Evening laſt, Capt. Fairchild, arrived here from the Bay of Honduras, which Place he left the 15th of April, by whom we learn, That Sir William Barnaby had eſtabliſhed a Civil Government in that Place, and left a Snow Man of War there for the Protection of their Trade.

PORTSMOUTH, May 17.

Laſt monday arrived here the brig Portſmouth, capt Brown from St. Croix, by whom we have advice, that the ſhip Monkton, Andrew Campbell maſter, belonging to New York, is taken by the Spaniards, on the ſouth ſide of Porto Rico, in a bay called Wanica, himſelf, people, and ſhip carried to the city.

At the ſame time and place was taken Capt. Roſs in the ſloop Induſtry; himſelf and people made their eſcape to ſhore, and the ſloop likewiſe ſent to the city.

In Capt. Hugget came paſſenger, the Rev. Mr. Wiſwall who lately went over for epiſcopal orders for a church in Falmouth. Alſo ſeveral other paſſengers.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9

Saturday laſt the Reverend Mr. GEORGE WHITEFIELD arrived here from South Carolina. On Tueſday he preached at the new preſbyterian church to a crouded auditory; and to-morrow morning, at ten o'clock, he preaches at St. Paul's church.

WILMINGTON, (in North-Carolina) March 20.

We are informed that a party of Cherokees, who lately went to hunt on the Miſſiſippi, have loſt five men, and nine women and children, killed by a nation of ſavages hitherto unknown to them.

April 3. On Thurſday the 28th of March, died, at his ſeat near Brunſwick, his Excellency Arthur Dobbs, Eſq; Captain General and Governor in Chief in and over this Province.

HARTFORD, May 27.

The New-York Poſt informs, that a few Hours before he left that City, a Packet arrived there from England.

ALL Perſons having Accounts open, with the Eſtate of Doct. JONATHAN BULL, late of Hartford deceas'd are deſired to come and adjuſt them: And thoſe indebted by Note, to make Payment, to Hartford, 27th May, 1765. HANNAH BULL, Adminiſtratrix, ABRAHAM BEACH, Adminiſtrator.

ALL Perſons indebted to ISRAEL SEYMOUR, of Hartford, are (once more) deſired to ſettle the ſame, to ſave further Trouble. (27)

STOLEN from the ſubſcriber of Goſhen, on the Weſt ſide North river, in New-York Government, on Thurſday the 16th of May inſtant, a dark bay horſe, four years old, branded thus AD on the left thigh, ſmall blaze in his face, natural pacer, about 14 hands high. The perſon that ſtole him, is an Iriſhman, about 6 feet high, and ſlim, pitted with the ſmall-pox, hallow ey'd, wears his own hair, had on a blue coat, and a jacket figur'd in imitation of ſeal-skin; he is ſomething talkative, a great ſtory teller, card player and ſong ſinger; he ſays his name is Henry Gote. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid thief and the horſe, and bring them to the ſubſcriber, or ſecure the thief in any of his Majeſty's goals, ſo that he may be brought to juſtice, and inform where the horſe is, ſo that the owner may have him again, ſhall receive a reward of FIVE DOLLARS, and all neceſſary charges, paid by me, (27) JONAS DUBOIS.

N. B. He was in Hartford laſt Monday, and the next day ſet off as is ſuppoſed, for Boſton

HEMP-SEED, warranted good, for Twenty Shillings Lawful Money, per Buſhel, to be ſold by Silas Dean at Weathersfield.

Lately Publiſhed, and to be ſold at the Printing Office in HARTFORD.

AN EXPLANATION of SAY-BROOK PLATFORM; Or, The Principles of the conſociated Churches in the Colony of Connecticut: Collected from their Plan of Union.

By One that heartily deſires the Order, Peace and Purity of theſe Churches.

At the above Place may be had,

AN Eſſay on the Nature and Foundation of MORAL VIRTUE and OBLIGATION; Being a ſhort Introduction to the Study of ETHICS.

By THOMAS CLAP, M.A.
Preſident of Yale-College, in New Haven.

Part of a Letter from London, March 16th.

"Laſt Week an Experiment was made at Salter's-Hall, " by an eminent Chymiſt, on a Sample of Pearl Aſh, made in " Connecticut, in America, and found equal to any of the " Kind, imported from the Levant. The Inventor prays for " ſome Privileges in this Manufacture, which we hear a " certain Board will ſpeedily take into Conſideration."

LONDON, March 22.

A lady deceaſed, has, by her Will, left a conſiderable ſum to pay the creditors of her nephew, who was formerly a grocer in London, and about 20 years ago, fail'd, and paid only 10s. in the pound.

Letters from America ſay, that the aſſemblies of ſeveral places are preparing a petition to the Mother country, for leave to ſend a certain number of repreſentatives to the British Parliament, from the time of the next general election.

A great Commoner, it is ſaid, intends ſpeedily to apply for leave to aſſume the name and arms of a lately deceaſed Baronet, who left him a large fortune.

We are aſſured all the forts and ſettlements to the weſtward of Cape Rouge are to remain in poſſeſſion of the African company.

From the London Magazine for March.

Friday, March 1. Being St. David's day, the following addreſs was preſented to his royal highneſs George prince of Wales, by Herbert Thomas, Eſq; treaſurer, and the reſt of the ſtewards of the ſociety of ancient Britons ſupporting a charity ſchool on Clerkenwell Green, Middleſex.

"THE members of the ſociety, who have now the honour to approach the preſence of your royal highneſs, do it with hearts full of zeal for the proſperity of your auguſt parents, the perſon of your royal highneſs, and every branch of the royal family.

United as they are in their ſentiments of loyalty and charity, they hope for the protection, and implore the patronage of your royal highneſs, for an inſtitution that educates, cloaths and ſupports many poor deſtitute natives of that principality, from which your royal highneſs derives your moſt diſtinguiſhed title.

Your royal parents remember no period of their lives too early for doing good, and when a few years ſhall call forth your virtues into action, your royal highneſs may perhaps with ſatisfaction reflect upon your faithful ancient Britons thus laying themſelves at your feet."

To which addreſs his royal highneſs, made the following anſwer:

"Gentlemen,

I thank you for this mark of your duty to the king, and wiſh proſperity to this charity."

Theſe are the very words his royal highneſs ſpoke with the greateſt propriety, attended with ſuitable action.

The treaſurer and all the ſtewards had the honor to kiſs his royal highneſs's hand.

At the ſame time his royal highneſs was moſt graciouſly pleaſed to preſent the treaſurer with an hundred guineas for the uſe of the ſaid charity.

STray'd from Joſeph Bunce of Hartford, Poſt-Rider, on the 10th inſtant, a dark bay mare, eight years old, 13 hands & an half high, a white ſlip down her face, one hind foot white, paces and trots well, branded with an S with a mark a croſs it, on her left ſhoulder, and with the figure of an anchor on her left thigh. Whoever will take up ſaid ſtray, and convey her to me the ſubſcriber, or ſend word ſo that I may have her again, ſhall have a handſome reward paid by me, 26 JOSEPH BUNCE.

N. B. Said mare has been rowel'd on her breaſt for a lameneſs in her ſhoulder. May 20, 1765.

STray'd from Jonathan Butler, of Hartford, on the 8th inſtant, a light bay Dutch horſe, 14 hands high, 7 or 8 years old, large head, ſome grey hairs on his dock, and noſe, trots, well ſet, and round bodied. Whoever will take up ſaid horſe, and ſend word, or bring him to me the ſubſubſcriber, ſhall have a handſome reward paid by 26

May 20, 1765. JONATHAN BUTLER.

NOTICE is hereby given, to all the proprietors of the townſhip of Panton, in the province of N Hampſhire, in New-England; that at a legal proprietor's meeting of ſaid proprietors, holden on the firſt monday of April, 1764, was agreed upon, and voted a rate or tax of twenty ſhillings, lawful money, on the right of each original proprietor; and I the ſubſcriber, was legally choſen by ſaid proprietors, at ſaid meeting, a collector to collect the ſame: I do hereby give public notice to ſaid proprietors, that they reſpectively pay their rate or tax to me, on or before the 20th day of July next, enſuing the date hereof. Dated in Canaan, this 16th day of May, A. D. 1765.

DAVID HOLCOMB, Collector.

AARON BULL, deſires every one indebted to him, by book, forthwith to ſettle their reſpective accounts; and thoſe indebted to him on note, to diſcharge the ſame, as he is very ſoon bound to ſea, and muſt leave his affairs that remain unſettled in the attorney's hands. May 17, 1765. (26

Choice Madeira WINE,

Retail'd by LATHROP and SMITH, in Hartford.

WE the ſubſcribers being appointed commiſſioners by the honorable court of Probate for the diſtrict of New-Haven, to receive and examine the claims of the creditors to the eſtate of Mr. Philo Mills, late of Derby deceaſed, repreſented inſolvent: We ſhall attend that buſineſs on the firſt monday of Auguſt next, and ſo on the firſt mondays of each ſucceeding Month, until the firſt Monday of March next, from two of the clock on each of ſaid days, until eight, at the dwelling houſe of Mr. Oliver Curtis, inn keeper in ſaid Derby. Dated at Derby, March the 23d, 1765.

JAMES BEARD, } Commiſ-
(25) JOSEPH HULL, jun. } ſioners.

Imported, in the Capts. Hunter and Calef, from LONDON, to BOSTON, (about a Fortnight ago) and to be ſold, by

BENJAMIN HENSHAW,

At his Shop in Middletown,

3-4, 7-8, and yard wide Iriſh hollands, of all qualities, 3 4 and 7 8 garlets, dowlaſs, ſheeting and oznabrigs, 7-8, yard wide and ſix quarter'd checks, flower'd, ſpotted, long, plain and packet lawns, cambricks: A variety of chintzes, callicoes and printed linens, bed tickings, crimſon, black, dark and light blue paduſoys, taffeties and Perſians of different colours, neweſt faſhion'd ſtriped luteſtrings, ſeveral colours; black, ditto; pelong fattin, alamode, &c crimſon, black, blue, brown and drab-colour'd broadcloths; German ſerges, ſagathees, duroys, and thickſetts of various colours; ſhalloons, callimancoes, durants and tammies of all colours; nankeens; a variety of linen and ſilk handkerchiefs; ſilk mitts, women's ruſſel and calimanco ſhoes, poplins, fans, ribbons, tapes, thread, &c. &c. &c.— Powder, ſhot, led, nails and hard ware of all ſorts.——Beſides which, he has to ſell, moſt ſorts of other Engliſh GOODS——and the beſt French indigo, by the hundred, dozen, pound or quarter; coffee, chocolate, rice, loaf and brown ſugar, rum, molaſſes, ſalt; all ſorts of braſs and copper wares; Engliſh and Dutch clover ſeed; looking glaſſes all ſizes, gilt and plain, mehogany, black walnut and common frames. Any of which he will ſell, for the caſh, or produce, as low as can be purchaſed in any ſtore in the government.

April 16th, 1765. 22 (6w)

To be ſold, by JOHN TOWNLEY,

A Few Pair of Woman and Children's, choice London made STAYS.

TO be ſold, a likely, healthy, good natured NEGRO BOY, about 15 years old. Inquire of T. Green.

SAMUEL MATTOCKS,

Perriwig-Maker, oppoſite Doctor Jepſon's, Queen-ſtreet, Hartford,

BEGS Leave to acquaint the Public, That he has hired a compleat Workman from London, who not only makes all Sorts of Wigs that are worn on the Continent; but alſo a new Faſhion lately introduced in Boſton, in Imitation of Hair: And alſo cuts and dreſſes Hair in the neateſt and neweſt Faſhion, for ſuch as ſtill continue to wear their Hair, notwithſtanding it is ſo much out of Faſhion, both in Europe and the faſhionable Parts of America. And having the Advantage of a good Aſſortment of Hair, and Trimmings in the Shop, will make it his peculiar Care and Study to give univerſal Satiſfaction to all who ſhall pleaſe to favour him with their Cuſtom; and will take for pay, Engliſh and Weſt-India Goods, Wood, and other Produce of the Country. (25)

N.B. He alſo buys all Sorts of Hair, ſuitable for Wigs.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown, oppoſite the Court-Houſe.

Sell. [illegible]

MONDAY, June 3, 1765. [Number 28.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

[As Mr. Sandeman's late tour thro' the country, to Danbury, in Connecticut, ſeems to have excited much curioſity, as to his deſign, and not a little altercation as to the ſucceſs and effect of his viſit there: The Reader may, by the [illegible] ſhort vindication in ſaid Sandeman's own Words, perhaps, not only gratify his curioſity, but learn not precipitantly to profeſs to be his diſciple, ſeeing the favourite, firſt fruit of his miniſtry being now at length diſowned by him; finding themſelves without a head, and even without a name, muſt needs remain in an unhappy maze, til (which God grant) they emerge to the ſerener regions of common ſenſe, and the clearer light of the Goſpel.]

Concluſion of Robert Sandeman's Diſcourſe on 2 Cor. 6, to the end, with the firſt verſe of chap. 7th.

—NOW it was in hopes of ſeeing proper regard paid to this command of Chriſt, that my two companions and I, came to Danbury; but as we ſee no ſuch thing, after being thirty days among you; it is high time for us to reflect, that this command ſpeaks to us, as well as to you, and obliges us to forſake this meeting, and take our leave of you, which accordingly we do, in the following words;

The ADDRESS of us, three under-named ſtrangers, to Mr. White, and his religious friends, on occaſion of our forſaking their meeting, in Danbury.

COURTIOUS FRIENDS,

THUS we are lead to addreſs you, on account of the courteſy and kindneſs, with which you have honoured us, ſince we came amongſt you. We ſhall not take up your time in telling how far we have come to ſee you, and what joy it would have given to the churches in Britain, to have heard of your order, and the ſteadfaſtneſs of your faith in Chriſt. We ſhall rather take this occaſion to return thanks for all the civilities and kindneſs you have ſhewn us, and the trouble you have put yourſelves to on our account, and to expreſs our regret, that it happens not to be in our power to return you ſuitable ſervices, as we hoped and intended. As it would be no complement to us, that you ſhould adopt any religious practice, on account of its being maintained by us, or practiſed by the churches in Britain, ſo we have no quarrel with you, as failing in point of regard to us. To your own Maſter, you ſtand or fall, even as we do. Mean while, it becomes us to deal kindly and truly with you at parting. Underſtanding that the doctrine of juſtification by faith, without works was maintained among you, we tho't fit to attend your meeting, wiſhing to ſee that doctrine working effectually in you, as in the firſt churches. We were but few days among you, when we found that ſuch a happy effect was not likely ſoon to appear. Yet we were loth to leave you abruptly, without giving time for further acquaintace, and mature deliberation. But now that we have continued thirty days, we ſee as little proſpect of the goſpel's having its proper effect among you, as at the firſt. Inſtead of the Chriſtian ſeparation to obſerve Chriſt's command of brotherly love, and the reſt of the ordinances as practiſed by the firſt churches; we ſee only the common pariſh union and worſhip. We find indeed the ſcripture doctrine of juſtification, by grace, thro' faith, and the character of the juſt God and the Saviour, held forth here, and ſeveral profeſſing regard to that doctrine. But every profeſſion of regard to that doctrine not attended with the proper fruits, will be found to be a grievous profanation, of that doctrine, and juſtly chargable with an Antinomian tendency, or a tendency to ſet aſide the obligation of the divine law, as enforced by the precepts and motives of the goſpel. We would therefore warn you to beware of provoking the Lord to jealouſy: for he is jealous for the honor of his holy name, and the credit of that doctrine by which alone it is made known, and he will ſoon or late vindicate the honor of his Holy Name, to our thorough conviction. We are ſenſible that obedience to Chriſt's commands, requires much ſelf-denial, and patience, in bearing the croſs, and in many reſpects, puts our truſt in God to the trial. But ſays the ſcripture, "They that know thy name will put their truſt in thee; for thou Lord haſt not forſaken them that ſeek thee. But he that ſaith I know him, and keepeth not his commandments is a liar, and the truth is not in him." We are too ready to place the whole of our religion in the frequent hearing of ſound doctrine, and in being able to reaſon and diſcourſe knowingly about it, and the agreeable impreſſion it has made on our hearts. But, ſays the apoſtle James, "Be ye doers of "the Word, and not hearers only, deceiving your ownſelves. "—If any men among you ſeemeth to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, this man's "religion is vain." Therefore, that we may no more ſeem to miniſter to this vain religion, we take our leave of this meeting, repeating our thanks for the courtious entertainment we have received, and wiſhing God may count you worthy to be ranked with thoſe whom Paul bleſſes as loving Chriſt in ſecerity. So pray your obliged humble ſervants, Danbury, Jan. 20th. 1765.

ROB. SANDEMAN,
JA. CURGILL,
AND. OLIPHANT.

[The foregoing is a true Copy of the original, under ſaid Sandeman's own Hand, and exhibited before the General Aſſembly, now ſitting at Hartford;—with the member of Danbury, &c.]

STray'd from Joſeph Bunce of Hartford, Poſt-Rider, on the 10th inſtant, a dark bay mare, eight years old, 13 hands & an half high, a white ſlip down her face, one hind foot white, paces and trots well, branded with an S with a mark a croſs it, on her left ſhoulder, and with the figure of an anchor on her left thigh. Whoever will take up ſaid ſtray, and convey her to me the ſubſcriber, or ſend word ſo that I may have her again, ſhall have a handſome reward paid by me, 26 JOSEPH BUNCE.

N. B. Said mare has been rowel'd on her breaſt for a lameneſs in her ſhoulder. May 20, 1765.

STray'd from Jonathan Butler, of Hartford, on the 8th inſtant, a light bay Dutch horſe, 14 hands high, 7 or 8 years old, large head, ſome grey hairs on his dock, and noſe, trots, well ſet, and round bodied. Whoever will take up ſaid horſe, and ſend word, or bring him to me the ſubſcriber, ſhall have a handſome reward paid by 26

May 20, 1765. JONATHAN BUTLER.

NOTICE is hereby given, to all the proprietors of the townſhip of Panton, in the province of N Hampſhire, in New-England; that at a legal proprietor's meeting of ſaid proprietors, holden on the firſt monday of April, 1764, was agreed upon, and voted a rate or tax of twenty ſhillings, lawful money, on the right of each original proprietor, and I the ſubſcriber, was legally choſen by ſaid proprietors, at ſaid meeting, a collector to collect the ſame: I do hereby give public notice to ſaid proprietors, that they reſpectively pay their rate or tax to me, on or before the 20th day of July next, enſuing the date hereof. Dated in Canaan, this 16th day of May, A. D. 1765.

(26) DAVID HOLCOMB, Collector.

AARON BULL, deſires every one indebted to him, by book, forthwith to ſettle their reſpective accounts; and thoſe indebted to him on note, to diſcharge the ſame, as he is very ſoon bound to ſea, and muſt leave his affairs that remain unſettled in the attorney's hands. May 17, 1765 (26

LONDON, March 26.

TIS ſaid that the American and Weſt India Governors will for the future be directed to ſend over an annual account of all public and judicial tranſactions authenticated by the aſſemblies of the ſeveral diſtricts, to prevent any inſtances of oppreſſion from being practiſed, of which it is whiſpered there is at preſent ſome apprehenſion.

April 1. Laſt week the keel of a ſecond rate man of war of 90 guns, was laid down in the king's yard at Woolwich; ſhe is to be called the Royal Charlotte, in honour of her majeſty.

April 2. We hear diſpatches were laſt week received from Ireland, of a very ſingular nature, which have already been the ſubject of a cabinet council.

We are credibly informed his Royal Highneſs the Duke of York intends to viſit Ireland this ſummer, and that his highneſs will ſet out for that kingdom ſome time in May next.

It is ſaid, that, previous to the Eſtabliſhment of Epiſcopacy in our American Colonies, ſome Clergymen of Eminence will be ſent over, to make an Enquiry into the general State of Religion, that the Miniſtry may judge how far it will be neceſſary to favour them with Indulgencies, or check them with Reſtraints.

April 3. A categorical Anſwer to the Queſtion relating to ſome late French Encroachments on the main Continent of America, is ſpeedily expected from the Court of Verſailles; by which it is ſaid, Great Britain, in conjunction with two other Powers, will be enabled to regulate certain important naval Diſpoſitions in that Part of the World.

April 4. Private Letters from Leghorn mention a Report prevailed there, that commodore Harriſon would ſoon ſtrike an important blow in the Mediterranean.

April 5. Several hundred barrels of gunpowder have this Week been ordered to be ſhipped for Minorca.

Orders this week has been received to engage ſome perſons well ſkilled in making gunpowder, to embark for New-York, where powder mills for carrying on this manufacture are going to be erected.

Several more tranſports are now engaging in the River, to ſail for Cork, to be employed in carrying over three Regiments of Foot, on the Iriſh Eſtabliſhment, to N. America.

April 6. On Thurſday laſt Mr. Claverly, one of his Majeſty's meſſengers, arrived in town from Peterſburg, and, 'tis ſaid, brought news of great importance.

April 8. It was rumoured on Saturday morning at the Weſt End of the Town, that an Anſwer of great Inſolence had been received by the laſt diſpatches from the court of Madrid.

From the accounts from abroad, and the ſtate of things, the politicians begin to talk as if a rupture muſt inevitably take place ſomewhere.

The three yatches going abroad are ordered to be ready for ſailing on or before the 25th inſtant. There are various reports with reſpect to the ſecond.

April 9. Some diſpatches of great importance are ſaid to have been received laſt Friday from the court of Berlin, the ſubject of which has not yet tranſpired.

Sir William Johnſon, at preſent in North America, is expected to arrive in England by the middle of June next, having certain important plans it is ſaid, to lay before the miniſtry, tending to the great advantage of the Britiſh American Empire, which ſome unaccountable oppoſition has hitherto rendered entirely abortive.

We hear orders have been this week tranſmitted to Quebec, and other Provinces in North America, to put a ſtop to the farther exportation of iron ordnance to any of the French or Spaniſh ſettlements in the Weſt Indies.

AN act hath paſſed this ſeſſion of parliament for puniſhing mutiny and deſertion, and a bill hath been brought in for extending the mutiny act to the colonies, by which bill it is propoſed that it ſhall and may be lawful to and for the conſtables, tithing men, magiſtrates and other civil officers of villages, towns, townſhips, cities, diſtricts and other places within his majeſty's dominions in America, and in default or abſence, for any one juſtice of the peace inhabiting in or near any ſuch village, &c, and for no others, to quarter and billet the officers and ſoldiers in his majeſty's ſervice, in the barracks provided for that purpoſe, or in public houſes, or houſes licenſed for retailing, and in caſe there ſhould not be ſufficient room therein, then, and in no other caſe it ſhall and may be lawful for any or more of his majeſty's juſtices in or near the ſaid villages, &c. and they are thereby required to billet the reſidue "in ſuch manner as hath hitherto been practiſed to billet his majeſty's forces in his majeſty's dominions in America."

It is propoſed alſo by the ſaid bill that the juſtices within or near the ſaid villages, &c. ſhall upon a requiſition of the general or the commanding officer there, be obliged to procure carriages and able drivers for the tranſporting arms and baggage, the prices whereof are to be fixed by the ſaid bill, and proviſion is therein made that the driver ſhall be paid from day to day, agreeable to the rate therein eſtabliſhed.

April 12. The Earl of Halifax, Boulderſon, is arrived from New York in 30 days.

It is confidently aſſerted that dignities in the church will ſoon be appointed for North America, and that the Rev. Mr. George Whitefield will be among the firſt named.

Its reported Lord Temple will be appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

April 13. The 29th, 52d, and 59th regiments of foot from Ireland, and two regiments from England are to embark for New-York in about three weeks.

The muſlin manufacture is now carried on with great ſucceſs at New-York under the direction of one Douglaſs, from Glaſgow.

On Saturday laſt died, after a lingering illneſs, his Gravity A. B. MONITOR, Eſq; well known among the patriots in Albermarle ſtreet as a ſteady aſſerter of the liberties of the ſubject, and a zealous promoter of the rights and privileges of Engliſhmen.

April 15. The Earl of Northington is appointed Lord High Steward for the trial of Lord Byron, which comes on to morrow.

We hear that one brief alone to be pleaded upon an enſuing trial, conſiſts of 48 ſheets of paper.

The Earl of Bute has lately paid a viſit to his royal highneſs the Duke of Cumberland.

The affair of the Manilla ranſom, with the propereſt methods to obtain ſatisfaction on that head from the court of Madrid, we are aſſured will be thoroughly inveſtigated before the breaking up of an auguſt aſſembly.

We hear that a manufacture of mill ſtones is eſtabliſhed at Quebec, which will be a great ſaving to the colonies, they being imported from abroad at a conſiderable expence.

They write from Briſtol, that 48 couple of blood-hounds were ſhipt from thence a few days ago, on commiſſion from New York, where the breed of theſe uſeful animals are to kept up, for the benefit of that province.

Recent letters from Quebec adviſe, that no leſs than ten diſtilleries are eſtabliſhed in that city, which will ſoon take off the demand of any further importation of Britiſh ſpirits from England: And from New-York, that from ſome late experiments in the diſtillation of Indian corn they have improved ſo far as to produce a ſpirit equal to the beſt Engliſh brandy

April 16. Yeſterday a rich canopy was fixed up at the upper part of the ſcaffold in Weſtminſter-hall, under which the Lord High Steward is to ſit during the trial of Lord Biron.

This morning at nine o'clock Lord Biron, properly guarded, was carried from the Tower, and paſſed over London and Weſtminiſter bridges to Weſtminſter-hall.

This morning the Right Hon. the Lord High Steward went in great ſtate from his houſe in Lincoln's-inn fields to Weſtminſter Hall. His Lordſhip had four coaches and Six; the horſes were ornamented with ribbons, &c. and there were upwards of twenty ſervants in livery. The Judges, &c. attended his Lordſhip.

Orders were given out for 500 horſe and foot guards, to mount at four o'clock this morning at Weſtminſter hall, and the places adjacent, to prevent any riotous proceedings during the trial of the Right Hon. Lord Byron, which come on this morning at ten o'clock.

We hear that the famous Turk Conjurer has two guineas an hour for his attendance. He has, it is ſaid, been introduced to a great perſonage, with whom he played at piquet. When they began to play, the Turk told the nobleman he would point him, and in whatever ſuit he named; on which, hearts was fixed on, and accordingly the Turk pointed him in hearts. The next game, was diamonds, he then pointed him in diamonds.—— The Turk preſented to the above nobleman, previous to their playing, a letter, the contents of which were, that on ſuch a day he had the honor of playing two games at piquet with ————, mentioning the great perſon, and that he pointed him once in hearts and once in diamonds; which letter was not to be opened till the games were finiſhed. He will play at Whiſt with any perſons and with any cards, and let who will ſhuffle them, he will deal the thirteen trumps to himſelf.

NEW-YORK, May 30.

Sunday laſt, Capt. Young arrived here in 22 days from Coracoa; with whom came paſſenger Capt Roſe of this place, who on the 12th of March laſt, was taken on the coaſt of Port Rico by ſome Spaniſh craft; who alſo took Capt. Campbell in a ſhip of this port, but did not kill him, as was reported, Capt. Roſe having left him alive and well the 25th of March

On Tueſday laſt week our annual commencement was held at Trinity Church in this City. His Honor the Lieutenant Governor, the Members of his Majeſty's Council, the Clergy of the City and neighbouring Governments; and an exceeding numerous, ſplendid, and brilliant Audience, honored the Solemnity with their Preſence.

BOSTON, May 30.

Faneuil-Hall Lottery Number Four began drawing laſt week.——No. 2029 came up the higheſt Prize viz. 2500 Dollars.

We hear a number of very ſerious perſons have ſigned a petition, requeſting that Mr. Sandeman may have liberty to preach in Faneuil Hall.

Since our laſt arrived here, Capt. Jacobſon, in 39 Days from London, who brought the Prints to the 15th ult.

We hear that the ſtamp act is nearly agreeable to that of the mother country, ſave the following additional clauſe, viz.

And it is hereby further enacted and declared by the authority aforeſaid, That all ſums of money granted and impoſed by this act as rates or duties, and alſo all ſums of money impoſed as forfeitures or penalties, and all ſums of money required to be paid, and all other monies herein mentioned, ſhall be deemed and taken to be ſterling money of Great Britain, and ſhall be collected, recovered and paid to the amount of the value which ſuch nominal ſums bear in G. Britain, and that ſuch monies ſhall and may be received and taken according to the proportion and value of 5s 6d. the ounce in ſilver; and that all the ſaid forfeitures and penalties which ſhall be incurred in the ſaid colonies and plantations ſhall, and may be proſecuted, ſued for, and recovered, with full coſts of ſuit, in any court of record, or in any court of admiralty in the reſpective colony or plantation where the offence ſhall be committed, or in any court of vice-admiralty appointed, or to be appointed, and which ſhall have juriſdiction within ſuch colony, plantation or place, (which courts of admiralty or vice-admiralty are hereby reſpectively authorized and required to proceed hear and determine the ſame) at the election of the informer or proſecutor: And the ſaid forfeitures & penalties which ſhall be incurred in any other part of his majeſty's dominions, ſhall and may be proſecuted, ſued for, and recovered, with full coſts of ſuit, in any court of record within the kingdom, territory or place where the offence ſhall be committed, in ſuch and the ſame manner as any debt or damage to the amount of ſuch forfeiture or penalty can or may be ſued for and recovered

PHILADELPHIA, May 23

Extract of a letter from Fort-Pitt, April 29.

"We have here about 300 Indians, and in a few days we expect a number of Shawaneſe with the priſoners, when the grand council will open."

Yeſterday the Rev. Mr. Whitefield took an affectionate leave at St. Paul's Church, of a crowded Auditory, and to-morrow morning he ſets out for New-York, in order to embark for England.

HARTFORD, June 3.

Laſt Tueſday Morning died ſuddenly, of an Apoplectick Fit, in the LVIIth Year of his Age, the Rev. Mr. ISAAC CHALKER, Miniſter of the Goſpel in Eaſtbury.

Cuſtom-Houſe, New-London, 9th May, 1765.

BY Order of the Surveyor General, all Veſſels from foreign voyages, are directed to come into New London harbour, and there enter at the Cuſtom-Houſe, before they proceed to any other part of the colony, belonging to that diſtrict.

DUNCAN STEWART, Collector.

To be ſold at public vendue, on the laſt Monday of June next, at one of the clock in the afternoon, at the dwelling-houſe of Capt. Solomon Cowls, inn-holder in Farmington, on ſix months credit, on good ſecurity:

ABout three hundred acres of good land, mainly under improvement, lying in the N. W. part of the old pariſh of ſaid Farmington, having a very good houſe and barn thereon, with a good orchard; ——— lately the property of Samuel Cole. To which a good title will be procured for the higheſt bidder, by JOHN PIERCE, and RUTH PATERSON.

(May 30th, 1765)

THE proprietors of the townſhip of Cornwal, in the province of New-Hampſhire, are hereby warned to meet at the dwelling houſe of Mr. David Beebe, innholder in Saliſbury, on the ſecond Tueſday of July next, at noon, to agree upon further meaſures to promote the ſettlement of ſaid townſhip. Application having been made, as the law of ſaid province directs.

John Hutchinſon, Juſtice of the peace.

——— To be ſold, by the Subſcriber, ———

TWO farms, one in Simſbury, in Turkey-Hills pariſh, containing 46 acres, about a mile and half from the meeting houſe, under improvements; with a ſmall dwelling-houſe on the ſame. The other ſituated in Harwinton; containing upwards of 100 acres, with a well finiſhed dwelling-houſe, and a good orchard. To be ſold on the moſt reaſonable terms, for caſh, ſtock-cattle, and part in Weſt-India goods. Inquire of JAMES PHELPS, of Windſor. (28)

ON Tueſday the 11th Day of June will be run a Race, on Saliſbury Plains, near Meſs'rs Charles and George Caldwell's Furnace, for Twenty Pounds a Side, between the Royal Nancy, owned in ſaid Saliſbury, and the Fox, owned at Mount Roſs, in Dutcheſs County. (May 20th, 1765.)

To be ſold at public vendue, on Monday the 10th inſt. at 4 o'clock P.M. at the houſe of Mr. David Bull, in Hartford,

TWO barrels and one quarter caſk of good Madeira WINE, either by the caſk, or in ten gallon lots, as beſt ſuits the purchaſers. Four months credit will be given, if deſired by the purchaſer.

June 3d, 1765.

STOLEN from the ſubſcriber, of Goſhen, on the Weſt ſide North river, in New-York Government, on Thurſday the 16th of May inſtant, a dark bay horſe, four years old, branded thus AD on the left thigh, ſmall blaze in his face, natural paces, about 14 hands high The perſon that ſtole him, is an Iriſhman, about 6 feet high, and ſlim, pitted with the ſmall-pox, hallow ey'd, wears his own hair, had on a blue coat, and a jacket figur'd in imitation of ſeal ſkin; he is ſomething talkative, a great ſtory-teller, card player and ſong-ſinger; he ſays his name is Henry Gore. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid thief and the horſe, and bring them to the ſubſcriber, or ſecure the thief in any of his Majeſty's goals, ſo that he may be brought to juſtice, and inform where the horſe is, ſo that the owner may have him again, ſhall receive a reward of FIVE DOLLARS, and all neceſſary charges, paid by me, (27) JONAS DUBOIS.

N. B. The thief was in Hartford laſt Monday, with the horſe, and next day ſet off as is ſuppoſed, for Boſton.

HEMP-SEED, warranted good, for Twenty Shillings Lawful Money, per Buſhel, to be ſold by Silas Dean at Weathersfield.

ALL Perſons having Accounts open, with the Eſtate of Doct. JONATHAN BULL, late of Hartford deceas'd are deſired to come and adjuſt them: And thoſe indebted by Note, to make Payment, to

Hartford, HANNAH BULL, Adminiſtratrix,
27th May, 1765. ABRAHAM BEACH, Adminiſtrator.

Juſt Publiſhed at Boſton, and to be ſold by

ROGER SHERMAN, Eſq;

of New-Haven;

THE Hiſtory of the Colony of the MASSACHUSETTS-BAY, from its firſt Settlement, to its incorporation, with the Colony of Plymouth, &c.

By the Honorable T. HUTCHINSON, Eſq;

Lieutenant Governor of the Maſſachuſetts.

N. B. In the ſaid Hiſtory, there are divers Things relative to the Colony of Connecticut; ſome of which are very curious.

(27)

ALL Perſons indebted to ISRAEL SEYMOUR, of Hartford, are (once more) deſired to ſettle the ſame, to ſave further Trouble. (27)

[The following is inſerted here by particular Deſire.]

ON POT-ASHES.

Proceſs for making POT ASHES; with Directions for performing it with Profit by private Families, where Wood is plentifully burnt.

The utenſils and implements neceſſary for making pot-aſh in ſmaller quantities are———

VATS for diſſolving the ſalts; which may either be round like caſks, or ſquare. They may be made of the beſt white pine, or cypreſs; and if they be round they muſt be well ſecured with iron hoops; or, if ſquare, with an oaken frame. They may be about four or five feet in depth; and of any diameter or width, according to the occaſion there may be with relation to the quantity of wood-aſhes for the making of the pot-aſh. Theſe vats muſt have a kind of falſe bottoms, formed by making a ſort of lattice-work, or grate, by placing boards with the edge upwards, croſs each other; ſo that the ſpaces, or areas, betwixt them may be about five inches ſquare, and eight inches deep; the cavities or hollows formed by theſe boards, muſt communicate with each other freely, by holes cut in the lower edge where it reſts on the real bottom of the vat; and a vent muſt be made into one of them on the ſame level, by means of a cock, in order to draw off any fluid from them, or in the place of ſuch lattice, bricks may be laid at the diſtance of four inches from each other on the real bottom of the vat.

A receiver for the lye, which may be any kind of wooden veſſel, that can be conveniently placed under the cock of the diſſolving vats; and will contain the lye as it runs off.

Vats for containing, and keeping the ſtrong lye till the time of evaporation, or the weak lye till it can be put upon freſh aſhes, for rendering it of due ſtrength; which may be casks, or any other kind of veſſel that is tight and will hold the due quantity.

A caldron of iron for evaporation, where larger quantities are in queſtion, which may be ſet in the manner of a copper for domeſtic uſes; and may be greater or leſs according to the quantity of aſhes employed for the making of pot aſh. But where private families intend only to employ the aſhes produced by their own fires, or with ſome additional quantity, not great, an iron pot, ſuch as is uſually had for dreſſing victuals, or other like uſes, may be beſt employed, and requires only to be hung over a kitchen or other domeſtic fire; by which the expence of fuel and trouble of ſeparate attendance may be ſaved in the principal part of the evaporation.

An iron rake, with cloſe teeth, for ſeparating bits of wood unburnt, or reduced only to the ſtate of coal, from the aſhes.

A ſtrong broad iron chiſel, with a wooden mallet, for cutting the ſalt out of the caldron, or pot, after the evaporation.

A pair of ſmall common ſcales, with two phials of equal contents and weight, for determining the ſtrength of the lye.

Pot-aſhes are the fixed ſalt extracted from the aſhes of burnt vegetables; and may be obtained from any kind of wood found in North America, except ever greens, which abound in turpentine; as the pines, firs, cypreſs, cedars &c. But though moſt kinds will afford ſome proportion, yet the large foreſt trees, whoſe leaves fall in the winter, ſuch as oak, aſh, beach, &c. when felled in a ſtate of decline from their age, and ſoon after committed to the fire, yield the greateſt quantity.

The wood may be either burnt for domeſtic uſes, in common hearths or ſtoves, or purpoſely for the aſhes, on any dry flat ſpot of ground: but where a work is intended to be carried on at all times of the year, a kiln built of any commodious form with iron bars over a capacious aſh hole, ſecured from being flooded by rain or melted ſnow from the contiguous ground, is moſt convenient. The wood ſhould be thoroughly burnt, and where there appear to be any remaining bits in an unburnt coaly ſtate, they ſhould be carefully raked out by the means of the iron rake above deſcribed, and thrown again on the fire.

As ſoon as the aſhes can be removed from the place where they are burnt, let them be put into a cask, or laid on a floor in a ſhed; and gently moiſtened, and worked together, till they form a ſtiff paſte-like maſs, in which ſtate they ſhould be rammed as cloſe together as poſſible, and kept about three weeks, or till ſuch longer time, as there may be a proper quantity collected for extracting the ſalt.

When the aſhes are thus ready, let them be put into one of the vats above deſcribed; the lattice, or grate of which muſt be firſt covered with coarſe wheaten or rye ſtraw, about the thickneſs of a foot, and in this vat they muſt be well rammed together as they are put in. When the vat is thus filled with them, let the ſurface be hollowed towards the middle, ſo as to form as it were a baſon to receive the water to be poured in. This hollow or baſon may be four or five inches deep, and muſt not extend quite to the edge of the vat, but muſt leave a ſmall margin or ſhoulder of aſhes to prevent the liquor from flowing to the ſides of the vat and finding a paſſage there, inſtead of ſoaking equally through the whole maſs.

When the vat is thus prepared, fill the baſon or hollow in the aſhes full of ſoft water, till they will imbibe no more, and then, after ſtanding ſome time, turn the cock at the bottom of the vat, and draw off as much of liquor, which will now, the ſalts being diſſolved, become a lye, into the receiver mentioned above. Remove the receiver, and put freſh water on the aſhes, ſupplying the baſon from time to time, til what runs off be void of taſte or ſmell.

By this means, a ſtronger and weaker kind of lye will be obtained; which muſt be put into ſeparate vats, and, if the ſtrong contain a ſufficient proportion of ſalt, it will be ready for evaporation. To know this, the moſt certain method is to weigh it againſt other lye made of the firſt degree of ſtrength; which may be moſt eaſily practiſed by filling two phials of equal contents and weight with each kind, and obſerving the difference. But it is not required that theſe ſhould be of any preciſe ſtandard, only that it ſhould be as ſtrong as it can conveniently be made, to ſave time in the evaporation. A moderate deficience of ſtrength therefore may be allowed, as the trouble occaſioned by bringing it to the full ſtrength would be greater, than that of evaporating it; and if it will float an egg it may be ſuffered to paſs where there is no inconveniency in prolonging the evaporation. When however, the firſt lye is found too weak it muſt be put on freſh aſhes, and drawn off as before directed, till it become of due ſtrength. The weaker lye or ſecond running muſt alſo be put on freſh aſhes for the ſame reaſon, and in the ſame manner, and if none be ready at the time, it muſt be kept till a freſh quantity be obtained.

The lye being obtained of due ſtrength, it muſt be either evaporated in an iron caldron, in a proper furnace, as above mentioned, where large quantities of pot aſh are to be prepared, or where only ſmaller quantities are in queſtion, in the iron pot. In which latter caſe the greater part of the evaporation may be performed on the fire of a kitchen, or other room that is large enough to admit of boiling in the pot.

In the evaporation of lye in the caldron, the fire muſt be kept as ſtrong as is practicable without occaſioning the fluid to boil over; and, as the quantity diminiſhes by exhalation, it muſt be again renewed, till the caldron will receive no more without being more than four-fifths full; or till the whole quantity of lye to be evaporated be put in. The fire ſhould however be abated, when the ſalt appears to form on the ſurface, to prevent the waſte, and other inconveniencies of an exploſive bubling that may otherwiſe throw part of it out of the caldron; and the heat muſt be continued under due regulation with relation to this accident, till the watry exhalation be wholly finiſhed. After which, even if the fire be increaſed, part of the matter will remain in a ſtate of a blackiſh brown fluid, for ſome hours, where the quantity is not ſmall; though, the heat being duly kept up, the whole will become ſolid; of a ſtone-like hardneſs, and light brown colour.

The ſame method muſt be followed when the iron pot is uſed, over a common fire, till the water be wholly evaporated. After which, this kind of fire, being inſufficient to bring the ſalt to a due ſtate of dryneſs, a ſtronger muſt be ſupplied to finiſh the operation, which may be made in this manner: Take off the pot from the firſt fire, and chuſing a proper dry ſpot of ground in the open air, let the three feet of it be there raiſed a foot or more from the ground, by means of bricks laid on each other, with the ends pointing to the center of the pot, and not paſſing further under the feet than may be juſt neceſſary for their reſting firmly on them. Put under the pot, and betwixt the bricks, pieces of dry wood of a convenient ſize; as alſo chips to make them burn more commodiouſly, and having ſet them on fire, keep a due heat as before directed in the caſe of the caldron, till the matter be dry and hard; which may be eaſily done by ſupplying fuel on each ſide of the pot, as it appears wanting.

When the maſs is perfectly dry in the caldron, or pot, ſuppreſs the fire, and as ſoon as the diminution of the heat renders it practicble, cut it out with the chiſel above mentioned, and pack it up in tight casks that will ſecure it from the air. This kind of pot-aſh is not the ſame with the Ruſſian, or any other except ſome that has been brought here from America; but being a purer ſort, is ſuperior in value, and when juſtly ſold bears a greater price, as it may be uſed with more advantage in the making hard ſoap, which occaſions the far greateſt conſumption of theſe kind of ſalts.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown, oppoſite the Court-Houſe.

MONDAY, June 10, 1765. [Number [illegible]]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

—— "We formerly kept a Maid-Servant, but " ſince my Girls have been growing up, ſhe" (my Wife)
" is unwilling to indulge them in Idleneſs; for as the For" tunes I ſhall give them will be very ſmall, we intend not to " breed them above the rank they are likely to fill hereafter,
" nor to teach them to deſpiſe or ruin a plain huſband."

Hiſt. of Jos. Andrews, Vol. ii. P. 76.

THE preſent melancholy ſtate of the nothern Engliſh Colonies, is univerſally perceiv'd, and very juſtly lamented. Poverty and Dependency, are the peculiar Characteriſtics of New-England; to both which Calamities our own Extravagance, Indiſcretion and falſe Politics have given birth. This Conſideration as it gives us regret of our paſt Conduct, ſo it gives us a Proſpect of a poſſible Redreſs.

Inſtead of runing into all the particular Branches of our bad Oeconomy (which are unhappily very numerous.) I ſhall confine myſelf to the Method of educating Daughters, which obtains among the faſhionable Part of our Country, a Method too well known to need a Deſcription, and too culpable to admit of even an Attempt towards a Vindication.

I am very willing to allow the Fair Sex to be the moſt beautiful and lovely Part of the Creation, and to poſſeſs many excellent Endowments to which the Male Sex have no Pretence. At the ſame Time they muſt not think me cruel, in claiming for the Men a ſuperior Genius in poletical Calculations. Indeed there is needful no very high Degree of political Knowledge to prognoſticate the Downfal of a Man, worth but 300l. whoſe Wife, and Daughters, uſe Cambrick, Silk, and Velvet, for their ordinary Wear, and ſpend more than Half their Time in Cards, Viſits, Dances, Talk and Tea.

The People throughout our King's Dominions, ſeem to vie with each other, in Extravagance. Throughout the Whole, there are zealous Efforts in every ſingle Perſon to imitate the Perſon next above him, and in every Town to equal next higher in Wealth, Popularity and Politeneſs. Thus by a Chain of the moſt ridiculous Mimickry, the Faſhions of London, are communicated to the pooreſt, meaneſt Town in Connecticut. It raiſes the Merriment of any Wit, the Indignation of any Patriot, to behold the Manners and Faſhions of the Ladies walking in St. James's Park, copied by the Female Quality of S—ff—d and N—F——d in Connecticut. From the Metropolis of Great Britain, theſe Manners and Faſhions are conveyed to Briſtol, from Briſtol they are traſported to Boſton in New England, from Boſton they travel to Hartford; thence to C—w—l and N—F——d.

'Tis well known, that the principal Deſign of the unmarried Part of Womenkind (the Part moſt addicted to extravagant Expence) is, to make themſelves amiable in the Eyes of the other Sex: This is the grand Point for the Accompliſhment whereof, all their Dreſs, Conduct and Diſcourſe are calculated. Therefore, it is becauſe they ſuppoſe the ſpending their Parent's Eſtate, and their own Time in Folly and Trifles, is the moſt likely Way to ingratiate them with the Men, that they run into Practices ſo ruinous to their Country. And it would cure theſe charming Creatures of their Folly, to conſider that ſuch Conduct will recommend them only to the more vain, inconſiderate and profligate Part of our Sex. The better and wiſer Part of us are very far from chooſing a Wife merely according to outſide Appearance, eſpecially when that Outſide is profuſely poliſhed at the Expence of a poor, honeſt Father's Ruin.

Who, without the moſt melancholy Apprehenſion can behold in this poor Colony, more than a Thouſand Ladies, each of whom coſts not leſs than 30l. per Annum in Board, Cloathing and Attendance, Half of which ſhe does not earn? Here is a clear annual Loſs of more than 15,000l. which, together with the ill Example of above a Thouſand Pair of idle Hand gives us too ſure a Preſage of our ſhortly obtaining the Appellation of a BANKRUPT COLONY.

All theſe Ladies cannot expect to obtain Huſbands able to ſupport them and their Children in Grandeur and Inactivity, for which a Huſband muſt be worth 200l. per Annum. And how, can they endure the Expectation of ruining the Man who loves them more than all other wordly Things, and for whom they ought to have an equal Affection; and of bringing a Number of Children into the World to be miſerable? Children who are to have Poverty entailed on them by their Parent's Idleneſs and Pride, to be tainted by their Parent's bad Example; who are likely to be left in ſuch a Condition as to be neceſſitated either to ſtarve, or procure their Livelihood in ſome diſhoneſt Way.

INTONSUS CATO.

The following is from the Public Ledger.

LONDON, April 1.

NOtwithſtanding it has been frequently mentioned in your papers by ſeveral gentlemen, that our colonies were in a moſt flouriſhing ſituation, and that it was very hard they ſhould reap all the advantages ariſing from the freedom of a Britiſh conſtitution, without ſubſcribing ſomething towards the prodigious ſums, which in the courſe of the late war have been laid out in its defence; yet I muſt differ very much in opinion from your correſpondents, with regard to the opulence of the colonies. I am in trade myſelf, Sir, and formerly had conſiderable orders from the plantations; but within theſe three or four years, my buſineſs had not only viſibly decreaſed, but even the little I do ſend to that part of the world is ſo ill paid, that I have almoſt determined to diſcontinue my connections there, and not for the ſake of a very trifling profit, run the hazard of loſing the whole. Every Gentleman who knows any thing of the American commerce, knows very well that not above an eighth of the orders, which were ſent over in 1763, came over during the courſe of the laſt year; and they alſo know very well that remittances from our colonies have been ſo extremely precarious, that it would be a degree of the greateſt raſhneſs to truſt them with any capital quantity of goods.

The reaſon of this decline in the plantation trade has been a thouſand and a thouſand times mentioned. The only commerce of conſiderable advantage which our colonies carried on, was with the neighbouring French and Spaniſh ſettlements who paid a very high price for their goods. This enabled them to ſend orders of a moſt extenſive nature every year, for the various manufactures of the mother country, and put it alſo in their power to be religiouſly punctual in the payment of their bills. The mother country however thro' a ſtrange principle of policy tho't proper ſome time ago to lay reſtriction upon this trade, between our colonies and the French and Spaniſh ſettlements. By this means our colonies have been deprived of the moſt material channel of their opulence, and conſequently rendered utterly unable to aſſiſt the mother country to any degree of importance, by the purchaſe of its various commodities and manufactures.

This is in ſhort the whole ſtate of the caſe, and we may exclaim as much as we think proper about the little advantages which our colonies produce; but our exclamations will be attended with no ſalutary effects till we remove the cauſe of complaint, and reſtore the plantations to their former privileges.—This we ought to do as ſpeedy as poſſible, as there is but too much reaſon to ſuppoſe ſome other European nations will eſtabliſh free ports in America, and prevent the poſſibility of this beneficial traffic ever to return to our hands.

A MERCHANT.

LONDON.

Feb. 28. As the Iſle of Man is at preſent the ſubject of converſation, the following ſhort account of it, and its Kings, or Lords, may not be diſagreeable:

MAN, or MONA of the antients, lies between Ireland and Cumberland, at the diſtance of about twenty five miles from the latter; and is in length thirty miles, and in breadth fifteen, but in ſome places only eight miles: the ſoil produces flax, hemp, oats, barley, and wheat; there is great abundance of fiſh on its coaſt; and its inhabitants ſpeak a mixture of the Iriſh and Norvegian tongues; from hence called Manks. It is divided into ſeventeen pariſhes, and two caſtles and five towns; and its inhabitants are computed ſix or ſeven thouſand ſouls. Godred, in 1065, of the Norvegian race, is reckoned the firſt King; and Magnus, the third of Norway and Denmark, and fourteenth King of Man, was the laſt of the race; for in 1266 the Scots diſpoſſeſſed him thereof; and in 1340 William Montacute, the great Earl of Saliſbury, won it from the Scots, and ſold it to Lord Scroope, who being condemned for treaſon, Henry the fourth gave it to Piercy Earl of Northumberland. But he oppoſing his ſovereign in 1403, it was given to Stanley, Earl of Derby, predeceſſor to the Earls of that name, in whoſe family it continued till the late Duke of Athol, by marriage, acquired right thereto; and the preſent Duke of Athol is the twentieth King, or Lord, in Man, of the Engliſh race, from William Montacute Earl of Saliſbury. Its government is peculiar; they are kings in effect, though but Lords in title, as having all kinds of power and juriſdiction over the inhabitants, under the fief and ſovereignty of the crown of England; it has a Biſhop, whom the Lord nominates, and preſents to the King of England for his approbation, and then to the Archbiſhop of York for conſecration; but the Biſhop has no ſeat in parliament. From the iſland, in a clear day may be ſeen England, Scotland, and Ireland at once.

Among other peculiarities in the iſle of Man, there is a ſtanding law, That no perſon ſhall leave the iſland if he owes a ſhilling; and no boatman carry him off: if he does, he forfeits his boat, and is liable to pay the debt. If the perſon is aboard, the arreſt is by throwing a ſtone into the boat.

We hear from Portſmouth, that a curious mechanick in the ſhip building branch, is employed in conſtructing a kind of boat after the manner of an Indian prow, uſed by the natives of Gaum and other Maryan iſlands, with which he will undertake in good weather to paſs between Dover and Calais in ſeventy-five minutes.

Genoa, March 1 The courts of Madrid and Liſbon are now perfectly reconciled, and determined to abide by their laſt treaty. The court of Liſbon is taking every neceſſary precaution to preſerve tranquility at home, and ſecure their ſettlements abroad. The experience they have had of their national troops, has determined them to do without foreigners for the future; and though they have a juſt ſenſe of the ſervice rendered them by a certain court, they hope never to be reduced again to the ſituation they were in in the year 1761.

Madrid, March 12 The reſult of the council of war, which ſat to enquire into the conduct of the officers employed in the defence of the Havana, is, that Don Juan de Prado, Governor of the Havana and the iſland of Cuba; the Marquis de Real Tranſporte, commander in chief of the fleet there, and Don Diego Tabares, a member of the council of war; the Count de Superunda, Lieutenant General and Preſident of the council of war; and Don Diego Tabares, a member of the ſaid council, ſhall be deprived of all their millitary employments, and be baniſhed 40 leagues from court for ten years, and that their effects ſhall be imployed to make ſatiſfaction for the damage occaſioned by the loſs of the abovementioned place, both to his Majeſty's finances and the commerce of his ſubjects. The cheif engineer is deprived of his military employments for two years and to be baniſhed during that time 40 leagues from court; the ſecretary of the council of war is declared to be unfit for that employment for the future, on account of his want of exactitude in minuting the ſeveral proceedings of the ſaid council.

NEW-YORK, June 6.

The Six Nations, with the Delawares of Suſquehanna, who were long expected by Sir William Johnſon, arrived at Johnſon-Hall the 6th of May; and we are aſſured have agreed to the particulars recommended to them by the king's orders. The Delawares of Ohio, with thoſe of Suſquehanna, have ſubſcribed to a treaty of peace, which muſt prove very advantageous if duly obſerved; and their readineſs upon this occaſion has a very promiſing appearance. The latter have left their two chiefs as hoſtages, until they bring down ſome priſoners & Negroes amongſt them; and the Senecas have done the ſame, as there are yet ſome priſoners amongſt them. The number of Indians aſſembled on this occaſion, exceeded 900: They were to go to their reſpective homes a few days after the 16th of May; and the priſoners, &c. were to be delivered up within forty days; to which time there is reaſon to expect they will be punctual, as there are ſo many of their chiefs hoſtages at preſent at Sir William's [illegible] whoſe enlargements muſt be greatly deſired by the ſeveral nations.

Tueſday laſt a Scotch young lad named Thomſon, bathing himſelf in the North river, was carried off by the tide and drowned. His body was found the next day by ſome fiſhermen in drawing their net.

Friday laſt Capt. Tingley arrived here from Briſtol, which place he left the 17th of April, in company with the Snow Delaware, Capt. Blyth, for this port.

The Grace, capt Chambers, from this port, arrived at Briſtol, two or three days before Capt. Tingly ſail'd.

Capt. Tingley informs us that when he left Briſtol it was reported there, that his Majeſty was much indiſpoſed, and 'twas ſaid he was troubled with the ſame diſorder of which his father died, viz. an impoſthume in his breaſt.

Laſt week ſeveral artificers ſet out from hence for Skensborough, in order to erect griſt and other mills for the convenience of the ſettlers.

Saturday afternoon Capt. Paynter arrived here from S. Kitt's in 14 days: He ſays a brig arrived there from Philadelphia the day before he failed; and that the account we publiſhed ſome time ago of part of the iſland of Dominico being deſtroyed by an earthquake was without foundation.

By a veſſel juſt arrived from Albany we have the melancholy news, that on Sunday afternoon the 19th of laſt month, a dreadful fire happened in the city of Montreal in Canada. It began in the houſe of Mr. Crolton in Market ſtreet, and there being no engines in order, nor a ſufficient number of buckets to be had, and the wind being very high the flames ſpread with great rapidity on both ſides the ſtreet, and conſumed 108 houſes. The damage was ſuppoſed to be at leaſt 150,000l. ſterling. We cannot learn by what accident the fire was occaſioned nor by what means it was ſtopped. We hear no lives were loſt.

The Earl of Halifax Packet Boat, Capt. Boulderſon, ſails on Saturday, with the mail for England.

BOSTON, June 6.

On Thurſday evening laſt departed this life the honorable Thomas Lechmere, Eſq; late ſurveyor general of his Majeſty's cuſtoms for the northern diſtrict of America, and brother to the late Lord Lechmere. His remains were honorably interred on Monday laſt.

Tueſday laſt our moſt gracious ſovereign King GEORGE III. entered the 28th year of his age: On which occaſion his excellency the captain general's troops of guards, commanded by brigadier Royal, and company of cadets, commanded by colonel Jarvis, and the regiment of militia in this town, commanded by colonel Jackſon, with the company of the train of artillery belonging thereto, were all muſtered, and perform'd their ſeveral exerciſes in the training field: After which the whole marched into King ſtreet, where three vollies were fired by each of them reſpectively, followed by a diſcharge of the field pieces eleven times, and of the guns at Caſtle William and at the two other batteries in town. The company of cadets provided a ſumptuous dinner at the bunch of grapes, to which were invited his excellency the governor, his honor the lieutenant governor, the officers of his Majeſty's navy and army that were in town, and ſeveral other gentlemen. In the evening his excellency the governor, the honorable his Majeſty's council, the honorable houſe of repreſentatives, the civil and military officers, and a number of other gentlemen, met at Faneuil Hall, where his Majeſty's and other loyal Healths, were drank; and the whole conducted with great decency and good order.

Laſt Thurſday afternoon a number of very ſerious perſons aſſembled at Maſons-hall, to whom Mr. Sandeman delivered a very ingenious diſcourſe from Acts xiii. 38.

HALIFAX, May 23.

Monday laſt was executed here Cornelius Driſcol and David Lawler, for the murder of Owen Kervan and Ann Mullins; they were afterwards hanged in gibbets at Dartmouth. James Donnelly, Joſhua Smith, and David Taylor, are ſentenced to be hang'd on Tueſday next, for theft.

Friday laſt Capt. Napper, in a ſnow from New-York for London, put in here. About 100 leagues to the eaſtward, his veſſel was ſtruck by lightning and three of his people inſtantly killed, two more much hurt, and the veſſel greatly damaged.

BOSTON, June 6

Yeſterday arrived at Marblehead, Capt. Clouſton, and Capt. Lowell, both from Liverpool, in 5 weeks: in the latter came paſſenger Capt. [illegible], by whom we have the London Prints to the 19th of April, from which we have the following paragraphs:

LONDON, April 17 to 19.

IT is ſaid an exchange of territory is now upon the carpet between the courts of Copenhagen and London, by which the former is to enjoy certain lands in ſome of the new Britiſh American colonies, in return for the Daniſh iſland of St. Thomas, lying under the equinoctial, of great advantage to the Engliſh commerce on the coaſt of Africa.

Letters from Toulon of the 26th ult. adviſe, that the fleet of four frigates and four xebeques, which have been fitting out there, would be ready to ſail in a few days; and were to be joined by a bomb ketch.

A coalition among the Great, it is very confidently ſaid, will take place before the breaking up of the parliament.

They write from Quebec, that upwards of fifty thouſand hard dollars have already been taken ſince the peace, in exchange for various kinds of iron work, the manufacture of Canada, exported to the Spaniſh ſettlements in S. America.

Near thirty bakers were engaged to go over to Eaſt and Weſt Florida.

Letters from Gottingen, of the 6th inſtant, poſitively aſſert that Dr. Klatich, belonging to the univerſity there, had actually cured upwards of fifty perſons of the tooth ach by the application of a loadſtone. He places the patients with their faces towards the north, and touching the teeth with a magnet, procures them eaſe in three or four minutes.

It is ſaid, that a Gentleman of the Turf won no leſs than 50,000l in two matches and one bett, laſt Newmarket meeting.

It is confidently ſaid, the prohibiting the exportation of corn for a time limitted, will very ſpeedily take place.

It is ſaid our court have been requeſted to join with no leſs than three maratime powers, to check the exorbitant inſolence of the Moors on the coaſts of Barbary, by whom the European trade in the Mediterranean has, for ſome time paſt been intolerably harraſſed.

The various reports concerning an approaching change in the office of Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, we are aſſured are groundleſs.

In the laſt diſpatches from the Earl of Rochford at Madrid, it has been aſſured, on the faith of the catholic miniſtry, that the court of Spain have not the leaſt intention to interfere in diſputes which may happen between the French and Engliſh on the coaſts of Africa.—A nobleman of the firſt diſtinction will be ſoon ſent over to Portugal, with a commiſſion to ſpeak, in very plain terms about the obſtructions which our commerce daily meet with from the miniſterial machinations of that kingdom—Friday ſome diſpatches of importance were ſent off to the Earl of Hertford at Paris—From Amſterdam there is advice, that the Dutch at Batavia have for ſome time paſt, been meditating an expedition of conſequence in the Eaſt Indies.

The Lawyers ſay that the Writ of Attachment againſt Mr. Almon will not be iſſued before the third or fourth day of Term.

This Day both Houſe of Parliament met for the Diſpatch of Buſineſs.

Wedneſday Morning the Right Honorable Houſe of Peers in Weſtminiſter Hall, found Lord BYRON guilty of Felony, but not of Murder.

By a calculation made in France, the value of the imports during laſt year from the Iſlands of Hiſpaniola, Martinico, and Guadaloupe, into that kingdom, amounted to upwards of ninety ſeven millions of livers; about four millions two hundred pounds ſterling.

Letters from Carthagena mention, the orders were juſt received from Court to fit out the St. Iſidore, Galera, and Thoulouſe Spaniſh frigates, of thirty ſix guns each, in order to proceed on an important expedition to the coaſt of Barbary to be joined by a conſiderable naval force from Toulon. Their deſtination was ſaid to be againſt Mogador.

A general review of all his Majeſty's ſhips of war is expected to take place ſome time this month.

Three ſhips of war have this week been appointed from the Eaſt-Indies, and it is reported they will have orders to take the route of the Phillipine iſlands, to execute a commiſſion of great conſequence to the honor and dignity of this nation: The affair of the Manilla ranſom, with the proper methods to obtain ſatiſfaction on that head from the court of Madrid, we are aſſured will be thoroughly inveſtigated before the breaking up of an auguſt aſſembly.—We hear that an order will ſoon be iſſued, by which the gentlemen of the army are to wear nothing but their regimental [illegible].

Some letters from Vienna adviſe, that a miſunderſtanding had lately riſen between that Court and the King of Pruſſia; the conſequence of which was much dreaded.

We hear that the ladies, who through the dirt of the laſt winter or two, dragged out many a yard of ſilks at their tails, are now come to a reſolution of diſplaying their induſtry, by introducing gowns ſo ſhort that they may convince the gentlemen that they have no holes in their ſtockings.

KINGSTON, in Jamaica, March 16.

On Tueſday a cauſe of great expectation came on at the ſupreme court of judicature, upon an action of damages, againſt a gentleman for non performance of a promiſe of marriage made to a young lady; when the jury gave the plaintiff 3400l. damages, with coſts of ſuit.

ANNAPOLIS, in Maryland, May 23.

Tueſday laſt, at our county court, nine young gentlemen who had ſtudied the law in town, were admitted to the bar: And we hope they will prove an honor to their country.

Extract of a Letter from the Eaſtern Shore.

"The great ſcarcity of money, low markets abroad for the produce of the Plantations, the heavy reſtraints and impoſitions the colonies are already laid under (excluſive of the intolerable ones we have great reaſon to ſurmiſe impending) are ſufficient to ſtrike a damp into the moſt ſerene minds."

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.

The act for a ſtamp duty, no ways milder than the reſolves, take place the firſt of November next.

John Hughes Eſq; for this province, and William Coxe, Eſq; for New-Jerſey, are appointed Stamp Officers.

Tueſday laſt arrived the Sally, Capt. Gould, in ten weeks from Liſbon, who informs us that all was quiet there when he left it. On his paſſage the 9th inſt. in lat. 34, long. 65. ſpoke the ſhip Peggy, Hugh Ree, maſter, from Maryland to Briſtol, out 12 days all well.

PORTSMOUTH, New-Hampſhire, May 27.

Laſt Friday arrived here his Majeſty's ſhip Fortune, Capt. Biſhop, for the protection of trade.

Yeſterday arrived here Capt. Elliot, from Canſo, who informs, that about three weeks ago, a ſchooner belonging to Kittery, on a fiſhing voyage, was caſt away at a place called White-Head, near Canſo, the veſſel with one of the hands, and about 40 Quintals of fiſh loſt.

HARTFORD, June 10.

About Ten Days ſince, a Dwelling Houſe, in Lebanon, (one of the new ſettled Townſhips in New-Hampſhire Province) took Fire, while the Family were from Home, and entirely conſumed it, and an adjoining Crib of Corn; thirteen Fating Hogs, which were in a Sty near the Houſe, were alſo deſtroyed by the Flames.

Laſt Monday Evening, the General Aſſembly of this Colony then ſitting in this Town, ended their Spring Seſſion.

They have made ſeveral new Laws, among which is an Act of Inſolvency.

Jared Ingerſol Eſq; of New Haven, now in England, is appointed to the Commiſſion of receiving the Stamp Duties, to be collected in this Colony. It is ſaid he is to have a Sallery of 300l. per Annum.

We hear from Canterbury, that on the 27th ult. a young Man named Dana, Son to Mr. Iſaac Dana of Pomfret, going into the River to waſh himſelf, was unfortunately drowned.

Hebron, June 6, 1765.

Yeſterday being the Wedneſday after Trinity Sunday, there was, in this Town, a Convention of the Clergy of the Church of England, belonging to Connecticut: The Rev'd Mr. Leaming, of Norwalk, preached an ingenious and pathetic Sermon, on 1 Cor iv. 1. to great Satiſfaction. The Rev'd Mr. Hubbard of Guilford, read Prayers, with much Approbation. The Convention for the Year 1766, is appointed to be held at New-Milford; when the Rev'd Mr Mansfield of Derby is nominated to preach.

Extract of a Letter from Paris.

The ſtory of the Hiena, that was ſaid to have ſpread terror through a part of the ſouthern provinces in France, and to have devoured ſeventeen or eighteen perſons, is an allegory, invented by ſome malignant Jeſuit, to render the proteſtants odious. It is deſigned to inſinuate that the proteſtants on a late occaſion, carried their reſiſtance to their perſecutors ſo far as to kill ſeveral perſons, which is a notorious falſhood. The Hiena, in the account of it, is ſaid to have eſcaped from the collection of beaſts in the poſſeſſion of the Duke of Savoy, and in this circumſtance is pointed out the proteſtants, who are conſidered as deriving their principles from the antient Waldenſes, who inhabited the vallies of Piedmont, and were the earlieſt promoters of the reformation. The dragoons ſent to catch or deſtroy the Hiena from the trueſt, or at leaſt the moſt probable part of the allegory, as it is well known that thoſe booted apoſtles, with their weighty arguments of fire and ſword, are the principal inſtruments that have been employed in all popiſh countries (and particularly in France, notwithſtanding the politeneſs and humanity of that nation) to convert the Proteſtants.—It is certain that the attempts of the Roman Catholics, and particularly the Jeſuits, to blacken the Proteſtants, and to render them odious, are conſtantly renewed with peculiar virulence, when the French court or parliament are ſuppoſed to entertain ſentiments of moderation or humanity towards theſe innocent victims of bigotry and ſuperſtition. The ſentiments of the king and miniſtry towards the Proteſtants are at this time, ſentiments of benignity and compaſſion; and tho' they do not tend to favour their opinions, yet may contribute to their obtaining ſome of thoſe civil privileges, that belong to them as good ſubjects, and which they have been hitherto moſt barbarouſly deprived of. Several men of credit and abilities, who have been conſulted by the miniſtry about the means of repairing the exhauſted ſtrength of this kingdom, by giving a new vigour to agriculture, trade and manufactures, have boldly declared the reſtoration of the famous edict of Nantes, as the moſt effectual method of obtaining theſe ends, and of bringing ſuddenly into the nation immenſe ſums of money, and a multitude of uſeful and induſtrious hands. It is not, however, to be expected that royal clemency or miniſterial moderation will ſo far defy the indignation and threatnings of a tyrannical prieſthood as to re-eſtabliſh this equitable edict; but it is certain, that the memorial of the Proteſtants lately preſented to his Majeſty, in which they deſire that their marriages may be rendered legitimate, and their children no longer treated as baſtards, incapable of inheriting, * has met with a favourable reception; and if the parliaments, which ſeem diſpoſed generally ſpeaking (if we except the unrighteous one at Thoulouſe) to lighten the burthen of theſe worthy and loyal ſubjects, conſent to this requeſt, it will certainly meet with no oppoſition from the throne."

---

* All thoſe children whoſe parents were married by a Proteſtant, and not a Popiſh clergyman, are in France reputed baſtards; and no Proteſtant can be married there by a Romiſh prieſt without abjuring his religion, and adopting the odious form of abjuration compoſed by order of Pope Pius II.

TAKEN up (as a ſtray) by the ſubſcriber of Wintonbury, on Tueſday the 4th Inſtant, a brown mare, about 12 years old, 14 hands high, branded I on the near ſhoulder, blaze in her face, near hind foot white, paces and trots.

The owner may have her again, on proving his property and paying charges. Inquire of

JOHN PARSONS.

To be ſold at public vendue, on the laſt Monday of June next, at one of the clock in the afternoon, at the dwelling-houſe of Capt. Solomon Cowls, inn-holder in Farmington, on ſix months credit, on good ſecurity:

ABout three hundred acres of good land, mainly under improvement, lying in the N. W. part of the old pariſh of ſaid Farmington, having a very good houſe and barn thereon, with a good orchard;——lately the property of Samuel Cole. To which a good title will be procured for the higheſt bidder, by JOHN PIERCE, and

(May 30th, 1765) RUTH PATERSON.

Cuſtom-Houſe, New-London, 9th May, 1765.

BY Order of the Surveyor-General, all Veſſels from foreign voyages, are directed to come into New-London harbour, and there enter at the Cuſtom-Houſe, before they proceed to any other part of the colony, belonging to that diſtrict.

DUNCAN STEWART, Collector.

ALL Perſons indebted to ISRAEL SEYMOUR, of Hartford, are (once more) deſired to ſettle the ſame, to ſave further Trouble. (27)

Juſt Publiſhed at Boſton, and to be ſold by

ROGER SHERMAN, Eſq;

of New-Haven;

THE Hiſtory of the Colony of the MASSACHUSETT BAY, from its firſt Settlement, to its incorporatio with the Colony of Plymouth, &c.

By the Honorable T. HUTCHINSON, Eſq;
Lieutenant Governor of the Maſſachuſetts.

N. B. In the ſaid Hiſtory, there are divers Things relative to the Colony of Connecticut; ſome of which are very curious. (27)

ALL Perſons having Accounts open, with the Eſtate of Doct. JONATHAN BULL, late of Hartford deceas'd are deſired to come and adjuſt them: And thoſe indebted by Note, to make Payment, to

Hartford, HANNAH BULL, Adminiſtratrix,
27th May, 1765. ABRAHAM BEACH, Adminiſtrator.

HEMP-SEED, warranted good, for Twenty Shillings Lawful Money, per Buſhel, to be ſold by Silas Dean at Weatherſfield.

STOLEN from the ſubſcriber of Goſhen, on the Weſt ſide North river, in New-York Government, on Thurſday the 16th of May inſtant, a dark bay horſe, four years old, branded thus AD on the left thigh, ſmall blaze in his face, natural pacer, about 14 hands high. The perſon that ſtole him, is an Iriſhman, about 6 feet high, and ſlim, pitted with the ſmall-pox, hallow ey'd, wears his own hair, had on a blue coat, and a jacket figur'd in imitation of ſeal-ſkin; he is ſomething talkative, a great ſtory-teller, card player and ſong-ſinger; he ſays his name is Henry Gote. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid thief and the horſe, and bring them to the ſubſcriber, or ſecure the thief in any of his Majeſty's goals, ſo that he may be brought to juſtice, and inform where the horſe is, ſo that the owner may have him again, ſhall receive a reward of FIVE DOLLARS, and all neceſſary charges, paid by me, (27) JONAS DUBOIS.

N. B. The thief was in Hartford laſt Monday, with the horſe, and next day ſet off as is ſuppoſed, for Boſton.

To be ſold at public vendue, on Monday the 10th inſt. at 4 o'clock P.M. at the houſe of Mr. David Bull, in Hartford,

TWO barrels and one quarter caſk of good Madeira WINE, either by the caſk, or in ten gallon lots, as beſt ſuits the purchaſers. Four months credit will be given, if deſired by the purchaſer.

June 3d, 1765.

——To be ſold, by the Subſcriber,——

TWO farms, one in Simſbury, in Turkey-Hills pariſh, containing 46 acres, about a mile and half from the meeting houſe, under improvements; with a ſmall dwelling-houſe on the ſame. The other ſituated in Harwinton; containing upwards of 100 acres, with a well finiſhed dwelling-houſe, and a good orchard. To be ſold on the moſt reaſonable terms, for caſh, ſtock-cattle, and part in Weſt-India goods. Inquire of JAMES PHELPS, of Windſor. (28)

Lately Publiſhed, and to be ſold at the Printing Office in HARTFORD.

AN EXPLANATION of SAY-BROOK PLATFORM; Or, The Principles of the conſociated Churches in the Colony of Connecticut: Collected from their Plan of Union.

By One that heartily deſires the Order, Peace and Purity of theſe Churches.

At the above Place may be had,

AN Eſſay on the Nature and Foundation of MORAL VIRTUE and OBLIGATION; Being a ſhort Introduction to the Study of ETHICS.

By THOMAS CLAP, M. A.
Preſident of Yale-College, in New-Haven.

THE proprietors of the townſhip of Cornwal, in the province of New-Hampſhire, are hereby warned to meet at the dwelling houſe of Mr. David Beebe, innholder in Saliſbury, on the ſecond Tueſday of July next, at noon, to agree upon further meaſures to promote the ſettlement of ſaid townſhip. Application having been made, as the law of ſaid province directs.

John Hutchinſon, Juſtice of the peace.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown, oppoſite the Court-Houſe.

MONDAY, June 17, 1765. [Number 30.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the Freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

New-Haven, June 10, 1765.

Mr. GREEN,

Be pleaſed to inſert the following account in your news-paper, and you will doubtleſs oblige ſome of your readers, and particularly, Your humble Servant,

THOMAS CLAP.

I Have been informed by ſundry perſons, that about nine of the clock in the evening, after the 18th day of May laſt, a large meteor, near as big, and as bright as the ſun or moon, was ſeen to paſs over, or near Northampton, Hadly, Springfield, Litchfield, Kent and Pougkeepſy, and was ſeen by ſundry perſons, in ſeveral towns lying to the ſouthward of that line; I ſuſpect alſo, that in the courſe of it, it might be ſeen in the eaſtern parts of the province of the Maſſachuſetts, & in Penſylvania, & perhaps further to the ſouth-weſt. As my information hitherto has been ſo imperfect, that I am not able to make any preciſe computation or conjecture of its true courſe and diſtance; I would aſk the favour of all miniſters, and other gentlemen of learning or ingenuity, eſpecially ſuch as live any where near the line, I have before deſcribed, or to the northward of it; that they would be pleaſed to diſcourſe with any perſons who ſaw it, and get them to point with their hands, the exact courſe in the heavens, in which it appeared to them to move; they ſtanding, (if it can conveniently be) at the place where they ſaw it: and the miniſter would take the exact point of compaſs, at which it appeared when at the higheſt, and the number of degrees it appeared above the horizon at that time; and if he does not well underſtand degrees, that he would deſcribe it, by its being nearly over-head, or half way between over-head, and the horizon, or as high as the ſun at three or four hours high, or the like, and ſend ſuch account to me, and any other circumſtances he ſhall think proper. And I would the rather aſk this favour, becauſe I have drawn up a conjectural theory of the nature and motion of ſuch meteors, wherein, I ſuppoſe, that they are ſolid bodies, about half a mile, or more in diameter, having a periodical revolution round the earth, in long ellipſes; that they are at about 20 or 30 miles diſtance from the earth, when at the neareſt, and move near 500 miles in a minute, and about the time they are neareſt to the earth, they explode like a bomb or cannon, but the body does not break to pieces, as has been commonly ſuppoſed; which theory has been lately read before the Royal Society; and thereupon I am deſired to get all the further information I can, relating to their appearances.

From a LONDON Paper.

CRY ALOUD AND SPARE NOT. If ever there was an occaſion ſo to do, the preſent is a moſt alarming one. There there is a bill now offering to a certain honorable aſſembly, to puniſh mutiny and deſertion, and for the better providing quarters for the troops in America; in which there is a clauſe allowing troops to be billeted in private as well as in public houſes—Good God! are there no watchful guardians of our liberties left? are there no remains of thoſe noble patriots who ſtruggled ſo hard againſt ſtanding armies, who now dare legally & conſtitutionally oppoſe a meaſure big with the moſt direful miſchiefs, and deſtructive of that happineſs every Engliſhman has been taught to believe he has a right to enjoy in his own houſe? The laws of England call every man's houſe his caſtle; but ſurely they never meant it ſhould be garriſoned by hireling ſoldiers. If that ſhould ever be the caſe in England (which Heaven avert) in one ſenſe, indeed, it may ſtill be called his caſtle, but more properly, his priſon, where officers will be the goalers, and ſoldiers the turnkeys. Conſider, my countrymen, if this will not be of more dangerous conſequence to the peace, happineſs, and liberty of every man, than even the deſtructive powers of general warrants? There will then indeed be but little occaſion to ſend meſſengers to ranſack a man's private papers, as no one will dare to ſpeak diſreſpectfully of governors or miniſters (how bad ſoever in future times, they may be) much leſs write to adviſe others of their danger, when he will be conſtantly watched in his own houſe, by two or three military ſpies; eſpecially if he ſhould offend any one of theſe honourable gentlemen, by refuſing him the whole, or if he ſhould rather chuſe it, the half of his wife or daughter's bed. I need not be very particular in pointing out the infinite diſquietudes and miſchiefs, which muſt reſult from a meaſure ſo contrary to the very being of liberty; every Engliſhman muſt ſhudder at the thoughts of ſo unconſtitutional a deſign. It has been lately the faſhionable language to call the colonies, members of the mother country, in charging them with taxes, &c. certainly then they have an equal right to be ſecured in their liberties; but if juſtice to them does not affect you, a regard for yourſelves ſurely muſt alarm you; for if ſuch a law be once ſuffered to paſs for America, you may depend upon it arguments, of one ſort or other will not be wanted to impoſe the ſame on the Mother Country, whenever in future any weak, wicked, or arbitrary miniſter ſhall attempt it. Should you therefore neglect to nip in the bud ſo dangerous a deſign, you would act like a man who ſhould refuſe to uſe the means to quench a fire in his neighbour's houſe, becauſe a thin partition divided it from his own. But I hope better things from Engliſhmen; and doubt not ſome able pen will ſo improve theſe looſe hints, as to prevent ſo terrible a clauſe from paſſing into a law.

CIVIS.

To be ſold at public vendue, on the laſt Monday of June next, at one of the clock in the afternoon, at the dwelling-houſe of Capt. Solomon Cowls, inn-holder in Farmington, on ſix months credit, on good ſecurity:

ABout three hundred acres of good land, mainly under improvement, lying in the N. W. part of the old pariſh of ſaid Farmington, having a very good houſe and barn thereon, with a good orchard;——lately the property of Samuel Cole. To which a good title will be procured for the higheſt bidder, by JOHN PIERCE, and

(May 30th, 1765) RUTH PATERSON.

TAKEN up (as a ſtray) by the ſubſcriber of Wintonbury, on Tueſday the 4th Inſtant, a brown mare, about 12 years old, 14 hands high, branded I on the near ſhoulder, blaze in her face, near hind foot white, paces and trots.

The owner may have her again, on proving his property and paying charges. Inquire of

JOHN PARSONS.

Cuſtom-Houſe, New-London, 9th May, 1765.

BY Order of the Surveyor-General, all Veſſels from foreign voyages, are directed to come into New-London harbour, and there enter at the Cuſtom-Houſe, before they proceed to any other part of the colony, belonging to that diſtrict.

DUNCAN STEWART, Collector.

——To be ſold, by the Subſcriber,——

TWO farms, one in Simſbury, in Turkey-Hills pariſh, containing 46 acres, about a mile and half from the meeting houſe, under improvements; with a ſmall dwelling-houſe on the ſame. The other ſituated in Harwinton; containing upwards of 100 acres, with a well finiſhed dwelling-houſe, and a good orchard. To be ſold on the moſt reaſonable terms, for caſh, ſtock cattle, and part in Weſt-India goods. Inquire of JAEMS PHELPS, of Windſor. (28)

HALIFAX, May 16.

Yeſterday at the Supreme Court for the County of Halifax, were ſentenc'd to be hang'd, Cornelius Driſcoll and David Lawler, for the Murder of Owen Kervan and Ann Mullins, they are to be executed on Monday the 20th Inſtant. At the ſame Time, were ſentenc'd to be hang'd, James Donnell, Joſhua Smith and David Taylor, for Theft.

There were alſo ſentenc'd, Timothy Kief for a Rape on an Infant of 8 or 10 Years of Age, he is to ſtand in the Pillory for the Space of one Hour, to be fined the Sum of 20l. to our Sovereign Lord the King, and to give Security for his good Behaviour for the Space of Twelve Months, and to ſtand committed until he pays the Fine, and finds Security. John Barnes being brought to the Bar, pray'd the Benefit of the Clergy, which was allowed, and ſaid John Barnes was accordingly burnt in the Hand.

May 23. We are informed, That the Houſe of John Duport, Eſq; at Finglaſs, was burnt down about ten Days ago, with moſt part of his Houſhold Furniture.

We hear from Lunenburg, That on Sunday the 12th Inſt. a Fire broke out in a Houſe, 160 Feet in Front, belonging to Wendal W[illegible], Blackſmith, [illegible] entirely conſumed, with all his Houſhold Furniture, and moſt part of his Cloathing; he has a Family of twelve Children, the oldeſt about 16 Years of Age; and the ſame Time was burnt down, Doctor Phillips's Houſe, as alſo Mr. Knaut's.

Extract of a Letter from a conſiderable Merchant in London, to his Friend in Connecticut, dated April 9, 1765.

THE oppoſition is dwindled to almoſt nothing. Our miniſters are exerting themſelves to the utmoſt to reduce the national debt; a meaſure abſolutely neceſſary, leſt our foreign neighbours ſhould be encouraged by our diſtreſs in that particular, to commence freſh hoſtilities. We are now fully perſuaded that the preſent adminiſtration is as reaſonable and upright as any we are likely to ſee; and I am convinced more is to be obtain'd from them for America by fair, candid, private repreſentations, than by public oppoſition. They have accordingly been attentive to ſuch applications as the American agents have lately made to them on ſeveral occaſions, and you will obtain relief in ſome particulars of the late act of trade; and a grant of ſome bounties on lumber and iron, to encourage their importation here.——The paſſing the ſtamp act could not be prevented, altho' the agents of every colony both before, and at the time of making the reſolves, and when the bill was brought in, did all that was in their power, and were aſſiſted by many well-wiſhers to the colonies. Some of the reaſons you will ſee in the pamphlets I have ſent you. Others were the preſent neceſſity of this country, loaded as it is with publick debts; and the provocation given by the claims made in America, and by Americans here, of independence in the article of taxation; whence the adminiſtration thought it neceſſary to eſtabliſh in this inſtance the right of ſovereignty in this kingdom over the colonies, leſt dropping the bill on ſuch claim ſtarted, ſhould be conſtrued hereafter as an acknowledgment of that independence. The doctrine, however clear your Americans may be in it, could not be endured here, notwithſtanding all the art and endeavour of your agents to inculcate it in the minds of our leaders. No member of the houſe, even of thoſe in the oppoſition, could be found hardy enough to preſent ſome of the American petitions which advanced that claim; nor could any counſel be found who would undertake to ſupport it, if leave might have been obtained for a hearing upon it.—But another thing that has been propoſed in a bill brought in by the ſecretary at war, the agents will get ſet aſide, or altered to their ſatisfaction, viz. "A power to be given the officers of the army in "America, to quarter ſoldiers in private houſes, where there "is not a ſufficient number of public houſes, nor any barracks "for that purpoſe provided." This alarmed your friends a good deal, but we are told we ſhall be made eaſy when the bill is committed. It ſeems the meaſure was recommended by the Quarter-Maſter General.

To the PRINTER, in New-York.

SIR, May 15, 1765.

If you will pleaſe to inſert the following account in your next paper, it may pleaſe ſome of your philoſophical readers, as well as oblige Your humble ſervant.

PHILOTECHNOS.

ON the 10th inſtant, at half after eight at night, the ſun about 23 D below the horiſon, the air clear and inclined to froſt, I was riding in company with two gentlemen four and half miles N. W. of the academy at Coldenham, when ſuddenly the earth and air were enlightened to a much greater degree than they could have been by the full moon in a clear night. My horſe ſtop'd, and I in aſtoniſhment turning round, beheld a globe of fire, apparently of about 18 inches diameter, with a tail ſeveral yards long, and at about a mile's diſtance W. by S. having a ſwift motion to the N. W. by N. making with the plain of the horiſon an angle of about 30 D. Its beginning, as near as I can judge, was about 40 D. from the Zenith. After continuing in this direction about four ſeconds, it diſappeared, but left a luminous track: In about three ſeconds more it reſumed its former ſize, brightneſs and direction, and after near the ſame continuance, ſuddenly diſappear'd and we ſaw no more of it. At both times of its appearance we plainly ſaw ſmall particles continually iſſuing from the main body, reſembling ſparks from a fire diſturb'd. We had all ſeen meteors before, but neither of us ever ſaw any equal to this either in ſize or brighneſs. Next morning there was a hard froſt, that did much damage to the fruit.

P.

By Captain Dixcey, arrived at Boſton from London, we have the following articles, viz.

LONDON, April 25

YESTERDAY his Majeſty went in ſtate to the houſe of Peers, attended by his Grace the Duke of Rutland, maſter of the horſe, and the Earl of Pomfret, and gave the royal aſſent to ſuch bills as were ready for that purpoſe; when his Majeſty made a ſpeech to both houſes of parliament, in which he told them, That the tender concern which he felt for his faithful ſubjects, made him anxious to provide for every poſſible event which might affect their future happineſs or ſecurity.

That his late indiſpoſition, though not attended with danger, had led him to conſider the ſituation in which his kingdoms, and his family, might be left, if it ſhould pleaſe God to put a period to his life, whilſt his ſucceſſor was of tender years.

That the high importance of this ſubject to the public ſafety, good order and tranquility; the paternal affection which he bore to his children, and to all his people; and his earneſt deſire, that every precaution ſhould be taken, which might tend to preſerve the conſtitution of Great Britain undiſturb'd, and the dignity and luſtre of its crown unimpaired; had determined him to lay this weighty buſineſs before his parliament; and as his health, by the bleſſing of God, was now reſtored, he took the earlieſt opportunity of meeting them, and of recommending to their moſt ſerious deliberation the making ſuch proviſion, as would be neceſſary, in caſe any of his children ſhould ſucceed to the throne, before they ſhall reſpectively attain the age of eighteen years.

That to this end, he propoſed to their conſideration, whether, under the preſent circumſtances, it would not be expedient to veſt in him the power of appointing from time to time, by inſtruments in writing, under his ſign manual, either the Queen, or any other perſon of his royal family uſually reſiding in Great-Britain, to be the guardian to the perſon of ſuch ſucceſſor, and the regent of theſe kingdoms, until ſuch ſucceſſor ſhall attain the age of eighteen years, ſubject to the like reſtrictions and regulations, as are ſpecified and contained in an act, paſſed upon a ſimilar occaſion, in the 24th year of the reign of the late king his royal grandfather: The regent ſo appointed to be aſſiſted by a council compoſed of the ſeveral perſons, who, by reaſon of their dignities and offices, are conſtituted members of the council eſtabliſhed by that act, together with thoſe whom they might think proper to leave to his nomination.

April 24. Yeſterday at noon his Majeſty came from Richmond to St. James's, when a cabinet council was held on affairs relating to the plantations, at which the principal Lords of the Council aſſiſted, but there was no levee at Court.

We are aſſured that the reſult of ſome late important Councils, relating to the preſent untoward diſpoſition of affairs in North America, has been to remove not only meaſures, but men, ſo far as ſhall be found neceſſary to encourage commerce, and reſtore the public tranquility in that quarter.

We hear that a certain ſum of money ariſen, or which may ariſe, from the duties granted by an act of laſt ſeſſions, for laying certain duties on goods and merchandize in the American colonies, is to be applied for the payment of his Majeſty's troops that are kept for the defence of the ſaid colonies and new acquired ſettlements.

It is ſaid the court of Verſailles, in the laſt diſpatches from London, has been given to underſtand, that ſuch French ſhips as ſhall hereafter be found with certain ſpecies of goods on board at Newfoundland, the Gulph of St. Laurence, or any other Britiſh territories in North America, will be ſeized and condemned by court-martials on the ſpot, without appeal; neither are the ſubjects of that kingdom to be permitted to purchaſe ready caught cargoes of fiſh from thoſe of Great-Britain, without incurring the ſame penalty.

The number of cruizing ſhips and cutters for the Newfoundland ſtation, during the fiſhery this ſeaſon, are ordered to be more conſiderably augmented than was at firſt intended, in conſequence of ſome late advices from thence.

April 26. Yeſterday both houſes of parliament, attended by the right honorable the Lord Chanceller, his Grace the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and the reſt of the Biſhops, went in proceſſion to St. James's, and preſented the joint addreſs of both houſes to his Majeſty, for his ſpeech from the throne; who made them a moſt gracious anſwer.

There was the greateſt court, and drawing room, at St. James's, that has been for a conſiderable time.

His Royal Highneſs Prince William Henry, who has been very much indiſpoſed ſome days, was on Tueſday ſo well recovered as to ſee company all the afternoon.

We hear the ſame regulations are to take place this ſummer, with regard to the Dutch fiſhermen at Shetland, and the French at Newfoundland, viz. all ſeizable goods, liquors, &c. on board either, to be made prize of, which cannot be comprized in the article of ſhip ſtores.

A particular clauſe in the marriage act, ſo far as regards his Majeſty's American iſlands and plantations is expected to take place this ſeſſion.

We hear the late act for calling in the American paper currency will not be repealed.

We are credibly informed there is no grounds for a coalition of parties, as has been propagated in ſeveral papers.

We hear that his Majeſty's ſhip Belleiſle, lying in Hamoaze, at Plymouth is ordered for America as ſoon as ſhe can be got ready for ſea.

Letters from the Cape of Good Hope, by the Dutch Eaſt-India ſhip, Lady Petronella, bring advice, that the Right Hon. Lord Clive, arrived there the 7th of January from the Brazils, where he deſigned to ſtay a month for the benefit of his health, after which to proceed to Bengal.

The ladies of the Court end of the town, being determined as much as poſſible a faſhion in particular to themſelves; or at leaſt to prevent the lower orders of people from approaching too near them in their habiliaments, have invented a new kind of trimming compoſed of gold and ſilver twiſt, mixed with ſeveral ſorts of ſilk, &c. the coſt of which only, for a ſuit of cloaths amounts to at leaſt ten pounds.

NEW-YORK, June 13.

By a Gentleman who arrived here laſt Week, from Montreal, we have the following melancholy Piece of Intelligence, viz. That on the 17th ultimo, at Half after One in the Afternoon, a Fire broke out in the Houſe of Mr. John Livingſton, of that Place, and there being only two ſmall Engines, and the French extremely ignorant of the Method of extinguiſhing Fires, the Flames ſoon ſpread with great Rapidity on both Sides of the Street, and the Wind being very high, 115 Houſes were entirely conſumed by Six o' Clock in the Evening, with immenſe Quantities of Goods contained therein, it being the principal Street in the Place, and where all the Engliſh Merchants reſided. A Nunnery was alſo conſumed, and three Nuns, a French Gentleman and Lady, and a Negro Wench loſt their Lives. On the Occaſion, the Army animated by the Preſence of Brigadier General Burton, exerted themſelves in a particular Manner, and it's ſaid 'twas owing to their Activity that the whole Town was not deſtroyed; ſeveral of the poor Soldiers were much burnt in removing the Goods from the Houſes whilſt in Flames, moſt of the French Inhabitants having retired to their Churches, being greatly intimidated by ſome ſmall Exploſions of Gun powder, that happened whilſt the Houſes were in Flames, as ſeveral of the Merchants very imprudently, had Quantities of that Article in their Garrets. 'Tis ſaid the Fire was occaſioned by a Negro Wench carrying a Quantity of Aſhes in the upper Story of Mr. Livingſton's Houſe, not with any bad Deſign, but to keep there for making Soap.

We hear that upon Application of the Revd. Mr. Wheelock, of Lebanon, in Connecticut, to the Conſiſtory of the Dutch Church of this City, deſiring their Aſſiſtance, to enable him to carry on the laudable Scheme of ſpreading the Chriſtian Knowledge among the Indians; a very handſome Collection was on Sunday laſt, made in both their Churches: An Example truly worthy of Imitation; as the ſpreading the Goſpel among the Savages, is certainly the moſt effectual Way to civilize them: And it is therefore to be wiſhed, that Collections, for the ſame good Purpoſes, were made in all the Churches on the Continent, as all will be equally benefited by their being made a civilized, inſtead of a barbarous People, and brought from the Errors of Paganiſm, to the Truths of the Goſpel.

Friday Morning laſt the Rev. Mr. Whitefield preached his Farewel Sermon to the Inhabitants of this Place, in the Preſbyterian Meeting-Houſe; and on Sunday laſt he embarked for England in the Earl of Halifax Packet.

A like Account of the Meteor (mentioned in the ſecond Page of this Paper) is given by two Gentlemen at the White Plains, Weſt Cheſter, at the ſame Time, only it to them did not diſappear, but contracted into about half the Bulk, and expanded into its former Size.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.

From Virginia we learn, that a Party of Cherokee Indians had arrived at Stanton, in Auguſta County, in their Way to Wincheſter, having a Paſs from Colonel Lewis for that Purpoſe, but on their Way thither, they were attacked by upwards of Twenty Men, when their Chief, with four more of ſaid Indians, were killed, and two others wounded; upon which a Proclamation was immediately iſſued offering a Reward for the Murderers.

BOSTON, June 13.

We hear from Newport, Rhode-Iſland, that his Majeſty's Ship, Maidſtone having preſſed a Number of Seamen belonging to that Place, their Brethren on ſhore were ſo much irritated, that on Tueſday laſt (King's Birth Day) they ſeized upon her Barge, which having drawn up into the Streets, they made a Bonfire of; and 'tis ſaid one of the Lieutenants making ſome Reſiſtance, was alſo much abuſed.

Since our laſt the Revd Mr. Samſon Occum, one of the Aboriginals, has preached in Public ſeveral Times, to the general Acceptance of the Hearers.

HARTFORD, June 17.

Laſt Monday Evening, there was a ſevere Thunder Storm at Middletown; the Chimney of Mr. Samuel Torrey's Houſe, of that Place, was very much ſhattered, with the Lightning, and Mrs. Torrey, who was ſetting near the Chimney, was wounded by ſome of the Stones falling on her, but ſhe is like to recover.—A Tree ſtanding at Deacon Rockwell's Door, was alſo much ſhattered, with the Lightning. The ſame Evening, a Houſe on the Eaſt Side of the River, at Middletown, (at a Place call'd Wangum) was ſtruck, and Two Children much burnt by the Lightning. And,

Laſt Thurſday Afternoon, one Mr Gillman, of Eaſt Hartford, was ſtruck down with a Flaſh of Lightning, and lay Speechleſs and Senſeleſs, for ſeveral Hours, before he came to.

[The Piece, in the firſt Page of this Paper, relating to the Meteor, metions its Appearance on the 18th of May; but ſince receiving the New York Papers, we find that it was on the 10th, ſo that the Preſident muſt have been miſinformed, as to the Time of its appearing.]

The following Advertiſement is in the London Prints,

Stamp Office, April 11, 1765

THE Commiſſioners for managing his Majeſty's Stamp Duties, finding it neceſſary to clear the Officers Hours of Attendance, give Notice, that for the future all ſtationers and other perſons wanting any Vellum, Parchment and Paper to be ſtamped, are to apply in the forenoon; the Afternoons being appropriated for the Service of ſtamping for ☞ AMERICA and the WEST INDIES ☜

TAken up as a ſtray, on the firſt Inſtant, a black horſe, 14 hands high, no brand, hip-ſhot on the left ſide, paces and trots, upwards of 12 years old. The owner may have him again, on proving his property and paying charges. Inquire of Benjamin Allyn, of Windſor.

PROVIDENCE STONE LIME, of the beſt Quality.——To be ſold cheap for Caſh, or Country Produce, by SAMUEL MARSH, of Hartford.

TO be ſold by ALLEN M'LEAN, South of the Court-Houſe in Hartford; the beſt of Tamerinds, at Eight Pence per Pound.

30

The following by the laſt ſhip was wrote and publiſhed in London, as is generally ſuppoſed, by W. B. Eſq; formerly agent for the Maſſachuſetts colony, viz.

Obſervations on the propoſed American TAX, ſo far as relates to the continent colonies, and the effects thereof on the trade and navigation of Great-Britain.

THAT in the war with France begun in 1744, the Maſſachuſetts colony at the great peril of its utmoſt impoveriſhment and diſtreſs, aſſiſted by the other New England colonies, made an expedition againſt Cape Breton, in conſequence whereof that iſland with its dependencies was reduced to his late Majeſty's obedience, Nova Scotia preſerved, the French fiſhery broken up, and the Britiſh fiſhery ſaved from the enemy's intended ravages.

That this was the ſole acquiſition made by the Britiſh arms during that war, and a great means of obtaining the peace.

That the war was ſo ſharp in that quarter, that, according to the beſt calculate, a fourth part at leaſt of the Maſſachuſetts inhabitants able of body for the requiſite ſervices, took arms.

That very ſoon after the peace, France meditating the future diſtreſs of the Britiſh fiſhery, encroached upon Nova-Scotia; and her repeated hoſtile invaſions, and conſequent fruitleſs negotiations, with her other encroachments, occaſioned the late war.

That the pecuniary and perſonal exertions of the colonies in general during the war were very great, and, without naming other ſervices, their defeat of Baron Dieſkau in the beginning of it, is thought worthy of memory.

That during the chief part of this war, 200,000l. was annually granted by parliament to compenſate certain expences of the troops raiſed by the colonies ſerving under his Majeſty's general, which on diſtribution paid to ſome near half, and to others one third part only of all their expences on thoſe troops, being excluſive of the expences of any of the colonies in the defence of their own frontier, or other military ſervices, which to ſome were very conſiderable.

That theſe grants ceaſed at the cloſe of the war in Europe, though they continued in America with numerous tribes of Indians, and freſh war broke out with others, whence manifold cruel ravages enſued, and the war there is not yet ceaſed.

That during the general war, and ever ſince, theſe colonies have borne heavy and unuſual taxes; nevertheleſs, their ſeveral public debts united amount to 900,000l. or upwards.

That a great part of theſe colonies produce nothing fit for the Britiſh market, and the Britiſh ſugar iſlands can conſume only a ſmall part of their product; wherefore, to enable them to pay for Britiſh goods, they proſecute every kind of trade to foreign ports which their invention can ſuggeſt, carrying on much of this trade in conſequence of the credit given them by the Britiſh merchants.

That ſeveral of theſe colonies have no ſtaple commodity, and in particular the fiſhing colonies, the chief of which, Maſſachuſetts, takes from Great-Britain yearly, goods to the amount of 600,000l. or upwards, to pay for which the inhabitants are chiefly enabled by their fiſheries, and the trade relative to them

That in their fiſheries, and carrying the fiſh to market, their trade with Great-Britain and other places, they employ about 1500 ſail of veſſels, generally ſmall, and upwards of 13000 men, boys included, the chief part whereof are employed in the cod fiſhery.

That about a third part of this fiſh, uſually called Jamaica and refuſe, is unfit for the European markets, and the chief part of it is bartered in the French and Dutch colonies for melaſſes, which when imported, by its uſe, ſimple, or manufactured into rum, is the great mean whereby the trade of the province is carried on.

That the traders to Newfoundland take in exchange for their rum, fiſh of like inferior quality, to be diſpoſed of in like manner; and the New-England fiſhery from its nature making a greater proportion of this fiſh, without the diſpoſal of it to the French and Dutch, would, in the opinion of the moſt intelligent perſons, certainly decline apace, there being no other market to be be found for the far greater part of this ſort of fiſh.

That the French are now practiſing every device their policy can ſuggeſt to prejudice the Britiſh fiſhery and advance their own; and among other means the governor of Martinique, in a permiſſion lately given to an Engliſh trader, particularly excepted fiſh, and the ſtanding law of France prohibits this with other trade.

That the trade to foreign colonies is further neceſſary to the New-England fiſhery, in order to ſupply it at low rates with melaſſes and rum, which it could not be otherwiſe had by the fiſhermen in common with the other inhabitants, who are generally not more able to pay large prices, ſeeing that the Engliſh ſugar iſlands do not in all probability export to the continent colonies one eighth part of the melaſſes uſed there, and the price of their rum is much too high for the fiſhing trade.

That the New England fiſhery making ſo large a portion of the Britiſh part of the American fiſhery, wherein the French are ſuch vigilant competitors, its preſervation is preſumed to be worthy of great attention, eſpecially conſidering that in times paſt the French made ſuch advances, that deducting the mere boatmen at Newfoundland, whoſe employment never makes them ſeamen, the French employed twice the number of men employed in the Britiſh fiſhery; and ſuch difficulties fell upon the New England fiſhery, that in the chief fiſhing town, Marblehead, the veſſels were reduced one half in their number.

That trade, being in its true nature ſo intricate and delicate, that human wiſdom, even after the ſtricteſt enquiry into facts, is frequently unequal to the difficulty of forming ſalutary regulations for it, or by any means to recover it when declining or loſt; it is to be obſerved, that the payment of three pence per gallon, for all the molaſſes imported in to the Maſſachuſets colony from any foreign colony, purſuant to an act paſſed the laſt ſeſſion, among other purpoſes, for improving the trade between Great Britain and the colonies, has been found, contrary to the intent of the legiſlature, greatly to diſtreſs this melaſſes trade; and will in its conſequences nearly affect the fiſhing trade; and that the trade of this colony is at preſent in a moſt intereſting ſituation, all the merchants of its capital, Boſton, being of opinion, that the continuance of the payment of the duty on melaſſes, with other duties impoſed by the ſaid act, will inevitably deſtroy it. And other colonies are in no better condition.

That the Maſſachuſets traders importing the largeſt part of the foreign melaſſes, and before theſe duties took place there being ſcarcely money ſufficient to carry on the trade, they conceive it extremely hard that what little money they have ſhould be taken out of their trade, and ſpent upon new acquiſitions in remote parts.

That the trade of this colony was declining faſt before it was charged with theſe duties, and their difficulties were ſo multiplied, that urged by the neceſſity of regulating their conduct according to the hard ſtate of the times, the inhabitants in general of Boſton, and the neighbouring towns have agreed to wear no other mourning than ſome ſmall token of reſpect for the memory of the dead; and before the laſt ſhip came from thence, between 5 and 600 families, in order to keep one another in countenance, and be better able to pay for their neceſſary apparel, had agreed to lay aſide various ſuperfluities, and wear woollen cloth of lower than uſual prices with ſome other frugal regulations.

That the annual exports of goods, chiefly of Britiſh manufacture, to all theſe colonies have for many years paſt amounted to an immenſe ſum in value.

That the remittances made in payment, through the difficulties of their trade, have been ſo far deficient, that the individuals there are at this time in debt to the Britiſh merchants three million at leaſt.

That by this vaſt debt, & the preſſure of the laſt years taxes, the credit of the traders with the Britiſh merchants is weakened, in conſequence whereof the exports of Britiſh manufactures are already conſiderably leſſened, and a large part of the whole trade is in a very tender and dangerous condition, ill prepared to ſtand under the additional load of the taxation now propoſed, which taking effect would, as humbly conceived to be aparent from the preceding facts, add diſtreſs to diſtreſs in the colonies, whence it would in no ſmall degree be ſoon communicated to the Britiſh manufacturers, by cauſing a further diminution of the exports of Britiſh goods, and, joined with the prior taxation, and other difficulties, reduce the inhabitants not only to a ſtill greater frugality in their apparel, but to the neceſſity of providing the beſt they can among themſelves, and in concluſion affect the Britiſh commerce and navigation in a meaſure probably ſurpaſſing all human foreſight.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown, oppoſite the Court-Houſe.

Jedediah Strong Esq

NDAY, June 24, 1765. [Number 3[illegible].]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

LONDON.

WE hear the provincial agents for North-America intend to repreſent to the parliament, that if the New-ngland diſtilleries are ſuppreſſed, it will be of the utmoſt ejudice to the Newfoundland trade, in which valuable ſhery alone, it has been computed near 50,000 gallons of orthern rum are annually conſumed, beſides the vaſt quanties exported to Nova Scotia.

The government of New-York have come to a reſolution o build a town houſe, with the proper offices, for the nation f Delawares, and other Indian tribes in alliance with that rovince.

They write from Dreſden, that the abrupt departure of the ieur de Buſch, miniſter from the king of Pruſſia, from that ourt, occaſioned ſome uneaſineſs there; and the more ſo n account of the augmentation of the Saxon army to 40,000 en, and officers receiving orders to provide themſelves with eld equipages and ſervants.

They write from Holland, that by late advices received rom India it appears, that the army of Coſſim Aly Cawn as been almoſt totally deſerted by the Dutch and other Euopean officers and private men, who were induced to ſerve hat tyrant from motives of profit. Theſe letters add, that rom the vaſt preſents given the eaſtern monarchs for protecion or alliance, the tyrant's treaſury has been drained to the ottom.

A weaver in Spital-fields, is mounting a mountier for a iece of rich brocaded ſilk, for the wear of a perſon of hat diſtinction; the workmanſhip of which alone is to be aid for after the rate of [illegible] per yard, and is innded to be as a challenge for any foreign manufacturer to prouce its ſuperior.

In a pariſh not many miles from Bedford, one day laſt eek a perſon eat 44 herrings for breakfaſt, and 45 for diner, and drank twelve quarts of ale. The next day he eat ſhoulder of mutton weighing 9lb. at an ordinary, paid ſix ence for his dinner, and complained he had not ſufficient.

April 9. By our laſt accounts from Stockholm it appears, hat the debates run pretty high in the ſecret committee that s aſſembled to deliberate on the eſſential intereſts of the kingom. For though the firſt proceedings of the diet manifeſtly iſcovered a decline of the credit of French counſels, yet the ntire overthrow of the French ſyſtem is no ſuch eaſy mater. It muſt be a work of time, labour and money. The rench have hitherto gained the Senate by ſubſidies, the Seators by Leu D'ores, and have hindered ſuch a degree of uthority, as could hurt them from falling into the hands of hat part of the government, which was above the influence f their promiſes or threatnings. To overthrow the French ſtem, the influence of ſubſidy muſt be counteracted, the atteries of Plutus reduced to ſilence by a ſuperior fire, and e elbows of the monarch ſet more at liberty. This latter rcumſtance is the moſt eſſential and the moſt difficult of all; hough if ever there was a ſeaſonable time for attempting it, t is undoubtedly the preſent period. For though it cannot e ſuppoſed that the courts of Ruſſia and Copenhagen will ver be deſirous of ſeeing an abſolute monarch on the throne f Sweden, yet it is ſtill a point gained, that the former of eſe courts is far from being at preſent in the French intereſt, d that the latter may perhaps have its Gallic fetters graually looſened by the ſalutary influence of a late nuptial iance. Three great objects employ the attention of the ret committee at preſent; the firſt is, 'Whether they ſhall ontinue to take a ſubſidy from France, and how far ſuch a ubſidy, with the obligations that are annexed to it on the part of Sweden, is conſiſtent with the true intereſts of the nation.' A queſtion thus propoſed indicates a ſpirit of political reformation. [illegible] point of deliberation is, 'The neceſſity of carrying trade to a higher degree of perfection, and the expediency of Britain, as the moſt likely means to obtain this end.' The third, 'What conduct [illegible] be obſerved and what connexions it may be proper to form with the neighbouring powers, and particularly and principally with the courts of Peterſburgh and Berlin.' As theſe are ſubjects propoſed to the conſideration of the committee, the reſult of their deliberations, will be waited for with impatience.

April 16. We are informed ſome remonſtrances have very lately been received from the court of Madrid concerning the illicit commerce carried on by the Engliſh to the Spaniſh ſettlements in America; which, if continued, may in the end produce a ſerious quarrel between the two crowns: His Catholick Majeſty's revenues having already been computed to ſuffer a loſs of near a million of dollars on that account.

By letters from Madrid it appears, that by a late account taken of the number of inhabitants in Spaniſh Hiſpaniola, they have continued decreaſing, for the laſt ſeven years, very conſiderably; and upon the whole, do not at preſent exceed twenty thouſand ſouls: This circumſtance, together with the flouriſhing ſtate of the French part of the iſland, who are ſaid to exceed eighty thouſand inhabitants, had determined the court to reinforce their ſettlements in that iſland with ſome thouſand families from Old Spain; part of whom have already been imbarked in King's ſhips lately ſent out on the Weſt-India ſtation.

We hear an exchange of territory is now upon the carpet between the courts of Copenhagen and London, by which the former are to enjoy certain lands in ſome of the new Britiſh American colonies, in return for the Daniſh iſland of St. Thomas, lying under the equinoctial, of great advantage to the Engliſh commerce on the coaſt of Africa.

Laſt week a young lady in Northumberland having been very ill for ſome time, was thought to have expired, and ſome preparations were made for the funeral: But after having been given up for dead, for upwards of twelve hours, ſhe gave ſymptoms of life, and recovered, to the great joy, and no leſs ſurprize of her relations and friends.—This may be a caution againſt the barbarous cuſtom of burying people in too ſhort time after they are ſuppoſed to be departed.

LONDON, April 26.

Sunday ſevennight, about two o'clock, died in Dublin, after a ſhort illneſs of two days, in the 79th year of his age, the moſt Rev. Dr. Charles Cobbe, Lord Archbiſhop of Dublin; he was educated at Wincheſter, and then in Trinity College in the Univerſity of Oxford.

Mr. Wilkes is in very good health at Naples, which he ſays is the moſt delightful place he ever ſaw in his life, and where he purpoſes to ſettle. He was viſited and complimented by all the Engliſh in every town thro' which he paſſed from Paris to that city.

CHARLESTOWN, South Carolina, May 8.

Alexander Simpſon, maſter of his Majeſty's ſloop Viper, on the North-Carolina ſtation, who killed Lieutenant Whitehurſt of the ſaid ſloop in a duel, having eſcaped from juſtice, Governor Tryon has iſſued a proclamation offering a reward of fifty pounds proclamation money of America, for apprehending him.

A number of gentlemen in Jamaica have formed themſelves into a ſociety for the encouragement of arts, agriculture and commerce.

May 15. It is reported that there has lately been an inſurrection in Mexico, and that the viceroy has been obliged to fly to Vera Cruz.

By Capt. Bartlet from Briſtol, arrived at Boſton, we have a Print of the 29th of April, which contains the following Articles, viz.

LONDON, April 26.

Extract of a Letter from Barbados.

"HERE is ſtrange work going on; we have had ſeized ſix or ſeven North-American veſſels, for want of certification of their having given bonds agreeable to the late act of parliament. The gentlemen to whom they were addreſſed here, would have entered into ſecurity, that a certificate would be returned for the bond they had given (as the poor ignorant North-Americans hardly know what a bond or certificate is) but the offer has been rejected, and they have been condemned. Since this, Cleveland arrived, and upon entering, his regiſter being unindorſed through ſome neglect, he was ſeized. If theſe ſteps continue, there muſt be a final ſtop to all trade. It is much feared, leſt Manly ſhould not bring a certificate with him from Carolina; if he fails, he will be ſurely ſeized: He is expected in a few days."

The alarm taken at the clauſe for quartering troops in private houſes in America is not groundleſs.

Lord Byron, after he was diſcharged out of cuſtody, took a chair, and ſo paſſing thro' St. James's Park, proceeded to his houſe in Mortimer ſtreet, near Cavendiſh-ſquare.

His lordſhip's appearance and demeanour, during the whole courſe of his trial, attracted the attention of the ſpectators much, for his ſeeming ſerenity and compoſure of mind.

It appears that it was legal to quarter troops in private houſes in Scotland before the union, and it never having been altered by law ſince, troops are to this day in that country quartered at diſcretion, on thoſe who neglect or refuſe to pay the land tax. This is now urged as a precedent for the like meaſure in America, though we cannot learn any of our colonies ever refuſed to pay any taxes impoſed on them. As Scotland has been produced as a precedent for America, is it not too much to be feared, that e'er long both Scotland and America may be urged for doing the like, in England? If once this happens, adieu to all that is dear and valuable to men.

The King will go to the houſe to-morrow, to preſent the regency bill.

The bill for quartering ſoldiers in North America is put off till next year.

LONDON, April 28.

The following is his Majeſty's anſwer to the mutual addreſs to the right hon. the houſe of Lords and Commons for his moſt gracious ſpeech from the throne, preſented to him on Thurſday laſt at St. James's.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

"YOUR affectionate congratulations upon my recovery, and the ſenſe which you expreſs of your happineſs under my government, give me the greateſt ſatisfaction.

"Be aſſured, I have not a more ſincere concern, or a more earneſt deſire, than to ſecure to my faithful people, both now and hereafter, the religious and civil bleſſings of our invaluable conſtitution."

Since which we hear, that the right honorable the Earl of Bute will ſet out in a few weeks on a tour to France and Italy.

Both houſes of parliament are expected to be protogued for the ſummer ſeaſon on or about the 24th of next month, and not before, on account of the great buſineſs now before them.

It is now ſaid the American provinces will have a liberty to melt down bullion for eſtabliſhing a gold and ſilver currency; not to be coined as in Europe, but ſtamped, after the manner practiſed in the neighbouring Spaniſh provinces.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.

Monday laſt arrived here Capt. Carr, in five weeks from Teneriff, who informs us, that Capt. Glaſs being ſent to form an Engliſh ſettlement on the coaſt of Barbary, oppoſite the Grand Canaries, he proceeded accordingly with ſettlers, &c. on board, and landed them at the place appointed; ſoon after, things being ſettled, Capt. Glaſs, with his wife and family on board, went to Landcerote, one of the Canary Iſlands, where the Spaniards ſeized him, carried him to Teneriff and threw him in goal. The veſſel, with the Captain's wife, maſter and crew, put back to the new ſettlement, where in a ſhort time after the maſter dying with a wound he received from the burſting of a gun; the Moors thinking this a good opportunity, after a continual fire for 4 or 5 hours, took the ſhip and run her aſhore; the crew, with the Captain's wife and family being obliged to put off in their boats arrived ſafe at one of the Canary Iſlands, and from thence were ſent by the governor to Teneriff. The reaſon, the Spaniards alledged for ſeizing Capt. Glaſs, was, that he had come on his own account to ſpoil their Fiſheries, and carry on a trade wit the Moors.

Capt. Carr was in company with a gentleman at Santa Cruz who told him that he ſaw Capt. Sutton in the Iſle of Wight, who inform'd him, that he was going expreſs with inſtructions from the court of Great Britain, for an Engliſh gentleman in goal at Teneriff.

Capt. Carr, further informs us, that while he was at Teneriff it was confidently ſaid, that the French and Spaniards had fitted out a fleet, which had ſailed againſt Mogador, they being determined to rout that neſt of pirates.

Extract of a Letter from Staunton, in Virginia, May 29.

"On the 12th Inſtant, two of the Party of Cherokee Indians, who eſcaped from the White People, went to the Houſe of a blind Man, about ten Miles from hence, where they tomahawked him and his Wife, and took a very ſmall Scalp off of the Man, but did not diſfigure the Woman. The ſame Day, about 4 Miles from thence, as they were lying behind a Log, a Man on Horſeback came up, and his Horſe ſtarting, threw him, when one of the Indians ſeized and ſtruck him in the Cheek with his Tomahawk, and imagining he had done his Buſineſs, left him, and went to aſſiſt the other in catching the Horſe, but in the mean time the Man eſcaped, putting his Hat under the Wound, to catch the Blood, that they might not track him."

NEW-YORK, June 20.

We hear, from good Authority, that on the third Inſtant, Sir William Johnſon had juſt finiſh'd with 900 Indians; that his Houſe was then full of Ottowas and Chippiwaes, and that the Indians of Ohio, Sanduſky, &c. were then on their Way to his Houſe, ſo that he is not likely to have a Moment's Leiſure this Seaſon.

By a Gentleman that left New Orleans the firſt Day of May, we are told, that not one Spaniard had arrived there to take Poſſeſſion of that Place; neither was there the leaſt Report of any being expected, notwithſtanding the many different Accounts we, from Time to Time had, that, that Place was to be exchanged for the Spaniſh Part of Hiſpaniola.

BOSTON, June 20.

Two places in the corporation of Harvard college, vacant by the death of Dr. Wigglesworth, and the reſignation of Dr. Sewall, were lately filled by the election of John Winthrop, Eſq; Hollis-profeſſor of the mathematicks and natural philoſophy at Cambridge, and the Rev. Mr. Eliot of Boſton.

Tueſday laſt died at Reading, the Rev. Mr. William Hobby, Paſtor of the Church in that Town.

The ſame Day died here the Rev. Mr. Ephraim Bound, Paſtor of one of the Antipædobaptiſt Churches in this Town.

Saturday laſt died at Milton, Mr. Andrew McKenzie, formerly of this Town, Merchant.

Yeſterday Morning one of the Town Fiſhing Boats towed up a large Shark, which they had taken at the Mouth of the Harbour: The Length of the Shark was 28 Feet, ſeven Feet thick, and the Liver when taken out more than filled two Hogſheads; and it was thought would make 4 or 5 Barrels of Oyl.

We hear from Cambridge, That Stephen Sewall, A. M. lately elected Hancock-profeſſor of Hebrew, and other oriental languages, in Harvard college, was yeſterday publickly inſtalled in that office:—The proceſſion from the college to the meeting houſe, preceded by all the ſtudents of the college, was very large and reſpectable: The public exerciſes began at XII o'clock: The Rev Mr. Appleton opened the ſolemnity with prayer: a Latin oration ſuitable to the occaſion was delivered by the reverend and learned Preſident; in which there was a grateful commemoration of the public and private benefactions with which the college has been favoured, and an honorable mention was made of the noble benefaction of the late honorable Mr. Hancock: with a particular acknowledgment made to John Hancock Eſq; who had generouſly fulfilled his late uncle's intention in giving 500l. ſterl. to the public library.—Then the preſident publiſhed that part of Mr Hancock's laſt will and teſtament, by which proviſion is made for the ſupport of oriental languages in Harvard college: Then the ſtatutes and rules relating to the profeſſor of oriental languages, enacted by the government of the college, agreeable to the direction given by the founder in his laſt will were read by the Hollis profeſſor of mathematics and philoſophy: And after the requiſite declarations were publickly made by Mr. Sewall, he was, by the reverend preſident, with the conſent of his excellency the Governor and the honorable & reverend board of overſeers, and in the preſence of the whole General Court, declared Hancock profeſſor of Hebrew and other oriental languages in Harvard College. An elegant Latin oration was pronounced by the Profeſſor upon his inauguration; the Reverend Dr. Sewall prayed; and after the ſinging a pſalm, the proceſſion returned to the new hall, in the beautiful ſtructure which is now erecting by the government in the place of Harvard hall, which was ſome time ſince deſtroyed by fire; where his excellency the governor, the honorable his Majeſty's council, and the honorable houſe of repreſentatives, with a great number of miniſters and gentlemen of diſtinction, were entertained at dinner with the greateſt elegance and politeneſs. The decency and propriety with which the whole was conducted gave univerſal ſatisfaction.

LONDON, April 16.

Extract of a Letter from Halifax, in NovaScotia.

"A Deſign is on Foot here for eſtabliſhing a Company to work to Advantage in the Coal Mines of the Iſland of Cape-Breton; which have this Superiority over all others, that the Coals are within three Feet of the Surface, and the moſt excellent I ever ſaw. There will be no Occaſion for digging under Ground, or making Drains to carry off the Water, as in England; for their Mines conſiſt of entire Mountains of Coal, and are ſufficient to ſupply all the Britiſh Plantations in North America for eight Centuries."

Wedneſday morning a duel was fought in Hyde Park, betwen the hours of ſix and ſeven, by a Lieutenant of a man of war, and a young gentleman belonging to the law. After firing two rounds, and having drawn their ſwords, the report of the piſtols brought ſome people up, by which they were prevented going any further, though not without the Lieu-enant's receiving a wound in his breaſt. They afterwards, to utward appearance, parted very well reconciled, and really ſeemed ſenſible of their error. It was occaſioned by an old uarrel when they were both abroad, and formerly belonged o the ſame regiment.

The King of Pruſſia ſince the late Peace has taken again o his Study; and not having Meſſ. Voltaire, d'Alemberg, r d'Argens, with him, has ſent for the Sieur Helvetius, a ery famous Man in the learned World.

We hear that an additional duty of thirty ſhillings per ndred weight is to be laid on all Gum Senegal and Gum Arabic, exported out of his Majeſty's dominions, excluſive of all other rates and duties.

Private advices from Warſaw mention, that a moſt dangerous conſpiracy has very lately been diſcovered; but as the parties concerned were ſaid to be of higeſt dignities in the ſtate, the mentioning of names (as the letters ſay) would e not only imprudent, but dangerous, all foreign letters being inſpected.

They write from Anamaboa, on the Gold coaſt of Africa, hat on purchaſing ſome ſlaves from one of the princes of the country, two white perſons were diſcovered among hem, who ſpoke a language unknown to the Negroes and ll preſent, and are ſuppoſed to be natives of Ethiopia, or ome interior region of that vaſt continent. They are to be ught Engliſh, in order to find who or whence they are, and hat further may be learnt from this diſcovery.

Extract of a Letter from the Hague.

"A Jew having trapanned into this country two Ameri-ns, uncle and nephew, of a nation bordering on Pennſylva-e, took it into his head to make a ſhew of them. He expo-d the nephew here, and placed the uncle at Amſterdam: two perſons of the firſt rank in this country, fired with ignation at ſeeing two foreigners kept for public ſhew o were born free, though ſavages, cauſed them to be ſet liberty; and Sir Joſeph York, the Britiſh ambaſſador, pro-vided them with neceſſaries for a paſſage to London, from whence they will be conducted to their own country. Before ir departure they were introduced to a ball, where on re-ſt, they ſet up the war whoop uſed among their own peo-As they could ſpeak a little Engliſh, we had the cu-ity to know what they thought of the European ladies; and frankly declared that they gave the preference to the en of their own country.

pril 20. Some important advices, have this week been ceived from Saxony, ſaid to be on the ſubject of approach-ubles on the continent.

The moſt brilliant appearance of the nobility in Engliſh manufactured ſilks is expected on his Majeſty's next birthday, that ever was known in the kingdom. A ſuit of rich embroidered crimſon velvet and gold, is preparing for the appearance of his royal highneſs the duke of York, and one of ſilver and gold for his royal highneſs the duke of Glouceſter; all manufactured in Spittle fields.

It is confidently ſaid, that an act will ſpeedily be paſſed to ſubject the perſons in whoſe houſes ſmuggled goods may hereafter be found, to the ſame pains and penalties as the ſmuglers themſelves.

Among other military regulations now upon the carpet, we hear it has been propoſed, that for the future no agent for the army ſhall do buſineſs for more than one regiment, the inconveniences ariſing from a monopoly of this nature, by overgrown agents, having long been complained of as a real evil.

We hear a patent will be granted to a certain actor, who lately went to America, to build a theatre in that part of the world, the inhabitants, it is ſaid, being very fond of dramatic entertainments.

Laſt week the Jew conjurer won near 300 guineas at whiſt of a noble peer.

According to letters from Rome, the Pope is ſo ill with a fiſtula luchrymalis, that they have been obliged to let his Holineſs blood.

23. We hear the king of Pruſſia had like to have been burnt by reading in bed: he had fallen aſleep, during which the ſheets had taken fire.

HARTFORD, June 24

We hear, that the anniverſary Commencement, at Yale-College, in New-Haven, for this Year, is appointed by the Reverend Preſident, and Corporation, to be held on Wedneſday the laſt Day of July next.

There is the faireſt Proſpect of a plentiful Wheat and Rye Harveſt, that has been known for many Years.

Killingly, June 17, 1765

On Monday laſt, the Houſe of James Bruce of this Place, was ſtruck with lightning; which entered in at the Roof, near the Chimney, took off ſeveral Boards and a Rafter, which were ſplit into ſmall ſplinters, and ſome of them carried ten or twelve Rods Diſtant from the Houſe; the Lightning then runing down a Poſt, entered a Room, where eight Perſons were ſetting, tearing up the Floor next the Chimney, ſpliting a Sleeper adjoining the Hearth, in ſo ſmall Pieces, that none could be found exceeding three Feet in Length, and two Inches in Diameter, without hurting any Perſon, except a Woman, who received a ſmall Wound on her Leg, by the Lightning, which ſoon turned of a purple Colour, ſwell'd much, and was extreme painful. A Man was ſitting in the Garret, ſeparating Hemp from Tow, that was intermix'd; and the Tow was ſet on Fire, without his receiving any Harm. No Perſon in the Houſe was ſenſible of hearing the Thunder, tho' they imagined they heard ſome uncommon Noiſe.——Two Hogs that lay near the Houſe were killed.——

The ſame Day, a Barn was ſtruck with Lightning in this Town.

To be ſold at public vendue, at the court-houſe, in Hartford, on Tueſday, the 25th of June inſtant, and to be continued, from day to day.——

A Large quantity of Engliſh goods; among which are a number of braſs kittles of various ſizes.

By PELATIAH PIERCE.

TO-MORROW, at IV o'Clock P. M. will be ſold a Public Vendue, at the Houſe of Mr. David Bull, in Hartford.

TWO Barrels and one Quarter-caſk of good Madeira Wine either by the Caſk, or in Ten Gallon Lots, as beſt ſuits the Purchaſers; Four Months Credit will given, if deſiredby the Purchaſer.

June 17th, 1765.

N. B. The above Wine was advertiſed in this Paper, to be ſold the 10th Inſtant, but was obliged to be poſtponed, till the 25th Inſtant.

THE proprietors of the townſhip of Cornwal, in the province of New-Hampſhire, are hereby warned to meet at the dwelling-houſe of Mr. David Beebe, innholder in Saliſbury, on the ſecond Tueſday of July next, at noon, to agree upon further meaſures to promote the ſettlement of ſaid townſhip. Application having been made, as the law of ſaid province directs.

John Hutchinſon, Juſtice of the peace.

To be ſold at the PUBLIC VENDUE ROOM in Middletown; on the ſecond Tueſday of July next, and to continue from Tueſday to Tueſday, 'till the whole is ſold; a new and freſh aſſortment of GOODS, juſt arrived for ſale that way, viz.

ONE hundred pounds worth of the neweſt faſhion, paper hanging for rooms, one hundred pounds worth of pewter, London and home made, of all ſorts, among which are, plates, diſhes, Baſons, porringers, quart and point potts and canns,——and a great variety of other Engliſh goods, as window glaſs, looking glaſſes, hour and half hour glaſſes, braſs kettles, ſkillets and warming pans, copper tea-kettles, iron potts, kettles, ſkillets and cart boxes, grind-ſtones, and irons, ſhovels and tongs, pad locks, ſheep ſhears, carpenter's hammers, ſhoe maker's tools, and ſaddlery ware, of all ſorts, locks and hinges of all ſorts, curry combs, ſteel-yards, ſhoe and knee buckles, penknives, ſnuff and tobacco boxes, combs, [illegible], wool cards, gimblets, candleſticks, ſcythes, ſickles, rubſtones, flat irons, bibles, teſtaments, pſalters, ſpelling books, and primmers, ſome Latin books, woman's Engliſh ſhoes, and ſhammy gloves, warranted razors, white hollands, garlets, and checks of all ſorts, three-fourths and ſeven eighths bed ticks, ſtrip'd, croſs barr'd & brown hollands, broad cloths, rattens, tammy & ſhalloons of all kinds, camblets, bird ey'd ſtuffs, everlaſtings, velvets, mens hatts, corn-fans, ſives, &c. Alſo a large aſſortment of crockery ware, as moſaic diſhes and plates, tea potts, chocolate cups and ſaucers, and all other ſorts of ſaid ware, a large aſſortment of hatter's linings and other trimming, watch glaſſes, ſeals, keys, &c. a quantity of barber's hair, bruſhes, ribbons, &c.———In the mean while will be ſold, almoſt any kind of goods, on Tueſday evenings, before the ſaid ſecond Tueſday in July next. As there is now more than eight hundred pounds value in goods, already brought in for ſale, at vendue, 'tis probable, thoſe who have caſh to ſpare, may have an opportunity of laying it out to the greateſt advantage.

N. B. As the evenings are ſhort, the vendue will begin at about five o'clock afternoon, if twenty bidders appear by that time. Middletown, June 20, 1765.

TO BE SOLD,

By E. AUSTIN,

Near the Court Houſe, in Hartford;—The following Articles, for Goldſmith's and Jeweller's uſes, viz.

ROUND and ſquare Steel Shoe Chapes and Tongs, Knee ditto; an Aſſortment of Files; Cruſibles; Black Lead Pots; Salt Petre; Borax; Iron Rivet Wire; fine Binding Ditto; Braſs Rivet Wire; Moulding Sand; Sand Paper; Buckle Bruſhes; Flower of Putta; Coral Beads; neat Thimble Stamp; red and white Foil; neat Stone Locket, ſet in Gold; Garnet Rings, cypher'd and white ditto; cypher'd and white Stone Ear-rings, ſet in Gold; Ditto, in Silver; cypher'd and white Stone Buttons ſet in Silver.

N. B. To be ſold (for Want of Employ) a likely Negro Boy, about fourteen Years old, has been in the Country one Year. Inquire of ſaid Auſtin.

TAKEN up (as a ſtray) by the ſubſcriber of Wintonbury, on Tueſday the 4th Inſtant, a brown mare, about 12 years old, 14 hands high, branded I on the near ſhoulder, blaze in her face, near hind foot white, paces and trots.

The owner may have her again, on proving his property and paying charges. Inquire of

JOHN PARSONS.

TAken up as a ſtray, on the firſt Inſtant, a black horſe, 14 hands high, no brand, hip-ſhot on the left ſide, paces and trots, upwards of 12 years old. The owner may have him again, on proving his property and paying charges. Inquire of Benjamin Allyn, of Windſor.

PROVIDENCE STONE LIME, of the beſt Quality.——To be ſold cheap for Caſh, or Country Produce, by SAMUEL MARSH, of Hartford.

TO be ſold by ALLEN M'LEAN, South of the Court-Houſe in Hartford; the beſt of Tamerinds, at Eight Pence per Pound. 30

LONDON, March 30.

The black gentleman who was ordain'd on Monday, is an African Prince, ſon of the king of Annamaboo, near Cape-Coaſt Caſtle in Africa; and he is going on a miſſion there, in the ſervice of the ſociety for promoting the goſpel in foreign parts.

Michael Samſon, commonly call'd Capt. Samſon, who was ſome time ago convicted at the Old Baily of forgery, and ordered for execution; but afterwards received the king's pardon, on condition of being tranſported for life, died in his paſſage to the plantations.

The complaints hourly heard in London, of the diſtreſſes of the manufacturers, are enough to make the moſt rocky heart ſoften into a tenderneſs. But our pity will not afford them real redreſs, and charitable contributions can bring but a temporary relief; and it were better that ſuch relief were never neceſſary, ſince the bad habits brought on by ſuch indulgence, are as much to be dreaded as the calamity itſelf; because we may fear that other parts of the kingdom will be reduced by the ſame cauſes to a ſtate of want. The expences of the ſtate have been ſo great during the late war, and the taxes thereby ſo much increaſed, that the produce of our labour cannot be uttered with advantage in foreign markets. In order therefore to make our manufactures go off, the tradeſman has been obliged to lower the qualities of his goods, and uſe other craft, as beſt anſwer'd his purpoſe, that he might vend his goods as cheap as thoſe of other countries; but theſe expedients being unfair in reality, are ſoon diſcover'd, and our commodities, by this means, fall into diſrepute; by theſe cauſes foreign merchants are diſguſted, and will not deal with us: Hence we acquire the repute of diſhoneſty and tricking, which will have ſuch an effect, as will make them ſlight our merchandize, even when the qualities of them are reſtored and improved. While we were at war, the channels of traffic were ſtopped to our enemies by the great deſtruction of their ſhips; and while we had the whole trade in a manner in our hands, we could make what profit we pleaſed, ſo that the effect of our augmented taxes was not obſerved or felt; but now a free trade is eſtabliſhed by the peace, our enemies can go to market as well as we can; it is plainly to be ſeen what grievouſneſs will reſult from the taxes to the nation, if they are not reduced; and yet inſtead of ſuch a reduction, we daily ſee them multiply; but how this multiplicity of taxes can be reduced is a thing to be conſidered. The method is plain; but what ſhall be ſaid, if there be no man of integrity that dare promote it. We are in the condition of Sodom, and muſt periſh for want of one honeſt man to endeavour to avert our deſtruction.

With the multiplication of taxes the places under the crown are proportionably multiplied; and not only places but the fees and profits of a great number are multiplied and increaſed; eſpecially when they depend upon poundage; for the more money is raiſed for the purpoſes of government, the more ſuch fees muſt amount to. Will it not ſtartle any perſon to have it told, that one Teller of the Exchequer, juſt before the concluſion of the war, reſerved by fees 12,000l. in one quarter of a year; and it is a certain truth, that thoſe officers have long been aſhamed of their own fees: perhaps I have made uſe of an improper expreſſion, but I am certain they have long feared an inſpection into the exorbitancy of them. A late Teller, when his deputy carried him the profits of his firſt quarter, was ſo aſtoniſhed at the ſum, that he expreſſed his hopes of its being honeſtly detained; and ſo great have been the profits of ſix or ſeven officers of that ſort, that they more than equal many taxes laid upon the people.

By a proper inſpection into thoſe things; by rendering ſhorter the buſineſs of collecting the revenue; the national affairs might be put on ſuch foundation as would work a wonderful alteration for the beſt. The public money has been laviſhed, not expended; half the money that has been raiſed on the people might have anſwered all the purpoſes of government with any tolerable management; but we have been undone by iniquitous jobbers, contractors, and other extortioners. And the worſt of all is, that when a detection is made of any vilany, certain people are commonly ſo involved, that the power of the kingdom is turned into a ſcreen for them.

We hear that a lady of high diſtinction, and of celebrated beauty, has been deſired not to appear in a certain ſplendid circle, on account of her charms having made too deep an impreſſion on a perſon of ſuperior rank; and that an affluent appointment has been offered to defray the expences of the tour.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown, oppoſite the Court-Houſe.

[redacted]

Nov: 1765.

Litchfield

3

From the [illegible] Gazette.

St. [illegible] August 27.

AN [illegible] left Gov. P[illegible] [illegible] Harbour, [illegible], on the 16th of July, [illegible], that on the [illegible] of June, getting in with the Coaſts of Newfoundland, between St. John's and Cape Race, he [illegible] two French Ships of War there; they were to Windward of him, ſo that he could not get up to ſpeak with them. The next Day he ſaw them off Cape Pierre, and gave Chaſe to them, but loſt them in the Night. He immediately diſpatched an Officer to look into St. Pierre, and another along the Coaſt, for getting Informations of the State of Things [illegible] Accounts of two French Ships of War, named the Thetis and Outard, being at St. Pierre; and the other a great many Informations of the French fiſhing where they were excluded from it by Treaties. That he had ſeized four of the French Boats, and made ſome Priſoners of the French acting in Contravention to the Treaties. He firſt intended to ſend the Men to England, for a clearer Confirmation of the Matters above-mentioned; but the Facts for which they were arreſted being admitted by the French Governor, and their Ships of War having retired agreeable to a Remonſtrance of Mr. Palliſer, on that Subject, he made that a Reaſon for releaſing the Men.

Every Thing was quiet when the Expreſs came away; and it is hoped the proper Conduct of the Governor will preſerve Peace and good Order there.

August 25. By the laſt letters [illegible] Col. Deſmaretz, h[illegible] commiſſary at Dunk[illegible] we are aſſured, that orders were given by the French miniſtry, for immediate ſetting about the demolition of the jettes, which are the ſupport of the harbour of Dunkirk.

August 31. By accounts from Madrid, Domingo Antonio Calamorto, who was pernicioufly concerned in contriving the loſs of the Spaniſh ſhip commanded by Capt. Loretto, that was run on ſhore near Exeter, and who had made his eſcape to Corunna, has by order of that court, been put into a dungeon, where he is never more to ſee the light.

LONDON, Auguſt [illegible].

Yeſterday, at noon, the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, ſeveral of the Aldermen, the Sheriffs, and a great number of the Common-Council of this city, waited on his Majeſty at St. James's with their addreſs of congratulation on the birth of a Prince, when they were moſt graciouſly received; and his Majeſty was pleaſed to confer the honor of Knighthood on Thomas Harris, Eſq; one of the Sheriffs.

At a general Meeting of the Freemen, Inhabitants of the County of Eſſex, in New-Jerſey, at the free Borough of Elizabeth, on the 25th of October, in the Year of our Lord 1765, being the Anniverſary of the happy Acceſſion of his preſent Majeſty King George the Third, to the Crown of Great-Britain, &c. upon which Occaſion the ſaid Freemen unanimouſly, and with one Voice declared,

FIRST. That they have at all Times heretofore, and ever would bear true Allegiance to his Majeſty King George the Third, and his royal Predeceſſors, and wiſhed to be governed agreeable to the Laws of the Land and the Britiſh Conſtitution, to which they ever had, and forever moſt chearfully would ſubmit.

Secondly. That the Stamp-Act, prepared for the Britiſh Colonies in America, in their Opinion, is unconſtitutional; and ſhould the ſame take Place, agreeable to the Tenor of it, would be a manifeſt Deſtruction and Overthrow of their long-enjoyed, boaſted and invaluable Liberties and Privileges.

Thirdly. That they will by all lawful Ways and Means, endeavour to preſerve and tranſmit to Poſterity, their Liberty and Property, in as full and ample Manner as they received the ſame from their Anceſtors.

Fourthly. That they will diſcountenance and diſcourage by all lawful Meaſures, the Execution and Effect of the Stamp-Act.

Fifthly. That they will deteſt, abhor, and hold in the utmoſt Contempt, all and every Perſon or Perſons, who ſhall meanly accept of any Employment or Office, relating to the Stamp Act, or ſhall take any Shelter or Advantage from the ſame; and all and every Stamp Pimp, Informer, Favourer, and Encourager of the Execution of the ſaid Act; and that they will have no Communication with any ſuch Perſon, nor ſpeak to them on any Occaſion, unleſs it be to inform them of their Vileneſs.

NEW-HAVEN.

THE Houſe of Repreſentatives, of His Majeſty's Colony of Connecticut, in New-England, in General Court aſſembled, taking into their ſerious Conſideration, that an Act, of the Parliament of Great-Britain, has been lately paſſed for granting and applying certain Stamp Duties, &c. in the Britiſh Colonies and Plantations in America, find ourſelves diſtreſſed with the moſt alarming Apprehenſions, when we obſerve that grand Legiſlature to entertain Sentiments ſo different from ours, reſpecting what we ever reckoned amongſt our moſt important and eſſential Rights, as Engliſhmen.

The Conſtitution of the Britiſh Government, we eſteem the happieſt in the World; founded on Maxims of conſummate Wiſdom, and, in the beſt Manner, caluclated to ſecure the Prerogatives of the Crown, while it maintains the juſt Rights and Liberties of the Subject. By Virtue of which Conſtitution, and the royal Grant and Charter of His Majeſty King Charles the Second, the Inhabitants of this Colony have enjoyed great and ineſtimable Liberties and Privileges, of a civil and religious Nature, for more than a Century paſt; and more eſpecially under the auſpicious Government of the illuſtrious Houſe of Hanover. That royal Houſe have ever held ſacred and inviolable thoſe Rights and Privileges of their loyal Subjects in this Colony, derived to them as aforeſaid: In return for which, the Princes of that exalted Line, have ever had, from this People, their ardent Deſires of all Happineſs to their Perſons and Glory to their Empire.

Inſpired with the warmeſt Sentiments of affectionate Loyalty and Duty, the Coloniſts have been ever ready to ſacrifice their Lives and Fortunes to the Service of their King and Country; and believing that his Majeſty's Intereſt, in this Colony, cannot be more firmly eſtabliſhed and perfectly ſecured, nor the Happineſs of the Britiſh Nation more effectually promoted by us, than in our full Poſſeſſion and continued Enjoyment of the Rights and Privileges of the Britiſh Conſtitution, which we have not forfeited, but ought to hold, as Engliſhmen; and which are, if poſſible, rendered more ſacred and indefeaſible by the royal Grant and Charter aforeſaid, which we conceive to ſtand upon the ſame Baſis with the grand Charters and Fountains of Engliſh Liberty; and as the aforeſaid Act tends, as we conceive, to deprive us of the moſt intereſting, important and eſſential of thoſe Rights which we hold moſt dear, and cannot (on any poſſible Conſideration) be induced willingly to part with; we are therefore filled with the moſt ſenſible Grief and Concern, and think it a Duty we owe to His Majeſty, to the Nation, to Ourſelves, and to Poſterity, to expreſs and declare the Senſe we have reſpecting the Rights and Privileges which we may juſtly claim, and humbly hope to enjoy, under His Majeſty's gracious Protection and Government; and do therefore declare and make it known in the following Declarations and Reſolves.

1. In the firſt Place, We do moſt expeſsly declare, recognize and acknowledge His Majeſty, King GEORGE the Third, to be lawful and rightful King of Great Britain, and all other the Dominions and Countries thereto belonging; and that it is the indiſpenſible Duty of the People of this Colony (as being Part of His Majeſty's Dominions) always to bear faithful and true Allegiance to His Majeſty; and him to defend to the utmoſt of their Power, againſt all Attempts againſt his Perſon, Crown and Dignity.

2. That this Colony, or the greateſt Part thereof, was purchaſed and obtained, for great and valuable Conſiderations, and ſome other Part thereof gained by Conqueſt, with much Difficulty, and at the only Endeavours, Expence and Charges of our Forefathers: And that thereby conſiderable Addition was made to his Majeſty's Dominions and Intereſt. And that, in Conſideration of ſuch Purchaſe, &c. as aforeſaid, His Majeſty King Charles the Second, in the 14th Year of his Reign, did, for himſelf, his Heirs and Succeſſors, ordain, declare and grant unto the Governor and Company of this Colony and their Succeſſors, That all and every of the Subjects of him, his Heirs or Succeſſors, which ſhould go to inhabit within the ſaid Colony, and every of their Children which ſhould be born there, or on the Sea in going thither, or returning from thence, ſhould have and enjoy all Liberties and Immunities of free and natural Subjects, within any of the Dominions of the ſaid King, his Heirs or Succeſſors, to all Intents, Conſtructions and Purpoſes whatſoever, as if they and every of them were born within the Realm of England.

3. That the free, natural Subjects of Great Britain, born within the Realm of England, have a Property in their own Eſtates, and are to be taxed only by their own Conſent, given in Perſon, or by their Repreſentatives; and are not to be diſſeized of their Liberties or free Cuſtoms, ſentenced or condemned but by lawful Judgment of their Peers. And that the ſaid Rights and Immunities were granted to and conferred on the Inhabitants of this Colony by the royal Grant and Charter aforeſaid; and therefore are their Rights, to all Intents, Conſtructions and Purpoſes whatſoever.

4. That the Conſent of the Inhabitants of this Colony was not given to the ſaid Act of Parliament, perſonally or by Repreſentation, actually or virtually, in any Senſe or Degree that at all comports with the true Intendment, Spirit, or equitable Conſtruction of the Britiſh Conſtitution.

5. That His Majeſty's liege Subjects of this Colony, have enjoyed the Right and Privilege of being governed by their General Aſſembly, in the Article of Taxing and internal Police, agreeable to the Powers and Privileges granted and contained in the royal Charter aforeſaid, for more than a Century paſt; and that the ſame have never been forfeited or any Way yielded up, but have been conſtantly recognized by the King [illegible] Parliament of Great-Britain.

6. That, in the Opinion of this Houſe, an Act for raiſing Money by Duties or Taxes, different from other Acts of Legiſlation, in that it is always conſidered as a free Gift of the People, made by their legal and elected Repreſentatives. And that we cannot conceive that the People of Great-Britain, or their Repreſentatives, have a Right to diſpoſe of our Property.

7. That the only legal Repreſentatives of the Inhabitants of this Colony, are the Perſons they elect to ſerve as Members of the General Aſſembly thereof.

8. That the veſting Authority in the Courts of Admiralty (as in ſaid Act is provided) to judge and determine in Suits relating to the Duties and Forfeitures contained in ſaid Act, and other Matters foreign to their accuſtomed and eſtabliſhed Juriſdiction, is, in the Opinion of this Houſe, highly dangerous to the Liberties of His Majeſty's American Subjects, contrary to the great Charter of Engliſh Liberty, and deſtructive of one of their moſt darling Rights,——that of Trials by Juries; which is juſtly eſteemed one chief Excellence of the Britiſh Conſtitution, and principal Bulwark of Engliſh Liberty.

9. That it is the Opinion of this Houſe, that the ſaid Act for granting and applying certain Stamp Duties, &c. as aforeſaid, is unprecedented and unconſtitutional.

10. That whenever His Majeſty's Service ſhall require the Aid of the Inhabitants of this Colony, the ſame fixed Principles of Loyalty, as well as Self-Preſervation (which have hitherto induced us fully to comply with His Majeſty's Requiſitions) will, together with the deep Senſe we have of its being our indiſpenſible Duty, (in the Opinion of this Houſe) ever hold us under the ſtrongeſt Obligation which can be given or deſired, moſt chearfully to grant His Majeſty (from Time to Time) our further Proportion of Men and Money, for the Defence, Security, and other Services of the Britiſh-American Dominions.

11. That we look upon the Well-Being and greateſt Security of this Colony to depend (under God) on our Connexion with Great-Britain, which we ardently wiſh may continue to the lateſt Poſterity. And that it is the humble Opinion of this Houſe, that the Conſtitution of this Colony, being underſtood and practiſed upon, as it has been ever ſince it exiſted, is the ſureſt Band of Union, Confidenc and mutual Proſperity of our Mothe Country and us; and the beſt Foundat on which to build the Good of th Whole, whether conſidered in a civi military or mercantile Light. And of the Truth of this Opinion we are the more confident, as it is not founded on Speculation only, but has been verified in Fact; and by long Experience, found to produce (according to our Extent and other Circumſtances) as many loyal, virtuous, induſtrious and well-governed Subjects, as any Part of His Majeſty's Dominions; and as truly zealous and as warmly engaged to promote the beſt Good and real Glory of the Grand Whole which conſtitutes the Britiſh Empire.

To the Printer, in New-York.

SIR,

I Will now wave the Legality or Illegality of the Stamp-Act; my Deſign is to propoſe a few Queſtions, relative to the Conſequences ſo much dreaded.

1ſt. Can any one without Orders for that Purpoſe, appoint Diſtributors of Stamps in the Colonies, the legal Officers having reſigned?

2d. If any one has, or aſſumes that Power, muſt not alſo Under Diſtributors be appointed in every County, to provide with Stamps thoſe that may have Occaſion for them?

3d. Should any one ſuffer, for the Want of Stamps, in any remote County, may he not recover from the Chief Diſtributor, and he from his Conſtituent, ſhould any Proſecution be carried on after it has been notified in a legal Manner, by whoſe Authority the Diſtributor of Stamps has been appointed, and by Virtue of what?

4th. Is any one to ſubmit to the Stamp Act, unleſs he firſt knows there is a Stamp Act?

5th. Who knows that the Pamphlets containing the Stamp Act are better than defamatory Libels?

6th. How muſt the King's faithful Subjects here be informed of it if not by a Proclamation?

7th. Have not all the Governors attempted to get ſomething like the Advice of their Council, in this dangerous and unprecedented Caſe?

8th. Have not all the Counſellors declined adviſing any meaſure parricidal?

9th. Is the ſuppoſed Stamp Act of a ſuperior Nature to the King's Right of ſucceeding to the Throne, on the Demiſe of his Father?

10th. Did the L. Gov---r ſign in the Name of the late King any Patents, or other Papers of a public Nature, even long after Inſtructions had been received to proclaim the King?

11th. Was there any juſt Cauſe of accuſing of Diſaffection thoſe who inſerted the late King's Name in all Sorts of Deeds, before the Proclamation of G. the Third?

12th. But would it not have been a high Miſdemeanour in any one who ſhould have acted otherwiſe?

13. Muſt the Stamps be of ſuch tranſcendent and magic Force, as to act before they exiſt; for they do not exiſt before the conſtitutinal Formalities have given them Life?

14th. May not any Printer, who before a Proclamation of the Governor, iſſued by and with the Advice of his Majeſty's Council, ſtops his Preſs from the mere Panic of the pretended Act, fear the Indignation of the Public, and the Reſentment of the Populace; for how will People be made ſenſible of their Rights, but by the Preſs?

NEWPORT, October 28.

The Governor of Maryland having deſired the Advice of the Aſſembly, with Reſpect to taking Care of the Stamped Paper, as the Officer appointed for that Purpoſe had gone off, they reply'd, 'In Anſwer to your Meſſage juſt now received, relative to the Stamp'd Paper, we ſhould think ourſelves extremely happy were we in Circumſtances to adviſe your Excellency on ſo new a Subject: But it being a Matter of Importance, and ſuch as we do not think ourſelves at Liberty to adviſe in, without the Inſtructions of our Conſtituents, which we cannot now obtain, we hope your Excellency will think us excuſeable for declining to offer you any Advice upon the Occaſion.'

The Piece inſerted in our laſt, poſted up on the Long-Wharf Yeſterday ſe'nnight, was pulled down at Night, and ſoon after replaced with the following.

YEſt-rday was poſted here, in order to ſtand without Injury, THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE, and in the Evening a ſacrilegious Hand, well known, pull'd it down. For this his firſt Offence, let him paſs with Impunity; but no more let him move our Ire.

We now order this our voluntary Act to ſtand till the firſt Day of November,—and acquaint the S—— M——, that his Piece of this Day, in the Newport Mercury, gives us no Satiſfaction: That the Votes and Reſolves in our Yeſterday's Piece will be duly attended to: That he never will have the Town's Conſent to execute the Office of S——p M——r: That his long Harangue is but a Copy of his Countenance: We well know, if he diſpoſes of none of the accurſed Papers, they cannot be uſed within this Government. We have great Reaſon to think ſome of the Papers are already on Shore. We are fully convinced where they are depoſited. We are determined, at all Events, no Uſe ſhall be made of them.—As Mr. S——-p-M——n, by Virtue of his Office, has, as he now owns, been ſo officious as to contrive that the d—— Traſh ſhould be convey'd here, which we never thought he would have Imprudence or Impudence to do, we now tell him, that we will allow him once more to exerciſe his Office, which he muſt do openly and fairly,—that is, take the accurſed Papers from on board the Cygnet, and put them on board the firſt Veſſel bound to any Part of Great-Britain, and ſhip them to —— ——, and take proper Bills of Lading for them. If he doth not this, let him abide the Event; for mental Evaſions and Equivocation, we will not put up with.

RHODE-ISLAND.

* * * * * * * *

NEW-YORK.

Mr. PRINTER,

SIR,

If you think the following Piece adapted to the preſent Occaſion, you are welcome to inſert it.

A Funeral LAMENTATION
On the Death of LIBERTY;
Who finally expires this thirty first of October,
In the Year of our Lord
M.dcc.lxv.
And of our Slavery
I.

By Am-r--a.

'Venit ſumma, Dies et ineluctabile Tempus.'

I AM diſtreſſed for thee, my Siſter Liberty; very pleaſant haſt thou been unto me; thy Love to me was wonderful, far ſurpaſſing the Love of my Mother. When formerly Men of Oppreſſion, and Sons of Belial aroſe againſt my Darling; and endeavoured by Degrees to weaken and ruin her; the Lion lift up his Voice in her Defence: he roared terribly againſt her Enemies: The Temple of Dagon ſhook; the Philiſtines were confounded; they knew not how to anſwer him. But alas! the Fire wrought for them; the Lion was utterly conſumed; and Liberty was plainly obſerved to ſlip.

The uncircumciſed, however, a long Time remembered his Voice; they dared not purſue their Attack; and thus my Siſter enjoyed ſome Peace. But at length, growing more furious by their Repulſe, they fell upon the very City of Refuge, the Rock in which we truſted. That Sight the Sentinel could not endure; he aroſe fierce againſt the Enemy; he endeavoured to defend the ſtrong Hold of the People, and for ſome Time he worthily maintained his Poſt. But the Philiſtines at laſt proved too ſtrong for him; he left his Charge in order to look out for himſelf. Then didſt thou, my Siſter, manifeſtly ſtumble.

The Gazette ſtill was left; thro' that Gate the Friends of Liberty often ſallied out upon the Foe, nor always without Execution. But alas! This Hope is taken away; the laſt Poſt is loſt; and Liberty,—her Lion burnt; her Sentinel obliged to watch for himſelf; and her Gazette now ſtamped to Pieces,—falls to the Ground....How art thou loſt, my Siſter! my Siſter! Tell it not in Gath! publiſh it not in Aſkalon! leſt the Daughters of the Philiſtines hear it! leſt the Daughters of the Uncircumciſed rejoice! Ah, miſerable me! the laſt Refuge of the Unhappy is denied me! I am forbid even to mourn! to grieve for thee, my deareſt Friend! My very Complaints for thy Fate would but ſtamp thee deeper!....But ah! may I hope thou wilt not always be paces and [illegible], upwards owner may have him again, on proving his property and paying charges. Inquire of Benjamin Allyn, of Windſor.

---

PROVIDENCE STONE LIME, of the beſt Quality.——To be ſold cheap for Caſh, or Country Produce, by SAMUEL MARSH, of Hartford.

TO be ſold by ALLEN M'LEAN, South of the Court-Houſe in Hartford; the beſt of Tamerinds, at Eight Pence per Pound. 3° laviſhed, not expended, [illegible] on the people might have anſwered all [illegible] vernment with any tolerable management; but we have been undone by iniquitous jobbers, contractors, and other extortioners. And the worſt of all is, that when a detection is made of any vilany, certain people are commonly ſo involved, that the power of the kingdom is turned into a ſcreen for them.

We hear that a lady of high diſtinction, and of celebrated beauty, has been deſired not to appear in a certain ſplendid circle, on account of her charms having made too deep an impreſſion on a perſon of ſuperior rank; and that an affluent appointment has been offered to defray the expences of the tour.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown, oppoſite the Court-Houſe.

under the Power of thine Enemies; but like a new Phœnix, riſe brighter from thine Aſhes!...Unleſs thou reviveſt quickly, I ſhall alſo periſh with thee! In our Lives we were not divided: in our Deaths we will not be ſeparated!.....But ſince Enemies will not ſuffer us to mourn thee in Print, my true-born Sons will never, ſurely, to pleaſe them, mourn thee in Cloaths. No, my Siſter, our Hearts ſhall ever deplore thee, till reſtored. Thou wert to us a refreſhing Shower. Now thou art gone, the Light is turned into Darkneſs, and the Day is as the Shades of Night. With thee all our Happineſs died, nor will it ever revive but with thee. 'I mourn not at the Loſs of Riches, of Honours, of Life! but of my Guardian Angel, the heavenly Protectreſs of them all!...But I can no more!...How is the mighty fallen! and the Glory departed from Iſrael!.......

* * * * * * *

At a legal Meeting of the Freeholders and other Inhabitants of the Town of Cambridge, this 14th of October, 1765, the Hon. William Brattle, Eſq; choſen Moderator.

VOTED, THAT (with all Humility) it is the Opinion of the Town, that the Inhabitants of this Province have a legal Claim to all the natural, inherent, conſtitutional Rights of Engliſhmen, notwithſtanding their great Diſtance from Great-Britain——That the Stamp Act is an Infraction upon theſe Rights--one Inſtance in our Opinion, among many, is as follows:——

The Diſtributor of the Stamps, or Mr. INFORMER, has a Sovereignty over every Thing but the Lives of the People, ſince it is in their Power to ſummon every one they pleaſe to Quebec, Montreal or Newfoundland, to anſwer for the pretended or real Breaches of this Act. When the diſtreſſed Subject arrives there, by whom is he to be tried?---Not by his Peers in the Vicinage, (the Birthright of every Engliſhmen) no! by the Judge of Admiralty without a Jury; and it is poſſible without Law!-----Under theſe Circumſtances, the Stamp-Diſtributor or INFORMER may unrighteouſly get from His Majeſty's Good American Subjects, more than His Majeſty, upon a Balance may get by the Stamps: For who would not rather pay the Fine, guilty or not, than be thus harraſſed, thus tried?---Why are not his Majeſty's good Subjects of Great-Britain thus treated? Why muſt we in America, who have in every Inſtance diſcovered as much Loyalty to his Majeſty, and Obedience to his Laws, as any of his Britiſh Subjects; and whoſe Exertions, in ſome of the Provinces and Colonies, during the laſt War, have been greater, be thus diſcriminated?----at this Time eſpecially, whilſt we are ſtruggling under an almoſt inſupportable Load of Debt, the Conſequence of theſe Exertions. We believe it may be truly ſaid, that no one in Great Britain pays ſo great a Tax as ſome do in this Province, in Proportion to their Eſtates.

Let this Act but take Place, Liberty will be no more---Trade will languiſh and die---our Caſh will be ſent into his Majeſty's Exchequer---and Poverty come on us like an armed Man.

The Town therefore hereby adviſe and direct their Repreſentatives, by no Means whatſoever to do any one Thing that may aid ſaid Act in its Operations; but that in Conjunction with the Friends of Liberty, they uſe their utmoſt Endeavours that the ſame might be repealed-----That this Vote be recorded in the Town Book, that the Children yet unborn may ſee the Deſire their Anceſtors had for their Freedom and Happineſs; and that an atteſted Copy be given ſaid Repreſentatives for their Conduct.

WESTMORELAND, Sept. 24.

To the Honorable the Governor and Council of VIRGINIA.

THE very great impropiety of acting in an office which at one requires the diſcharge of Duties, utterly inconſiſtent with each other, makes it indiſpenſably neceſſary to give your Honours this timely information; that after the firſt day of November next, We, the under-written Magiſtrates of Weſtmorland, find Ourſelves compelled, by the ſtrongeſt motives of Honor and Virtue, to decline acting in that capacity; becauſe from that period, the act for eſtabliſhing ſtamps in America commences, which act will impoſe on us a neceſſity, in conſequence of the judicial oath we take, of acting in conformity to it's directions, and, by doing ſo, to become inſtrumental in the deſtruction of our country's moſt eſſential rights and liberties.

(Signed by the JUSTICES.)

CIVITA VECCHIA, July 20.

WE this moment are informed of a fight having been off the iſlands of Spartinetto, between a man of war belonging to the Pope, commanded by the Chevalier Carros, and a Barbary frigate, in company with ſeveral more xebeques. The veſſel belonging to his Holineſs gave chaſe to the frigate, took 2 xebeques, and ran aground a third. There was a great number of ſlaves taken on board the two xebeques, and they ſoon will be brought here.

HANOVER, Auguſt 23. On Monday laſt his Royal Highneſs the Duke of York gave a grand entertainment in the gardens at Herenhauſen, to which all the Burghers, their wives and children, were invited. There were three tables ſupplied with all manner of eatables and refreſhments, of which all perſons were welcome to partake.

PARIS, Auguſt 22. 'Tis now ſaid, that matters are carried to ſuoh a height between our miniſters and the court of London, that the payment of the Canada bills will be peremptorily refuſed.

HAGUE, Auguſt 27. An expreſs arrived this morning, has brought an Account of the ſudden death of the Emperor of Germany, at Inſpruck: His Imperial Majeſty was ſeized with a fit of apoplexy, and fell into the arms of his ſon the King of the Romans, who was ſitting next him.

NDAY, July 1, 1765. 32 [Number

he CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

By the Honorable

JOHN TEMPLE, Eſq.

Surveyor-General of His Majeſty's Cuſtoms for the Northern Diſtrict of America.

WHEREAS by the Act of the 4th of his preſent Majeſty, it is enacted, " That no Goods, Wares or Merchandize of any Kind whatſoever, ſhall be ſhipped or laden on board any Ship or Veſſel in any of the Britiſh Colonies or Plantations in America, to be carried from thence to any other Britiſh Colony or Plantation, without a Sufferance or Warrant firſt had and obtained from the Collector, or other proper Officer of the Cuſtoms, at the Port or Place where ſuch Goods ſhall be intended to be put on board, and the Maſter of every ſuch Ship or Veſſel ſhall, before the ſame be removed or carried out from the Port or Place where he takes in his Lading, take out a Cocket or Cockets expreſſing the Quantity and Quality of the Goods, and Marks of the Package ſo laden, with the Merchant's Names by whom ſhipped, and to whom conſigned; and if they are Goods that are liable to the Payment of any Duty, either upon the Importation into, or upon Exportation from the ſaid Colonies or Plantations, the ſaid Cocket or Cockets ſhall likewiſe diſtinctly ſpecify that the Duties have been paid for the ſame, and by whom they were paid, which Cocket or Cockets ſhall be produced by the Maſter of ſuch Ship or Veſſel, to the Collector or other principal Officer of the Cuſtoms at the Port or Place where ſuch Ship or Veſſel ſhall arrive in any of the Britiſh Colonies or Plantations in America, before any Part of the Goods are unladen or put on Shore. And if any Goods or Merchandize ſhall be ſhipped as aforeſaid without ſuch Sufferance, or the Veſſel ſhall depart and proceed on her Voyage without ſuch Cocket or Cockets, or the Goods ſhall be landed or put on Shore before ſuch Cocket or Cockets are produced at the Port or Place of Diſcharge, or if the Goods do not agree in all Reſpects therewith, the Goods in any or either of thoſe Caſes, ſhall be forfeited and loſt; and any Officer of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms is hereby impowered to ſtop any ſuch Ship or Veſſel, bound as aforeſaid, which ſhall be diſcovered within two Leagues of the Shore of any of the ſaid Britiſh Colonies or Plantations in America, and to ſeize and take from thence all the Goods which ſhall be found on board ſuch Ship or Veſſel for which no ſuch Cocket or Cockets ſhall be produced to him."

AND WHEREAS the Honorable Commiſſioners of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms have ſent Forms and Inſtructions to their ſeveral Officers for carrying the ſaid Act, and the other Acts reſpecting the Trade of the Britiſh Colonies and Plantations in America, into Execution.

Notice is hereby given to all Perſons having any Goods to ſhip on board any Ship or Veſſel, That they do, before ſhipping take out a Sufferance or Warrant for the ſhipping of the ſame, as the ſaid Act directs; which Sufferance or Warrant the Maſter is to deliver at the Cuſtom-Houſe, either before, or when he comes to clear out his Veſſel, and agreeable to the Quantity endorſed thereon by the Searcher, or other Officer appointed to ſee the ſame ſhipped, a Cocket or Cockets will be made out and delivered to the Maſter, agreeable to the ſaid Act: And all Maſters of ſuch Ships or Veſſels are hereby notified to produce ſuch Cocket or Cockets to the Collector or other principal Officer of the Port or Place of Diſcharge, before any Part of the Goods are unladen or put on Shore: And all Perſons concerned are to take Notice of, and conform to the ſaid Act and Acts, as they would avoid the Penalties of the ſame.

And I do hereby alſo ſtrictly require all Officers of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms in the Northern Diſtrict of America, to take Care that the ſaid Act and Acts are duly obſerved and carried into Execution.

Boſton, New England,
22d May, 1765

J. Temple.

To the Printer of the Weſtminſter Journal.

SIR,

AS it is ſaid that, in the bill which is ſoon to be brought into the houſe, for the better paying and regulating the army in his Majeſty's American dominions, there is to be a clauſe, that Soldiers may be billetted, or quartered, upon private families, I ſhould take it as a favour if any of your ingenious correſpondents would anſwer the following queſtions. 1. Whether the ſubjects of the crown of Great Britain, in whatſoever part of his dominions they may be ſettled, are not to be eſteemed a free people, and treated as ſuch? 2. Whether they are not entitled to, and ought to enjoy, all the eſſential rights of Engliſhmen? 3. Whether an Engliſhman forfeits all his right, and is no more a freeman, when he goes abroad and ſettles in ſome of the colonies of this kingdom? 4. Whether ſuch people are, or can by any means be deemed free who are ſubject to have ſoldiers quartered upon them at pleaſure? 5. Whether the paſſing a law for quartering ſoldiers on private families in our plantations abroad will not be a large ſtride towards enſlaving us in the ſame manner at home? 6. And whether our tamely ſubmitting to fix ſhackles on our fellow ſubjects in America, would not ſhew that we ourſelves were ripe for the ſame in England?

LIBERTAS.

From a late LONDON PAPER.

There is no Liberty in this Country, which is held more dear than that of the PRESS, nor indeed with ſo much Reaſon; for if that is deſtroyed, what we have elſe to boaſt of, is gone in an inſtant. Arbitrary Miniſters (and none but ſuch) are Enemies to this Liberty, becauſe it has ever been a Check upon their Tyranny. But, if ever that time ſhould come when the Preſs may be puniſhed without a JURY (that great and ſolemn Priviledge of Engliſhmen, delivered down to us by our virtuous and ſpirited Anceſtors) may we not fear the Liberties and all the Bleſſings of this Country, and all the Bleſſings which it boaſts above other Nations, will be departed forever? While we have JURIES we may be free, or if we are not, it is our own Fault. And if theſe are taken from us, we ſhall be the mere ſlaves of a Miniſter, who may do as he pleaſes; may by innuendo an illegal Conſtruction, order his Mermidons to hunt PRINTERS and PUBLISHERS, till he is intirely rid of the PRESS.

TO THE PRINTER.

I Am juſt come to Town, and the firſt News I heard was, that the PRINTERS and PUBLISHERS are all frightened out of their Wits, and that the Liberty of the PRESS was upon the Verge of Deſtruction. As I know not what Ground there might be for theſe Aſſertions, I made ſome Enquiry, and found ſure enough that you PRINTERS and Publiſhers have but too much Reaſon to be alarmed; for during the laſt Twelve Months, there have been no leſs than EIGHT Attacks upon the PRESS. Indeed this is ſerious Buſineſs, and well deſerves ſome ſober Conſideration, and in my Opinion (would in any Times, but the Preſent) make a miniſter think ſo. However, I cannot think the People quite ſo lethargic as ſome Folks in Power tell me; they ſay the People are quite ſatisfied, are perfectly eaſy in their Minds, and ſincerely believe that their Liberties and their Intereſt are undoubtedly ſecure in the Hands of the preſent Admiation.——May be ſo—— Nobody deſires to have Liberty of this Country ſecurer than I do: But I cannot help ſaying, that this Court Cant, very ill agrees with certain very Public Tranſactions. Can our Liberties be ſecure, when that great and eſſential one of the PRESS is daily attacked, and PRINTERS and BOOK-SELLERS are ſo terrified by uncommon Rigour, that they will neither Print nor Publiſh? Can our Liberties be ſecure, if that higheſt and moſt valuable of all our Liberties, a JURY, be taken from us? To deſtroy the Liberty of the PRESS, and take away Trials by JURY, are what deſpotic Miniſters have ever aimed at, as the only Bars to their arbitrary Deſigns. Therefore if any Steps are taken for accompliſhing theſe, can the great People think, the little ones are ſuch Fools, as to ſtill believe their Liberties are ſecure?——Is it ſuch an Abſurdity, that one can compare it to Nothing but the deceitful Conduct of a certain Martyr, who, while he pretended to be a Friend to Liberty, was making the moſt alarming ſtrides towards Tyranny. From ſuch Times, good Lord deliver us.

NEW-YORK, June 20.

IT is impoſſible not to love a Patriot. It is only loving thoſe who love us. Is not this a deſireable Character and Reward? It is impoſſible not to hate a Parricide, becauſe he hates us, and is our Enemy. Who would not dread and avoid ſuch a ſituation? Indeed Patriotiſm is no more than good Policy; it is the ſafeſt and beſt Choice, as well as the moſt virtuous and juſt. The whole State of Venice became at one Time, a State of Patriots, and found their Account gloriouſly in it.

As they were preſſed by the powerful League of Cambray, and convinced how much it availed them to preſerve the Affections of their Subjects, they did a Thing, ſays the Hiſtorian, unexampled in the latter Ages. They publiſhed a Decree by which they engaged to indemnify them for all their Loſſes, paſt and to come, during the War out of the Publick Treaſury. Thoſe who truſted them had no cauſe to repent. That State kept their Word religiouſly with every Particular, and found the good Effects of it; for never did People manifeſt greater Zeal and Fidelity, under all the Afflictions and Hardſhips of that terrible and unequal War. In Spight of all Dangers of all the Rage of a foreign Soldiery, and even of Death, that People perſiſted in their Affection to their State, ran all Riſques for it, and even voluntarily ſerved it as Spies. Such had been their merciful and paternal Uſage from their Governors, and ſo generouſly and affectionately did they return it.

We ſee by this, that Governments can find Ways to make the People grateful and even generous, as alſo what Ways theſe are. Had that wiſe State always acted thus wiſely, and uſed their Subjects with equal Juſtice and Tenderneſs, they might, in all Likelihood, have been ſtill Sovereigns of the Morea.

The Inſtance of the Saguntines is famous: They, rather than ſurrender themſelves to the Enemies of Rome, burnt themſelves and their City. There was ſomething very remarkable and great in the Spirit and Behaviour of the Corſicans, during their late Revolt; which, I dare ſay, was not without Provocation: Few Revolts are. Not a Man of them would continue in foreign Service, however good his Appointment were there, when the Cauſe of his Country called him Home: Not a Man in the Iſland, not a Frier, was to be found, at any Price to give Intelligence to the Enemy: And many of them choſe to bear Racks, and Torture, and Death in the moſt terrible Shapes rather than turn Spies and Traitors to their Country. This was Patriotiſm, and invincible Love to their native Country, above all Temptation and Terror, above all Price and Corruption.

This firm and generous Conduct of the Corſicans brings into my Mind the fine Anſwer of the Lacedemonians to King Philip of Macedon, who, in his Letter to them, threatened, that he would prevent all their Meaſures! Will he prevent us from dying? Replied thoſe brave old Spartans.

Donato Gianotti, Secretary to the State of Florence, whilſt it was yet free, could not bear even to live in it when changed into a deſpotic Principality, and ſubjected to the Houſe of Medicis, though he was offered by the great Duke high Dignities and Advantages; all which he utterly rejected, and retired to Venice, to live and die in a free City. He ſcorned to countenance Tyranny and Uſurpation; nor would he ſtay to ſee the ſad Conſequences of ſo terrible a Change, the beſt Citizens exiled, or impriſoned, or martyred; at beſt, awed, neglected, and unpreferred; the worſt careſſed and promoted for being ſo, for their Inſenſibility of publick Servitude, and for their Promptneſs to bear it; Men of Merit and Figure, loſt in Oblivion and Solitude, Objects of Jealouſy, and uſeleſs to the Public; Pimps and Betrayers, in high Favour, and covered with the Marks of it. He could not bear to ſee the Laws and Liberty and Welfare of his Country all ſwallowed up in Will, and Pride, and convenience of a late Citizen, and a private Family; nor his Country-Men the Florentines, for ſo many Ages free, and brave, and impatient of any Yoke, a People who had been their own Maſters ſo late and ſo long, now reduced to Impotence and Vaſſalage, cowed and enſlaved. This was proof of a good Spirit in Gianotti, and he made a better Choice. The meaneſt Retirement is far beyond any Share in Tyranny, beyond all the guilty Glare and Spoils which it can beſtow.

Philip Strozzi, that illuſtrious and wealthy Citizen of the ſame city, (one of the richeſt Subjects in Europe) was ſo paſſionate a Lover of public Liberty, and had ſuch an Antipathy to ſlavery, that having tried all ways of reſtoring the freedom of his country, whithout ſucceſs, he ordered his children, by his laſt Will, to remove his bones from his grave in Florence, and, carrying them to Venice, interr them there; "To the end, ſays he, that ſince I had not the felicity to die in a free ſtate, I may enjoy that favor after my death, and my aſhes reſt in peace, out of the reach and domination of the conqueror." Strozzi had attempted to reſtore the republic, but failed, and was put in priſon; where apprehending the Application of the rack, that he might not by torture be brought to betray his Friends, he ſlew himſelf. The motive was noble, if the act could be juſtified.

To be ſold at the Heart & Crown, in Hartford;

A Few Copies of the STAMP-ACT, lately paſſed in England, for Taxing the American Colonies.

RUN-away from the ſubſcriber of Coventry, yeſterday afternoon, an indented lad, named William Broton, about 18 years old, ſtout fellow of a ruddy complexion, dark hair and light eyes; he has a conſiderable bundle of cloaths with him. Whoever ſhall bring ſaid Broton to the ſubſcriber in Coventry, ſhall receive a reaſonable reward of

July 1. 1765. David Richardſon.

WHITE and Yellow Pine Plank, Lath and Clapboards, to be ſold by JOHN COLEMAN.

NEW-YORK, June 27.

Saturday night laſt one Berſheba Cleveland, being out a dancing in company with a ſeaman named James Caldwell, and ſome words ariſing between them, he ſtruck her; upon which ſhe endeavoured to make her eſcape over ſeveral fences from him, in attempting which, ſhe hurt herſelf; this, with the heat of dancing, and the blow ſhe received, obliged her to take to her bed, where ſhe languiſhed for two or three days, and then died:——The Coroner's inqueſt having found ſeveral marks of violence on her, brought in their verdict, That her death was occaſioned by the ſaid Caldwell.

We hear from the Fiſh Kills, that for a week or two paſt, a Tiger or Panther has been ſeen in the woods in that neighbourhood, not far from Mr. Depeyſter's houſe. It had killed ſeveral dogs, torn a cow ſo that ſhe died the ſame day, and carried off the calf; it likewiſe carried off a colt of about a week old. Eight men with their guns went in ſearch of it, and ſtarted it at a diſtance, it fled with great ſwiftneſs, and has been ſeen ſince at the Fiſh Kills.

[To ſatisfy the young lady, who deſires to know whether 4 old gentlemen ſhe accidentially ſaw together on Saturday laſt, gathering cherries (whoſe ages amounted to 297 years) who were on account of their age excuſed from bearing arms, were liable to be ſtamp'd: We have made the proper enquiry, and find they are not liable to be ſtamp'd, or preſs'd——But ſhe is.]

We hear from Albany, that on ſunday the 16th inſt. ſix Indians in a bark cannoe, attempting to croſs the Ferry at Green Buſh, were overſet, by which accident four of them were drowned.

Extract of a letter from Detroit, May 19.

"Since the arrival of the ſhallop Charlotte, we have been informed, that Maiſonvelle, and Andrew, the Huron, who you may remember, were ſent from this, to Fort Pitt, were ſent from thence with ſome Engliſhmen to the Illinois, whom it is ſuppoſe are burnt; as Pondiac's Nephew arrived at the Meamees from thence the 9th Inſtant, and told the Indians, that Pondiac had ſeized ſix Engliſhmen, one Frenchmen, and three Indians, that had been ſent from Fort Pitt to that place, and carried them to Ouiattanon, where they were all burnt, except two, which he intends to bring to the Miamees for a preſent.

"Pondiac is now raiſing the St. Joſeph Indians, the Miamees, the Maſcoutins, Ouiattanons, Pians and Illinois, to come to this place the beginning of next month, to make what efforts they can againſt us, for which purpoſe he has procured a large belt for each nation, and one larger than the reſt for a hatchet for the whole; They are to be joined by ſome of the Northern Indians, as is reported. This, they ſay, is to be an undertaking of their own, as they are not to have any aſſiſtance from the French.

"When Pondiac left the Miamees he told them to remain quiet till he came back, as it ſhould then be all peace or all war.

"I make no doubt of their intention to perform what we have been informed of, tho' I don't think it will come to any head; and I am likewiſe well convinced if Pondiac could be made believe he would be well received at this place, he would deſiſt from any intentions he may have; but it will be impoſſible to convince him of that, while there is ſuch a number of traitorous villains about him. You can't imagine what moſt infamous lies they have made even ſince you left this. Some of them fellows who came from the Miame laſt ſpring, upon whom we had a court of enquiery, are run away, and have made ſome very inſolent ſpeeches to the Indians."

Niagara, May 30, 1765.

The following account we received laſt night from Detroit, from the commanding officer, and col. [illegible] ordered it to be made publick.

"I received intelligence lately of Pondiac's raiſing a great many nations of Indians, who are to aſſemble at this place the beginning of next month, to make what efforts they can againſt the Engliſh. [illegible] give little credit to this information, yet am begin to be [illegible] upon my guard: The ſame informers acquaint from that 6 Engliſhmen, a Frenchman, a Huron, a [illegible] a Delaware, arrived at Illinois from Fort Pitt, a ſhort time ago, and that they were apprehended by Pondiac's orders, and carried priſoners to Owellanon, where they were burnt, except two, which Pondiac is carrying along with him to give the Miamees. Whether this be true or not, can't ſay."

By a Veſſel lately arrived at Boſton, from London, we have received the following Advices, viz

Extract from the votes of the houſe of commons.

Martis 30 Die Aprilis, 1765.

Reſolved,

THAT, upon the exportation from this kingdom of refined ſugar to the loaf, compleat and whole being ſet, that is to ſay, of one uniform whiteneſs throughout and which has gone thro' the operation of three clays at leaſt, and been properly and thoroughly dried in the ſtove, according to the preſent practice of refining, a bounty to be allowed after the rate of fourteen ſhillings and ſixpence for every hundred weight thereof.

Reſolved, That upon the exportation from this kingdom of refined ſugar, called Baſtard, and of ground and powder'd refin'd ſugar, and of refin'd loaf ſugar broke in pieces (the ſaid ſugar having been twice clayed, and properly dried in the ſtove) a bounty or drawback be allowed after the rate of ſix ſhillings and four pence for every hundred weight thereof.

Reſolved, That bounties be granted upon the importation of deals, planks, boards, and timber, into this kingdom, from the Britiſh dominions in North America, for the term of nine years, in manner following, that is to ſay, during the three firſt years, for every hundred, containing ſix ſcore of ſound merchantable deals, planks and boards not leſs ten feet long, [illegible] inches broad, and one inch and one quarter of an inch thick, twenty ſhillings, and ſo in proportion for any greater length, and for any greater thickneſs, not exceeding four inches, and for every load containing forty cubick feet of ſound merchantable ſquared timber of all kinds (the timber not to be leſs than ten inches ſquare) twelve ſhillings, and during the next three years, for every hundred of ſuch deals, planks, and boards, fifteen ſhillings; and for every load of ſuch timber, eight ſhillings; and during the laſt three years, for every hundred of ſuch deals planks, and boards, ten ſhillings, and for every load of ſuch timber, five ſhillings.

LONDON, April 30.

It is reported that one of the ſecretaries of ſtate will ſhortly reſign, and be ſucceeded by his Excellency the earl of Northumberland.—The ſhips deſtined for America will not ſail till the 20th of next month.—Moſt of the French fiſhing veſſels for Newfoundland have from 10 to 60 carriage guns each.—Laſt week a nobleman of diſtinction ſent for a gentleman well known in naval affairs, and a great favorite of a perſonage of the firſt rank, when they had a long converſation.

It is ſaid the principal merchants concerned in the trade of a certain American colony, have lately received ſuch accounts from thence, that an application above has been judged abſolutely neceſſary, and we are told the ſame will take place in a few days.

May 1. Part of a letter from Quebec, ſays, 'The very exiſtence of this place as a commercial province, depends upon a total change of the unhappy and prepoſterous meaſures now adopted. I can add no more, for my ſenſes are loſt in the tumultuous noiſe of the populace, who are juſt carrying out to execution a certain effigy, with the moſt bitter execrations.'

The report of his Majeſty intending this ſummer to viſit his dominions in Germany, we are informed, is premature.——The evening papers of laſt night ſay, that the Earl of Rochford is to go ambaſſador to the court of France in the room of the earl of Hertford, who is ſhortly expected home to be ſecretary of ſtate; the earl of Buckinghamſhire ambaſſador at Madrid; Lord Egmont one of the commiſſioners of the treaſury, and the earl of Sandwich to retire.—We hear ſome diſpatches of conſequence have within theſe few days been received from chief juſtice Gregory, of his Majeſty's province of Quebec, which have already been laid before a cabinet council.

May 3. It is thought, notwithſtanding the advance of the ſeſſions, ſome farther reductions of the duties on the Weſt-India produce, particularly Muſcovado ſugars, will take place previous to the breaking up of an auguſt aſſembly.

May 4. It is under conſideration to give a bounty of ſo much per ton on all American built ſhips, built for and ſold at foreign markets.——It is ſaid a great perſonage has ſignified a deſire to viſit ſome of the North American provinces this ſummer; and that Lord Edgcomb will hoiſt his flag on that occaſion at Plymouth——Five hundred bales of New-England wool have been ſhipped from thence, for New-York:——Several printing preſſes are now preparing to be for North America.

May 6. Indeed at preſent all America ſeems to be in a violent agitation. A writer of credit ſays, they ſing up and down the ſtreets of Boſton, the downfall of Old England, and the riſe of the New.

May 9. Yeſterday there was a Levee at St. James's.

We are aſſured that the regency is ſettled to general ſatisfaction.

BOSTON, June 27.

Author Savage, Eſq; of this Town, is appointed Comptroller of His Majeſty's cuſtoms at Falmouth.

Capt. Blake was to leave London the latter End of May; and Capt. Daverſon the Beginning of June.

HARTFORD, July 1.

We (with Pleaſure) can inform the Public, that there was the feweſt Actions entered this County Court, which is now ſitting, that has been known to be entered in any County Court, in this County, for many Years.

New London, 20th June, 1765.

THIS may notify all People whom it may concern, that purſuant to a Decree of the Court of Vice Admiralty, for the Colony of Connecticut, held at New London, on the 19th Day of June Inſtant, is to be ſold at a publick Vendue, at the Houſe of Capt. Edward Palmes, Inn-holder at New-London, on the Tenth of July next, at Two of the Clock in the Afternoon, a ſmall Sloop, Burthen about 15 Tons; alſo 43 Casks of Molaſſes. The Conditions of Sale, will be made known at ſaid Time and Place.

STEPHEN BLAKE,
Marſhal of ſaid Court.

Hartford, 1ſt July, 1765.

WANTED immediately, a young man, who can write a tolerable good hand, and underſtands accounts, to ſerve as an apprentice in a ſhop.——A premium will be expected; and ſufficient ſecurity muſt be given for his honeſty. For further particulars inquire of the printer.

To be ſold, Reaſonably, by Thomas Little, of Litchfield,

FOUR Tuns (with a fine Aſſortment) of the beſt Hollow-Ware, now at Hartford, in Mr. Jones's Store, for Caſh, 6 Months Credit, or Rum, Molaſſes or Land in Litchfield, New Framingham, or Eaſt or Weſt-Hooſok, in the Bay Province.

June 22d, 1765.

From the Compleat Body of HUSBANDRY.

The way in which Cheſhire-Cheeſe is made.

THERE are people in Cheſhire who make poorer cheeſe than others. The difference we obſerve in them, tho' in ſome degree owing to the keeping, is alſo ſometimes owing to the condition in which they come from the maker. The Cheſhire cheeſe is properly a new milk cheeſe. Some make theſe of new milk, enriched by cream of the laſt milking, and others of new milk impoveriſhed by an addition of the ſkim'd milk of a preceeding meal. In Cheſhire their paſtures are ſo rich, that they never find it needful to enrich their new milk, for it alone will make cheeſe of the richeſt kind that can be; but ſome of the Cheſhire people impoveriſh their new milk, by mixing the ſkim'd milk of a former meal, and this always debaſes the nature and quality of the product.

They are particular as to the condition of the cow; and this is a caution all farmers would do well to take from them: they find by experience, that the milk of a cow that has juſt calved, is not ſo proper as that a few days after; therefore they never take the milk of any cow for cheeſe till ſhe has been milked four or five times. They uſe their whole ſtore of new milk, a very little excepted, in the cheeſe manufacture. When the morning's milking is brought in, they ſtrain it warm into a large tub, and put in their rennet. About four ſpoonfuls is the quantity they allow to as much milk as will afford a cheeſe of a hundred weight; and there are dairies of ſuch conſequence in that country, that they turn out two cheeſes of about this ſize every day, during the five months they are in the right ſeaſon. They cover up the tub, and when it has ſtood half an hour, they open it, and find the curd formed. They are very cautious to hit the right quantity of rennet, which no rule can determine, becauſe of the difference in the ſtrength: for too little does not give the curd a due conſiſtence, and too much makes the cheeſe bitter. After half an hour they uncover the tub, and preſs down the curd with a large ſkimming diſh; and when they have pretty well cleared of the whey, they work the curd with their hands, they break it to pieces in the moſt perfect manner, working it a long time.

This done, ſuppoſing it for a hundred weight cheeſe, they add one pound of ſalt: this they mix thoroughly well with the curd. Then they put the curd into a wet, ſtrong and large cheeſe cloth, and when they have got the whey tolerably well drained out, they put it into the fat or mould, for four hours, with a good preſſure, putting the fat in the cheeſe preſs, and working it down pretty ſtrongly. At the end of four hours they take it out, ſalt the outſide, put it into a freſh wet cloth, and put it into the fat, and that into the preſs again: here it is to be kept four hours more, and in the mean time a quantity of good ſtrong brine is to be made of ſalt and water, and put into a large tub.

When the cheeſe has been four hours in the preſs they take it out, and put it into the tub of brine, and there let it lay eight days all the time covered over with brine, and turned once a day. At the end of this time it is to be taken out, and laid to harden and dry. A quantity of ruſhes are to be cut up, and laid green on a large board: on theſe the cheeſe is to be laid when taken out of the brine, and for the firſt day nothing is to be done with it; the next morning it is to be turned and wiped with a hair cloth all over; and this is to be repeated every day for twenty days.

At the end of this time it muſt be removed from the bed of ruſhes, and laid on the floor; and it is here to be taken up, and turn'd once in three days, and at every turning it is to be rubbed, till it gets firm and hard: As this is the compleating the work, it is to be managed very carefully; for if the due degree of hardneſs be not given at this time, the cheeſe will be liable to accidents in keeping.

When finiſhed and hardened, the laſt thing is rubbing it over with ſome butter: half a pound of butter is proper for a cheeſe of a hundred weight, and this ſhould be rubbed thoroughly in all over it, nothing more tending to preſerve the rind in good condition, and keep the cheeſe ſound.

This is the method in that famous cheeſe country. They have rooms built on purpoſe for the drying of their large cheeſes, and they raiſe the floors ſeveral feet above the ground, to preſerve them from damp. In many places they uſe ſhelves put round theſe rooms, inſtead of the floor, which I think the better method, for the cheeſes are more out of the reach of the damp, and they are more eaſily turned, and more conveniently rubbed and wiped.

To be ſold at the PUBLIC VENDUE ROOM in Middletown; on the ſecond Tueſday of July next, and to continue from Tueſday to Tueſday, till the whole is ſold; a new and freſh aſſortment of GOODS, juſt arrived for ſale that way, viz.

ONE hundred pounds worth of the neweſt faſhion, paper hanging for rooms, one hundred pounds worth of pewter, London and home made, of all ſorts, among which are, plates, diſhes, Baſons, porringers, quart and point potts and canns,—and a great variety of other Engliſh goods, as window glaſs, looking glaſſes, hour and half hour glaſſes, braſs kettles, ſkillets and warming pans, copper tea-kettles, iron pots, kettles, ſkillets and cart boxes, grind ſtones, and irons, ſhovels and tongs, pad locks, ſheep ſhears, carpenter's hammers, ſhoe maker's tools, and ſaddlery ware, of all ſorts, locks and hinges of all ſorts, curry combs, ſteel-yards, ſhoe and knee buckles penknives, ſnuff and tobacco-boxes, combs, ſhoe bruſhes, wool cards, gimblets, candleſticks, ſcythes, ſickles, rubſtones, flat irons, bibles, teſtaments, pſalters, ſpelling books, and primmers, ſome Latin books, woman's Engliſh ſhoes, and ſhammy gloves, warranted razors, white hollands, garlets, and checks of all ſorts, three fourths and ſeven eighths bed ticks, ſtrip'd, croſs barr'd & brown hollands, broad cloths, rattens, tammy & ſhalloons of all kinds, camblets, [illegible] ſtuffs, everlaſtings, velvets, mens hatts, corn fans, ſives, &c. Alſo a large aſſortment of crockery ware, as moſaic diſhes and plates, tea potts, chocolate cups and ſaucers, and all other ſorts of ſaid ware, a large aſſortment of hatter's linings and other trimming, watch glaſſes, ſets, &c. a quantity of barber's hair, bruſhes, ribbons, &c. [illegible] yet in the mean while will be ſold, almoſt any kind at [illegible] on Tueſday evenings, before the ſaid ſecond Tueſday in July next. As there is now more than eight hundred pounds value in goods, already brought in for ſale, at vendue, 'tis probable, thoſe who have caſh to ſpare, may have an opportunity of laying it out to the greateſt advantage.

N. B. As the evenings are ſhort, the vendue will begin at about five o'clock afternoon, if twenty bidders appear by that time.

Middletown, June 20, 1765

TO BE SOLD,

By E. AUSTIN,

Near the Court-Houſe, in Hartford;—The following Articles, for Goldſmith's and Jeweller's uſes, viz.

ROUND and ſquare Steel Shoe Chapes and Tongs, Knee ditto; an Aſſortment of Files; Cruſibles; Black Lead Pots; Salt Petre; Borax; Iron Rivet Wire; fine Binding Ditto; Braſs Rivet Wire; Moulding Sand; Sand Paper; Buckle Bruſhes; Flower of Putts; Coral Beads; neat Thimble Stamp; red and white Foil; neat Stone Locket, ſet in Gold, Garnet Rings, cypher'd and white ditto; cypher'd and white Stone Ear-rings, ſet in Gold; Ditto, in Silver; cypher'd and white Stone Buttons ſet in Silver.

N. B. To be ſold (for Want of Employ) a likely Negro Boy, about fourteen Years old, has been in the Country one Year. Inquire of ſaid Auſtin.

TO be ſold by ALLEN M'LEAN, South of the Court-Houſe in Hartford; the beſt of Tamerinds, at Eight Pence per Pound.
30

TAken up as a ſtray, on the firſt June laſt, a black horſe, 14 hands high, no brand, hip ſhot on the left ſide, paces and trots, upwards of 12 years old. The owner may have him again, on proving his property and paying charges. Inquire of Benjamin Allyn, of Windſor.

PROVIDENCE STONE LIME, of the beſt Quality.——To be ſold cheap for Caſh, or Country Produce, by SAMUEL MARSH, of Hartford.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown, oppoſite the Court-Houſe

---

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.
New Hav
Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

LONDON, April 29.

AN Expreſs is arrived in Town with the agreeable News, that the large Cheſt of money which was loſt in December 1763 by the Loſs of the Liſbon Packet, is by the Help of the Divers, found, and was brought ſafe on ſhore at Falmouth on Friday. It contained upwards of 30,000l.

It is ſaid, that certain propoſitions on the part of France have very lately been made to his Excellency Lord Hertford at Paris, relating to the payment of Canada bills; but they are ſaid to fall ſo ſhort of what might be expected in common juſtice, not to mention the ſanction of treaties, and the parole royal, that they were rejected with the contempt they merited.

It is rumoured, our Court hath lately received ſome propoſals relating to Corſica highly meriting Conſideration.

We hear ſuch of the American Colonies as have not been reimburſed their proportion of the Expences in the Expeditions of the Year 1762 will ſoon have the King's Warrant on the Treaſury.

Some Time this Month a general Survey of the Royal Navy will begin to be taken at the ſeveral Royal Yards, purſuant to Orders from the Lords of the Admiralty, it being a determined Reſolution to keep that up to its utmoſt Dignity, as the ſureſt Way of preventing our being engaged in another War.

Very large Orders are now lying in Ruſſia, for naval Stores; for the Uſe of the French Marine.

May 2. Yeſterday mr Almon ſhewed cauſe by his counſel in the court of king's bench why the writ of Attachment ſhould not be iſſued againſt him; when, after many very full, learned and proper arguments, which laſted from nine o'clock in the morning to near half an hour paſt one, the judges deferred, for a few days giving their opinions. The counſel for Mr. Almon were, Serjeant Glynn, and Mr. Dunning; for the crown, Mr. Attorney-General, Mr. Solicitor-General, Mr. Morton, and Mr. Wallace.

They write from St. Malo, that no leſs than 250 ſail of veſſels, great and ſmall, have been fitted out from that ſingle Port for the Newfoundland cod fiſhery.

Letters from New-York adviſe, that the demand for northern rum is ſo great, on account of the approaching fiſhery at Newfoundland this ſummer, that it was expected little ſhort of 30,000 gallons would be ſufficient to anſwer the occaſion, which had raiſed the price of that commodity to 3s. 10d per gallon.

May 3 They write from Konigsberg, that they had another violent fire there on the 14th paſt, which reduced twenty houſes, and eight out-houſes, or ſheds, to aſhes; but fortunately the commerce did not ſuffer by it.

They write from Penſacola, that a little to the northward of that place, the Mahogany tree is found in ſuch plenty, that a hundred ſhiploads might eaſily be procured, when the country comes to be a little more cleared; it is eſteemed equally good with that of the Spaniards in the iſland of Cuba.

Letters from Quebec adviſe, that a braſs foundery was going to be eſtabliſhed at Montreal, which had been long wanted in that capital, and from which great advantage was expected.

There are more ſhips of burthen now building in the Britiſh American Settlements, chiefly intended for European Freight and Sale, than has ever been known on any former occaſion in that part of the world.

It is ſaid that a noble Duke and Earl, with ſome other friends of Mr. Wilkes, will pay a viſit to that gentleman at Naples, ſoon after the breaking up of parliament

There is now a talk that moſt of the cutters lately taken into the government's ſervice to cruiſe againſt the Smugglers, will be turned over to the immediate direction of his Majeſty's officers of the cuſtoms and exciſe; by which a ſaving of ſeveral thouſand pounds per annum will be made to the nation.

We hear a check is intended to be given to the Practice of Britiſh Officers entering ſo frequently into the ſea or land ſervice of catholic powers, notwithſtanding their preſent alliance with this kingdom.

May 4 Yeſterday there was a grand board of trade at the Cockpit Whitehall.

NEW-PORT, (Rhode-Iſland) June 24.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in Philadelphia, to his Friend in this Town, dated laſt Tueſday.

"I Have incloſed the Reſolves of the Virginia Aſſembly, on debating the Stamp Act. The Governor, as ſoon as he heard what they were about, ſent for them, and without Preamble, told them, he would diſſolve them; and that Moment they were diſſolved. As they are of an extraordinary Nature, tho't they might not be diſagreeable. They are as follows."

"WHEREAS the hon. houſe of commons, in England, have of late drawn into queſtion, how far the general aſſembly of this colony hath power to enact laws for laying of taxes and impoſing duties, payable by the people of this his Majeſty's moſt antient colony: For ſettling and aſcertaining the ſame to all future times, the houſe of burgeſſes of this preſent general aſſembly have come to the following reſolves:——

"Reſolved, That the firſt adventurers, ſettlers of this his Majeſty's colony and dominion of Virginia, brought with them and tranſmitted to their poſterity, and all other his majeſty's ſubjects, ſince inhabiting in this his majeſty's colony, all the privileges and immunities that have at any time been held, enjoyed and poſſeſſed by the people of Great Britain.

"Reſolved. That by two royal charters, granted by king James the firſt, the colony aforeſaid are declared and entitled to all privileges and immunities of natural born ſubjects, to all intents and purpoſes, as if they had been abiding and born within the realm of England.

"Reſolved, That his majeſty's liege people of this his antient colony have enjoyed the right of being thus govern'd by their own aſſembly in the article of taxes and internal police; and that the ſame have never been forfeited, or any other way yielded up, but have been conſtantly recogniz'd by the king and people of Britain.

"Reſolved, therefore, That the general aſſembly of this colony, together with his Majeſty or his ſubſtitutes, have, in their repreſentative capacity, the only excluſive right and power to lay taxes and impoſts upon the inhabitants of this colony: And that every attempt to veſt ſuch power in any other perſon or perſons whatever, than the general aſſembly aforeſaid, is illegal, unconſtitutional and unjuſt, and have a manifeſt tendency to deſtroy Britiſh as well as American liberty.

"Reſolved, That his Majeſty's liege people, the inhabitants of this colony, are not bound to yield obedience to any law or ordinance whatever, deſigned to impoſe any taxation whatſoever upon them, other than the laws or ordinances of the general aſſembly aforeſaid.

"Reſolved, That any perſon, who ſhall by ſpeaking or writing, aſſert or maintain, that any perſon or perſons, other than the general aſſembly of this colony, have any right or power to impoſe or lay any taxation on the people here, ſhall be deemed an enemy to this his Majeſty's colony."

LONDON, May 3.

It is ſaid, that not only a certain Governor in North America, is ordered Home, but that a whole Regiment is ordered to return from thence.

May 4 Private letters from Madrid mention, that a ſcheme has actually been formed at court, to ſend over ſome of the moſt experienced crown engineers, in order to ſurvey the American iſthmus, commonly called the iſthmus of Panama; after which ſuch diſpoſitions will be taken, as to render a paſſage by land from the North to the South Seas, impracticable to any future attempts of an enemy. This famous paſſage by the account of the beſt writers, is little more than ſeventy miles over from the bottom of the gulph of Darien to the Spaniſh ſettlements in the South Seas, and has more than once been ſucceſsfully attempted by the Buccaneers in America.

The learned Jew Rabbi, Mordecai Mame, lately arrived from Paleſtine, has brought over ſeveral curious Hebrew manuſcripts, much admired by the Virtuoſi for their great antiquity; ſome of which are valued ſo high as five hundred guineas.

It is ſaid that a great perſonage won 12,000l. laſt monday, at Newmarket, in the match between his royal highneſs the duke of Cumberland's King Herod, and the duke of Grafton's Antonius.

May 6. A public filature for ſilk in Weſt Florida, was about to be eſtabliſhed, when the laſt letters were received from Penſacola.

Some pounds weight of ſilk cocoons, the produce of Mr. Lloyd's eſtate near Savanna in Georgia, were laſt week received in town, which for hardneſs and good ſubſtance are eſteemed equal to thoſe of Perſia and the Levant.

Both houſes of Parliament are expected to be prorogued for the ſummer ſeaſon on or about the 24th of next month, & not before, on account of the great buſineſs now before them.

It is now confidently again aſſerted, that the old palace of St. James's will ſhortly be pulled down, and a very magnificent one erected on the ſame ſpot, when, it is ſaid, their Majeſties will quit the Queen's palace, the ſituation being, by an able phyſician, eſteemed not ſo healthy as St. James's, which is a fine gravelly ſoil.

We hear an aſſembly compoſed of the principal inhabitants is going to be introduced in the new form of government of the Iſle of Man.

A young Weſt India gentleman is ſaid to have won at laſt Newmarket races, the ſum of thirteen thouſand pounds ſterl.

A few days ago Mr. Munroe was appointed inſpector of the ſtamp duties to North America.

May 8 They write from Berlin, that the king of Pruſſia lately gave, with his own hands a gold medal, value fifty ducates, to a young woman, who preſented to his majeſty nine male children born in lawful wedlock; the joint lives of herſelf and husband, not exceeding 45 years.

We hear that a certain admiral who greatly diſtinguiſhed himſelf in the ſervice of his country in both the Indies, during the late war, will ſoon be called up to the houſe of peers.

Sunday laſt one of the black clergymen lately ordained, attended divine ſervice at St Sepulchre's church, with his new married ſpouſe, who is of a different complection.

Monday the right hon. Hans Stanley, took the oath to qualify him for governor of the Iſle of Man.

Extract of a letter from mr. Wilkes, to his friend in London, dated Naples, March 25, 1765.

"The foreign gazettes are very impertinently ſending me into the ſervice of half the princes of Europe; I hope my friends do me more juſtice at home, and think of me as I do of myſelf, ever actually in the ſervice of England, and for my life unalienably attached to my native country. The moſt unjuſt and cruel perſecutions, the moſt unmerited outlawries, ſhall never warp my allegiance. I do not forget the preſent page of our hiſtory, and a ſecond letter to the borough of Aylsbury ſhall ſoon prove it.

We hear that 300,000l. of the monies to be paid by the court of France, for the keeping the French priſoners, is to be applied for the ſervice of the preſent year.

May 7. We are credibly informed, that the laſt diſpatches from General Yorke, at the Hague, bring over a confirmation of the report that the Dutch are reinforcing all their forts and ſettlements in the Eaſt Indies, not only with men, but with ſhips; from which it is conjectured, they do not ſtand well either with ſome European power, or certain Aſiatic princes their neighbours.

The king of the Romans has ſigned an act, renouncing his right to the grand Dutchy of Tuſcany, in favour of his brother the Archduke Leopold.

May 8. We are credibly informed, that orders are diſpatched to our ambaſſador at the French court, to enquire into an act of the moſt horrid nature, ſome time ſince tranſacted at a convent in a capital city in the ſouth of that kingdom, and to have the people concerned therein brought to juſtice.

VIENNA, March 23.

WE have an account from Cariſtadt, in Tranſylvania, of a moſt ſhocking tranſaction which paſſed at Carnor, about two leagues from that town.—A man who had been a few months married to a young woman of eighteen, of whom he was exceedingly jealous, having taken ſome exceptions at her conduct locked himſelf up one evening with her and her mother; he ſtripped his wife, and having faſtened her to the wall with wooden pegs, he cut off her ears, noſe and two breaſts, and drove a ſtake into her belly. He then cut open her ſide with a knife, and not finding her heart, which he wanted, he opened the other ſide, from which he took it out. He then looſened the poor wretch, laid her on the ground, to which he faſtened her with three pegs; after which he laid himſelf down by the dead body, and as if being ſatiated with barbarity had produced the ſame effects with drunkeneſs, he fell into ſo profound a ſleep, that his mother in law, who expected the ſame fate, eaſily opened the door, and eſcaped into the neighbourhood, where ſhe gave an account of the ſhocking ſcene ſhe had been witneſs to. Proper perſons were diſpatched, who ſeized this furious ſavage while ſtill aſleep The puniſhment inflicted on him correſponds with the manners of the antient Scythians, and is proportioned to ſo unheard of a crime. The wretch was conducted on foot to the gallows, where he was ſtript, after which his noſe, ears, and the fleſh of his breaſt, were torn off with hot pincers. He was to have had his eyes plucked out, but this was omitted, becauſe from a Schiſmatic he became a Catholic. They then faſtened his feet to the tail of his own horſe, and dragged him three times round the gallows; after which they cut off his two hands, one after the other, by ſlow and deliberate ſtrokes. They then cleaved his head, openened his breaſt, and took out his heart, which was cut into ſeveral pieces. At laſt his limbs were nailed to the gallows ſo low, that dogs and wild animals might reach them: And they were in fact devoured before night. This wretch bore theſe ſevere torments with incredible firmneſs and reſolution. On the ſame day a neighbour of this inhuman wretch was taken up for the crime of cutting off his wife's breaſt from a like principle of jealouſy.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.

On Tueſday morning laſt we had a ſmart thunder guſt here, when one William Davis, a cooper in water ſtreet was killed by the lightning. There are ſome iron rails on the top of the houſe, which it ſtruck firſt, but, for want of a conductor to convey it to the ground tore up part of the ſhingling, and took the man on the right temple, as he was looking out of the window, ran down his ſide, and melted part of his ſhoe & knee buckles, tore his breeches and the ſhoe off his foot. His wife who was in the ſame room with him, was knocked down, but after ſome time recovered.—This ſeems to be a proof of the uſefulneſs of having iron rods, with conductors fixed on the tops of houſes, which might often prevent the bad effects of lightning as has been repeatedly recommended by ſeveral gentlemen in their electrical experements.

Portſmouth, New Hampſhire, June 28.

Laſt Friday arrived here Capt. Allen, of his Majeſty's ſloop Gaſpee, and ſailed from hence on Saturday, and on Monday returned with a French ſchooner called the La Amarie, belonging to Hiſpaniola, burthen 60 or 70 tons; ſhe was lying at anchor under the land in Ipſwich Bay, in the Maſſachuſetts government, almoſt loaded with bricks and lumber, and bound for St. Peters near Newfoundland.

Laſt Wedneſday the Frame of a meeting houſe, deſigned for Mr. Robert Sandeman, was raiſed near the Canoe Bridge, in this town.

BOSTON, July 1.

Not many months have paſſed when a white negro was ſuch a novelty in America, that one was exhibited night by night at the ſign of the white horſe, South end, for about 11 ſter. the ſight.—Behold and wonder——a twin brother of the Necromancer has lately turned all the white men on the continent into Negroes, and not one freeman is now to be ſeen on this half of the Globe.

[illegible]

Laſt Tueſday evening as Mr Michael M'Lachlan was coming from paſſage fort to this town, he was attacked near Thomas Lake, Eſq's pen, by three negroes, who pulled him off his horſe, ſtabbed him in his ſide, gave him ſeveral cuts on his head with a knife, and then after endeavouring to ſtrangle him, robbed him of caſh in different coins to the amount of upwards of 168l beſides a ſilver ſnuff box and ſome wearing apparel.

We hear that the late rains have been very violent in the windward part of this iſland, and that great damage has been done by the floods; houſes, we are told, are waſhed away.

NEW-YORK, July 4

We are inform'd from Jamaica, that the Differences between the Governor and General Aſſembly of that Iſland, aroſe in the following manner. The Carriage of one of the Members of the Aſſembly, which had brought him to the Houſe, was arreſted by the Marſhal, for a Debt of 50l.—The Houſe reſented it, and impriſon'd the Marſhal. The Governor immediately prorogued the Aſſembly, whereby the Marſhal was releaſed of Courſe.

When the Aſſembly met again their firſt work was to impriſon the marſhal, upon which the Governor diſſolved the aſſembly.—The ſame members were all re elected, and when they met, immediately impriſon'd the marſhal, and the Governor again diſſolved them—ſince which we have received no further advices.

We hear that Mr. James M'Evers, merchant of this city, is appointed commiſſioner for collecting the ſtamp duties in this government.

We hear that a new brig from Surinam for Rhode-Iſland, was, a few days ago, caſt away on the eaſt end of Long Iſland; and that great part of the cargo is loſt; but that it was tho't the veſſel would be got off again.

BOSTON, July 4.

Laſt Monday morning died here, of a mortification, in the 62d year of his age, Joſeph Green, Eſq; (late partner with Iſaac Walker, Eſq, deceaſed) a noted merchant of this town.

A Deſcription of an uncommon Animal lately found, at or near Great Barrington.

THIS animal reſembles the human ſpecies in a conſiderable degree; yet is monſtrous in its nature and actions: It has been ſeen to have two different faces; the one of which ſeems to have had, at certain times, the appearance of calmneſs and innocence, when it imagined itſelf obſerved, the other the appearance of boldneſs and ferocity, when thinking itſelf unſeen. This animal has a power of metamorphoſing itſelf into various forms, ſuch as blackneſs of face, much reſembling that of an artificial maſk, alſo upon a near view, it has been obſerved to be veſted with a kind of robe, having the appearance of the hide of ſome huge beaſt: this veſtment ſeemed to be the production of art rather than nature. When it had theſe unnatural appearances, the hair of its head was always obſerved to be white and buſhy. This monſter has even had the audacity to enter many houſes in purſuit of food, which if it finds ravenouſly devours it: What is ſtill more ſurpriſing, it has a great liking for any thing white or glittering, ſuch as fine linnen, ſilver, &c it ſeems alſo to have a great veneration for a ſhade, ſo that wherever it meets with any of theſe, it immediately ſeizes them with his obſcene paws. The miſchief of this animal at length becoming inſupportable, it was purſued by a number of armed men, ſent for that purpoſe, and luckily taken as it lay on ſleep, and has ſince been brought to Cambridge and fixed in a cage; where all whoſe curioſity lead them, may have a ſight of this uncommon creature. As to the name of this beaſt it is doubtful, it is called by ſome a Griffith, others rather think it is a Meaux.—It is ſaid there are many of this kind of animals in Europe, but have different names from this, ſome of whom it is feared will invade this weſtern world, to the diſadvantage and diſquiet of many.

Likewiſe, Since the above animal was ſecured, another of the ſame ſpecies appeared in this town, viz. on Friday laſt, whoſe coming was from Georgia; but after two public exhibitions, he was diſcovered by ſeveral that had ſeen the effects of his voracious appetite in other parts, before he affected to wear the ſheep's cloathing; whereupon yeſterday morning early he thought proper to remove to ſome place where he was leſs known, and ſet out for Providence, with his com-animal goes by the name of Tele.

Alſo, Tueſday laſt was brought here in a veſſel from Philadelphia, one Pomeroy, who was taken up there on ſuſpicion of his breaking into the ſhop of Mr. Edwards, in this town, and ſtealing a large quantity of plate, which was found upon him. He is now confined in goal in this town.

Portſmouth, New Hampſhire, July 1.

Laſt Saturday evening as ſeven or eight men were towing a rafter of boards down the river, two of them were unfortunately drawn out of the boat by a rope which was faſtened to the raft, one of whom, Mr. Moſes Ward of this town, was drowned; the other was taken up alive, and is like to do well. Mr. Ward has left a ſorrowful widow, with ſix ſmall children.

NEWPORT, July

Capt. John Thurſton arrived here laſt Saturday in 10 days from the Weſt Indies. Before he ſailed, he received information of a free trade being opened at Martinico and Guadaloupe, for all ſorts of North America produce, pork, beef, bread and flower excepted. Laſt Friday he ſpoke with capt. Smith, from Boſton, for Philadelphia.

Capt. Carpenter arrived here yeſterday from Penſacola, in 27 days Admiral Sir William Barnaby had fell down the river in order to proceed to South Carolina with three of his Majeſty's ſhips; the Prince Edward, of 40 guns was to remain at Penſacola.

His Excellency the governor of Weſt-Florida, and the hon. John Stuart, Eſq; ſuperintendant of Indian affairs for the ſouthern diſtrict of America, on or about the 30th of May held a congreſs at Penſacola, with the Mortar, Headman of the Upper Creeks, and about 600 other Indians, conſiſting moſtly of Creeks, with ſome Chickeſaws, Chactaws, &c which terminated to mutual ſatisfaction: The Indians made a grant to the Engliſh of a large tract of land.

HARTFORD, July 8.

There has been the greateſt ſcarcity of bread corn, in the back towns, for this few weeks paſt, that has been know for many years; occaſioned by ſuch large quantities of that very neceſſary article, being exported from this government; but as we hear the Farmers are begining the harveſt, the needy will ſhortly be ſupplied.

BY the Honorable JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq Judge of the County Court for the County of Hartford, in the Colony of Connecticut, NOTICE is hereby given That on Application, in Writing, by One of the Creditors of William Redfield, of Middletown, in ſaid County, an abſconded and concealed Debtor, for not leſs than Twenty Pounds, being proved by ſaid Creditors' Oath, in Purſuance of an Act made and paſſed in the general Aſſembly of ſaid Colony, on the ſecond Thurſday of May, 1765, entituled, "An ACT for preventing Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, and for the equitable Diviſion of the Eſtates and Effects of ſuch Debtors, to and among their Creditors." A Warrant hath iſſued, directed to all, and every the Sheriff, the Under-Sheriff and Deputies, and the Conſtables of the ſeveral Towns within this Colony, to attach, ſeize and take all the Eſtate and Effects of ſaid William Redfield, for the Uſe of his Creditors; and that unleſs ſaid William ſhall diſcharge his juſt Debts, or give Security therefor, within three Months from the Date of ſaid Warrant, that is to ſay, from the 4th Day of July, Inſtant, to the Satisfaction of ſaid Creditors, for the Payment thereof, all the Eſtate ſo ordered to be attached, ſeized, and taken, will be ſold for the Benefit of ſaid Creditors. Hartford, July 5th, 1765

New London, 20th June, 1765

THIS may notify all People whom it may concern, that purſuant to a Decree of the Court of Vice Admiralty, for the Colony of Connecticut, held at New-London, on the 19th Day of June Inſtant, is to be ſold at a publick Vendue, at the Houſe of Capt Edward Palmes, Inn-holder at New-London, on the Tenth of July next, at Two of the Clock in the Afternoon, a ſmall Sloop, Burthen about 15 Tons; alſo 43 Caſks of Molaſſes. The Conditions of Sale, will be made known at ſaid Time and Place.

STEPHEN BLAKE,
Marſhal of ſaid Court.

By the Honorable

JOHN TEMPLE, Esq;

Surveyor-General of His Majeſty's Cuſtoms for the Northern Diſtrict of America.

WHEREAS by the Act of the 4th of his preſent Majeſty, it is enacted, "That no Goods, Wares or Merchandize of any Kind whatſoever, ſhall be ſhipped or laden on board any Ship or Veſſel in any of the Britiſh colonies or Plantations in America, to be carried from thence to any other Britiſh Colony or Plantation, without a Sufferance or Warrant firſt had and obtained from the Collector, or other proper Officer of the Cuſtoms, at the Port or Place where ſuch Goods ſhall be intended to be put on board, and the Maſter of every ſuch Ship or Veſſel ſhall, before the ſame be removed or carried out from the Port or Place where he takes in his Lading, take out a Cocket or Cockets expreſſing the Quantity and Quality of the Goods, and Marks of the Package ſo laden, with the Merchant's Names by whom ſhipped, and to whom conſigned; and if they are Goods that are liable to the Payment of any Duty, either upon the Importation into, or upon Exportation from the ſaid Colonies or Plantations, the ſaid Cocket or Cockets ſhall likewiſe diſtinctly ſpecify that the Duties have been paid for the ſame, and by whom they were paid; which Cocket or Cockets ſhall be produced by the Maſter of ſuch Ship or Veſſel, to the Collector or other principal Officer of the Cuſtoms at the Port or Place where ſuch Ship or Veſſel ſhall arrive in any of the Britiſh Colonies or Plantations in America, before any Part of the Goods are unladen or put on Shore. And if any Goods or Merchandize ſhall be ſhipped as aforeſaid without ſuch Sufferance, or the Veſſel ſhall depart and proceed on her Voyage without ſuch Cocket or Cockets, or the Goods ſhall be landed or put on Shore before ſuch Cocket or Cockets, are produced at the Port or Place of Diſcharge, or if the Goods do not agree in all Reſpects therewith, the Goods in any or either of thoſe Caſes, ſhall be forfeited and loſt; and any Officer of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms is hereby impowered to ſtop any ſuch Ship or Veſſel, bound as aforeſaid, which ſhall be diſcovered within two Leagues of the Shore of any of the ſaid Britiſh Colonies or Plantations in America, and to ſeize and take from thence all the Goods which ſhall be found on board ſuch Ship or Veſſel for which no ſuch Cocket or Cockets ſhall be produced to him."

AND WHEREAS the Honorable Commiſſioners of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms have ſent Forms and Inſtructions to their ſeveral Officers for carrying the ſaid Act, and the other Acts reſpecting the Trade of the Britiſh Colonies and Plantations in America, into Execution.

Notice is hereby given to all Perſons having any Goods to ſhip on board any Ship or Veſſel, That they do before ſhipping take out a Sufferance or Warrant for the ſhipping of the ſame, as the ſaid Act directs; which Sufferance or Warrant the Maſter is to deliver at the Cuſtom Houſe, either before, or when he comes to clear out his Veſſel, and agreeable to the Quantity endorſed thereon by the Searcher, or other Officer appointed to ſee the ſame ſhipped, a Cocket or Cockets will be made out and delivered to the Maſter, agreeable to the ſaid Act: And all Maſters of ſuch Ships or Veſſels are hereby notified to produce ſuch Cocket or Cockets to the Collector or other principal Officer of the Port or Place of Diſcharge, before any Part of the Goods are unladen or put on Shore: And all Perſons concerned are to take Notice of, and conform to the ſaid Act and Acts, as they would avoid the Penalties of the ſame.

And I do hereby alſo ſtrictly require all Officers of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms in the Northern Diſtrict of America, to take Care that the ſaid Act and Acts, are duly obſerved and carried into Execution.

Boſton, New-England,
22d May, 1765

J. Temple.

RUN-away from the ſubſcriber of Coventry, yeſterday afternoon, an indented lad, named William Broton, about 18 years old, ſtout fellow of a ruddy complexion, dark hair and light eyes; he has a conſiderable bundle of cloaths with him. Whoever ſhall bring ſaid Broton to the ſubſcriber in Coventry, ſhall receive a reaſonable reward of

July 1, 1765. David Richardſon.

Hartford, 1ſt July, 1765.

WANTED immediately, a young man, who can write a tolerable good hand, and underſtands accounts, to ſerve as an apprentice in a ſhop ——— A premium will be expected; and ſufficient ſecurity muſt be given for his honeſty. For further particulars inquire of the printer.

To be ſold, Reaſonably, by Thomas Little, of Litchfield,

FOUR Tuns (with a fine Aſſortment) of the beſt Hollow-Ware, now at Hartford, in Mr. Jones's Store, for Caſh, 6 Months Credit, or Rum, Molaſſes or Land in Litchfield, New Framingham, or Eaſt or Weſt-Hooſok, in the Bay Province.

June 22d, 1765.

To be ſold at the PUBLIC VENDUE ROOM in Middletown; on the ſecond Tueſday of July next, and to continue from Tueſday to Tueſday, till the whole is ſold; a new and freſh aſſortment of GOODS, juſt arrived for ſale that way, viz.

ONE hundred pounds worth of the neweſt faſhion, paper hanging for rooms, one hundred pounds worth of pewter, London and home made, of all ſorts, among which are, plates, diſhes, Baſons, porringers, quart and point potts and canns,—and a great variety of other Engliſh goods, as window glaſs, looking glaſſes, hour and half hour glaſſes, braſs kettles, ſkillets and warming pans, copper tea-kettles, iron potts, kettles, ſkillets and cart boxes, grind ſtones, and irons, ſhovels and tongs, pad locks, ſheep ſhears, carpenter's hammers, ſhoe-maker's tools, and ſaddlery ware, of all ſorts, locks and hinges of all ſorts, curry combs, ſteel-yards, ſhoe and knee buckles penknives, ſnuff and tobacco boxes, combs, ſhoe bruſhes, wool cards, gimblets, candleſticks, ſcythes, ſickles, rubſtones, flat irons, bibles, teſtaments, pſalters, ſpelling books, and primmers, ſome Latin books, woman's Engliſh ſhoes, and ſhammy gloves, warranted razors, white hollands, garlets, and checks of all ſorts, three-fourths and ſeven eighths bed ticks, ſtrip'd, croſs barr'd & brown hollands, broadcloths, rattens, tammy & ſhalloons of all kinds, camblets, bird ey'd ſtuffs, everlaſtings, velvets, mens hatts, corn-fans, ſives, &c. Alſo a large aſſortment of crockery ware, as moſaic diſhes and plates, tea potts, chocolate cups and ſaucers, and all other ſorts of ſaid ware, a large aſſortment of hatter's linings and other trimming, watch glaſſes, ſeals, keys, &c. a quantity of barber's hair, bruſhes, ribbons, &c.——— In the mean while will be ſold, almoſt any kind of goods, on Tueſday evenings, before the ſaid ſecond Tueſday in July next. As there is now more than eight hundred pounds value in goods, already brought in for ſale, at vendue, 'tis probable, thoſe who have caſh to ſpare, may have an opportunity of laying it out to the greateſt advantage.

N. B. As the evenings are ſhort, the vendue will begin at about five o'clock afternoon, if twenty bidders appear by that time.

Middletown, June 20, 1765.

TO BE SOLD,

By E. AUSTIN,

Near the Court-Houſe, in Hartford;—The following Articles, for Goldſmith's and Jeweller's uſes, viz.

ROUND and ſquare Steel Shoe Chapes and Tongs, Knee ditto; an Aſſortment of Files; Cruſibles; Black Lead Pots; Salt Petre; Borax; Iron Rivet Wire; fine Binding Ditto; Braſs Rivet Wire; Moulding Sand; Sand Paper; Buckle Bruſhes; Flower of Putts; Coral Beads; neat Thimble Stamp; red and white Foil; neat Stone Locket, ſet in Gold; Garnet Rings, cypher'd and white ditto; cypher'd and white Stone Ear-rings, ſet in Gold; Ditto, in Silver; cypher'd and white Stone Buttons ſet in Silver.

N. B. To be ſold (for Want of Employ) a likely Negro Boy, about fourteen Years old, has been in the Country one Year. Inquire of ſaid Auſtin.

PROVIDENCE STONE LIME, of the beſt Quality.——To be ſold cheap for Caſh, or Country Produce, by SAMUEL MARSH, of Hartford.

WHITE and Yellow Pine Plank, Lath and Clapboards, to be ſold by JOHN COLEMAN.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown, oppoſite the Court-Houſe;

MONDAY, July 15, 1765. [Number 34.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

Kingſton, (in Jamaica) April 4.

Extract of a Letter from the Havana, March 2, 1765.

"—SO much for buſineſs.—Now I muſt inform you of the Spaniards, or rather O'Rely's activity in the military way; my former letters informed you what vaſt additional fortifications were going on; the whole Cavannas are fortyfying, and that in ſuch a manner, that there are two more Moro's erecting, and upon the ſame plan, all able to ſecure and defend each other, ſurrounded with dry ditches cut in the rocks as deep as the Moro itſelf; whether they intend to let the ſea round, we here don't know, as no ſtrangers are permitted to go near any part of their works. If the Moro ſide was ſtrong before, 'tis now ten times more ſo; the town ſide alſo will be made as ſtrong as the nature of the ground will admit of, by numbers of forts, lines and intrenchments, all to be mounted with vaſt numbers of cannon. It is ſaid not leſs than 15,000 men are employed in theſe great works. They diſcipline the people, and the very Negroes, ſo ſtrictly that they perform all parts of the exerciſe, firings and manœuvres, as well as the regulars; in ſhort, they are kept inceſſantly at it, have frequent field days, and ſham battles. Lately there were 10,000 men drawn out on the plain between the Land Gate, and a ſmall village called Guadaloupe; 5000 of them commanded by General O'Reily, which was called the Spaniſh army, and 5000 men commanded by one O'Conner, the ſecond in command, which was called the Engliſh army. Every body here that could ſtir, went out of the town or upon the ramparts, which commanded the field of battle, to ſee this ſham fight, where, after various marches, counter-marches, and a variety of other movements, the two armies began to draw near enough to begin firing: In one place you would ſee cloſe ſolid fire; in another, one ſide prevailing and the other retreating; then bodies of reſerve retrieving the ground again of the retreating party; another place again, different bodies moving with the greateſt quickneſs to get ſome advantageous piece of ground, from which preſently they were beat off again, and ſoon after return to the attack and regain poſſeſſion. This laſted above two hours and an half, and ſometimes the Spaniard retreated, and ſometimes the Engliſh, & 'tis amazing to tell you the emotions this ſham battle and the nominal armies cauſed in the ſpectators; when the Engliſh retreated, vaſt ſhouts by the multitude, Pero Angleros, (Engliſh dogs) a word common with the Spaniards, they fly: When the Engliſh got the advantage, there was not ſo much huzzaing, but encouraging the Spaniſh party. In the fort that ſurrounded the ramparts of the town, numbers of common people ſtood, and juſt under the place where I was, upon the ramparts, was an Engliſh Tar, belonging to ſome of the merchantmen here: Jack, who was half ſeas over, was vaſtly pleaſed when the Engliſh party prevailed, which drew much the attention of the Spaniards againſt him; and when the Spaniſh party prevailed, the honeſt Tar, with great force of voice, would cry out, "D——n your eyes, Engliſhmen, will you give way?"—I was highly pleaſed with the true Engliſh Spirit of honeſt Jack, and the agitation he ſhewed at this conteſt, between the Engliſh and Spaniſh army, but unfortunately for poor Jack 'twas ordained that at laſt the Engliſh party ſhould retire and fly, upon which no longer able to contain himſelf, he with a volley of oaths flings his cap to the ground, and roars out, "O! d——n me, if they were a real Engliſh army, we ſhould ſoon ſee which would fly, ye Spaniſh bougres;" on which a Spaniard that underſtood a little Engliſh, was very angry with the ſailor, and reprimaned him, upon which Jack cried out, "Have at you, my boy," and knocked the Don down; ſome other Spaniards coming about him, Jack nimbly attacked them, and laid ſome of their honours in the duſt: A ſtout able Spaniard, preſuming on his own ability of body, offered him battle; Jack ſtriking one of his hands violently againſt the other, cried out, "I'm at you my jewel," and immediately hoiſted Don from the ground, and threw him flat on his back, ſaying, "Boy, that is a croſs buttock;" upon this a number of Spaniards got about him, and would certainly have ſtuck a ſtilletto into poor Jack, had not an Iriſh officer luckily come up, forcing a great crowd (for Jack laying about, crying out "Fair play, and I'll ſhew you ſport, my hearts,") immediately broke through the croud, and aſked Jack what was the matter? ſays Jack, "Aſk that Don's chops and his noſe, and both that Don's eyes, they will tell you what's the matter; and if your honour will ſtand by me, I'll———." Here Jack had clinched his huge fiſt, which made the officer apprehend further miſchief, thereupon taking hold of his arm, told him he muſt know what he was fighting about; "Why (ſays Jack) about Old England, and about King George,—Lord bleſs his precious eyes." Here Jack's ſpirits roſe above controul, and with his laſt words he knocked down another Don, upon which the officer told him he muſt take him into cuſtody, and that he was his priſoner, this he ſpoke with a ſeeming wrath, fearing the conſequence of their ſtillettoes to poor Jack; Jack ſurrendered, ſaying, he was not above being priſoner to an Engliſhman, but blaſt his eyes if he would ſurrender to a Spaniard; the officer then admoniſhed him, and told him war was not declared againſt the Spaniards, that it was now a time of peace, and that Jack muſt behave peaceably: Jack throwing his hat with great violence to the ground, cried out, "I declare war myſelf, d—n my eyes if I don't; I'll ſham fight them, I'll learn them to make the Engliſh run:" Well, but Jack, ſays the officer, they were nothing but Spaniards that run away. Here Jack, putting a large quid in his mouth, replied, no more they was not, I knew they could not be Engliſhmen. But come Jack, ſays the officer, you are my priſoner, and I'll take care to put you ſafe on board your ſhip: The officer took him away, and was as good as his word."

CHARLESTOWN, South Carolina, May 29.

Extract of a letter from Mobille, in Weſt Florida, April 2:

"On Tueſday the 26th ult. the Conferences with the Chickeſaws and Choctaws were opened: They are as favourable and friendly as can be conceived. There are here above two thouſand Indians, and ſo orderly, that they are hardly heard in town. The Superintendant (John Stuart, Eſq;) is much careſſed by them, and is this day to receive a beloved name from them with great ſolemnity: He has ſent Peter Acton Sinnot, Eſq; up the Miſſiſippi to the Illinois, who is accompanied by Monſ. De la Gauterais, now a Britiſh ſubject, and intimately acquainted with the tribes on that river. He has likewiſe ſent Lieut. Charles Stuart to Point Iberville, where Capt. James Campbell commands, to ſettle all matters with the ſmall tribes round that poſt. In ſhort, every thing here thus far promiſes peace, and we ſhall ſoon know what humour the Creeks are in, as they are to be with us in about a month or ſo."

May 29.

Letters from Penſacola, in Weſt Florida, of the 4th inſt. adviſe, that the congreſs with the hon. John Stuart, Eſq. ſuperintendant of the ſouthern diſtrict of America, had been holding for ſome time with ſeveral nations of Indians, was ended much to the ſatisfaction of the ſaid Indians, who had conſented that Britiſh ſubjects might ſettle and poſſeſs any part of their country, within 40 leagues from the ſea. It [illegible] that [illegible] Acadians were lately arrived at New Orleans, and the Weſt Floridians began to doubt whether the Spaniards would come to take poſſeſſion of the ſaid city & iſland. We are told his Majeſty's ſhips in the Bay of Mexico are extremely vigilant in preventing all clandeſtine trade between his Majeſty's ſubjects and the ſubjects of Spain.

ANNAPOLIS, in Maryland, June 6.

We learn from the Northward, that the STAMP ACT is to take place in America, on All Saints Day the firſt of November next —— In the year 1755, on the 1ſt of November, happened that dreadful and memorable earthquake which deſtroyed the city of Liſbon.

LONDON, April 22.

It is now ſaid, that the wild beaſt in France is the very ſame that has long been propheſied in the Apocalypſe of St. John, whereon the ſcarlot whore was mounted; and that the whole ſtory is no more than an allegory. By this ravenous beaſt is figured the whole body of the Romiſh clergy; and his voracious appetite anſwers to another ſcripture, conceived in theſe words, "eating up my people as they eat bread" This beaſt is fearful to make attack on full grown men, i. e. people of hard ſence and reaſon, but preys on women and children only, i. e the weaker minded of the people: And it appears from the hiſtory, that even little boys (proteſtant parentage) have withſtood and repelled him: That 20,000 men in arms going forth to fight the beaſt, ſhews the grand inclination of the people to ſhake off the yoke, and the king's rewarding the little boys for their bravery, and offering a reward for killing the beaſt, ſhews his Majeſty's good intention ſecretly towards reformation, although times and circumſtances are not at preſent, thought proper for ſetting up the reformed ſtandard.

April 27. One evening this week at a lodge of Freemaſons, held at a tavern in the Strand, a ſprightly young girl found means artfully to introduce herſelf, diſguiſed in men's cloths, into the lodge, where ſhe had the happineſs of ſatisfying her curioſity, ſo inſeparable from the fair ſex, and of being initiated into the ſublime myſtery and arcana of that antient and moſt honorable ſociety; ſhe remained ſome time in the lodge, but the aukwardneſs of her behaviour in her new apparel, and ſome other circumſtances, created a ſuſpicion, which occaſioned the ſuppoſed gentleman to be taken into another room, when her ſex was diſcovered.

Extract of a letter from Quebec.

"We have ſtrange ſort of proceedings in this government. One of our juſtices ſent from hence to Montreal to act in that capacity, having committed a military officer to priſon, was attacked in his own houſe about ten at night, by ſix men, with crape over their faces and hands, and was ſaluted with, 'Who the D—l made you a juſtice and never cropped your ears?" and immediately cut off his ears, ſlit his noſe, and left him for dead. Our governor is gone up to Montreal, in order to find out the offenders, and bring them to condign puniſhment, and a very conſiderable reward is offered for their diſcovery.

Extract of a letter from Quebec, to a merchant in London, dated December 16.

"At preſent here ſeems to be a very ſtrong conteſt between the civil and military. Great jealouſy prevails, and it is believed perſons are employed to bring an account of what is ſaid. Paſquinades are very frequent, and many of them have come up by the poſt from Montreal. One was found paſted up in the market place at Quebec, of which I have ſent you a copy. Several councils are held, but the objects of them are kept an entire ſecret.

"The governor and council have iſſued an order for lodging the troops in private houſes. A commiſſioned officer of or above the rank of a captain is to have a good bedchamber, dining room or parlour, furniſhed, with one celler, entirely to his own uſe, and the uſe of the kitchen in common with the family. Every commiſſioned officer under the degree of captain, is to have a good bed chamber, with the uſe of a dining room or parlour, kitchen and cellar; and every common ſoldier is to be furniſhed with good quarters, and be permitted to warm himſelf in common with the family. Beſides this a commiſſioned officer is to have a cord of wood furniſhed him per week, which will coſt from 7s. 6d to 10s. the cord, but for which he is to be charged no more than 5s. The houſes in which the troops are to be ſo quartered, conſiſt, for moſt part, of no more than four rooms, including the kitchen, for which the inhabitants pay a rent equal to what you pay near the Royal Exchange, London, ſo that it is really hard upon them to be obliged thus to let the officers have their rooms gratis. On the Canadians in particular, it is very hard, moſt of them having their houſes deſtroyed in the bombardment, to rebuild which they borrowed money, and had nothing to depend upon, but the letting them out to lodgings. The Engliſh have ſent a letter to the G of C, wherein they repreſent their diſtreſſed condition, and propoſe to repair the barracks, till his majeſty's pleaſure be known, &c.

"Advice has juſt now come from Montreal, that things are arrived there to ſuch a height, that the inhabitants never dine, nor even ſit in their own houſes, without piſtols before them. When a ſoldier enters, and demands a pound of ſugar, or any other thing they dare not deny him, they preſent a piſtol to prevent his committing any outrage, and hold it in that poſture 'til he retires. People dare not go out into the ſtreet in the day time, without arms. Two officers are taken up on ſuſpician of being concerned in Mr. Walker's affair, of which I wrote you word in my laſt. [See the letter before-mentioned.] A ſerjeant, his wife, and a common ſoldier, are alſo taken up on the ſame account, and are brought down to Quebec for fear of a reſcue at Montreal. There is no fear of their reſcuing the officers there, as the inhabitants would murther them if they could do it privately, and the ſoldiers will not obey the officers in any thing. It is greatly feared the troops in general will either lay down their arms or join the Canadians and Indians, who, it is feared, have ſome intentions to attempt to repoſſeſs themſelves of the province, there being ſeven [illegible] of the latter aſſembled at Frontinac, who murther all they meet with, without exception, tho' they give out they are going againſt the Niagara, another party of Indians, with whom they are at variance. The arrival of the Indians ſo near Montreal has thrown the inhabitants into the greateſt confuſion, and may probably end, not in an Indian war, but a provincial one.

WANTED immediately, a young man, who can write

Copy of the Paſquinade paſted up in the Market Place at Quebec.

"By good intelligence from New York we can aſſure the publick, that the Society for the encouragement of Arts and Sciences has ſent there, to be forwarded to Quebec, as a preſent to that infant colony, a high finiſhed picture, executed by a maſterly hand expecting it to be fixed up in their Town Houſe, to ſtimulate the inhabitants to a defence of trade and commerce, which is ever founded on Liberty and property, and adds, that our houſe of legeſlature ſits on wool bags for the ſame purpoſe.

"Principal Figure, as large as life, a Madman, endeavouring to aſcend a pile of books lettered Engliſh Laws. Six Aſſes, ‖ bellowing his praiſe, and aiding him: In his left hand is Magna Charta, much torn and abuſed, which he ſwears to deſtroy as ſoon as he can gain the ſummit. Behind the ſix Aſſes is Britannia fainting: Time tries to comfort her by pointing to the Madman and the pile of Engliſh Laws ſignifiing that the Madman will tumble before he can deſtroy the Scroll that is in his hand; near Britannia is Liberty, much frightened and weak, endeavouring to take leave of her; Time prevents her by pointing with his left hand to the Judges and Civil Courts. on the Back Ground is a Ship bulged on rocks; Casks, Bales, and other Emblems of Merchandize, floating down with the Tide of deſtruction.

"The oppoſite corner is filled with a Groupe of meagre bodies, called Louis's Outcaſt, grinning at the Scene, in like manner as Milton deſcribes Death's Grin in Paradice Loſt."

‖ Suppoſed to mean ſix M—y G—n in C—l.

BY the Honorable JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court for the County of Hartford, in the Colony of Connecticut, NOTICE is hereby given, That on Application, in Writing, by One of the Creditors of William Redfield, of Middletown, in ſaid County, an abſconded and concealed Debtor, for not leſs than Twenty Pounds, being proved by ſaid Creditors' Oath, in Purſuance of an Act made and paſſed in the general Aſſembly of ſaid Colony, on the ſecond Thurſday of May, 1765, entituled, "An ACT for preventing Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, and for the equitable Diviſion of the Eſtates and Effects of ſuch Debtors, to and among their Creditors." A Warrant hath iſſued, directed to all, and every the Sheriff, the Under-Sheriff and Deputies, and the Conſtables of the ſeveral Towns within this Colony, to attach, ſeize and take all the Eſtate and Effects of ſaid William Redfield, for the Uſe of his Creditors; and that unleſs ſaid William ſhall diſcharge his juſt Debts, or give Security therefor, within three Months from the Date of ſaid Warrant, that is to ſay, from the 4th Day of July, Inſtant, to the Satisfaction of ſaid Creditors, for the Payment thereof, all the Eſtate ſo ordered to be attached, ſeized, and taken, will be ſold for the Benefit of ſaid Creditors.

Hartford, July 5th, 1765.

PHILADELPHIA, July 4.

Since our laſt the Honorable Brigadier General Bouquet failed for Penſacola, in the Schooner Penſacola, Capt Dyer.

On Monday laſt Mr. John Bartram, his Majeſty's Botaniſt for North America, embarked for South Carolina, in the Schooner Eaſt Florida, Capt. Beckop; from whence he is to go to Weſt Florida, in order to diſcover the curious and moſt valuable vegetable and mineral productions of thoſe countries.

NEW-YORK, July 11.

Thurſday night laſt Capt. Reynolds arrived here from Surinam, in 30 Days: He ſays the rebellious Negroes are ſtill very troubleſome at that Place, and that a few Days before he failed, they received Advice of ſeveral Plantations being cut off by them.

By late accounts from Pitsburg, we hear of col. Croghan's arrival at the Scioto; he informs us, that Lieut. Fraſer, with his party, had left that place ſome time before he got there; and as there appeared a very good diſpoſition in the Indians, it was not doubted he would get ſafe to fort Chartres, the place of his deſtination. Theſe accounts contradict the reports which were received ſome time ſince, of his being deſtroyed by the Savages, which were hatched by traders to ſerve their own purpoſes.

Tueſday laſt Capt. Caton, arrived here from Barbados in 21 days: He ſays there has been great crops lately at that iſland.

Friday laſt capt. Candy arrived here from Newfoundland, in 26 days: He ſays there are the greateſt numbers of French-men on the banks this ſummer that ever was known. A brig arrived at St. John's from Dartmouth, in 14 days, the day that capt. Candy failed, but brought no news.

Yeſterday the coroner's inqueſt ſat on the body of a man who was drowned laſt week, by falling from a veſſel in the harbour.

Poſtſcript to a letter from Albany, dated June 24, ſays,

"The news we had formerly from Detrot, of a ſecond war with the Indians, is entirely groundleſs; ſome of our traders having lately met with ſome Indians on Lake Erie, who treated them with great love and friendſhip."

NEWPORT, July 8.

Capt. Scranton, in the ſchooner Little Becky, arrived here laſt Tueſday from Honduras Bay, in 52 days.——In lat 23. 58. long. 81 50. W. he took up a Negro man in a canoe, who ſaid he was drove off from the iſland of Cuba; that he had been out 52 days, and had ſubſiſted all that time on birds which he caught as they alighted upon his canoe; and that he belongs to the Havana.

Laſt Thurſday died, capt. Job Bennet, in the 78th year of his age, for many years a member of the honorable town-council. His remains were interred on Saturday, laſt in the afternoon.

Yeſterday died, Mr. Abraham Rodriges Rivera, in the 89th year of his age.

The Cygnet man of war, capt. Leſlie, arrived here laſt Thurſday night from New-London.

We have a report in town, concerning an inſurrection of the inhabitants of Mexico, ſomething of which, under the South Carolina head, was inſerted the week before laſt. Our account, which is thought to be authentic, is, That an edict ſome time ſince arrived from the court of Spain, with orders, that every inhabitant, capable of bearing arms, ſhould be ſubject to be regularly exerciſed, and apparelled in one particular uniform. This excited a diſaffection; and ſome delinquents being proſecuted with rigour, cauſed the whole country to join in one general revolt, and purſued it with ſuch vigour and ſucceſs, that the Viceroy was obliged to make a precipitate flight, and to quit the country.

Mexico is of ſo great extent, as to form a powerful empire. The Viceroy, who is ſent from Spain, exerciſes as much deſpotiſm as any prince in Europe. It is divided into Old and New Mexico, the former is above 2000 miles in length, and from 71 to 550 in breadth.

There are in this harbour three men of war, viz. the Maidſtone, Cygnet and Jamaica.

PORTSMOUTH, New-Hampſhire, July 8.

We hear from Rowley, that they had very ſevere thunder there laſt Monday afternoon, attended with ſharp lightning, which ſtruck two men & a boy, who were in a field at work; the boy had one ſide of his head much burnt, and remained ſpeechleſs for two or three hours, but is now in a fair way of recovery.

Laſt Tueſday evening was interr'd here, in the new eſtabliſhed mode, the remains of Mrs. Sarah Davis, who had been afflicted ſeveral years with a dropſy: after every other method had been tryed in vain, and her diſſolution to all appearance was very near, ſhe conſented to be tapped, in April 1763. —From that time to her death the operation was performed twenty-eight times, nearly once a month, and ſeventy gallons of water were drawn from her.—In the intervals ſhe frequently rode five or ſix miles, viſited in the neighbourhood, and till within a fortnight before her death appeared to enjoy a better health than for a year before ſhe was tapped.

BOSTON, July 11.

Tueſday afternoon departed this life, after a long languiſhment, Oxenbridge Thatcher, Eſq. in the 45 year of his age; he was one of the repreſentatives for this town in the General Aſſembly of the province.

On Monday night as one Mrs. Bright, at the north end, was going down ſtairs to get ſomething for her huſband, who was in an upper chamber, and blind, ſhe fell, and in the fall broke her neck, whereby ſhe immediately expired.

We hear from Falmouth, Caſco-Bay, that ſince laſt ſpring there has been raiſed in that town the frames of above fifty-dwelling houſes, within half a mile of each other.

We hear that Capt. Spear of this place is arrived at South-Carolina, from the coaſt of Africa: He has been from hence near 18 months, and buried his mate, boy, and every hand, on the coaſt; he loſt a great number of ſlaves, while he waited for the arrival of ſome men of war to ſupply him with hands to bring off his veſſel.

Meſſi's Printers,

OBſerving in your paper of this day an "Attempt to deſcribe an animal, which your young correſpondent, (for ſuch I apprehend him to be, by the lameneſs of his ſtyle) ſays had appeared in Great-Barrington, but was now confined in a cage in Cambridge, where, every one who had an inclination to ſee this ſtrange creature, (by which I find he means one of the ſame ſpecies with himſelf) might have an opportunity of gratifying their curioſity." As a lover of juſtice I am induced to aſk him by what authority he ſpeaks: If it only proceeds from an inclination to diſplay his wit, I am concerned he can take no other methods to make himſelf known in the world, than by paying for the printing of other people's works, the which he would fain have us believe are his own. If he really is capable of giving ſuch a deſcription, I would have him for the future deviate as little as poſſible from the truth, though at the ſame time I muſt inform him, that ſatyr is the worſt ſubject in the world for a young perſon, at his firſt ſetting out, to employ his pen in; for the generality of mankind are more inclined to favour even a bad compoſition, if free from reflections, rather than the moſt elaborate piece calculated to defame. I muſt farther inform him, that to reflect upon any perſon's character (even the moſt abandoned) in the manner he has done, without giving him an opportunity, as far as his caſe will admit, of defending himſelf, by his (the author's) not ſigning his name, is highly inconſiſtent with a gentleman's behaviour. But if he really is not aſhamed of what he already has aſſerted, and will make himſelf publick in your next paper, as far as is conſiſtent with my own character, I ſhall endeavour to maintain the dignity of human nature, ſo as to oppoſe the comparing it, upon his reaſons, to the brute creation, and ſign my own name to it. If he really is aſhamed of it, confeſſes it was only the effect of a ſudden thought, without weighing or conſidering the conſequences, I would adviſe him for the future, to look before he leaps, and not ſacrifice his wiſdom, if he has any, to his wit. In the interim I am your's, &c.

Cambridge, July 4, 1765. ‖ HUMANUS.

HARTFORD, July 15.

We hear from Great Barrington, that on the 8th ult. died there, in [illegible] 62d Year of his Age, JOSEPH DWIGHT, Eſq; who was a Brigadier-General of the Forces at the Expedition againſt Louisbourg, in the Year 1745 ——As he was greatly beloved in his Life-time, ſo his Death is much lamented.

By the Honorable

Hartford, [illegible] July, 1765.

WANTED immediately, a young man, who can write

BOSTON, July 4.

A gentleman from Athol, in this province, acquaints us of the great improvement already made in the Sugar-making Buſineſs at Bernardſton, about 20 Miles from that place; and as the ingredient from which this valuable article is produced, is ſpontaneous, and purely the product of nature uncultivated by human art, it muſt doubtleſs excite the curioſity of many to be informed of the method of procuring it; which, as far as we could obtain from the gentleman, is thus: Having choſen out a large maple tree, ſuitable for the purpoſe, they with an ax box it, much after the ſame manner of the fir from which turpentine is obtained; this being done, a kind of trough is prepared, extending from the trunk of the tree on each ſide, in order to retain the ſap as it runs down. By this means upwards of 30 gallons from one tree has been drawn in a day; which being manufactured after the manner of the ſyrup proceeding from the ſugar-cane, produces a ſugar, the grain of which is equal in fineneſs to the Jamaica; and the molaſſes, or treacle, extracted from the preſſure of the ſugar, is very little, if any thing inferior to our Weſt India molaſſes. Of this ſugar, (a ſmall quantity whereof was brought to this market to diſpoſe of) the gentleman ſays, upwards of 600lb. was made by one man the laſt ſeaſon, i.e. from February to April, incluſive. It is the prevalent opinion of the Manufacturers, that a tree will be ſerviceable for this purpoſe twelve or fourteen years, with proper uſage.——When any one conſiders the ſtill greater improvements that this diſcovery is capable of, and forms to himſelf an idea of the great utility of ſuch a manufacture, eſpecially in a country that has few or no ſtaple commodities to ſupport it, muſt he not wiſh that an adequate bounty was provided, or ſuch other ample encouragement allowed, as that we might be able at leaſt to ſupply ourſelves with theſe articles? and no longer have recourſe to our Weſt India neighbours, who, we imagine, after this diſcovery, will be as much neceſſitous from the want of our lumber, as ever we have yet been from the want of their produce——If we would be further ſtimulated to the propoſed encouragement, we need only to reflect a little on the manufactures in ſome of our ſouthern provinces; whoſe opulence ariſes chiefly from ſome of the moſt diminutive plants, and proceeds more from art in the improvement of theſe, than from induſtry in laborious employments.

Beſides the above, ſeveral hundred weight of this maple ſugar has been brought, within theſe few days paſt from various towns ſituated on the eaſtern and weſtern parts of this province, for ſale; it is ſaid that one family near Number Four, the laſt ſeaſon made upwards of 1000lb of different qualities. It is as pleaſant to the taſte as any other ſugar, and the makers inſiſt that it is medicinal, and very proper to give to children for the chin cough, at this time very prevalent among us.

By the Honorable

JOHN TEMPLE, Eſq.

Surveyor-General of His Majeſty's Cuſtoms for the Northern Diſtrict of America.

WHEREAS by the Act of the 4th of his preſent Majeſty, it is enacted, "That no Goods, Wares or Merchandize of any Kind whatſoever, ſhall be ſhipped or laden on board any Ship or Veſſel in any of the Britiſh colonies or Plantations in America, to be carried from thence to any other Britiſh Colony or Plantation, without a Sufferance or Warrant firſt had and obtained from the Collector, or other proper Officer of the Cuſtoms, at the Port or Place where ſuch Goods ſhall be intended to be put on board, and the Maſter of every ſuch Ship or Veſſel ſhall, before the ſame be removed or carried out from the Port or Place where he takes in his Lading, take out a Cocket or Cockets expreſſing the Quantity and Quality of the Goods, and Marks of the Package ſo laden, with the Merchant's Names by whom ſhipped, and to whom conſigned; and if they are Goods that are liable to the Payment of any Duty, either upon the Importation into, or upon Exportation from the ſaid Colonies or Plantations, the ſaid Cocket or Cockets ſhall likewiſe diſtinctly ſpecify that the Duties have been paid for the ſame, and by whom they were paid; which Cocket or Cockets ſhall be produced by the Maſter of ſuch Ship or Veſſel, to the Collector or other principal Officer of the Cuſtoms at the Port or Place where ſuch Ship or Veſſel ſhall arrive in any of the Britiſh Colonies or Plantations in America, before any Part of the Goods are unladen or put on Shore. And if any Goods or Merchandize ſhall be ſhipped as aforeſaid without ſuch Sufferance, or the Veſſel ſhall depart and proceed on her Voyage without ſuch Cocket or Cockets, or the Goods ſhall be landed or put on Shore before ſuch Cocket or Cockets, are produced at the Port or Place of Diſcharge, or if the Goods do not agree in all Reſpects therewith, the Goods in any or either of thoſe Caſes, ſhall be forfeited and loſt; and any Officer of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms is hereby impowered to ſtop any ſuch Ship or Veſſel, bound as aforeſaid, which ſhall be diſcovered within two Leagues of the Shore of any of the ſaid Britiſh Colonies or Plantations in America, and to ſeize and take from thence all the Goods which ſhall be found on board ſuch Ship or Veſſel for which no ſuch Cocket or Cockets ſhall be produced to him."

AND WHEREAS the Honorable Commiſſioners of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms have ſent Forms and Inſtructions to their ſeveral Officers for carrying the ſaid Act, and the other Acts reſpecting the Trade of the Britiſh Colonies and Plantations in America, into Execution.

Notice is hereby given to all Perſons having any Goods to ſhip on board any Ship or Veſſel, That they do before ſhipping take out a Sufferance or Warrant for the ſhipping of the ſame, as the ſaid Act directs; which Sufferance or Warrant the Maſter is to deliver at the Cuſtom-Houſe, either before, or when he comes to clear out his Veſſel, and agreeable to the Quantity endorſed thereon by the Searcher, or other Officer appointed to ſee the ſame ſhipped, a Cocket or Cockets will be made out and delivered to the Maſter, agreeable to the ſaid Act: And all Maſters of ſuch Ships or Veſſels are hereby notified to produce ſuch Cocket or Cockets to the Collector or other principal Officer of the Port or Place of Diſcharge, before any Part of the Goods are unladen or put on Shore: And all Perſons concerned are to take Notice of, and conform to the ſaid Act and Acts, as they would avoid the Penalties of the ſame.

And I do hereby alſo ſtrictly require all Officers of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms in the Northern Diſtrict of America, to take Care that the ſaid Act and Acts, are duly obſerved and carried into Execution.

Boſton, New-England,
22d May, 1765.

J. Temple.

RUN-away from the ſubſcriber of Coventry, yeſterday afternoon, an indented lad, named William Broton, about 18 years old, ſtout fellow of a ruddy complexion, dark hair and light eyes; he has a conſiderable bundle of cloaths with him. Whoever ſhall bring ſaid Broton to the ſubſcriber in Coventry, ſhall receive a reaſonable reward of

July 1, 1765. David Richardſon.

New London, 20th June, 1765

THIS may notify all People whom it may concern, that purſuant to a Decree of the Court of Vice Admiralty, for the Colony of Connecticut, held at New-London, on the 19th Day of June Inſtant, is to be ſold at a publick Vendue, at the Houſe of Capt. Edward Palmes, Inn-holder at New-London, on the Tenth of July next, at Two of the Clock in the Afternoon, a ſmall Sloop, Burthen about 15 Tons; alſo 43 Casks of Molaſſes. The Conditions of Sale, will be made known at ſaid Time and Place.

STEPHEN BLAKE,
Marſhal of ſaid Court.

WHITE and Yellow Pine Plank, Lath and Clapboards, to be ſold by JOHN COLEMAN.

To be ſold, Reaſonably, by THOMAS LITTLE, of Litchfield,

FOUR Tuns (with a fine Aſſortment) of the beſt Hollow-Ware, now at Hartford, in Mr. Jones's Store, for Caſh, 6 Months Credit, or Rum, Molaſſes or Land in Litchfield, New Framingham, or Eaſt or Weſt Hooſok, in the Bay Province.
June 22d, 1765.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown, oppoſite the Court-Houſe.

MONDAY, July 22, 1765. [Number 35.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

From the PUBLIC LEDGER.

Pleaſe to give the following a Place in your Paper, in Anſwer to the Queſtions propoſed by the No Smuggler in your Wedneſday's Ledger.——(See the above Queſtions in the Connecticut Courant of the 6th of May.)

THE North American Smuggling Trade is deſtructive to the mother country in general, if meant from Europe, and ought to be diſcountenanced, but the Britiſh ſugar coloniſts, who have more than thirty years been too partially indulged by an impracticable tax on foreign molaſſes, have no reaſon to complain againſt the North American ſmugglers, of a commodity that has been ſuggeſted themſelves have ſmuggled from our inveterate enemies the French, ever ſince the year 1733.

Therefore two million as loyal and ſerviceable ſubjects as any the king has in his dominions, ought not in juſtice or good policy to be any longer debarr'd of their natural rights, that a few pamper'd Creolians may roll in their gilded equipages through the ſtreets of this metropolis.

When the new and old ſettlements can take off all the fiſh, lumber, &c. that the northern coloniſts can export, and fully ſupply them with Weſt-India produce, then, and not before, ought the foreign trade to be clogged, even with a ſingle duty. This may fairly ſerve for an anſwer to the third and fourth queſtions. The thought of an independency in the North Americans never exiſted in their minds, but is abhorrent to, and as much deteſted by them as by Mr. No Smuggler, with his judicious queſtions.

When the North Americans ſhew any inclination to be refractory, they ought to be ſaddled with troops, and, if able, be made to pay them. The putting down the diſtilleries in North America would undoubtedly be pleaſing to their Creolian friends, and ſo would make the North-Americans as arrant ſlaves as Guinea negroes; but not quite ſo equitable, perhaps, as obliging the Creoles to pay the expence of cutters employed to prevent the ſmuggling of molaſſes, rum and ſugar, calculated to keep up the impoſition upon the North-Americans of thoſe articles, at double the prices they were before the ſugar act, and in payment for North-America produce at 50 per cent. leſs than they formerly paid.

As I have not heard of any threats from the northern coloniſts, the anſwer to this queſtion ſhall be by another queſtion, viz. Whether the author of an inſidious falſe ſuggeſtion, tending to alienate the affections of the mother country, and provoke her to oppreſs and diſguſt more than two millions of her moſt uſeful American ſubjects, ought not to be treated as an enemy to his country, and with the utmoſt ſcorn and contempt? If theſe anſwers to Mr. No Smuggler ſhould not ſatisfy him, he may expect, in a day or two a few queſtions relating to the ſugar-colonies, by an ANTI SMUGGLER.

From the LONDON GAZETTEER.

The North-American Agents beg you will inſert the following Card, in Anſwer to Mr. C. D——'s Letter in your Saturday's Paper.

THE agents of North America preſent their moſt grateful compliments to Mr. C. D. (who they conceive to be the S——y at W——'s firſt clerk) and are extremely obliged to him for the alternative, which his right honorable maſter has allowed him to offer. Conceiving themſelves the only repreſentatives of America, they moſt chearfully acquieſce in his laſt propoſition, and hereby declare their choice to defend themſelves without any military aid. They dread no enemy but the mother country, and wiſh to preſerve America as an aſylum for the wrecks of liberty. Mr. C. D. muſt pardon the agents if they think his knowledge is inferior to his zeal. There are no want of barracks in Quebec, nor any part of America; but if an increaſe of them is neceſſary, at whoſe expence ſhould they be built? What is the practice in England? All that the agents contend for is, that the ſame protection of property and domeſtic ſecurity which prevails in England, ſhould be preſerved in America. Let Mr. C. D. or his maſter, firſt try the effects of quartering ſoldiers on butchers, bakers, or other private houſes here, and then tranſport the meaſure to America.——Parental example may produce filial obedience.——But no S——y at W——, or his clerk, can ever conceive, that the people of America, or thoſe in England, (whoſe intereſt depends on a commercial connection and ſtricteſt amity with them) will tamely ſubmit to incroachments on ſo dear a part of their liberties, which they call on the bill of rights to defend. The people of England and America are the ſame; one King, and one law; and thoſe who endeavour to promote a diſtinction, are truly enemies to both.

LONDON, May 2.

It is confidently ſaid, a great perſonage has declined, on account of his health and the plan of life he has adopted, ſome very high offices obligingly preſſed upon him, with regard to aſſuming a conſiderable ſhare in the adminiſtration.

We are informed, that there is now preparing for the preſs, an addreſs to the King, Lords and Commons; containing, an authentic deſcription of the particular artifices and various concealments carried on in a certain branch of buſineſs for thirty Years paſt, in defrauding the revenue in a moſt extenſive degree, without being detected: alſo ſetting forth the neceſſity for altering the mode of exciſe, by taking the duty entirely off beer and ale throughout the kingdom; whereby it will be evidently ſhewn, that the revenue will be increaſed to ſome hundred thouſand pounds per annum.

A waggoner of Briſtol has obtained a decree in Chancery for an eſtate of between five and ſix hundred pounds of yearly rent, and 14,000l. in caſh, after being kept eighteen years out of his right, ten of which it has been pleaded in Chancery.

May 8. Recent letters from Paris adviſe, that the payment of the Britiſh Canada bills, were actually in the laſt train of accommodation with Lord Hertford, when the poſt came away.

The court of Madrid have lately agreed with reſpect to the boundaries to be obſerved between the ſubjects of Great-Britain and Spain in the Bay of Honduras, as tranſmitted to his Excellency Lord Rochford for the approbation of the Spaniſh miniſtry; copies of which have been already tranſmitted to the reſpective governors in the Weſt-Indies.

They write from Jamaica, that a ſloop of war was diſpatched by Admiral Tyrrel, on the windward ſtation, to reconnoitre what the Spaniards were about at Iſabella Bay, on the iſland of Hiſpaniola, where advice had been received, that they were erecting ſeveral large fortifications.

Yeſterday morning the firſt diviſion of the royal regiment of Scotch fuzileers, marched off from Dartford on the route to Portſmouth, in order to embark for Weſt Florida.

Saturday laſt died in Ratcliff-highway, one Wetherington, who had amaſſed a fortune of 3000l. by ſelling old rags and iron.

From France we are told that their navy is already in a better condition than it was at the commencement of the late war; and that they intend to try their ſtrength with us, not only if we intermeddle in the affair of Corſica, but alſo as touching a ſettlement which they have made on the river Gambia in Africa, where according to our reckoning we have an excluſive right.

The Ship ——— Captain Potts, arrived at Philadelphia, and the Roebuck, Capt. Smith, arrived at New-York, (both from London) have brought publick Papers till the 15th of May, which contain the following Advices, viz.

LONDON.

Letters from Hamburgh, by the way of Holland adviſe, that the Dutch are raiſing ſeamen in that city, with the greateſt diligence.

We hear that moſt of the cruiſing veſſels and cutters, ſtationed to prevent what has imprudently been called Smuggling in North-America, except ſuch as are to watch the French in the Gulph of St. Lawrence, &c. will ſpeedily be ordered home.

We hear a conſiderable alteration is intended to be made in the Regency Bill, by including therein the ſecond lady in the kingdom.

By a ſhip arrived at Briſtol, from Guinea, there is advice that the Hereditary Prince of Angola intends to viſit England this ſummer, and was expected over in the firſt man of war that left the coaſt.

They adviſe from Dublin, that the greateſt quantity of tallow is now, and has for ſome time paſt been ſhipping for the American iſlands and colonies, particularly for Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, &c. That has been known for ſome years paſt.

There is a report that his royal highneſs the Duke of Glouceſter will ſet out next week for Portſmoth.

It is reported that the Right Hon. M. Pitt will be included among the number of illuſtrious perſonages appointed in the regency.

A pardon is ſaid to be ſolliciting for three diſtinguiſhed northern exiles now abroad, who were concerned in the rebellion in 1745.

NEW-YORK, July 18.

We are inform'd that on Monday night laſt, a young woman at the houſe of Mr. Johnſon, ſilver ſmith, near the Oſwego market in this city, being in bed with her child, and the reſt of the family out of town, ſhe was waked by the barking of the dog in the yard, ſhe aroſe, and not ſeeing any body, let the dog into the houſe, and went to ſleep again; ſoon after ſhe was a ſecond time wakened by the barking of the dog, and getting up, ſaw a tall fellow with an ax in one hand, and a hammer in the other, and a dark lanthorn at his girdle, endeavouring to break into a room; as ſoon as he ſaw her, he made a ſtroke at her with the ax, then threw that and the hammer at her, and run off; ſhe happened to eſcape unhurt, and after he was gone found in the paſſage two bundles of clothes, which had been taken out of the very room where ſhe had been in bed. It is ſuppoſed the villain ſtole in and conceal'd himſelf in the houſe in the evening.

[The Engliſh papers, by the laſt veſſels contain no news of importance, except that the nation in general ſeems extremely diſſatisfied with publick meaſures, and great numbers of people in ſeveral branches of manufacture are without employment, and ſtarving for want of bread.—His majeſty's palace, and the parliament houſe, were ſurrounded by 10 or 12,000 weavers, but they retired upon being promiſed relief —the commotions continued for ſeveral days, and the Duke of B—— was mobbed, his coach broke to pieces, himſelf wounded with a ſtone, and narrowly eſcaped with life.—— The greateſt confuſion and uneaſineſs ſeems to prevail thro'-out the Britiſh dominions, both at home and in the colonies— trade and buſineſs of all kinds continually grows more and more diſtreſſed——, even before the fatal act takes place.—— Could the greateſt enemies we had in the world have contrived more effectually to diſtreſs the nation?—What worſe had we to fear from our enemies! Mean while they are fortifying and ſtrengthening all their places that might be expoſed in a future war, and are continually building and purchaſing ſhips of war, increaſing their marine, and collecting warlike ſtores from every quarter——Our priſons have been for ſome time crowded with debtors, and our publick papers with advertiſements for their diſcharge by acts of inſolvency.——

It is ſaid there is no foundation for the report that a certain governor was to be recalled. That governor Murray had received orders to diſcontinue the practice of quartering ſoldiers on private houſes, after barracks are provided, and that they ſhall pay the full market price for every thing. The Charles-Town, Capt. Mills, from South Carolina, was caſt away at Scilly. 150 barrels of rice were ſaved of her cargo.——No time fixed for the Duke of York's going abroad.——The marriage between the Prince of Denmark, and the Princeſs Caroline Matilda, not likely to take place this year. The royal aſſent given May 10 to ſeveral bills among which, were bills

To veſt the Iſle of Man in the crown.

To alter certain rates of poſtage, and to amend other acts relating to the revenue of the poſt office.

To render more effectual in his Majeſty's dominions in America, the act for puniſhing mutiny and deſertion.

For providing a publick reward for perſons diſcovering the longitude at ſea.

Mr. Charles's diſpatches from the aſſembly of New-York preparing to be laid before the parliament.

The people of the Iſle of Man, and of Jerſey and Guernſey intend to claim the liberty of ſending repreſentatives to Parliament.——An act of bankruptcy, calculated for the ule of the American colonies, is ſaid to be on the carpet.

Affairs in the Eaſt-Indies terminated entirely in our favour ——Coſſim Ali Cawn with conſiderable treaſure, being delivered into our hands. The brave Corſicans ſtill maintain their freedom—and are as formidable as ever to their tyrant. The court of Spain ſaid to have abſolutely refuſed payment of the Manilla ranſom. The Canada bills not yet adjuſted with France——nor like to be—How tame to enemies! How ſevere to children!]

All the veſſels coming to this port from ſea, and even coaſters, and ſome ſmaller veſſels, have of late been much diſturbed by the Hawke man of war, lying in the Bay, which brings them all to, and takes their hands. 'Tis ſtrange there ſhould be ſuch a want of hands in this time of peace. It is thought that this practice will be a great diſcouragement, and obſtruction to the coaſting trade. One of the officers who purſued a veſſel to the town, was pretty roughly treated by ſome of the populace.

On Saturday evening laſt, a carman riding in his cart, drove over a child in Rotten-Row, who was much hurt, and narrowly eſcaped being killed.———And on Tueſday laſt another carman alſo drove over a child, in like manner, who was dangerouſly, if not mortally hurt, and we hear that one of the Aldermen happening to be preſent, ſent the offender to goal.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.

Capt. Potts, who left Falmouth the 19th of May, informs, that there was no American packet, at Falmouth, when he left it, but that one was daily expected.

Laſt Friday a Shark 9 feet long, and on Monday, one 5 feet long, were caught, by ſome fiſhermen, in this river, two miles below Glouceſter point.

NEW-PORT, (Rhode-Iſland) July 15.

On the 8th inſtant died at Middletown, after a lingering illneſs, in the 47th year of her age, greatly lamented, Mrs. Hermione Banniſter, wife of John Banniſter, Eſq; and great-grand daughter to Governor Arnold, the only governor of this Colony ever cloathed with the king's commiſſion.

BY the Honorable JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court for the County of Hartford, in the Colony of Connecticut, NOTICE is hereby given, That on Application, in Writing, by One of the Creditors of William Redfield, of Middletown, in ſaid County, an abſconded and concealed Debtor, for not leſs than Twenty Pounds, being proved by ſaid Creditors' Oath, in Purſuance of an Act made and paſſed in the general Aſſembly of ſaid Colony, on the ſecond Thurſday of May, 1765, entituled, "An ACT for preventing Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, and for the equitable Diviſion of the Eſtates and Effects of ſuch Debtors, to and among their Creditors." A Warrant hath iſſued, directed to all, and every the Sheriff, the Under-Sheriff and Deputies, and the Conſtables of the ſeveral Towns within this Colony, to attach, ſeize and take all the Eſtate and Effects of ſaid William Redfield, for the Uſe of his Creditors; and that unleſs ſaid William ſhall diſcharge his juſt Debts, or give Security therefor, within three Months from the Date of ſaid Warrant, that is to ſay, from the 4th Day of July, Inſtant, to the Satisfaction of ſaid Creditors, for the Payment thereof, all the Eſtate ſo ordered to be attached, ſeized, and taken, will be ſold for the Benefit of ſaid Creditors.

Hartford, July 5th, 1765.

WHITE and Yellow Pine Plank, Lath and Clapboards, to be ſold by JOHN COLEMAN.

Copy of a LETTER,——

SOL, in the Eaſt, from Neptune's watry Bed,
Riſing, diſpells the Miſt, and ſhews his guilded Head.
Aurora bluſhes, interſtreak'd with Grey,
Heightens in Beauty, and proclaims the Day.
The feather'd Choirs, in ev'ry Bough rejoice,
Tune ev'ry Throat, to manifeſt their Joys.
The waving Air, conveys the pleaſing Sound,
And whiſp'ring Zyphers, waft the Muſick round.
Nature, not Art, compleats the Melody;
Chirps are the Notes, not la, fa, ſol, la, mi.
All Animals, and ev'ry reptile Tribe,
Feed on the Graſs, or ſip the dewey Tyde.
But when the ſcorching Rays of Noon deſcend,
The panting Crowds, the cooling Shades befriend.
The Day's with various, matchleſs Beauties dreſt,
——Quas nunc perſcribere longum eſt.
The ſultry Heat abates, the Sun retires,
Lights Heaven's numerous Lamps with twinkling Fires;
Earth's Canopy, Heav'n's vaſt expanſe is dreſt,
Moon, Planets, golden Stars, from Eaſt to Weſt,
Glitter in Æther, in their Courſes role,
Rule through the Night, and ſhine from Pole to Pole.
Now Reſt had ſpread abroad her peaceful Wing,
Silent's the Mead, no feather'd Songſters ſing.
In the turf'd Hut, and Palace of the Great,
Snugs Jack with Jill, and Princeſs with her Mate.
In her Exiſtance, Nature ſeems to ceaſe,
Sleep ſpeaks the Feat, and all Nature's Eaſe.
Now am'rous Collin, ſmote by Cupid's Dart,
Enjoys no Peace or Quiet in his Heart;
His fleecy Charge, with faithful Tray he leaves,
And with his Crook, theſe ſpecial Orders gives:
"Take Heed, my Dog, no rav'nous Wolf invades
"The Fold, or howling haunts theſe peaceful Shades.
"This pleaſing Prize, rewards thy watchful Care,
"But mind your Noſe, and catch the paſſing Air:
"That when (with Hunger mov'd) the Beaſts of Prey,
"Tir'd with the Length, and Fear of opening Day,
"Shall leave their Dens; and tread the nightly Round,
"By Scent, if not by Hearing may be found."
Th' obedient Curr, waging his Tail for Joy,
"Maſter, (ſays he) thy Words my Cares employ:"
He leaps, and jumps, to kiſs his Maſter's Hand,
"I love the Marrow-Bone, more thy Command.——
This done, the Shepherd viſits the green Grove,
(A proper Seat for Solitude and Love)
The joyous Scene delights his liſtning Ear,
Here center Pleaſures, Beauty of the Year!
A friendly Bank, his weary Limbs ſupports,
Free from the Noiſe of City, and the din of Courts.
Here balmy Reſt, invites to ſoft Repoſe,
And chearing Sleep to ev'ry Mortal ſhews.
Adown the craggy Cliff, the Riv'lets flow,
And on the Margin's Brink the Roſes grow.
Below, the chryſtial Fluid ſhines like Glaſs,
Reflecting Flow'rs with ev'ry Spire of Graſs.
Thither the feather'd Tribes, in Flocks reſort,
Like thronging Crouds, around a ſpacious Court.
On yonder Oak, the Black Birds tune their Throats,
Charming the Grove, with well tim'd, warbling Notes.
The pretty Larks, ſit on the topmoſt Bough,
There, tott'ring play, nor any Danger know.
The Linnet and the Thruſh, in Concert join,
The Muſick's ſweet, harmonious and divine.
Here raptur'd Collin met his Philomel,
Whoſe Beauties fair Diana's Train excel.
Kind Gratulations, whiſper through the Grove,
And every Salutation, ſpeaks their Love.
But here, alas! ended the happy Scene,
For Collin wak'd, and lo, 'twas but a Dream.

SOMNIATOR.

St. Jago de la Vega, (Jamaica,)

May 11. On Tueſday arrived his majeſty's ſhip Dreadnought from the Bay of Honduras, with part of the troops who were ſent here to adjuſt the differences between us and the Spaniards; and we can with pleaſure aſſure the public, that an entire ceſſion was made of every thing that was demanded. The Dreadnought parted with the Eſſex in a hard gale of wind about ten days ſince. The Africa is gone to Carthagena.

May 18. On Saturday laſt Charles White, Eſq; received notice from the governor's ſecretary, that his excellency had thought fit to diſmiſs him from his offices of Maſter in Chancery, and Captain of the Train of Artillery, without aſſigning any cauſe.———MEMORABILIA.

John Brodbelt, Eſq; is appointed Captain of the Train of Artillery; and Kingſmill Clark, Eſq; Maſter in Chancery in his ſtead.

June 1. On Tueſday laſt died at Bath, in this iſland, the lady of his excellency Governor Littleton.

QUEBEC, June 13.

We hear that on the 7th of laſt month, a very tragical affair happened at Montreal; a girl, about 15 years of age, who lived with her grand father and grand mother, took the opportunity to put arſenick among ſome ſalt, which the people unluckily put in their ſoup for dinner; immediately after eating they were all ſeized with a violent ſickneſs; the girl, pretending to eat none that day, after ſeeing the reſt affected, ran out and brought in a doctor, who gave them counter poiſon: They remained very ſick, one of them is ſince dead, and the reſt continue in a dangerous condition. They have committed a blackſmith to priſon, who is ſuſpected of having been privy to this moſt execrable crime.

Laſt Friday ſe'nnight arrived here, by way of New York, the Hon. Arthur Brown, Major of his Majeſty's 28th regiment of foot, now in garriſon here.

HALIFAX, (in Nova-Scotia) June 13.

Monday laſt were executed here, James Donnelly and Joſhua Smith, for the robbery of Adam Breſtow. David Taylor and John Evans, were reprieved to the 1ſt of July.

PORTSMOUTH, New-Hampſhire, July 12.

Saturday laſt arrived here, Capt. George Jerry Oſborn from Canſo, and informs, that a great number of French fiſhing veſſels are off the banks of Newfoundland, the ſkippers of which treat our fiſhermen with great inſolence; and do all in their power to diſtreſs them, by not bearing up in the night, as our veſſels commonly lay at anchor, which obliges them to cut or ſlip their cables, to prevent being run down by them; and they alſo frequent our banks to the weſtward, which is a great annoyance to our fiſhery.

July 13. We hear from Falmouth, that laſt Monday the moſt ſevere thunder and lightning happened there that has been known for many years, beginning juſt before ſun ſet, and continued till one o'clock next morning. Major Waite of ſaid town, returning home, had his horſe ſtruck down from under him but the Major received no hurt.——Another man ſtanding on a rock near the ſea ſide, was ſo blinded by the lightning that he fell from the ſame above 15 feet, but providentially his life was ſpared, though he received ſeveral bruiſes in his body. 'Tis feared conſiderable other damage was done by the above thunder and lightning, that we have not as yet heard of.

BOSTON, July 18.

Yeſterday arrived here Capt. Atwood from Halifax. Advice was received there by a veſſel from London, that three regiments from England and four from Ireland had failed for North America, and that one of them, the 29th, was daily expected at Halifax.

Captain Florence and Captain Burnet are arrived from Falmouth, the former in 40 days, and the latter in 28 days paſſage; but brought no news papers, nor any intelligence.

Yeſterday as ſome perſons were pleaſuring in Charles River in a ſail-boat, a young man named Francis, belonging to Charleſtown, accidentally fell over and was drowned.

Yeſterday a widow woman at the north end named James, having juſt waſh'd ſome ſtockings, while hanging them on a line fell dead in an inſtant.

HARTFORD, July 22. 17

We hear from Woodſtock, that on the 6th Inſtant, departed this Life, after a tedious Illneſs of ſeveral Months continuance, Mrs. Dorothy Leonard, the virtuous and very amiable Conſort of the Rev. Mr. Abiel Leonard, of that Place, and Daughter of the Hon. Hezekiah Huntington, Eſq; of Norwich, whoſe ſingular Piety, good Diſpoſition, agreeable Temper, and courteous Behaviour toward People of all Conditions, rendered her worthy of univerſal Eſteem; and her Death is equally regretted by all her ſurviving Relatives and Acquaintance as a loſs, not only to her Family, but alſo to the Place in which ſhe lived.

NEW-YORK.

To the PRINTER.

AS the Iſraelites were in the Eyes of the Egyptians yea, ſtill worſe we ſeem to be in the eyes of our Mother Country. In order to ſupport this Opinion, I would obſerve, that when the Egyptians increaſed the Burden of the Iſraelites, they only inſiſted on their delivering the ſame Tale of Bricks, when they were not ſupplied with Straw, and were obliged to gather it themſelves, where they could beſt find it, that uſed to be exacted when it was found them; but our Mother Country not only with-holds from us the Benefit of ſeveral valuable Branches of Trade as the Egyptians with held Straw from the Iſraelites, but even demands of us a much greater Tale of Silver or Gold than we could have raiſed if thoſe Branches of Trade had not been with held from us: And how is this Silver and Gold to be come at?—From the Mines of Peru? No, for the Channel from thence is intirely ſtopped.——How then? Why as well as we can. It ſeems the Iſraelites made Stubble anſwer inſtead of Straw: But what Invention will anſwer the Demands of our kind Mother Country inſtead of Sterling Money? The Egyptians looked on the Iſraelites as Foreigners, as they really were; but are not the Inhabitants of the Colonies in general the genuine Offspring of British Parents and entitled to the ſame Liberty and Property as they! The Iſraelites, by God's extraordinary Appointment, increaſed very faſt, which made the Egyptians their Enemies, who therefore thought it good policy to oppreſs them. But do we increaſe faſter than the common Courſe of Nature,——or is there any Reaſon for a worſe than Egyptian Jealouſy? ——But as the future increaſe will be in proportion to the Extent of Territory, and the Means of Subſiſtence, the American Engliſh muſt in ſome few Ages be much more numerous than their Brethren in Great Britain and Ireland——And is there not reaſon to dread what may then happen?

Is it ſuppoſeable that they will bear what they think a moſt grievous Oppreſſion, (by whatever Name it may be called by thoſe that impoſe it) when they have ſufficient Power to throw it off? And what will thoſe have to anſwer for, who lay the Foundation for future Scenes of Blood and Deſolation!

The Egyptians paid dear for their Oppreſſion, and the Iſraelites were removed from their Government,—neither of which I deſire to be the Caſe, with Reſpect to our Mother Country and us, but only that we ſhould be dealt with as Children of the ſame Parents, enjoying the ſame Freedom and Property as our Brethren in England, in Trade and Commerce, and being taxed only by our Legal conſtitutional Repreſentatives,——But this Subject has already been treated by ſeveral maſterly Hands, to the general Approbation of all Lovers of their Country.

Perhaps ſome Task Maſters have reported of us, that we are become idle through Wealth, becauſe ſome Individuals of our Countrymen, by the Smiles of Providence, or ſome other Means, are enabled to roll in their four wheel'd Carriages, and can ſupport the Expence of good Houſes, rich Furniture and luxurious Living. But, is it equitable that 99, or rather 999 ſhould ſuffer for the Extravagance or Grandeur of one? Eſpecially when it is conſidered, that Men frequently owe their Wealth to the Impoveriſhment of their Neighbours; ſo that it would be moſt unjuſt to ſuppoſe a People generally to be rich becauſe ſome wealthy Men live among them:

Perfect Equity indeed is not to be expected in this World, but ſurely both Individuals, and legiſlative Bodies can come much nearer to the Standard of Right and Wrong than they generally do. For, 'do unto all Men as you would (being in their Circumſtances) reaſonably deſire they ſhould do unto you,' is a Precept that has the moſt full and rational Approbation of the Conſciences of all Men, whether conſider'd as Individuals or collective Bodies.

A. B. C. &c.

THE FARMERS are the boaſt of the Engliſh nation: they have always been, and continue to be, of great conſequence and uſe to us, and a very neceſſary link in the chain of goverument; as having an immediate connection with the gentleman on the one ſide, and the labourer on the other; by which they are fitted for various offices under the civil juriſdiction: they cary a reſpect with them, & are of eſpecial ſervice in keeping the meaner people to their duty; and being generally men of ſubſtance, they are of wonderful advantage to the neighbourhood they dwell in by employing the poor, by affording them comfort and aſſiſtance in their ſickneſs or misfortunes, by adviſing them in their family concerns, and by compoſing differences among them: and alſo to the common wealth in general, by keeping up a ſpirit of liberty in the country without licentiouſneſs by withſtanding corruption and oppreſſion, and maintaining the laws and by aſſerting the privileges of a free people.

Farming or husbandry is the method of life our Creator firſt deſigned us. It is of that nature, as muſt often raiſe in us good reflections, and turn our thoughts towards him. Every ſeaſon, every change of weather in the ſeaſon, awaken in us the conſideration of his providence, and a more than common ſenſe of our dependence on his bleſſing, from the perpetual occaſions we have of obſerving and reflecting how he gives us our daily bread. A man cannot be buſied in the offices of husbandry (they conſiſt of ſo great variety) without many things coming under his obſervation, from which divine, moral, and philoſophical concluſions are ſo natural and obvious, that if he will avoid making them he muſt ſhut his eyes againſt the light of the ſun.

If we conſider husbandry in regard to our temporal good, provided it be carried on with induſtry and judgment, it is a ſure way to improve our fortunes, and indeed the only way the landed gentleman can take. It is therefore to be wiſh'd they would exhort their children early to think of it with emulation, and enter into it as a ſchool of profit and education: if they were gently led to ſtudy agriculture, and purſued it as they ought, it would be ſo far from bringing them into contempt, and excluding them from uſeful knowledge, that they would find it the beſt ſchool of education, and the fitteſt to prepare them for the ſervice of their country. It is a vaſt field of ſcience the farmer is exerciſed in, and undoubtedly muſt be a very great advantage to him, and give him weight in aſſemblies, by furniſhing him with ſolid arguments in moſt of the affairs of life, and enabling him to deliver his opinion clearly and confidently on what he thoroughly underſtands and knows.

Again, it is productive of long life and health. The nerves and all the ſolids of the farmers and labourer's bodies are generally much ſtronger than thoſe of gentlemen, who live an idle and unactive life; their fluids much purer and unmixed; their bones conſolidate eaſily; and ordinary medicines work more ſucceſsfully on their diſeaſes than the moſt ſovereign ſpecificks upon perſons of higher quality. As they are leſs paſſive therefore in their conſtitutions, they often ariſe at their fulneſs of years, which gentlemen, who are not exerciſed in country employments, ſeldom reach.

Laſtly, when we conſider a judicious farmer, ſurrounded with his family, his friends and dependants, and converſing on the different topics of husbandry; when we review him remote from the troubleſome ſcenes of fraud, malice, vanity, and ambition, cultivating domeſtick virtue, cheriſhing the principles of univerſal benevolence, and diſpenſing friendſhip to all around him, with looks of chearful innocence and words that ſpeak an elegant ſimplicity, we cannot conceive a human being more happy, or a character more amiable, more truly dignified! ſuch a figure ſtands like an antient patriarch, commanding love and veneration! all his conduct is upright, all his aims are directed to the purpoſes of humanity. If we compare him to a ſtateſman, how much happier is he than the firſt miniſter of the beſt monarch! whilſt a miniſter fleeces a whole people, our innocent farmer is employed in ſhearing his flock; from which he exacts nothing but ſuperfluity and incumbrance. The firſt operation produces murmers and diſcontent; the laſt is attended with mirth, feſtivity and profit. The farmer uſes no corruption, but manure; he hatches no intrigues, but poultry; he brews not miſchief, but beer; he fears no blaſts of envy, though he dreads the blaſts of heaven; and inſtead of fortifying caſtles, fences fields; becauſe he hath no enemies but vermin.

STray'd away from the Green-Woods, on the 9th inſtant, between Still River Bridge and Landlord Smith's of New-Hartford, a bay mare, about 14 hands high, a black mane and tail, branded with ſpecks, thus ɔC on the left ſhoulder, had on a bridle when ſhe got away. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid mare, and convey her to the ſubſcriber of Hartford, ſhall be well rewarded, and all neceſſary charges paid, by

SAMUEL FARNSWORTH.

Hartford, July 22d, 1765.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown, oppoſite the Court-Houſe.

MONDAY, July 29, 1765. [Number 36.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

From the COVENTRY MERCURY.

——— Satis eſt ſi
Traditum ab antiquis morem ſervare tuamq;
Dum cuſtodis eges, vitam, famamq; tueri
Incolumem poſſim: Simul ac duraverit Ætas
Membra, animumq; tuum, nabis ſine Cortice, ſic me
Formabat puerum Dictis. Hor. L. 1. Sat. 4.

To the PRINTER, &c.

SIR,

OF all our proverbial ſentences, none is more frequently made uſe of as a juſt rule for the conduct of life, than, that Manners make the man: Theſe few words will bear very copious paraphraſes; but I will venture to give one ſenſe to them, and make that interpretation the ſubject of this piece. As virtue, knowledge, and integrity, are implied in the word Manners, thoſe muſt be inculcated and attained to make the precept beneficial to mankind; I would therefore recommend a little alteration in the proverb to inforce it, and wiſh that all parents would think, in reſpect of their children, that Education makes the man.

The human mind an ingenious author has compared to unformed clay, and that education is the potter's hand and wheel that forms it into veſſels of honor or diſhonor; and ſurely it is that which of all human means is moſt effectual towards the refining and ſharpening men's minds, giving them an edge and quickneſs; and ſo much the more, becauſe it takes them in that age, wherein their faculties are as their joints pliant and tractable, and conſequently capable of being, by exerciſe, improved into great degrees both of ſtrength and activity. In ſhort, there is nothing tends more to the forming an honorable and virtuous, or diſſolute and unhappy life, than a good or bad education. Since education then, has ſo much influence, how much care and conduct does it require in parents, that, in the bringing up of their children, they give them ſuch a turn of thinking as may be truly conducive to their happineſs of life.

Of ſuch importance to the welfare of mankind education has been thought, that the ſubject has employed the pens of the moſt ingenious men, and advices have been wrote both for ſons and daughters, wherein all the neceſſary rules for conducting life in both ſexes have been laid down: Osborn's advice to his ſon, and the Marquis of Halifax to his daughter, are very excellent tracts.

But beſides theſe little detach'd pieces, the ſubject has been thought worthy the more elaborate productions of the greateſt men; nor does Mr. Locke any where more ſhew his genius and knowledge of human nature, than in his treatiſe of education.

Neverthleſs, a miſconduct in education ſtill ſubſiſts, and the moſt ſerious remonſtrances, advices and rules, have not a proper effect. It would be vain then to fix down any new ſtandard; yet by remarking any exemplary miſconduct in the education now in faſhion, it will have equal weight with the moſt philoſophical diſſertation.

It may ſeem very odd at firſt, that I ſhould complain that there is an unhappy ambition reigns at preſent among parents to educate their children in too much knowledge and politeneſs; but this I may venture to affirm is the ſource of more evils than in this piece I have buſineſs to conſider. Laying aſide political reaſons, our good breeding in England has introduced ſuch a corruption, that it were to be heartily wiſhed that we had leſs manners and more virtue.

It muſt be confeſſed it is a laudable ambition in parents to give their children all the accompliſhments neceſſary to conduct them through the world with prudence and genteelneſs; but the miſtake of what ſuch accompliſhments are, and the giving them a falſe turn of thought at the firſt ſetting out in life, is that error in education which is ſo much complained of at preſent, and which ſo much ſtands in need of redreſs.

There has been a maxim of late years ſo much inculcated, which is, to let youth have an early knowledge of the world; and hence it is that we have boys and girls at fourteen and fifteen have gained, according to this modern phraſe, a knowledge of the world, who, through their whole lives, will never know one neceſſary qualification of life: They became inſtructed in the vices and follies of rakes and coquets, at an age when the principles of true knowledge and virtue ſhould be eſtabliſhed.

From the BOSTON GAZETTE, July 8.

To the PRINTERS.

THE people of Virginia have ſpoke very ſenſibly, and the frozen politicians of a more northern government ſay they have ſpoke treaſon: Their ſpirited reſolves do indeed ſerve as a perfect contraſt for a certain tame, puſilanimous, daub'd, inſipid thing, delicately touch'd up and call'd an addreſs; which was lately ſent from this ſide the water, to pleaſe the taſte of the tools of corruption on the other—Pray gentlemen is it treaſon for the deputies of the people to aſſert their liberties, or to give them away? Dare any of theſe ſycophants to ſay that the American ſubjects are not intitled to British liberties? I hope the times will not yet bear it: Theſe rights belong to us; we may claim them in compenſation for the moſt ſubſtantial ſervices done to the mother country: But broad as this bottom is, we ſcorn to reſt it wholly here. Theſe liberties are derived to us in common with our fellow ſubjects in Britain, from nature, and the happy British conſtitution; it is therefore as much treaſon, and as impious in one man to complement, as in another to force them away.—We have been told with an inſolence the more intolerable, becauſe diſguis'd with a veil of public care, that it is not prudence for us to aſſert our rights in plain and manly terms: Nay, we have been told that the word RIGHTS muſt not be once named among us! Curs'd prudence of intereſted deſigning politicians! who have done their utmoſt to have the liberties of millions of honeſt and loyal, and let me add, brave and free born American ſubjects,—brave becauſe free born, ſacrificed to their own ambition and luſt of dominion and wealth,—See ye hungry wolves,—ye inſatiable vultures,—ye devouring monſters—who have aim'd at placing yourſelves in a ſtate of unconſtitutional independence, who have ſwell'd with the proud hopes of one day ſtriding over the backs of your ſuperiors, or making them your beaſts of burthen. See what is already the conſequence of your impudent temerity,——a whole continent awakened, alarmed, reſtleſs, I had almoſt ſaid diſaffected.

Theſe dirty ſycophants, theſe miniſterial hacks, would fain have us believe that his ſacred Majeſty, ever lov'd by his American ſubjects, would be diſpleas'd to hear their murmurs at the ſight of chains!—that the parliament who ſit to redreſs grievances, would be diſpleas'd with our remonſtrances, when we are aggrieved! What an idle, flimſy pretence is this! What a ſcandalous impeachment of the wiſdom and rectitude of parliament! What an affront to our dread ſovereign himſelf! Do any of theſe traducers of Majeſty eat bread at the King's table? Do theſe defamers of government live upon the bounty of the people? And will they have the effrontery to ſay that his Majeſty will be diſpleaſed with his people for aſſerting thoſe rights, which we claim upon no leſs authority than the word of a King,—Will they dare to tell us that the parliament will take it ill, that the remoteſt members of the Britiſh empire, maintain and boaſt of thoſe liberties, which their own former acts declare them to be entitled to? Is not this an high affront both to the King and his parliament? Say then ye ſons of prudence—ye lovers of conſtitutional liberty—ye friends of religion and good government—ye ſages of the law—ye miniſters of ſacred things,—judge every man of common ſenſe, of every order, age and rank whatever—for I appeal to all men, except a few deteſtable villains who want to be exalted, and richly deſerve it—Who are guilty of treaſon? Where are they? Point them out—and once again unite Britain and her colonies, ever inſeparable in their intereſt, in one common perpetual band of allegiance to Britain's lawful King

---

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 1.

YESTERDAY, very early in the morning, a very alarming fire broke out in the Tophana, which burnt with great fury for twelve hours, and in its progreſs to Pera, endangered ſeveral miniſters palaces; but happily all eſcaped; upwards of 600 houſes are conſumed, and many lives loſt in the flames. To compleat the calamity, the plague is very buſy, and carries off numbers; at the French palace three domeſticks have very lately died: The foreign Miniſters palaces in general are ordered to be kept ſtrictly ſhut.

By a letter from the Agent of the Eaſt India company, at Baſſora, to the Britiſh conſul at Aleppo, of the 12th of Feb. laſt, we are adviſed of the entire reduction of Madura, where Iſuf Cawn having ſome difference with an officer, who commanded a conſiderable body of Europeans in his ſervice, they entered into a ſcheme together of delivering up the place to the Engliſh, without the knowledge of the Cawn, whom they ſeized upon in the night time, and ſent to the Britiſh camp bound and tied down in a cloſe palanqueen. A conſiderable body of gold was found in the fortreſs, with a large quantity of rice and ammunition in general. We are further adviſed by the ſame channel, that another battle has been fought, and the victory obtained by the Britiſh forces, in Bengal; and that this ſucceſs has given ſo deciſive a blow to the enemy in that quarter, that they are entirely diſperſed, and that the Viſer, who commanded this army, is fled to a very diſtant country, in order, as it is ſaid, to ſeek an aſylum in the mountains.

LONDON.

May 11. They write from Brandenburgh, of the 19th paſt that ſix large barges, with coſtly materials for building the magnificent new palace at Potſdam for the King of Pruſſia, coming up the Elbe, were ſunk in a violent ſtorm, and every perſon on board periſhed.

Some letters from Holland mention, that the States General have lately come to a reſolution of augmenting their marine with 20 line of battle ſhips, which are ordered to be put upon the ſtocks.

The military eſtabliſhment of the Iſle of Man is now ſettled which we hear will conſiſt of a regiment of foot on the Iriſh eſtabliſhment.

Letters from Paris ſay, that the Baſtile is full of ſtate priſoners.

Letters from Breſt ſay, that upwards of three thouſand workmen are now employed in undermining Mount Charles, great part of which has been already blown up, and the whole is intended to be reduced immediately to a level, on account that it overlooked that city and haven, and might have been extremely prejudicial, in caſe of any future attempts of any enemy on the land.

May 14. We are informed, that diſpatches are now received from the Court of Madrid containing an abſolute negative on the part of Spain, to any the leaſt ſatisfactory terms of accommodation, relating to the payment of the Manilla ranſom money.

The number of Jeſuits exiled from France, &c. who have taken ſhelter in the Mint, near St. George's fields, Southwark, is ſo great, that it is difficult for the old inhabitants to keep themſelves properly ſheltered.

Large orders are received by Monday night's Dutch mail to purchaſe property in the Britiſh funds, on account of the ſubjects of the States General, and we hear more are ſoon expected, to the amount of near two millions of gilders.

LONDON, May 16.

We are credibly informed that on Tueſday next the preſent ſeſſions of parliament will be prorogued.

There is a report that his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Glouceſter will ſet out next week for Plymouth.

We hear a nobleman of the firſt diſtinction has this week been appointed, and will in a few days ſet out to execute a commiſſion of importance in his Majeſty's dominions in Germany.

Orders are given for three Companies of the Royal Regiment of Artilery to be in readineſs to embark for the Weſt-Indies and North America, to compleat a Battalion now on that Station.

A prodigious number of Spittlefield Weavers followed his Majeſty from St. James's to the Houſe of Peers, with black flags carried before them.

Wedneſday laſt a mob of upwards a thouſand men and women aſſembled in Bloomsbury ſquare, armed with ſtones, &c. in order to deſtroy the windows of a certain houſe in that place, which they were happily prevented from doing, by the good conduct of Saunders Welch, Eſq; Mr. Clay, High Conſtable of Holbourn diviſion, with the Peace-Officers, who attended for that purpoſe.

The payment of Canada bills, drawn from that and the other American Colonies on account of the French King, will not be made at once, but at different intervals, ſome of which will not even then be made but by the help of a lottery.

Plymouth, May 5. Sailed the Belleiſle man of war for Cork, where ſhe is to take on board troops for North-America.

TO BE SOLD, at Publick Vendue, to the higheſt Bidder, on Tueſday, the 27th of Auguſt next at 4 o'Clock in the Afternoon, on the Premiſes,

THE Dwelling Houſe and Lot, with the Barn, and Appurtenances of the late Mr. JAMES DAVIDSON, of Milford, deceaſed. Alſo ſundry Articles of houſhold Furniture,—&c. for Caſh only.

By ELISABETH DAVIDSON.

Milford, 15th July, 1765.

NOTICE is hereby given to the proprietors of the townſhip of Panton, lying on Otter Creek, in the province of New Hampſhire, that are delinquent in paying the rate or tax of twenty ſhillings, lawful money on the right of each original proprietor, granted at their legal meeting, holden on the firſt Monday of April, 1764, and advertiſed in the Connecticut Courant; ſaid advertiſement dated the 16th of May laſt, according to law; that ſo much of each delinquent proprietor's right of ſaid lands will be ſold to pay ſaid tax, with incident charges, on the 10th day of September next, at the dwelling houſe of Mr. Daniel Hausford, jun. of Canaan, inn holder, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon; and to continue by adjournment till the whole be ſold.

Dated at Canaan, this 24th day of July, A. D. 1765.

DAVID HOLCOMB, jun. Collector.

BY the Honorable JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court for the County of Hartford, in the Colony of Connecticut, NOTICE is hereby given, That on Application, in Writing, by One of the Creditors of THOMAS BURR, of Hartford, in ſaid County, an abſconded and concealed Debtor, for not leſs than Twenty Pounds, being proved by ſaid Creditors' Oath, in Purſuance of an Act made and paſſed in the general Aſſembly of ſaid Colony, on the ſecond Thurſday of May, 1765, entituled, "An ACT for preventing Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, and for the equitable Diviſion of the Eſtates and Effects of ſuch Debtors, to and among their Creditors." A Warrant hath iſſued, directed to all, and every the Sheriff, the Under-Sheriff and Deputies, and the Conſtables of the ſeveral Towns within this Colony, to attach, ſeize and take all the Eſtate and Effects of ſaid Thomas Burr, for the Uſe of his Creditors; and that unleſs ſaid Thomas ſhall diſcharge his juſt Debts, or give Security therefor, within three Months from the Date of ſaid Warrant, that is to ſay, from the 22d Day of July, Inſtant, to the Satisfaction of ſaid Creditors, for the Payment thereof, all the Eſtate ſo ordered to be attached, ſeized, and taken, will be ſold for the Benefit of ſaid Creditors.

Middletown, July 22d, 1765.

Wilmington, (in North-Carolina) June 19.

On the 11th inſt. arrived here, in 21 days from Savannah-la Mar, the Brigantine Thomas, Capt. Griffith; while he lay at Jamaica, a Brigantine arrived there from Europe, who, on her paſſage had fallen in with 12 ſail of Spaniſh men of war, to the windward of Hiſpaniola, but what their intentions were he could not learn. Immediately on this information a man of war was ſent out in order to watch their motions. There were at the Havana an Admiral's ſhip, and many others. The works, 'tis ſaid, were moſtly finiſh'd; and every thing in ſeeming readineſs for buſineſs.—The Eſſex, an Engliſh 64 gun ſhip, had put into the Havana; but as ſoon as ſhe came within hail of the fort, was asked what buſineſs ſhe had there? The Eſſex returned no anſwer, but run into the harbour and came to an anchor: On which orders were immediately ſent them not to come on ſhore. The Eſſex, after taking in ſome water, ſailed again, without having further intimacy with the Spaniards.

NEW-YORK, July 25.

Tueſday morning laſt, Capt. Millan arrived here from Falmouth, which place he left the 23d of May, but has brought no late prints.

Wedneſday the ſchooner Diana, John Regers, Maſter, belonging to New Liverpool, in Nova Scotia, arrived here from Liſbon, but laſt from Falmouth in 46 days: He has brought no Engliſh Prints, but ſays the Duke of Cumberland Capt. Goodrich, arrived there from this port, the 27th of May.

Capt. Caſtles arrived here laſt Friday from Penſacola, in 35 days; By whom we learn, That on the 18th of June a ſloop arrived from La Vera Cruz, having on board one million and a half of hard milled dollars, and would have traded for the whole, had they been permitted; but the veſſel was no ſooner at anchor, than ſhe was boarded by an officer and a party of marines from a King's ſhip on that ſtation, and the captain informed that if he landed one ſingle box of dollars, or traded for a farthing, they would ſeize all the ſpecie on board; but that he might have wood, water, beef, &c. in caſe he wanted.

On Friday laſt the body of a drowned man was taken up in the eaſt river. It appeared to the coroner's inqueſt, that the deceas'd was one Simon (or Oliver) Sherlock, late captain of a ſhip from England to Philadelphia, where the ſhip had been ſold; That he had come to New-York ſome weeks paſt, and on Tueſday or Wedneſday ſe'nnight, had been in a tippling houſe on the New Dock, where it was ſuppoſed he got intoxicated, and that he fell over one of the Docks. It appear'd to the jury by evidence, that about 10 or 12 days before, he reported that he had received a written challenge, and that he had actually ſhew'd ſuch a writing to the witneſs, ſaying, that he had met the challenger at the place appointed, and that they had made up their difference without fighting: But upon inquiry, the whole ſtory appear'd to be a meer fiction, for no ſuch perſon had been ſeen or known, nor any ſuch circumſtances happened at the time and places he mentioned.

On Friday evening laſt one Jane Campbell of this town; a very old woman who lived in South Street, and was much addicted to drinking, went into a tippling houſe in the neighbourhood, where ſhe drank it is ſaid 3 jill glaſſes of rum immediately one after another. In going home ſhe fell, and either by the fall or the liquor was ſo much hurt, that ſhe expired in 4 or 5 hours after.

Yeſterday came to town, the Rev. Mr. JOHN ROGERS, and his family, from St. George's in Pennſylvania, in conſequence of a ſentence of the Rev. Synod of New-York and Philadelphia, appointing him to be miniſter of the Preſbyterian church in New York.

Extract of a letter from Virginia, Jan. 6.

"My laſt adviſed you of the univerſal conſternation of America, on the reſolution formed to load us with taxes. Its immediate effects were like thoſe of an earthquake, every individual apprehending certain ruin. In this province our minds begin to grow calm. We ſee with certainty that the ſtroke will recoil with double force to yourſelves, and ultimately be the moſt beneficial meaſure for us that could poſſibly be invented. I will tell you its preſent benefits. We have the pleaſure to ſee the extremeſt frugality aſſumed by all ranks of people: Every article of luxury is baniſhed; and thoſe are eſteemed the beſt patriots, and moſt in faſhion, whoſe cloaths are moſt thread bare and patched. I ſincerely pity you, and other creditors, upon whom the ſtorm muſt fall the heavieſt. You compute this colony owes Great-Britain a million: you know we cannot raiſe a mite towards the diſcharge of it. Our provincial debt amounts to 250,000 l. The new duties and ſtamps will complete our bankruptcy: and if we coin paper, it cannot be legal tender, and of courſe uſeleſs. But you will not be the only ſufferers. The public will loſe more in its revenue on tobacco, than it will gain on ſtamps. We cultivate that commodity to exchange for your manufactures, which, we ſhall ſoon convince you, we have no need of."

N3.

BOSTON, July 25.

By Capt. Phillips who arrived here laſt Week from Newfoundland we are informed, that four Men of War were arrived there from England, and that one of them had been to St. Peter's, where ſhe ſent in a Tender, who ſeized three Engliſh, and nine French Veſſels that were trading there contrary to the late Treaty of Peace and bro't them to St. John's; that a French Man of War was laying in the Harbour of St. Peter's at the ſame Time, who was ordered to depart immediately, otherwiſe the Engliſh Commodore would ſend for them alſo; upon which they made preparations for ſailing. Two of the Veſſels that were ſeized belonged to Cape Ann, the other to Marblehead: 'Tis ſaid the Governor of Newfoundland was determined to prevent all Trade with the French in thoſe Parts for the future.

Laſt Thurſday a ſorrowful Accident happened at Brookline, as Capt. Robert Sharpe, an aged Gentleman of that Town, was in the Field, loading his Cart with Hay, the Oxen ſtarted, which threw him from the ſame on the Ground, whereby he was ſo much hurt, that he expired in about 9 Hours after.

Monday laſt his Majeſty's Sloop Fortune, Capt. Biſhop, returned to this Port from a Cruize.

This Morning arrived here Capt. Taylor in a Snow from Newcaſtle, having had 8 Weeks Paſſage, brings no late Advices.

There are private Letters in Town from London, of the 15th May, adviſing of the Appointment of three Judges of the Admiralty; whoſe Places of Reſidence are to be Boſton, Philadelphia and Charleſtown, South Carolina; and whoſe Courts are not only to have Original Juriſdiction, but to be Courts of Appeal from the Provincial Vice-Admiralty Courts. And that ſome of the Duties by the laſt Act are taken off, as on Coffee, &c.—And that Bounties are given upon all American Lumber.——

N3.

PORTSMOUTH, July 22.

Laſt Saturday Evening was committed to his Majeſty's Goal in this Town, one James Neal, on Suſpicion of killing an Indian at Cohoſs. 'Tis ſaid the Quarrel between them aroſe in the following Manner, viz. Neal and the Indian agreed to hunt together for a certain Time, and juſt as they were ſetting off in order to croſs a ſmall River, ſome Buſineſs obliged Neal to make a Stop: the Indian proceeded over the River, and agreed to ſtop the other Side till Neal got over. After a few Hours he croſſed the River, and found the Indian, when walking together about 14 Rods, made a Stop, and the Indian ('tis ſaid being in Liquor) began with complaining, that he made too long a tarry before he came over, &c. and immediately ſtruck at Neal's Head with his Tomhawk, but luckily miſs'd his Aim, upon which he ſtruck at his Head again, but Neal fending off the Blow with his Hands, jump'd towards the Indian, took the Tomhawk, out of his Hand, and ſtarted back, but the Indian ſtill perſiſting to follow him with a large Knife, he tho't it prudent to ſtand in his own defence and immediately ſtruck the Indian on the Head with the Tomhawk, which kill'd him inſtantly. He afterwards ſurrender'd himſelf to Juſtice.

HARTFORD, July 29.

Laſt week, as one Hitchcock, a young Man of Saliſbury, was driving a Cart loaded with Iron, he accidentially fell out, and a Wheel run over one of his Thighs. He lay ſome Time in that Condition before he was diſcovered, when his leg and a Part of his Thigh was cut off, but he died ſoon after.

ALL Perſons indebted to the Eſtate of DOSITHEUS HUMPHRY, late of Hartford, deceas'd, are deſired to pay their reſpective Debts, or they will be ſued immediately, without further Notice.

Hartford, July 27th 1765.

DANIEL BUTLER,
BENJ. PAYNE,
GEORGE LORD } Adminiſtrators.

TICKETS in Faneuil-Hall Lottery No. 5. to be had of the Printer hereof.

N3 LONDON, April 26.

ON Friday laſt were interred the mortal remains of the learned, pious and incomparable Doctor YOUNG, (author of the Night Thoughts.—The Brothers, a Tragedy, performed at one of the theatres in March, 1753, the benefits ariſing from the performance he gave to the ſociety for propagating the goſpel, and many other ingenious works) in his pariſh church of Wellwyn, in the county of Hertford. Though he lived celebrated, he was buried with the utmoſt obſcurity, under the altar piece, by the ſide of Lady Betty, his late wife: The common forms of interring the meaneſt perſon were not violated upon this occaſion; the bell did not toll till his corpſe was bro't out of his houſe, which is oppoſite the church; and though he was both the founder and endower of a charity ſchool in his pariſh, neither the maſter, nor the children, attended the funeral. His pall was ſupported by the Rev. Dr. Yarborough, the Rev. Mr. Wynne, the ingenious author of the new tranſlation of the new teſtament; and ſeveral other divines who were rectors or vicars of the neighbouring pariſhes: The mourners were his ſon, his nephew, another near relation, his houſe keeper, moſt of the bearers, and the whole town of Wellwyn.

Previous to his death, Dr. Young ordered all his manuſcripts to be committed to the flames. Thoſe who know how much he comprized in a ſmall compaſs, thoſe who recollect that he never wrote on trivial ſubjects, muſt lament both his modeſty, and the irreparable loſs to poſterity; eſpecially when they conſider that he was the intimate acquaintance of Addiſon, that he himſelf was one of the writers of the ſpectator, and, excepting Dr. Pierce, the preſent Biſhop of Rocheſter, the laſt ſurviving genius of that incomparable groupe of authors.

The altar-piece in the church of Wellwyn is the moſt curious in this or any other kingdom, being adorned with an elegant piece of needle work, wrought by the Lady Betty Young, wife to the late Dr. Young. In the middle is inſcribed, in capital letters, the following ſentence; "I AM THE BREAD OF LIFE." On the north ſide of the chancel is the following inſcription, ſuppoſed to be by the order of the late Dr. Young; VIRGINI-BUS, "increaſe in ſtature and in wiſdom:" And on the ſouth ſide, "PUERISQUE, and in favour with God and Man."——Dr. Young has, in his will, left all his poſſeſſions to his ſon, after his legacies are paid.

LONDON, April 29.

The wife of a ſubaltern officer in the royal navy of Sweden was brought to bed laſt month, at Carlſcroon, of three boys, who are all likely to live, and have been named Guſtavus, Charles, and Frederick-Adolphus, after the three royal princes of Sweden.

N3 Letters from Hamburgh mention, that a conſiderable number of German proteſtants are preparing to embark at Altena for the new Britiſh ſettlements in North-America.

N3 May 1. Letters from Paris remark, that whilſt colonies are forming in Aſia, Africa, and Amarica, there is a general complaint of depopulation from every part of Europe.

One trading houſe in the Iſle of Man has now in hand above ten thouſand anchors of French brandy, which the government are about to purchaſe for the uſe of the navy.

We hear from Portſmouth, That on Friday about ſixty men, from different ſhips in the harbour, who had been ordered on board his Majeſty's ſhip Thunderer, about a week ſince to help rigg her, and to aſſiſt in working her out to Spithead, where they ſafely moored her, were put into a long boat to be conveyed on board their reſpective ſhips in the harbour; when (unhappily for the poor ſouls) the boat had not gone far from the ſhip before ſhe went down ſtern foremoſt, and foundered; and notwithſtanding all poſſible aſſiſtance from the different ſhip's boats lying at Spithead, thirty eight men, five women and a child, were drowned, and only ſixteen ſaved. It is imagined they put too great a number of hands in her, which occaſioned the above accident: a piece of imprudence too often practiſed. There was a little breeze of wind at the time, and a large ſwell.

There has been lately ſhew at the fair of St. Germins in Fance an extraordinary Indian bird called the caſſowary: it is not covered with feathers but with briſtles like a boar. It is without wings or tongue, but has on each ſide his breaſt ſharp quills, which ſerve for its defence; it runs faſter than a horſe. Although it is but eight months old, it is ſix feet high. Its legs are very large, but proportioned to the ſize of of its body. It is armed with a horn in its forehead; and when he moves, his ſkin ſhews of different colours all very bright.

SAVANNAH, in GEORGIA, May 30.

Admiral Tyrrell, and Mr. Higginſon, governor of St. Vincent's, having made repeated complaints of the abuſe of commiſſions by the flags of truce diſpached from the French to the Engliſh iſlands in the Weſt-Indies, by carrying on an illicit trade, aſſiſting in taking off negroes, and keeping arms and ammunition, to be ready to act defenſively on every occaſion, contrary to the law of nations. Monſ. Le Marquis de la Mothe Fenelon, Lieutenant General of Martinico, and Monſ. Le Preſident De Peiner conſidering the illegality of ſuch proceedings, and the repreſentations of Mr. Tyrrell and Mr. Higginſon, and being deſirous to prevent the like abuſes, have declared, that henceforward they will be very cautious in granting permiſſions to flags of truce; that they will only grant them for a limited time which ſhall be ſpecified in the commiſſion, and that they will accordingly communicate this regulation to his Britannic Majeſty's governors of the Engliſh iſlands, and deſire them to take care that the flags of truce depart at the expiration of the term; that they ſhall only come to an anchor in the principal harbour of each Engliſh iſland, and that every where elſe, they declare them to be guilty of formal diſobedience and liable to be treated accordingly; that every maſter of a flag of truce, who ſhall be taken and convicted of having on board any arms, offenſive or defenſive, ſhall not only be liable to have his veſſel and every thing on board confiſcated in the court of admiralty of his Britannick Majeſty, but they ſhall deſire the Governors of the ſaid iſlands to cauſe them to be judged perſonally, according to the laws and cuſtoms of England, as they ſhould do in the like caſe in the colonies belonging to their king.

BOSTON, July 18.

YESTERDAY being the anniverſary COMMENCEMENT, at Cambridge, the Solemnity was opened as uſual, by the Reverend the Preſident, with Prayer: After which an handſome ſalutatory Oration, delivered in an eaſy agreeable Manner, introduced the ſylogiſtic Diſputations in Latin; theſe being ended, an animated Engliſh Oration, pronounced with great Elegance and Propriety, concluded the Exerciſes of the Morning.

In the after Part of the Day, the Maſter Claſs began their Latin Diſputations on ſeveral curious and controverted Subjects: To theſe ſucceeded a familiar, Engliſh Dialogue, ſpiritedly performed between two of the commencing Maſters. The ſeveral Degrees being then conferred, the Reverend Preſident made a ſecond Prayer adapted to the Occaſion. After this, the Audience were entertained with a pathetic and truly claſſical valedictory Oration; and the whole was concluded by a ſacred Anthem, ſung with acceptable Harmony, by a Number of reſident Scholars.

The Prevalence of the Small-Pox preventing the Celebration of this Anniverſary the laſt Year, and the inviting Serenity of the Day drew together the moſt brilliant and crouded Aſſembly known on the like Occaſion ſince the Foundation of the College; which was the more happy, as the Elegance and Decorum with which every Thing was conducted, offorded univerſal Satisfaction.

HARTFORD: Printed by THOMAS GREEN, at the Heart and Crown, oppoſite the Court Houſe,

---

MONDAY, August 5, 1765. [Number 27

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt ADVICES, Foreign and Domeſtick.

4

BOSTON, August 1.

By Capt. Blake, who arrived here laſt Tueſday from LONDON, we have the public prints to the 14th of June, from which we have extracted the following articles, viz

From the LONDON GAZETTE.

WESTMINSTER, May 25.

THIS day his Majeſty came to the houſe of peers, and being in his royal robes ſeated on the throne, with the uſual ſolemnity, Sir Septimus Robinſon, knt. gentleman uſher of the black rod, was ſent with a meſſage from his majeſty to the houſe of commons, commanding their attendence in the houſe of peers. The commons being come thither accordingly, his majeſty was pleaſed to give the royal aſſent to ſeveral public and private bills. After which his majeſty was pleaſed to make the following moſt gracious ſpeech:

"My Lords and Gentlemen.

THE diſpatch which you have given, with ſo much zeal and wiſdom to the public buſineſs, enables me now to put a period to this ſeſſion of parliament.

"No alteration in the ſtate of foreign affairs has happened ſince your meeting, to diſturb the general peace; and it is with pleaſure that I inform you, that the preſent diſpoſitions of the ſeveral powers of Europe, promiſes the continuation of this bleſſing.

"I have ſeen, with the moſt perfect approbation, that you have employed this ſeaſon of tranquility in promoting thoſe objects which I had recommended to your attention, and in framing ſuch regulations as may beſt enforce the juſt authority of the legiſlature, and at the ſame time, ſecure and extend the commerce, and unite the intereſts of every part of my dominions.

"Gentlemen of the Houſe of Commons,

"The chearfulneſs and prudence which you have ſhewn in providing for the neceſſary expences of the preſent year, deſerve my particular acknowledgments. The many bills which you have formed for the improvement and augmentation of the revenue in its ſeveral branches, and the early care which you have taken to diſcharge a part of the national debt, and the moſt effectual methods to eſtabliſh the public credit upon the ſureſt foundation, and to elleviate, by degrees, the burthens of my people.

"My Lords and Gentlemen,

"The proviſions which have been made for the adminiſtration of the government, in caſe the crown ſhould deſcend to any of my children under the age of eighteen years, whilſt they add ſtrength and ſecurity to our preſent eſtabliſhment, give me the kindeſt and moſt convincing proof of your confidence; the ſenſe which I have of the important truſt repoſed in me, and my deſire to repay this mark of your affection, by diſcharging my part agreeably to your intention in the manner moſt beneficial to my people, have concurred to make me execute, without delay, the powers with which you have entruſted me. This is already done; and you may be aſſured, that as far as it depends upon me, thoſe ſalutary proviſions ſhall never be ineffectual. It is my ardent wiſh, and ſhall be my conſtant endeavour, on this, and every other occaſion, to perpetuate the happineſs of my ſubjects, and to tranſmit to poſterity the bleſſings of our invaluable conſtitution.

It is remarkable that in the courſe of the laſt ſeſſion of parliament, 223 bills received the Royal Aſſent, which are a much greater number for the ſhort continuance of the ſeſſions, than has happened for ſeveral years.

St. James's May 29.

THIS day the Right Hon. Frederick Campbell, Eſq. and Thomas Viſcount Weymouth, were, by his Majeſty's command, ſworn of his Majeſty's Moſt Honorable Privy Council and took their reſpective places at the board accordingly.

His Majeſty in council was this day pleaſed to declare the Right Honourable Thomas Viſcount Weymouth, Lieutenant General and General Governor of of his Majeſty's kingdom of Ireland.

Whitehall, June 1.

The King has appointed the Right Hon. Frederick Campbell, to be Keeper of the King's Privy Seal of Scotland, in the room of the Right Honorable James Stuart Mackinzie.

Whitehall, June 8. The King has been pleaſed to grant unto the Right Hon. Charles Townſhend, Eſq: the office of Receiver and Paymaſter General of all his Majeſty's Forces in the room of the Right Hon. Henry Lord Holland.

LONDON, May 21.

Yeſterday morning upwards of 30 coaches with baronets ſet out on the rout for the Temples of Liberty at Stowe and Hayes, from which, it is conjectured, ſome very important turn in the affairs of that Goddeſs is now on the carpet.

Among the many changes in the miniſtry the following are talked of,—Duke of Newcaſtle, Lord Preſident of the council.—Charles Townſhend Eſq; Chancellor of the Exchequer.—Earl of Bute, Lord Chamberlain.—General Conway, Secretary at War. George Onſlow, Eſq; one of the Lords of the Admiralty.—Mr. Pitt and Lord Temple, Secretaries of State.—Marquis of Rockingham, Lord Lieut. of Ireland—Lord Holland to be created an Earl.

But notwithſtanding the above, it is aſſerted that Mr. Pitt has abſolutely declined having any ſhare in the adminiſtration.

The hiſtory of England, or perhaps that of any other nation, hardly furniſhes an example ſo glorious to a ſubject as that of his being called twice from retirement, by the command of his Sovereign, and with the voice of the people, to reſtore to good order the perplex'd affairs of his country. So particular an honor however diſtinguſhes Mr. Pitt, for whom ſo high an eſteem, for ſhining abilities and inflexible integrity, appears to be riveted in the hearts of a whole nation, as no influence can withdraw, nor any calumnies leſſen; and their confidence in him is ſo great and has been ſo laſting, that it is no extravagance to ſay, he has an actual command over their fortunes and lives: on which good men may congratulate themſelves in a corrupt age, from ſeeing that real virtue wants not incitements, ſince, when diſcovered, it excites ſuch attachments as are its moſt ſatiſfactory rewards. The Sovereign honors himſelf moſt by honoring thoſe who poſſeſs moſt of the confidence of his people; for in their ampleſt truſts his higheſt power muſt conſiſt. It is impoſſible to deſcribe truly the univerſal ſatisfaction that is now felt and expreſſed at the expectation which is entertained of high glory to his majeſty, and as high happineſs to his people from all future ſtate meaſures. They know the goodneſs of his royal heart is ſuch, that he has no diſtinct objects, nor have they any ſeperate views: they wiſh but to ſhare in his glory, and to partake of his welfare, which, with their fortunes and lives, they will be ſolicitous to increaſe; and they have but one deſire more, which is, that no inſtrument of diſſention may be ſuffered to remain, even to put harmony again to the leaſt hazard; for what are the gratifications of individuals oppoſed to the good of a whole community.

Affairs of the utmoſt importance to the well-being and improvement of the Britiſh American colonies are now under conſideration of the Board of Trade.

We are told, that ſeveral great commoners will be ennobled ſoon after the riſing of parliament; among others it is ſaid, that the gallant Sir William Johnſon will be raiſed to the dignity of a Viſcount in Ireland.

June 10. On ſaturday at noon his Royal Highneſs the Duke of York, ſet out for Harwich, in order to embark for Holland on his way to Germany.

It is now confidently ſaid matters are ſo far from being accommodated with the Court of Verſailles, relating to the payment of the Canada bills, that ſome freſh diſputes have very lately broke out on that head, which, in all appearance, will protract the affair for a conſiderable time longer.

The following particulars of a late negotiation are the ſubject of much converſation at the other end of the town: On Wedneſday the 15th of May, Lord T. was ſent for from Stowe; and on the Sunday following, H. R. H. the D. of C. together with Lord T. & ſome others, waited on Mr. P. at Hayes; when the principal thing ſtipulated, reſpecting their return to the adminiſtration, was, "That Lord N. ſhould be at the head of the treaſury." To which Lord T. and Mr. P. made anſwer, That they would never come in under Lord B's Lieutenant. The company then returned, and on the Tueſday following (May 21) the preſent miniſters were recalled. Lond. Even. Poſt.

June 13. We hear the prize money for the taking of Pondicherry in the Eaſt Indies, which is expected to be paid this month, after deducting the ſhares of officers, &c. will not amount to more than 5s. each foremaſtman.

We hear the late Spaniſh prize the Santiſſima Trinidad, is to be fitted out in the river to import timber and plank from N. America; as her burthen of 2000 tons will enable the merchants to clear large ſums by the bounty allowed by the late act of parliament.

June 14. Sir John St. Clair, Bart. is appointed Deputy Quarter Maſter General to his Majeſty's forces in North-Britain.

The UPS-AND-DOWNS.

A Companion to the INS and OUTS.

THE——up in the Nurſery
The Earl of — an Upſtart
Ditto uppermoſt
The Scotch up in the World
D. of Newcaſtle upon the Shelf
Lord Pratt an upright Judge
Whigs & Torries upbraiding each other
Houſebreakers, Informers and Falſe ſwearers, upheld by the M——y
Dr. Smollet winding up his hiſtory
Dr. Brown up in the Pulpit
Proviſions kept up at an exhorbitant price
The Printers called Up-ſtairs
The Colonies up in Arms
The whole Nation in an Uproar

Scottiſh Pride down at Lutton Hoe
Arbitrary Power down at Ditto
The——of——down on her Knees
The Engliſh down at the Mouth
Mr. Pitt down in the Gout
The late Duke o Devonſhire a down right honeſt Man
Lord——down with the Scullions in the Kitchen
Biſhop of G——'s Works down in the Neceſſary
Virtue at C——t kick'd down Stairs
The Earl of Eg——t gone down to Liberty down in the Dirt
Bad PEACE ſoup cramed down the throats of the Engliſh.

Mr. Wilkes wandering up and do[illegible] World.

inutes relating to Affairs at Home are collected from Letters received by Capt. Blake.

THE parliament was prorogued the latter end of May: a few days before which the principal officers of ſtate were very unexpectedly made acquainted with the K—'s intentions of making ſome changes in ſeveral of the higheſt departments of government; and accordingly the parliament, notwithſtanding they had finiſhed all the buſineſs of the ceſſion, was adjourned from day to day for the ſpace of three days ſucceſſively, in order, as is uſual in thoſe caſes, to iſſue writs for new elections in caſe of any ſeats in the houſe being vacated by promotion to office—In the mean time it was publickly known that no leſs a perſonage than the D of C—b—d went down to Mr. P at his ſeat at Hayes, (Mr. P. himſelf being ill of the gout) with the K's inſtructions to deſire him to take upon him the principal management of public affairs, and to let him know that he might nominate to every principal office, and bring in with him ſuch perſons as he pleaſed—This offer, after a long conference with the D. Mr. P. declined accepting, urging, 'tis ſaid his decline of health—however that was, 'tis very certain the D. returned to court with Mr. P's negative to the offer, which occaſioned no ſmall conſternation and buſtle at court—— The next day Mr. P. and his brothers in law Earl T. and mr J G——le became reconſiled to their brother mr. G. G——le, to whom they had not ſpoke in two or three years, and all ſupp'd together at Lord T——'s. ——A council was ſoon held and inſtead of the preſent miniſtry being turned out, the following changes were made, viz. the Hon. S. M——'ze brother of a certain unpopular nobleman, had the privy ſeal of Scotland taken from him in favour of Lord F. C——l, younger brother of the D. of A——l, Lord North—l—d's brother in law alſo to the ſaid nobleman, reſigned the lord lieutenancy of Ireland and Lord Weymouth appointed in his room Mr. C. Townſhend appointed paymaſter general in the room of Lord Holland reſigned; theſe are all the changes of any conſequence that happened; and 'tis ſaid and generally believed that the D of N——tle has publickly declared that none of his friends will accept any poſt under the government, if offered, to the diſobliging of the preſent miniſtry; and 'tis certain that ſeveral perſons of diſtinction of the oppoſition who had not ſpoke to mr. G G——le for a long time, went to his levy immediately after the aforeſaid overture to mr. P. and his declining it.

Theſe ſeemingly ſtrange and contradictory events and appearances are generally accounted for in England, by ſuppoſing that the before mentioned unpopular gentleman expected under all the circumſtances of things, that the preſent miniſtry would have ſubmitted in ſome conſiderable meaſure to be adviſed by him in the conduct of the public buſineſs; but finding them in that particular quite untractable, that he adviſed the bringing in mr. P. again in hopes of being able to make ſome better terms with him; but if that could not be done, that by this means the people would be gratified, and that conſequently at leaſt the public clamours, which have all along ſeemed ultimately to fall on the ſaid nobleman, would ſubſide and give him time and opportunity to recover himſelf.——All this 'tis ſaid mr P. ſaw through, and being perſuaded that the overtures thus made to him proceeded not ſo much from choice and inclination as from a deſign to anſwer particular perſonal purpoſes, not only refus'd to accept the ſame, but immediately threw the weight of his influence into the other ſcale, as he now perceived both parties were embark'd in the ſame bottom, viz. that of oppoſing the influence of the favourite.—'Tis ſaid mr. P. told the D. that he never would undertake and be accountable to the public for his conduct in an office of ſtate, while another who ſuſtained no office, and conſequently would not be accountable for the advice he ſhould give in public matters, would be continually going between him and the K——That he thought in his conſcience mr. G. G——le was the fitteſt man in the kingdom to manage the buſineſs of the treaſury, and that he did not think it was in his power, under all circumſtances, to render any eſſential ſervices either to the K. or the public by the proffer'd honor.

The ſituation at court to be ſure by all accounts is very particular—The miniſtry given plainly to underſtand that they were to go out and others take their places—the principal perſon intended to be brought in, with ſuch others as he ſhould name, refuſing to come in for the very reaſon that occaſioned the determination to make a change—and in conſequence of that, the ſame threatned miniſtry continued in the adminiſtration, becauſe thoſe who were formerly their enemies, now by this ſtep made their friends refuſe to lend their aid in order to their being got in, by declining to ſupply their places.

Various are the gueſſes of the connoiſſeurs of what will ſtill happen to the miniſtry in the courſe of the ſummer, and what may be done in parliament next ſeſſion, in conſequence of theſe events; but time only will diſcover what theſe will be or whether any thing.

BOSTON, Auguſt 1.

In Capt. Blake came Paſſengers, Jared Ingerſoll Eſq; of Connecticut, and the Rev'd Mr. Ephraim Avery, Miniſter of the Epiſcopal Church at Rye, in New-York Province; and ſeveral other Gentlemen.

In the Act for altering certain Rates of Poſtage, &c. It is enacted, That all Letters between London and any Port within the Britiſh Dominions in America, ſhall pay ſingle 1s. double 2s. treble 3s. an ounce 4s. ſterl.—All Letters by ſea, from one port to another, in the ſaid Dominions, ſhall pay ſingle 4d. double 8d treble 1s. an ounce 1s. 4d.—No veſſel ſhall be permitted to break bulk, or may enter in any port, until all Letters on board are delivered to the Poſtmaſter of ſuch port (he paying the bringer 1 penny for each Letter.) All maſters, mariners, paſſengers, &c. neglecting to deliver the Letters ſhall for every offence forfeit 20l. ſterl.

The Act takes place next October.

The Caſes and Boxes for packing the Stamped Papers and Perchments were making the middle of June laſt, and would be ſoon ready to ſhip for theſe American Provinces.

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.

Since our laſt, the weather being exceſſive hot, ſeveral people have died by drinking cold water. It is ſurpriſing people ſhould ſo inconſiderately riſk their lives rather than wait a few minutes till they might get a little ſpirits, or waſh their hands and wriſts with water.

NEW-YORK, Auguſt 1.

We are informed, that Lieut. Fraſer, who was ſent to the Illinois, remains there until the arrival of Col. Croghan, with preſents for the Indians: That he is well treated and much obliged to the French commandant, who, at the hazard of his own life, protected him from the reſentment of the Savages, occaſioned by a report made to them, that ſome of his party had ſcalped in their march from Pittſburg twelve Indians. This lie propagated for the deſtruction of Lieut. Fraſer, being reſolutely confronted and refuted, appeaſed them, and he remains in ſafety.

Among the bills to which his Majeſty gave his aſſent, was, An act for more effectually ſecuring and encouraging the trade of his Majeſty's American Dominions; for repealing the inland duty on coffee impoſed by an act made in the 32d year of the late king. (The duty on coffee exported from one colony to another in America was 7s. for lb. 11s. and on importation from any foreign plantation 2l. 19s 9d.) And for granting an inland duty on all Coffee imported (except of the growth of Britiſh America) for altering the drawbacks on ſugar imported; for repealing part of an act made in the 23d year of the late King, prohibiting Iron made in Britiſh America from being exported from Great Britain, or carried coaſtwiſe; and for regulating the fees of the officers of the Cuſtoms in America.

HARTFORD, Auguſt 5.

Laſt Saturday, one John Hair, a tranſiant Perſon, received Correction at the Whipping Poſt, in this Town, for Horſe ſtealing.

Laſt Monday, died at Middletown, in the 63d Year of his Age, Deacon William Rockwel.

Sunday 30th ult arrived at New-York, the Duke of Cumberland Packet, from Falmouth.

TO BE SOLD, at Publick Vendue, to the highest Bidder, on Tueſday, the 27th of Auguſt next, at 4 o'Clock in the Afternoon, on the Premiſes,

THE Dwelling-Houſe and Lot, with the Barn, and Appurtenances of the late Mr. JAMES DAVIDSON, of Milford, deceaſed. Alſo ſundry Articles of houſhold Furniture,—&c. for Caſh only.

By ELISABETH DAVIDSON.
Milford, 15th July, 1765.

TEN DOLLARS REWARD.

RAN away from the ſubſcriber, a Negro man named Peter, aged about 25 years. Took with him a blue coat, and a blue camblet veſt, a blue cut Mancheſter pair of breeches, and ſome other cloathing. The ſaid Negro was bred at Rhode Iſland, is of a clear black; ſpeaks good Engliſh, and is about 5 feet 6 inches high. Alſo a white apprentice boy, aged 15 named Henry Wiltſe; had on when he went away a light colour'd, home-ſpun jacket, a ſtriped linen under jacket, blue everlaſting breeches, tow trowſers, a ſmall brim'd felt hat, bound with ferret, light colour'd hair tyed in his neck, black eyes. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid Negro and boy, and ſecure them ſo that their maſter can have them, ſhall be entitled to the above reward, and all neceſſary charges paid,

By JAMES WILTSE.
Fiſh Kills, July 21ſt, 1765.

TO be let, and entered upon immediately, a convenient dwelling houſe, very advantageouſly ſituated for any kind of buſineſs, and near the court houſe in Hartford, having a fine ſtore under the whole, and a garden ſufficient for any family.

N. B. If any perſon deſires to purchaſe ſaid houſe, it is to be ſold to any that will give the value thereof, and pay in Engliſh or Weſt-India goods, or any country produce; and will receive the goods in Boſton or New-York, or elſewhere, at the wholeſale price; and will be a cuſtomer to any merchant that ſhall buy ſaid houſe if it ſuits; or will ſell ſaid houſe for yearly payments. —For particulars enquire of Capt. George Smith, of Hartford, or Samuel Gilbert of Hebron.

Dated, Hebron, Auguſt 3d, 1765

WAIT PLUMB, of Middletown,
Makes all Sorts of Carriages, ſuch as

CHAIRS, Curricles, Phaetons, &c in the neweſt and beſt Manner; and on the moſt reaſonable Terms.

ALL Perſons indebted to the Eſtate of DOSITHEUS HUMPHRY, late of Hartford, deceaſed, are deſired to pay their reſpective Debts, or they will be ſued immediately, without further Notice. Hartford, July 27th 1765.

DANIEL BUTLER,
BENJ. PAYNE, } Adminiſtrators.
GEORGE LORD.

BY the Honorable JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court for the County of Hartford, in the Colony of Connecticut, NOTICE is hereby given, That on Application, in Writing, by One of the Creditors of THOMAS BURR, of Hartford, in ſaid County, an abſconded and concealed Debtor, for not leſs than Twenty Pounds, being proved by ſaid Creditors' Oath, in Purſuance of an Act made and paſſed in the general Aſſembly of ſaid Colony, on the ſecond Thurſday of May, 1765, entituled, "An ACT for preventing Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, and for the equitable Diviſion of the Eſtates and Effects of ſuch Debtors, to and among their Creditors." A Warrant hath iſſued, directed to all, and every the Sheriff, the Under-Sheriff and Deputies, and the Conſtables of the ſeveral Towns within this Colony, to attach, ſeize and take all the Eſtate and Effects of ſaid Thomas Burr, for the Uſe of his Creditors; and that unleſs ſaid Thomas ſhall diſcharge his juſt Debts, or give Security therefor, within three Months from the Date of ſaid Warrant, that is to ſay, from the 22d Day of July, Inſtant, to the Satisfaction of ſaid Creditors, for the Payment thereof, all the Eſtate ſo ordered to be attached, ſeized, and taken, will be ſold for the Benefit of ſaid Creditors.

Middletown, July 22d, 1765.

☞ TICKETS in Faneuil-Hall Lottery, No. 5. to be had of the Printer hereof.

A few Copies of the Stamp-Act, to be ſold by the Printer hereof.

HARTFORD; Printed by Thomas Green, at the HEART & CROWN, oppoſite the Court-Houſe.

IRELAND.

Dundalk, May 18. One Mr. Callag-an of Foxfield, had laſt week a cow hat calved firſt a calf, and in a quarter f an hour after calved (if you can term ſo) a black lamb; they are both alive nd well. Mr. Calaghan, who is a man veracity, will give his oath to the truth f the above.

Cork, May 25. This day the draughts rom the following regiments arrived ere in order to fill up thoſe going to merica, viz. the 5th, Hudſon's; 26th, cott's; 50th, Cart's; 51ſt, Brudenell's; 8th, Anſtruther's; and 69th, Colvil's.

Dublin, June 1. We are told that a lub of young gentlemen of fortune ave taken a reſolution to toaſt no lady ho has ſo much inconſideration as to aviſh her money away in French foppe-ies, to the detriment of her own coun-ry; and that they will not allow any oman to be handſome unleſs the orna-nents of her dreſs be either the product r manufactures of this kingdom.

LONDON.

he following copy of verſes is handed about, ſaid to be the production of the greateſt Lady in this nation, and will ſerve (if ſo) not only to convince us of her extraordinary proficiency in the Engliſh language, but alſo of the greatneſs of her natural genius.

GENTEEL is my Damon, engaging his air,
His face like the morn, is both ruddy & fair
Soft love ſits enthron'd in the beam of his eyes,
He's manly, yet tender, he's fond, and yet wiſe
He's ever good humour'd, he's gen'rous and gay,
His preſence can always drive ſorrow away;
No vanity ſways him, no folly is ſeen,
But open his temper and noble his mien.
By virtue illumin'd his actions appear,
His paſſions are calm, and his reaſon is clear;
An affable ſweetneſs attends on his ſpeech,
He's willing to learn, tho' he's able to teach—
He has promis'd to love me—his word I'll believe,
For his heart is too honeſt to let him deceive;
Then blame me, ye fair ones, if juſtly ye can;
Since the picture I've drawn is exactly the man.

NEW-HAVEN, Auguſt 2

Laſt Monday came on the examination of the enior claſs in Yale College, which was performed y the tutors and a conſiderable number of other entlemen-graduates, who were preſent on that ccaſion. It was carried on with ſeveral intermiſ-ons, through the whole of that, and part of the ext day. About 12 o'clock on Tueſday the ap-roved candidates were preſented to the Preſident, ho, in a ſhort addreſs, expreſſed his approbation f the doings of the examiners, and turning to the andidates, politely encouraged them to expect he degrees of Batchelors of Arts, on the enſuing ommencement. During the examination and pre-entation, ſeveral ſhort and pertinent ſpeeches were elivered, which ſerved to render the whole agree-ble and entertaining.——Towards the evening, andſome orations were pronounced by two of the andidates, before a frequent auditory: The firſt which by long uſe has obtained the name of the Clio ſophic oration) was in latin, wherein the young rator gave an ingenious deſcription of the ſeveral ranches of the arts and ſciences, with ſuitable and legant encomiums on each. The other oration was n Engliſh, and contained a ſprightly and pathetic alediction to the governors & inſtructors of college, s well as to the remaining ſtudents. In reply to this a ſhort ſpeech was delivered by one of the tutors, who, in the name of the authority of college, took an affectionate farewell of the claſs, and gave them a few pertinent directions for their conduct in life.

Wedneſday by ſpecial appointment, was the an-niverſary commencement, when the following gentlemen were admitted to their reſpective degrees, viz.

BATCHELORS OF ARTS.

Joſhua Upham, Moſes Hubbard, Joſeph Lee, Joſeph Willard, Nathanael Battle, of Harvard College.

Roger Conant, Hezekiah Wyllys, Robert Walker, Timothy Woodbridge, Samuel Eells, Samuel Mills, Joſeph Howe, Ralph Wheelock, John Cheſter Williams, Jonathan Judd, Appollos Leonard, William Woodbridge, Hezekiah Tomlinſon, Elijah Kitch, Ichabod Lewis, Jonathan Bull, Thomas Groſvenor, Roſwell Grant, Samuel Whiting, Gideon Buckingham, Ephraim Woodbridge, William Billings, Iſaac Lewis, John Bilderkin, Thomas Yale, Job Swift, Daniel Brewer, Aaron Church, Selden Church, Joſeph Kirby, Elam Potter, Blackleach Burrit, Joſiah Hale, Thomas Jeduthan Smith, Samuel Norton, Seth Coleman, Obadiah Peaſe, John Tyler, James Hough, Starling Graves, John Foot, Samuel Orton, Manaſſeh Cutler, Theophilus Chamberlain, Thomas Wells Bray, Aaron Kinne.

MASTERS OF ARTS.

Oliver Wolcott, 1747; Joſiah Sherman, Naſſau Hall, 1754; Samuel Taylor, Naſſau Hall, 1757; Mark Hopkins & Bulkley Olcott, 1758; Woodbridge Little & Benjamin Goldſmith, 1760; Joſiah Thatcher, Naſſau Hall, 1760; Jonathan Moore, Harvard 1761; George Beeck, Pelatiah Tingley, Simeon Olcott & John Strickland, 1761; Thomas Bridgman, Harvard, 1762, Richard Clark, King's College, 1762; Iſrael Williams, John Livingſton, Joſeph Huntington, John Canfield, Simeon Hinman, Gideon Boſtwick, Allan Maclean, Iſaac Moſely, Eleazer Storrs, Simeon Belding, Simeon Miller, Philip Daggett, William Jones, Joſiah Hart, Moſes Hartwell, Samuel Field, Punderſon Auſtin, Theodore Hinſdale, Benjamin Mills, Solomon Wadhams, John Lothrop, Joſiah Pomeroy, Amos Northrop, Jabez Swift, Daniel Fuller, Burrage Merriam, Samuel Seward, Whitman Welch, Elijah Smith, Peter Pratt, Ephraim Crocker.

[Whole Number of Graduates, 97.]

The Solemnities of the Day were introduced by the Preſident with Prayer; after which one of the Candidates for the firſt Degree delivered an elegant and ſpirited Oration, which was followed by the ſyllogiſtic Diſputations of the Batchelors. The Exerciſes of the Afternoon were begun by the Diſputations of the Maſters; which were ſucceeded by a handſome and pathetic Valedictory, pronounced by one of the ſame Claſs. And the whole was concluded by the Preſident with Prayer.

It was obſerved to the Honour of both Claſſes, that they ſhewed themſelves in their Arguments to be genteel and ſkilful Diſputants.

Altho' the Aſſembly was not ſo numerous as it has frequently been on the like Occaſion, yet the Collection of Gentlemen and Ladies made a brilliant and reſpectable Appearance, and ſhewed themſelves well ſatisfied with their Entertainment.

NOTICE is hereby given to the proprietors of the townſhip of Panton, lying on Otter Creek, in the province of New-Hampſhire, that are delinquent in paying the rate or tax of twenty ſhillings, lawful money on the right of each original proprietor, granted at their legal meeting, holden on the firſt Monday of April, 1764, and advertiſed in the Connecticut Courant; ſaid advertiſement dated the 16th of May laſt, according to law; that ſo much of each delinquent proprietor's right of ſaid lands will be ſold to pay ſaid tax, with incident charges, on the 10th day of September next, at the dwelling houſe of Mr. Daniel Hausford, jun. of Canaan, inn holder, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon; and to continue by adjournment till the whole be ſold. Dated at Canaan, this 24th day of July, A. D. 1765

DAVID HOLCOMB, jun. Collector.

TO BE SOLD, at Publick Vendue, to the highest Bidder, on Tueſday, the 27th of Auguſt next, at 4 o'Clock in the Afternoon, on the Premiſes,

THE Dwelling Houſe and Lot, with the Barn, and Appurtenances of the late Mr. JAMES DAVIDSON, of Milford, deceaſed. Alſo ſundry Articles of houſhold Furniture,—&c. for Caſh only.

By ELISABETH DAVIDSON.
Milford, 15th July, 1765.

TEN DOLLARS REWARD.

RAN away from the ſubſcriber, a Negro man named Peter, aged about 25 years. Took with him a blue coat, and a blue camblet veſt, a blue cut Mancheſter pair of breeches, and ſome other cloathing. The ſaid Negro was bred at Rhode Iſland, is of a clear black, ſpeaks good Engliſh, and is about 5 feet 6 inches high. Alſo a white apprentice boy, aged 15 named Henry Wiltſe; had on when he went away a light colour'd, home-ſpun jacket, a ſtriped linen under jacket, blue everlaſting breeches, tow trowſers, a ſmall brim'd felt hat, bound with ferret, light colour'd hair tyed in his neck, black eyes. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid Negro and boy, and ſecure them ſo that their maſter can have them, ſhall be entitled to the above reward, and all neceſſary charges paid,

By JAMES WILTSE.
Fiſh Kills, July 21ſt, 1765.

WAIT PLUMB, of Middletown,
Makes all Sorts of Carriages, ſuch as

CHAIRS, Curricles, Phaetons, &c. in the neweſt and beſt Manner; and on the moſt reaſonable Terms.

ALL Perſons indebted to the Eſtate of DOSITHEUS HUMPHRY, late of Hartford, deceaſed, are deſired to pay their reſpective Debts, or they will be ſued immediately, without further Notice. Hartford, July 27th 1765.

DANIEL BUTLER,
BENJ. PAYNE, } Adminiſtrators.
GEORGE LORD.

TO be let, and entered upon immediately, a convenient dwelling houſe, very advantageouſly ſituated for any kind of buſineſs, and near the court houſe in Hartford, having a fine ſtore under the whole, and a garden ſufficient for any family.

N. B. If any perſon deſires to purchaſe ſaid houſe, it is to be ſold to any that will give the value thereof, and pay in Engliſh or Weſt-India goods, or any country produce; and will receive the goods in Boſton or New-York, or elſewhere, at the wholeſale price, and will be a cuſtomer to any merchant that ſhall buy ſaid houſe if it ſuits; or will ſell ſaid houſe for yearly payments. —For particulars enquire of Capt. George Smith, of Hartford, or Samuel Gilbert of Hebron.

Dated, Hebron, Auguſt 3d, 1765.

BY the Honorable JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court for the County of Hartford, in the Colony of Connecticut, NOTICE is hereby given, That on Application, in Writing, by One of the Creditors of THOMAS BURR, of Hartford, in ſaid County, an abſconded and concealed Debtor, for not leſs than Twenty Pounds, being proved by ſaid Creditors' Oath, in Purſuance of an Act made and paſſed in the general Aſſembly of ſaid Colony, on the ſecond Thurſday of May, 1765, entituled, "An ACT for preventing Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, and for the equitable Diviſion of the Eſtates and Effects of ſuch Debtors, to and among their Creditors." A Warrant hath iſſued, directed to all, and every the Sheriff, the Under-Sheriff and Deputies, and the Conſtables of the ſeveral Towns within this Colony, to attach, ſeize and take all the Eſtate and Effects of ſaid Thomas Burr, for the Uſe of his Creditors; and that unleſs ſaid Thomas ſhall diſcharge his juſt Debts, or give Security therefor, within three Months from the Date of ſaid Warrant, that is to ſay, from the 22d Day of July, Inſtant, to the Satisfaction of ſaid Creditors, for the Payment thereof, all the Eſtate ſo ordered to be attached, ſeized, and taken, will be ſold for the Benefit of ſaid Creditors.

Middletown, July 22d, 1765.

☞ TICKETS in Faneuil-Hall Lottery, No. 5. to be had of the Printer hereof.

A few Copies of the Stamp-Act, to be ſold by the Printer hereof.

HARTFORD; Printed by Thomas Green, at the HEART & CROWN, oppoſite the Court-Houſe.

Bendelbucher, in the Perſian Gulph, Feb. 12.

WE have a report hear that the Engliſh have gained a compleat victory over the army of the Great Mogul and Coſſim Ally Cawn, the depoſed Nabob of Bengal. This army was compoſed of upwards of 120,000 Indians; and that of the Engliſh it is ſaid, conſiſted but of 3000 Europeans. The former were obliged to abandon their camp their artillery, and all their tents and baggage, and likewiſe an immence treaſure, to the conquerers.

Warſaw, May 22. Notwithſtanding the orders of this court and the declaration of that of Ruſſia, to make duke John Earneſt be acknowledged as lawful Sovereign of Courland, the Nobility of that duchy, aſſembled in Diet, have ſummoned his ſerene Highneſs to appear before the tribunal of Relation; a ſtep which will probably be attended with very ſerious conſequences.

Leghorn, May 15. They write from Corſica, that the commander in chief of the French troops in that iſland had lately a long conference with Paoli, who not only behaved with great politeneſs towards him, but likewiſe expreſſed a great regard for the French, and that he ſhould be ready to oblige them on every occaſion. Accordingly, as ſoon as they parted, Paoli gave orders publickly to the Corſicans to pay proper reſpect to the French, to let them take the diverſion of hunting in the neighbourhood, where their troops are in garriſon, to receive their money, and to hold markets upon certain days for their conveniency. Paoli has taken from a church [illegible], within the diſtrict where he commands, ſeveral gold and ſilver images, plate, &c to the amount of a million and a half of livres, which he has cauſed to be coined into money, with the arms of the iſland, which paſſes very currently among the French troops, greatly to the prejudice as well as to the diſſatisfaction of the Genoeſe.

L'Orient, May 8. The Duke de Praſlin, Indiaman, ſailed from hence the beginning of laſt year, for the Iſle of France, with a machine on board for making ſea water freſh and drinkable, according to the method invented by Mr. Poiſſonnier. That ſhip was five months upon their voyage, and would have been in want of water but for this reſource, which proved very ſucceſsful, and ſupplied them with 60 barrels of freſh water of which they drank for near two months, without any bad effect; which is a proof of the great utility of the diſcovery. This account was brought by the Ajax Indiaman, which arrived here the 6th inſtant.

L O N D O N.

May 21. It is ſaid his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland was late on Saturday night laſt with his Majeſty at Richmond.

Sir William Johnſon is now talked of to ſucceed a certain American Governor who is expected in England this ſummer.

In ſome recent advices from Madrid, the Spaniards are ſaid to publickly boaſt, that the Manillas and the Havannah, two of their moſt important ſettlements in the Eaſt and Weſt Indies, are now rendered impregnable; no leſs than 4,5000,000 Dollars having been expended in carrying on the new works in the capital of Cuba, beſides the expence of ſhip building, ſince the late treaty at Verſailles.

On Friday the Tranſports ſailed from Spithead, with both regiments for Weſt Florida, with a fair wind.

Saturday morning his Majeſty's ſhip Guernſey was paid at Spithead, and ſailed from thence for her ſtation at Newfoundland.

They write from Jamaica, that four Dutch ſloops with cargoes of cochineal, indigo, logwood, and ſilver, have been ſeized as illicit traders on the Spaniſh Main, and carried into Campeachy.

Saturday evening five houſes in Hat and Mitre court, St. John Street, Smithfield, fell entirely to the ground; a large crack, a little before, gave an alarm, and no perſon received any hurt.

May 23. They write from the lower Elbe, that an incredible number of horſes have been bought up in Holſtein for the uſe of the King of Pruſſia; that the levies for his troops are alſo carrying on with great ardour; and that they inliſt all who are able to carry a musket. It's ſaid alſo, that the Pruſſian army in Sileſia is conſiderably reinforcing.

May 28. On Friday the Executors of the late Mrs. Henrietta Wolfe, mother of the late brave General Wolfe, paid the legacy of 1000l. (left by her) to the Incorporated Society in Dublin, for promoting Engliſh working ſchools in Ireland.

The Queen's eldeſt ſiſter, Princeſs Sophia of Mecklenburgh, is expected over this ſummer on a viſit to their Majeſties.

By an act of laſt ſeſſions the drawback on prohibited white India goods was reduced from near 15 per cent. to 12 per cent. which is to commence the firſt day of the next month. In order to ſave the 3 per cent upwards of 340,000 pieces of India callicoes have been bought up ſince the 18th inſt. at the ſales, amounting to upwards of 400,000l. and exported chiefly for Holland ſince the 18th inſtant.

We are credibly informed that ſome late diſpatches from England had produced the deſired effect, in accommodating the differences which for ſome conſiderable time paſt had unhappily ſubſiſted among his Majeſty's ſubjects in the province of Quebec.

June 1. Laſt Wedneſday the Hon. Gen. George Boſcawen kiſſed his Majeſty's hand at St. James's, on being appointed ſecond in command on the Iriſh Eſtabliſhment in the room of General Fowke, deceas'd.

On Thurſday Lord Frederick Campbell was ſworn in Keeper of the Seals in Scotland; and the ſame day Lord William Campbell was appointed Captain of a 64 gun ſhip.

We are informed from Birmingham, that a perſon in that town has compleated one of the moſt curious pieces of mechaniſm, of the kind, ſuppoſed to be in Europe. It conſiſts of a Lock, ſo conſtructed that, when faſtened upon a door, and attempted to be unlocked or forced open by robbers, gives an alarm by bells, and at the ſame time diſcharges a brace of piſtols upon the perſon ſo attempting: The other parts of the work are done in a maſterly manner, the wards being of a ſingular kind, and the bow of the key is neatly pierced, repreſenting the King's arms in full proportion.

June 5. Letters have been received in Holland, from Bander Abaſſi, oppoſite to the Iſle of Ormus, near the mouth of the gulph of Perſia, dated the 12th of February, which brings the agreeable news, that the Engliſh and Dutch trade to Perſia was revived, by ſeveral ſhips being arrived there with divers ſorts of merchandize, among which were a great number of bales of woolen cloth from Bombay and Surat, in order to be ſent from thence to Perſia and Baſſora.

On Tueſday laſt his Grace the Duke of Ancaſter appeared at St. James's, as Maſter of the Horſe to her Majeſty, in the room of Lord Weymouth, now Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

By a letter from Harwich, we hear, that on Monday laſt the Right Hon. Charles Townſhend, Paymaſter General of his Majeſty's forces, was re elected for that borough.

Letters from Liſbon ſay, that his Moſt Faithful Majeſty has ordered the diſcontinuance of public Auto de Fe's in the dominions of Portugal; which is conſidered as a mortal ſtab to the power of the Inquiſition in that kingdom.

A few days ago a modal of a new palace, deſigned by William Chambers, Eſq; and executed by Benoni Thacker, Eſq; was preſented to his Majeſty. It has four fronts which will, if executed, be one of the grandeſt palaces in Europe

Letters from Paris of the 21ſt ult. adviſe that M. Nadau Dutreil, late Governor of Guadaloupe, has at length obtained juſtice. The ſentance of the Court Martial, pronounced againſt him at Martinico, the 15th of Jan. 1761, and executed at Rochfort in September 1762 was broke by a brevet, ſigned by the king's own hand the 6th of this month, and regiſtered the 15th inſt. in a Court Martial held for that purpoſe at the Hotel des Invalides, by which he is diſcharged from all the penalties pronounced againſt him in the firſt Court Martial, and reinſtated in his honours, reputation, and all other perogatives. This ſignal piece of juſtice is the reſult of the ſtricteſt examination into Mr. Nadau's conduct before, during, and after the ſiege of Guadaloupe.

A few Days ago a Board of Longitude was held, and we hear that Mr. Harriſon is to diſcover his Secret upon the payment of 6500l. more: which Terms, we are told, are agreed upon.

Yeſterday a gentleman and lady riding out on horſeback at Edmonton, the gentleman's horſe, juſt as they were paſſing the church-yard, gave a ſudden ſtart, and threw his rider clear over the wall (which was but low) and he pitched exactly into a grave, juſt dug, upwards of 8 feet deep. The lady's horſe; ſtarting at the other, ran away with her full ſpeed for near a mile, when the creature was ſtopped by a gentleman; and the lady arrived back again juſt time enough to ſee her huſband riſe out of the grave (by the help of aſſiſtants whom his cries had raiſed) in the moſt lamentable dirty plight imaginable, owing to its having rained that morning pretty ſmartly, the gentleman was not hurt in the leaſt.

The Court was exceedingly ſpleedid yeſterday when our Spitalfield weavers proved, by their brilliancy and delicate taſte of their patterns, that they may juſtly more than vie with thoſe of France. Some Ladies were particularly diſtinguiſhed they being dreſſed from Mr. Chriſtian's Britiſh painted ſilk manufactory. One of thoſe Ladies (a beauty) gave riſe to the following lines:

Stella's gay robe, with ſo much art was fram'd,
That Flora the invention might have claim'd.
So fair was Stella's face, ſo bright her eyes.
She ſeem'd that Goddeſs in a ſweet diſguiſe.

A great number of houſes in the public ſtreets were finely illuminated, particularly the Manſion houſe, where 600 glaſs lamps were placed on chandiliers, and ranged between the two pillars which ſupport the top of the partico.

On Tower-hill the fineſt fireworks were played off ever exhibited upon the like occaſion; great part of the hill was railed in to keep off the crowd.

Yeſterday the Right Hon. the Earl of Northumberland gave a grand entertainment to a great number of the nobility and foreign miniſters, &c. at Northumberland houſe in the Strand. At night there was a ball, and very curious fireworks were played off in the gardens, which were illuminated with 1500 lamps, and in the center was placed a fine piece of painting.

Yeſterday the Right Honorable the Earls of Halifax and Sandwich gave each a grand entertainment to ſeveral of the nobility and foreign Miniſters.

June 11. It is ſaid their Majeſties will dine with his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland, at Windſor Lodge this day.

Part of Lieut. Governor Tryon's Speech, to the General Aſſembly of North Carolina, at the Opening of the Seſſion, May 2, 1765.

"—I have received inſtructions, to recommend to you, the re-enacting an act for making proviſion for an Orthodox clergy, paſſed in 1762, free from the objections which were made to that act; a copy of which inſtructions, with the objections to ſaid act, I have ordered to be laid before you for your conſideration; and at the ſame time recommend to you the eſtabliſhing one clergyman for each pariſh, at the general expence of the publick, to be paid by the publick treaſures: A number ſo ſmall, in reſpect to the extent of the pariſhes, that were not the good ends to be effected, which I moſt ardently wiſh, and ſincere believe, will accrue from ſuch appointments, the burden would be inconſideable to the province; and the ſalary need never extend to any greater number of clergy, under the ſame limitations In this inſtance I muſt more particular addreſs myſelf to the members of the church of England, and deſire them to reflect on the preſent ſtate of religion in this province, and of the little proſpect there appears of its ever being properly eſtabliſhed, if they but a little while longer ſuffer their perſuation to lay under a general neglect I ground my opinion on the increaſing numbers of of the different ſectaries in this province; who, in a ſhort period of time, may be the majority in all publick aſſemblies; each of which may then poſſibly incline to eſtabliſh his own perſuaſion, in preference to the eſtabliſhed religion at home. If I have pointed out any conſequences that are likely to attend circumſtances of the neglect of our religion, I hope no perſon of a different perſuaſion will imagine I am an enemy to toleration; I profeſs a worm advocate for it, in the fulleſt extent of his Majeſty's indulgence: Yet, I muſt inform them, I never heard toleration in my country made uſe of as an argument to exempt diſſenters from bearing their ſhare of the ſupport of the eſtabliſhed religion; I therfore hope to meet with your joint concurrence in framing this act; and truſt, you will be convinced, it is for the happineſs of the country that religion ſhould have but one head how many members ſoever there may be to the body."

LONDON, June 5.

Extract of a letter from Inelcheſter, May 9.

"Yeſterday Mary Norwood, for poiſoning her huſband, Joſeph Norwood, of Axbridge, in this county, was burnt here, purſuant to her ſentence, in the preſence of about eight thouſand ſpectators. She was brought out of the priſon about three o'clock in the afternoon, barefoot: ſhe was covered with a tarr'd cloth, made like a ſhift, a tarr'd bonnet on her head; and her legs, feet, nnd arms had tar on them: the heat of the weather melting the tar on the bonnet, it ran over her face, ſo that ſhe made a ſhocking appearance: ſhe was put on a hurdle, and drawn on a ſledge to the place of execution, which was near the gallows. After ſpending ſome time in prayer, and ſinging a hymn, the executioner placed her on a tar-barrel about three feet high. a rope (which ran in a pully through the ſtake) was fixed about her neck, ſhe herſelf placing it properly with her hands; this rope being drawn extreme tight with the pulley, the tar-barrel was then puſhed away and three irons were faſtened round her body (to confine it to the ſtake, that it might not drop when the rope ſhould be burnt) as ſoon as this was done, the fire was immediately kindled, but in all probability ſhe was quite dead before it reached her, as the executioner pulled her body ſeveral times whilſt the irons were fixing. which was about five minutes. There being a great quantity of tar, and the wood in the pile being quite dry, the fire burnt with amazing fury; notwithſtanding which, great part of her could be diſcovered for near half an hour. Nothing could be more ſhocking than to behold after her bowels fell out, the fire flaming thro' her ribs, and iſſuing out of her ears, mouth & eyeholes, &c. In ſhort, it was ſo terrible a ſight, that great numbers turned their back, and ſcreamed out, not being able to look at it."

BOSTON, Auguſt 8.

LIST of Perſons appointed by Treaſury Warrant Diſtributers of Stamps in America.

Colin Drummond, Eſq; Quebec.
John Mckenzie, Eſq; Montreal.
—— Hienſelwood, Eſq; Nova Scotia.
George Meſerve, Eſq; New Hampſhire.
Andrew Oliver, Eſq; Maſſachuſetts Bay.
Auguſtus Johnſon, Eſq. Rhode-Iſland.
Jared Ingerſol, Eſq; Connecticut.
James M'Evers, Eſq; New-York.
William Coxe, Eſq; New-Jerſey.
John Hughes, Eſq; Pennſylvania.
Zachariah Hood, Eſq; Maryland.
Colonel Mercer, Eſq; Virginia.
Thomas Grayham, Eſq; Eaſt-Florida.
Jacob Blackwell, Eſq; Weſt-Florida.
——Slater Eſq; the Attorney G. Bermudas.
——Whitehead, Eſq; Barbados.
Robert Seaman, Eſq; Granada.
——Tucker, Eſq; St. Chriſtophers.
John Howel, Eſq; Jamaica.

The Officers for ſeveral other places, not yet appointed.

Monday arrived here his Majeſty's Sloop of War, Jamaica, from a Cruiſe, and remains with the Fortune in the Harbour.

Monday arrived here Capt. Pitt, in a Schooner from Quebec, but laſt from Halifax; by whom we learn that his Majeſty's ſhip Thunderer, of 74 guns, was arrived at Halifax from Ireland, with 500 troops, to relieve thoſe which have been in Nova-Scotia ſeveral years.

We hear that the Honorable Judge SPRY, now at Halifax, is to be Supreme Judge of the Court of Vice-Admiralty for this Northern Diſtrict, and to reſide in Boſton.

Monday arrived here Capt. Hayward in a Snow from Liverpool, having had ſeven Weeks Paſſage, brought no News.

Tueſday one of the ſloops which has been on the whaling buſineſs arrived here.

We hear that the veſſels employed in the Whale fiſhery from this and the neighbouring maratime towns, amounting to near 100 ſail have been very ſucceſsful this ſeaſon in the Gulph of St. Lawrence and Streights of Belleiſle; having, 'tis ſaid, already made upwards of 9000 barrels of oil.

Laſt week a fiſhing Smack, belonging to Philadelphia, brought in here for ſale a great number of Tautaug, caught coming down the [illegible] being a ſort of fiſh very ſcarce in this place a number of gentleman purchaſed a quantity of them alive and turned them over into the harbour, that they may propagate their Species here; by which means the town may in time be as plentifully ſupplied with them as we are with moſt every other kind of fiſh— it is hoped that if any perſon ſhould catch ſome of theſe fiſh ſtraggling, they would return them to their element, to promote the ſame good deſign, rather than gratify their preſent appetite.

This day ſails the brigantine Lydia, Capt. Scott, for London.

Among the ſupplies voted by parliament are the following,

	£.
For Nova-Scotia for 1765,	4911	14	21
ditto for 1750, 1751, 1752, 1762 & 1763, not provided for	7000	0	0
For Georgia — —	3966	0	0
For Eaſt and Weſt-Florida —	10,400	0	0
For expences attending general ſurveys in America,	1601	14	0

Among the ways and means is 60,000l. out of the duties on account of ſecuring the American plantations.

The exceptions the late act of parliament relating to poſtage of letters refers to the act of the 9th of Queen Anne, are as follows, viz.

"Except ſuch letters as ſhall reſpectively concern goods ſent by common known carriers of goods by carts, waggons or pack horſes, and ſhall be reſpectively delivered with the goods ſuch letters do concern, without hire or reward, or other profit or advantage for receiving or delivering ſuch letters; and except letters of merchants, and maſters, owners of any ſhips, barques, or veſſels of merchandize or any the cargo or loading therein, ſent on board ſuch ſhips, barques or veſſels of merchandize, whereof ſuch merchants or maſters are owners, as aforeſaid, and delivered by any maſters of any ſuch ſhips, barques, or veſſels of merchandize, or by any other perſon employed by them for the carriage of ſuch letter aforeſaid, according to their reſpective directions, ſo as ſuch letters be delivered to the reſpective perſons to whom they ſhall be directed without paying or receiving any hire or reward, advantage or profit for the ſame in any wiſe: and alſo except commiſſions or the return thereof, affidavits, writs, proceſs, or proceedings or returns thereof, iſſuing out of any court; and alſo any letter or letters to be ſent by any private friend or friends, in their way of journey or travel, or by any meſſenger or meſſengers ſent on purpoſe for or concerning the private affair of any perſon or perſons.

Part of a letter from a Gentleman of diſtinction in London, to his Freind here, dated June 11, 1765.

—— "The accounts I have received from Boſton as to the ſeverity of the winter, and failing of ſome of the principal merchants are ſhocking. We have been making an addition to your troubles by laying very heavy duties on you, and if theſe are tamely born, you may have a few more."

PHILADELPHIA, Auguſt 1.

A gentleman in Penſacola writes his correſpondent here, that he might aſſure his friends the Spaniards would certainly very ſoon take poſſeſſion of new Orleans, Monſieur Aubrey, Governor of that place, having wrote to Governor Johnſon to that effect.

NEW YORK, Auguſt 8.

Tueſday laſt, a company of the royal americans arrived here from Crown-Point and are now quartered in the barracks in Fort George.

All was well at Detroit about 50 days ſince, and we hear the garriſon of that place was under no apprehenſions of a viſit from Pontiac.

H A R T F O R D, Auguſt 12.

Laſt Friday ſe'nnight, a dwelling houſe in Eaſt Haddam, was very much ſhatter'd with Lightning, and a Child in the houſe, ſeven or eight years old, was much hurt.

LATHROP & SMITH,
(Apothecaries and Bookſellers)
Have juſt imported from London, and have for Sale, at their Store in Hartford,

A Large and freſh aſſortment of Medicines, and all articles uſually ſold by Apothecaries, (genuine, and of the beſt kind.) A very large collection of books, &c. A general aſſortment of painter's colours, writing paper, Dutch quills, ſcales and dividers, beſt money ſcales and weights: And a variety of other articles.——All which may be had at a very reaſonable advance——

N. B. Said Lathrop & Smith retail——Beſt Madeira wine, rum, ſugar and molaſſes.

TO be ſold at publick vendue, on Tueſday, the firſt day of October next, on the premiſſes, in the Oblong Amenia precinct, Dutcheſs county; a large convenient ſtone houſe, four rooms on a floor, with a good celler under the houſe, and a good barn, with two acres of land adjoining; now in the poſſeſſion of Mr. Stephen Ray; it is convenient for a merchant or tradeſman, ſituate about two miles from the town of Sharon. The conditions will be publiſhed at the time and place of ſale.—

JAMES TILEY, Goldſmith,

BEGS leave to acquaint the public, That he ſtill carries on his buſineſs in King-ſtreet, Hartford, where all gentlemen and ladies, who pleaſe to favour him with their cuſtom, may depend upon being ſerv'd in the beſt manner, with fidelity and diſpatch, on the moſt reaſonable terms. He has for ſale, ſhoe and knee buckle chapes and tongs; an aſſortment of files, ſuitable for ſilverſmith's and jeweler's, black lead pots and crucibles; binding wire; ſand paper; pumice and rot ſtone and allum; to be ſold at the loweſt prices, for ready money.

N B. Any perſons favouring ſaid Tiley with their cuſtom, broken gold or ſilver, or any kind of grain or proviſion, will be eſteemed equal to caſh for the workmanſhip.

Colony of Connecticut. } WHEREAS, purſuant to an act or law of ſaid colony, entituled, "An ACT to prevent frauds in debtors, and for ſecuring the effects of inſolvent debtors, for the uſe of their creditors, &c.——Nathanael Chapin of Enfield, in the county of Hartford, an inſolvent debtor, in conjunction with the major part of his creditors, hath exhibited his petition, with an account of the ſums by him owing and an inventory of his eſtate, &c. under oath before the honorable William Pitkin, Eſq; chief judge, and Daniel Edwards, Eſq; one of the aſſiſtant judges of the ſuperior court of judicature in ſaid colony; praying to have the ſame ſecured and diſpoſed of for the uſe of his ſaid creditors.—Public NOTICE is therefore hereby given, to all the creditors of the ſaid Nathanael Chapin, to appear at the court houſe in Hartford, in the county of Hartford, on the firſt Wedneſday of September next, to ſhew reaſon, (if any they have) why an aſſignment of the eſtate of the ſaid Nathanael ſhould not be made, and his perſon diſcharged according to the regulation and proviſion in ſaid act. Dated at Hartford the 10th day of Auguſt, A. D. 1765

Joſeph Barret, of Hartford, gives Caſh for Flax-Seed.

MONDAY, AUGUST 12, 1765. [NUMBER 38.]

The CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt ADVICES, Foreign and Domeſtick.

LONDON.

Abſtract of an act to provide for the adminiſtration of government, in caſe the crown ſhould deſcend to any of the children of his majeſty, being under the age of eighteen years, and for the care and government of their perſons.

THE preamble to this act mentions, that in conſequence of a tender concern in his majeſty for his faithful ſubjects, and an anxious deſire to provide for every poſſible event which may prevent their future happineſs or ſecurity, in regard to the adminiſtration of the government, as ſet forth in his majeſty's ſpeech; it is therefore enacted, that power be veſted in his majeſty for appointing from time to time, by three inſtruments under his ſign manual, a guardian to his ſucceſſor, in caſe the crown ſhall deſcend to any of his children being under the age of eighteen years. Such guardian is to have the care and management of the tuition of the perſon of ſuch minor, and to execute the office of regent of the kingdom; and to be either the queen, or princeſs Dowager of Wales, or one of the deſcendents of the late king, uſually reſiding in Great Britain.

The inſtruments of nomination are to be ſealed with the king's ſeal; and the ſeals of the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, Lord Chancellor, and Preſident of the council; and to be ſeverally depoſited with them.

The council of Regency for aſſiſting the Regent is to conſiſt of their royal highneſſes Edward Auguſtus, Duke of York and Albany, William Henry, Duke of Glouceſter and Edinburgh, prince Henry Frederick, and prince Frederick William, and his royal highneſs his majeſty's uncle, William Auguſtus, duke of Cumberland, (the ſaid prince Henry Frederick, and prince Frederick William, to be members of the ſaid council of regency, when they ſhall reſpectively attain the age of 21 years, and not ſooner) and alſo of the perſons and officers following viz. the archbiſhop of Canterbury for the time being; the lord chancellor, or lord keeper, or the firſt commiſſioner named in any commiſſion for the cuſtody of the great ſeal of Great Britain, for the time being; the lord treaſurer of Great Britain, or the firſt commiſſioner in that office for the time being; the lord preſident of the council for the time being; the lord privy ſeal; the lord high admiral of Great Britain, or the firſt commiſſioner for executing that office; the two principal ſecretaries of ſtate for the time being; and the lord chief juſtice of the court of king's or queen's bench for the time being. But if any of the king's brothers, or his uncle ſhall die, during his majeſty's reign, or ſhall be nominated regent on his demiſe, his majeſty, by three inſtruments, under his ſign manual, ſealed and depoſited as aforeſaid, and revocable at pleaſure, may appoint ſome other perſon to be of the council; and ſuch inſtruments are to be produced unopened to the privy council.

The council is to meet as the regent ſhall direct, and five (where it is not otherwiſe eſpecially provided) may act.

Upon his majeſty's demiſe, during the minority of the ſucceſſor, the privy council is to meet, and cauſe ſuch ſucceſſor to be proclaimed, purſuant to act 12 Will. III. upon pain of incurring the penalties of high treaſon.' The conſent of the majority of five or more of the council is neceſſary to make good all creations, pardons, gifts, grants, diſpoſitions, inſtructions, orders, or authorities. The Regent is diſabled to make war or peace; to ratify treaties; or to prorogue, adjourn or diſſolve the parliament, without the conſent of the majority of council.

Upon deſcent of the crown to a minor, the parliament then in being is to continue for three years, unleſs ſuch ſucceſſor ſhall be ſooner of age, or ſuch parliament be diſſolved by the Regent with conſent of the council; but if there ſhall be no parliament then in being, which ſhall have met, and ſat, the preceding parliament is to convene, and ſit for three years; except as before excepted.

The ſucceſſor to the crown, being a minor, is not to be married during ſuch minority, without conſent of the Regent and council, on pain of the marriage being void, and the perſons concerned therein incurring the penalty of high treaſon.

In caſes of an equality of voices in the council, the Regent is to decide.——

London, June 4.

In the evening on Saturday the firſt inſtant, a moſt dreadful fire ſuddenly broke out at a ſhipwright's near Elephant ſtairs, Rotherithe, which in a few hours conſumed upwards of 140 houſes, notwithſtanding all poſſible means were uſed to ſtop its progreſs. The rapidity with which it raged the wind being very high, prevented many of the inhabitants (moſt of them being ſhipwrights, and other labouring people employed in the buſineſs relative to ſhipping) from ſaving any part of their effects, whereby they are now reduced to the utmoſt diſtreſs, and are unable to obtain even the neceſſaries of life without the charitable contributions of well diſpoſed perſons.

The Glouceſter Journal informs us, that a man, whoſe name was WILKES, was, on Saturday interred at Corſe, in that county, aged forty-five.

LONDON, June 5.

Yeſterday being the anniverſary of his Majeſty's birth day, there was a very numerous Court at St. James's to compliment their Majeſties; all the royal family, foreign miniſters, and moſt of the nobility were preſent; and at night there was a grand ball.

Among the many very elegant dreſſes worn at court, none out ſhone, or was more admired, than that of his Grace the Duke of Portland, which was of Engliſh manufacture, and the firſt of the kind ever made in this kingdom.

The dreſs of the Counteſs of Northumberland, who made a very grand appearance at court yeſterday, was entirely Engliſh manufacture, enriched with diamonds and jewels, it is ſaid, to the amount of 150,000l.

Yeſterday the Earl of Bute was at court to pay his compliments to his Majeſty, and his domeſtics appeared in new rich liveries.

Notwithſtanding ſo many reports have been inſerted in all the papers relative to the change of a certain American governor, it is now ſaid, that his conduct has not been diſapproved on this ſide the water.

We hear that out of eight midſhipmen, who went out in the Boſcawen Eaſt Indiaman, only three of them lived to return.

Several hundred tuns of American hemp are expected over this ſummer, from Carolina, Boſton, &c. in conſequence of the late act in favour of the importers.

Letters from Charleſtown, South Carolina, mention, that of the French neutrals ſettled laſt ſummer at Long Canes, ſeventy eight have been married to natives of the province ſince their arrival, fifty five of whom have already had children now alive, ſo that this new colony is like to become exceeding populace in a few years.

June 11. We hear that his Majeſty's iſland of Tobago in the Weſt Indies, has of late been diſcovered to abound in the ſpontaneous production of wild cinnamon, cloves and nutmegs, little inferior to that of the iſland of Ceylon in the Eaſt-Indies.

We are informed that the inhabitants of the Iſle of Man, will be indulged in the liberty of having one or more agents to reſide in London, who may call in the aſſiſtance of council, in any public concern, in the ſame manner as thoſe employed by the American colonies.

June 13. It is Lieutenant Colonel Amherſt (and not the General, as lately mentioned) that is promoted to a company in the firſt regiment of Guards.

John Amherſt, Eſq; another Brother of the General's, is appointed Rear Admiral of the Blue.

It is ſaid, that John Amherſt, Eſq; Reare Admiral of the Blue, will hoiſt his Flag on board the new Victory Man of War, as ſoon as rigged, in order to proceed to relieve Commodore Harriſon in the Mediterranean.

It is now confidently ſaid there will be a promotion of land officers, in which number Col. Bradſtreet, now in America, will be promoted to the rank of a Major General.

There is a confirmation of the loſs of the three Algerine xebeques, the largeſt, fineſt, and neweſt they had, on board of which were forty Chriſtian ſlaves, and about 1200 ſeamen, who are all ſuppoſed to have periſhed; the Rais, who commanded a fourth which was in company with them, finding it impoſſible to aſſiſt them, and being returned to Algier without being able to give an account whether or not a ſingle life was ſaved. They were daſhed to pieces on the rocks of Cape-Treſforeas, under the cannon of Meliſle Prendre, in Spain.

June 14. An article in the Leyden Gazette, dated London, May 31, ſays, that in order to determine Mr. Pitt to return again into the miniſtry, an offer has been made him of the order of the Garter: But that he continues ſtill to excuſe himſelf on account of the declining ſtate of his health.

MONDAY, AUGUST 19, 1765. NUMBER 39.

The Connecticut COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

Hartford, 19th Auguſt, 1765.

Juſt Imported, and to be ſold very cheap for Caſh,

by Tho's Davidſon & Co.

A large Aſſortment of Engliſh and Eaſt-India GOODS, ſuitable for the Seaſon, amongſt which are the following Articles, VIZ.

- BLACK, blue, ſcarlet & cloth-colour'd ſuperfine & middling broadcloths,
- White flannels,
- Cotton velvets,
- Women's ditto,
- Scarlet & green hair pluſh
- Black breeches patterns,
- Scarlet ditto,
- Blue & crimſon colour'd ſilk ditto,
- Black, Blue, Saxon green, Crimſon, & Clothcolour'd } Callimancoes.
- Scarlet, Pink, Black, Blue, White, Green, Red & Cloth-colour'd, } Rattinets.
- Black, Blue, Red, Scarlet, White & Cloth-colour'd, } Shalloons.
- 10-11 nails linen check,
- 3 4 ditto, & ſtrip'd,
- 3-4, 7-8, & yard wide
- 5-8 & 6 4 Cotton & linen checks,
- Yard wide ſuperfine ditto beſt patterns,
- 4 & 7-8 dowlaſs,
- cots oznabrigs,
- -8, & yard wide cambricks,
- 8 & yard wide plain & flower'd lawns,
- lack taffaties,
- lack & colour'd broad & narrow perſians,
- eſt balleadine ſewing ſilk of all colours,
- agatheys,
- ardinal ſilk,
- ark & olive-colour'd thickſetts, & fuſtians,
- yed pelongs & jeans,
- otton allapeans,
- 9, 10, 11, 12 nails, nen handkerchiefs,
- 8 & yard wide ditto,
- inted blue & red ditto.
- 8 & yard wide black barcelona ditto,
- ack Cravatts ditto,
- otton ſtripes,
- otton & linen ditto,
- ſt. ſilk mitts, plain & open work,
- loves ditto,
- ack & buff colour'd worſted ditto, plain & [illegible],
- otton ditto,
- ack & white, plain & ribbed ſilk hoſe,
- orſted ditto,
- own & white thread ditto,
- netian poplins,
- gur'd ſtuffs,
- Men & women's ſhoes,
- Men & boy's caſtor & felt hats,
- Beſt Scots ſnuff,
- Hollandrappe in paper'd canniſters,
- Pigtail & paper'd tobacco,
- 6-8-10-12-14 figur'd ribbons,
- Ditto paduſoy & ſattin of all colours,
- Women's French lamb gloves & mitts,
- Silk mitts lined,
- Buckhandle table knives & forks,
- Bone ditto,
- Ivory ditto,
- Black ebony ditto,
- Cuttoes, large & ſmall,
- Penknives of different kinds,
- Gimblets all Sizes.
- Braſs candleſticks,
- Grid irons,
- Shoemaker's awls,
- Pegging awls for ditto;
- Pad locks ſorted,
- Sleeve buttons all ſorts,
- Paper ſnuff boxes
- Maſon's ditto,
- Common ditto of different kinds,
- Silver ſhoe buckles,
- Black ſhoe & knee ſteel ditto,
- Stone ditto,
- Pinchbeck ſundry ſorts ditto,
- White & yellow metal do.
- Jews harps,
- Frying pans,
- Metal buttons,
- Horn ditto,
- Double waſh'd buttons,
- Silver'd ditto,
- Braſs cocks,
- Watch keys,
- Briſtol ſtone buttons ſet in ſilver,
- Peable ſtone ſet in ditto,
- Wool cards,
- Cloth bruſhes,
- Silver watches,
- Necklaces & ear-rings,
- 7 by 9 & 8 by 10 window glaſs,
- China bowls,
- Variety of cups & ſaucers
- Chapes & tongs,
- Gin in caſes or by the gallon,
- Beſt velvet corks,
- Empty bottles by the groce or doz.
- Teneriff wine by the pipe, or ſmaller quantity, or by the doz.
- Rum by the hogſhead, or ſmaller quantity,
- Bohea tea warranted of the beſt kind,
- Loaf ſugar,
- Writing paper of different kinds,
- Grey ditto by the ream or quire,
- 6-4, & 7-4 bed bunts,
- Bed ticking,
- Midling & narrow ſtrip'd tapes,
- Broad & narrow white ditto,
- Gartering,
- Quality binding, broad & narrow,
- Black alimode,
- Black & colour'd ſattin & peelong,
- Brown & white bucrame,
- Sectorſoy romal ſilk hands,
- Shirt buttons,
- Silk & hair ſcarf twiſt,
- Buttons all colours,
- 7-8 & 9-8 wide ſheeting dark & light,
- Ground callicoes, 12 & 18 yard pieces,
- Pencil ditto,
- Furniture ditto,
- Dark & light ground chintzs,
- Printed cottons,
- Women and children's fans,
- Ivory ditto,
- Black & white thread lace,
- Stamp'd ſilk ditto,
- Gymps, broad & narrow
- Silk fringes of different kinds,
- Pocket books of different kinds,
- Playing cards,
- Nankeens,
- Hard ſoap,
- Scots tartin,
- Green holland,
- Punch ſpoons,
- Shammy linings,
- Black and white ſilk gauze,
- Flower'd ditto,
- A ſmall aſſortment of Glaſs ware, viz.
- Quart decanters,
- Pint ditto,
- Half pint ditto,
- Wine ditto,
- Bear ditto,
- A few ſaddlary goods to be ſold very low, viz.
- Men & women's ſaddles of different kinds,
- Bridles of different kinds
- Cruppers,
- Mail ſtraps, &c.
- And a great many other articles too tedious to mention in an advertiſement; all which will be ſold, to encourage the cuſtomers at a very ſmall advance.

N. B. Flax-Seed, Pork and Beef in Hand, will be eſteemed as Caſh, and the higheſt Price will be given that can be afforded, to encourage the Raiſers thereof. Thoſe Traders in the Country, who take in Flax-Seed, may depend upon having as much for their Seed here, as it will fetch in New-York, deducting Freight; as we ſhall ſhip what Quantity we purchaſe, at Middletown, for Ireland.

‡‡† In a Fortnight's Time will be inſerted in this Paper, a Method for the Publick, to ſave their ASHES, and prepare them for the Market, which will be of more Advantage to them than diſpoſing of them in the Manner they do: And it is to be hoped thoſe who have any Quantity now by them, will not diſpoſe of them until they ſee the above Method laid down to them, and may then judge for themſelves which will be beſt for them to do; as it is entirely planned for the Benefit of the Public, by their humble Servants,

Thomas Davidſon, & Comp.

Any Perſon or Perſons, that could contract to get 50,000 Pipe-ſtaves, may hear of a Purchaſer by applying to the above Company, and likewiſe know the Time they would be allowed to get them in.

T. D. & C.

* * *

To be ſold at Public Vendue, to the Higheſt Bidder, on Tueſday, the 29th Inſtant, Auguſt, at the Houſe of Mr. Charles Williams, Inn-Holder in Say-Brook;

THE Remains of the Appurtenances of the Sloop SUCCES, Buthen about Seventy Four Tons; lately caſt-away on Long-Iſland, viz. Sails, Cables, Anchors, Blocks, and ſundry Sorts of Rigging, &c. All lying in Say-Brook, in the Care of Meſſ. John and Richard Dickerſon, where the Things, may be ſeen before the Sale.

Weathersfield, Auguſt 19th, 1765.

* * *

THE Snow NEPTUNE, will ſail from the Port of New-London, for LONDON, in about Two Months from the Date hereof; for Freight or Paſſage, enquire of JOSEPH TRUMBALL at Norwich, or Capt. ROBERT FROUD, of ſaid New-London.

Auguſt, 19, 1765.

* * *

TAKEN up as a Stray, in Hartford, on Friday the 9th Inſtant, a lightiſh Bay Horſe, with three White Feet, a Blaze in his Face, black Mane and Tail, paces, trots and gallops, branded with a Figure of 4 on the left Shoulder, about 12 Hands high. The Owner may have him again on proving his Property, and paying Charges. Inquire of JOHN-PANTRY JONES, at Hartford-Ferry. Auguſt 19th, 1765.

* * *

TO be Sold, a neat new RIDING-CHAIR, complete, and a Chaiſe a little worn, with a Bonnet, both of them well made, in Boſton, by a good Workman; if any Gentleman inclines to purchaſe either or both of them, may have them on the moſt reaſonable Terms, by applying to PETER VERSTILLE, of Weathersfield.

* * *

STOLEN or Strayed out of the Paſture of Mr. SAMUEL FARNSWORTH of Hartford, a Bay, two year old Colt, black Mane and Tail, about 12½ Hands high, branded upon the fore Hoof thus AB had round his Neck a Piece of a Halter. Whoever will take up ſaid Colt and bring him to the Printer hereof, ſhall be handſomely rewarded; and all neceſſary Charges paid.

BOSTON, Auguſt 15.

Sunday Afternoon Capt. Haſlam arrived here in a Brig in 43 days from Briſtol:—He informs, that the Day he ſailed from thence he was told by ſeveral Merchants of Credit, that the Right Hon. Mr. PITT was again re inſtated in the Miniſtry, to the general Satiſfaction of the Nation; but that previous to his Acceptance of the important Truſt he deſired that his Majeſty would renew his Alliance with the King of Pruſſia; that the Cyder Act ſhould be repealed; and that the Parliament ſhould be diſſolved and a new one called. The two former of which 'twas ſaid were to be complied with, but the latter refuſed.

'Tis ſaid ſeveral other Changes in the Miniſtry had alſo taken Place.

From a Briſtol Paper of the 22d June we have the following Advices, viz.

LONDON, June 17.

THE preſent miniſtry are ſaid to be holding a grand conference in the country.

June 18. The report of an intended change in the miniſtry is revived, and ſome circumſtances are mentioned which make it ſeem to be not wholly deſtitute of foundation.

June 20. On Tueſday the Right Hon. Mr. Pitt came to town from Hayes, and yeſterday had a private conference with his Majeſty for ſome time.

The Right Hon. Mr. Pitt, and the Right hon. Mr. Charles Townſhend, Secretaries of State.

And the Right Hon. Mr. Grenville will be made Pay-Maſter-General and created a Peer.

'Tis ſaid the French have at preſent upwards of 350 veſſels carrying on a Cod Fiſhery on the banks of Newfoundland.

The Eaſt India company have received advice by their ſhip the Devonſhire, which arrived yeſterday from Bengal, that a compleat victory has been obtained by Major Munroe over Coſſim Ali Cawn whoſe army conſiſted of 50,000 men, of which 6000 were ſlain on the field of battle, the reſt fled with the greateſt precipitation, leaving their whole camp ſtanding, which fell into the hands of the Engliſh, together with a vaſt treaſure and [illegible] pieces of cannon. The loſs on our ſide was very inconſiderable.

A royal and noble company will ſhortly pay a viſit to Lord Temple at Stow.

Compleat wet and dry docks, magazines, and a naval arſenal, are this ſummer to be built at Halifax in Nova Scotia.

Extract of a Letter from London, June 2.

"Lord Bute and all that Party are totally routed, to the Joy of all People here."

BOSTON, Auguſt 15.

Monday laſt being the Anniverſary of the Birth of his Royal Highneſs the Prince of Wales, the Guns at Caſtle William were fired on the Occaſion.

The ſame Day 4 Indians arrived here from Fort Halifax at the Eaſtward, viz. Noodegawerimet and Pierre Michael, of the Norridgewalk Tribe, Joſeph of the Wewenock, and Lewis of the Arronſeguntacook. We hear they came on a viſit to acknowledge their Subjection to the Engliſh, &c.

By his excellency FRANCIS BERNARD, Eſq;
Captain-General and Governor in Chief, &c.

A PROCLAMATION.

WAEREAS yeſterday, towards evening a great number of people unlawfully and riotouſly aſſembled themſelves together, in the town of Boſton, armed with clubs, ſtaves, &c. and with great noiſe and tumult, pulled down a new erected building, belonging to the ſecretary of the province, and having ſo done, ſurrounded his dwelling houſe, pulled down part of his fences, broke his windows; at length with force and violence entered the houſe and damaged and deſtroyed the furniture, and continued thus unlawfully aſſembled until midnight, and committed divers other outrages and enormities to the great terror of his Majeſty's liege ſubject:

I have therefore tho't fit with the advice of his majeſty's council to iſſue this proclamation, requiring all juſtices of peace, and all officers civil and millitary, to uſe their utmoſt endeavours for diſcovering, apprehending and bringing to juſtice all and every of the perſons concerned in the unlawful aſſembly aforeſaid.

And I do hereby promiſe, that whoſoever ſhall diſcover and detect any of the perſons concerned in the outrages aforeſaid, ſo that they or any of them may be lawfully convicted, ſhall receive out of the public treaſury of this province, the ſum of one hundred pounds as a reward, to be paid upon the conviction of ſuch offender or offenders: And any perſon concerned therein over and above the reward aforeſaid, upon diſcovery of any of his accomplices as aforeſaid, ſhall receive his majeſty's free and gracious pardon.

Given at the Council Chamber in Boſton, the fifteenth day of Auguſt, 1765, &c.

FRA. BERNARD.

NEW-YORK, Auguſt 15.

A coffin of exquiſite workmanſhip was preparing for the interment of a young Gentleman called the Stamp Act, who it is ſaid, expired ſoon after Lord B—e went to Scotland. Lond. Intel.

Saturday laſt, about twelve o'clock, Mr. Anthony Hunter of this place, and a Negro lad, were both drowned, by the over-ſetting of a ſmall ſkiff, about 100 yards from the ſhore off of Johnſon's ferry, at Statten Iſland: Mr. Hunter could ſwim very well, but the Negro being much frighted, took hold of him, when they both immediately ſunk, and were ſeen no more. And on Tueſday Mr. Hunter's Body was found near the Narrows, brought to town, and decently interred in the Dutch church-yard.

On Tueſday, laſt week, died after a long illneſs, Mr. Wright, a gentleman of Jamaica, who lately came here for the recovery of his health. His remains were decently interr'd on Thurſday laſt. And on Friday laſt died Mr. Traxton, who arrived but two days before from the ſame place, for the recovery of his health.

Extract of a Letter, &c.

"A ſhocking and melancholly affair happened at Albany on Saturday the third Inſtant, about half after ſeven o'clock in the morning, by Joſeph White, merchant, committing the act of ſuicide; he did it with a piſtol, loaded with two balls, which he diſcharged under his right ear.——The jury bro't him in a Lunatick: The following is a copy of a paper he left upon his counter, viz

"My Boy's trunk and clothes is up ſtairs, which pleaſe to let him have, and beg every body to be kind to him, for he has been very good to me."

"God put it in my power to get over all this paſt illneſs on Sunday the twenty-firſt of this inſt. July, by a breaking out all over my body; but I immediately cut off my hair cloſe, which gave me cold and all ſtruck in again, and cauſed me to be worſe than ever, and ſeeing no view but that of being miſerable, has induced me to take this reſolution."

Albany, Tueſday near 5 o'clock, P. M. I have taken a reſolution to take away my life, which is a vaſt burden and pain to me, having not known one moments reſt for upwards of fourteen months paſt; therefore hoping for forgiveneſs of the act, and all my former ſins, through the merits of Chriſt, and hopes to find more eaſe and comfort in the next world than I have in this; ſo farewell to this world and all friends,——and adieu to this world."

TEN DOLLARS REWARD.

RAN away from the ſubſcriber, a Negro man named Peter, aged about 25 years. Took with him a blue coat, and a blue camblet veſt, a blue cut Mancheſter pair of breeches, and ſome other cloathing. The ſaid Negro was bred at Rhode Iſland, is of a clear black, ſpeaks good Engliſh, and is about 5 feet 6 inches high. Alſo a white apprentice boy, aged 15 named Henry Wiltſe, had on when he went away a light colour'd, homeſpun jacket, a ſtriped linen under jacket, blue everlaſting breeches, tow trowſers, a ſmall brim'd felt hat, bound with ferret, light colour'd hair tyed in his neck, black eyes. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid Negro and boy, and ſecure them ſo that their maſter can have them, ſhall be entitled to the above reward, and all neceſſary charges paid, by JAMES WILTSE.

Fiſh Kills, July 21ſt, 1765.

WAIT PLUMB, of Middletown,

Makes all Sorts of Carriages, ſuch as CHAIRS, Curricles, Phaetons, &c. in the neweſt and beſt Manner; and on the moſt reaſonable Terms.

TO be let, and entered upon immediately, a convenient dwelling houſe, very advantageouſly ſituated for any kind of buſineſs, and near the court houſe in Hartford, having a fine ſtore under the whole, and a garden ſufficient for any family.

N.B. If any perſon deſires to purchaſe ſaid houſe, it is to be ſold to any that will give the value thereof, and pay in Engliſh or Weſt-India goods, or any country produce; and will receive the goods in Boſton or New-York, or elſewhere, at the wholeſale price, and will be a cuſtomer to any merchant that ſhall buy ſaid houſe if it ſuits; or will ſell ſaid houſe for yearly payments.—For particulars enquire of Capt. George Smith, of Hartford, or Samuel Gilbert of Hebron.

Dated, Hebron, Auguſt 5th, 1765.

NOTICE is hereby given to the proprietors of the townſhip of Panton, lying on Otter Creek, in the province of New-Hampſhire, that are delinquent in paying the rate or tax of twenty ſhillings, lawful money on the right of each original proprietor, granted at their legal meeting, holden on the firſt Monday of April, 1764, and advertiſed in the Connecticut Courant; ſaid advertiſement dated the 16th of May laſt, according to law; that ſo much of each delinquent proprietor's right of ſaid lands will be ſold to pay ſaid tax, with incident charges, on the 10th day of September next, at the dwelling houſe of Mr. Daniel Hausford, jun. of Canaan, inn holder, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon; and to continue by adjournment till the whole be ſold. Dated at Canaan, this 24th day of July, A. D. 1765.

DAVID HOLCOMB, jun. Collector.

Colony of Connecticut. } WHEREAS, purſuant to an act or law of ſaid colony, entituled, "An ACT to prevent Frauds in debtors, and for ſecuring the effects of inſolvent debtors, for the uſe of their creditors, &c.——" Nathanael Chapin of Enfield, in the county of Hartford, an inſolvent debtor, in conjunction with the major part of his creditors, hath exhibited his petition, with an account of the ſums by him owing, and an inventory of his eſtate, &c. under oath, before the honorable William Pitkin, Eſq; chief judge, and Daniel Edwards, Eſq; one of the aſſiſtant judges of the ſuperior court of judicature, in ſaid colony; praying to have the ſame ſecured, and diſpoſed of for the uſe of his ſaid creditors.—Public NOTICE is therefore hereby given, to all the creditors of the ſaid Nathanael Chapin, to appear at the court houſe in Hartford, in the county of Hartford, on the firſt Wedneſday of September next, to ſhew reaſon, (if any they have) why an aſſignment of the eſtate of the ſaid Nathanael ſhould not be made, and his perſon diſcharged according to the regulation and proviſion in ſaid act. Dated at Hartford the 10th day of Auguſt, A. D. 1765.

By the KING.

A PROCLAMATION.

For the ſuppreſſing Riots, Tumults, and unlawful Aſſemblies.

GEORGE R.

WHEREAS it has been repreſented to Us, by an Addreſs of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament aſſembled, that a tumultuous and riotous Mob of ſeveral Thouſand idle and diſorderly Perſons, arrayed under Banners, and directed by Leaders, aſſembled at the Houſe of Lords on the 15th, 16th, and 17th Days of this Inſtant, to the Terror and Danger of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament aſſembled, in Breach of the Privilege, and in Violation of the Freedom of Parliament, and that the Perſons ſo aſſembled, or a great Number of them, riotouſly, and in open Violation of the Laws, aſſaulted and endangered the Life of his Grace the Duke of Bedford, in his Return from the Houſe of Lords, beſet his Grace's Houſe in Bloomsbury Square, and would probably have committed the moſt enormous Outrages there, had they not been prevented by the military Force aſſiſting the civil Magiſtrates, as Part of the Poſſe Comitatus:——We taking the ſame into our moſt ſerious Conſideration, and being reſolved to ſuppreſs all ſuch tumultuous Riots and Diſorders, tending to the Diſturbance of the public Peace, and to the endangering of all Order and Government, have thought fit, by and with the Advice of Our Privy Council, to iſſue this Our Royal Proclamation, hereby ſtrictly charging and commanding the Lord Mayor and the Juſtices of the Peace of our City and Liberties of Weſtminſter, and Borough of Southwark, and of the Counties of Middleſex and Surry, that they do uſe their utmoſt Endeavours to prevent and ſuppreſs all Riots, Tumults, and unlawful Aſſemblies, and to put in due and ſtrict Execution, the Laws and Statutes made for preventing, and for the more ſpeedy and effectual ſuppreſſing and puniſhing the ſame; and that all Our loving Subjects be aiding and aſſiſting therein.

Given at Our Court at St. James's, the 21ſt Day of May, 1765, in the fifth Year of Our Reign.

GOD ſave the KING.

HARTFORD, Auguſt 19.

Laſt Monday, Capt. Barns in a Brig, arrived at Boſton in ſeven Weeks from Newcaſtle.—On his Paſſage the 24th of July, in Lat. 35. he ſpoke with Capt. White, in a ſhip from Jamaica, bound to London, who inform'd him that he had on board the Crew of a ſloop belonging to Middletown, Aaron Bull, of this Place, Maſter, which was loſt at Sea.

LATHROP & SMITH,

(Apothecaries and Book-ſellers)
Have juſt imported from London, and have for Sale, at their Store in Hartford,

A Large and freſh aſſortment of Medicines, and all articles uſually ſold by Apothecaries, (genuine, and of the beſt kind.) A very large collection of books, &c. A general aſſortment of painter's colours, writing paper, Dutch quills, ſcales and dividers, beſt money ſcales and weights: And a variety of other articles.——All which may be had at a very reaſonable advance.——

N. B. Said Lathrop & Smith retail——Beſt Madeira wine, rum, ſugar and molaſſes.

TO be ſold at publick vendue, on Tueſday, the firſt day of October next, on the premiſſes, in the Oblong Amenia precinct, Dutcheſs county; a large convenient ſtone houſe, four rooms on a floor, with a good ſeller under the houſe, and a good barn, with two acres of land adjoining; now in the poſſeſſion of Mr. Stephen Ray; it is convenient for a merchant or tradeſman, ſituate about two miles from the town of Sharon. The conditions will be publiſhed at the time and place of ſale.—

JAMES TILEY, Goldſmith,

BEGS leave to acquaint the public, That he ſtill carries on his buſineſs in King-ſtreet, Hartford; where all gentlemen and ladies, who pleaſe to favour him with their cuſtom, may depend upon being ſerv'd in the beſt manner, with fidelity and diſpatch, on the moſt reaſonable terms. He has for ſale, ſhoe and knee buckle chapes; an aſſortment of files, ſuitable for ſilverſmith's and jeweler's; black lead pots and crucibles; binding wire; ſand paper; pumice and rot ſtone and allum; to be ſold at the loweſt prices, for ready money.

N B. Any perſons favouring ſaid Tiley with their cuſtom, may pay him for his labour in wheat, rye and Indian corn, at the caſh price.

MONDAY] AUGUST 26, 1765. NUMB

The Connecticut COURANT.

No 40

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

COPENHAGEN, May 1.

GREAT preparations are making in this metropolis for the arrival of a great Perſonage from England, who is expected towards the latter end of July; among other things we hear, that a ſword of exquiſite workmanſhip is making as a preſent for him, which will amount to near 10,000 l.

From France they write, that the Court of Verſailles looks with a very jealous eye on the approaching between this Crown and England; and its added, that a French miniſter lately declared his wonder why the Court of London ſhould be ſo unreaſonable as to murmur at their family compact with Spain, when they themſelves were urging an intereſt of the ſame nature with the principal powers in Europe.

Mr. Wilkes, the celebrated Engliſhman, now in excile, we hear, intends to viſit this city in a ſhort time.

LONDON,

June 1. Several Tranſports are ſoon to be contracted for, in the Government's Service, to import naval Ship-Timber from North-America, for his Majeſty's Dock-yards at Portſmouth, Plymouth, and Chatham.

Yeſterday the Commiſſioners of the Navy engaged a Transport in the River, to ſail by the middle of next Month, with Stores for N. America.

June 6. Dr. Jooſten has obtained the prize of thirty ducats, offered by the electoral academy of ſciences of Manheim, for reſtoring a drowned perſon to life in the Palatinate, by means of beds of aſhes impregnated with ſalt, and frictions, &c. The ſubject upon whom the Doctor made the experiment, is a ſon of a baker, named Meyer, of that city, about three years and a half old when he fell into the water the 27th of April laſt. He had no reſpiration, his pulſe did not beat, his head and hands were ſwelled, his eyes cloſed, his lips lived, his body cold, and for three quarters of an hour he appeared to be dead. But being rubbed with hot cloths for about 15 minutes, he made a motion with his mouth, and after 14 or 15 minutes more rubbing, &c. he was found to breath, his pulſe beat, and he recovered the uſe of his ſenſes.

Extract of a Letter from Paris, May 27.

"On the 19th of this month 45 minutes after ten in the morning, an earthquake was felt thro'-out the whole extent of the province of Foix, which laſted two minutes; and after an interval of about ten or twelve minutes, there were two other ſlighter ſhocks.

LONDON, June 7. We hear ſome remonſtrances have lately been made to the States-General, concerning the too great liberties taken by the Dutch in extending their ſlave trade on the coaſts of Africa.

The American whale fiſhery, this ſummer, by all accounts, is like to be the moſt extenſive ever undertaken by his Majeſty's ſubjects on that continent. The ſmall iſlands of Nantucket having fitted out no leſs than eighteen veſſels for this account, and other places in proportion.

The late diſcovery of tanning with oak ſaw-duſt, for which the Society of Arts, &c. paid the premium of 100l. has reduced the price of oak bark twenty-five per cent. cheaper than the uſual price it was ſold for before that diſcovery.

It is ſaid that laſt Saturday's diſpatches from Paris, contained the only reaſonable propoſals, on the part of France, which have hitherto been made, reſpecting the payment of the Canada Bills, and which, conſidering the preſent low ſtate of their finances, it is thought would be accepted.

June 8. A gentleman having drank rather too freely at a tavern in this city, on his return home thro' St. Paul's Church yard, ſtumbled againſt a poſt; which he imagining to be a man, and affronted at the blow he received, immediately drew his ſword and run it through a hole which happened to be in the poſt; after which, not hearing the ſuppoſed man ſpeak, he thought he had certainly murdered him; which prepoſſeſſed him ſo ſtrongly, that he made his eſcape as faſt as poſſible to France.

The wild beaſt of the Gevauda is not yet killed.---We have ſeveral more ſtrange ſtories by the ſame mails: amongſt them, one of a boy's eſcaping the fury of this animal by getting hold of the tail of a bull, which engaged the beaſt and at length put him to flight. On the 12th ult. upwards of fifty pariſhes united, with a conſiderable number of good markſmen, went in purſuit of this dreadful beaſt, but without ſucceſs. On the 24th he devoured two girls, and attacked the third, but ſhe was relieved by a boy of fourteen, who ſtabbed the beaſt with a bayonet, and obliged him to retire bleeding.

There were very lately at Aſkrigge, in Yorkſhire, a mother and her daughter, three own ſiſters, two aunts, and a niece, whoſe ages in one ſum did not amount to TWENTY.

The palace, which is going to be immediately erected for his Majeſty in Richmond Gardens, will extend 400 feet in length, and 300 feet in depth.

A noted French mantua-maker having acquired in fourteen years, 16,000l. by dealing in French manufactures, has purchaſed a houſe near Verſailles, which ſhe called La Folie des Dames Angloiſes, the Folly of the Engliſh Ladies.

It is pleaſant to remark what a great change in opinion twenty years only will produce. In the year 1745, the 29th of May was little heeded; a man with an oak branch in his hat, would have been pelted as he went along the ſtreets; and a houſe decorated with oak boughs would have riſqued the being demoliſhed. In the year 1746 oak was ſtill leſs worn: and an arch fellow being aſked why no oak leaves were ſeen about, anſwered, "That the oaks were all choaked with thiſtles:" But now, what a change! whole foreſts of oak ſeem to have been ſtripped off their boughs to adorn the houſes and heads of men, women and children in this metropolis.

A double number of labourers are employed to forward the paving in the Strand. Of the nine paviours four of them wore oak leaves yeſterday; ſo that they cannot be all termed Scot paviours.

Letters from Coventry bring adviſe, that ſome thouſands of weavers had entered into a tumultuous aſſociation to get their wages raiſed, and had been guilty of ſeveral outrages and diſorders, by threatening to pull down ſome of their maſters houſes. No work was done there all laſt week, nor any brought home to their maſters.

For ſome time paſt, the low witticiſm among the common rank, where things happened to pleaſe or diſpleaſe, was, "That's the Barber, that's the Shaver," has been left off; and within theſe few days a new phraſe adapted "That's the Weaver;" no doubt alluding to the many thouſand of green aprons that lately appeared in the ſtreets of this metropolis, in order to ſhow their deteſtation of French ſilks, French barbers and hair-cutters, &c. with which this city is at preſent peſtered.

June 8. A lady of Eminence, near St. James's, has, ſince the petition of the Spitalfiels weavers, given away a large quantity of her cloaths, which has been made up of French ſilks, to her ſervants, with a command that they ſhould wear them full trimm'd as they were, in order to bring into diſgrace the manufactures of a foreign country.

We hear a northern genius is now employed in writing a tragi-comedy, called the Siege of Starling, which, it is ſaid, will contain an epitome of ſome late high characters, in a maſterly manner.

It is ſaid that ſeveral French hair-dreſſers and friſſeurs, French milleners and mantua-makers, have raiſed good fortunes ſince the late peace, by artfully introducing and ſelling the ſilk manufactures of their own country to the gentry, &c. they did buſineſs for, which has been the principal cauſe of the preſent miſerable ſituation of the poor Spitalfield weavers; and notwithſtanding a ſeizure now and then has been made of French goods, the ſaid illicit trade is daily carried on by means of the eaſy acceſs they have to gentlemen and ladies who employ them.

They write from Breſt, that orders have been received at the marine office to fit out two frigates of war, in order to proceed on a ſecret expedition; and as ſeveral engineers and draughtſmen were preparing to embark, it was thought ſome part of the main continent of America, ſouth of the line, was their intended route.

In ſuch univerſal eſteem is the high character of Mr. Pitt, that nothing is more common at any of the foreign courts, when any Engliſh gentlemen are there, than to enquire whether he be alive? And how does he? An inſtance of this happened very lately at Rome, where ſome Engliſh gentlemen were viewing the palace of his holineſs, who happening to ſee them, and finding they were Engliſhmen on their travels, inſtantly enquired after Mr. Pitt, in the above words.

June 10. On Wedneſday laſt was held a public examination (which we hear is to be continued annually) of the Gentlemen Cadets at the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich, before the Marquis of Granby, Governor, aſſiſted by the Right Hon. the Earl of Moreton, Preſident of the Royal Society, the King's Profeſſor of Mathematicks and Aſtronomy at Flamſtead-houſe, the Chief Engineer of England, and the principal Officers of Artillery, who expreſſed the higheſt Satiſfaction at that Proficiency of ſeveral military Students in Fortification, Mathematics, drawing, and other Branches of their Education, and that the greateſt Advantage muſt ariſe from this noble Inſtitution.—The Examination laſted from ten o'Clock in the Morning till near Six in the Evening, when ſuch of the young Gentlemen who diſtinguiſhed themſelves moſt in the different Claſſes, were rewarded with Gold and Silver Medals, and other Prizes of Honor.

It is ſaid the parochil clergy will ſoon receive orders from their Biſhops to make returns of all the papiſts in their reſpective pariſhes at the enſuing viſitation, ſpecifing how many of theſe have been perverted within theſe ten years from the proteſtant religion.

About ten years ſince the wife of a clergyman, rector of a village near——, in Hertfordſhire, being pregnant, longed for a hare; when a baker of the ſame place waited on the divine, and on condition of receiving a crown, conducted him to a field where he pretended a hare lay in form; the parſon fired his piece, and imagined he had killed his game, but on his coming up, found it was nothing but a hare's ſkin ſtuffed with ſtraw: the fellow ſoon after enliſted for a ſoldier, and was abroad all the late war, at the concluſion of which he returned to his native place, and one day laſt week went before the ſaid clergyman to be married; the miniſter happening to recollect his quondam friend, ſtopped ſhort in the middle of his ceremony, and refuſed to proceed any farther till he refunded the five ſhillings he had formerly cheated the parſon of; which he was obliged to comply with, before the ſoldier and his doxy were coupled together.

We hear the heads of a ſermon, or more properly a very impudent attempt to ridicule the religion and laws of this kingdom, as delivered laſt week in a certain Romiſh chapel weſt of Temple-Bar, has been literally taken down by a gentleman in ſhort hand, who has already preſented it to a great perſonage, as a glaring inſtance to what height the emiſſaries of Rome, and other diſguiſed Jeſuits, have arrived in poiſoning the minds of the people, by openly delivering their impious and ſeditious doctrines.

We hear from Glaſgow, that a ſhip arrived in the river Clyde from the Straits, has brought over a number of fine Italian paintings, which are putting up in the Earl of Bute's caſtle at Rothſay, in the Iſle of Bute.

A conſiderable hatter in Drury-lane is now executing a large commiſſion of hats, for Jamaica and the Weſt-Indies, all white and undyed, with gold-lace, gold button and loop; which is the prevailing faſhion at preſent in that hot climate.

June 11. We hear that it is under conſideration againſt naxt ſeſſion of parliament the laying a duty upon all the wearers of ſwords. Beſides a conſiderable revenue it will bring into the government, it will diſtinguiſh the nobility and gentry intitled to wear ſuch, from the barber, hair dreſſer, and other of the Frenchified tribe, who gird themſelves with ſuch a weapon, and aſſume the air of gentlemen.

On Monday laſt the Right Hon. Hans Stanley Eſq; gave an elegant ball and ſupper, to near 400 ladies and gentlemen, at the George in Newport, in the Iſle of Wight, upon his taking upon him the government of that iſland.

Some letters brought by the Boſcawen Eaſt-Indiaman, ſay, that the French have lately erected ſtrong fortifications on the iſland of Mauritius in Bourbon.

By letters from Turkey, by way of Marſeilles, there is an account, that the plague made a terrible havock at Conſtantinople, Smyrna, and other parts of that extenſive Empire, and ſwept off a great number of people, which was a great hindrance of trade and commerce at this time of the year.

They write from Turky, that the late Grand Vizir had been beheaded, for not ſtifling the rebellion in Georgia, in its infancy.

In the curious collection of curioſities of the late Ebenezer Munſel, Eſq; ſold by auction laſt Wedneſday and Thurſday, were the following:

K. Charles IId's button of his hat, 2l. 13s.—The curtana of James II of England, and the ſword of James IV. of Scotland, taken at Flodden-field, 1l. 12s.——A ſcymitter taken from the Baſhaw of Damaſcus at the ſiege of Vienna, 5l. 5s.—K. of Madagaſcar's ſhirt, the Queen's ſhift, their ſaſhes, belts, &c. 1l. 3s.—Q. Elizabeth's gloves, knife and fork, workbag, pincuſhion, and tooth-pick; Mary Queen of Scots hair-cap; Oliver Cromwell's night-cap, camp-pillow, ſilk-ſaſh, tobacco ſtooper; and K. Charles IId's night-cap, 2l. 12s.—Queen Elizabeth's ſtriking watch, given by her to one of the Wardens of the Tower when ſhe quitted her impriſonment there, 2l.—King Charles I's watch, given by him to Bp. Juxton the morning of his martyrdom, 2l. 17s.—An earthen can of St. Thomas a Becket, finely wrought, 16s.—Sir Edmundbury Godfrey's dagger; a large parcel of curious ancient gloves; ſtar and garter worn by the Duke of Marlborough at Blenheim battle; ditto of James II. William III. and Queen Anne; and a piece of fringe work made by Mary Queen of William III. 2l.—Beſides a prodigious number of Roman and Egyptain antiquities, urns, buſts, paintings, &c. &c.

Dudley Coſby, Eſq; is now talk'd of to ſucceed the late Arthur Dobs, Eſq; in the Government of North-Carolina.

A Shipmaſter arrived here this Week from Belfaſt ſays, upwards of 100 Sail of French Shallops are now employed in the double Capacity of fiſhing and ſmuggling on the Coaſt of Londonderry in Ireland.

Letters from Colonge of the 31ſt ult. adviſe, that they had an Account from Metz in Lorrain, that the Deuilling was become a great Faſhion there among the Fair Sex; two Ladies, one the Wife of a Member of Parliament, and the other that of a Commiſſary of War, having ſome Difference, reſolved to decide their Quarrel by the Point of the Sword, in which the former was wounded in the Arm, and the latter received a dangerous Wound in her Breaſt.

Recent Letters from Breſt adviſe, that a Number of experienced Engineers lately arrived there, in order to erect a very ſtrong Citadel and Fortifications on the Level of Mount Charles, for the Defence and Security of the City on the Land Side.

June 14. They write from Gibraltar, that Advice had been received there of the famous pyratical Rover Reis Hamet Lewis of Sallee having periſh'd in a late Storm in the Mediterranean.

The St. Padre, eſteemed the largeſt Ship in the whole Spaniſh Navy, is now building at the Havanah, and will be launched in Auguſt next.

Wedneſday evening Mr Shuter ſpoke an Epilogue riding on an Aſs, at Covent-garden-houſe; but it being ſomewhat difficult to get the ſluggiſh animal forward on the ſtage, the houſe ſeemed very much diverted with Mr. Shuter's ridiculous ſituation; that excellent humouriſt, however, ſoon changed the laugh at him to one with him; by declaring the aſs was as greatly diſconcerted, it being his firſt appearance on the ſtage. This happy get-off was received with the approbation which it merited; and he went thro' his Epilogue to the univerſal ſatisfaction of the ſpectators.

A large fleet of ſhips is hourly expected in the river from Jamaica, & other parts of the W. Indies.

Extract of a letter from Toulon, May 4.

"Two bomb veſſels and two frigates ſailed a few days ago, and are to join others at Cadiz, in order to go and bombard the fortifications erected by the Salletines in the Iſland of Fedel. The rapid progreſs which theſe pirates have made for ſome years paſt in the improvement of their marine cannot but give uneaſineſs to trading ſtates of Europe, tho' they themſelves have contributed to their agrandizement, by the preſents they ſent to keep them quiet. Before the year 1755, thoſe pirates were not to be apprehended, being only able to fit out veſſels of four or ſix guns, and theſe never cruized beyond the Mediterranean; but ſince that time the earthquake which happened at Liſbon being alſo felt on the coaſt of Barbary, opened the bar of Sallee, ſo that there has been 22 or 24 feet of water, by which ſhips of almoſt any ſize can go in or out. It is univerſally allowed, that the great advantage which the Salletines have over other veſſels, is owing to the great number of men they carry, which enables them to board their enemy. It has therefore been propoſed to arm the ſides of our merchant ſhips with hooks and ſpikes, in ſuch a manner as to render all attempts to board them ſo difficult as to prevent it.

June 14. It is now ſaid the American provinces will have liberty to melt down bullion for eſtabliſhing a gold and ſilver currency; not to be coined as in Europe, but ſtamped, after the manner practiſed in the neighbouring Spaniſh provinces. [Where is that bullion?]

NEW-HAVEN, Auguſt 23.

Laſt Monday Morning departed this Life, Mrs. SARAH FITCH, Conſort of JONATHAN FITCH, Eſq; 'Tis ſaid ſhe was a Lady of an amiable Character, generally eſteemed and greatly lamented particularly by the induſtrious Poor, to whom ſhe was a conſtant Benefactreſs. Her Funeral was attended, on Tueſday Evening, by a very numerous Aſſembly, who appeared neatly in the frugal Dreſs lately approved in Boſton, New-York and Philadelphia.

NEW-HAVEN.

——Quid non Mortalia Pectora cogis
Auri ſacra Fames VIRGIL.

SINCE the late Impoſitions on the American Colonies by the Parliament of Great-Britain, our Papers have been filled with Exclamations againſt Slavery and arbitrary Power. One would have thought, by this mighty outcry, that all America, to a Man, had a noble Senſe of Freedom, and would riſque their Lives and Fortunes in the Defence of it. Had this been really the Spirit of the Colonies, they would have deſerved Commiſſeration and Relief.

Nothing can fill a generous Breaſt with greater Indignation than to ſee a free, brave and virtuous People unjuſtly ſunk and debaſed by Tyranny and Oppreſſion. But who can pity the heartleſs Wretches whoſe only Fortitude is in their Tongue and Pen? If we may judge of the Whole by thoſe who have been already tampered with, the Colonies are now ripe for Slavery, and incapable of Freedom.

Have three hundred Pounds a Year, or even a more trifling Conſideration, been found ſufficient to debauch from their Intereſt thoſe who have been entruſted with the moſt important Concerns by the Colonies? If ſo, O Britain! heap on your Burdens without fear of Diſturbance. We ſhall bear your Yoke as tamely as the overloaded Aſs. If we bray with the Pain, we ſhall not have the Heart to throw off the Load, or ſpurn the Rider. Have many already become the Tools of your Oppreſſion? and are numbers now cringing to become the Tools of thoſe Tools, to ſlay his wretched Brethren? 'Tis impoſſible! But alas! if ſo, who could have tho't it!——Thoſe who lately ſet themſelves up for Patriots and boaſted a generous Love for their Country, are they now ſaying (O Diſgrace to Humanity!) are THEY now creeping after the Profits of collecting the unrighteous American Stam-Duty! If THIS is credible, what may we not believe? Where are the mercenary Publicans who delight in Nothing ſo much as the deareſt Blood of their Country? Will the Cries of your deſpairing, dying Brethren be Muſick pleaſing to your Ears? If ſo, go on! bend the Knee to your Maſter Horſeleach, and beg a Share in the Pillage of your Country.—No, you'll ſay, I don't delight in the Ruin of my Country, but, ſince 'tis decreed ſhe muſt fall, who can blame me for taking a Part in the Plunder? Tenderly ſaid! why did you not rather ſay—If my Father muſt die, who can accuſe me as defective in filial Duty, in becoming his Executioner, that ſo much of the Eſtate, at leaſt, as goes to the Hangman, may be retained in the Family?

Never pretend, whoever you are, that freely undertake to put in Execution a Law prejudicial to your Country, that you have the leaſt Spark of affection for her. Rather own you would gladly ſee her in Flames, if you might be allowed to pillage with Impunity.

But had you not rather theſe Duties ſhould be collected by your Brethren, than by Foreigners? No! vile Miſcreant! indeed we had not. That ſame rapacious and baſe Spirit which prompted you to undertake the ignominious Taſk, will urge you on to every cruel and oppreſſive Meaſure. You will ſerve to put us continually in Mind of our abject Condition. A Foreigner we could more chearfully endure, becauſe he might be ſuppoſed not to feel our Diſtreſſes; but for one of our Fellow Slaves who equally ſhares in our Pains, to riſe up and beg the Favour of inflicting them, is intolerable. The only Advantage that can be hoped for from this is that it will rouſe the moſt indolent of us to a Senſe of our Slavery, and make us uſe our ſtrongeſt Efforts to be free. Some, I hope, there are, notwithſtanding your baſe Defection, that feel the patriotic Flame glowing in their Boſoms, and would eſteem it glorious to die for their Country! From ſuch as theſe you are to expect perpetual Oppoſition. Theſe are Men whoſe Exiſtence and Importance does not depend on Gold. When, therefore, you have pillaged from them their Eſtates, they will ſtill live and blaſt your wicked Deſigns, by all lawful Means. You are to look for Nothing but the Hatred and Deteſtation of all the Good and Virtuous. And as you live on the Diſtreſſes, you will inherit the Curſes of Widows and Orphans. The preſent Generation will treat you as the Authors of their Miſery, and Poſterity will purſue your Memory with the moſt terrible Imprecations.

CATO.

BOSTON, Auguſt 22.

Laſt Monday ſe'nnight being the Anniverſary of His Royal Highneſs the Prince of Wales's Birth Day, the ſame was celebrated here with the greateſt Demonſtration of Joy, and with Marks of unfeigned Loyalty. The Cannon from the Forts, Caſtle and Ships in the Road made a Grand Loyal Salute at Noon. What heightened the general Joy was the Arrival of Intelligence the Day before of Mr. Pitt's being appoited one of his Majeſty's principal Secretaries of State. Be this Right Honorable Gentleman in or out, 'tis certain he is and ever has been as popular in the Colonies as in England. In the Evening the young People had a Fire in Kingſtreet, and while every Apartment of the Town rung with the Pious and Loyal Ejaculations---"God bleſs our true Britiſh King."---Long live their Majeſties."--"Heaven preſerve the Prince of Wales, and all the Royal Family"----"Pitt and Liberty Forever"---&c.——The ſame Day were re-thundered thro' every Street in the City. High and Low, Rich and Poor, Young and Old, White and Black, Bond and Free, joined the Chorus. The Little Children who could not ſpeak, laughed, clapped their Hands, blew their Whiſtles, and rung their coral Bells. As no Miniſter has been toaſted in any tolerable Company in N. America, ſince Mr Pitt went out, it ſeemed a little aukward at firſt. It was obſerved that a North and South Briton of a certain Complexion, threw their Faces into many violent and frightful Contortions, before they could or would bring it out. But it is quite familiar now. The very Peaſants will not drink at the Brook or Fountain, but to the Health of their King and his Miniſter.

Very early on Wedneſday Morning, the 14th Inſtant, were diſcovered hanging on a Limb of the Great Trees ſo called, at the South Part of this Town, two Effigies, one of which by the Labels appeared to be deſigned to repreſent a Stamp-Officer, and the other a Jack-boot, with a Head and Horns peeping out of the Top, ſaid by ſome to be the Devil or his Imp; but, as we are not acquainted with that Species of Gentlemen, we cannot ſo well determine whether it was an exact Reſemblance or not: The Report of theſe Images ſoon ſpread thro' the Town, brought a Number of Spectators, and had ſuch an Effect on them that they were immediatediately inſpired with a Spirit of Patriotiſm, which diffus'd itſelf through the whole Concourſe: So much were they affected with a Senſe of Liberty, that ſcarce any could attend to the Taſk of the Day-Labour; but all ſeemed on the Wing for Freedom. About Duſk the Images were taken down, placed on a Bier, (not covered with a Sheet, except the Sheet of Paper which bore the Inſcription) ſupported in Proceſſion by Six Men, followed by a great Concourſe of People, ſome of the higheſt Reputation, and in the greateſt Order, ecchoing forth, Liberty and Property! No Stamp! &c.—Having paſſed through the Town-Houſe, they proceeded with their Pageantry down Kingſtreet, and it is ſaid intended for the North Part of the Town; but Orders being given, they turned their Courſe thro' Kilbyſtreet, where an Edifice had been lately erected, which was ſuppos'd to be deſign'd for a Stamp-Office. Here they halted, and went to work to demoliſh that Building, which they ſoon effected, without receiving any Hurt, excepting one of the Spectators, who happened to be rather too nigh the Brick Wall when it fell: This being finiſhed many of them loaded themſelves with the wooden Trophies, and proceeded (bearing the two Effigies) to the Top of Fort-Hill; where a Fire was ſoon kindled, in which one of them was burnt; we can't learn whether they committed the other to the Flames, or if they did whether it did not ſurvive the Conflagration, being its ſaid like the Salamander converſant in that Element.—The Populace after this went to work on the Barn, Fence, Garden and Dwelling-Houſe of the Gentleman againſt whom their Reſentment was chiefly levelled, and which were contiguous to ſaid Hill; and here entering the Houſe they bravely ſhewed their Loyalty, Courage and Zeal, to defend the Rights and Liberties of Engliſhmen:—Here it is ſaid, by ſome good Men that were preſent, they eſtabliſhed their Society by the Name of The Union Club——Their Buſineſs being finiſhed, they retired and proceeded to the Province-Houſe, which was at about 11 o'Clock, gave three Huzzas, and all went quetly home.

The next Day the Honorable Gentleman who had been appointed to the Duty of Diſtributor of the Stamps when they ſhould arrive, ſuppoſing himſelf to be the Object of their Deriſion, informed the principal Gentlemen of the Town, that as it appeared ſo diſagreeable to the People, he ſhould requeſt the Liberty of being excuſed from that Office; and in the Evening the Populace reaſſembled, erected a Pyramid, intending a ſecond Bonfire; but upon hearing of the Reſignation, they deſiſted, and repaired to the Gentleman's Gate, gave three Chears, and took their Departure without Damage;—but having heard it propagated that an honorable Gentlemen at the North Part of the Town, had been acceſſary in laying on the Stamp Duties, &c. they repaired to his Houſe, where, upon being informed by ſome Gentlemen of Integrity and Reputation, that he had not only ſpoke but wrote to the contrary, they retired; and having patroled the Streets, returned to their reſpective Habitations, as quetly as they had done the Night before.

"England, can never be undone but
"by a Parliament." Lord Burleigh,

The Public is aſſured, from good Authority, that the Hon. Gentleman, who on Thurſday laſt reſigned the Employment of Diſtributor of Stamps, has wrote Home to the Lords Commiſſioners, &c. ——That, He cannot execute the Stamp-Act, and that it is his Opinion it will be impracticable for any other Perſon to do it.——

We are told, that the Concourſe on Wedneſday Evening was far from conſiſting wholly of the Inhabitants of this Metropolis, many having come from Charleſtown, Cambridge and other adjacent Towns---The Truth of which may poſſibly be hereafter diſcovered by the Vigilance, Induſtry and Zeal of the Attorney General,

It is ſuppoſed by ſome People, that the Effigies exhibited in this Town on Wedneſday laſt (Actually or Virtually) originated in Cambridge, from this remarkable Circumſtance, that the very Breeches were ſeen on a Gentlemen of that Town on Commencement Day.

Saturday Morning laſt departed this Life after a long Confinement, the Rev. Timothy Cutler, D. D. Rector of Chriſt's Church in this Town, aged 82 Years.—A Sermon at the Funeral was preached by the Rev. Mr. Caner, of King's Chappel.——After which the Remains were interred under the Church.

Yeſterday a Ship arrived here from Leith, in North-Britain, had nine Weeks Paſſage. Sir Harry Seaton, an Officer in his Majeſty's Service on this Continent, came Paſſenger; as alſo a Number of other Perſons.

Yeſterday Morning a Fire broke out at ſome Work Shops, making the Corner between Quaker-Street Lane and Water-Street, when the whole Edifice, conſiſting of ſix Shops, was almoſt inſtantly in Flames; but ſuch was the Activity of the Inhabitants (always very alert on ſuch Occaſions) that it was extinguiſhed without any other Damage than deſtroying the upper Part of the Building.-----

At this Fire an Opportunity preſented for the Trial of an Engine, which has lately been made here, and it was found to perform well. If any Town ſhould have Occaſion to purchaſe, and diſpoſed to encourage our own Artiſts, they may be ſupplied at a cheaper Rate than can be imported, by applying to David Wheeler, Blackſmith, in Newbury Street, who will warrant the Engines to be as good as any imported.

Said Wheeler alſo makes and fixes Iron Rods with Points, upon Houſes or any other Eminences for Prevention from the Effects of Lightning.

PHILADELPHIA, Auguſt 15.

Extract of a Letter from Pennſborough, Aug. 7, 1765.

"Agreeable to my Promiſe, when I ſaw you laſt, I now acquaint you, that I have this day received a letter from Mr. Croghan, dated at Wiotchtonan, the 13th of July; at which place, he acquaints me, he was attacked by a large body of Indians, who killed two of his men, and three of the Shawaneſe deputies that accompanied him, ſlightly wounded Major Smallman and himſelf, and made them all priſoners. But when he informed them who he was, and upon what buſineſs he was going; that he was conducted thither by the Shawaneſe nation, and that it was their chiefs who were killed; they, in the moſt abject manner begged forgiveneſs of him, as they then began to apprehend what they had done might be a means of bringing the Shawaneſe, Delawares, and Six Nations on them, whom they very much dread. However, he has accommodated matters with them entirely to his Satisfaction, and intended to proceed immediately to the Ilinois, where he expects the like ſucceſs, and about the firſt of September hopes to be at Fort Pitt,"

NEW-YORK, Auguſt 22.

We hear from New-Jerſey, that Mr. Coxe, the Stamp-Officer, appointed for that Province, having applied to a Gentleman to hire a Houſe, was refuſed, unleſs he would inſure the Houſe from being pulled down, or damaged.

Query, Whether it would not be prudent for all the Stamp-Officers to inſure their Houſes, &c.

HARTFORD, Auguſt 26.

A Letter juſt come to Hand from Detroit, dated the 7th Inſtant, ſays, "All was then well and quiet at that Place."

Extract of a Letter from Boſton, Auguſt 19.

"Yeſterday the Effigy of Mr. O——— was found hanging on one of the Trees at the South End of the Town, with a Paper before it, on which ſomething to this Effect was wrote in large Characters.

"Fair Freedom's glorious Cauſe I've meanly quitted,
"————————————For the Sake of Pelf,
"But ah! the Devil has me outwitted,
"And inſtead of ſtamping others, have hang'd myſelf.
"P. S. Whoever takes this down, is an Enemy to "his Country."

On the Right Arm was wrote, A. O.

On the Left } "What greater Pleaſure can there be,
"Than to ſee a Stamp-Man hanging on a Tree."

* * *

ALL Perſons indebted to us the Subſcribers, either by Bond, Note or Book, are hereby notified and caution'd to beware of repeated, pompous Advertiſements, inſerted in the Connecticut Courant, ſigned, Thomas Davidſon, & Comp. wherein they inſinuate to the Public, that they import their Goods immediately from the Makers—Which let them believe, who will——Conſider with yourſelves, whether a Company advertiſing & ſelling trifling Articles, at prime Coſt, or leſs, will ſerve you with other Things not ſo commonly known, at the ſame Rate; or, whether 'tis not an Allurement to get a greater Advance, where it may be laid, without Diſcovery, by which poſſibly many may be deceived:—And inform thoſe who are any ways ſo indebted to us, as above, that we expect after ſo long Patience uſed with them, that they diſcharge their reſpective Ballances due to us, forthwith, either in Caſh, or any Kind of Country Produce they have to diſpoſe of, ſuch as Pork, Beef, Wheat, Rye, Indian-Corn, and Flax-Seed; all of which we have uſually received as Payments, at the Market Price; and hope no One of them will ſuffer himſelf to be enſnared by ſaid Company's Advertiſement, ſo as to forget the Places where they ought to make Payment; if any does, they may depend on being immediately ſued without Exception, or further Notice; and a ſtrict Enquiry and Obſervation will be made, of any who may attempt to neglect us, and carry any of thoſe Articles to them, before their old Ballances are diſcharged; and we flatter ourſelves, that thoſe who conſider of the above, and the Payments they have made us from Year to Year, muſt be immediately convinced of the difference of the Uſeage they have heretofore received from us, and ſuch Perſons.

N.B. Salt alſo will be exchanged by us, for Flax-Seed.

Samuel Talcot,
Daniel Goodwin,
John Lawrence,
Caleb Bull,
Samuel Olcott,
Samuel Marſh,
William Jepſon,
George Lord,
Eliſha Pitkin,
Lemuel White,
Ruſſell Woodbridge,
Tho's Hopkins,
Abraham Beach,
Nathaniel Ledyard,
Solomon Smith.
P. Thomſon & C°.

Colony of CONNECTICUT.

WHEREAS purſuant to an Act or Law of ſaid Colony, entitled "An Act to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, &c." Ebenezer Coomes of Simſbury, in the County of Hartford, an Inſolvent Debtor; in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors, hath exhibited his Petition with an Account of the Sums by him owing, and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; Judge of the County Court in the County of Hartford, and Seth Wetmore, Eſq; Juſtice of Peace and Quorum, in ſaid County; praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of, for the Uſe of his ſaid Creditors. Public Notice is therefore hereby given, to all the Creditors of the ſaid Ebenezer Coomes, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Nathaniel Chauncey, Eſq; Inn-holder in Middletown, in ſaid County, on Wedneſday the 18th Day of September next, to ſhew Reaſon, (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of the ſaid Ebenezer Coomes ſhould not be made, and his Perſon diſcharged, according to the Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Act.

Dated the 23d of Auguſt, 1765.

Advertiſements.

West-Hartford, Auguſt 17, 1765.

LATELY departed Life, in a very diſtreſſed Condition, a black Mare, branded X on the left Shoulder, ſome White in her Face, her hind Feet white, ſundry white Spots on her Back, greatly lamented by a young Colt that is now under the Protection of Theophilus Steele; The Owner would do well, to come and take Guardianſhip upon him, before the Stamp Act takes Place.

Hartford, 19th Auguſt, 1765,

Juſt Imported, and to be ſold very cheap for Caſh,

by Tho's Davidſon & Co.

A large Aſſortment of Engliſh and Eaſt-India GOODS, ſuitable for the Seaſon, amongſt which are the following Articles, VIZ.

BLACK, blue, ſcarlet & cloth-colour'd ſuperfine & middling broadcloths,
White flannels,
Cotton velvets,
Women's ditto,
Scarlet & green hair pluſh
Black breeches patterns,
Scarlet ditto,
Blue & crimſon colour'd ſilk ditto,
Black,
Blue,
Saxon green,
Crimſon, &
Clothcolour'd } Calimancos.
Scarlet,
Pink,
Black,
Blue,
White,
Green,
Red &
Cloth-colour'd, } Rattinets.
Black,
Blue,
Red,
Scarlet,
White &
Cloth-colour'd, } Shalloons.
10-11 nails linen check,
3 4 ditto, & ſtrip'd,
3-4, 7-8, & yard wide 3-8 & 6-4 Cotton & linen checks,
Yardwide ſuperfine ditto beſt patterns.
3 4 & 7-8 dowlaſs,
Scots ozenbrigs,
7-8, & yard wide cambbricks,
7-8, & yard wide plain & flower'd lawns,
Black taffaties,
Black & colour'd broad & narrow perſians,
Beſt balleadine ſewing ſilk of all colours,
Sagatheys,
Cardinal ſilk,
Dark & olive-colour'd thickſetts, & fuſtians,
Dyed pelongs & jeans,
Cotton allopeans,
9, 10, 11, 12 nails,
Linen handkerchiefs,
-8 & yard wide ditto,
Printed blue & red ditto.
-8 & yard wide black barcelona ditto,
Black Cravatts ditto,
Cotton ſtripes,
Cotton & linen ditto,
Beſt ſilk mitts, plain & open work,
Gloves ditto,
Black & buff-colour'd worſted ditto, plain & trim'd,
Cotton ditto,
Black & white, plain & ribbed ſilk hoſe,
Worſted ditto,
Brown & white thread ditto,
Venetian poplins,
Figur'd ſtuffs,
Men & women's ſhoes,
Men & boy's caſtor & felt hats,
Bed Scots ſnuff,
[illegible] in paper'd canniſters,
Pigtail & paper'd tobacco,
6 8 10-12-14 figur'd ribbons,
Ditto paduſoy & ſattin of all colours,
Women's French lamb gloves & mitts,
Silk mitts lined,
Buckhandle table knives & forks,
Bone ditto,
Ivory ditto,
Black ebony ditto,
Cottoes, large & ſmall,
Penknives of different kinds,
Gimblets all Sizes.
Braſs candleſticks,
Grid irons,
Shoemaker's awls,
Pegging awls for ditto,
Pad locks ſorted,
Sleeve buttons all ſorts,
Paper ſnuff boxes
Maſon's ditto,
Common ditto of different kinds,
Silver ſhoe buckles,
Black ſhoe & knee ſteel ditto,
Stone ditto,
Pinchbeck ſundry ſorts ditto,
White & yellow metal do.
Jews harps,
Frying pans,
Metal buttons,
Horn ditto,
Double waſh'd buttons,
Silver'd ditto,
Braſs cocks,
Watch keys,
Briſtol ſtone buttons ſet in ſilver,
Pearle ſtone ſet in ditto,
Wool cards,
Cloth bruſhes,
Silver watches,
Necklaces & ear-rings,
7 by 9 & 8 by 10 window glaſs,
China bowls,
Variety of cups & ſaucers
Chapes & tongs,
Gin in caſes or by the gallon,
Beſt velvet corks,
Empty bottles by the groce or doz.
Teneriff wine by the pipe, or ſmaller quantity, or by the doz.
Rum by the hogſhead, or ſmaller quantity,
Bohea tea warranted of the beſt kind,
Loaf ſugar,
Writing paper of different kinds,
Grey ditto by the ream or quire,
6 4, & 7 4 bed bunts,
Bed ticking,
Midling & narrow ſtrip'd tapes,
Broad & narrow white ditto,
Gartering,
Quality binding, broad & narrow,
Black alimode,
Black & colour'd ſattin & peelong,
Brown & white bucrams
Sectorſoy romal ſilk hands,
Shirt buttons,
Silk & hair ſcarf twiſt,
Buttons all colours,
7-8 & 9 8 wide ſheeting dark & light,
Ground callicoes, 12 & 18 yard pieces,
Pencil ditto,
Furniture ditto,
Dark & light ground chintzs,
Printed cottons,
Women and children's fans,
Ivory ditto,
Black & white thread lace,
Stamp'd ſilk ditto,
Gymps, broad & narrow
Silk fringe, of different kinds,
Pocket books of different kinds,
Playing cards,
Nankeens,
Hard ſoap,
Scots tartin,
Green holland,
Punch ſpoons,
Shammy linings,
Black and white ſilk gauze,
Flower'd ditto,
A ſmall aſſortment of Glaſs ware, viz.
Quart decanters,
Pint ditto,
Halfpint ditto,
Wine ditto,
Bear ditto,
A few ſaddlary goods to be ſold very low, viz.
Men & women's ſaddles of different kinds,
Bridles of differentkinds
Cruppers,
Mail ſtraps, &c.
And a great many other articles too tedious to mention in an advertiſement; all which will be ſold, to encourage the cuſtomers at a very ſmall advance.

N. B. Flax-Seed, Pork and Beef in Hand, will be eſteemed as Caſh, and the higheſt Price will be given that can be afforded to encourage the Raiſers thereof. Theſe Traders in the Country, who take in Flax-Seed, may depend upon having as much for their Seed here, as it will fetch in New-York, deducting Freight; as we ſhall ſhip what Quantity we purchaſe, at Middletown, for Ireland.

‡‡† In a Fortnight's Time will be inſerted in this Paper, a Method for the Publick, to ſave their ASHES, and prepare them for the Market, which will be of more Advantage to them than diſpoſing of them in the Manner they do: And it is to be hoped thoſe who have any Quantity now by them, will not diſpoſe of them until they ſee the above Method laid down to them, and may then judge for themſelves which will be beſt for them to do; as it is entirely planned for the Benefit of the Public, by their humble Servants,

Thomas Davidſon, & Comp.

Any Perſon or Perſons, that could contract to get 50,000 Pipe-ſtaves, may hear of a Purchaſer by applying to the above Company, and likewiſe know the Time they would be allowed to get them in.

T. D. & C.

To be ſold at Public Vendue, to the Higheſt Bidder, on Tueſday, the 27th Inſtant, Auguſt, at the Houſe of Mr Charles Williams, Inn-Holder in Say-Brook;

THE Remains of the Appurtenances of the Sloop SUCCESS, Buthen about Seventy Four Tons; lately caſt-away on Long-Iſland, viz. Sails, Cables, Anchors, Blocks, and ſundry Sorts of Rigging, &c. All lying in Say-Brook, in the Care of Meſſ. John and Richard Dickerſon, where the Things, may be ſeen before the Sale.

Weathersfield, Auguſt 19th, 1765.

TO be Sold, a neat new RIDING-CHAIR, complete, and a Chaiſe a little worn, with a Bonnet, both of them well made, in Boſton, by a good Workman; if any Gentleman inclines to purchaſe either or both of them, may have them on the moſt reaſonable Terms, by applying to PETER VERSTILLE, of Weatherfield.

STOLEN or Strayed out of the Paſture of Mr. SAMUEL FARNSWORTH of Hartford, a Bay, two year old Colt, black Mane and Tail, about 12½ Hands high, branded upon the fore Hoof thus AB had round his Neck a Piece of a Halter. Whoever will take up ſaid Colt and bring him to the Printer hereof, ſhall be handſomely rewarded, and all neceſſary Charges paid.

THE Snow NEPTUNE, will ſail from the Port of New-London, for LONDON, in about Two Months from the Date hereof; for Freight or Paſſage, enquire of JOSEPH TRUMBALL at Norwich, or Capt. ROBERT FROUD, of ſaid New-London.

Auguſt, 19, 1765.

TAKEN up as a Stray, in Hartford, on Friday the 9th Inſtant, a lightiſh Bay Horſe, with three White Feet, a Blaze in his Face, black Main and Tail, paces, trots and gallops, branded with a Figure of 4 on the left Shoulder, about 14 Hands high. The Owner may have him again, on proving his Property, and paying Charges. Inquire of JOHN-PANTRY JONES, at Hartford-Ferry. Auguſt 19th, 1765.

James Tiley,

GOLDSMITH,

BEGS leave to acquaint the public, That he ſtill carries on his buſineſs in King-ſtreet, Hartford, where all gentlemen and ladies, who pleaſe to favour him with their cuſtom, may depend upon being ſerv'd in the beſt manner, with fidelity and diſpatch, on the moſt reaſonable terms. He has for ſale, ſhoe and knee buckle chapes; an aſſortment of files, ſuitable for ſilverſmith's and jeweler's; black lead pots and crucibles; binding wire; ſand paper; pumice and rot ſtone and allum; to be ſold at the loweſt prices, for ready money.

N B. Any perſons favouring ſaid Tiley with their cuſtom, may pay him for his labour in wheat, rye and Indian corn, at the caſh price.

TO be ſold at publick vendue, on Tueſday, the firſt day of October next, on the premiſſes, in the Oblong Amenia precinct, Dutches county; a large convenient ſtone houſe, four rooms on a floor, with a good celler under the houſe, and a good barn, with two acres of land adjoining; now in the poſſeſſion of Mr. Stephen Ray; it is convenient for a merchant or tradeſman, ſituate about two miles from the town of Sharon. The conditions will be publiſhed at the time and place of ſale.—

Lathrop and Smith,

(Apothecaries and Book ſellers)

Have juſt imported from London, and have for Sale, at their Store in Hartford,

A Large and freſh aſſortment of Medicines, and all articles uſually ſold by Apothecaries, (genuine, and of the beſt kind.) A very large collection of books, &c. A general aſſortment of painter's colours, writing paper, Dutch quills, ſcales and dividers, beſt money ſcales and weights: And a variety of other articles.——All which may be had at a very reaſonable advance——

N. B. Said Lathrop & Smith retail——Beſt Madeira wine, rum, ſugar and molaſſes.

Colony of Connecticut. } WHEREAS, purſuant to an act or law of ſaid colony, entituled, " An ACT to prevent frauds in debtors, and for ſecuring the effects of inſolvent debtors, for the uſe of their creditors, &c.——" Nathanael Chapin of Enfield, in the county, of Hartford, an inſolvent debtor, in conjunction with the major part of his creditors, hath exhibited his petition, with an account of the ſums by him owing, and an inventory of his eſtate, &c. under oath, before the honorable William Pitkin, Eſq; chief judge, and Daniel Edwards, Eſq; one of the aſſiſtant judges of the ſuperior court of judicature, in ſaid colony; praying to have the ſame ſecured, and diſpoſed of for the uſe of his ſaid creditors.—Public NOTICE is therefore hereby given, to all the creditors of the ſaid Nathanael Chapin, to appear at the court houſe in Hartford, in the county of Hartford, on the firſt Wedneſday of September next, to ſhew reaſon, (if any they have) why an aſſignment of the eſtate of the ſaid Nathanael ſhould not be made, and his perſon diſcharged according to the regulation and proviſion in ſaid act. Dated at Hartford the 10th day of Auguſt, A. D. 1765

Joſeph Barret, gives Caſh for FLAX-SEED.

HARTFORD, Printed by THOMAS GREEN, oppoſite the State-Houſe.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1765.

NUMBER 41.

The Connecticut COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

From the LONDON CHRONICLE.

TO THE PRINTER.

SIR,

SINCE the alarm of proceeding againſt the preſs by attachment has gone forth, you Printers ſeem to be frightened. Never fear, they will not attach every body. They dare not; whatever their inclinations may be. They have got nothing by what they have already done; nor will they get any thing by what, it is ſaid, they are going to do. Therefore you need not be caſt down. No Gentleman will deſire you to run into actual and real danger: But as you ſubſiſt by public indulgence, you ſhould be a little conformable to the intereſts and opinions of the public; I mean to the writers on the behalf of the people, as well as to thoſe on the behalf of the Miniſtry. I do not charge you indeed with this kind of partiality, but ſome of your brother Printers have been ſaid to be guilty of it. You will therefore excuſe my ſaying thus much. But it is time every man ſhould begin to look ſeriouſly about him, who has any regard for either the liberties or the welfare of his country. The affairs of this nation are really in a lamentable and dreadful ſituation. The enormous prices of proviſions, and the great decay of trade, are terrible things, and muſt have their cauſes ſomewhere; and we may be aſſured will have very ſerious conſequences. But the great people who are paid for taking care of the national affairs to a degree that is abſolutely burthenſome to the people, inſtead of contriving how to remedy the grievances of their fellow ſubjects, are attending to nothing but proſecutions and perſecutions in order to ſtop our complaints. If they had any prudence they might take example from former times. Violence will not ſtop complaint. God forbid it ſhould. We are not ſlaves, nor I hope ever ſhall; for there is ſtill a ſpirit among us (notwithſtanding ſome fond fools would perſuade themſelves otherwiſe) that is worthy of the deſcendants of thoſe brave and honeſt Engliſhmen, who made this a great and free nation; and to whoſe virtues and intrepidity we owe this excellent conſtitution. Engliſhmen have nothing to truſt to but their own independent ſpirit; and I wiſh I could ſay with a voice as loud as thunder, from TYRANNY in every Capacity, good Lord deliver us.

INDEPENDENCE.

'According to letters from Soiſſons, the Wolf which exerciſed its rage there about the latter end of February, has left melancholy Effects of his rage behind him. Of 18 perſons whom he wounded, 13 have died mad, and we know not what will be the fate of the five others. They have been obliged to kill a number of beans which had been bitten, and in conſequence thereof had run mad. One of the unhappy perſons, whom this wolfe had bit, having been to ſea, in order to prevent the conſequences, appeared to be recovered to a good ſtate of health, but ſoon ſhewed ſymptoms by howlings of an approaching madneſs. In order to ſecure him they bound him hand and foot, and then bled him; but in ſpite of theſe precautions his madneſs diſplayed itſelf in the moſt terrible manner, he broke his chains, demoliſhed to pieces every thing that came under his hand, and leapt furiouſly into a horſe pond, from whence coming out again, all covered with blood and dirt, he fell upon his knees and begged them to kill him. At laſt, after many acts of phrenzy he entered into a country houſe near Braine, where picking up a large lever, he made ſuch good uſe of it, that nothing could reſiſt him; but attempting to break into a large Hall, where 30 perſons had fled for refuge he was ſhot by an officer with a double barrelled gun, who at the ſecond diſcharge happily killed him. Bruſſels Gaz.

NEW-YORK.

AS I frequently note down ſuch Hints as occaſionally occur, and which I think may ſerve as Materials for ſome future ſpeculations, I was the other Day greatly confounded by a Gentleman's delivering me a Paper of my own Hand writing, which he had picked up near the Exchange, containing the following unconnected Paſſages, which appeared to him all Confuſion and Myſtery, but were to me very intelligible, and replete with Matter for many a Sentinel, viz.

The Doctor has had a confounded Rap over the Knuckles.----A Cordial for low ſpirits, diſtilled in Virginia.----Poppies, Laudanum, New-Jerſey Aſſembly.---Whoever hates the Law, will naturally hate Lawyers.-----Some People who talk moſt in Favour of Prerogative, care leaſt about it, when their own Intereſt is concerned.--------Little Rogues are hanged, while great ones go unpuniſhed.---Doctor Fauſtus---Lilliballero.---To recede from Virtue in Proportion as an Advance in Years. ---Fees for granting Patents.------Making Hay while the Sun ſhines.-----Two Articles of News for the London Papers, viz. A company of Merchants have lately ſet up a Whale-Fiſhery on the moſt North-eaſterly Part of Lake Erie, where they take immenſe Quantities of Whales, whoſe Oil far exceeds that of the ſame Species of Fiſh taken in any other Part of the World; and it is ſaid that an Officer will be ſent from Boſton to enter and clear the Battoes employed in tranſporting the ſaid Oil down the Ohio, in which it is expected he will meet with leſs oppoſition than a Fellow Officer did lately at Albany. And we have Advice from Long-Iſland, that one GRENVILLE undertakes to make Gold out of the Rock-away Pebbles, by Means of a new-invented STAMP-Mill, tho' many People think him a bungling Projector, and that the Wages of the Workmen will exceed the Profits of the Mill.---Patriots, Parricides. What a Heart muſt a Man have who can coolly meditate the Ruin of his Country?---Cataline, Nero, Caligula, Gabineus, Sejanus, Epſon, Dudley, Spencer, Gaveſton, Doct. Fauſtus.-----Forfeitures made recoverable in the Courts of Admiralty.---American Liberty---Toaſts, viz. A ſpeedy Return to Governor Monkton, Succeſs to the American Manufactures, General Conway, Col. Barre, The Burgeſſes of the Dominion of Virginia, The Memory of John Hamden, Eſq; —Petitions ſuppreſſed, and Complaints unheard. —Court Cormorants.—Virtual Repreſentations.—Hints for a Paper to be intituled, Analogy between Phyſic and Law, or Argument proving that every Doctor as ſuch is an able Lawyer, viz. An Apothecary's Account is a Bill of Exceptions. The Abolition of Trials by Juries, is a convulſion in the Nerves. Reſolving the Subject's Liberty into the Will of the Prince, may properly be compared to reducing the Body natural to an Anatomy. The Right of Preſcribing is undoubtedly ſimilar to that of Legiſlation. The Gout I reſemble to a Petition of Dolence. And what is Hiera Picra, but Latin for an Appeal?—Memorandum, to inquire into the Conduct of the Turnkeys of the New-York Goal. The Egyptians compelled the Hebrews to make Brick without Straw.——Barracks, Store-Houſes, and Stables in the Streets of Albany.---Second Part of Mare Clauſum, or Poſtage of Letters acroſs the Atlantic. Cabbage Plants, Lord Loudon, Iſle of Skie.---Indian Affairs, South Sea Bubble.---Vacating Patents—Standing Army to prevent the Incurſions of [illegible] Savages.----The Meaneſs of any AMERICAN accepting the Office of putting in Execution a Law prejudicial to his Country. One Part of a People taxing another Part, and exempting themſelves in Proportion to the Tax laid on their Fellow-Subjects, neceſſarily Productive of a Form of Government the moſt unjuſt, iniquitous, tyranical, merciless, oppreſſive, and deſpotic, that ever preſented itſelf, to the human Mind, from the Creation of the World, to the Year 1765.

CHARLESTOWN, (in S. Carolina) July 31.

Letters from Fort Prince-George inform us, that Salloue or the Young Warrier of Eſtatoe was returned from the Upper Towns, and had met with all the ſucceſs he could expect in perſuading the relations of thoſe Indians who were aſſaſſinated in Virginia to forbear taking revenge, at leaſt to wait the iſſue of Attakullakulla's journey to Williamſburg. Theſe letters expreſs great fears of miſchief from the quantities of rum lately carried into the Cherokee country from this province, and take no notice of the report from Long-Canes mentioned in our laſt.

For a conſiderable time paſt we have had repeated accounts of many groſs enormities committed by the people on the weſtern frontiers of this province: The following is given us from a letter written by a magiſtrate in Amelia townſhip: "On the 2d inſtant between the hours of 8 and 10 at night, two men came to the houſe of one Richard Baldrick, inn-keeper on the Congaree road, and called for ſome toddy and victuals; that in order to pay for what they had, they produced a piece of gold, which they ſaid was 8l. 5s.—that Baldrick ſcrupling its value, went to weigh it, but while he was doing it, one of the men knocked him down, bound and blindfolded him, as they alſo did his wife, juſt ready to lie in, one Mrs. Kelly, who was there to attend her, and his little ſon; that before they had blindfolded the boy, four or five more ruſhed into the houſe, who put a knife to Baldrick's throat, ſwearing they would cut it, if he did not immediately diſcover where his money lay, which they ſaid was 500l. that his wife, terrified at the demand and threat, told the villains, what money her huſband had was in a ſmall trunk in the next room, upon which they went thither, and then ſtripped the houſe of every thing that was valuable. A hue and cry had been iſſued, and a reward of one hundred pounds offered by Meſſrs. Caldwell and Sabb, to whoever ſhould take one or more of the villains, to be paid on conviction, but nothing had been heard of them."

COPY of the inſtructions, given by the Town of PROVIDENCE, on the 13th of Auguſt 1765, to the Deputies in General Aſſembly.

"AS a full and free Enjoyment of Britiſh Liberty, and of our particular Rights as Coloniſts, long ſince preciſely known and aſcertained, by uninterupted Practice and Uſage from the firſt Settlement of this Country, down to this Time, is of unſpeakable Value, and ſtrenuouſly to be contended for by the dutiful Subjects of the beſt Frame of Government in the World, any Attempts to deprive them thereof muſt be very alarming, and ought to be oppoſed, altho' in a deſent Manner, yet with the utmoſt firmneſs.

"We conceive that ſome late Reſolutions of the Parliament of Great-Britain, for taxing us without our own Conſent, hath a tendency to diveſt us of our moſt valuable Privileges as Engliſhmen; and that the Meaſures adopted by the Miniſtry and the Parliament in this Behalf, if carried into Execution, will be a manifeſt Infraction of our inherent Rights, as Members of the Britiſh Government, and unſpeakably injurious in the preſent diſtreſſed and involved State of the Colony.

"The Miniſtry in juſtification of this Encroachment upon the inconteſtible Rights of His Majeſty's liege Subjects in theſe Parts of the World, have pretended that the Colonies are repreſented in Parliament by the Britiſh Members: The contrary is ſo evident that a bare Denial is ſufficient to refute it.

"The Refuſal of the Parliament to hear the humble Petitions of the Colonies againſt the Stamp-Act, the Enlargement of the Admiralty Juriſdiction, and the burdening Trade, we look upon as a great Grievance, and directly againſt our Rights as Subjects.

“ With the utmoſt Concern and Dread we conſider the Extention of the powers of the Court of Admiralty; and muſt freely declare to the whole World, that we look upon our natural Rights to be diminiſhed in the ſame Proportion, as the Powers of that Court are extended: And in this Particular we are unhappily diſtinguiſhed from our Fellow Subjects in Britain.

“ We think it needful in this critical Conjuncture to give unto you who are our Deputies, ſome Inſtructions to be by you obſerved in your Repreſentation of us in General Aſſembly.

“ In the firſt Place we recommend it to you in the moſt expreſs Manner, to uſe your utmoſt Endeavours, that Commiſſioners be appointed by the Aſſembly, to meet with the Commiſſioners from the other Colonies on the Continent at New-York, on the firſt Day of October next, agreeable to the Propoſal and Requeſt of the Province of the Maſſachuſetts-Bay, ſignified to this Colony, in order to unite in a Petition to the King, for Relief from the Stamp Act, and other Grievances.

“ In the Choice of theſe Commiſſioners, we are aſſured from our Knowledge of your Virtue, that you will pay more Attention to Merit, Skill in public Buſineſs, and a Zeal for the Welfare of the Colonies, than to any other Conſideration.

We likewiſe requeſt you to do all in your Power, conſiſtent with our Relation to Great-Britain, towards poſtponing the Introduction of the Stamp Act into this Colony, until the Colonies may have Opportunity to be heard in Defence of ſuch juſt Rights, as they will be deprived of by an Execution of it: And to this end that you endeavour to procure our eſſential Rights to be aſſerted in General Aſſembly, by Votes or Reſolves to the following Effect, viz.

“ 1. That the firſt Adventurers, Settlers of this His Majeſty's Colony and Dominion of Rhode-Iſland, and Providence Plantations, brought with them and tranſmitted to their Poſterity, and all other His Majeſty's Subjects ſince inhabiting in this His Majeſty's Colony, all the Privileges and Immunities, that have at any Time been held, enjoyed, and poſſeſſed by the People of Great-Britain.

“ 2. That by a Charter, granted by King Charles the Second, in the fifteenth Year of His Reign, it is declared and granted unto the Governor and Company of this Colony, and their Succeſſors, that all and every the Subjects of His ſaid Majeſty, His Heirs and Succeſſors, which were [illegible] ſhould hereafter go to inhabit within the ſaid Colony, and all and every of their Children, which had been born there, or which ſhould afterwards be born there, or on the Sea going thither, or returning from thence, ſhould have and enjoy all Liberties and Immunities of free and natural Subjects within any the Dominions of His ſaid Majeſty, His Heirs or Succeſſors; to all Intents, Conſtructions and Purpoſes whatſoever, as if they and every of them were born within the Realm of England.

“ 3. That His Majeſty's liege People of this Colony have enjoyed the Right of being governed by their own Aſſembly in the Article of Taxes and internal Police; and that the ſame hath never been forfeited or any other Way yielded up, but hath been conſtantly recognized by the King and People of Britain.

“ 4. That therefore His Majeſty, or his Subſtitutes, together with the General Aſſembly of this Colony, have in their repreſentative Capacity the only excluſive Right to lay Taxes and Impoſts upon the Inhabitants of this Colony; and that every Attempt to veſt ſuch Power in any Perſon or Perſons whatever, other than the General Aſſembly aforeſaid, is unconſtitutional, and hath a manifeſt Tendency to deſtroy Britiſh as well as American Liberty.

“ 5. That His Majeſty's liege People, the Inhabitants of this Colony, are not bound to yield Obedience to any Law or Ordinance, deſigned to impoſe any internal Taxation whatſoever upon them, other than the Laws and Ordinances of the General Aſſembly aforeſaid.

“ And inaſmuch as it hath lately been drawn into Queſtion, how far the People of this His Majeſty's Dominion of Rhode-Iſland, have the Right of being tried by Juries, we earneſtly recommend it to you to procure an Act to be paſſed, if it may be done, declaring that the Courts of Common Law only, and not any Court of Admiralty have, and ought to have Juriſdiction in all Cauſes growing and ariſing in this Colony on account of levying or collecting any internal Taxes, or of any Matters relating thereto. And that ſuch proceſs and Way of Trial ſhall hereafter be had and uſed in ſuch Matters, as have been uſual and accuſtomed Time out of Mind: And further that no Decree of any Court of Admiralty reſpecting theſe Matters ſhall be executed in this Colony.

“ We think that an Addreſs of Thanks ought to be voted by the General Aſſembly to thoſe Gentlemen, who diſtinguiſhed themſelves, at the laſt Seſſion of Parliament, in Defence of Liberty and the Colonies; in particular to General Conway and Col. Isaac Barre.

“ As to other Matters, not of ſuch general Concernment as the foregoing, we leave their Management to your Prudence and Judgment, in which we put the greateſt Confidence.”

NEW-LONDON, Auguſt 30.

Laſt Saturday arrived here, in 17 Days from St. Euſtatia, Capt. William Rockwell, who gives the following Intelligence, viz. That two Days before he ſailed, they receiv'd Advice of a violent Gale of Wind or Hurricane at Guadaloupe, in which 14 Sail of large Veſſels, and ſundry ſmall Craft, were drove aſhore, and near all loſt. A violent Gale of Wind forced Capt. Rockwell with a Number of others, out from St. Euſtatia, which he imagines did conſiderable Damage.

On Thurſday the 22d Inſtant, at 6 o'Clock, P. M. was exhibited on a Gallows erected for that Purpoſe, in the moſt publick Part of this Town, the Effigy of a Perſon ſuſtaining the Office of Diſtributor of Stamps, with a Boot placed a little back of his right Shoulder, wherein was concealed a young Imp of the D—l, peeping out of the ſame, in order to whiſper in his Ear. On the Breaſt of the Effigy was a Stamp-Act, under which was an Inſcription in praiſe of Liberty. In this Poſture the Effigy continued about an Hour; it was then taken down, and the Inhabitants and others increaſing, it was placed on a Pole, and in that Manner carried through the main Street, attended by People of all Profeſſions, and Denominations, and accompanied with various Kinds of Muſick, Guns, Drums, &c. and inceſſant Acclamations of the Multitude, the Number far exceeding whatever has been known to aſſemble in this Place on any Occaſion; an evident Demonſtration of their Thirſt for LIBERTY, and Deteſtation of STAMP-ACTS: After finiſhing their Rout thro' the Town, and arriving at the Place of Aſſignation, a Halter was placed round the Neck of the Effigy, which was again ſuſpended in the Air, on a Gallows, and a Bonfire being erected under it, the ſame was conſumed: During this Exhibition the Guns on the Battery were repeatedly diſcharged, and even the Children crying, “ THERE HANGS A TRAYTOR, THERE's AN ENEMY TO HIS COUNTRY,” &c. after which, the Mobility, Gentry, &c. diſperſed to different Taverns, and after drinking ſome loyal Toaſts, the whole was concluded with the greateſt Decorum.——

We hear from Newport, Rhode-Iſland, that the Inhabitants of that Town, as a Proof of their Zeal againſt Stamp-Acts, on Tueſday laſt erected a Gallows near the Court-Houſe, on which was exhibited three Effiges, the Centre One was their Stamp Maſter, with an S on his Forehead, and the Word Stampman in Capitals on his Breaſt, with a Stamp Act in his Hand; at his right Hand hung Martinus Scriblerus; his Neck, and that of his Accomplice were connected with a Rope, to which was appended a Paper with this Inſcription, We have an hereditary, indefenſible Right to an Halter, beſides, we encouraged the raiſing of Hemp, you know; in his Right Hand he held the Halifax Letter, and on his Right Arm was The only filial Pen; from his Mouth iſſued this Label, What avails my boaſted Independance, Poſterity will curſe my Memory; and on his left Arm this Sentence, Curs'd Abition, accurſed Clan, ye have ruined me; On the Stampman's left Hand hung Doct. M———t, with the Letter S on his Forehead, and on his Breaſt this Inſcription, That formal, miſcreated, leering Jacobite Doct. M———; out of his Mouth iſſued this Label, We cannot complain Martinus, we deſerve this and more; in his right Hand he held a Letter from the E. of B—, directed to that Mawgazine of Knowledge Doct. M——— Rhode-Iſland; on his right Arm, If I had received this Letter from the Earl of B— but a little ſooner; and on his left Arm, It is too late now Martinus, to tack about, we are all aground, over his left Shoulder was hung a Jack Boot, out of which iſſued a Claw, repreſenting the Devil taking him by the Throat; on one of the Poſts of the Gallows, Whoever attempts in any Way whatever to render ineffectual this Mark of public Contempt, will be deemed an Enemy to Liberty, and incur the Reſentment of their Country.

We hear from Windham, that on the Morning of the 26th Inſtant, a certain ever memorable and reſpectable Gentleman, made his Appearance in Effigie, ſuſpended between the Heavens and the Earth, (as an Emblem of his being fit for neither) he was cloathed in white and black, with a View to repreſent the great Contraſt of his Character, he once indeed (to his praiſe be it ſpoken) when in public Truſt reflected Honor upon himſelf and Country, but now, O deteſtable Change! has for the Sake of a pitiful Penſion, baſely undertaken to be the Tool of Oppreſſion, and to ſpread Miſery and Poverty among his Friends and Brethren of this Colony, by collecting from them the ſmall Remains of Wealth they are now poſſeſſed of.

Now as each Beaſt of Prey, tho' pinch'd for Food,
Yet ſpares his Brother Native of the Wood;
So holds he ſtill cloſe Union with the Devil,
To Virtue only and his Friends uncivil.

A little above him was repreſented the Enemy of all honeſt Men, with a Piece of Stampt Paper in his Hand offering it to him, but by his Aſpect appeared very doubtful of Succeſs.—Underneath was written theſe Mottos, viz. LIBERTY, in Capitals; below, May this be the Fate of all Enemies to Liberty and Property. On the other Side, Property; below, Behold the Man who prefers his private Intereſt to publick Truſt. They continued in this Poſition 'til Evening, when there was a prodigious Concourſe of People gathered, the Effigies were taken down, and carried through the Town, attended by a large Proceſſion, with the loudeſt Acclamations of the People——The Proceſſion being ended, the Effigies were conſumed in that Element which is the moſt proper to blot out the blackeſt Crimes by an intire Demolition of the Object.

Lebanon, Auguſt 27, 1765. Yeſterday was held in this Town, a ſpecial Court for the Trial of a certain Criminal, late A---t for this Colony: He made his Appearance at the Bar of ſaid Court, in the Perſon of his Virtual Repreſentative, and was denied none of the juſt Rights of Engliſhmen, being allowed the ſacred Privilege of Trial by his Peers, &c.—After a full Hearing, he was ſentenced to be taken from the tribunal of Juſtice, placed in a Cart, with a Halter about his Neck, carried in Proceſſion thro' the Streets of the Town, to expoſe him to juſt Ignominy and Contempt, and then, to be drawn to the place of Execution and hanged by the Neck 'til dead, and afterwards to be committed to the Flames, that if poſſible he might be purified by Fire; which Sentence was immediately executed amidſt a vaſt Concourſe of Spectators exulting in the Proſpect of Liberty. On the right Hand of the Priſoner ſtood the grand Seducer of Mankind, offering him a Purſe and hiſſing this Propoſal, Accept this Office and Inſlave your Country, and 400 l. per Annum, ſhall be our Reward. His injured Country, repreſented by a Lady dreſſed in Sable, with Chains rattling at her Feet, was placed on the other Side, thus pleading with her baſe, unnatural Child.—My Son! remember that I have treated you with the utmoſt Tenderneſs, and beſtow'd on you my higheſt Honours, pity your Country, and put not on me thoſe Chains: to which her ungrateful, degenerate Son replied, in a Label proceeding from his Mouth, Periſh my Country, ſo that I get that Reward: upon the utterance of which, ſuch indignant Wrath ſwell'd the Boſom of this venerable Matron, that her Power of Speech fail'd; yet the Sentiments of her Heart appeared glowing in Capital Characters upon her Breaſt, in the following Words:

“———Heaven cruſh thoſe Vipers,
Who, ſingled out by a Community,
To guard her Rights, ſhall for a graſp of Ore,
Or paltry Office, ſell them to the Foe.”

Which awful, prophetic and parental Curſe preſently took Place: for as ſoon as this Repreſentative was exhibited inſtantly to excite a meet Abhorrence and Deteſtation of his Crimes, being protected by a ſtrong Guard, from the Rage of the Populace, thro' the whole Proceſſion; and after hanging till he was dead, was cut down and delivered into the Power of his falſe Friend and Seducer, who according to his uſual Practice, chang'd from a Tempter to a Tormentor; plunging his Priſoner headlong into a huge Pyramid of Fire, and followed him immediately himſelf, with his mighty Paws barring faſt the Gates of this ſuitable Habitation: Mean while the Heavens reſounded with Acclamations and loud Huzzas: Nor did a weeping Eye or relenting Heart hinder or allay any Demonſtration of Joy, which an ardent Love of Liberty could inſpire in the Breaſts of her moſt virtuous Sons.

NEW-YORK, Auguſt 29.

By the Brigs Hope, Capt. Bilſon, and Rebecca, Wood, arrived at Philadelphia from Barbados, we hear, that on the 30th of July there was a violent Hurricane there, which drove 7 Sloops and Schooners on Shore, moſt of which would be loſt, two belonging to Barbados, one to Bermuda, one to Philadelphia, and two to Maryland. On the firſt of Auguſt, they had a Hurricane at St. Euſtatia and St. Kitts, which did little Damage. And on the 7th another violent Gale began, when Capt. Campbell in the Brig Tryal from St. Euſtatia, who brings the News, cut and run, but fears there was much Damage, as the Gale was extremely violent.

A ſorrowful Accident happened at Staten Iſland laſt Wedneſday, viz. One Mrs. Merſereau of that Place, driving a Waggon with only two Children in it, in going down a ſmall Hill, one of the Reins gave Way, and ſhe pulling the Horſes at the ſame Time, tumbled out of the Waggon, and one of the Wheels going over her Breaſt, killed her on the Spot.

BOSTON, Auguſt 29.

By his Excellency FRANCIS BERNARD, Eſq; Captain-General, &c.

WHEREAS towards Evening on the 26th Day of Auguſt Inſtant, a great Number of People unlawfully and riotouſly aſſembled themſelves together in the Town of Boſton, armed with Clubs, Staves, &c. and with great Noiſe and Tumult did firſt of all attack the Dwelling-Houſe of William Storer, Eſq; Deputy-Regiſter of the Court of Admiralty within this Province, break his Windows, and with Force and Violence enter his ſaid Office wherein the Books and Files belonging to the ſaid Court were lodged, and did ſcatter, burn or deſtroy the ſame, and moſt of his own Papers, and Papers belonging to other Perſons then in his Cuſtody, and did damage and deſtroy a great Part of his Furniture. After which the ſaid riotous People, or other Rioters, did proceed to the Dwelling-Houſe of Benjamin Hallowell, Eſq; Comptroller of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms for the Port of Boſton, break down the Fence before it, break his Windows and at Length with Force and Violence enter the ſaid Houſe, damage and deſtroy the Wainſcot and Furniture of the ſame, drink and deſtroy the Liquors in his Cellars, take away his Wearing-Apparel, break open his Deſk and Trunks, and take out all his Papers, and about thirty Pounds Sterling in Money.

AND WHEREAS theſe or other riotous People did on the ſame Night attack, the Dwelling-Houſe of the Honorable Thomas Hutchinſon, Eſq; Lieutenant-Governor of the ſaid Province, and forcibly enter the ſame, break down and deſtroy the Wainſcot and Partitions therein, leaving the Houſe a mere Shell from Top to Bottom, break and deſtroy every Window of the ſaid Houſe with all the Furniture belonging thereto, deſtroy or carry off all the Wearing-Apparel, Jewels, Books and Papers of every Kind belonging to his Honour and his Family, drink, take away or deſtroy eight Pipes and three Quarter Caſks of Wine, and every [illegible] Kind ſoever in his Cellars, and carry off about Nine Hundred Pounds Sterling in Money, together with all his Honour's Plate, pillaging and deſtroying every Thing in the ſaid Houſe of what Kind ſoever; and did afterwards deliberately cut down the Cupola or Lantern on Top of the Houſe, and uncover great Part of the Roof; the ſaid People continuing thus riotouſly and tumultuouſly aſſembled the whole Night and until Day light the next Morning, committing divers Outrages [illegible] and threatning the Cuſtom-Houſe, and the Houſes of divers Perſons, to the great Terror of his Majeſty's liege Subjects.

I have therefore thought fit, with the Advice of his Majeſty's Council, to iſſue this Proclamation, requiring all Juſtices of Peace, & all Officers civil and military, to uſe their utmoſt Endeavours for diſcovering, apprehending and bringing to Juſtice, all and every the Perſons concerned in the unlawful Proceedings aforeſaid; and alſo requiring them to uſe their utmoſt Endeavours for preventing all ſuch tumultuous Aſſemblies and Outrages for the future.

And I do hereby promiſe a Reward of THREE HUNDRED POUNDS for the Diſcovery of the Leader or Leaders, Director or Directors, of any of the Parties aforeſaid, ſo that he or they may be apprehended and convicted, and a Reward of ONE HUNDRED POUNDS for the Diſcovery of any other Perſon of ſuch Parties or of any Perſon aiding, aſſiſting or adviſing to any of the Outrages aforeſaid, who ſhall be apprehended and convicted as aforeſaid. And any Perſon concerned in any of the riotous Proceedings aforeſaid, (ſuch principal Leaders or Directors only excepted) ſhall over and above the Reward aforeſaid, upon Diſcovery of any of his Accomplices, receive his Majeſty's free and gracious Pardon.

FRA. BERNARD.

An Account of the extraordinary Proceedings in this Town on Monday Night laſt being included in his Excellency's Proclamation, prevents our giving any Particulars.

Saturday laſt Capt. Spear arrived here from S. Carolina, in 10 Days, by whom we learn, That the Commiſſioners appointed by the General Aſſembly of that Province, were to ſet out in a few Days for New-York, in order to meet the Commiſſioners of the other Governments at that Place, the 1ſt of October next, to conſult together on the Circumſtances of the Colonies, relating to the Stamp-Act, &c.

We hear that the Hon. James Otis, jun. Eſq; Brigadier-General Ruggles, and Col. Partridge, are the Committe appointed from the Maſſachuſetts to meet at the above Congreſs: and that each of them are allowed One Hundred and ten Pounds ſterling, to defray the expence of their Journey thither.

Capt. Daverſon in a Ship from London is hourly expected to arrive here.—'Tis ſaid that he has the Stamp Paper on board, for this and the other New-England Governments, which we hear exceeds FORTY TONS.

It is ſaid Mr. Oliver will land the ſtamped Papers at the Caſtle, and that he will not diſtribute them, unleſs the General Court ſhall deſire it. Query, What have the General Court to do with the Stamp-Office?

HARTFORD.

THE Jews valued themſelves upon their Freedom; “ We be Abraham's Seed,” ſay they, “ and were never in Bondage to any Man.” For this Reaſon, after they were brought under the Roman Yoke, they beheld the Publicans, or Roman Tax-gatherers with the utmoſt Reluctancy: In Reverence to the Memory of their loſt Freedom, and in Token of the Senſe they had of preſent Impoſitions, they unanimouſly treated the Name and Profeſſion of a Publican, with Reproach, as the moſt odious Thing in the World; and I am a little miſtaken if our Saviour himſelf did not approve of that Contempt with which they treated theſe Tribute-Exacters, when ſpeaking of proper Conduct towards an obſtinate, incorrigible Brother he ſays, “ Let him be unto thee as an heathen Man and a Publican.”—'Tis certain that the Preſent of a Publican was no more accepted at the Temple, than “ The Hire of a Whore, or the Price of a Dog.”—There were of theſe Publicans, two Sorts; ſome were General Publicans, who in every Province had their Deputies and Under-Publicans; of the Former of theſe was little Zacheus, “ who was Chief among the Publicans, and he was rich:” To each of theſe the Jews bore implacable Hatred, and ſtrove to the utmoſt to ſtigmatize their Office, becauſe therein was preſented a ſtanding Monument of their Slavery. Nor can I imagine that the Office of Stamp-diſtributer will be leſs odious to the People of this Country, than that of Publican was to the Jews.---And when I hear of the various Methods taken to caſt Reproach upon the Office; I look upon human Nature [illegible] thouſand Years ago---[illegible] Zacheus', or chief Publicans, meet with ſo many Tokens of Reſentment and Deriſion, it would be prudent for thoſe that are gaping and begging for the Office of Under-Publicans to conſider whether the Gain of their ſervile Employment will compenſate for the Reproach and Contempt they are likely to incur.

We are informed that Auguſtus Johnſon, Eſq; Diſtributer of Stamps for Rhode-Iſland Colony, hath openly declared that he will not attempt to execute the Office againſt the Will of our Sovereign Lord the People, to uſe his own Words.

It is ſaid that Meſſ. [illegible] and M'Evers, Stamp-Officers for New-York, have reſign'd.

We hear, that Capt. Goodwin of this Town, in a Sloop from Say-Brook, is aſhore at Barbados.

BENJAMIN HENSHAW,
of Middletown,

WANTS to purchaſe more than a thouſand Buſhels of Flax-Seed, and will give the higheſt market Price for all brought to him, either in Goods, Salt or Caſh.---He deſires all that owe him, to pay him in that Article, or Caſh, or ſome other Produce ſpeedily, that will anſwer, to prevent further Trouble.

A Large, bright bay Horſe has lately ſtray'd from ſaid Henſhaw, from the Paſture of Mr. Daniel Foot of Simsbury, [illegible] Hands high, no Brand [illegible] paces altogether, was bred at Harwinton, Whoever takes up and conveys him either to Mr. [illegible] Enſign, or Mr. John Marſh, in New-Hartford, or the ſaid Henſhaw in Middletown, ſhall be well rewarded, and all neceſſary Charges paid by [illegible] Henſhaw.

THERE will be ſold at ſaid Henſhaw's Vendue, on Tueſday the [illegible] of September next, a large Parcel of beautiful, neweſt-faſhion Paper-Hangings for Rooms. And on the Tueſday following, the 17th, will be ſold a great Aſſortment of neweſt-faſhion, white ſtone Crockery Ware, ſuch as Molaick Diſhes and Plates, ſprig'd [illegible] Cups and Saucers, &c. &c. &c.---The Tueſday following, will be ſold almoſt all Sorts of [illegible] Kettles, & Copper Tea-Kettles.---[illegible] which will be the 1ſt of October, [illegible] great Variety of Hatter's Trimmings, Laces, Loopings, Buttons, Frogs, &c. and a large Quantity of Watch-maker's Ware &c. Watch Glaſſes, Keys, Seals and Strings, and a great Quantity of [illegible] Hair-bruſhes, Ribbons, &c. &c. &c.

Middletown, [illegible] 1765.

To be ſold, at the Heart and Crown,
Oppoſite the State-House, in HARTFORD:

PLAIN and gilt Bibles—Common Prayer Books, plain & gilt—Teſtaments—Dillworth's Spelling Books———Pſalters———Death of Abel, neatly bound and gilt, Ditto, ſtitch'd—Tryal of Abraham—Watts's Pſalms—Tate and Brady's, Ditto—Penitential Cries—Royal Primmer—Reading, no Preaching—WAR, an Heroic Poem——Mayhew's Thankſgiving Sermons, Ditto, on Popiſh Idolitry—Winthrop's Voyage from Boſton, to Newfoundland, to obſerve the Tranſit of Venus, June 1, 1761.—The Rights of the Britiſh Colonies—Mather's Diſſertations, concerning the venerable Name of JEHOVAH—New-England's Proſpect: Being a true, lively, and experimental Diſcription, of that Part of America, called New-England, by William Wood.—Small Hiſtories, Plays, &c.———2, 3, 4, and 5 Quire Account Books, Copy Books, Dutch Quills, and Pens—Slates—Wafers in Boxes—Red and black Sealing-Wax—Memorandum-Books—Pewter and Lead Ink-Stands—Leather Ink-Pots—Temple and common Spectacles, in Caſes—Painted Ink-Cheſts—Holman's genuine Ink-Powder—Horn-Books—WRITING-PAPER, &c.

TO be ſold by Us the Subſcribers, One certain Farm of Land, belonging to the Eſtate of Aſahel Miſs, late of Cornwall, in Litchfield County, deceas'd (repreſented Inſolvent) containing in the Whole, about 160 Acres, ſituate in Cornwall aforeſaid, with a good Dwelling Houſe and Barn on the ſame, and is chiefly under Improvements. Likewiſe a good Saw-Mill, and will be ſold at a reaſonable Price, and a good Title will be given. Alſo a Set of Furnace Irons. For Terms of Sale, inquire of Nathanael Moss, } Adminiſtrators.

Thomas Porter, }

TAKEN up, Auguſt 26, 1765, and ſecur'd in Hartford Goal, a Negro Man, aged about 22 Years, of a yellow Complection, a thick ſet Fellow, about 5 Feet 5 Inches in Height, ſpeaks good Engliſh, and is a ſmart, active Fellow. Had with him when found, a blue mix'd-colour'd Coat, and ſtrip'd Veſt, two Frocks, and a Felt Hatt bound with Linen; and ſundry other Cloathing; had a Sore, or ſmall Scar over the right Eye, about an Inch long.--- ISAAC PITKIN.

STray'd from a Paſture in Weſt Hartford, about a Fortnight ſince, one bay Dutch Horſe, about 13 Hands high, Branded on the near Thigh (Letter forgot) ſhod round, trots altogether.---

Likewiſe a bay Dutch Mare, about 13 Hands high, Branded on both her fore Hoofs AB, the Letters join'd together, and the A not croſſed; ſhe is alſo branded on her near Thigh H, ſhod before and Toe-cork'd—trots all.—Whoever will find and return ſaid Strays to Hartford, ſhall receive a handſome Reward, and Payment of all Charges, by appplying to Abraham Beach.

Hartford, 2d September, 1765.

TO be ſold at Public Vendue, the Dwelling-Houſe and Farm of Ghiles Kilborn, at the Dwelling-Houſe of Capt. Solomon Buel at Litchfield, upon Friday the 27th Day of September A. D. 1765, at 5 o'Clock Afternoon. Said Houſe is two Story high, with 5 Rooms on the lower Floor. The Premiſes have a good Barn, Orchard, &c. A good Soil, well watered, containing about 20 Acres, pleaſantly ſituated, about 2 Miles and a Half Weſt of Litchfield State-Houſe, on the public Road to Kent and New-Milford, near the Griſt-Mill, and the other Mills by Clemons's Iron Works, for ſix Months Credit, to which a good Title will be given. For further Particulars enquire of Reynold Marvin, at Litchfield, or the Subſcriber.

Ghiles Kilborn.

Auguſt 23d, 1765.

STRAY'D or Stolen from David Buſh of Pittsfield, a large black Mare, a few white Hairs in the Face a natural Pacer, and when ſhe joggs turns her Tail to the left Side, no Brand. Whoever ſhall bring ſaid Mare to ſaid Buſh, ſhall have twenty Shillings Reward and all neceſſary Charges paid him; and if the Thief be found and convicted, he ſhall have Eight Dollars, paid by David Bush.

Laſt Week died at New-Haven, Mr. Daniel Hubbard of that Town, Apothecary.

The new Spaniſh Governor of the Havannah, Don Diego Manrique, died the 18th Day after his Arrival; the Government devolved to the Lieutenant Governor.

On Saturday laſt was publiſhed at Providence, a Gazette extraordinary, with the following Frontiſpiece, in large Letters, VOX POPULI, VOX DEI. Underneath, Where the Spirit of the LORD is, there is LIBERTY. St. Paul.

The Piece ſign'd A Farmer, came too late for this [illegible]

ALL Perſons indebted to us the Subſcribers, either by Bond, Note or Book, are hereby notified and caution'd to beware of repeated, pompous Advertiſements, inſerted in the Connecticut Courant, ſigned, Thomas Davidſon, & Comp. wherein they inſinuate to the Public, that they import their Goods immediately from the Makers—Which let them believe, who will——Conſider with yourſelves, whether a Company advertiſing & ſelling trifling Articles, at prime Coſt, or leſs, will ſerve you with other Things not ſo commonly known, at the ſame Rate; or, whether 'tis not an Allurement to get a greater Advance, where it may be laid, without Diſcovery, by which poſſibly many may be deceived :—And inform thoſe who are any ways ſo indebted to us, as above, that we expect after ſo long Patience uſed with them, that they diſcharge their reſpective Ballances due to us, forthwith, either in Caſh, or any Kind of Country Produce they have to diſpoſe of, ſuch as Pork, Beef, Wheat, Rye, Indian Corn, and Flax-Seed; all of which we have uſually received as Payments, at the Market Price; and hope no One of them will ſuffer himſelf to be enſnared by ſaid Company's Advertiſement, ſo as to forget the Places where they ought to make Payment; if any does, they may depend on being immediately ſued without Exception, or further Notice; and a ſtrict Enquiry and Obſervation will be made, of any who may attempt to neglect us, and carry any of thoſe Articles to them, before their old Ballances are diſcharged; and we flatter ourſelves, that thoſe who conſider of the above, and the Payments they have made us from Year to Year, muſt be immediately convinced of the difference of the Uſeage they have heretofore received from us, and ſuch Perſons.

N.B. Salt alſo will be exchanged by us, for Flax-Seed.

Samuel Talcot,
Daniel Goodwin,
John Lawrence,
Caleb Bull,
Samuel Olcott,
Samuel Marſh,
William Jepſon,
George Lord,
Eliſha Pitkin,
Lemuel White,
Ruſſell Woodbridge,
Tho's Hopkins,
Abraham Beach,
Nathaniel Ledyard,
Solomon Smith.
P. Thomſon & C°.

Colony of CONNECTICUT.

WHEREAS purſuant to an Act or Law of ſaid Colony, entitled "An Act to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, &c." Ebenezer Coomes of Simſbury, in the County of Hartford, an Inſolvent Debtor; in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors, hath exhibited his Petition with an Account of the Sums by him owing, and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, in the County of Hartford, and Seth Wetmore, Eſq; Juſtice of Peace and Quorum, in ſaid County; praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of, for the Uſe of his ſaid Creditors. Public Notice is therefore hereby given, to all the Creditors of the ſaid Ebenezer Coomes, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Nathaniel Chauncey, Eſq; Inn-holder in Middletown, in ſaid County, on Wedneſday the 18th Day of September next, to ſhew Reaſon, (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of the ſaid Ebenezer Coomes ſhould not be made, and his Perſon diſcharged, according to the Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Act.

Dated the [illegible] of Auguſt, 1765.

* * *

THE Snow NEPTUNE, will ſail from the Port of New-London, for LONDON, in about Two Months from the Date hereof; for Freight or Paſſage, enquire of JOSEPH TRUMBALL at Norwich, or Capt. ROBERT FROUD, of ſaid New-London.

Auguſt, 19, 1765.

Weſt-Hartford, Auguſt 17, 1765.

L*ATELY deſerted Life, in a very diſtreſſed Condition, a black Mare, branded X on the left Shoulder, ſome White in her Face, her hind Feet white, ſundry white Spots on her Back, greatly lamented by a young Colt that is now under the Protection of* Theophilus Steele; The Owner would do well, to come and take Guardianſhip upon him, before the Stamp Act takes Place.

TAKEN up as a Stray, in Hartford, on Friday the 9th Inſtant, a lightiſh Bay Horſe, with three White Feet, a Blaze in his Face, black Main and Tail, paces, trots and gallops, branded with a Figure of 4 on the left Shoulder, about 14 Hands high. The Owner may have him again, on proving his Property, and paying Charges. Inquire of JOHN-PANTRY JONES, at Hartford-Ferry. Auguſt 19th, 1765.

TO be Sold, a neat new RIDING-CHAIR, compleat, and a Chaiſe a little worn, with a Bonnet, both of them well made, in Boſton, by a good Workman; if any Gentleman inclines to purchaſe either or both of them, may have them, on the moſt reaſonable Terms, by applying to PETER VERSTILLE, of Weatherfield.

STOLEN or Strayed out of the Paſture of Mr. SAMUEL FARNSWORTH of Hartford, a Bay, two year old Colt, black Mane and Tail, about 12½ Hands high, branded upon the fore Hoof thus AB had round his Neck a Piece of a Halter. Whoever will take up ſaid Colt and bring him to the Printer hereof, ſhall be handſomely rewarded, and all neceſſary Charges paid.

Joſeph Barret, gives Caſh for FLAX-SEED.

Hartford, 19th Auguſt, 1765

Juſt Imported, and to be ſold very cheap for Caſh

by Tho's Davidſon & Co.

A large Aſſortment of Engliſh and Eaſt-India GOODS, ſuitable for the Seaſon, amongſt which are the following Articles, VIZ.

BLACK, blue, ſcarlet & cloth-colour'd ſuperfine & middling broadcloths,
White flannels,
Cotton velvets,
Women's ditto,
Scarlet & green hair pluſh
Black breeches patterns,
Scarlet ditto,
Blue & crimſon colour'd ſilk ditto,
Black,
Blue,
Saxon green,
Crimſon, &
Clothcolour'd } Callimancoes.
Scarlet,
Pink,
Black,
Blue,
White,
Green,
Red &
Cloth-colour'd, } Rattinets.
Black,
Blue,
Red,
Scarlet,
White &
Cloth-colour'd, } Shalloons.
10-11 nails linen check,
3 4 ditto, & ſtrip'd,
3-4. 7-8, & yard wide 3 8 & 6 4 Cotton & linen checks,
Yardwide ſuperfine ditto beſt patterns,
3 4 & 7-8 dowlaſs,
Scots ozenbrigs,
7-8, & yard wide cambricks,
7-8, & yard wide plain & flower'd lawns,
Black taffaties,
Black & colour'd broad & narrow perſians,
Men & women's ſhoes,
Men & boy's caſtor & felt hats,
Beſt Scots ſnuff,
Hollandrappe in paper'd canniſters,
Pigtail & paper'd tobacco,
6-8-10-12-14 figur'd ribbons,
Ditto paduſoy & ſattin of all colours,
Women's French lamb gloves & mitts,
Silk mitts lined,
Buckhandle table knives & forks,
Bone ditto,
Ivory ditto,
Black ebony ditto,
Cuttoes, large & ſmall,
Penknives of different kinds,
Gimblets all Sizes.
Braſs candleſticks,
Grid irons,
Shoemaker's awls,
Pegging awls for ditto,
Pad locks ſorted,
Sleeve buttons all ſorts,
Paper ſnuff boxes
Maſon's ditto,
Common ditto of different kinds,
Silver ſhoe buckles,
Black ſhoe & knee ſteel ditto,
Stone ditto,
Pinchbeck ſundry ſorts ditto,
White & yellow metaldo.
Jews harps,
Frying pans,
Metal buttons,
Horn ditto,
Double waſh'd buttons,
Silver'd ditto,
Beſt ballendine ſewing ſilk of all colours,
Sagatheys,
Cardinal ſilk,
Dark & olive-colour'd thickſetts, & fuſtians,
Dyed pelongs & jeans,
Cotton allopeans,
8, 9, 10, 11, 12 nails,
Linen handkerchiefs,
7-8 & yard wide ditto,
Printed blue & red ditto,
7-8 & yard wide black barcelona ditto,
Black Cravatts ditto,
Cotton ſtripes,
Cotton & linen ditto,
Beſt ſilk mitts, plain & open work,
Gloves ditto,
Black & buff colour'd worſted ditto, plain & trim'd,
Cotton ditto,
Black & white, plain & ribbed ſilk hoſe,
Worſted ditto,
Brown & white thread ditto,
Venetian poplins,
Figur'd ſtuffs,
6-4, & 7-4 bed bunts,
Bed ticking,
Midling & narrow ſtrip'd tapes,
Broad & narrow white ditto,
Gartering,
Quality binding, broad & narrow,
Black alimode,
Black & colour'd ſattin & peelong,
Brown & white bucrams
Sectorſoy romal ſilk hands,
Shirt buttons,
Silk & hair ſcarf twiſt,
Buttons all colours,
7-8 & 9-8 wide ſheeting dark & light,
Ground callicoes, 12 & 18 yard pieces,
Pencil ditto,
Forniture ditto,
Dark & light ground chintzs,
Printed cottons,
Women and children's fans,
Ivory ditto,
Black & white thread lace,
Stamp'd ſilk ditto,
Gymps, broad & narrow
Silk fringe, of different kinds,
Braſs cocks,
Watch keys,
Briſtol ſtone buttons ſet in ſilver,
Peable ſtone ſet in ditto,
Wool cards,
Cloth bruſhes,
Silver watches,
Necklaces & ear-rings,
7 by 9 & 8 by 10 window glaſs,
China bowls,
Variety of cups & ſaucers
Chapes & tongs,
Gin in caſes or by the gallon,
Beſt velvet corks,
Empty bottles by the groce or doz.
Teneriff wine by the pipe, or ſmaller quantity, or by the doz.
Rum by the hogſhead, or ſmaller quantity,
Bohea tea warranted of the beſt kind,
Loaf ſugar,
Writing paper of different kinds,
Grey ditto by the ream or quire,
Pocket books of different kinds,
Playing cards,
Nankeens,
Hard ſoap,
Scots tartin,
Green holland,
Punch ſpoons,
Shammy linings,
Black and white ſilk gauze,
Flower'd ditto,
A ſmall eſſortment of Glaſs ware, viz.
Quart decanters,
Pint ditto,
Half pint ditto,
Wine ditto,
Bear ditto,
A few ſaddlary goods to be ſold very low, viz.
Men & women's ſaddles of different kinds,
Bridles of different kinds
Cruppurs,
Mail ſtraps, &c.
And a great many other articles too tedious to mention in an advertiſement; all which will be ſold, to encourage the cuſtomers at a very ſmall advance.

N. B. Flax-Seed, Pork and Beef in Hand, will be eſteemed as Caſh, and the higheſt Price will be given that can be afforded, to encourage the Raiſers thereof. Thoſe Traders in the Country, who take in Flax-Seed, may depend upon having as much for their Seed here, as it will fetch in New-York, deducting Freight; as we ſhall ſhip what Quantity we purchaſe, at Middletown, for Ireland.

‡‡† In a Fortnight's Time will be inſerted in this Paper, a Method for the Publick, to ſave their ASHES, and prepare them for the Market, which will be of more Advantage to them than diſpoſing of them in the Manner they do: And it is to be hoped thoſe who have any Quantity now by them, will not diſpoſe of them until they ſee the above Method laid down to them, and may then judge for themſelves which will be beſt for them to do; as it is entirely planned for the Benefit of the Public, by their humble Servants,

Thomas Davidſon, & Comp.

Any Perſon or Perſons, that could contract to get 50,000 Pipe-ſtaves, may hear of a Purchaſer by applying to the above Company, and likewiſe know the Time they would be allowed to get them in.

T. D. & C.

HARTFORD, Printed by THOMAS GREEN, oppoſite the State-Houſe.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1765. NUMBER 42.

The Connecticut COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

From the BOSTON EVENING-POST.

Bondage is Ign'rance, and he that ſees,
Needs no directer Cure for that Diſeaſe;
Knowledge and Liberty go Hand in Hand,
Fools only will obey, when Knaves command.
[illegible]
When once he ſees, he muſt the Grievance [illegible]

N. B. Theſe Lines may be found in a Poem called CALEDONIA.

IT is well obſerv'd by an ingenious political writer, "That the firſt article of ſafety in Princes & States, lies in avoiding all councils, or deſigns of innovation, in ancient and eſtabliſhed forms and laws, eſpecially thoſe concerning liberty, property and religion; which are the poſſeſſions men will ever have moſt at heart, and be moſt tenacious of retaining: By avoiding which deſigns of innovation, they will leave the channel of known and common Juſtice clear and undiſturbed.

The next thing wherein that ſafety conſiſts, is, purſuing the true and common intereſts of the nation or people they govern; without eſpouſing thoſe of any party or faction; or if theſe are ſo formed in a ſtate, that they muſt incline to one or other,---then to chuſe or favour that which is moſt popular, or that wherein the greateſt or ſtrongeſt part of the people appear to be engaged. For as the end of government appears to be ſolus populi, ſo the ſtrength of the government is the conſent of the people: whence aroſe the maxim of Vox Populi, Vox Dei: that is, the Governors who are but few, will ever be forced to follow the ſtrength of the governed, who are many, let them be either people or armies by which they govern.——The people are the bulk of mankind, for whoſe ſake, it is not amiſs to believe, that government was originally erected."——

Theſe very juſt and pertinent obſervations, muſt naturally lead us into ſome reflections on the preſent unhappy ſituation of affairs in the northern colonies. The people inhabiting the ſeveral governments in North-America, are generally true and loyal ſubjects to the KING, and have for a long time enjoyed the privileges of Britiſh ſubjects, and taſted the ſweets of Engliſh liberty. It is no wonder then, that the moſt diſtant approaches of arbitrary power ſhould ſpread a general conſternation among them. The notices of the STAMP-ACT in particular has rais'd the Alarm, and tranſmitted it thro' the whole continent, and is generally conſidered, as an icroachment, unprecedented and unconſtitutional, pregnant of innumerable woes and calamities, to the oppreſſed people. An Act, which, when it takes place, the evils of it will perhaps be more ſenſibly felt, than at preſent can eaſily be imagin'd. The beſt that can now be ſaid of it is, that it muſt be conſidered as an entering wedge, or introduction to future oppreſſions and impoſitions. ---It is generally thought (and that not without good reaſon) that this Trojan Horſe, this Engine big with exorbitant Miſchiefs, was projected and fram'd in one of the principal northern governments. And if any of the ſons of New-England, deſcended from worthy anceſtors, were concern'd in its formation, with a view to lucrative poſts and employments, how can they hold up their heads, againſt the reproaches and execrations of a juſtly enraged people? Can they think to eſcape the ſcourge of tongues? or that they will not be burleſq'd, and paſquinaded in every News-Paper and lampoon'd by every pamphleteer? But not to dwell upon this diſagreeable ſubject any longer, we ſhall only recommend to ſuch gentlemen a ſerious peruſal of thoſe moſt appoſite lines in Addiſon's Cato.——

O Porcius, is there not ſome choſen curſe,
Some hidden Thunder in the Stores of Heaven,
Red with uncommon Wrath, to blaſt, the Man
Who owes his Greatneſs to his Country's Ruin?

[N. B. This Piece was wrote ſeveral Days before the late Stirs in Boſton.]

FROM the CONNECTICUT GAZETTE.

The following Piece concerns the Liberty and Property of every Freeman of Connecticut, and is therefore recommended to their moſt ſerious and attentive Conſideration.

AS the late Stamp Act occaſions great and univerſal Uneaſineſs in the Minds of the People throughout North-America, and is really a Matter which very nearly affects their intereſts and Liberties, it behoves every Lover of his Country to contribute what he can towards their Relief.

The principal Matters of Grievance complained of are,

1. That it impoſes a Tax upon them without their Conſent, by themſelves or Repreſentatives, and ſo deprives them of a Privilege which has ever been very dear to Engliſhmen, and which they have hitherto enjoyed, and think they have Right to enjoy in common with their Fellow Subjects in Great-Britain, and which, if they are deprived of, they think they cannot, in any proper Senſe, be ſaid to be a Free People.

2. That the Manner in which it is to be collected will occaſion great Trouble and Embarraſment to them in tranſacting their Affairs.

3. That it is a more expenſive, and leſs equal Way of raiſing Money, than their ordinary Way of Taxing.

4. That by ſaid Act, the Juriſdiction of the Court of Admiralty is extended in the Colonies, beyond what was ever tho't expedient or ſafe in Great-Britain, as it ſubjects the Coloniſts to Proſecutions in that Court, for any ſuppoſed Breaches of the Stamp-Act, or any other Revenue Act, and ſo deprives them of the Privilege of being tryed by a Jury, which is as great a Grievance as the Stamp-Duties.

5. That the Tax is impoſed at a Time when they are greatly burthened with publick and private Debts, incur'd by Means of the late War, and when their Trade is greatly burthened and clogg'd, whereby they are deprived of the Means of procuring Money to pay their provincial Taxes, or other Debts; and therefore will greatly diſtreſs the People.

But how to remedy theſe Things, ſeems to be the great Queſtion.

In anſwering which, perhaps the People of the Colonies would not be ſo well agreed as in the Matters of Grievance. But at preſent I can't think of any Method more likely to prove ſucceſsful, than that propoſed by the Hon. Houſe of Repreſentatives, of the Province of Maſſachuſetts-Bay, viz. That the ſeveral Colonies have a Conſultation by Commiſſioners from each, in order to unite in a ſuitable Petition to the King and Parliament, for Relief; for if other Meaſures might be deviſed, agreed upon, and propoſed by the Colonies, for raiſing their juſt Proportions of the general Expence of defending his Majeſty's Dominions in America, (when needful) in a Way which they ſhould think more equal, ſafe and eaſy for them, and conſiſtent with their Rights and Liberties and which might be depenended upon by the Crown; it cannot be reaſonably ſuppoſed, that our gracious Sovereign, or the Parliament of Great-Britain would deſire to inſiſt on Meaſures which juſtly diſquiet and grieve ſo great a Number of his Majeſty's loyal Subjects, merely for the ſake of grieving them.

It muſt be acknowledged neceſſary that there be ſome ſupreme Legiſlative Authority, in every State whoſe Power and Juriſdiction muſt extend to the Whole, but may not be ſo exerciſed as to violate the Rights, Liberties and Properties of particular Perſons, Corporations or Communities, but for their Preſervation and Protection; and it is alſo in the Nature of the Thing, and agreeable to the Spirit and Principles of the Britiſh Conſtitution, fit and neceſſary for the Good of the Whole, that the People, in every Part of the State, who are to be governed in their ordinary and particular Affairs, and taxed, by the Laws of that Power, ſhould alſo be repreſented therein, in order to preſerve a Harmony and mutual Dependence, among all the Parts, to prevent Jealouſies that would otherwiſe naturally ariſe among the People of thoſe Parts not repreſented, and that the Legiſlature may be informed of the true State and Circumſtances of every Part, in order to know how to lay Taxes, and make Laws, ſo as to be equitable and beſt for the Whole. But, as the American Colonies are ſo far diſtant from Great-Britain, it would be very inconvenient for them to ſend Repreſentatives to Parliament; therefore they have been allowed a Power of Legiſlation, in which the People are repreſented, and by whoſe Authority alone internal Taxes have heretofore been impoſed on them. And they have been governed by his Majeſty in Affairs of internal Police in general, by Laws made by their reſpective Legiſlatures. And the Parliament of Great-Britain, as being the Supreme Legiſlature, have extended their Laws to the Colonies---by expreſs Words in ſome Matters of more general Concern to the Nation, (but not in the Article of Taxation) which Laws the Coloniſts have adopted and ſubmitted to, without deſiring or claiming the Privilege of being repreſented in Parliament; and while this is the Caſe, the Colonies may in ſome proper Senſe be ſaid to be govern'd agreeable to that Maxim of the Britiſh Conſtitution, That no Laws are made to bind them without their Conſent: And why may there not be ſome Rule deviſed and fixed by mutual Agreement, between the Parliament of Great-Britain and the Colonies in America, for the Colonies to raiſe their juſt Proportion, of any general Expence proper for them to be charged with, in a Way which their Repreſentative General Aſſemblies ſhall think beſt for the People?

As this is a Matter of general Concern, it may be well for the Freemen in the ſeveral Towns of the Colony of Connecticut, at their next Meeting, to ſhew their Minds in the Affair, by giving ſome ſuitable Inſtructions to their Repreſentatives therein, as it may be of Service to direct and animate them, in their Endeavours for maintaining our Rights and Liberties; and alſo the general Voice of the people, expreſſing their Minds in a dutiful Manner, may be of Weight to incline his Majeſty and the Parliament to grant Relief, in the Matters of Grievance: for it may be truly ſaid of the People of North-America, and of New-England in particular, That they have on all Occaſions, ſhewn their Loyalty and Affection to his preſent Majeſty, and his Royal Predeceſſors of the Houſe of Hanover, and heartily wiſh and pray, that his Majeſty's Reign may be long and proſperous, and for a continued Proteſtant Succeſſion of Kings in that illuſtrious Family, who have ſince their Acceſſion to the Throne of Great-Britain ever been glorious Patrons of Liberty,---in the beſt Senſe of that Word.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.

At a Meeting of the Freeholders and other Inhabitants of the Town of Boſton, on Tueſday the 27th of Auguſt 1765.

THE Town having an utter Deteſtation of the extraordinary and violent Proceedings of a Number of Perſons unknown, againſt ſome of the Inhabitants of the ſame the laſt Night;

VOTED UNANIMOUSLY, That the Select-Men and the Magiſtrates of the Town be deſired to uſe their utmoſt Endeavours, agreeable to Law, to ſuppreſs the like Diſorders for the future, and that the Freeholders and other Inhabitants will do every Thing in their Power to aſſiſt them therein.

Altho' not above two Hours Notice was given, there was as full a Meeting at Faneuil-Hall as has been ever known.

ABOUT Twilight laſt Monday, a ſmall Bonfire appeared to be kindled in King-Street, and rrounded only by a few Boys and Children; but ne of the Fire-Wards perceiving it to riſe to a angerous Height, interpoſed and uſed his Eneavours to extinguiſh or at leaſt to diminiſh it; which ſalutary Attempt, after ſeveral Whiſpers om a Perſon unknown, warning him of Danger, e received a Blow, and ſuch Tokens of Inſult and utrage, as obliged him to deſiſt and take his Derture.

Soon after this, Day-light being ſcarce in, the re gradually decaying, a peculiar Hoop and hiſtle was obſerved to be ſounded from various arters, which inſtantaneouſly drew together a eat Number of diſguiſed Ruffians, (for this Apllation we hope not improperly applied) armed th Clubs, Staves, &c. No ſooner were they aſbled, then Attack was made on the Dwellinguſe of William Story, Eſq; oppoſite the North e of the Court-Houſe; the lower Part of which, ng his Office of Deputy-Regiſter of the Court Vice-Admiralty, was in a few Minutes laid o-: The public Files and Records of that Court, Story's private Papers, Books of Account, &c. oſed to Ravage and Deſtruction, and improved uel to revive the expiring Flames: Little more half an Hour ſufficed them here, for it ſeems h greater Exploits were reſerved for the Heroof the Night.

Boiſterous and intrepid, from this firſt Object of their Rage, they ruſhed onward, encreaſing ſtill in Number and Fury, to the new and elegantly finiſhed Building of Benjamin Hallowell, jun. Eſq; where after tearing down the Fences, breaking the Windows, &c. they at length entered the houſe, and in the moſt ſavage and deſtructive Manner broke and abuſed his Furniture, Chairs, Tables, Deſk, Glaſſes, China, and, in ſhort, every Thing they could lay their Hands on; at the ſame Time purloining his Money, and diſperſing his private Books and Papers, until by the Effect of Wine and the other Stores of his Cellar, they ripened for in Ebriety and Madneſs, and became fit for the next, more deſolating and barbarous Operation.

Towards Ten o'clock they were traced by the Noiſe and Tumult of a numerous and confuſed Rabble to the Manſion-Houſe of His Honor the Lieut. Governor. This ſeemed to be reſerved for the utmoſt Violence of their diabolical Phrenzy; for immediately on the Word given, that large and ſtately Edifice became a Prey to the Iron Hand of Outrage and Robbery; a few Hours and The Houſe was a meer Skeleton, and deprived of Furniture, even Wainſcot and Partition, broke, hacked and mangled: And the Whole by Break of Day, at once a ſad Spectacle of Indignation and Wonder!

In this violent and extraordinary Deſolation, beſides the Houſe and it's Furniture of very conſiderable Value, his honor and his Family ſuſtained, the Loſs of between eight and nine Hundred Pounds Sterling in Caſh, all his Plate, Wearing Apparel, a valuable and coſtly Library, a great Number of private as well as curious and ſcarce Papers and Manuſcripts, and beſides theſe, large Files and Records, occaſionally in his Honor's Poſſeſſion, relating to the Claims and Titles of this Province; all diſperſed, ſtolen, and defaced ſo that the Damage, in it's Coſequences, may be eſteemed publickly as well as privately Injurious.

"To bear one's own Misfortune with Firmneſs, and to feel for others," (the Words on the Occaſion of an honorable and worthy Gentleman who has lately taken his Reſidence among us) is the Part of true Philoſophy; who then can bluſh, or be aſhamed of Sympathy with thoſe who have ſo ſeverely felt the Reſentment of a miſguided and mercileſs Rabble.

The Sufferings of the other Gentlemen, though truly grievous, ſeems to be abſorbed in the greater Misfortune of his Honor and his Family, their Loſs being computed at near twenty five Hundred Pounds Sterling, excluſive of the Building.

The Peace and good Order of the Town has been ever ſince preſerved by a military Watch, which we hope in Time will have a Tendency to allay the preſent ſtrange and tumultuous Spirit; tho' we would not be underſtood, not to diſtinguiſh this from the truly noble Oppoſition to the Impoſition of internal Taxes, without the Intervention of the reſpective Legiſlatures of the Colonies, or an equal Repreſentation, which ſeems to be not only of this Province, but the united Voice of the whole Britiſh Continent.

The Morning after the late Tumult and Devaſtation, being the Time for opening the Superior Court of Judicature, Court of Aſſize, &c. His Honor the Chief Juſtice was obliged to attend, notwithſtanding his great Diſtreſs, there not being a Quorum of Court without him. His Brethren of the Bench, and the Gentlemen of the Bar habited in their reſpective Robes, and he in his only Suit! A Scene truly affecting to every humane and feeling Breaſt.

The following Articles taken among the reſt from the Lieutenant-Governor's Houſe, the 26th Inſtant, if offered to Sale, in this or any other Government, it is deſired they may be ſtopped, or if ſeen in any Perſon's Poſſeſſion, that Notice may be given to either of the Lieutenant-Governor's Sons, at their Warehouſes on the Dock:

A Silver Hilt of a Sword which had been waſh'd with Gold, the Blade is found; two mourning Swords; a chaſed Gold Head of a Cane, with the Lieutenant-Governor's Creſt; a Lady's chaſed Gold Watch, Hook, and Chain; a new faſhion'd Gold Chain and Hook for a Lady's Watch; a Set of large Silver Plate Buttons for Coat and Breeches; two Sets ditto cover'd with Silver Wire, and very uncommon; ſeveral Funeral Rings, particularly one, the late Thomas Lechmere, Eſq; another the late Thomas Hancock, Eſq; ſeveral ancient Coins; a Pair of Ruby Earings ſet in Gold, and Necklace; Garnet Earings and Necklaces in Gold; Paiſt Earings and Necklaces; Stone Girdle Buckles; two Pair Stone Shoe Buckles; two Pair Stone Sleeve Buttons ſet in Gold; rich embroidered chriſtening Blankets, Sleeves, Cradle Quilt and Curtain, and a Set of Child-bed Linen; Gauze Handkerchief and Sattin Apron, both flower'd with Gold; Silk Shoes; brocaded Silk, Paduſoy, Damaſk, Luteſtring Gowns and Petticoats; Head-Cloths and other Linen; Bundles of old Gold and Silver Lace; Bundles of Bone Lace; Silver Spoons; Silver Handle Knives and Forks; Sweetmeat Knives, Forks and Spoons gilt, and other Articles of Plate; a large Octavo Bible, richly Bound, and in an outſide Turkey Leather Caſe, a Direction in one of the defenſive Leaves ſigned by Thomas Coram, Eſq;

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman at New-Port, (Rhode-Iſland) dated Auguſt 29, 1765.

THE Flames of Patriotiſm ſeeme to communicate from Boſton Weſtward; we have been in one continual Riot this three Days. On Tueſday the Effigies of M—t—n H—w—d, Dr. M—ff—t (and A—g—ſtus J—nſ—n our STAMPMAN) were hung and burnt.

In the Morning of the 27th inſt. between 5 and 6 o'Clock a Mob aſſembled, erected a Gallows near the Town-Houſe and diſpers'd, and about 10 o'Clock reaſſembled, when the Effigies of the above Men and the St—mp M—ſt—r, were carted up Thames-Street, and then up King-Street to the ſaid Gallows, where they were hung by the Neck, ſuſpended near 15 Feet in the Air, and about 5 o'Clock in the Afternoon, they made a Fire under the Gallows which conſumed the Effigies and the Gallows together. After the Effigies were burnt, the Mob diſpers'd and we thought it was all over, but laſt Night about Duſk they all muſter'd again, proceeded to the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. Howard and broke every Window in his Houſe, Frames and all, then deſtroyed the inner Part of his Houſe from Garret to Cellar, with the whole Furniture of the ſame, the Damage this Gentleman ſuſtain'd muſt be at leaſt 2500 Dollars; after compleating their Buſineſs at Mr. Howard's, they proceeded to the Houſe of Doctor Moffat, where they behaved much in the ſame Manner, I can't ſay which ſuffer'd moſt, for all the Furniture of both Houſes were entirely deſtrayed, Partitions of the Houſes broken down, Fences levelled, and all the Liquors in both their Cellars were intirely loſt; from thence they proceeded to Mr. Johnſton's, with an intent to do the ſame, but it being under Mortgage, the Perſon who held the ſame appeared at the Houſe with his Papers and Proofs, on examining of which were ſatisfied and quitted the Houſe; from this they proceeded to attack our Collector, but he having with the other Gentlemen taken ſhelter on board the Cygnet could not be got at. Mr. Johnſon has been obliged to appeaſe the Mob, and for the Safety of his Life to iſſue a printed Reſignation, ſubſcribed by an Oath, that he will not execute the Stamp-Act. I am, &c.

To the Inhabitants of the Town of Newport.

GETLEMEN, As I find my being appointed the Stamp-Officer of this Colony has irritated the People of this Town againſt me though the Office was beſtowed on me unaſked, and unthought of: And being willing, as far as it is in my Power, to reſtore Tranquility to the Town, do engage upon my Honor, that I will not accept of ſaid Office, upon any Terms, unleſs I have your Conſent for the ſame.

Auguſtus Johnſon.

Newport, Auguſt 29, 1765.

Newport, ſſ. Perſonally came Auguſtus Johnſton, Eſq; and being duly ſworn on his Oath, did ſolemnly declare and ſay, That the above Declaration, by him made and ſubſcribed, and the Reſignation therein contained, is juſt and true in all its Parts, and his true Intent and Meaning.

Before JOHN GRELEA, Juſt. Peace.

Laſt Tueſday Capt. Richards arrived at New-York, from London, and bro't the following Advices,

LONDON, July 5.

This day a council is ſummoned to meet at St. James's which is ſaid to be relative to ſome intended change in the Miniſtry.—Wedneſday night ſome diſpatches, ſaid to be of importance, were ſent away to the Hon. Mr. York, his Majeſty's Ambaſſador at the Hague.—Yeſterday the Hon. Mr. York, his Majeſty's late Attorney General, had a private conference with his Majeſty upwards of two hours, at the Queen's Palace, before he went to court.—It is now confidently reported that Lord Weymouth will be appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.—Saturday morning his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland had a conference with his Majeſty at Richmond.—Sunday afternoon his Royal Highneſs had a conference with the Duke of Newcaſtle, at Windſor Lodge.—And on Monday morning with his Majeſty at Richmond.---From whence, and from other circumſtances, the report of a change of miniſters, has been revived within a few days. And the changes which have been talked of are as follows:---The Duke of Newcaſtle Preſident of the Council.---The Earl of Winchelſea Firſt Lord of the Admiralty,---Marquis of Rickingham Firſt Commiſſioner of the Treaſury.---Mr. Dowdeſwell, Chancellor of the Exchequer.---The Duke of Graſton and Earl of Egmont, Secretaries of State.---Gen. Conway, Secretary at War.—Lord Albermarle Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

It is ſaid that the reaſon of ſo many negociations having been ſet on foot for a change of Miniſters, is, the ſtorm that threatens us from abroad; and therefore it is found to be of the laſt importance to theſe kingdoms, that Men of the firſt rate abilities ſhould be immediately employed to prepare againſt it. But the misfortune is, that while the Favourite and his Faction hold their abſolute power behind the curtain, thoſe who are both able and willing to ſerve their country, will not hazard their reputation under an influence ſo deteſted and dangerous.—It is remarked, that ſo few and ſo ſmall are the orders from America for our manufactures and goods, that the ſhips lately ſailed thither, have not had half their lading. And it is the univerſal complaint throughout the kingdom, that trade in general, is manifeſtly upon a decline.---To what is this owing?

July 6. It was yeſterday rumoured, that Mr. Pitt and Lord Temple, had only declined accepting a ſhare in the Adminiſtration conditionally; but that ſuch a ſtring of exceptions were made, as to theſe gentlemen's propoſed colleagues, in power, as hitherto greatly diſconcert the general plan of accommodation: however, it was ſaid, [illegible] has at laſt been propoſed, thro' the influence of two great perſonages, to effect a coalition, highly neceſſary at this juncture, for giving weight to our national character, both at home and abroad.—All that is certain concerning a change of Miniſters, is, that the negotiation continues ſtill on foot; and it is thought that many things were ſettled yeſterday [illegible], and other great perſonages.—Tueſday, about noon, Mr. Charles York, went ſuddenly from Lincoln's Inn-hall, to St. James's, and was in conference with his Majeſty upwards of 2 hours.

It is now ſaid that Mr. Pitt and Lord Temple will never accept of any Place under the government; though they have declared they will be ever ready to aſſiſt their country with their Advice, whenever they are called upon by their royal maſter for that purpoſe.—Although a nomination has been made, it is nevertheleſs confidently aſſerted, that a very great difficulty ſtill ſubſiſts with regard to the final appointment of a perſonage proper to fill a very important office of more dignity than profit.—There is a report that the Right Hon. the Marquis of Granby will ſpeedily ſet out on an affair of importance to Hanover.—It is now ſaid that a certain great aſſembly will, for many important reaſons, be ſummoned to attend the ſervice of the nation full three months ſooner than cuſtomary.—Friday morning at 11 o'clock, died at his houſe in Groſvenor-ſquare, ſuddenly, his Grace the Duke of Bolton, Marquis of Wincheſter, and premier, Marquis of England: His Grace is ſucceeded in eſtate and title by his only brother, Lord Harry Paulet, now Duke of Bolton.

St. James's, July 5. His Majeſty in council was this day pleaſed to order, that the Parliament which ſtands prorogued to Thurſday the 11th of this inſtant, be further prorogued to Tueſday the 17th day of September next.

NEW-YORK, September 5.

By a Letter of the 11th of July, we are informed that the Miniſtry was juſt then ſettled; but only a few Particulars known: We are aſſured that the following may be depended on: The Duke of Grafton and Mr. Pitt to be Secretaries of State for the Sourthern Diviſion; Sir George Saville Secretary at War. That none of the Grenville Family are admitted into the new Adminiſtration, but that the Hon. George Grenville is hereafter to be in a capital Poſt; and that the utmoſt Care is taken to render this Change agreeable to all Parties.

Many very reſpectable Names are mentioned beſides the above, but we cannot give them a Place in this Paper until they are better authenticated.

In conſequence of the Addreſs to the King, and Remonſtrances to the Hon. Houſes of Parliament, from the Province of Virginia, the utmoſt Reſentment appeared, but the Reſolves that ſucceeded them were not known in England.

There have been more Diſturbances by the Weavers; at Tiverton in Devonſhire, they aroſe and deſtroyed the Houſe and Manufactories of one of the moſt eminent Perſons in the Weſt of England; in ſhort, the whole Kingdom was in a very convulſed State, when the laſt Advices came away.

Mr. GREEN,

The encloſed Paper is intended to promote the Spirit of Liberty and Freedom; Objects certainly worthy of Americans, who at the preſent Juncture ought as much as poſſible to be on their Guard, when we ſee theſe valuable Privileges in ſuch a Manner attacked by a Set of Men of different Ranks and different Profeſſions from the Judge down to the Bum-Bailiff, Apothecary and their Train. There is Reaſon to hope that the Intention of it will prove its Recommendation to a Place in the CONNECTICUT COURANT, and that the Freedom of the Preſs will not be denied (however mean the Performance) To the Man who dare be honeſt in the worſt of Times. Your Compliance with this Requeſt in your next Paper, will oblige a Number of your beſt Cuſtomers in my Neighbourhood, who may be juſtly ſaid to ſupport the Merchant, Apothecary, Lawyer and Politician, as well as the PRESS and PULPIT.

A FARMER.

TO THE PRINTER.

The real Face returns, the Counterfeit is loſt. SPECT.

THERE appeared in your laſt, a pompous Piece, the crude Eſſay of ſome aſpiring Genius, a mighty Group of Admirers of various Characters, uſhered in the ſame; the Stateſman, the Shop-keeper, Importer and Retaler, Apothecary and Potaſher, Phyſician, Bailiff and Jack-Booter, make up the Junto, and unanimouſly unite ſtrictly to enquire and obſerve any One who neglects them; in ſhort, they need only the Lawyer to compleat their Corps, when with more Eaſe they might both condemn and execute whatever comes in their Way. Many of my Occupation, your good Cuſtomers, ſeem much alarmed at that ſtrange Appearance and Combination; ſome call it a ſecond Stamp Act, and indeed it is ſo virtually; for my own Part, can ſee but two Things wanting to compleat it, one is a Scotchman at the Head, inſtead of the Tail; the other an able Politician, fully ſenſible of his own Importance, to get it actually enacted at the approaching Seſſions; this done, the laſt muſt be worſe than the firſt: Their Language then, as it now is, would really be, No Stranger in the mercantile Way ſhall ſtand among us; the People ſhall buy only of us, and at our Price, and we will have their Produce as we pleaſe; No! my Friends and Fellow-Labourers, it is not our Flax-Seed or Hay-Seed, the laſt of which, but the other Day cauſed ſo much Warmth between two Zealots, lately united; neither is it the open-hearted Traders lately amongſt us, meant to be ſtifled, that makes the Adoe, but we who bear the Heat of the Day are to be kept under. Our Eyes are juſt opened, and they muſt be ſhut! Rouſe you that ſerve the King with the Growth of the Field, join with me to help the generous Dealer; carry him your Produce for his Caſh or his Goods, with his moderate Advance; fear not ſuch Combinations as mean to enſlave us, and if you have got in Arrear to any of them, before their Bailiff, Dun, or Suits can o'er-take us; meet them with that which anſwers all Things; ſee your Debts cancelled; bid Defiance to their Oppreſſive Deſigns, and leave them for the future to quiet their own Inſpectors with Wharves, Lands and old Executions; then in our Turn, we can exact our Price with Righteous Advance.—The Times certainly are turning; Health and Plenty favour Induſtry, and Oeconomy ſeem on the Wing; go no more in their Way: Let the ſanguine Importers vaunt of their ſtately Edifices, we have more generous Spirits than they can afford: the Phyſician and Druggeſt may compound and preſcribe; thank Heaven, there is little Occaſion for them. Liberty that fragrant Flower, ſo natural in theſe happy Climes; tho' lately ſoiled, but now revives, and rears her Head, determines to ſtem the approaching Torrent; her Sons already arm in her Defence: Diſtributors and their Tools, already fall a virtual Victim to their juſt Revenge. Reſignations or the Stake can only ſatisfy the juſt Demand. Let every Thing favoring of ſuch Impoſitions ſhare the ſame Fate. Let Trade revive, Induſtry increaſe, then ſhall we ſee happier Times,

A FARMER.

Colony of CONNECTICUT.

WHEREAS purſuant to an Act or Law of ſaid Colony, entitled "An Act to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, &c."——Iſaac Read of Windſor, in the County of Hartford, an Inſolvent Debtor; in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors, hath exhibited his Petition with an Account of the Sums by him owing, and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, in the County of Hartford, and Seth Wetmore, Eſq; Juſtice of Peace and Quorum, in ſaid County; praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of, for the Uſe of his ſaid Creditors. Public Notice is therefore hereby given, to all the Creditors of the ſaid Iſaac Read, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Nathaniel Chauncey, Eſq; Inn-holder in Middletown, in ſaid County, on Wedneſday the 18th Day of September next, to ſhew Reaſon, (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of the ſaid Iſaac Read ſhould not be made, and his Perſon diſcharged, according to the Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Act. Sept. 7th, 1765.

BY the Hon. JOHN WILLIAMS, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, for the County of Litchfield, in the Colony of Connecticut: Notice is hereby given, that on Application in Writing, by one of the Creditors of Abner Baldwin of Litchfield, in ſaid County, an abſconded and concealed Debtor, for not leſs than Twenty Pounds, being proved by ſaid Creditor's Oath, in purſuance of an Act made and paſſed in the General Aſſembly of ſaid Colony, on the ſecond Thurſday of May, 1765, Entituled, "An Act for preventing Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the uſe of their Creditors, and for the Equitable Diviſion of the Eſtate and Effects of ſuch Debtors, to and among their Creditors." A Warrant hath iſſued, directed to the ſeveral Sheriffs of the Counties, in the ſaid Colony of Connecticut, their Under-Sheriffs & Deputies, and to the ſeveral Conſtables of each and every Town in the reſpective Counts in ſaid Colony (Aſa Hopkins of Litchfield, in Litchfield County excepted) to attach, ſeize and take all the Eſtate and Effects of ſaid Abner Baldwin, for the Uſe of his Creditors; and unleſs ſaid Abner ſhall diſcharge his juſt Debts, or give Security therefor, within 3 Months from the Date of ſaid Warrant, that is to ſay, from the 31ſt of Auguſt, A. D. 1765, to the Satisfaction of ſaid Creditors, for the Payment thereof, all the Eſtate ſo ordered to be attached, ſeized and taken, will be ſold for the Benefit of ſaid Creditors.

FOUND, the 29th of Auguſt laſt, on the Road between Eaſt-Hartford and Glaſſenbury, a Watch, a Pair of Buckles, a Shirt, three Pair of Shoes, and a Pair of Breeches. The Owner may have them again, of the Subſcribers, of Eaſt-Hartford, on proving his Property. Inquire of

John Wadſworth, and Joſeph Porter, jun.

Hartford, September 9th, 1765.

ALL Perſons Indebted to William Knox, by Book, are deſired ſpeedily to ſettle and pay their reſpective Bailances to Thomas Seymour, jun. of Hartford, his Attorney, to prevent Trouble.

Province of Maſſachuſetts Bay.

In COUNCIL, September 5. 1765.

His Excellency ſpoke to the Council in the following Words,

GENTLEMEN,

I Have been informed that it is reported about the Town, that the Stamped Papers are to be lodged in the Caſtle, there to be unpacked and diſtributed. I have frequently in Converſation ſhown the Abſurdity of ſuch a Suppoſition; but as what I have ſaid is perhaps not known, I make this Declaration to you, That I have no Warrant, Order or Authority whatſoever to diſtribute the ſtamped Papers, or to unpack the Bales, or ſeparate the Parcels, or order any Perſon whatſoever to do ſo; that it cannot be conceived that I ſhould be ſo imprudent as to undertake a Buſineſs to which I have no appointment, and make myſelf anſwerable for large Sums of Money, the Receipt of which I cannot attend to, and have no Power to direct or order: What I have done in Purſuance of your Advice, in ordering the ſtamped Papers to be depoſited in the Caſtle, and there to be defended with all the Force of that Fortreſs, was to preſerve them intire and unpacked for his Majeſty's Uſe. In this I have had two Things in View, to prevent imprudent People committing any high Inſult upon the King, an Indignity which would be ſure to meet with particular Reſentment; and to ſave the Town or Province, as it may happen, from being made anſwerable for ſo great a Sum as the Value of the ſtamped Papers will amount to; as they certainly will be, if the ſtamped Papers ſhould be taken away. In providing againſt theſe two Evils, ſurely we are endeavouring to do the Town and Province real and important Service, whatever People in their preſent Temper may think.

NEW-HAVEN, September 6.

This Morning died here, the Hon. DANIEL EDWARDS, Eſq're, after about eleven Days Sickneſs, with a violent nervous Fever. He had been, for many Years, improved in the important Parts of Government, which he always ſuſtain'd with Honor and Fidelity; was, at the Time of his Death, an Aſſiſtant, and one of the Judges of the Superior Court in this Colony, and Judge of Probate for the Diſtrict of Hartford.—A Gentleman of extenſive Knowlege, of known Stability, approv'd Integrity, and an exemplary Chriſtian; in a Word,—a great, a uſeful, and a good Man is in our Iſrael. He has left a very mournful Widow, and one only ſurviving Grandchild. He departed in the 64th Year of his Age. 'Tis ſaid his Funeral is to be attended Tomorrow Afternoon.

HARTFORD, Sept. 9.

A few Days ago, a Cart loaded with Oninions, at Weathersfield, run over a Lad about 12 Years old, and killed him inſtantly.

Doct. Moffatt, and Martin Howard jun. Eſq; of Newport, are both ſail'd for England.

Auguſt 23d, 1765.

STRAY'D or Stolen from David Buſh of Pittsfield, a large black Mare, a few white Hairs in the Face a natural Pacer, and when ſhe joggs turns her Tail to the left Side, no Brand. Whoever ſhall bring ſaid Mare to ſaid Buſh, ſhall have twenty Shillings Reward and all neceſſary Charges paid him; and if the Thief be found and convicted, he ſhall have Eight Dollars, paid by

DAVID BUSH.

TAKEN up, Auguſt 26, 1765, and ſecur'd in Hartford Goal, a Negro Man, aged about 22 Years, of a yellow Complection, a thick ſett Fellow, about 5 Feet 5 Inches in Height, ſpeaks good Engliſh, and is a ſmart, active Fellow. Had with him when found, a blue mix'd-colour'd Coat, and ſtrip'd Veſt, two Frocks, and a Felt Hatt bound with Linen; and ſundry other Cloathing; had a Sore, or ſmall Scar over the right Eye, about an Inch long.--- ISAAC PITKIN.

TO be ſold at Public Vendue, the Dwelling-Houſe and Farm of Ghiles Kilborn, at the Dwelling-Houſe of Capt. Solomon Buel at Litchfield, upon Friday the 27th Day of September A. D. 1765, at 5 o'Clock Afternoon. Said Houſe is two Story high, with 5 Rooms on the lower Floor. The Premiſes have a good Barn, Orchard, &c. A good Soil, well watered, containing about 20 Acres, pleaſantly ſituated, about 2 Miles and a Half Weſt of Litchfield State-Houſe, on the public Road to Kent and New-Milford, near the Griſt-Mill, and the other Mills by Clemons's Iron Works, for ſix Months Credit, to which a good Title will be given. For further Particulars enquire of REYNOLD MARVIN, at Litchfield, or the Subſcriber,

GHILES KILBORN.

BENJAMIN HENSHAW,

OF MIDDLETOWN,

WANTS to purchaſe more than a thouſand Buſhels of Flax-Seed, and will give the higheſt market Price for all brought to him, either in Goods, Salt or Caſh.----He deſires all that owe him, to pay him in that Article, or Caſh, or ſome other Produce ſpeedily, that will anſwer, to prevent further Trouble.

A Large, bright-bay Horſe has lately ſtray'd from ſaid Henſhaw, (out of the Paſture of Mr. Daniel Foot of Simſbury) near 15 Hands high, no Brand, ſhod before (if not all round) paces altogether, was bred at Harwinton. Whoever takes up and conveys him either to Mr. Eliphalet Enſign, or Mr. John Marſh, in New-Hartford, or the ſaid Henſhaw in Middletown, ſhall be well rewarded, and all neceſſary Charges paid by ſaid Henſhaw.

THERE will be ſold at ſaid Henſhaw's Vendue, on Tueſday the 10th of September next, a large Parcel of beautiful, neweſt-faſhion Paper-Hangings for Rooms. And on the Tueſday following, the 17th, will be ſold a great Aſſortment of neweſt-faſhion, white ſtone Crockery Ware, ſuch as Moſaick Diſhes and Plates, Sprig'd Chocolate Cups and Saucers, &c. &c. &c.---The Tueſday following, will be ſold almoſt all Sorts of Pewter, Braſs Kettles, & Copper Tea-Kettles.---The Tueſday following, which will be the 1ſt of October, will be ſold a great Variety of Hatter's Trimmings, Linings, Loopings, Buttons, Frogs, &c. and a large Quantity of Watch-maker's Ware, &c. Watch Glaſſes, Keys, Seals and Strings, and a great Quantity of Barber's Hair, bruſhes, Ribbons, &c. &c. &c.

Middletown, Auguſt 27. 1765.

ALL Perſons indebted to us the Subſcribers, either by Bond, Note or Book, are hereby notified and caution'd to beware of repeated, pompous Advertiſements, inſerted in the Connecticut Courant, ſigned, Thomas Davidſon, & Comp. wherein they inſinuate to the Public, that they import their Goods immediately from the Makers—Which let them believe, who will—— Conſider with yourſelves, whether a Company advertiſing & ſelling trifling Articles, at prime Coſt, or leſs, will ſerve you with other Things not ſo commonly known, at the ſame Rate; or, whether 'tis not an Allurement to get a greater Advance, where it may be laid, without Diſcovery, by which poſſibly many may be deceived:—And inform thoſe who are any ways ſo indebted to us, as above, that we expect after ſo long Patience uſed with them, that they diſcharge their reſpective Ballances due to us, forthwith, either in Caſh, or any Kind of Country Produce they have to diſpoſe of, ſuch as Pork, Beef, Wheat, Rye, Indian-Corn, and Flax-Seed; all of which we have uſually received as Payments, at the Market Price; and hope no One of them will ſuffer himſelf to be enſnared by ſaid Company's Advertiſement, ſo as to forget the Places where they ought to make Payment; if any does, they may depend on being immediately ſued without Exception, or further Notice; and a ſtrict Enquiry and Obſervation will be made, of any who may attempt to neglect us, and carry any of thoſe Articles to them, before their old Ballances are diſcharged; and we flatter ourſelves, that thoſe who conſider of the above, and the Payments they have made us from Year to Year, muſt be immediately convinced of the difference of the Uſeage they have heretofore received from us, and ſuch Perſons.

N.B. Salt alſo will be exchanged by us, for Flax-Seed.

Samuel Talcot,
Daniel Goodwin,
John Lawrence,
Caleb Bull,
Samuel Olcott,
Samuel Marſh,
William Jepſon,
George Lord,
Eliſha Pitkin,
Lemuel White,
Ruſſell Woodbridge,
Tho's Hopkins,
Abraham Beach,
Nathaniel Ledyard,
Solomon Smith.
P. Thomſon & Co.

Colony of CONNECTICUT.

WHEREAS purſuant to an Act or Law of ſaid Colony, entitled "An Act to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, &c." Ebenezer Coomes of Simſbury, in the County of Hartford, an Inſolvent Debtor; in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors, hath exhibited his Petition with an Account of the Sums by him owing, and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, in the County of Hartford, and Seth Wetmore, Eſq; Juſtice of Peace and Quorum, in ſaid County; praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of, for the Uſe of his ſaid Creditors. Public Notice is therefore hereby given, to all the Creditors of the ſaid Ebenezer Coomes, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Nathaniel Chauncey, Eſq; Inn-holder in Middletown, in ſaid County, on Wedneſday the 18th Day of September next, to ſhew Reaſon, (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of the ſaid Ebenezer Coomes ſhould not be made, and his Perſon diſcharged, according to the Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Act.

Dated the 23d of Auguſt, 1765.

Hartford, 19th Auguſt, 1765.

Juſt Imported, and to be ſold very cheap for Caſh,

by Tho's Davidſon & Co.

A large Aſſortment of Engliſh and Eaſt-India GOODS, ſuitable for the Seaſon, amongſt which are the following Articles, VIZ.

BLACK, blue, ſcarlet & cloth-colour'd ſuperfine & middling broadcloths,
White flannels,
Cotton velvets,
Women's ditto,
Scarlet & green hairpluſh
Black breeches patterns,
Scarlet ditto,
Blue & crimſon colour'd ſilk ditto,
Black, Blue, Saxon green, Crimſon, & Clothcolour'd } Calimancoes.
Scarlet, Pink, Black, Blue, White, Green, Red & Cloth-colour'd, } Ratteens.
Black, Blue, Red, Scarlet, White & Cloth-colour'd, } Shalloons.
10-11 nails linen check,
3 4 ditto, & ſtrip'd,
3-4. 7-8, & yard wide 3-8 & 6-4 Cotton & linen checks,
Yardwide ſuperfine ditto beſt patterns,
3-4 & 7-8 dowlaſs,
Scots oznabrigs,
7-8, & yard wide cambbricks,
7-8, & yard wide plain & flower'd lawns,
Black taffaties,
Black & colour'd broad & narrow perſians,
Beſt balendine ſewing ſilk of all colours,
Sagatheys,
Cardinal ſilk,
Dark & olive-colour'd thickſetts, & fuſtians,
Dyed pelongs & jeans,
Cotton allopeans,
8, 9, 10, 11, 12 nails,
Linen handkerchiefs,
7-8 & yard wide ditto,
Printed blue & red ditto,
7-8 & yard wide black barcelona ditto,
Black Cravatts ditto,
Cotton ſtripes,
Cotton & linen ditto,
Beſt ſilk mitts, plain & open work,
Gloves ditto,
Black & buff-colour'd worſted ditto, plain & trim'd,
Cotton ditto,
Black & white, plain & ribbed ſilk hoſe,
Worſted ditto,
Brown & white thread ditto,
Venetian poplins,
Figur'd ſtuffs,
6-4, & 7-4 bed bunts,
Bed ticking,
Midling & narrow ſtrip'd tapes,
Broad & narrow white ditto,
Gartering,
Quality binding, broad & narrow,
Black alimode,
Black & colour'd ſattin & peelong,
Brown & white bucrams
Sectorſoy romal ſilk hands,
Shirt buttons,
Silk & hair ſcarf twiſt,
Buttons all colours,
7-8 & 9-8 wide ſheeting dark & light,
Ground callicoes, 12 & 18 yard pieces,
Pencil ditto,
Furniture ditto,
Dark & light ground chintzs,
Printed cottons,
Women and children's fans,
Ivory ditto,
Black & white thread lace,
Stamp'd ſilk ditto,
Gymps, broad & narrow
Silk fringe, of different kinds,
Men & women's ſhoes,
Men & boy's caſtor & felt hats,
Beſt Scots ſnuff,
Hollandrappe in paper'd canniſters,
Pigtail & paper'd tobacco,
6-8-10-12-14 figur'd ribbons,
Ditto paduſoy & ſattin of all colours,
Women's French lamb gloves & mitts,
Silk mitts lined,
Buckhandle table knives & forks,
Bone ditto,
Ivory ditto,
Black ebony ditto,
Cuttoes, large & ſmall,
Penknives of different kinds,
Gimblets all Sizes,
Braſs candleſticks,
Grid irons,
Shoemaker's awls,
Pegging awls for ditto,
Pad locks ſorted,
Sleeve buttons all ſorts,
Paper ſnuff boxes,
Maſon's ditto,
Common ditto of different kinds,
Silver ſhoe buckles,
Black ſhoe & knee ſteel ditto,
Stone ditto,
Pinchbeck ſundry ditto,
White & yellow metal
Jews harps,
Frying pans,
Metal buttons,
Horn ditto,
Double waſh'd buttons,
Silver'd ditto,
Braſs cocks,
Watch keys,
Briſtol ſtone buttons ſet in ſilver,
Peable ſtone ſet in ditto,
Wool cards,
Cloth bruſhes,
Silver watches,
Necklaces & ear-rings,
7 by 9 & 8 by 10 window glaſs,
China bowls,
Variety of cups & ſaucers
Chapes & tongs,
Gin in caſes or by the gallon,
Beſt velvet corks,
Empty bottles by the groce or doz.
Teneriff wine by the pipe, or ſmaller quantity, or by the doz.
Rum by the hogſhead, or ſmaller quantity,
Bohea tea warranted of the beſt kind,
Loaf ſugar,
Writing paper of different kinds,
Grey ditto by the ream or quire,
Pocket books of different kinds,
Playing cards,
Nankeens,
Hard ſoap,
Scots tartin,
Green holland,
Punch ſpoons,
Shammy linings,
Black and white ſilk gauze,
Flower'd ditto,
A ſmall aſſortment of Glaſs ware, viz.
Quart decanters,
Pint ditto,
Half pint ditto,
Wine ditto,
Bear ditto,
A few ſaddlary goods to be ſold very low, viz.
Men & women's ſaddles of different kinds,
Bridles of different kinds
Cruppurs,
Mail ſtraps, &c.
And a great many other articles too tedious to mention in an advertiſement; all which will be ſold, to encourage the cuſtomers at a very ſmall advance.

N. B. Flax-Seed, Pork and Beef in Hand, will be eſteemed as Caſh, and the higheſt Price will be given that can be afforded, to encourage the Raiſers thereof. Thoſe Traders in the Country, who take in Flax-Seed, may depend upon having as much for their Seed here, as it will fetch in New-York, deducting Freight; as we ſhall ſhip what Quantity we purchaſe, at Middletown, for Ireland or Scotland.

FLAX-SEED is taken in by Mr. JOHN GRIMES, for us, at Rocky Hill, and at Middletown, by ZACHERIAH BOSTWICH, next Door to Widow SHALOR; both which have Orders to give the utmoſt that can be afforded. All who carries them Seed on our Account, may expect to meet with the beſt of Uſage, on Account of their Humble Servant, THO's DAVIDSON, & Co.

Any Perſon or Perſons, that could contract to get 50,000 Pipe-ſtaves, may hear of a Purchaſer by applying to the above Company, and likewiſe know the Time they would be allowed to get them in. T. D. & C.

HARTFORD, Printed by THOMAS GREEN, oppoſite the State-Houſe.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1765. NUMBER 43.

The Connecticut COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

Mr. GREEN,

WHEREAS it has of late been ſuggeſted in diverſe public Papers, That thoſe Perſons from America who were in England during the late Tranſactions in Parliament, which ſo much affect the American Colonies, for the Sake of ſome lucrative Employments, have not only, while there, been negligent in promoting the Intereſt of the Colonies, but alſo been inſtrumental in promoting thoſe Acts which are juſtly eſteemed ſo prejudicial to the Rights of the Colonies. As I have been lately favoured with an Extract of a Letter ſent by E. D. Eſq; belonging to the Colony of Connecticut, to the Governor of the Colony, dated in London, March, 1764, and received in May following; not only in Vindication of that Gentleman's Character, and to ſhew his Care and Solicitude for his Country while there; but that the Public may be acquainted with the Sentiments then entertained with Reſpect to thoſe Tranſactions: I eſteem it my Duty to publiſh the ſame, which is as follows:

"BUT, Sir, ſoon after my Arrival, I found there were many Things new, meditating, with Reſpect to the Colonies in America in general, and more eſpecially againſt thoſe that have the moſt free and liberal Charters: Therefore I delayed proſecuting the Affair I came upon, in any public Way: And as the Intereſt of the Colony to which I belonged, was really of much more Concern to me tha[illegible] remote and uncertain Conſequ[illegible] of the Affair I came to proſecute; I ſpared no Pains, in my ſmall Sphere, to repreſent the Colonies in the moſt favourable Light I was capable of; and have the Pleaſure to ſay (if it may not be eſteemed too much Vanity) that the particular Accounts I have been able to give, of the Regularity of the Government, to which I belong, the ſtrict and impartial Adminiſtration of Juſtice therein, their ready and chearful Compliance with all Orders and Inſtructions from the Crown, as well as the Peace, Happineſs and Quiet that the People poſſeſs, under thoſe happy Privileges they enjoy, have been in ſome Degree ſatisfactory, and well approved; and I believe nothing ſpecial will be done with Reſpect to thoſe Colonies in particular.

"But, on the Whole, I look upon the Liberties and Privileges we enjoy, and ſo much value and eſteem, much more precarious and uncertain than before I had Knowledge of this Part of the World: And the preſent Propoſals in Parliament, for the raiſing a Fund in America by Stamp-Duty, &c. increaſe thoſe Apprehenſions.

"About a Fortnight ſince Mr. G---lle moved the Houſe of Commons for Liberty to bring in a Bill in order to provide a Fund for defraying the Expences of protecting, ſecuring and defending America—which contains the ſeveral Articles of Duties mentioned in the incloſed Reſolves, which I ſend you herewith. The further Conſideration of the propoſed Stamp-Act is referred over to the next Seſſions of Parliament, that the Colonies may be notified to make their Objections, which is ſo far favourable; but I fear the Event.

"I am in ſome Hopes the propoſed Duty of three Pence per Gallon on Molaſſes may be reduced, as it would neither prevent the Trade, nor force the Importer to run the ſame, and the Revenue thereon would be thereby greater to the Crown: But, (may it not be concluded) that thoſe Regiments deſtined for America, for the Support of which, thoſe Methods are taking, are not primarily for our Defence (as they are undeſired by us) but rather as a ſtanding Army, to be as a Rod and Check over the Colonies, to enforce thoſe Injunctions which are about to be laid upon us, and at the ſame Time to oblige us to be at the Expence of their Support.

"It may be depended upon, that if the propoſed Stamp-Act ſhould once get over and paſſed, if that ſhould not be ſufficient to raiſe the Fund propoſed it will not be ſcrupeled to lay a direct and abſolute Tax on the Colonies; which has been ſtrongly aſſerted in the Houſe of Commons, and but few to contradict it.

"If theſe Things take Place, they will be ſubverſive of our moſt valuable Rights and Privileges, and leave no more Freedom for the Colonies. Therefore, Sir, if the Colonies do not now unite, and uſe their moſt vigorous Endeavours, in all proper Ways, to avert this impending Blow; they may for the future, bid Farewell to Freedom and Liberty, burn their Charters, and make the beſt of Thraldom and Slavery. For if we can have our Intereſt and Eſtates taken away, and diſpoſed of without our Conſent, or having any Voice therein, and by thoſe whoſe Intereſt as well as Inclination it may be to ſhift the Burden off from themſelves under Pretence of protecting and defending America---why may they not as well endeavour to raiſe Millions upon us to dafray the Expences of the laſt, or any future War? But as all the Inconveniences and ill Conſequences of thoſe Attempts, will readily occur to you and many more and greater than I can at preſent point out; It would be giving you unneceſſary Trouble to add; therefore conclude with with only aſſuring you that I am, &c.

E. D."

Thus, Mr. Printer, the public have the Conduct of the above Gentleman, while reſiding at the Court of London; and who, ſince his Return, by ſome deſigning Men, has been repreſented as an Enemy to his Country, notwithſtanding his Zeal, and indefatigable Endeavours exerted for the Liberties and Immunities of the Colony, to the Neglect of his particular private Buſineſs, and of which the Public, as yet have had no Notice.

Yours, &c.

BOSTON, September 5.

We hear that the Friends of the Stampman for New-Hampſhire, in order to quiet the Minds of the People there, and prevent their ſhewing any Marks of public Diſgrace to him, have engaged that he will reſign that Office upon his Arrival there; otherwiſe they will leave him to the conſequences of the popular Reſentment.

NEW-YORK, Sept 5.

When the Appointment of Sir Harry Moore to the Goverement of this Province was known, we hear a general Joy among the Gentlemen acquainted with his Character, diffuſed itſelf through the City; as he is ſaid to be a Gentleman poſſeſſed of every Quality that will endear him both in public and private, to the People of this Country.

TO be ſold by Us the Subſcribers, One certain Farm of Land, belonging to the Eſtate of Aſahel Moſs, late of Cornwall, in Litchfield County, deceas'd (repreſented Inſolvent) containing in the Whole, about 160 Acres, ſituate in Cornwall aforeſaid, with a good Dwelling Houſe and Barn on the ſame, and is chiefly under Improvements. Likewiſe a good Saw-Mill, all will be ſold at a reaſonable Price, and a good Title will be given. Alſo a Set of Furnace Irons. For Terms of Sale, inquire of NATHANAEL MOSS, } Adminiſtrators.

THOMAS PORTER. }

To be ſold, at the HEART and CROWN, Oppoſite the STATE-HOUSE, in HARTFORD:

PLAIN and gilt Bibles:—Common Prayer Books, plain & gilt—Teſtaments—Dillworth's Spelling Books———Pſalters———Death of Abel, neatly bound and gilt, Ditto, ſtitch'd—Tryal of Abraham—Watts's Pſalms—Tate and Brady's, Ditto—Penitential Cries—Royal Primmer—Reading, no Preaching—WAR, an Heroic Poem—Mayhew's Thankſgiving Sermons, Ditto, on Popiſh Idolitry—Winthrop's Voyage from Boſton, to Newfoundland, to obſerve the Tranſit of Venus, June 1, 1761.—The Rights of the Britiſh Colonies—Mather's Diſſertations, concerning the venerable Name of JEHOVAH—NEW-ENGLAND's Proſpect: Being a true, lively, and experimental Diſcription, of that Part of America, called New-England, by William Wood.—Small Hiſtories, Plays, &c.———2, 3, 4, and 5 Quire Account-Books, Copy Books, Dutch Quills, and Pens—Slates—Wafers in Boxes—Red and black Sealing-Wax—Memorandum-Books—Pewter and Led Ink-Stands—Leather Ink-Pots—Temple and common Spectacles, in Caſes—Painted Ink-Cheſts—Holman's genuine Ink-Powder—Horn-Books—WRITING-PAPER, &c.

Laſt Monday arrived at Boſton Capt. Daverſon, jun. from London, and Capt. Montgomery from Liverpool, in 8 Weeks; by whom we have the following Advices:

L O N D O N,

JULY 11. Sunday noon the Right Hon. George Grenville had a conference with his Majeſty at St. James's, for upwards of an hour; and when he came out of the cloſet, the Marquis of Granby and Lord Townſend went in to his Majeſty.

When the court was over, the Duke of Cumberland had a conference with his Majeſty at the Queen's palace, and afterwards had a private conference with the Hon. Lord Townſend and ſeveral more of the nobility, which continued for a conſiderable time; his Majeſty afterwards returned to Richmond.

Yeſterday Mr. John Williams, bookſeller in Fleet-ſtreet, was brought from the King's Bench priſon by the tipſtaff, before Lord Mansfield, at Guildhall, when he gave ſecurity for his good behaviour for ſeven years by two ſureties bound in 500l. each, in conſequence of which he was releaſed from his ſix months impriſonment, for republiſhing the North Britain, No. XLV.

Private advices from Madrid take notice of a great coolneſs having been lately viſible between Don Joſeph de Saa Mello, the Portugueſe Ambaſſador, and the Catholic Miniſtry, ſaid to be owing in a great meaſure to ſome late extraordinary reſolutions in his Moſt Faithful Majeſty, with regard to the Court of Rome.

It is whiſpered, that a demand of a pretty extraordinary nature, has recently been made upon our court, from a powerful Prince of the Empire.

July 11. Yeſterday, it is ſaid, the following Noblemen and Gentlemen kiſſed his Majeſty's Hand at St. James's on being promoted to the undermentioned high Offices.

Earl of Winchelſea, Lord Preſident of the Council.

Duke of Grafton and General Conway, Secretaries of State.

Mr. Dowdeſwell, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Marquis of Rockingham, Firſt Lord of the Treaſury.

Lord John Cavendiſh, Hon. Thomas Townſhend, and George Onſlow Eſq; Lords of the Treaſury.

His Grace the Duke of Portland, Lord Chamberlain of his Majeſty's Houſehold.

Mr. Dowdeſwell, in an Advertiſement dated July 11, informs the Gentlemen, Clergy, and Freeholders, of the County of Worceſter, that his Majeſty had done him the Honor of appointing him Chancellor of the Exchequer, whereby his Seat in Parliament became vacant; whereupon he requeſts the Favour of their Votes and Intereſt for his re-election.

We hear that the expediency of allowing a colony of Jews to ſettle in ſome part of the new ceded lands in America, has lately been under the conſideration of an Hon. Board.

July 12. The perſons who kiſſed hands on Wedneſday, were only the Duke of Grafton, Marquis of Rockingham, General Conway, and Mr. Dowdeſwell.

General Conway is Secretary of State for the Southern department, and not for the Northen, as mentioned in the papers: and the Duke of Grafton is Secretary for the Northern.

Yeſterday there was a very grand Court at St. James's, and afterwards a Council, when it is ſuppoſed ſome conſiderable nominations in the law were made.

Beſides the Changes mentioned yeſterday, it is ſaid that the Duke of Newcaſtle will be appointed Privy-ſeal.

The Lords Beſborough and Grantham, Joint Poſt Maſters.

Lord Barrington Secretary at War.

Admiral Kepple and Admiral Saunders, Lords of the Admiralty.

Lord Dartmouth, to be firſt Lord of Trade.

Mr. Melliſh and Mr. Lowndes, Secretaries to the Treaſury. And,

The Hon. Charles Yorke, Attorney General.

The Earl of Egmont will continue Firſt Lord of the Admiralty.

Wedneſday the Right Hon. Mr. Pitt ſet out from his ſeat at Hayes, on a viſit to Lord Temple at Stowe.

From the St. James's Chronicle, July 11.

TO THE PRINTER.

THE Intention of Anti-Sejanus is, I obſerve, to reconcile this injured Nation to a ſet of Men, at preſent the Objects of their juſt Abhorrence; Men, who, ever ſince the Diſmiſſion of Mr. Pitt, have monopolized Power, ſullied our national Honor, and infringed the darling Rights and Liberties of every free born Briton.

In our Club, Sir, the Diſgrace of the D— of B—, G——, Lord S——, and Lord H——, is conſidered as the moſt glorious Act of his Majeſty's Reign. It ſhews paternal Attention to the Wiſhes and Welfare of his People! a Deſire to puniſh the Authors of their Diſtreſs!

This Diſmiſſion we conſider as the firſt Indication of the Reſentment of Heaven. We hope Enquiry will follow Diſmiſſion, and Impeachment (if deſerved) will follow Enquiry. Where are Martinico, Guadaloupe, Belleiſle, and the Havannah? and where are all the Glories of the War? Where is our undoubted excluſive Right to the Fiſhings of Newfoundland? —All, all are now forever loſt by the ſelfiſh, the fearful, and blundering Members of the preſent Adminiſtration.

By whom have Members of Parliament been ſeized illegally and impriſoned? Who have wiſhed to eſtabliſh the Legality of General Search Warrants; that dangerous Engine of Oppreſſion and arbitary Power? Who have uncoupled thoſe Blood hounds of wicked Miniſters, Meſſengers, Conſtables, &c. and hunted them into the Cloſets and ſecret Repoſitories of Freemen? Who propoſed the odious Exciſe on Cyder, a Tax which the firſt Year was levied upon two hundred thouſand Families, by 400 new created Officers of Exciſe, each with ſalaries 40l. the tax yielding only 25,000l. and levied with Powers of Oppreſſion unknown in France or Indoſtan?

What! ſhall a Scribbler, ſuch as Anti-Sejanus, beſpeak Popularity for a Parcel of Miniſters, whoſe Ears have been deaf, and whoſe Hearts have been hardened to the Sufferings of the Poor? Let us never forget, by whom the Corn Bill was thrown out. No Man, who wiſhes well to his Country, will ever forget in what Terms of Levity, Cruelty and Reproach a Bill was rejected to relieve 30,000 induſtrious Weavers from Miſery and Want, tho' that Bill was at the ſame Time calculated by the Great Townſhend to wreſt from our Enemies the French an ineſtimable Branch of Manufacture.

I know not who may be pitched upon by our good Prince to ſucceed the preſent Miniſtry. The firſt Offer, I hear, was made to Mr. PITT; HE, I am informed, on Account of his bad Health, as well as for other Reaſons, declined accepting of any Office, but has promiſed, in the ſincereſt Manner, to lend the Government his beſt Advice and Support. We may, however, during this ſuſpenſe, comfort ourſelves with the certainty that the nation cannot be a ſufferer by the change, ſince whatever wrong the future Miniſtry may do, the preſent Miniſters have already done.—It is ſaid they will be Tools to Lord B——; have not the preſent Miniſtry already been ſo? To preſerve their own power, what dirty job have they heſitated to undertake? What office in a certain department has not been ſet to ſale? What country produces men more venal, rapacious, or profligate, than the preſent? How can the rights and dignity of this Kingdom be aſſerted with more puſillanimity, than in the inſtances of the Manilla ranſom and the Canada bills? Can any future Miniſtry oppoſe internal regulations more neceſſary than thoſe for the reduction of the price of proviſions, and the ſupport of a periſhing manufacture? Or can Britain be more completely inſignificant in the general ſyſtem of European politicks than ſhe is at preſent? Let us therefore wait with patience till his Majeſty's moſt gracious Declaration is known. And in juſtice to ourſelves as well as to the beſt of Princes, give the new Miniſtry at leaſt a fair tryal before we liſten to ungenerous conjectures as to the behaviour of men who till now have, perhaps, never quitted the vail of private life to ſtand forth in the ſervice of their King and Country.

Spital-fields ſquare, July 8. Your's, &c.

A ſpital fields Weaver.

His Royal Highneſs the Duke of York will be preſent at the nuptials of the Hereditary Prince of Pruſſia, with the Princeſs Elizabeth of Brunſwick, which is ſoon to be celebrated at Charlottenburgh.

When Mr. Williams entered Guildhall on Wedneſday, he held a roll of paper under his arm, and being aſked what it contained, he informed the enquirer it was one of his ſureties, and immediately produced a print of Mr. Wilkes, with the Cap of Liberty by his ſide.

ANNAPOLIS, Auguſt 29.

Monday morning laſt, a conſiderable number of people, aſſerters of Britiſh-American privileges, met here, to ſhew their deteſtation of, and abhorrence to, ſome late tremendous attacks on liberty, and their diſlike to a certain late-arriv'd - - - - - Officer; Native of this Province! They curiouſly dreſs'd up the figure of a man which they placed in a one-horſe cart, malefactor-like, with ſome ſheets of paper in his hands before his face: In that manner they paraded thro' the ſtreets of the town, till noon, the Bell at the ſame time toling a ſolemn knell; when they proceeded to the hill, and after giving it the Moſaic law, at the whipping-poſt, placed it in the pillory; from whence they took it and hung it on a gibbet there erected for that purpoſe, and then ſet fire to a tar barrel underneath, and burnt it, till it fell into the Barrel, and by the many ſignificant nods of the head, while in the cart, it may be ſaid to have gone off very penitently.

B O S T O N, Sept. 12.

WE hear that the Governor, with the Advice of the Council, has given Orders for diſcontinuing the Levies for reinforcing the Garriſon of the Caſtle and for diſcharging the Men already enliſted for that Purpoſe.

In Capt. Daverſon, from London, came Paſſengers, Dr. Lincoln, and George Meſſervey, Eſq;——The laſt mentioned Gentleman was appointed Diſtributor of the Stamps for the Province of New-Hampſhire; but previous to his coming on ſhore he ſent a Letter to a Friend to be communicated to the Public, ſignifying that as ſuch an Office would be diſagreeable to the People in general, he ſhould reſign it; the Intelligence of this induced a great Number of his Friends and other Gentlemen to repair to the Long-Wharf, and wait his Landing; as ſoon as Mr. Meſſervey came on ſhore he confirmed what he before had wrote, and declared as he was the unhappy Man who had perſonally accepted of an Office odious to his Country-men, he freely reſigned it, and determined never to act in that Capacity: Upon this three Cheers were given by a vaſt Concourſe of People, which were repeated at the Head of the Wharf, and again on the Exchange.

We hear that none of the Stamp-Papers, except one Box for New-Hampſhire came in Capt. Daverſon.

We hear that it was the Opinion of many of the principal People at Home, that the Stamp-Act would be ſuſpended; and that, under the preſent Adminiſtration the Colonies would be eaſed of many of the Burdens that have been laid upon them.

The Reſignation of Mr. Meſſervey, with the Intelligence extraordinary bro't by Capt. Daverſon, more eſpecially the Change in the Miniſtry, created Joy in the Breaſts of many; and in the Evening many loyal Healths were drank by Numbers of Gentlemen who met at ſeveral public Places for that Purpoſe; but it did not reſt here, for the Morning following (Wedneſday) was uſhered in with the ringing of all the Bells in Town, and Joy and Gladneſs appeared in every Countenance; at the South Part of the Town the Trees for which many have ſo great a Veneration, were decorated with the Enſigns of Loyalty, and the Colours embroidered with ſeveral Mottos, (which we have not been able to obtain—) on the Body of the largeſt Tree was fixed with large Deck Nails, that it might laſt (as a Poet ſaid, like oaken Bench to Perpetuity) a Copper-Plate with theſe Words ſtamped thereon in Golden Letters, THE TREE OF LIBERTY, Auguſt 14, 1765. A Report of theſe Decorations collected a great many of the Inhabitants who were at Leiſure, where they were ſaluted with the Firing of a Number of Chambers, and regaled with Plenty of Liquor. Towards Evening a Guard of Men armed, belonging to the Militia, were poſted near the Trees when the Colours were ſtruck, to prevent any Diſorders that might ariſe among ſuch a Concourſe.

It ſhould have been mentioned above, that after I o'Clock ſome of the Train of Artillery brought down ſome Cannon, placed them before the Town-Houſe and fired ſeveral Rounds; but we hear that this was done without any Order or Leave from the Commander in Chief, or even giving Notice to the Governor and Council, who were then ſitting in the Council-Chamber, of their Intention.

The Freeholders and other Inhabitants of the Town of Boſton are to meet at Faneuil-Hall at three o'Clock in the Afternoon, then and there, agreeable to the Requeſt of a Number of the principal Inhabitants to confer upon ſuch Meaſures as ſhall appear to them neceſſary to be taken in Conſequence of the Stamp-Act, and other Matters of Grievance, and to determine whether Inſtructions ſhall be given their Repreſentatives in General Aſſembly, for their Conduct at this very alarming Criſis. —

Sunday laſt Lord ADAM GORDEN, with ſeveral other Gentlemen, came to Town from Albany.

We hear that the famous Major Rogers, and the in-famous Parſon Potter were got to London, where it was tho't they would ſoon merit ſome peculiar Rewards.

We hear that it was Capt. Ruggles's large Schooner belonging to Black Point at the Eaſtward, which was overſet the 31ſt of July, in the Weſt-Indies, and all the People loſt except the Captain.

A Letter from Liſbon ſays, that a moſt traiterous plot formed for deſtroying his moſt Faithful Majeſty, growing in Embroyo, and nearly ripe for Execution, was juſt diſcovered. The diabolical Scheme was to have been effected by poiſoning the King, and a pious Nun was to have adminiſtered the Doſe. Two Prieſts were convicted, and executed.

From Nottingham-Weſt, in New-Hampſhire, we learn, that laſt Friday ſe'nnight at Night, they had a terrible Storm of Thunder and Lightning, in which Capt. Jacob Colburn, and his eldeſt Son, (a young Lad) were killed: Capt. Colburn, his Wife, and an Infant, we hear, were in one Bed, and two other Children in a Trundle-Bed, which was run under the Parents, when a Flaſh of Lightning inſtantly killed the Father and Son. Mrs. Colburn was ſo ſcorch'd from Head to Foot, that her Life was deſpair'd of for ſome Time.

The Hawke, Coffin, from Nantucket, and the Triſtram Shandy, from Boſton, were arrived. Capts Hulme, Bruce, and Hunter, were put up in London, and ſoon to ſail for this Place.

We are well informed by the laſt Accounts from London, that the Greenland Fiſhery has been very ſucceſsful this Year, thirteen Ships are already arrived with 6 or 7 Whales upon an Average; and inform that others have had the like Succeſs. We do not here that one Veſſel has been loſt in the Ice.---As there is a large Quantity of Bone exported laſt Year from this Place remaining unſold in London, that with what is already arrived from Greenland is ſuppoſed ſufficient to ſupply the European Market for the enſuing Year.

Extract of a Letter from a Merchant in Quebec, dated Auguſt 3. 1765.

'THIS Colony is in the greateſt Confuſion, Governor M——y laſt Sunday came into Town and took the Command of the Troops; the Merchants threaten to leave this Place intirely, as every Man who oppoſes the G----r in any Thing may expect a Party of Soldiers with fixed Bayonets to tear him out of his Houſe and drag him to Goal: We have all drawn up a Memorial, and ſent it Home to the Lords of Trade, deſiring that they will have ſome Compaſſion on this Colony, and relieve us from the ſtrange Scene of Anarchy and Confuſion which we are plunged into; and that if the Civil Governor can command both civil and military we can look no longer upon our Lives and Properties as ſecure. God grant that Petition may have the deſired Effect!---for you can hardly conceive what diſtreſsful Confuſion reigns thro' the whole Province, from one End to the other."

Extract of a Letter from Fort-Cumberland in Novaſcotia, Auguſt 26.

THERE has been a Commotion among the Indians chiefly about this Place, where there has been the St. John's River, and ſome from Paſmaquady and Mickmakas, from about the middle of July, to this Time. There has been Canoes here and at Bay Vert to the Number of 40 or 50 at once; they ſay they had the Promiſe of a French Prieſt to be at Pigto this Summer, to which Place many of them went; Part of the St. John's Tribe that came up the Bay of Fundy, remained here, and ſent three Men from Pigto for Intelligence: They appear ſomewhat diſcontented, but behaved as civilly as Indians can be expected to do; they have alarmed the Inhabitants by their aſſembling in ſuch a manner, that they left their Homes, and got under cover of the Garriſon, but were no otherways damaged. We have ſent from this Place to Pigto, where the Indians were all peaceable and quiet, and no French Prieſt there; ſo every Perſon has returned to their reſpective Habitations."

Another Letter from Nova-Scotia, ſays, —Every Thing is now cleared up and quiet; and Affairs will be put on a more ſecure Footing regarding the Indians than heretofore.

It is ſaid, that a Merchant ſhip from Old France, laden with all Kinds of Goods ſuitable for the Indian Trade, was at Pigto the laſt Spring, where the French bartered with the Indians for Furs, &c. inſomuch that ſeveral New-England trading Veſſels could purchaſe none but of the French. And it is likewiſe ſaid the Indians were promiſed that a Prieſt ſhould be ſent them from France, and a Number of Troops to protect them; which was the Cauſe of their late inſolent Behaviour. We hear the above ſhip had above 4000 lb. wt. of Furs on board.

We hear from Haverhill, that laſt Week a number of Men were inliſted there, at eight Dollars Bounty; they are ſaid to be intended for an Independent Company, but what ſervice they are to be employed in is only as yet conjectured; however the People at that Place, to the number of upwards of 300, were ſo diſſatisfied that they waited upon the inliſting Officer in a Body to enquire the Reaſon of this proceeding, but not receiving a ſatisfactory anſwer, they peremptorily inform'd him that not one Perſon who was ſo inliſted ſhould be carried out of the Place.

NEW-YORK, September 12.

We hear from Woodbridge, in New-Jerſey, that Mr. Jonathan Kinſey, died there, very ſuddenly, a few Days ago, after eating freely of Muſhrooms, among which, it is imagined, poiſonous Toadſtools were intermixed.—Several Misfortunes of the ſame Kind have recently happened in other Parts of America.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.

On Monday next the General Aſſembly of this Province meets here.

We are informed that William Coxe, Eſq; has ſent a reſignation of the ſtamp-office for New-Jerſey, to the Lords commiſſioners of the Treaſury, and aſſigned his reaſons.

By Capt. Seymour, in a ſhort Paſſage from Barbados, but laſt from St. Chriſtophers, in 12 days, we have a very diſmal account of the damage done by the heavy gales of wind they have lately had in the Weſt-Indies.

H A R T F O R D, Sept. 16.

Next Thurſday the General Aſſembly of this Colony, meets in this Place; various are the Conjectures, for the Reaſon of their meeting at ſo unuſual a Time; as it is only three Weeks to their annual Setting in New-Haven.

The Freemen of the Town of Windham, laſt Monday, made Choice of the Rev. Mr. DEVOTION, for their Repreſentative at the General Aſſembly in October next.

Colony of CONNECTICUT.

WHEREAS purſuant to an Act or Law of ſaid Colony, entitled "An Act to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, &c."——William Redfield of Middletown, in ſaid Colony, an Inſolvent Debtor; in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors, hath exhibited his Petition with an Account of the Sums by him owing, and the Names of the Perſons to whom, and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, in the County of Hartford, and Seth Wetmore, Eſq; Juſtice of Peace and Quorum, in ſaid County; praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of, for the Uſe of his ſaid Creditors. Public Notice is therefore hereby given, to all the Creditors of the ſaid William Redfield, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Nathaniel Chauncey, Eſq; Inn-holder in ſaid Middletown, in ſaid County, on Friday the 27th Day of September Inſt. to ſhew Reaſon, (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of the ſaid William ſhould not be made, according to the Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Act.

Sept. 3d, 1765.

Colony of Connecticut.

WHEREAS, purſuant to an Act or Law of ſaid Colony, entitled "An Act to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, &c."——David Wilcocks of Suffield, in the County of Hartford, an Inſolvent Debtor, in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors, hath exhibited his Petition, with an Account of the Sums by him owing, and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court in the County of Hartford, and SETH WETMORE, Eſq; Juſtice of the Peace and Quorum in ſaid County, praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of for the Uſe of his ſaid Creditors: Public Notice is therefore hereby given, to all the Creditors of the ſaid David Wilcocks, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Nathaniel Chauncey, Eſq; Inn-holder in Middletown, in ſaid County, on Friday, the 27th of September Inſt. to ſhew Reaſon, (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of the ſaid David Wilcocks ſhould not be made, and his Perſon diſcharged according to Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Act.

Sept. 11th, 1765.

Colony of CONNECTICUT.

WHEREAS purſuant to an Act or Law of ſaid Colony, entitled "An Act to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, &c." ——Iſaac Read of Windſor, in the County of Hartford, an Inſolvent Debtor; in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors, hath exhibited his Petition with an Account of the Sums by him owing, and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, in the County of Hartford, and Seth Wetmore, Eſq; Juſtice of Peace and Quorum, in ſaid County; praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of, for the Uſe of his ſaid Creditors. Public Notice is therefore hereby given, to all the Creditors of the ſaid Iſaac Read, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Nathaniel Chauncey, Eſq; Inn-holder in Middletown, in ſaid County, on Wedneſday the 18th Day of September Inſt. to ſhew Reaſon, (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of the ſaid Iſaac Read ſhould not be made, and his Perſon diſcharged, according to the Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Act. Sept. 7th, 1765.

Hartford, September 9th, 1765.

ALL Perſons Indebted to William Knox, by Book, are deſired ſpeedily to ſettle and pay their reſpective Ballances to Thomas Seymour, jun. of Hartford, his Attorney, to prevent Trouble.

FOUND, the 29th of Auguſt laſt, on the Road between Eaſt-Hartford and Glaſſenbury, a Watch, a Pair of Buckles, a Shirt, three Pair of Shoes, and a Pair of Breeches. The Owner may have them again, of the Subſcribers, of Eaſt-Hartford, on proving his Property. Inquire of

John Wadſworth, and
Joſeph Porter, jun.

BY the Hon. JOHN WILLIAMS, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, for the County of Litchfield, in the Colony of Connecticut: Notice is hereby given, that on Application in Writing, by one of the Creditors of Abner Baldwin of Litchfield, in ſaid County, an abſconded and concealed Debtor, for not leſs than Twenty Pounds, being proved by ſaid Creditor's Oath, in purſuance of an Act made and paſſed in the General Aſſembly of ſaid Colony, on the ſecond Thurſday of May, 1765, Entituled, "An Act for preventing Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of inſolvent Debtors, for the uſe of their Creditors, and for the Equitable Diviſion of the Eſtate and Effects of ſuch Debtors, to and among their Creditors." A Warrant hath iſſued, directed to the ſeveral Sheriffs of the Counties, in the ſaid Colony of Connecticut, their Under-Sheriffs & Deputies, and to the ſeveral Conſtables of each and every Town in the reſpective Counts in ſaid Colony (Aſa Hopkins of Litchfield, in Litchfield County excepted) to attach, ſeize and take all the Eſtate and Effects of ſaid Abner Baldwin, for the Uſe of his Creditors; and unleſs ſaid Abner ſhall diſcharge his juſt Debts, or give Security therefor, within 3 Months from the Date of ſaid Warrant, that is to ſay, from the 31ſt of Auguſt, A. D. 1765, to the Satisfaction of ſaid Creditors, for the Payment thereof, all the Eſtate is ordered to be attached, ſeized and taken, will be ſold for the Benefit of ſaid Creditors.

STray'd from a Paſture in Weſt-Hartford, about a Fortnight ſince, one bay Dutch Horſe, about 13 Hands high, Branded on the near Thigh, (Letter forgot) ſhod round, trots altogether.---

Likewiſe a bay Dutch Mare, about 13 Hands high, branded on both her fore Hoofs AB, the Letters join'd together, and the A not croſſed; ſhe is alſo branded on her near Thigh H, ſhod before and Toe-cork'd—trots all.—Whoever will find and return ſaid Strays to Hartford, ſhall receive a handſome Reward, and Payment of all Charges, by appplying to ABRAHAM BEACH.

Hartford, 2d September, 1765.

Auguſt 23d, 1765.

STRAY'D or Stolen from David Buſh of Pittsfield, a large black Mare, a few white Hairs in the Face a natural Pacer, and when ſhe joggs turns her Tail to the left Side, no Brand. Whoever ſhall bring ſaid Mare to ſaid Buſh, ſhall have twenty Shillings Reward and all neceſſary Charges paid him: and if the Thief be found and convicted he ſhall have Eight Dollars, paid by

DAVID BUSH.

TO be ſold at Public Vendue, the Dwelling-Houſe and Farm of Ghiles Kilborn, at the Dwelling-Houſe of Capt. Solomon Buel at Litchfield, upon Friday the 27th Day of September A. D. 1765, at 5 o'Clock Afternoon. Said Houſe is two Story high, with 5 Rooms on the lower Floor. The Premiſes have a good Barn, Orchard, &c. A good Soil, well watered, containing about 20 Acres, pleaſantly ſituated, about 2 Miles and a Half Weſt of Litchfield State-Houſe, on the public Road to Kent and New-Milford, near the Griſt-Mill, and the other Mills by Clemons's Iron Works, for ſix Months Credit, to which a good Title will be given. For further Particulars enquire of REYNOLD MARVIN, at Litchfield, or the Subſcriber, GHILES KILBORN.

BENJAMIN HENSHAW,

OF MIDDLETOWN,

WANTS to purchaſe more than a thouſand Buſhels of Flax-Seed, and will give the higheſt market Price for all brought to him, either in Goods, Salt or Caſh.----He deſires all that owe him, to pay him in that Article, or Caſh, or ſome other Produce ſpeedily, that will anſwer, to prevent further Trouble.

A Large, bright-bay Horſe has lately ſtray'd from Reuben Humphrey (out of the Paſture of Mr. Daniel Foot of Simſbury) near 15 Hands high, no Brand, ſhod before (if not all round) paces altogether, was bred at Harwinton. Whoever takes up and conveys him either to Mr. Eliphalet Enſign, or Mr. John Marſh, in New-Hartford, or the ſaid Henſhaw in Middletown, ſhall be well rewarded, and all neceſſary Charges paid by ſaid Henſhaw.

THERE will be ſold at ſaid Henſhaw's Vendue, on Tueſday the 10th of September next, a large Parcel of beautiful, neweſt-faſhion Paper-Hangings for Rooms. And on the Tueſday following, the 17th, will be ſold a great Aſſortment of neweſt-faſhion, white ſtone Crockery Ware, ſuch as Moſaick Diſhes and Plates, Sprig'd Chocolate Cups and Saucers, &c. &c. &c.---The Tueſday following, will be ſold almoſt all Sorts of Pewter, Braſs Kettles, & Copper Tea-Kettles.---The Tueſday following, which will be the 1ſt of October, will be ſold a great Variety of Hatter's Trimmings, Linings, Loopings, Buttons, Frogs, &c. and a large Quantity of Watch-maker's Ware &c. Watch Glaſſes, Keys, Seals and Strings, and a great Quantity of Barber's Hair, bruſhes, Ribbons, &c. &c. &c.

Middletown, Auguſt 27, 1765.

Hartford, 19th Auguſt, 1765

Juſt Imported, and to be ſold very cheap for Caſh,

by Tho's Davidſon & Co.

A large Aſſortment of Engliſh and Eaſt-India GOODS, ſuitable for the Seaſon, amongſt which are the following Articles, VIZ.

BLACK, blue, ſcarlet & cloth-colour'd ſuperfine & middling broadcloths,
White flannels,
Cotton velvets,
Women's ditto,
Scarlet & green hair pluſh
Black breeches patterns,
Scarlet ditto,
Blue & crimſon colour'd ſilk ditto,
Black,
Blue,
Saxon green,
Crimſon, &
Clothcolour'd } Calimancos.
Scarlet,
Pink,
Black,
Blue,
White,
Green,
Red &
Cloth-colour'd, } Rattinets.
Black,
Blue,
Red,
Scarlet,
White &
Cloth-colour'd, } Shalloons.
10-11 nails linen check,
3-4 ditto, & ſtrip'd,
3-4, 7-8, & yard wide 3-8 & 6-4 Cotton & linen checks,
Yardwide ſuperfine ditto beſt patterns.
3-4 & 7-8 dowlaſs,
Scots ozenbrigs,
7-8, & yard wide cambbricks,
7-8, & yard wide plain & flower'd lawns,
Black taffaties,
Black & colour'd broad & narrow perſians,
Beſt balendine ſewing ſilk of all colours,
Sagatheys,
Cardinal ſilk,
Dark & olive-colour'd thickſetts, & fuſtians,
Dyed pelongs & jeans,
Cotton allopeans,
8, 9, 10, 11, 12 nails,
Linen handkerchiefs,
7-8 & yard wide ditto,
Printed blue & red ditto.
7-8 & yard wide black barcelona ditto,
Black Cravatts ditto,
Cotton ſtripes,
Cotton & linen ditto,
Beſt ſilk mitts, plain & open work,
Gloves ditto,
Black & buff coloured worſted ditto, plain & trim'd,
Cotton ditto,
Black & white, plain & ribbed ſilk hoſe,
Worſted ditto,
Brown & white thread ditto,
Venetian poplins,
Figur'd ſtuffs,
6-4, & 7-4 bed bunts,
Bed ticking,
Midling & narrow ſtrip'd tapes,
Broad & narrow white ditto,
Gartering,
Quality binding, broad & narrow,
Black alimode,
Black & colour'd ſattin & peelong,
Brown & white bucrams
Sectorſoy romal ſilk hands,
Shirt buttons,
Silk & hair ſcarf twiſt,
Buttons all colours,
7-8 & 9-8 wide ſheeting dark & light,
Ground callicoes, 12 & 18 yard pieces,
Pencil ditto,
Furniture ditto,
Dark & light ground chintzs,
Printed cottons,
Women and children's fans,
Ivory ditto,
Black & white thread lace,
Stamp'd ſilk ditto,
Gymps, broad & narrow
Silk fringe, of different kinds,
Men & women's ſhoes.
Men & boy's caſtor & felt hats,
Beſt Scots ſnuff,
Hollandrappe in paper'd canniſters,
Pigtail & paper'd tobacco,
6 8 10-12-14 figur'd ribbons,
Ditto paduſoy & ſattin of all colours,
Women's French lamb gloves & mitts,
Silk mitts lined,
Buckhandle table knives & forks,
Bone ditto,
Ivory ditto,
Black ebony ditto,
Cuttoes, large & ſmall,
Penknives of different kinds,
Gimblets all Sizes.
Braſs candleſticks,
Grid irons,
Shoemaker's awls,
Pegging awls for ditto,
Pad locks ſorted,
Sleeve buttons all ſorts,
Paper ſnuff boxes,
Maſon's ditto,
Common ditto of different kinds,
Silver ſhoe buckles,
Black ſhoe & knee ſteel ditto,
Stone ditto,
Pinchbeck ſundry ſorts ditto,
White & yellow metaldo.
Jews harps,
Frying pans,
Metal buttons,
Horn ditto,
Double waſh'd buttons,
Silver'd ditto,
Braſs cocks,
Watch keys,
Briſtol ſtone buttons ſet in ſilver,
Peable ſtone ſet in ditto.
Wool cards,
Cloth bruſhes,
Silver watches,
Necklaces & ear-rings,
7 by 9 & 8 by 10 window glaſs,
China bowls,
Variety of cups & ſaucers
Chapes & tongs,
Gin in caſes or by the gallon,
Beſt velvet corks,
Empty bottles by the groce or doz.
Teneriff wine by the pipe, or ſmaller quantity, or by the doz.
Rum by the hogſhead, or ſmaller quantity,
Bohea tea warranted of the beſt kind,
Loaf ſugar,
Writing paper of different kinds,
Grey ditto by the ream or quire,
Pocket books of different kinds,
Playing cards,
Nankeens,
Hard ſoap,
Scots tartin,
Green holland,
Punch ſpoons,
Shammy linings,
Black and white ſilk gauze,
Flower'd ditto,
A ſmall eſſortment of Glaſs ware, viz.
Quart decanters,
Pint ditto,
Half pint ditto,
Wine ditto,
Bear ditto,
A few ſaddlary goods to be ſold very low, viz.
Men & women's ſaddles of different kinds,
Bridles of different kinds
Cruppurs,
Mail ſtraps, &c.
And a great many other articles too tedious to mention in an advertiſement; all which will be ſold, to encourage the cuſtomers at a very ſmall advance.

N. B. Flax-Seed, Pork and Beef in Hand, will be eſteemed as Caſh, and the higheſt Price will be given that can be afforded, to encourage the Raiſers thereof. Thoſe Traders in the Country, who take in Flax-Seed, may depend upon having as much for their Seed here, as it will fetch in New-York, deducting Freight; as we ſhall ſhip what Quantity we purchaſe, at Middletown, for Ireland or Scotland.

FLAX-SEED is taken in by Mr. JOHN GRIMES, for us, at Rocky-Hill, and at Middletown, by ZACHERIAH BOSTWICH, next Door to Widow SHALOR; both which have Orders to give the utmoſt that can be afforded. All who carries them Seed on our Account, may expect to meet with the beſt of Uſage, on Account of their Humble Servant, THO's DAVIDSON, & Co.

Any Perſon or Perſons, that could contract to get 50,000 Pipe-ſtaves, may hear of a Purchaſer by applying to the above Company, and likewiſe know the Time they would be allowed to get them in. T. D. & C.

HARTFORD, Printed by THOMAS GREEN, oppoſite the State-Houſe.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1765. NUMBER 44.

The Connecticut COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

BY THE HONORABLE
THOMAS FITCH, Eſq;
Governor and Commander in Chief of His Majeſty's Colony of CONNECTICUT, in NEW-ENGLAND, in AMERICA.

A PROCLAMATION.

W*HEREAS there have been of late, in ſeveral Parts of this Colony, diverſe tumultuous and unlawful Aſſemblies of Perſons, to the Diſturbance of the Peace, and to the Terror of His Majeſty's liege Subjects, and againſt the Laws of this Colony: And whereas the General Aſſembly of this Colony, taking theſe Matters into their moſt ſerious Conſideration, and being deſirous to diſcountenance and ſuppreſs all ſuch tumultuous and riotous Diſorders, tending to the Diſturbance of the public Peace, and to the endangering all Order and Government; have, by their ſpecial Reſolve for that Purpoſe deſired me to iſſue a Proclamation, commanding all proper Officers, that they uſe their utmoſt Endeavours to prevent and ſuppreſs all Riots, Tumults, and unlawful Aſſemblies, and duly to execute the Laws and Statutes made for preventing, ſuppreſſing and puniſhing the ſame. And that all other his Majeſties liege Subjects in this Colony, be aiding and aſſiſting therein.*

I DO therefore, in Purſuance of the ſaid Reſolve, iſſue this Proclamation, hereby ſtrictly requiring and commanding all Magiſtrates, Sheriffs, King's Attorneys, and all other Officers, Civil and Military, to uſe their utmoſt Endeavours in their reſpective Places and Offices for preventing and ſuppreſſing all Riots, Tumults, and unlawful Aſſemblies: And alſo, duly to execute the Laws made for preventing, ſuppreſſing and puniſhing ſuch Diſorders: And all other His Majeſty's Subjects in this Colony, are required to afford all proper and neceſſary Aid and Aſſiſtance therein.

Given under my Hand in Hartford, the twenty-firſt Day of September, in the Fifth Year of the Reign of Our Sovereign Lord GEORGE the Third, of Great-Britain, France and Ireland, KING: Defender of the Faith, &c. Annoque Domini, 1765.

THO'. FITCH.

By His Honor's Command,
George Wyllys, Secretary.

GOD ſave the KING.

NEW-YORK, Sept. 19.

On Monday Evening arrived the Brig——, Capt. Lawrence from Holland, laſt from Cowes and Falmouth, in 33 Days——; by him we have the London Papers to the 30th of July, from which we have the following Advices.

PARIS, July 8.

THEY write from Italy, that Mr. WILKES who went to Naples to live retired, has met with a freſh misfortune there. He took with him from Rome a young Pariſian woman by way of a houſekeeper, who ingratiated herſelf ſo much into his favour, that he truſted every thing to her care, by which means he became a dupe to her; for while he was gone into the country, ſhe found means to march off with every thing that he had of value, and among the reſt his papers, the loſs of which he is moſt chagrined at, and makes him think ſhe has been tampered with by ſome of his enemies.

LONDON.

At the Court at St. James's, July 10, 1765, Preſent, The KING's moſt excellent Majeſty in Council.

This day his Grace William Henry Duke of Portland, Lord Chamberlain of his Majeſty's Houſhold, his Grace Auguſtus Henry Duke of Grafton, the moſt Honorable Charles Marquis of Rockingham, the Right Honorable Henry Seymour Conway, Eſq; and the Right Honorable William Dowdeſwell, Eſq; Chancellor and Under Treaſurer of his Majeſty's Exchequer, were, by his Majeſty's command, ſworn of his Majeſty's moſt honorable Privy Council, and took their reſpective places at the Board accordingly.

His Majeſty having been pleaſed to appoint his Grace Auguſtus Henry Duke of Grafton, and the Right Honorable Henry Seymour Conway, Eſq; to be his Majeſty's principal Secretaries of State, they were this day, by his Majeſty's command, ſworn his Majeſty's principal Secretaries of State accordingly.

St. James's, July 12. His Majeſty in Council was this day pleaſed to declare the Right Honorable Daniel Earl of Winchelſea and Nottingham Lord Preſident of his Majeſty's moſt honorable Privy Council, and his Lordſhip took his Place at the Board accordingly.

This day the Right Honorable Richard Earl of Scarborough, John Earl of Aſhburnham, William Earl of Beſborough, and George Buſſy Villiers, Eſq; commonly called Lord Viſcount Villiers, Vice Chamberlin of his Majeſty's Houſhold, were, by his Majeſty's command ſworn of his Majeſty's moſt honorable Privy Council, and took their reſpective places at the Board accordingly.

Whitehall, July 13. The King has been pleaſed to appoint Charles Marquis of Rockingham, Knt. of the moſt noble Order of the Garter, the Right Honorable William Dowdeſwell, Eſq; the Honorable John Cavendiſh, Eſq; commonly called Lord John Cavendiſh, Thomas Townſhend and George Onſlow, Eſqrs, to be Commiſſioners for executing the office of Treaſurer of his Majeſty's Exchequer.

The King has been pleaſed to grant unto the Right Honorable William Dowdeſwell, Eſq; the offices of Chancellor and Under-Treaſurer of his Majeſty's Exchequer. Lond. Gaz.

Whitehall, July 20. The King has been pleaſed to conſtitute and appoint William Tryon, Eſq; to be Captain-General and Governor in Chief, in and over the province of North-Carolina in America, in the room of Arthur Dobbs, Eſq; deceaſed.

And Sir Henry Moore, Bart. Captain-General and Governor in Chief, in and over the province of New-York, and the territories depending thereon, in America, in the room of Rob. Monckton, Eſq;

St. James's, July 25. This day the Right Hon. William Earl of Dartmouth, Richard Viſcount Howe, and George Lord Edgcumbe, were, by his Majeſty's command, ſworn of his Majeſty's moſt Honorable Privy Council, and took their reſpective places at the Board accordingly.

End of the Lond. Gaz.

LONDON, July 13.

An expreſs has been diſpatched to the Honorable Henry Grenville, Eſq; Reſident at Conſtantinople, to acquaint him of his being appointed one of the Commiſſioners of the Cuſtoms: in conſequence of which, it is ſaid, he will ſoon be recalled, and another perſon appointed to ſucceed him in that ſtation.

Yeſterday the Earl of Winchelſea kiſſed his Majeſty's hand on being appointed Preſident of the Council, in the room of the Duke of Bedford.

The ſame day Lord John Cavendiſh, the Hon. Thomas Townſhend, and George Onſlow, Eſq; kiſſed his Majeſty's hand on being appointed Lords Commiſſioners of the Treaſury.

His Majeſty has appointed the Earl of Scarborough to be Cofferer of the Houſhold, in the room of the Earl of Thomond.

We alſo hear that more alterations and changes will take place Wedneſday next.

There has ſcarce ever been known ſo univerſal a change in a Miniſtry, as at preſent; ſince above one hundred Nobility and Gentry are to be included in it.

Some people who pretend to be in the very arcana of politicks, inſinuate, that the preſent Miniſtry is likely to continue but a ſhort time in power.

The Canada Bills were done at Paris, on the 8th inſt, at 34 per cent. which gives people ſome hope that they will be paid off in a ſhort time.

July 16. All neceſſary preparations are making at the Queen's Palace againſt her Majeſty's lying in, which is expected ſome time next month.

It is expected that the Parliament will meet to do buſineſs in September next; when new writs will be iſſued for filling up the ſeats that have become vacated by thoſe Members who have accepted of places in the new Adminiſtration.

Tueſday laſt a foreigner of diſtinction diſcharged two of his principal domeſtics for being concerned as agents in ſelling French laces, and other goods ſmuggled into this kingdom.

Yeſterday there was a Council at St. James's, when his Grace the Duke of Newcaſtle was ſworn in Lord Privy Seal, in the room of his Grace the Duke of Marlborough, and took his place and received the ſeal accordingly.

It is whiſpered that the buſineſs of a great Man's Journey to France is abſolutely to collect ſufficient Materials to ſupport an I——ent.

July 26. On Friday laſt his Majeſty was pleaſed to appoint the Right Hon. Lord Gage to be Paymaſter of the Penſions, in the room of the Hon. Richard Niville Neville, Eſq;

On Thurſday laſt Henry Seymore Conway, Eſq; one of his Majeſty's principal Secretaries of State, had his firſt grand Levee, at his Grace the Duke of Richmond's Houſe in Privy Gardens, Whitehall, at which were preſent all the foreign Miniſters, with a great number of the Nobility, and ſeveral other perſons of Diſtinction.

It is ſaid that the new miniſtry, will, in a very ſhort time, give the public a happy proof of their patriotick intentions, by a ſtep which will not only be the moſt popular, but the moſt advantageous for the good of the Nation that can be deſired.

It is ſaid a perſon of diſtinction is to be appointed to inſpect the condition of Dunkirk, & ſee that it be put into the condition ſtipulated by Treaty.

The Earl of Dartmouth is appointed firſt Lord of Trade and Plantations in the room of the Earl of Hillſborough.

The French Ambaſſador had a conference with the Right Hon. Mr. Secretary Conway, on affairs of importance.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.

Monday laſt the General Aſſembly for this Province met here, when the following Gentlemen, viz. Joſeph Fox, Speaker, John Dickenſon, John Morton, and George Bryan, Eſqrs; were choſen a Committee to join thoſe from the other Provinces, at a Meeting to be held at N. York, the 1ſt of Oct.

NEW-YORK, September 19.

Sunday Evening arrived here Capt. Harriſon from South-Carolina, with whom came Paſſengers Thomas Linch, Chriſtopher Gadſen, and John Rutledge Eſqrs.

BOSTON, September 19.

We hear that the Committee appointed by the Houſe of Repreſentatives of this Province, to meet the Committee of the Aſſemblies of the whole Continent, the 1ſt of October at New-York, will ſet out this Week for that Place.

We can aſſure the Public, that a Number of Merchants in this Town have wrote to England for Goods, to be ſent upon Condition ONLY, that the Stamp-Act is repeal'd.

NEW-HAVEN, September 20.

On the 17th Inſtant the Freemen of this Town met here. After choſing Roger Sherman, Eſq; and Mr. Samuel Biſhop to repreſent them in the General Aſſembly to be holden next Month, they unanimouſly deſired thoſe Repreſentatives to uſe their utmoſt Endeavours (at the General Aſſembly now ſiting at Hartford, and alſo at the enſuing Seſſion here) to obtain a Repeal of the Stamp-Act. The Stamp-Maſter-General of this Colony was at the ſaid Meeting when theſe Words were read aloud "Likewiſe voted that the Freemen preſent earneſtly deſire Mr. Ingerſoll to reſign his Stamp-Office immediately."---Numerous were the Signs of Conſent to this Vote, when a Gentleman condemned it as needleſs and inconſiſtent after their former Proceedings. The Stamp-Officer then aroſe and declared in the ſtrongeſt Terms that he would not reſign till he diſcovered how the General Aſſembly were inclined in that Reſpect.

The General Aſſembly of Rhode-Iſland have appointed Henry Ward, and Metcalf Bowler, Eſq'rs, Commiſſioners for the intended Congreſs at New-York; and have unanimouſly paſſed ſix Reſolutions, nearly akin to the glorious virginian; the laſt of which is ſaid to be this comfortable one—

RESOLVED,

"That all the Officers in this Colony, appointed by the Authority thereof, be, and they are hereby directed to proceed in the Execution of their reſpective Offices, in the ſame Manner as uſual: And this Aſſembly will indemnify and ſave harmleſs all the ſaid Officers, on Account of their Conduct agreeable to this Reſolution."

HARTFORD, September 23.

Laſt Wedneſday Afternoon, a large Company of able-bodied Men, came to Town (on Horſeback) from the Eaſtern Part of this Government, and informed thoſe who were willing to join them, that they were on their Way to New Haven, to demand the Stamp-Officer of this Colony to reſign his Office—that a Number of their Companions, were gone on the lower Roads, and that they had all agreed to rendezvous at Branford, the next Day, [Thurſday] and that they ſhould tarry in Town that Night; they then diſperſed to different Parts of the Town for Lodging. In the Evening, Advice was received, that Mr. Ingerſoll was on the Road to this Place, that he would be in Town, the next Day, and that he intended to apply to the Aſſembly for their Protection; and it being conjectured, that he might come to Town in the Night, to ſhun the Mob, (who he had heard were on their Way to pay him a Viſit) it was agreed that a Watch ſhould patrol the Streets all Night, to prevent his coming in unnoticed, but they made no Diſcoveries. On Thurſday Morning, the whole Body, (including a conſiderable Number from this Town) ſet off, on their intended Expedition, and in about an Hour met Mr. Ingerſoll, at the Lower End of Weathersfield, and let him know their Buſineſs,—he at firſt refuſed to comply, but it was inſiſted upon, that he ſhould reſign his Office of Stamp-Maſter, ſo diſagreeable to his Countrymen;—after many Propoſals, he delivered the Reſignation, mentioned below, which he read himſelf in the Hearing of the whole Company; he was then deſired to pronounce the Words, Liberty and Property, three Times, which having done, the whole Body gave three Huzza's; Mr. Ingerſoll then went to a Tavern, and dined with ſeveral of the Company: After Dinner, the Company told Mr. Ingerſoll, as he was bound to Hartford, they would eſcort him there, which they did, to the Number of almoſt Five Hundred Perſons on Horſeback. After they arrived in Town, Mr. Ingerſoll again read his Reſignation in Public, when three Huzza's more were given, and the whole Company immediately diſperſed without making the leaſt Diſturbance.

The following is a Copy of Mr. Ingerſoll's Reſignation.

Wethersfield, September 19th, 1765.

I DO hereby promiſe, that I will never receive any Stamp-Papers, which may arrive from Europe, in Conſequence of any Act lately paſſed in the Parliament of Great Britain, nor officiate in any Manner as Stamp-Maſter, or Diſtributor of Stamps, within the Colony of Connecticut, either directly or indirectly. And I do hereby notify all the Inhabitants of this his Majeſty's Colony of Connecticut, (notwithſtanding the ſaid Office or Truſt has been committed to me) not to apply to me, ever hereafter, for any ſuch Stamped Papers, hereby declaring, that I do reſign ſaid Office, and execute theſe Preſents of my own free Will and Accord, without any Equivocation, or mental Reſervation.

In Witneſs whereof I have hereunto ſet my Hand.

J. INGERSOLL.

The General Aſſembly of this Colony met here laſt Thurſday, and having finiſhed their Buſineſs, they diſſolved on Saturday.

They have appointed the Hon. Eliphalet Dyar, William-Samuel Johnſon, and David Rowland, Eſquires, Commiſſioners from this Colony, to meet thoſe of the other Colonies, at the Congreſs, to be holden at New York, the Firſt of October next.

Joſeph Talcot, Eſq; is appointed Judge of the Court of Probates for this Diſtrict.

Capt. Ozias Goodwin, of this Place, juſt arriv'd from Barbados, informs, that on the tenth Inſtant in Lat. 38. 00. Long. 69. 30. he ſpoke with Capt. Tho's Davis, bound to London, from New-York, all well on board.

A COPY of the INSTRUCTIONS, given by the FREEMEN of the Town of HARTFORD, to their Deputies.

CONSIDERING the late Reſolutions of the Britiſh Parliament, for laying an internal Tax, by Way of Stamp-Duties, upon the Colonies, without their own Conſent; and extending the Juriſdiction of the Courts of Admiralty here, beyond what was ever thought ſafe or expedient in Great-Britain, as an Infringement of our juſt Rights and Liberties, both as Engliſhmen and Coloniſts.

We, the Freemen of the Town of Hartford, in his Majeſty's Engliſh Colony of Connecticut, in New-England, in lawful Freemen's Meeting aſſembled, judge it to be our Right, and apprehend it our Duty, in this critical Conjuncture, to give you, who are our Repreſentatives, ſome Inſtructions to be obſerved by you in the General Aſſembly, to be convened here this Week, by the ſpecial Order of his Honor the Governor.

And we would eſpecially recommend it to you, to uſe your Endeavours that ſome ſuitable Remonſtrance and Petition, for Relief in the aforeſaid Matters of Grievance, be immediately tranſmitted to his Majeſty our moſt gracious Sovereign, and to the Britiſh Parliament, by the General Aſſembly of this Colony, either by themſelves, or in Conjunction with the other Colonies, as upon mature Deliberation, ſhall be thought beſt.

And although we are ready at all Times, to acknowledge the moſt dutiful Subjection to his Majeſty and the Britiſh Government; yet we would humbly and earneſtly inſiſt upon, and claim our Rights and Liberties as Engliſhmen, as well as thoſe particular Rights and Immunities granted and confirmed to us by Royal Charter, which we have been long in Poſſeſſion of. Theſe Rights and Privileges, we apprehend, are manifeſtly invaded, by the Meaſures above-mentioned; and we recommend it to you, that in your ſaid Petition, you aſſert and maintain our Rights and Privileges, tho' in a moſt humble and decent, yet in a plain and explicit Manner.

Particularly, Firſt, That we are not obliged to pay any internal Tax, to which we have never conſented, either by ourſelves or by our Repreſentatives, which we apprehend to be unconſtitutional, and a manifeſt Infraction of our inherent Rights.

Secondly, That all Cauſes ariſing in the Colony, on Account of internal Taxes, and all Matters relative thereto, may be determined by the Courts of common Law, agreeable to the Laws and Cuſtoms of England, and not by a Court of Admiralty, which moſt effectually deprives the Subject of that ancient and excellent Method of Trials by JURIES, ſo eſſential to Engliſh Liberty, and which hath been found by long Experience the beſt Security againſt arbitrary Power.

And we would further recommend it to you in the moſt humble Manner, to repreſent to his Majeſty, &c. the low and diſtreſſed State of the good People of this Colony, principally occaſioned by the immenſe Debt brought upon them for the Support of the late diſtreſſing War, and the rigorous Execution of the Acts of Trade, whereby they are rendered abſolutely incapable of paying the Stamp-Duties; and that if the Stamp-Act be executed upon them with Severity, all Buſineſs muſt totally ceaſe, for Want of a Medium of Trade, and the People be reduced to the utmoſt Diſtreſs & Miſery; for we ſhall be wholly unable to purchaſe any Britiſh Manufactures for the future; and therefore muſt be content to make the beſt Shift we can, amongſt ourſelves.

With Regard to other Matters, not of ſuch general Concernment, we ſubmit them to your Wiſdom and Prudence, in which we have the higheſt Confidence.

Mr. GREEN,

WHEREAS at the Cloſe of the Letter, in your Paper of laſt Week, ſigned E. D. referring to the Letter, the Publiſher inſerted theſe Words, viz. "Of which the Publick as yet, have "had no Notice." The Publiſher begs Leave to inform the Publick, that by theſe Words, no more was meant, than that the ſame had never been generally known in the Country. Your's &c.

Colony of CONNECTICUT.

WHEREAS, purſuant to an Act or Law of ſaid Colony, entitled, "An ACT to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors," &c. Samuel Smith and Gideon Granger, both of Suffield, in the County of Hartford, inſolvent Debtors, in Conjunction with the Major Part of their Creditors reſpectively, have exhibited their Petition, with Account of the Sums by them reſpectively owing, and Inventories of their Eſtates, &c. under Oaths, before JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court in the County of Hartford, and SAMUEL TALCOTT, Eſq; Juſtice of the Peace and Quorum in ſaid County, praying to have the ſame to be diſpoſed of for the Uſe of their ſaid Creditors: Public Notice is therefore hereby given, to all the Creditors of the ſaid Samuel Smith and Gideon Granger, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. John Lord, in Hartford, in ſaid County, on the 14th Day of October next, to ſhew Reaſon reſpectively (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of the Eſtates of the ſaid Samuel Smith and Gideon Granger ſhould not be made, and their Perſons diſcharged according to Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Act.

Sept. 21ſt, 1765.

NOTICE is hereby given to the Proprietors of Hanover, in the Province of New-Hampſhire, that are delinquent in paying the Tax of Twelve Shillings, Lawful Money, which was granted in Auguſt 6th Day, 1764, and advertiſed in this Paper the February following, according to Law; that ſo much of their Lands as is ſufficient to pay ſaid Delinquent's Tax, with incident Charges, will be ſold at a public Vendue, on the 28th Day of October next, at the Dwelling Houſe of William Watermen, Inn-holder in Mansfield, in Connecticut. Said Sale to begin at Ten of Clock in the Morning on ſaid Day, and to continue by Adjournment till all be ſold. Dated at Coventry this 16th Day of September, A. D. 1765.

AMOS RICHARDSON, jun. Collector.

RAN-AWAY from Stephen Hopkins of the Nine-Partners, a Negro Man named Simon, about 24 Years of Age, near 6 Feet high, well proportioned, had on when he went away, a blue Coat, braſs Buttons with round Tops, a light-colour'd, double-breaſted Waiſtcoat, a white Tow Shirt, ſhort Tow Trowſers, black and white Stocking, two Threads twiſted together, an old felt Hat with a ſmall Brim. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid Negro, and ſecure him in any of his Majeſty's Goals, ſo that his Maſter may have him again, ſhall have Five Dollars Reward, and all neceſſary Charges paid, by

STEPHEN HOPKINS.

Colony of CONNECTICUT.

WHEREAS purſuant to an Act or Law of ſaid Colony, entitled "An Act to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, &c."——William Redfield of Middletown, in ſaid Colony, an Inſolvent Debtor; in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors, hath exhibited his Petition with an Account of the Sums by him owing, and the Names of the Perſons to whom, and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, in the County of Hartford, and Seth Wetmore, Eſq; Juſtice of Peace and Quorum, in ſaid County; praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of, for the Uſe of his ſaid Creditors. Public Notice is therefore hereby given, to all the Creditors of the ſaid William Redfield, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Nathaniel Chauncey, Eſq; Inn-holder in ſaid Middletown, in ſaid County, on Friday the 27th Day of September Inſt. to ſhew Reaſon, (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of the ſaid William ſhould not be made, according to the Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Act.

Sept. 3d, 1765.

Colony of Connecticut.

WHEREAS, purſuant to an Act or Law of ſaid Colony, entitled "An Act to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, &c."——David Wilcocks of Suffield, in the County of Hartford, an Inſolvent Debtor, in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors, hath exhibited his Petition, with an Account of the Sums by him owing, and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court in the County of Hartford, and SETH WETMORE, Eſq; Juſtice of the Peace and Quorum in ſaid County, praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of for the Uſe of his ſaid Creditors: Public Notice is therefore hereby given, to all the Creditors of the ſaid David Wilcocks, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Nathaniel Chauncey, Eſq; Inn-holder in Middletown, in ſaid County, on Friday, the 27th of September Inſt. to ſhew Reaſon, (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of the ſaid David Wilcocks ſhould not be made, and his Perſon diſcharged according to Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Act.

Sept. 11th, 1765.

Hartford, September 9th, 1765.

ALL Perſons Indebted to William Knox, by Book, are deſired ſpeedily to ſettle and pay their reſpective Ballances to Thomas Seymour, jun. of Hartford, his Attorney, to prevent Trouble.

FOUND, the 29th of Auguſt laſt, on the Road between Eaſt-Hartford and Glaſſenbury, a Watch, a Pair of Buckles, a Shirt, three Pair of Shoes, and a Pair of Breeches. The Owner may have them again, of the Subſcribers, of Eaſt-Hartford, on proving his Property. Inquire of John Wadſworth, and Joſeph Porter, jun.

HARTFORD, Printed by T. GREEN.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1765. NUMBER 45.

The Connecticut COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

Abſtract of a Narrative [juſt publiſhed] of a moſt extraordinary Event, concerning three Women who were ſaved out of the Ruins of a Stable, where they had been buried thirty-ſeven Days, by a heavy Fall of Snow from one of the Mountains of the Alps, near Piedmont, in Italy.

IT will be neceſſary to inform our readers, that the inhabitants of the Alps, call, by the name of Valanca, a very conſiderable quantity of ſnow whirled about with great impetuoſity by the wind, and therefore of ſufficient force to tear up the thickeſt and ſtouteſt trees from their roots, to beat down animals to the ground, and to ſuffocate them; as is too often the caſe with thoſe who are indiſcreet enough to attempt the paſſing of the Alps, eſpecially of Mount Cenis, at a time judged improper by thoſe who continually reſide in ſuch ſituations, and can therefore foretel, by certain ſigns, the ſudden riſe of theſe terrible whirlwinds.

In the months of February and March of the year 1755, they had in Turin, a great fall of rain, and, as it generally ſnows in the mountains when it rains in the plain, it cannot appear ſurpriſing, that during this interval, there fell vaſt quantities of ſnow in the mountains, which of courſe formed ſeveral Valancas. The bad weather which prevailed in ſo many other places, prevailed likewiſe at Bergemoletto, a little hamlet ſeated in that part of the Alps which ſeparates the valley of Stora and Piedmont from Dauphine and the county of Nice. On the 19th of March, many of the inhabitants of this hamlet began to apprehend that the weight of ſnow which was already fallen, and ſtill continued to fall, might cruſh their houſes. They therefore got upon their roofs to lighten them of the ſnow. At a little diſtance from the church, ſtood the houſe of Joſeph Roccia, a man of about fifty, who, with his ſon James, a lad of 15 had, like his neighbours, got upon the roof of his houſe, in order to leſſen the weight on it, and thereby prevent its deſtruction. In the mean time, the clergyman, who lived in the neighbourhood, and was about leaving home, in order to repair to the church, and gather the people together to hear prayers, hearing a noiſe towards the top of the mountains, deſcried two Valancas driving headlong towards the village. Wherefore raiſing his voice, he gave Joſeph notice inſtantly to come down from the roof, to avoid the impending danger; and then immediately retreated himſelf into his own houſe.

Joſeph Roccia immediately came off the roof at the prieſt's notice, and with his ſon fled as hard as he could towards the church. He ſcarce advanced forty ſteps, when, hearing his ſon fall juſt at his heels, he turned about to aſſiſt him, and, taking him up, ſaw the ſpot on which his houſe, ſtable, and thoſe of ſome of his neighbours ſtood; converted into a huge heap of ſnow, without the leaſt ſign of either walls or roofs. Mary Anne, his wife, who was ſtanding (with her ſiſter-in law Anne, her daughter Margaret, and her ſon Anthony, a little boy two years old) at the door of the ſtable, looking at the people throwing the ſnow from off the houſes, and waiting for the ringing of the bell that was to call them to prayers, was about taking a turn to the houſe. But, before ſhe could ſet out, ſhe heard the prieſt cry out to them to come down quickly; and, raiſing her trembling eyes, ſaw the foreſaid Valancas ſet off, and roll down the ſide of the mountain; and at the ſame inſtant ſhe heard a terrible report from another quarter, which made her retreat back quickly with her family, and ſhut the door of the ſtable. Happy it was for her that ſhe had time to do ſo; for in a very ſhort time the ſnow was lodged about 42 feet in height, 270 in length, and about 60 in breadth.

The inhabitants of Burgemoletto, whom it pleaſed GOD to preſerve from this diſaſter, being gathered together, firſt counted 30 houſes overwhelmed; and then every one calling over thoſe he knew, 22 ſouls were miſſing, of which number was their pariſh prieſt, who had lived among them 40 years. All the friends and relations of the ſufferers, with many others, to the amount of 300, flocked of their own accord from the adjacent villages, to give their aſſiſtance on this melancholy occaſion. They tried, if by driving iron rods through the hardened ſnow, they could diſcover any roofs, but in vain: the great ſolidity and compactneſs of the Valanca, the vaſt extent of it in length, breadth, and height, together with the ſnow, that ſtill continued to fall in great quantities, eluded all their efforts; ſo that, after ſome days labour, they were obliged to deſiſt till the valley ſhould begin to aſſume its priſtine form by the melting of the ſnow and ice, from the ſetting in of the warm winds, which continue to blow from the end of March till about the 20th of April.

On the 18th of that month, they began to reſume their interrupted labours. All the perſons that were miſſing, were found dead, except thoſe of Joſeph Roccia's family. Aſſiſted by his two brothers-in-law, and ſon, he at length penetrated to his houſe, but found no dead bodies in it. Knowing that the ſtable did not lie 100 feet from the houſe, they immediately directed their ſearch towards it, and having got a long pole through a hole, they heard a hoarſe and lanquid voice iſſue from it, which ſeemed to ſay, Help, my dear huſband, help, my dear brother, help. The huſband and brother, thunderſtruck, and at the ſame time encouraged by theſe words, fell to their work with redoubled ardour, on the place whence the voice came. It was not long before they made a pretty large opening, through which the brother deſcended, aſking who it was that could be alive in ſuch a place? Mary Anne knew him by his voice, and anſwered with a trembling and broken accent, intermixed with tears of joy, It is I, my dear brother, who am ſtill alive, in company with my daughter and my ſiſter-in-law. GOD, in whom I have always truſted, ſtill hoping that he would inſpire you with the thought of coming to our relief, has been graciouſly pleaſed to keep us alive. The paſſage being enlarged, they were taken out, and being brought to a friend's houſe, and there treated on a thin diet, and in ſmall quantities at a time, when their ſtrength was a little recruited, they gave an account that they ſubſiſted all that time on the milk of two goats which had been ſhut up with them, and about a dozen of cheſnuts; that they lay in the manger, where they found ſome hay with which they fed the goats; that, one of the goats becoming dry, the other, fortunately with kid, dropped it, which having killed, this goat yielded them about a pint of milk each day, till their deliverance; that the little boy of two years old died in a ſhort time after they were confined in the ſtable, as did an aſs, and ſome hens that then happened to be in the ſame place; and that they ſuffered exceedingly from cold and wet, the ſnow continually dripping upon them as they lay in the manger.

Theſe poor ſufferers were relieved by the munificence of the King of Sardinia, their ſovereign, and the ſeveral donations they otherwiſe received, which enabled them to rebuild their houſe, and ſet their other affairs to rights. In April of the year 1757, they all enjoyed perfect health, except Mary-Anne, who ſuffered a dimneſs of her ſight, by being too haſtily expoſed to the light. The others have returned to their uſual field labours, and have ever ſince continued to lead the ſame life they did before their misfortunes.

ANNAPOLIS, (in Maryland) Sept. 5.

Wedneſday, laſt Week, a Number of reputable perſons aſſembled together at Baltimore-town, and diverted themſelves with Carting, Whipping, Hanging, and Burning the Effigies of a Diſtributor of Stamps.

On Thurſday, the ſame happened at Elk-Ridge; and on Monday, at Frederick-Town, in Frederick County: Exhibitions of this Sort being now very common in this Province, as well as other Parts.

Monday Night laſt, a Number of People unknown, aſſembled in this Town, and pulled down a Houſe lately Rented by a certain unwelcome Officer.

Charles-Town, Auguſt 27th, 1765.

Mr. GREEN,

SIR,

AN infamous Report is going about here, and I am informed is ſpreading all over the Province, That the Perſon appointed to the ODIOUS OFFICE of DISTRIBUTOR of STAMPS for MARYLAND, ſaid, when he arrived, and found himſelf very coolly received, That "the People "need not think much of his Appointment to "that Office, for that one of their Aſſemblymen, "as well as many others, applied for it, but "could not ſucceed: That Mr. FRANKLIN not "only ſollicited the Office for me, but offered, ſome ſay, he ſaid, "One Thouſand," others, "Three Thouſand Guineas for it, on my Account."

I hope, Sir, my Conduct has been ſuch, both in a private and public Station, as to induce a general Belief, that I have the FEELINGS of HUMANITY, am a FRIEND to LIBERTY, and LOVE my COUNTRY; and I ſhould be extremely ſorry, by an Act ſo truly contemptible, to have afforded Room for a contrary Opinion. I therefore beg the Liberty, through your Paper, publickly to declare, That if Mr. FRANKLIN did even aſk the Office for me, it was ſo far from being at my Requeſt, that it was without my Privity; That no Conſideration ſhould have induced me to have had any Hand in the Execution of a Law, tending to the Subverſion of our deareſt RIGHTS as FREE BORN SUBJECTS of ENGLAND, and to the Suppreſſion of the RREEDOM of the PRESS: That I never had the moſt remote Intention of applying for that Office; and alſo that I think it extremely improbable, if Mr. FRANKLIN had any Inclination to apply for me unſolicited, that he ſhould not have given me ſome Information of it, which I alſo declare he has not done, either directly or indirectly; nor have I received a Line from him upon any Subject whatever, ſince he went laſt to ENGLAND.

I am, SIR,

Your moſt humble Servant,

THOMAS RINGGOLD.

To Meſſieurs GREEN and RIND.

GENTLEMEN,

I AM informed that the STAMP LAW takes Place the firſt Day of November next; I therefore hereby give Notice, to all Officers whatever, that may be appointed by Virtue of that moſt grievous and unconſtitutional Act (to prevent them Trouble) That I will pay no Tax whatever, but what is laid upon me by my Repreſentatives.

I am GENTLEMEN,

Your humble Servant,

BENJAMIN WELSH.

Colony of CONNECTICUT.

WHEREAS, purſuant to an Act or Law of ſaid Colony, entitled, "An ACT to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors," &c. Samuel Smith and Gideon Granger, both of Suffield, in the County of Hartford, inſolvent Debtors, in Conjunction with the Major Part of their Creditors reſpectively, have exhibited their Petition, with Account of the Sums by them reſpectively owing, and Inventories of their Eſtates, &c. under Oaths, before JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court in the County of Hartford, and SAMUEL TALCOTT, Eſq; Juſtice of the Peace and Quorum in ſaid County, praying to have the ſame to be diſpoſed of for the Uſe of their ſaid Creditors: Public Notice is therefore hereby given, to all the Creditors of the ſaid Samuel Smith and Gideon Granger, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. John Lord, in Hartford, in ſaid County, on the 14th Day of October next, to ſhew Reaſon reſpectively (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of the Eſtates of the ſaid Samuel Smith and Gideon Granger ſhould not be made, and their Perſons diſcharged according to Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Act.

Sept. 21ſt, 1765.

GENEVA, June 25.

The French are ſending timber from every quarter to their dock yards, and building ſhips of war with the greateſt diligence that is poſſible. All they fear is, that Monſieur Pitt ſhould again become miniſter in England, and fall upon them before their ſchemes are completed. They know well that they have nothing to fear from the other perſon, who cauſed the guns to be fired for the taking of the Havannah itſelf [ſee admiral Pocock's letter relating to the vaſt importance of that place] at midnight.

LONDON, July 13.

'Tis ſaid a certain Nobleman betted upwards of 30,000l. on Aſcham, who loſt the grand match laſt Wedneſday at Newmarket.

We hear that a Nobleman, lately deceaſed, left all his ready money in the houſe, all his caſh in the hands of his Bankers, all his property in the ſtocks, his jewels, plate, furniture, horſes, and equipages, (the whole to a very conſiderable amount) to Mrs. B——, with whom he had cohabited above 20 years. He has alſo left her three daughters (by him) ten thouſand pounds the eldeſt, and five thouſand each to the other two.

July 26. It is ſaid that the Earl of Hertford, who is daily expected in town from Paris, will be appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, in the room of Lord Weymouth; and that the Earl of Huntingdon will go as Ambaſſador to Paris in his room.

It is confidently aſſerted, that his Royal Highneſs the Duke of York will negotiate an affair of great conſequence, in perſon, with the King of Pruſſia.

His Grace the Duke of Grafton, Secretary of State for the Northern department has appointed Lovell Stanhope, and Richard Stonhewer, Eſq'rs. to be his Secretaries.

The Right Hon. Mr. Secretary Conway has appointed William Bruke Eſq; to be his principal Under Secretary, and Michael Peter Morin, and John Chriſtopher Roberts, Eſq'rs, to be the Aſſiſtant Under-Secretaries in his office.

July 28. On Saturday Evening his Majeſty's Ship Medway, Capt. Fricker, arrived at Spithead, from Bengal. In this Governor Vanſittart is arrived; and, we hear, ſets out for London Tomorrow Morning.—We hourly expect his Majeſty's Ship York, and two Eaſt-Indiamen from the above Place.

A ſmall Horſe, four Years old, and no more than 28 Inches 1-half high, is brought over in the Medway Man of War, from the Indies, deſigned as a Preſent to his Majeſt.

It is ſaid that Gen. Draper will ſoon be appointed Commander in Chief of all his Majeſty's Forts and Settlements on the Coaſts of Africa.

We hear another Attempt will be made to find out the North-Weſt Paſſage, under the Direction of an Admiral well known for his Skill in Navigation.

Yeſterday was tried at Guildhall, before Lord Mansfield, a Cauſe, wherein Meſſrs. Carr, Ibbetſon, and Comp. Mercers on Ludgate Hill, were Plaintiffs, againſt ſeveral Revenue Officers, Defendants, for entering and ſearching the Houſe of the Plaintiffs, under Pretence of their having a large Quantity of prohibited Goods in their Poſſeſſion: When it appearing that the Officers had not the leaſt Foundation for ſuch Search, the Jury, which conſiſted of Merchants, found a Verdict againſt the Officers for 100l. Damages, with Coſts of Suit.

Extracts from the Engliſh Papers from the 18th to the 30th of July.

July 15. His Majeſty has been pleaſed to make the following Grants and Appointment, Lieut. Stephen Kemble of the 15th regiment of foot, to be Captain in the 60th or Royal American regiment, and 'tis ſaid John Shelly, Eſq; is to ſucceed Lord Charles Spencer as Comptroller of the Houſhould; Thomas Stanton, Eſq; a Commiſſioner of Trade in the room of Lord Orwell; and Sir William Meridith a Lord of the Admiralty.

The Lord Edgecumbe is appointed Treaſurer of the Houſhould, in the room of the Earl of Powis.

Several Weſt-India Commiſſions, to the amount of ſeveral thouſand pounds, which had been poſtponed for upwards of two years paſt, on account of the unpopular management of public affairs, have ſince the late changes in the Miniſtry been carrying into execution.

It is confidently reported that two of our Weſt-India Iſlands, and ſome places on the Continent, will be declared free Ports. Many people expect the ſpeedy diſſolution of the Parliament.

It is ſaid the Printers in America would all print monthly magazines inſtead of News-Papers, to avoid the Stamp duties. But this would not have affected it.

The French inhabitants of Hiſpaniola ſeem to be greatly enraged againſt the civil and military department.

The Prince of Orange is expected ſoon in England.

July 18. Mr. Whitefield juſt arrived in the Earl of Halifax Packet from New-York, much weakened by the fatigue of his voyage.

The French Fiſhery on the banks and coaſts of Newfoundland has been continually increaſing for ſeveral years paſt, they have this year double the number of ſhips and men that uſed to be employed there, and it is of the more importance becauſe it is the beſt nurſery in the world for expert, hardy, healthy ſeamen.

The Commander of the French forces in Corſica has ſent a Courier to Verſailles with the Preliminary Articles of a Treaty between him and Paſcal Paoli.

By a letter from Leghorn dated June 28, we are aſſured that the Dey of Algiers was found murdered in his bed, ſuppoſed to be by his brother.

LONDON.

July 12. It is reported that the Hon. Mr. Stanley's rout to Genoa, is in conſequence of a Treaty between our Court and that Republic, for annexing the iſland of Corſica to the Crown of Great-Britain.

A manufacture of fine blankets has lately been eſtabliſhed in the Province of Connecticut in North-America, ſome of which have been imported here from N. England, and are much admired.

July 16. It is whiſpered, that one principal Cauſe of the late great Change, was in conſequence of certain vigorous Repreſentations, founded on Facts, and ſupported by the Credit of a very great Perſonage, that but a few Months longer Continuance of the then Meaſures, reſpecting Trade, would not only throw the Balance into the Hands of our natural Enemies and Rivals, but alſo go near to ruin the Weſt-India and Colony Commerce, to the enriching the other European Settlements in America, at the Expence of this Kingdom.

July 19. It is certain that Lord Littleton has declined accepting of any Place, altho' offered ſeveral, and that Lord Shelburne has done the ſame; from whence various Conjectures are drawn.

July 23. Yeſterday Morning, at Eleven o'Clock, the Right Hon. Mr. Pitt and Lord Temple ſet out from his Lordſhip's Houſe in Pall-mall, for Stow in Buckinghamſhire.

It was currently reported Yeſterday, that a great Perſonage at the Court End of the Town had ſhot himſelf.

Laſt Week ſeveral Fullers and Dyers were engaged, on good Encouragement, to embark for New-York, to be employed in the new Fullery Mills at Hampſtead, in Long-Iſland, where theſe two Branches have already been carried on to great Perfection.

We are informed that the major Part of the Perſons diſcharged by the late Miniſtry, will be reinſtated by ſome Gentlemen in the preſent.

July 18. Yeſterday the Right Hon. William Pitt gave a grand entertainment to ſeveral of the new miniſtry at his ſeat at Hayes.

In conſequence of a very genteel and polite meſſage from Mr. Secretary Conway to the Canada merchants, the committee appointed by that body waited upon that gentleman yeſterday; when they laid a ſtate of their caſe before him, reſpecting the Canada bills: He was fully convinced of the hardneſs of their caſe, and aſſured them in the ſtrongeſt manner, the affair ſhould be taken up immediately by a ſpirited negotiation, and did not doubt but in a very ſhort time juſtice would be obtained.

We are informed, a ſcheme is on foot for each of the North-American colonies to furniſh their own armed ſhips in the nature of the Guarda-Coſtas; as intended to be done by the province of New England, and for which they will be allowed an adequate ſum; his Majeſty's ſhips of war are to be recalled, in order to leſſen this expence of government.

A great perſonage, it is whiſpered, was lately applied to, and requeſted to accept of a very lucrative and honorable employment, but inſtead of complying, he returned the following anſwer: "My Lord, I have near thirty thouſand pounds a year penny rent, and do you imagine, with ſuch a fortune, I can ſtoop to be a ſervant out of livery.

On the 13th inſtant ſailed from Plymouth, two tranſports with troops on board bound to America.

The Lord Biſhop of Canterbury has preſented the Rev. Eaſt Apthorp, M. A. to the vicarage of Croydon in Surry, vacant by the death of the Rev. Mr. Wade.

There are no leſs than nine Indians and Blacks admitted to holy orders, who are preparing to embark for their reſpective miſſions to America and the Coaſt of Guinea.

Yeſterday morning the right hon. William Pitt, Eſq; his lady, and family, ſet out with a numerous retinue from Hayes, to his ſeat at Burton, near Bridgwater, in Somerſetſhire.

On Friday night the Prince of Naſſau arrived in town from Holland.

July 25. Saturday the Duke of Bedford ſet out for Paris, ſome ſay upon buſineſs of the utmoſt importance to a new oppoſition, in the enſuing winter campaign.

It is ſtill rumoured that Mr. Wilkes will certainly have his Outlawry ſoon reverſed, and be gratified with a conſiderable Poſt in America; ſome ſay, the Office of Firſt Commiſſioner for the ſale of Crown Lands, or at the Head of the Poſt-Office there.

It is expected that ſome new Commiſſioners for the Sale of Crown-Lands in the Weſt-Indies, and of our late Acquiſitions in America, will be appointed before the end of the Week.

The Providence, Small, from the Havannah, is arrived in the river with 300,000 gold and ſilver dollars.

July 30. When the Panther man of war, lately arrived, left India, there were no leſs than twenty-five ſhips on the ſtocks at Bombay, building for the ſervice of the Eaſt-India Company, for the country trade; and a fine additional large dock-yard was nearly finiſhed.

LONDON, July 22.

Yeſterday a certain Officer in a particular department of ſtate, went to St. James's, and as he was approaching the the Cloſet of his Sovereign with his green bag, in order to tranſact the Office, he was met by a Nobleman at the door, who informed him, that he had juſt kiſſed the King's hand as his ſucceſſor: A circumſtance that afforded much mirth.

We hear that a Yatch will be ordered to ſail, in a few days, to bring over the Princeſs Sophia of Mecklenbourg, who is coming on a viſit to their Majeſties; and, it is ſaid, her Serene Highneſs will arrive here before the Queen's lying in.

It is ſaid that Col. Barre will be appointed one of the Vice-Treaſurers of Ireland, in the room of Mr. Rigby, reſigned.

Auguſt 3. Some extraordinary diſpatches are ſaid to have been received this week from Jamaica; the contents of which have not yet tranſpired.

Letters from South-Carolina, of the 6th ult. ſay, that orders are received from London, in all the ſouthern Provinces of America, for preventing any unneceſſary rigour towards Spaniſh veſſels coming in for refreſhment.

Major Rogers is lately arrived here from America. This Gentleman was the firſt perſon in America, who raiſed a body of troops at his own expence, and headed them againſt the enemy Indians.

Yeſterday there was a grand Levee at St. James's, at which Governor Vanſittart lately arrived from India, attended, and had the honour of a private conferrence with his Majeſty.

Thurſday Lord Hertford kiſſed his Majeſty's hand, on being appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

Yeſterday Lord Cornwallis kiſſed his Majeſty's hand on being appointed a Lord of his Majeſty's Bed Chamber in the room of Lord Bolingbroke.

It is reported, that the pecuniary appointment of the Lord Lieut. of Ireland, will be made up 25,000l. per annum, in order to ſupport the dignity of his Majeſty's vicegerent with becoming grandeur.

◆ ◆ ◆

BOSTON, Sept. 26.

Sunday laſt being the Anniverſary of the Coronation of our moſt gracious King, GEORGE the Third, and Queen CHARLOTTE, the Fortune and Jamaica Sloops of War, lying in this Harbour, diſcharged their Guns.——The Morning following was uſher'd in with ringing of Bells. At Noon the Regiment of Militia of the Town, with the Train of Artillery belonging thereto, were muſtered, as alſo his Excellency's Company of Cadets; and having marched into Kingſtreet, three Vollies were fired by the Regiment, followed by a Royal Salute from two Field Pieces belonging to the Train; alſo three Vollies by the Cadets, with a Fue de Joy. At One o'Clock the Guns at Caſtle Willam and at the ſeveral Batteries in Town, were fired on the Occaſion.

We hear that William Story, Eſq; has reſigned the Office of Deputy Regiſter of the Court of Vice Admiralty in this Province.

In Capt. Hulme from London, is come about 14 Boxes of ſtamped Paper and Parchment, ſent for Uſe of this Province, New-Hampſhire, and Rhode-Iſland;—thoſe for Connecticut were to be forwarded in ſome Veſſel bound to N. York. Capt. Hulme was guarded in by the Jamaica Sloop of War and Gaſpee Cutter, and brought too under the Guns of the Caſtle, near which alſo lay the Fortune Sloop of War, under which Protection the Ship now lies.

The Cygnet, Capt. Leſlie, is arrived here.

Notifications having been given, that a Number of Horſes were to ſtart for a Purſe of 200 Dollars, on the New Courſe at Boſton-Neck, on Wedneſday;—a great Number of Perſons from this and the neighbouring Towns who could poſſibly leave their Buſineſs reſorted thither in the Heat of the Day:—where, after a Collection to fill the Purſe, ſeveral Horſes ſtarted, and that which was intended to win, with Difficulty obtained the Prize; the Gentlemen of the Turf having ſhared the Booty, the People returned greatly exaſperated at being thus jockied.——It is ſaid the Concourſe of People was greater than has been known at one Time for ſix Weeks paſt.

We find by the Engliſh Prints there are great political Diſputes, whether the preſent Miniſtry came in under Lord B---e or not, ſome affirming they did, others to the contrary; and 'twas thought by many there would ſoon be another Change of the GREAT OFFICERS of State, ſtill more ADVANTAGEOUS TO BRITAIN AND HER COLONIES.———One Paper has in it the following Paragraphs, viz.

"Things in general continue in a very unſettled Situation: One Party ſays, the Favourite has no Concern in the late Alterations; the other affirms his Influence is ſtronger than ever, and go ſo far as to name Particulars. In the mean Time the unanimous Voice of the Public is for Mr. Pitt and Lord Temple; while they are out, it is feared we ſhall hear of nothing but Faction and Cabal.

"It ſeems now to be the general Opinion, in the political World, that every Thing will ſoon be made agreeable to the Right Hon. Mr. Pitt, and that he will accept the Poſt of Secretary of State for the Southern Department, in which Caſe it is thought the Right Honorable Mr. Conway will be appointed Secretary at War.

"It is now ſaid the Parliament will ſhortly be ſummoned together, on Affairs of very great Importance to the Nation, after which, 'tis ſaid there will be a Diſſolution, in order to proceed to a new Election."

A Letter from London ſays, "The Change of the Miniſtry will turn out much to the Advantage of the Colonies; and that the Burdens on Trade will be taken off."—

Captain Shand, in the Brig Triſtram, was to ſail in a Fortnight after Captain Hulme.

Capts. Bruce and Hunter had put up in London, and would ſail for this Place as ſoon as they could get Freight, which was very difficult to be obtain'd.

Wedneſday laſt arrived here the Ship Juno, Capt. Benjamin Homer, in Eight Weeks from Newcaſtle, who informs, that Yeſterday Sen'night he ſpoke with Capt. Dorrington in a Ship from this Port bound to London, 108 Leagues to the Eaſtward, all well on board.

Laſt Week was married at Middleborough Mr. James Freeman, to Mrs. Elizabeth Wright. The whole of their Wedding Cloaths were very rich, and manufactured in that Town.—A noble Example of Oeconomy, and truly worthy of Imitation.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.

By Capt. Callahan, from Liſbon, we are informed they had Advice there from Cadiz, that three French Men of War of the Line, and four or five Frigates, had been off the Port of Sallee, in order to deſtroy it; but not having ſufficient Depth of Water, they manned 17 Boats with upwards of 500 Men, proceeded up the River, and deſtroyed a Battery, a Row Galley and ſome Craft; that afterwards in going higher up they were engaged by the Salletines, who lay in Ambuſh, and fired ſo briſkly on them, as obliged them to ſtrike their Colours; upon which ſome Hundreds of the Infidels immediately jumped into Water, with their long Knives in their Mouths, to take Poſſeſſion of the Boats; that the French, being apprehenſive of immediate Death, hoiſted their Colours again, fired and killed a great Number of the Turks, but being overpowered by Numbers, their Retreat cut off, and the greateſt Part of them killed, the reſt were made priſoners, and their Boats deſtroyed.

NEW-YORK, September 26.

On Monday laſt arrived the Schooner Collector's Miſtake, Captain James Barnaby, in about 46 Days from Dublin; by whom we have the Dublin Papers to the 3d of Auguſt, but they contain no material Advices later than we had by the London Veſſels.

Capt. Barnaby left Dublin the 3d of Auguſt, and about, four days after ſpoke a ſhip from Virginia, on board of which was Mr. James of this town, merchant, and about a Fortnight after ſpoke a ſhip from Newport, on board of which Mr. Martin Howard and Dr. Moffat, &c. from that place were paſſengers.

Yeſterday the Lord Hyde Packet, Capt. Goddard, ſailed with the Mail for Falmouth.

The General Aſſembly of this Colony are, we hear, to meet on the 15th of next month.

HARTFORD, September 30.

There has lately been diſcovered in Stafford, about 30 Miles from this Place, a remarkable Spring of Water, the extraordinary Reports of its phyſical Effects, has occaſioned ſome Thouſands of ſickly Perſons to reſort to it for Relief.

WHereas more than five of the Proprietors of the Townſhip of Wincheſter in the County of Litchfield, have applied to me the Subſcriber to warn a Meeting of ſaid Proprietors, to conſider of ſome ſuitable Method for the better Regulation of the Highways in ſaid Townſhip; alſo to chooſe a Clerk for ſaid Proprietors, and further to tranſact any other Buſineſs that may be tho't needful, &c. Theſe are therefore to notify and warn all whom it may concern, to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Moſes Butler, Inn-holder in Hartford, on Tueſday the 22d Day of October next, at One of the Clock Afternoon, then and there to enter upon the Buſineſs aforeſaid.

Hartford, September 30th, 1765.

THO'S SEYMOUR, jun. Proprietors Clerk.

NOTICE is hereby given to all Perſons indebted to the Eſtate of Capt. John Elton, deceaſed, by Book, that they muſt ſpeedily adjuſt their Accounts, and ſettle the ſame, by Caſh, or their Obligations, on Intereſt.——All Perſons ſo indebted, are particularly deſired to attend at the Houſe of the ſaid deceaſed, in Middletown, on Thurſday the 10th Day of October next, to ſettle ſaid Accounts, where the Executrix will be provided with proper Aſſiſtance to expedite the Buſineſs.—Any Perſon indebted that fails to attend, it is hoped will not think it hard if they are immediately ſued, as they certainly muſt be.—Any Perſon indebted to ſaid Eſtate by Note, are likewiſe deſired to call on ſaid Day, and ſee after their Notes, elſe the ſame will be ſold and paſs'd away to ſuch Creditors to ſaid Eſtate as will accept of the ſame. And the Creditors to ſaid Eſtate are earneſtly deſir'd to bring in their Claims to

ESTHER ELTON, Executrix.

The MERCHANT, in Anſwer to the FARMER, will be in our next.

QUEBEC, Auguſt 8.

Friday the 2d Inſtant, the 28th Regiment, Lord Townſhend's, commanded by the Honorable Major ARTHUR BROWN, was reviewed in the Palace Yard, before the Right Hon. Lord ADAM GORDON, Col. of the 66th Regiment, and a numerous Body of Military Officers, and other Spectators.——The Regiment made a very fine Appearance, and went through the Manual Exerciſe Evolutions and Firings, the neweſt and lateſt ordered, with equal Eaſe and exactneſs.——The Spectators, eſpecially his Lordſhip and the Military, expreſs'd the higheſt Satisfaction. The Corps had been practiſed to theſe Manœuvre only a few Weeks; and as they vary in many Reſpects from what has been in Uſe before, their being performed with ſo much Alertneſs and Preciſion, was a Demonſtration to all of the Diligence of the Officers, in keeping the Corps in conſtant Diſcipline and Order, notwithſtanding the ungenerous Slurs which have been inſinuated in any way to the Contrary. it being impoſſible for any Body of Soldiers to become perfect in ſo ſhort a Space of Time, in a Variety of new and difficult Motions, unleſs they had been conſtantly and regularly diſciplined to all ſuch as from Time to Time had been uſed and ordered.

The Day following, in the Morning, the Officers of the Corps, at his Lordſhip's Deſire, waited on him at the Major's Quarters, when he was pleaſed to give the Sanction of his Applauſe to the Appearance and Performance he had been Witneſs to,—"Not (according to his own Expreſſion) as a Compliment in Form, but, in abſolute Juſtice to its Merits."

The ſame Day, about two in the Afternoon, his Lordſhip left this Place, after viewing all its Environs, attended by a Retinue of other Gentlemen, who had taken the Tour of Britiſh America with him from Penſacola. Amongſt thoſe who went with him from hence, were, Mr. Moore, Mr. Livias, from England, who, with his Lordſhip, have ſet an Example to the Britiſh Gentry, highly worthy of being followed, that of travelling over a Country as important to Britain, as extenſive to itſelf: In other Tours Gentlemen may improve their Taſte in the fine Arts, and entertain their Imaginations; but in this they acquire the Knowledge of a Dominion, the moſt important and intereſting to their Mother Country; and if the Toil of it is not compenſated by variety of Views of excellent Performances in the Arts, and the Converſation of Men eminent for poliſh'd Manners, extenſive Learning, an refin'd Genius, yet is it amply repaid by the contemplation of Wonders in Nature, which no other Part of the Globe can parallel, and of various Nations, without Arts or Letters, and living in Savage Liberty, which demonſtrate a Sagacity and Intelligence, with Reſpect to what on their Principles, they eſteem their public Intereſts, which the profoundeſt Politicians of the moſt civilized States may admire at; and what ſhould be moſt pleaſing to a patriotic, Britiſh Spirit, a vaſt Extent of moſt valuable Territory, poſſeſs'd, improv'd and cultivated by Britiſh People, and rapidly enlarging by their Induſtry and Spirit to tranſmit the Religion, Laws and Liberties of their Country to indeterminate Generations, and thro' an Empire the moſt opulent and extenſive that ever took Place in the World.

Since our laſt ſailed from this Port for Europe, the Schooner Rebecca, Charles Forthingham Maſter, in whom went Paſſenger the Hon. Benjamin Price, Eſq; one of the Members of his Majeſty's Council for this Province.

BOSTON, September 19.

AT a Meeting of the Freeholders and other Inhabitants of the Town of Boſton, by Adjournment, September 18, 1765.——Voted, That the Hon. James Otis Eſq; the Moderator, the Hon. Samuel Welles, Eſq; the Hon. Harriſon Gray, Eſq; the Hon. Royal Tyler, Eſq; Joſhua Henſhaw, Eſq; John Rowe, Eſq; and Mr. Samuel Adams, be a Committee to draw up and tranſmit, by the firſt Opportunity, to the Right Honorable General CONWAY, now one of His Majeſty's principal Secretaries of State, and to Col. ISAAC BARRE, a Member of Parliament, ſeveral Addreſſes, humbly expreſſing the ſincere Thanks of this Metropolis of his Majeſty's ancient and loyal Province of the Maſſachuſetts-Bay; for their noble generous and truly patriotic Speeches, at the laſt Seſſion of Parliament, in Favour of the Colonies, their Rights and Privileges: And that correct Copies of the ſame be deſired, that they may be depoſited among our moſt precious Archives. Alſo voted, That thoſe Gentlemen's Pictures, as ſoon as they can be obtained, be placed in Faneuil-Hall, as a ſtanding Monument, to all Poſterity, of the Virtue and Juſtice of our Benefactors, and a laſting Proof of our Gratitude.

Atteſt. William Cooper, Town Clerk.

It is reported that Sir GEORGE SAVILE, Sir WILLIAM BAKER, and ſome others, Members of Parliament, ſpoke in Favor of the Colonies as well as Gen. CONWAY and Mr. BARRE, but it is only the Speeches of the latter Gentlemen that have as yet been ſeen in Print.

The Freemen of the Town of Newport, Rhode-Iſland, at a Meeting held the 3d Inſt. unanimouſly voted that Inſtructions ſhould be given to their Repreſentatives, relating to the preſent critical Conjuncture, when the Liberties of his Majeſty's Subjects in America are in the greateſt Danger of being ſubverted. Inſtructions for this purpoſe were accordingly drawn up and agreed to, and which concludes thus——"It is for LIBERTY!—that LIBERTY, for which our Fathers bled!—that LIBERTY, which is dearer to a generous Mind than Life itſelf, that we now contend!—the Cauſe is vaſt and important; and if the Efforts of his Majeſty's loyal Subjects in North-America be but equal to its Importance, we have the higheſt Reaſon to think, that, notwithſtanding the Diſregard ſhewn to the ſeparate Remonſtrances of the Colonies, their united Endeavours will be crowned with Succeſs."

We have the Pleaſure to aſſure the Public, by the Authority of ſome Gentlemen of Veracity and Candor lately arrived from Canada, where they made ſome Stay, that notwithſtanding the many Reports at this Time ſpread to the contrary by ill-minded Perſons, the moſt entire Confidence and cordial Harmony continue to ſubſiſt between his Majeſty's Governor, and new Subjects there, who having already had repeated Proofs of that Honorable Gentleman's good Conduct in Times of Difficulty and Danger, are now happy in obſerving his Attention to his Royal Maſter's Service, and their Provincial Intereſts not abated, in theſe happier Days of univerſal Tranquility.

Thurſday laſt Capt. Jacobſon ſailed from hence for London, in whom went Paſſengers, Roger Hale, Eſq; Collector of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms for this Port, James Nevin, Eſq; Collector for Piſcataqua, Mr. Thomas Lane, of London, Merchant, Mrs. Apthorp, Conſort of the Reverend Mr. Eaſt Apthorp, now reſiding in England, Miſs Bollan, Daughter of William Bollan, Eſq; late Agent for this Province, and ſeveral other Perſons.

At the Court of Seſſions held at Concord laſt Friday, one Samuel Davenport, alias Samuel Meaux, alias Samuel Griffith, being brought into Court, and charged with Theft in three Indictments, plead guilty to them all; and was ſentenced to receive Twenty Stripes on his naked Back, to pay treble Damages, and Coſts of Proſecution.——He was immediately carried out of Court to the Poſt, where he received a very ſevere Flogging, and then remanded back to Cambridge Goal, is there to be confined till the other Part of his Sentence be performed.

AT a Meeting of the Freeholders and other Inhabitants of the Town of Boſton, legally qualified and warned, in public Town-Meeting aſſembled at Faneuil-Hall, on Thurſday the 12th Day of September, Anno Domini, 1765.

Voted unanimouſly, That the Hon. JAMES OTIS, Eſq; the Moderator, the Gentlemen the Selectmen, Town-Clerk, and Repreſentatives of the Town, together with the Hon. Samuel Welles, Royal Tyler, Thomas Flucker, Thomas Hubbard, Harriſon Gray, and John Erving, Eſq'rs. be and hereby are appointed a Committe to wait upon the Right Hon. Lord ADAM GORDON, a Member of the Britiſh Parliament, now making the Tour of America, to congratulate his Lordſhip in the Name of the Town upon his ſafe Arrival; to expreſs their good Wiſhes for his Lordſhip's Proſperity; and to requeſt his kind Repreſentations and Influence in Favour of this Town and Province, as his Lordſhip's Wiſdom and Juſtice ſhall direct; particularly with Regard to the new Parliamentary Regulations, that ſo nearly affect the Rights as well as Trade of the American Colonies, and have created ſuch univerſal Uneaſineſs among his Majeſty's loyal Subjects on this Continent.

Atteſt. WILLIAM COOPER, Town-Clerk.

On Friday laſt the Committee appointed by the Town, waited upon the Right Hon. Lord ADAM GORDON, when Mr. OTIS addreſſed him in the following Manner.

My LORD,

"I Have the Honor with the Gentlemen preſent to be a Committee from the Town of Boſton, the Metropolis of his Majeſty's ancient and loyal Province of the Maſſachuſets-Bay, to wait on your Lordſhip in the Name of the Town, to congratulate you on your ſafe Arrival; to expreſs their ardent Wiſhes for your Proſperity; and humbly to requeſt your kind Repreſentations and Influence in Favour of this Town and Province, as your Lordſhip's Wiſdom and Juſtice ſhall direct; particularly with Regard to the new Parliamentary Regulations that ſo nearly affect the Rights and Privileges, as well as the Trade and Commerce of his Majeſty's American Dominions, and which have created ſuch univerſal Uneaſineſs among his Majeſty's moſt loyal Subjects on this Continent."

After which Mr. Cooper, the Town-Clerk, preſented his Lordſhip with a Copy of the Vote; to which he was pleaſed to return the following Anſwer.

Gentlemen,

"I Find myſelf very ſenſibly obliged to you for this Mark of your Attention, and for the Honor you have done me, by your unanimous Addreſs of Yeſterday; for which, and your good Wiſhes expreſſed in it, I beg Leave to return you my beſt Thanks.

I have had much Satisfaction in the Tour I have made in Britiſh America, and am extremely ſorry to underſtand, there ſhould at this Time, ſubſiſt any Uneaſineſs among his Majeſty's good Subjects there; more particularly, in the ancient and loyal Provice and Town of Boſton.

What little Influence I may be ſuppoſed to have, ſhall ever be chearfully employed, where the Intereſts of Great-Britain and America are concerned, which to me ſeem inſeparable: Having ever been of Opinion, that any Man who could wiſh to ſee a Diſtinction, or endeavour to create a Difference between them, muſt be an Enemy to both.

I have the Honor to be—with much Truth and Eſteem, Gentlemen,

Your moſt obedient and moſt humble Servant,

Boſton, Sept. 13, 1765. AD. GORDON."

NOTICE is hereby given to the Proprietors of Hanover, in the Province of New-Hampſhire, that are delinquent in paying the Tax of Twelve Shillings, Lawful Money, which was granted in Auguſt 6th Day, 1764, and advertiſed in this Paper the February following, according to Law; that ſo much of their Lands as is ſufficient to pay ſaid Delinquent's Tax, with incident Charges, will be ſold at a public Vendue, on the 28th Day of October next, at the Dwelling Houſe of William Waterman, Inn-holder in Mansfield, in Connecticut. Said Sale to begin at Ten of Clock in the Morning on ſaid Day, and to continue by Adjournment till all be ſold. Dated at Coventry this 16th Day of September, A. D. 1765.

AMOS RICHARDSON, jun. Collector.

RAN-AWAY from Stephen Hopkins of the Nine-Partners, a Negro Man named Simon, about 24 Years of Age, near 6 Feet high, well proportioned, had on when he went away, a blue Coat, braſs Buttons with round Tops, a light-colour'd, double-breaſted Waiſtcoat, a white Tow Shirt, ſhort Tow Trowſers, black and white Stocking, two Threads twiſted together, an old felt Hat with a ſmall Brim. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid Negro, and ſecure him in any of his Majeſty's Goals, ſo that his Maſter may have him again, ſhall have Five Dollars Reward, and all neceſſary Charges paid, by

STEPHEN HOPKINS.

STray'd from a Paſture in Weſt-Hartford, about a Fortnight ſince, one bay Dutch Horſe, about 13 Hands high, Branded on the near Thigh, (Letter forgot) ſhod round, trots altogether.---

Likewiſe a bay Dutch Mare, about 13 Hands high, branded on both her fore Hoofs AB, the Letters join'd together, and the A not croſſed; ſhe is alſo branded on her near Thigh H, ſhod before and Toe-cork'd—trots all.—Whoever will find and return ſaid Strays to Hartford, ſhall receive a handſome Reward, and Payment of all Charges, by appplying to ABRAHAM BEACH.

Hartford, 2d September, 1765.

TO be ſold by Us the Subſcribers, One certain Farm of Land, belonging to the Eſtate of Aſabel Moſs, late of Cornwall, in Litchfield County, deceas'd (repreſented Inſolvent) containing in the Whole, about 160 Acres; ſituate in Cornwall aforeſaid, with a good Dwelling Houſe and Barn on the ſame, and is chiefly under Improvements. Likewiſe a good Saw-Mill, and will be ſold at a reaſonable Price, and a good Title will be given. Alſo a Set of Furnace-Irons. For Terms of Sale, inquire of NATHANAEL MOSS, } Adminiſtrators.

THOMAS PORTER. }

HARTFORD, Printed by T. GREEN.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1765. NUMBER 46.

The Connecticut COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.

YESTERDAY the Great and General Court of this Province met at the Court-Houſe here.

The SPEECH of his Excellency Francis Bernard, Eſq;

Captain-General and Governor in Chief in and over His Majeſty's Province of the Maſſachuſetts-Bay, in New-England, and Vice-Admiral of the ſame.

To the General Aſſembly of ſaid Province,

Gentlemen of the Council, and
Gentlemen of the Houſe of Repreſentatives,

I HAVE called you together at this unuſual Time in Purſuance of the unanimous Advice of a very full Council, that you may take into Conſideration the preſent State of the Province, and determine what is to be done at this difficult and dangerous Conjuncture. I need not recount to you the Violences which have been committed in this Town, nor the Declarations which have been made and ſtill ſubſiſt, that the Act of Parliament for granting Stamp-Duties in the Britiſh Colonies ſhall not be executed within this Province. The ordinary executive Authority of this Government is much too weak to contradict ſuch Declarations, or oppoſe the Force by which they are ſupported: It has therefore been found neceſſary to call the whole legiſlative Power in aid of the executive Government. From this Time, this arduous Buſineſs will be put into your Hands, and it will become a Provincial Concern.

Upon this Occaſion it is my Duty to ſtate to you what will probably be the Conſequences, if you ſhould ſuffer a confirmed Diſobedience of this Act of Parliament to take Place. I am ſenſible how dangerous it is to ſpeak out at this Time, and upon this Subject: But my Station will not allow me to be awed or reſtrained in what I have to ſay to the General Court; not only my Duty to the King, but my Duty to the Province, my Love of it, my Concern for it oblige me to be plain and explicit upon this Occaſion. And I hope no Advocate for Liberty will violate that eſſential conſtitutional Right, Freedom of Speech in General Aſſembly.

As I deſire not to dictate to you, and would avoid all Appearance of doing it, I ſhall reſolve what I have to recommend to your Conſideration into meer Queſtions, and avoid Aſſertions of my own in Matters which are doubtful. I ſhall not enter into any Diſquiſition of the Policy of the Act: It has never been a Part of my Buſineſs to form any Judgment of it: And as I have not hitherto had any Opportunity to expreſs my Sentiments of it, I ſhall not do it now. I have only to ſay that it is an Act of the Parliament of Great-Britain, and as ſuch ought to be obeyed by the Subjects of Great-Britain. And I truſt that the Supremacy of that Parliament over all the Members of their wide and diffuſed Empire never was and never will be denied within theſe Walls.

The Right of the Parliament of Great-Britain to make Laws for the American Colonies, however it has been controverted in America, remains indiſputable at Weſtminſter. If it is yet to be made a Queſtion, who ſhall determine it but the Parliament? If the Parliament declares that this Right is inherent in them, are they like to acquieſce in an open and forcible Oppoſition to the Exerciſe of it? Will they not more probably maintain ſuch Right, and ſupport their own Authority? Is it in the Will, or in the Power, or for the Intereſt of this Province to oppoſe ſuch Authority? If ſuch Oppoſition ſhould be made, may it not bring on a Conteſt, which may prove the moſt detrimental and ruinous Event which could happen to this People?

It is ſaid that the Gentlemen who oppoſed this Act in the Houſe of Commons, did not diſpute the Authority of Parliament to make ſuch a Law, but argued upon the Inexpediency of it at this Time, and the Inability of the Colonies to bear ſuch an Impoſition. These are two diſtinct Queſtions which may receive different Anſwers. The Power of the Parliament to tax the Colonies may be admitted, and yet the Expediency of exerciſing that Power at ſuch a Time and in ſuch a Manner, may be denied. But if the Queſtions are blended together ſo as to admit of but one Anſwer, the Affirmative of the Right of Parliament will conclude for the Expediency of the Act. Conſider therefore, Gentlemen, if you found your Application for Relief upon denying the Parliament's Right to make ſuch a Law, whether you will not take from your Friends and Advocates the Uſe of thoſe Arguments which are moſt like to procure the Relief you deſire?

You, Gentlemen of the Houſe of Repreſentatives, have propoſed a Congreſs of Committees from the Repreſentatives of the ſeveral Colonies to conſider of a general united dutiful loyal and humble Repreſentation to his Majeſty and the Parliament. Are the late Proceedings conſiſtent with the dutiful loyal and humble Repreſentation which you have propoſed? Will the denying the Power and Authority of the King and Parliament, be the proper Means to obtain their Favour? If the Parliament ſhould be diſpoſed to repeal this Act, will they probably do it whilſt there ſubſiſts a forcible Oppoſition to the Execution of it? Is it not more probable that they will require a Submiſſion to their Authority as a Preliminary to their granting you any Relief? Conſider then whether the Oppoſition to the Execution of the Act has not a direct Tendency to defeat the Meaſures you have taken to procure a Repeal of it, if you do not interpoſe to prevent it.

By this Act all Papers which are not duly ſtamped are to be null and void; and all Perſons who ſhall ſign, engroſs or write any ſuch Paper, will forfeit, for each Fact, Ten Pounds. If therefore Stamps are not to be uſed, all public Offices muſt be ſhut up: For it cannot be expected that any Officer ſhould incur Penalties much beyond all he is worth, for the ſake of doing what will be null and void when it is done. I would therefore deſire you to conſider what Effects the ſtopping two Kinds of Offices only, the Courts of Juſtice and the Cuſtom-Houſes, will have upon the Generality of the People. When the Courts of Juſtice are ſhut up, no one will be able to ſue for Debt due to him, or an Injury done to him. Muſt not then all Credit and mutual Faith ceaſe of Courſe, and Fraud and Rapine take their Place? Will any one's Perſon or Property be ſafe, when their ſole Protector the Law is diſabled to act? Muſt not the Hand of Violence be then let looſe and Force of Arms become the only governing Power? Is it eaſy to form an adequate Idea of a State of general Outlawry? And may not the Reality exceed the worſt Idea we can form of it?

If Trade and Navigation ſhall ceaſe by the ſhutting up the Ports of this Province for Want of legal Clearances; are you ſure that all other Ports which can rival theſe will be ſhut up alſo? Can you depend upon recovering your Trade again entire and undiminiſhed, when you ſhall be pleaſed to reſume it? Can the People of this Province ſubſiſt without Navigation for any long Time? What will become of the Seamen who will be put out of Employment? What will become of the Tradeſmen who immediately depend upon Navigation for their daily Bread? Will theſe People endure Want quietly without troubling their Neighbours? What will become of the numberleſs Families which depend upon Fiſhery? Will they be able to turn the Produce of their Year's Work into the Neceſſaries of Life without Navigation? Are there not numberleſs other Families who do not appear immediately concerned in Trade, and yet ultimately depend upon it? Do you think it poſſible to provide for the infinite Chain of the Dependents upon Trade, who will be brought to Want by the Stopping of it? Is it certain that this Province has a Stock of Proviſions within itſelf ſufficient for all its Inhabitants, without the uſual Imports? If there ſhould be a Sufficiency in general, can it be diſtributed among all the Individuals without great Violence and Confuſion? In ſhort, can this Province bear a Ceſſation of Law and Juſtice, and of Trade and Navigation, at a Time when the Buſineſs of the Year is to be wound up, and the ſevere Seaſon is haſtily approaching? Theſe are ſerious and alarming Queſtions which deſerve a cool and diſpaſſionate Conſideration.

I would not willingly aggravate the Dangers which are before you; I do not think it very eaſy to do it: This Province ſeems to me to be upon the Brink of a Precipice; and that it depends upon you to prevent its falling. Poſſibly I may fear more for you than you do for yourſelves: But in the Situation you now ſtand a Sight of your Danger is neceſſary to your Preſervation; and it is my Buſineſs to open it to you. But I do not pretend to enumerate all the Evils which may poſſibly happen; ſeveral, and ſome of no little Importance, will occur to you, though they have been omitted by me. In a Word, Gentlemen, never were your Judgment and Prudence ſo put to a Trial, as they are like to be upon the preſent Occaſion.

I am aware that Endeavours have been, or may be uſed, to leſſen my Credit with you, which I have hitherto always ſtudied to improve to the Advantage of the Province. Violences ſeldom come alone: The ſame Spirit which pulls down Houſes attacks Reputations. The beſt Men in the Province have been injured in this Way: I myſelf have not eſcaped this Malignity. But I ſhall not lower myſelf ſo as to anſwer ſuch Accuſers: To you I ſhall always owe ſuch Explanations as ſhall be neceſſary to the Improvement of a good Underſtanding between us. However, I will take this Opportunity to declare publicly, that ever ſince I have ſat in this Chair, I have been conſtantly attentive to the true Intereſts of this Province according to the beſt of my Underſtanding, and have endeavoured to promote them by all Means in my Power. The Welfare of this People is ſtill uppermoſt in my Heart: And I believe no Man feels more for them than I do at this preſent Time.

Gentlemen of the Houſe of Repreſentatives,

I muſt recommend to you to do an Act of Juſtice, which at the ſame Time will reflect Credit upon yourſelves: I mean to order a Compenſation to be made to the Sufferers by the late Diſturbances. Their Loſſes are too great for them to ſet down with; one of them amounts to a very large Sum. You muſt be ſenſible that it will be expected that theſe Damages be made good; and it will be better for you to do it of your own Accord before any Requiſition is made to you.—An Eſtimate of theſe Damages is made by a Committee of the Council purſuant to Order, which will be laid before you.

Gentlemen,

I am ſenſible of the Difficulty of the Part you have to act; it may not be ſufficient for you to be convinced of the Neceſſity of a Submiſſion to the Law at preſent, unleſs the ſame Conviction ſhall be extended to the People in general. If this ſhould be ſo, I can only deſire you to uſe all Means to make yourſelves well acquainted with the Exigency of the preſent Time; and if you ſhall be perſwaded that a Diſobedience of the Act is productive of much more Evil than a Submiſſion to it can be, you muſt endeavour to convince your Conſtituents of the Truth of ſuch Perſwaſion. In ſuch Caſe I ſhall readily grant you a Receſs for a ſufficient Time; and I ſhall be ready to concur with you in all other legal Meaſures to provide for the Safety of the People in the beſt Manner.

Council-Chamber, September 25, 1765. Fra. Bernard.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.

Laſt Friday Afternoon his Excellency the Governor was pleaſed to ſend the following Meſſage to both Houſes of Aſſembly, viz.

Gentlemen of the Council, and
Gentlemen of the Houſe of Repreſentatives,

THE Importance of the Buſineſs which is now before you requires that there ſhould be the fulleſt Aſſembly that can be had. But I find that the Courts of Juſtice which are held in different Parts of the Country about this Time have prevented many Members of both Houſes from attending for ſome Time. I therefore think it proper to give you the Receſs I propoſed immediately, hoping that at the next Meeting every Member who is not hindered by abſolute Neceſſity, will attend. I do accordingly adjourn this General Court unto Wedneſday the 23d Day of October.

Fra. Bernard.

Council Chamber, Sept. 27, 1765.

THE following are ſent to us as Copies of his Excellency's Meſſage to both Houſes of Aſſembly, in their late Seſſion, and the Anſwer of the Houſe of Repreſentatives thereto.

Gentlemen of the Council, and Gentlemen of the Houſe of Repreſentatives,

A Ship is arrived in the Harbour with ſtamped Papers on board for the King's Uſe in this Province, and alſo with other ſtamped Papers for the like Uſe for the Province of New-Hampſhire and Colony of Rhode-Iſland; as Mr. Oliver has declined the Office of Diſtributor of Stamped Paper, and cannot ſafely meddle with what are arrived, the Care of them devolves to this Government, as having a general Charge of the King's Intereſt within it. I have already laid this Matter before the Council, and they have referred it to a general Court, I therefore now apply to you jointly to deſire your Advice and Aſſiſtance in order to preſerve the ſtamped Papers deſign'd for this Government, being the King's Property of very conſiderable Value, ſafe and ſecure for his Majeſty's further Orders. I muſt alſo deſire you at the ſame Time to conſider of the like Preſervative of the ſtamped Papers deſigned for New-Hampſhire and Rhode Iſland, if the Diſtributors appointed for thoſe Governments ſhould decline to have the Charge of 'em, and in ſuch Caſe the Care of 'em will devolve to this Government, equally with others.

May it pleaſe your Excellency,

THE Houſe having given all due Attention to your Excellency's Meſſage of this Day, beg Leave to acquaint your Excellency, that the ſtamped Papers mentioned in your Meſſage are brought here without any Directions to this Government: It is the Senſe of the Houſe, that it may prove of ill Conſequence for them any Ways to intereſt themſelves in this Matter: We hope therefore your Excellency will excuſe us, if we cannot ſee our Way clear to give you any Advice or Aſſiſtance herein.

The adjournment of the General Aſſembly was ſudden, unexpected and aſtoniſhing:---The houſe of repreſentatives had appointed a committee to prepare an anſwer to his Excellency's extraordinary ſpeech, who we are told would have reported a draft the next day—It creates matter of ſpeculation, that gentlemen ſhould be ſent for from every part of the province at ſo great an expence to the public, in this time of diſtreſs, to conſult upon affairs of the laſt importance, and then be diſmiſs'd before they could even have opportunity to take them into conſideration!—We muſt not preſume that his Excellency altered his mind after delivering his ſpeech, from any intelligence that he may have ſince received from the other ſide the water, and that the ſeveral ſubjects of it ceas'd to be important in his own apprehenſion—whether this was the caſe or not, it is a pity the houſe could not have had time to have finiſhed their anſwer; that it be publiſhed, and undue impreſſions upon the minds of the people out of doors prevented thereby: His Excellency has ſpoke very largely upon the inconveniencies, difficulties and dangerous conſequences, which he apprehended would attend a noncompliance with the ſtamp-act: Poſſibly the houſe might have intimated that this was none of their concern, as it was not in their power to repeal or alter an act of parliament:—Beſides, there might be the leſs reaſon for the aſſembly to interpoſe in this affair, as that act is already guarded with the ſevereſt penalties, and the ſtampmen and their abettors, who are the only advocates for it, tell us, that it has in its nature a tendency and even a power of enforcing itſelf; add to all this that the whole executive power of the province is conſtitutionally in his Excellency's hands.—But there is no manner of doubt but the guardians of our rights and liberties who have already in their anſwer to his Excellency's meſſage, declin'd giving him any advice or aſſiſtance with reſpect to the ſtamped papers, would have conſidered the act in another light; as having in its nature alſo a tendency totally to overthrow the rights, not only of our province charter, but Magna Charta itſelf—This, it is rumour'd would have been the moſt explicit ſentiments of the houſe; we are therefore ſorry that his Excellency hath prevented himſelf and the good people of the province from hearing what their repreſentatives unitedly had to ſay upon a ſubject, of all things the moſt intereſting; we will however preſume, that his Excellency had, what appeared to him at leaſt, wiſe ends in ſo doing—At preſent we have from the general aſſembly, only what is to be ſaid in favor, not of the ſtamp act itſelf, for his Excellency declin'd entering into the policy of it, and ſeems to intimate that he had not had an opportunity of digeſting it in his own mind, but of the prudence of complying with it:—We may venture to ſay for certain, that the people of this province are ſo firmly attach'd to their RIGHTS, as that the moſt frightful conſequences will not abate a regular and legal oppoſition to any meaſures that would deprive them even of thoſe that are the leaſt valuable; much leſs would they be hoodwink'd by mere phantoms and idle ſhaddows, by their own voluntary act, to part with that which no power on earth may alienate from them. We would juſt take the liberty of ſaying, becauſe we ſhould be very loth to have his Excellency's ſpeech miſunderſtood, that there is a difference between a bare noncompliance with this act and a diſobedience of it—Thro' favor we are under no obligation to purchaſe a ſingle ſtamped paper;—It is true his Excellency tells us we muſt then do no buſineſs; but we ſhould beg leave to aſk his Excellency, could we think it poſſible for him to lower himſelf ſo much as to anſwer it. What value is to be put upon buſineſs, tho' it is the means of obtaining property, if in the very doing it, we deprive ourſelves of liberty, which alone ſecures to us the enjoyment of property, and upon which, as the merchants and freighters of a certain ſhip now in this harbor, find by experience, trade itſelf depends.

The Judges of the Superior Court, while the General Aſſembly was ſitting, were at Springfield, and the Juſtices of the Plymouth County and others were oblig'd ſoon to leave the Aſſembly—all of whom his Excellency, tis ſaid, highly eſteems for their Advice, parliamentary and political, as well as judiciary, and from his Excellency's Meſſage may account for the late unexpect Adjournment.

From the York Gazette. Our Engliſh Proverb ſays, A Place is a continual Bribe; and how ſeldom do we find a Man who holds a Place dependent on the Crown, who does not uſe all his Influence in Support of the Meaſures of the Miniſtry, however repugnant to Reaſon and Juſtice, even in Caſes where the moſt ſacred Intereſts of his Country are concerned.

From a late London Paper. The worſt Species of Treaſon in a free Country, is Treaſon againſt the Liberties of the People.

We are informed that a Number of ſpirited and pertinent Reſolves were preparing by ſome Members of the Houſe of Repreſentatives reſpecting the Stamp Act, and the inherent unalianable Rights of the People of the Colonies, as they are affected by it, which ſudden and unexpected Adjournment of the Aſſembly prevented being communicated to the Houſe.

It is merry enough to obſerve that, the greateſt Enemy to the Trade of the Province, has lately put on the Appearance of its Friend, and affects to be mightily concerned leaſt a Noncompliance with the Stamp Act ſhould embarraſs and leſſen it.

It is reported with too great a Degree of Probability, that the Profits of the Stamp Act were to be ſhared by more Perſons than the Public are aware of.

Some Gentlemen who have Seats in a certain great Aſ——y, and hold Places under the ——, we are told will uſe all their Influence to perſuade their fellow Townſmen, that the beſt and moſt certain Way to prevent their being made Slaves of by others, is to put their own Chains on themſelves; and that ſubmitting to Burdens is the readieſt way to get rid of them.

The Deſign of publiſhing a late Speech of the G——r to the C——l, in which it was declared the Stamp Papers ſhould remain quiet at the Caſtle, and not be diſtributed, was ſaid to be in order to quiet the People, and prevent any Violence to thoſe Papers.——A latter Speech is calculated to convince the Repreſentatives of the Neceſſity of theſe Papers being ſtired about the Country, to promote Trade and Buſineſs—and of their perſwading their ſeveral Towns to aſk for them.——Whether the Tendency of this laſt will not be the Reverſe of the former, Time can only diſcover.

Tueſday laſt arrived at Boſton, the Brig Triſtram, Capt Shand, in 7 Weeks from London; by whom we have the following Advices:

PARIS, July 15. The Board of Trade in this city, as well as all the Chambers of Commerce in the kingdom are now deliberating on a very important queſtion, namely, whether foreign ſhips ſhall be admitted into the ports of our colonies, or whether the laws ſhall be put in force which prohibit their entering them. Mr. Dubucq, firſt marine Commiſſary, in the Place of Mr. Accaron, and at the ſame time Deputy of Commerce at Martinico, has written a paper againſt the prohibition, in which he attempts to prove the neceſſity of admitting the entry of Engliſh cargoes, which conſiſt of goods and commodities, which France cannot ſupply under a very high price, and even then with difficulty. This paper has been communicated to the Comptroller General, who has ſent copies of it to all the Chambers of Commerce in our ſea ports, and ſeveral pieces in oppoſition to Mr. Dubucq's paper have already been received.——The Board of Trade waits till all the other Chambers have ſent in their opinions, after which the affair will be finally determined.

St. JAMES's Auguſt 1.

His Majeſty in Council was this Day pleaſed to declare the Right Honorable Francis Earl of Hertford, Lieutenant-General and General Governor of his Majeſty's Kingdom of Ireland. [Lond. Gaz.]

LONDON, July 27.

His Royal Highneſs the Infant Don Philip of Parma, Placentia and Guaſtalla, brother to the King of Spain, died at Alexandria of the Small-Pox, on the 18th paſt.

Aug. 5 Friday William Fitzherbert, John Yorke, and John Roberts kiſſed his Majeſty's hand, on being appointed Lords Commiſſioners of the Board of Trade, in the room of Lord Orwell, Edward Bacon and Bamber Gaſcoyne, Eſqrs.

A private letter from Paris, brought by the laſt mail, makes mention of Mr. Wilkes's being arrived in that city.

Colonel Barre is hourly expected from Paris, having it is ſaid been ſent for.

It is talked he will be Secretary to the Earl of Hertford.

A letter from Boſton in New-England, dated June 3, breaths the following complaint,——"Our trade is in a moſt deplorable ſituation, not one fifth part of the veſſels now employed in the Weſt-India trade, as was before the late regulation; our caſh almoſt gone before the Stamp and Poſt-office acts are to operate; bankruptcies multiplied, our fears increaſed, and the friends of liberty under the greateſt deſpondency: what theſe things will end in, time only can diſcover."

From Boſton N. England, we are informed that the Hon. James Otis, Eſq; was choſen one of the Repreſentatives for that town. This gentlemen gained the goodwill of the coloniſts in a great degree by a pamphlet he lately wrote and publiſhed there, entitled, 'The Rights of the Britiſh Colonies.'

In conſequence of the falſe report induſtriouſly ſpread about town, that the new Miniſtry were formed under the approbation and countenance of Mr. Pitt, it is ſaid a very extraordinary meſſage has been received from that Right Hon. Gentlemen, deſiring that ſuch falſe report may be immediately ſuppreſſed, or he would contradict it in all the public papers with his name.

The chief and only ſupport of the preſent Miniſtry is the E— of B—, whoſe ſecret influence is at this very hour, notwithſtanding the change of certain appearances, as all-powerful as it was when he put in, and turned out the laſt ſet of miniſters.

It is ſaid, that a new Court Kallendar will ſoon be publiſhed on Aſſes Skin, for the convenience of rubbing out and replacing of names; ſince the printed liſts will be uſeleſs, if not renewed once a month.

It is whiſpered that a challenge has this week been ſent and received by two perſonages of diſtinction in oppoſite intereſts, which, tho' authority has found means to fruſtrate it for the preſent, is like to be attended with very ſerious conſequences.

Aug. 8. It is ſaid that ſome extraordinary diſpatches arrived here on Monday, from the Courts of Vienna, Spain, and Sardinia, in conſequence of the death of the late Infant Don Philip, Duke of Parma.

It is ſaid our Court hath declined accepting New Orleans and its dependencies, in America, on the terms lately propoſed by France.

We hear a ſcheme for introducing an equitable LAND TAX, in North-American Colonies, is now under Conſideration, in conſequence of ſome late appeals ſent over from the principal provinces.

Colony of CONNECTICUT.

WHEREAS, purſuant to an Act or Law of ſaid Colony, entitled, "An ACT to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors," &c. Samuel Smith and Gideon Granger, both of Suffield, in the County of Hartford, inſolvent Debtors, in Conjunction with the Major Part of their Creditors reſpectively, have exhibited their Petition, with Account of the Sums by them reſpectively owing, and Inventories of their Eſtates, &c. under Oaths, before JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court in the County of Hartford, and SAMUEL TALCOTT, Eſq; Juſtice of the Peace and Quorum in ſaid County, praying to have the ſame to be diſpoſed of for the Uſe of their ſaid Creditors: Public Notice is therefore hereby given, to all the Creditors of the ſaid Samuel Smith and Gideon Granger, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. John Lord, in Hartford, in ſaid County, on the 14th Day of October next, to ſhew Reaſon reſpectively (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of the Eſtates of the ſaid Samuel Smith and Gideon Granger ſhould not be made, and their Perſons diſcharged according to Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Act. Sept. 21ſt, 1765.

WHereas more than five of the Proprietors of the Townſhip of Wincheſter in the County of Litchfield, have applied to me the Subſcriber to warn a Meeting of ſaid Proprietors, to conſider of ſome ſuitable Method for the better Regulation of the Highways in ſaid Townſhip; alſo to chooſe a Clerk for ſaid Proprietors, and further to tranſact any other Buſineſs that may be tho't needful, &c. Theſe are therefore to notify and warn all whom it may concern, to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Moſes Butler, Inn-holder in Hartford, on Tueſday the 22d Day of October next, at One of the Clock Afternoon, then and there to enter upon the Buſineſs aforeſaid.

Hartford, September 30th, 1765.

THO'S SEYMOUR, jun. Proprietors Clerk.

NOTICE is hereby given to all Perſons indebted to the Eſtate of Capt. John Elton, deceaſed, by Book, that they muſt ſpeedily adjuſt their Accounts, and ſettle the ſame, by Caſh, or their Obligations, on Intereſt.——All Perſons ſo indebted, are particularly deſired to attend at the Houſe of the ſaid deceaſed, in Middletown, on Thurſday the 10th Day of October next, to ſettle ſaid Accounts, where the Executrix will be provided with proper Aſſiſtance to expedite the Buſineſs.—Any Perſon indebted that fails to attend, it is hoped will not think it hard if they are immediately ſued, as they certainly muſt be.—Any Perſon indebted to ſaid Eſtate by Note, are likewiſe deſired to call on ſaid Day, and ſee after their Notes, elſe the ſame will be ſold and paſs'd away to ſuch Creditors to ſaid Eſtate as will accept of the ſame. And the Creditors to ſaid Eſtate are earneſtly deſir'd to bring in their Claims to

ESTHER ELTON, Executrix.

RAN-AWAY from Stephen Hopkins of the Nine-Partners, a Negro Man named Simon, about 24 Years of Age, near 6 Feet high, well proportioned, had on when he went away, a blue Coat, braſs Buttons with round Tops, a light-colour'd, double-breaſted Waiſtcoat, a white Tow Shirt, ſhort Tow Trowſers, black and white Stocking, two Threads twiſted together, an old felt Hat with a ſmall Brim. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid Negro, and ſecure him in any of his Majeſty's Goals, ſo that his Maſter may have him again, ſhall have Five Dollars Reward, and all neceſſary Charges paid, by

STEPHEN HOPKINS.

NOTICE is hereby given to the Proprietors of Hanover, in the Province of New-Hampſhire, that are delinquent in paying the Tax of Twelve Shillings, Lawful Money, which was granted in Auguſt 6th Day, 1764, and advertiſed in this Paper the February following, according to Law; that ſo much of their Lands as is ſufficient to pay ſaid Delinquent's Tax, with incident Charges, will be ſold at a public Vendue, on the 28th Day of October next, at the Dwelling Houſe of William Waterman, Inn-holder in Mansfield, in Connecticut. Said Sale to begin at Ten of Clock in the Morning on ſaid Day, and to continue by Adjournment till all be ſold. Dated at Coventry this 16th Day of September, A. D. 1765.

AMOS RICHARDSON, jun. Collector.

BOSTON.

OCTOBER 3. A Gentleman in London, has wrote, that it was generally reported the Stamp-Act, &c. would be repealed by the new Miniſtry, when the Parliament met.

Captains Collin and Hunter were to leave London about ten Days after Capt. Shand.

Capt. Hume's Ship came up to Town Yeſterday; all the Stamp-Papers and Parchment which came in her having been landed at the Caſtle.

This Morning was found drowned near the Cauſeway to New-Boſton, Capt.—— Smith, a Gentlemen who laſt Year came from London to carry on the Salmon Fiſhery at the Eaſtern Parts of this Province:---He aroſe very early and went to waſh himſelf as was his practice, at the Wharf oppoſite his Dwelling-Houſe, but falling off, his Head ſtruck againſt a Stone, which it is ſuppoſed ſtunned him, by which Means he was drowned.

Laſt Monday a Number of Priſoners broke out of the Goal in this Town, and made their Eſcape: Several of whom had been committed on ſuſpicion of being concerned in the Riot on the 26th of Auguſt.

For ſome Days paſt there has been ſhewn in this Town a remarkable large live Hog, whoſe weight is 973 lb. it is upwards of 10 Feet long from the Snout to the end of the Tail, and in Height 4 Feet, 2 Inches. It was raiſe at Cape Ann, is between 2 and 3 Years old, and is thought to be the largeſt ever ſeen in this Country.

HARTFORD, October 7.

We hear, that on Wedneſday the 18th, ult. the Board of Correſpondents, in this Colony, was called together at Lebanon, to tranſact ſome Buſineſs of the greateſt Importance, relative to the Spread of the Goſpel among the periſhing Savages of the Wilderneſs.

And on Thurſday they, together with a Number of the neighbouring Gentlemen and Ladies, were very agreeably entertained with the following Exerciſes, performed by the Upper-Claſs in the Charity School.

The firſt was a well compoſed Engliſh Oration, on Charity. The Propriety of Diction, and graceful Geſture of the young Speaker, were admired by all preſent.

To this ſucceeded an Engliſh forenſic Diſpute, Whether the chriſtianized and civilized Nations enjoy more Happineſs, than the uncultivated, and barbarous Pagans? Which was diſcuſſed with a great deal of Clearneſs—the Arguments on both Sides ſet in a ſtriking Point of Light, and the Affirmative demonſtrated to univerſal Satisfaction.

To vary the Scene, the Company were next entertained with a Latin ſyllogeſtic Diſpute on the following Queſtion, An diluvium NOACHI fuit univerſale?

The laſt was a Dialogue on the riſing Proſpect of the Miſerable Pagans, emerging from their State of abject Slavery to Sin, and brutal Stupidity, on the Spread of the Goſpel among them.

It would be unpardonable, not to obſerve, that the Audience were highly pleaſed with the good Proficiency the Youth have made in Compoſition, as well as their other Studies.

The Meeting was adjourned 'till the Monday following; when the Rev. NATHANIEL WHITAKER was appointed to go to Europe, to ſolicit the Benefactions of the charitably diſpoſed, in that Part of the World. And it is hoped, that all Friends of Learning and Religion, will chearfully contribute to the Support of an Inſtitution ſo exactly calculated, as that is, not only to promote the beſt Good of periſhing Immortals, but the Security of many Thouſands to the Britiſh Intereſt.

Simſbury, October 3d. 1765.

On Friday laſt died, and laſt Sunday was buried Mr. JOHN VIETS, jun. in the XXX Year of his Age, Son of Capt. John Viets. He was a young Gentleman of well known Abilities and Uſefulneſs; in good Eſteem with almoſt as many as were acquainted with him; The very great Number of People who attended his Funeral, was an Evidence how generally his Death was lamented in this, and the neighbouring Towns.

WHEREAS on the Night after the 4th Inſt. the Shop of Iſaac Tomlinſon of Woodbury, Merchant, was broke open, and a Piece of black Mancheſter Velvet, a Piece of Snuff-Colour'd, and a Piece of Light Colour'd ditto, and a large Quantity of ſmall Articles, to the Value of near one hundred Pounds, were taken from thence.———And on the Night following, the Shop of Joſeph Hopkins of Waterbury, Goldſmith, was broke open, and Goods, to the Value of Two Hundred Pounds, in Beads, Rings, Jewels, Buckles, &c. were ſtole.———The Perſon who took them was a ſhort, thick-ſet Fellow, about 35 Years of Age, ſays his Name is Fraſier, wears his own long, black Hair, and is much Pitted with the Small-Pox.——Whoever ſhall take up ſaid Thief, and ſecure him in any of his Majeſty's Goals, or bring him to ISAAC TOMLINSON of Woodbury, or JOSEPH HOPKINS of Waterbury, ſhall have a handſome Reward, and all neceſſary Charges paid.

WHereas purſuant to an Advertiſement, publiſhed in the public News Papers of this Colony, that Ebenezer Comes of Simſbury, and Iſacc Reed of Windſor, inſolvent Debtors, who have ſignified by Writings under their Hands, with the Major Part of their Creditors, to the Hon. Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, for the County of Hartford, and Seth Whitmore, Eſq; one of the Juſtices of the Quorum, for ſaid County of Hartford, that they are willing to ſurrender up all their Effects, for the Benefit of their Creditors, and have deſired that Truſtees may be forthwith appointed. And we the Subſcribers have been appointed accordingly. Public Notice is hereby given to all the Creditors of the ſaid Ebenezer Comes, and Iſacc Reed, to meet at the Houſe of Mr. Elijah Kent, Innholder in Suffield, on the laſt Mondays of October and November next; ſaid Meeting will be attended from two o'Clock in the Afternoon, till ſix, to proceed in ſuch Way and Manner as the Law of this Colony directs, entituled, "An Act for preventing Frauds in Debtors, and for the ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors for the Uſe of their Creditors."

Elijah Kent,
Nathaniel Terry, } Truſtees for Ebenezer Comes.
Elijah Kent,
Seth Auſtin, } Truſtees for Iſaac Reed.

NEW-YORK, October 3.

The Commiſſioners from ſeveral Colonies for holding the general Congreſs here, on the Common and moſt important Intereſt of America at this alarming Juncture, are came to Town, and the reſt daily expected: We hear they have already begun their Conferences, which it is ſuppoſed will be continued a ſufficient Time to anſwer the Purpoſes of their Appointment.

On Monday laſt came to Town the Right Hon. Lord Adam Gordon, after a Tour through his Majeſty's American Iſlands, and Colonies on the Continent; and we hear intends to go for England by the next Packet.

On Tueſday laſt at the Mayor's Court, 216 Inhabitants of the City took up their Freedom, and it is ſuppoſed there were as many more ready to apply for it; but the Court being tired, and not having Time for it, adjourn'd for 4 Weeks.

(*) The Piece ſign'd A COLONIST, came to Hand too late for this Week's Paper. In the Concluſion the Author adviſes a total diſcontinuance of Buſineſs, rather than to purchaſe any Stamps; and aſſerts, That the Lawyers of New-Jerſey have reſolved to loſe all Buſineſs rather than make Uſe of any; a noble Reſolution, worthy of univerſal Imitation.

On Sunday Night laſt, an Engliſh Lady belonging to a Veſſel lying at Cruger's Dock, having been drinking at a public Houſe there, in going on board his Veſſel, fell over and was drown'd.

On Monday Morning laſt, one Rachel Carter, who lived in New-Street, near the City Hall, was found dead in her Bed, ſuppoſe to be occaſioned by exceſſive drinking.

LONDON, June 29.

Extract of a Letter from Paris, June 14.

"MANY People are of Opinion, that the Clergy will make a heavy Complaint of the Conduct of all the Claſſes of Parliament in the Affair of the Jeſuits, and to obtain their Re-call. There were great Debates on this Subject in the laſt Aſſembly of the Sorbonne. The Credit of the Jeſuites, however, ſeems to be ſinking every where. According to Letters from Spain, his Catholic Majeſty's Miniſters have diſcovered ſome ambitious Projects formed by that Society, which they propoſed to carry into Execution in South-America, but which are now likely to be fruſtrated; and this Diſcovery it is thought will occaſion the total Diſgrace of that Order in Spain."

They write from Vienna, that the Empreſs Queen has given Count Haugwitz, the fine Palace and Gardens at Bentzig, which were formerly occupied by Prince Charles of Lorrain, and likewiſe preſented him with the Sum of 20,000 Florins, for his Care and Aſſiduity in negociating a Treaty of Commerce, which is on the Point of being concluded with the Court of Berlin.

The Gentlemen appointed to examine and aſcertain the ſeveral Loſſes of the poor Sufferers by the late Fire at Rotherithe, having now finiſhed their Enquiry, and minutely examined every Claim, find, that 240 Families and Servants, who were uninſured, have loſt all or greateſt Part of their Effects, and that upon the moſt moderate Calculation of the Value thereof, the whole amounts to the Sum of 2945l. 15s. 3d.

The Inſult offered to a great Perſonage in the Law at Weſtminſter-Hall, on Wedneſday laſt, it is ſaid, was as follows: A Diſpute having happened between the ſaid Perſon and another Gentleman of Eminence, the latter ſent him a Challenge, whilſt he was in Court, in Conſequence of which he went out. The Affair was to have been determined in Hyde-Park, but getting wind, was happily put a Stop to.

This Day is to be determined the Wager between two Noblemen, for 1000 Guineas, that a Boat ſhall go 25 Miles in an Hour. The Method on which it is to be conducted is as follows: A large Trench, nine Feet wide, is dug in a Field behind Jenny's Whim near Chelſea Bridge, the Diameter of which is 100 Feet; and in the Center of it, on the Land, encompaſſed by the Water, ſupplied by the Tide, is placed a Horſe, who turns a Machine, which a Boat is fixed to by a Rope, with ſurpriſing Velocity. The Odds are, that this Boat will go the 25 Miles in the Hour.

Extract of a Letter from Staffordſhire.

"At a late Election, Purſes of twenty Guineas caſually became the Property of the Burgeſſes on ſhaking Hands. One of theſe Purſes was paid as a valuable Conſideration for being ſhaved; but the Barber pauſed, looked unſatisfied, and ſeeming to think his Labour was not ſufficiently rewarded, ſaid, 'Sir, I am become a Man of Conſequence, and was this Morning better paid as a Tonſor.' Why then (ſaid the Squire) ſhave me over again, and I'll content thee.' Another great Man in this Country has a charitable Regard for ſome Burgeſſes of his Neighbourhood, and has ordered that they ſhall receive 5l. on their Bond, bearing Intereſt from the Day they are looſed from their Apprenticeſhip."

On Monday one Capraiſe Gouſſe, a Frenchman, was taken up at Sandgate, and committed on Suſpicion of being the Perſon who murdered Mr. Leſslie's two Maid Servants at Nelfield, two Miles South of Edinburgh; and upon his being examined before a Magiſtrate, he confeſſed the Fact; for which he is now confined in a cloſe Priſon, till the Lord's Provoſt's Order for his Removal.

A Bill, it is ſaid, will be brought into Parliament at the next Meeting, to oblige all Apothecaries and Druggiſts to give in upon Oath, a genuine Liſt of all their Medicines to the College of Phyſicians, once every Quarter.

Philadelphia, September 19.

In ASSEMBLY, Saturday, September 21, 1765. A. M.

THE Houſe taking into Conſideration, that an Act of Parliament has lately paſſed in England for impoſing certain Stamp Duties, and other Duties on His Majeſty's Subjects in America, whereby they conceive ſome of their moſt eſſential and valuable Rights, as Britiſh Subjects, to be deeply affected, think it a Duty they owe to themſelves, and their Poſterity, to come to the following Reſolutions, viz.

Reſolved, N. C. D.

That the Aſſemblies of this Province have, from Time to Time, whenever Requiſitions have been made by his Majeſty, for carrying on military Operations for the Defence of America, moſt chearfully and liberally contributed their full Proportion of Men and Money for theſe Services.

Reſolved, N. C. D.

That whenever His Majeſty's Service ſhall, for the future, require the Aids of the Inhabitants of this Province, and they ſhall be called upon for that Purpoſe, in a CONSTITUTIONAL Way, it ſhall be their indiſpenſable Duty moſt chearfully and liberally to grant to his Majeſty their Proportion of Men and Money, for the Defence, Security, and other public Services of the Britiſh American Colonies.

Reſolved, N. C. D.

That the Inhabitants of this Province are intitled to all the Liberties, Rights and Privileges of His Majeſty's Subjects in Great-Britain, or elſewhere; and that the Conſtitution of Government in this Province is founded on the natural Rights of Mankind, and the noble Principles of Engliſh Liberty, and therefore is or ought to be, perfectly free.

Reſolved, N. C. D.

That it is the inherent Birth-right, and indubitable Privilege, of every Britiſh Subject, to be taxed only by his own Conſent, or that of his legal Repreſentatives, in Conjunction with his Majeſty, or his Subſtitutes.

Reſolved, N. C. D.

That the only legal Repreſentatives of the Inhabitants of this Province, are the Perſons they annually elect to ſerve as Members of Aſſembly.

Reſolved, therefore, N. C. D.

That the Taxation of the People of this Province by any other Perſons whatſoever, than ſuch their Repreſentatives in Aſſembly is UNCONSTITUTIONAL, and ſubverſive of their moſt valuable Rights.

Reſolved, N. C. D.

That the laying Taxes upon the Inhabitants of this Province in any other Manner, being manifeſtly ſubverſive of public Liberty, muſt, of neceſſary Conſequence, be utterly deſtructive of public Happineſs.

Reſolved, N. C. D.

That the veſting Authority in the Courts of Admiralty to decide in Suits relating to the Stamp Duties, and other Matters, foreign to their proper Juriſdiction, is highly dangerous to the Liberties of His Majeſty's American Subjects, contrary to Magna Charta, the great Charter and Fountain of Engliſh Liberty, and deſtructive of one of their moſt darling & acknowledged Rights, that of Trials by Juries.

Reſolved, N. C. D.

That it is the Opinion of this Houſe, that the Reſtraints impoſed by ſeveral late Acts of Parliament on the Trade of this Province, at a Time when the People labour under an enormous Load of Debt, muſt of Neceſſity be attended with the moſt fatal Conſequences, not only to this Province, but to the Trade of our Mother Country.

Reſolved, N. C. D.

That this Houſe think it their Duty thus firmly to aſſert, with Modeſty and Decency, their inherent Rights, that their Poſterity may learn and know, that it was not with their Conſent and Acquieſcenſe, that any Taxes ſhould be levied on them by any Perſons but their own Repreſentatives; and are deſirous that thoſe their Reſolves ſhould remain on their Minutes, as a Teſtimony of the Zeal and ardent Deſire of the preſent Houſe of Aſſembly to preſerve their ineſtimable Rights, which, as Engliſhmen, they have poſſeſſed ever ſince this Province was ſettled, & to tranſmit them to their lateſt Poſterity.

The Gentlemen appointed by our Aſſembly to aſſiſt at the General Congreſs at New-York, we hear ſet out this Day for that Place.

In Letters by the laſt Veſſels from England it is ſaid, that the People in general, were highly pleaſed with the late Change in the Miniſtry; and that Mr. Pitt in particular, tho' he had not accepted of any Place in the Adminiſtration, yet was ſo well ſatisfied with thoſe appointed, that he had promiſed to be aſſiſting with his Advice and Influence, if wanted.

Extract of a Letter from Fort Pitt, Aug. 22.

"To-morrow Capt. Thomas Sterling, with 100 Men of the Forty-ſecond Regiment, leaves this Place in Battoes, to go and take Poſſeſſion of the Ilinois; Col. Croghan, the Indian Agent, having ſettled ſatisfactory Preliminaries with the French Indians, and obtained their Conſent to our poſſeſſing their Country. Mr. Croghan proceeded from the Ilinois to the Detroit, and there held a very grand Treaty with the Indians in that Neighbourhood; and we hear, by ſome Indian Runners, that he is now, with the Ilinois Deputies, on his Way from the Detroit to this Poſt."

HARTFORD, Printed by T. GREEN.

MONDAY, October 14, 1765.

NUMB[illegible] 47.

The Connecticut COURANT.

Containing the freſheſt Advices,

Foreign and Domeſtick.

On Tueſday the 3d Inſt. arrived at New-York, the Harriot Packet-Boat, Capt. Robinſon, in ſix Weeks from Falmouth, by whom we have the London Papers to the 15th of August, from which we have the following Advices.

LONDON, August 3.

[illegible]

14, 1765. NUMBER 47.

Connecticut COURANT.

the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

[illegible]

As ſoon as the Miniſtry are ſettled to general ſatisfaction, there will be a grand exhibition of fireworks at Charing-Croſs, which are now preparing by a publican [illegible] in that neighbourhood.

We are informed, [illegible]

Part of the firſt Chapter [illegible]

HEAR ye men of [illegible]

[illegible] they ſhake their heads at us, ſaying, they ſaved others [illegible]

13. Thus are the mighty fallen; we are deſpiſed; and are become a ſcorn and deriſion, and there is none to help us, ſaith Darius the King.

14. But I will no longer be deceived with fair words, nor divided from my people by [illegible]

15. For they who have filled their bellies with [illegible]

[illegible]

---

the Governor not being impowered by the act to appoint, or if he was, it was left to the Chief Juſtice's option, and that it would be incompatible with his office as Chief Juſtice.

We hear the Speaker of the New-Jerſey Aſſembly has wrote to the members to meet at Prince-Town to appoint ſome of their body to go to the congreſs at New-York.

We hear that Z——h H——d, ſtamp maſter, for Maryland, after having, unperceived, left Annopolis, his place of reſidence, hurried on by fear, rode his horſe to death, and hardly gave himſelf time to breath till he got under the protection of the cannon of Fort George in New-York, where he remains hid from the reſentment of his countrymen, but not from the terrors of his conſcience.

NEW-YORK, October 10.

The Mail to go by the Harriot Packet Boat, Capt. Robinſon, will be made up on Saturday next, and ſhe is to ſail on Sunday.

The Edward, Capt. Davis, was to ſail from London about the latter End of Auguſt, and may be daily expected. It is ſuppoſed the Chains intended for this Colony, and Connecticut, are on board.

Laſt Night was iſſued, the Governor's Proclamation, proroguing the General Aſſembly (which was to meet the 15th Inſtant) to Tueſday the 29th Inſtant.

Extract of a Letter, dated July 26, 1765, from a Gentleman in London, who was very (unjuſtly) by ſome ſuppoſed to be the Author of a vile, infamous, ſenſeleſs Pamphlet, lately publiſhed in London, intitled, The Claim of the Colonies to an Exemption from Taxation by the Britiſh Parliament, conſider'd &c.

"If the preſent Set of Miniſtry continue, we ſhall "have ſome Friends in America among them, ſufficient to encourage an Attempt, at leaſt, to get ſome of our Burthens lightened, among which is the Stamp-Act repealed, in which, you will not take amiſs, if I am very [illegible] your preſent [illegible] you, in [illegible] with ſo great a [illegible]

A Letter from London, dated Auguſt [illegible] I am very ſorry to hear ſuch repeated bad Accounts from America; but at the ſame Time, I have the Pleaſure to tell you, that it is generally believed, that the new Miniſtry will repeal the Stamp-Act this next Seſſion; for my own Part, I make no Doubt of it.

On Monday laſt the Commiſſioners from the ſeveral Colonies, appointed for holding the general Congreſs, being all arrived, aſſembled and entered upon Buſineſs.--The moſt important that ever came under Conſideration in America.

The following is a Liſt of the Gentlemen aſſembled.

Maſſachuſetts-Bay. James Otis, Oliver Partridge, and Timothy Ruggles, Eſqrs.

R. Iſland. Metcalf Bowler, & Henry Ward, Eſqrs.

Connecticut. Eliphalet Dyer, William Samuel Johnſon, and David Rowland, Eſqrs.

New-York. John Cruger, Robert R. Livingſton, Philip Livingſton, William Byard, and Leonard Liſpenard, Eſqrs.

New-Jerſey. Robert Ogden, Hendrick Fiſher, and Joſeph Borden, Eſqrs.

Penſylvania. John Dickenſon, John Morton, and George Bryan, Eſqrs.

Government of the Counties of New-Caſtle, Kent and Suſſex on Delaware. Jacob Kollock, Cæſar Rodney, and Thomas M'Kean, Eſqrs.

Maryland. William Murdock, Edward Tilghman, and Thomas Ringgold, Eſqrs.

South-Carolina. Thomas Lynch, Chriſtopher Gadſden, and John Rutlidge, Eſqrs.

We hear from Philadelphia, that a Commiſſion appointing Mr. Hughes, Diſtributor of the Stamps for that Province, arrived there in the ſame Veſſel with the Stamps, and that he had ſign'd a Reſignation of that Office, which was read off at the Court-Houſe on Monday laſt.

BOSTON, October 10.

We hear that a Number of young Perſons in the Country are joining in Wedlock, earlier than they intended, ſuppoſing that after the firſt of next Month, it would be difficult to have the Ceremony performed without paying dearly for ſtamping:--No leſs than 20 Couple were publiſhed on Sunday laſt at Marblehead, intending Marriage on the ſame Account.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in London, to his Friend in Boſton, received by the laſt Ship.

"We now congratulate you on a total Change of the Miniſters of State; and now it is your Time to repreſent your Grievances, in a moving Manner, and I flatter myſelf you will be attended unto.—Keep clear of all Reſolutions, and be particular in your Facts, let them be well ſupported, and Conſequences juſtly repreſented, in a ſtriking Light, and the mutual Advantage that will ariſe to Great-Britain and her Colonies, by being relieved from your preſent Burthens."—

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman of Diſtinction in England, to another in Newport, July 16.

[illegible] joy of the revolution in the Miniſtry. I hope it will [illegible] the diſtreſſed [illegible] ſterling value in goods, which he could not vend for money; and we hear that ſeveral others intend ſoon to make the ſame remittance.

HARTFORD, October 14.

Laſt Wedneſday the Rev. Mr. ——— Bliſs, was ordained to the miniſterial office, at Ellington.

The next day, the General Aſſembly of this Colony, met at New-Haven.

Mr. Green,

THE Piece ſigned, A Farmer, in your's of the 9th ult. I apprehend, appears with more Propriety to the Publick, in general, than any fictitious Character, yet aſſumed, upon either one Occaſion or another, ſince the firſt Publication of your COURANT; as the Herd is perceptible throughout the Whole; but yet Truth is expected from the Plough, which ſurpriſes me this Clown did not keep on his Side, when he makes ſuch a publick Appearance in Print; where he had the greateſt Right to expect being reminded of it, eſpecially by thoſe concerned in Trade whom he ſo inſolently taxes (deſigning only to amuſe the Ears of the Publick) with one repeated Falſhood after another, which ſhall in the Courſe of this, be duly obſerved.

To begin then, what did this pretended Farmer mean, when he ſo arrogantly aſſerted, that the Language of the People here, was, that no Stranger in the mercantile Way ſhould ſtand among us; and the People here ſhould buy of us, and at our Prices, &c. When he could not fail, being ſenſible at the ſame Time, the only Thing which occaſioned the Advertiſement, ſigned by thoſe in Trade here, was, that this generous Dealer (ironically ſo called) ſhould conform to the known, juſt and reputable Rules of Trade, eſtabliſhed in this Place; which certainly, every Merchant, that is a Gentleman would, that comes amongſt them; and not make uſe of ſuch low Artifice, to take the Farmers in with, by ſelling trifling Articles at the prime Coſt, & taking the Advantage of Them, in others of more Conſequence, and by this ſiniſter Method, to endeavour to engroſs both the Produce and Caſh into his Hands, which in Point of Equity, was ours Years ago, as may appear from the Date of the Ballances due on our Books: and it muſt be allowed by every [illegible] one in the Way of Trade, underſells [illegible] in order to engroſs the whole Cuſtom, is not a [illegible] Dealer, and an intire Stranger to the Knowledge of any Thing which belongs to the Gentleman, or Merchant; and that this tranſient Company was guilty of the greateſt Preſumption, when they attempted to lead [illegible] by the Noſe, Inhabitants here for many Years paſt in Trade (Gentlemen who have always ſupported their Credit with Honor) and undertaking to determine the Market Price of every Thing—who were capable of inſtructing them in their Abc, as to Buſineſs. But Ignorance is the Mother of Devotion, which is the beſt Apology that can be made, for thoſe Up-ſtarts. However, we could wiſh this ingenious, ſcribling Farmer's Advice, to his Brethren, to meet us with THAT which anſwers all Things, and diſcharge their Ballances, would have a due Influence on them, that is all we aſk, and deſire, 'tis the very Thing requeſted. After which they have an undoubted Right to do as they pleaſe with their Caſh or Produce, and beſtow them where it beſt ſuits——but till that Period happens, we muſt beg Leave to deny that Right, on juſt Principals, as the Produce or Caſh they diſpoſe of before our Debts are cancell'd, is not in Fact their own Property; as it is by the uſe of our Intereſt that has been intruſted in their Hands, that they have obtain'd them. This is deſigned for thoſe only who have had our Money in their Hands, for a long Time, and now forget us, and not for any over-grown Farmer, ſome of whom have vaunted at the laſt, and may poſſibly at this Advertiſement; if it diſpleaſes them, let them help and aſſiſt their Brethren, that are in Debt, to extricate themſelves, if diſagreeable to hear them called on for their Ballances, after ſo long Patience, which will be a Favour always gratefully retain'd in Mind.

And as their Eyes are juſt opened, would beg they may not be ſhut, 'till they have complied with their Champion's Advice; then in Reality we may ſee the Times certainly are turning; till then, they have no Right to boaſt or vaunt of more generous Spirits than their Neighbours can afford; eſpecially as through the whole Piece, he ſeems to be loſt to all Principles of common honeſty.

A MERCHANT.

TO BE SOLD, by Andrew Johnſon,
Of MIDDLETOWN,

A Small Aſſortment of Linnen and Woolen Goods, Tea, Coffee, and other Groceries, Bottled Ale, and Mountain Wine, by the Dozen, or half Dozen; for which the Country Produce of all Sorts will be taken, and the higheſt Prices will be allowed for Indian Corn and Rye taken in [illegible]

FOR EUROPE,

The Snow MINERVA, WALTER SHADE, Maſter, now lying in Connecticut-River, and will be ready to take in Frieght at Middletown, by the 25th Inſtant.

FOR Frieght or Paſſage, apply to THOMAS DAVIDSON, and CO. in Hartford, or ſaid Maſter on Board.

AS the moſt Part of the Cargo is Flax-Seed, thoſe who have taken Goods of us, to be paid in that Article, are deſired to ſend in by that Time at furtheſt; and thoſe who are indebted to us, are deſired to ſettle their Accounts with Caſh, ſo that we may be enabled to let the honeſt Farmer have ſome Money, for the Product of his Induſtry. The exporting of the Produce of this Colony, immediately to foreign Markets, deſerves the Attention of every Well-Wiſher to it. As a late Advertiſement obſerv'd, "Conſider with yourſelves, whether People purchaſing" the Produce of the Colony, building Veſſels, and expending all the Money they take, in the various Ways of Trade, among honeſt Farmers, Artificers and Seamen; we ſay, conſider, which are the greateſt Benefit to the Community, they, or thoſe who carry every Sixpence they get, to the neighbouring Provinces, in Caſh? and have even the Audacity to try, to make People believe, they are the Pillars of the Common-Wealth, and Supporters of the State.

In Order to complete the Snow's Cargo, the higheſt Price will be given for Flax-Seed. Wanted 8000 Hogſhead Staves, White-Oak, and 2000 Feet of Cherry-Tree Boards, for which the Market Price will be given. THO's DAVIDSON & CO.

N. B. We have ſtill on Hand, a neat Aſſortment of Engliſh, and Weſt-India Goods, which we will exchange Cheap for Flax-Seed, and other Country Produce, ſuch as Wheat, Rye, Indian Corn, &c. Pork in Hand, will be eſteemed as Caſh. Salt exchanged by us, for Flax-Seed, &c. &c.

WHereas a legal Aſſignment of the Eſtate of Nathanael Chapin, of Enfield, an Inſolvent Debtor, hath been duly made to Meſſ. Iſaac Lo and Henry Franklin of New-York, and Silas Dea of Weathersfield, who are appointed Truſtees to receive the ſame for the only uſe and Benefit of the Creditors, of the ſaid Nathanael, agreeable to a late Act of this Colony, made to prevent Frauds in Debtors, &c. Theſe are therefore in Purſuance of ſaid Act, to Notify all the Creditors of the ſaid Nathanael, to meet at his Dwelling-Houſe, in ſaid Enfield, on the ſecond Monday of November next, then and there to do, and tranſact ſuch neceſſary Buſineſs, as in, and by ſaid Act is provided.

SILAS DEAN, one of the Truſtees.
THO's SEYMOUR, jun. in Behalf of Henry Franklin, one of the Truſtees.

TO Be Sold at Public Vendue, the 25th of October, Inſtant, on the Premiſſes, ſituated in Middletown, Upper-Houſes, a large Dwelling Houſe and [illegible] Barn, and about Six Acres of Land thereto [illegible]. Lately the Property of Lu Stebbins, and is very convenient for a Shop-keep The Sale to begin, at 2 o'Clock Afternoon.

ELEAZER FITCH.

Oct. 14.

WHereas purſuant to an Advertiſement, publiſhed in the public News-Papers of th Colony, that Ebenezer C mes of Simſbury, Iſaac Reed of Windſor, inſolvent Debtors, who ha ſignified by Writings under their Hands, with the Hon. Jabez Ha Major Part of their Creditors, to [illegible] lin, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, for the Cou of Hartford, and Seth Whitmore, Eſq; one of Juſtices of the Quorum, for ſaid County of H ford, that they are willing to ſurrender up all th Effects, for the Benefit of their Creditors, and ha deſired that Truſtees may be forthwith appoint And we the Subſcribers have been appointed ac cordingly. Public Notice is hereby given to the Creditors of the ſaid Ebenezer Co mes, Iſaac Reed, to meet at the Houſe of Mr. El Kent, Innholder in Suffield, on the [illegible] Monday of October and November next; ſaid M be attended from two o'Clock in the afternoon till ſix, to proceed in ſuch Way and Manner as the Law of this Colony directs, entituled, An Act for preventing Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors for the Uſe of their Creditors."

Elijah Kent,
Nathaniel Terry, } Truſtees Ebenezer C
Elijah Kent,
Seth Auſtin, } Truſtee Iſaac R

WHereas more than five of the Proprietors of the Townſhip of Wincheſter in the County of Litchfield, have applied to me the Subſcriber, to warn a Meeting of ſaid Proprietors, to conſider of ſome ſuitable Method for the better Regulation of the Highways in ſaid Townſhip; alſo to chooſe a Clerk for ſaid Proprietors, and further to tranſact any other Buſineſs that may be tho't needful, &c. Theſe are therefore to notify and warn all whom it may concern, to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Moſes Butler, Inn-holder in Hartford, on Tueſday the [illegible] of October next, at O

ONDAY, October 28, 1765. NUMBER 49.

18 20

The Connecticut COURANT.

Containing the freshest Advices, Foreign and Domestick.

NEW-HAVEN, October 18.

Roll of Representatives, returned to the General Assembly now sitting in New-Haven.

For HARTFORD County.

rford,	Col William Pitkin Col. Samuel Talcott,
nbury,	* Mr. Jonathan Welles * Major Eleazer Talcott
nd,	Capt. Zebulon West, Mr. Elijah Chapman.
ef r.	Capt. Dudley Wright, * Capt. Henry Champion.
ry,	* Capt. John Case, Mr. Hezekiah Humphrys.
ngton,	Capt. Abner Barker, * Mr. John Weston.
ld,	Capt. Joseph Olmstead. Mr. Edward Collins.
dam,	* Capt. Thomas Selden.
on,	Capt. Thomas Pitkin, * Capt. Benjamin Talcott.
rs,	Mr. Emery Pease.
ld,	* Capt. Samuel Kent, * Mr. William King.
n,	Capt. Samuel Gilbert, Mr. John Phelps
bersfield,	Capt. Elisha Williams, Capt. Thomas Belding.
letown,	Mr. Seth Wetmore, Mr. Richard Alsop.
-Haddam,	Mr. Daniel Brainard.
dsor,	* Mr. William Woolcott, * Mr. Alexander Woolcott.
mington,	* Capt. John Strong, Mr. Solomon Whitman.
ford,	* Mr. Daniel Aldin, * Mr Nathan Johnson.

For NEW-HAVEN County.

Haven,	Mr. Roger Sherman, Mr. Samuel Bishop.
lford,	Mr. Nathaniel Hill, * Mr. Nathaniel Ruggles.
ford,	* Mr. Ephraim Strong, Capt. John Fowler.
by,	* Capt. Abel Gun, Mr. Joseph Hull.
rbury,	Mr. Joseph Hopkins, * Capt. Stephen Upton.
ham,	Capt. James Wadsworth, * Capt. Ebenezer Garnsey.
ngford,	Major Elihu Hall, * Capt. Samuel Hall.
nford,	* Mr. Samuel Barker, * Mr. Samuel Baker.

For NEW-LONDON County.

London,	Mr. William Hillhouse, * Mr. Richard Law.
wich,	* Mr. Isaac Tracey, * Mr. William Morgan.
ngton,	Capt. Joseph Denniston, * Mr. Paul Wheeler.
ton,	Capt. William Winter, Mr. Nathaniel Brown.
e,	Mr. William Noyce, * Mr. Samuel Holden Parsons.
rook	* Col. Samuel Willard, Capt. John Shipman.
ton,	Capt. Moses Fish, * Capt. William Williams.
lingsworth,	Mr. Benjamin Gale, Capt. John Pierson.

For FAIRFIELD County.

rfield,	Capt. David Burr, * Mr. Nathan Bulkley
rwalk,	Mr. Thomas Fitch, jun Mr. Joseph Platt.
Stanford,	Col. Jonathan Hoit, Mr. Abraham Davenport.
Stratford,	Capt. Wm. Samuel Johnson, Mr. Joseph Curtice.
Newtown,	Capt. Henry Glover, * Mr. Oliver Toosey.
Ridgefield,	Mr. Samuel Olmsted, * Mr. Stephen Smith.
New-Fairfield,	* Capt. Eleazer Hubbel, * Capt. Elnathan Hall.
Greenwich,	* Capt. Jabez Sherwood, * Capt. Messenger Palmer.
Danbury,	Mr. Samuel Dickinson, * Capt. Daniel Taylor, jun.

For WINDHAM County.

Windham,	* Major Jedediah Elderkin, * Rev. Mr. Ebenezer Devotion.
Killingsly,	* Capt. Samuel Danielson. * Mr. Jacob Dresser.
Woodstock,	Capt. Nehemiah Lyon, Mr. Ebenezer Smith.
Canterbury,	Capt. Jabez Fitch, * Mr. Samuel Huntington,
Plainfield,	* Major Ezekiel Pierce, * Mr. Elisha Paine.
Ashford,	Capt. Jedediah Fay, * Capt. Benjamin Clark.
Coventry,	Mr. Phineas Strong, Mr. Ephraim Root,
Mansfield.	Mr. Benjamin Champlin, * Mr. Jonathan Gurley.
Lebanon,	Mr. William Williams, Capt. Joshua West.
Vollington,	Mr. John Gordon, Mr. Moses Kinney.
Pomphret,	* Col. Ebenezer Williams, * Mr. Joseph Scarborough,

For LITCHFIELD County.

Litchfield,	Col. Ebenezer Marsh, Capt. Isaac Baldwin.
New Hartford,	Capt. Matthew Gillet, Capt. Abel Merrills.
Harwington,	* Capt. Abijah Catling, * Capt. Joel Catling.
Kent,	Mr. Cyrus Marsh, Mr. Ephraim Hubbel.
New-Milford,	Mr. Bushnel Bostwick, * Mr. Patridge Thatcher.
Canaan,	* Mr. James Beebe, * Capt. Isaac Lawrence.
Cornwal,	Mr. Thomas Russel, Mr. Joshua Pierce.
Goshen,	Capt. Moses Lyman, * Capt. Samuel Nash.
Woodbury,	Mr. Daniel Sherman, Capt. Increase Mosley.
Salisbury.	* Capt. James Landon, * Capt. Samuel More.
Sharon,	Capt. John Williams, Capt. Caleb Jewit.
Torrington,	Mr. John Cook, * Mr. Noah Wilson.

MEMORANDUMS.

Those before which Marks are put, are the Names of new Members, elected since May last.

	Towns,	Members,	new.
1 HARTFORD,	15	33	14
2 NEW HAVEN,	8	16	8
3 NEW LONDON,	8	16	7
4 FAIRFIELD,	9	18	8
5 WINDHAM,	11	22	11
6 LITCHFIELD,	12	24	9
	65	129	57

NEWPORT, October 21.

Last Tuesday arrived here the Viper Sloop of War, Capt. Lobb, from Boston, and bro't the Stamped Papers designed for the Use of this Colony, which have since been taken out and put on board the Cygnet.

As the People of these Colonies are fully convinced of the fatal Consequences attending a Compliance with the Stamp Act,—the deplorable and abject Condition to which it will inevitably reduce them,—it may seem injurious to imagine, that the Inhabitants of this Colony will ever betray a Character so utterly inconsistent with that Spirit which ought invariably to actuate the noble Sons of Liberty, as ever to submit to become Purchasers of any of the Stamped Papers, and thereby manifest their Acquiescence in an Act of the most dangerous Tendency, indisputably subversive of our enestimable Rights, and calculated to reduce us, together with Millions yet unborn, to irredeemable Slavery, and the most abject Poverty. But as the most exalted Genius, though as rhetorical and persuasive as a Cicero, is insufficient to inspire the Public with suitable Conceptions of the wretched and miserable State of Vassalage; therefore no seasonable Opportunity should pass unobserved, nor any lawful Means unattempted, to excite a firm and vigorous Opposition to this illegal, grievous and oppressive Act.——The Stamped Papers are now in the Harbour, and the Day is near at Hand, when this infamous Act is designed to take Place; but it is hoped every Lover of his Country will spurn, with the highest Indignation, the base Thought of ever purchasing a single one; and despise, execrate and detest the Wretch who shall presume to countenance the Use of them, in any Way whatever. It is certain, that a fixed and strenuous Opposition to this unconstitutional Law, cannot reduce us to Distress any Way adequate to that of its Operation. Besides, how shocking the Thought! how exquisitely affecting! to transmit to a numerous Posterity, the horrid Chains of absolute Servitude.——But, on the contrary, if animated with manly Vigour, and possessed with unshaken Fortitude, we nobly withstand the vile Attacks made on our known Privileges, our Memories will be venerated, applauded, and admired to the latest Generations; which, however pleasing, must vanish when compared with the ineffable Satisfaction of being instrumental in securing the Rights of our Country, and transmitting them inviolate to succeeding Ages.

Mr. HALL,

YEsterday being Sunday, upon one of the Posts of the Draw-Bridge on the Long-Wharf, was seen a spirited Piece. The Author was something sanguine, but, however, I am sorry he sign'd his Name Pasquin, i. e. a Libeller, for indeed he expressed no more than the real Sentiments of the Public; and though the S—— M—— of Rhode-Island read it, scoffed and swaggered, he, and every Person hinted at in that Piece, must remember, that Vox Populi is Vox Dei.

Phileleutherus.

The following is a Copy of the Piece found, Yesterday Morning, posted up on the Long Wharf.

Liberty and Property, and no Excise.

MUCH hath been said in favour of FREEDOM, but Stentor's lungs would fail, and Cicero's eloquence be ex-

---

A few Copies of the Oppressive STAMP-ACT; To be sold by T. GREEN.

WHereas pursuant to an Advertisement, published in the public News-Papers of this Colony, that Ebenezer Comes of Simsbury, and Isaac Reed of Windsor, insolvent Debtors, who have signified by Writings under their Hands, with the Major Part of their Creditors, to the Hon. Jabez Hamlin, Esq; Judge of the County Court, for the County of Hartford, and Seth Whitmore, Esq; one of the Justices of the Quorum, for said County of Hartford, that they are willing to surrender up all their Effects, for the Benefit of their Creditors, and have desired that Trustees may be forthwith appointed. And we the Subscribers have been appointed accordingly. Public Notice is hereby given to all the Creditors of the said Ebenezer Comes, and Isaac Reed, to meet at the House of Mr. Elijah Kent, Innholder in Suffield, on the last Mondays of October and November next; said Meeting will be attended from two o'Clock in the Afternoon, till six, to proceed in such Way and Manner as the Law of this Colony directs, entituled, "An Act for preventing Frauds in Debtors, and for the securing the Effects of Insolvent Debtors for the Use of their Creditors."

Elijah Kent, Nathaniel Terry, } Trustees for Ebenezer Comes.

Elijah Kent, Seth Austin, } Trustees for Isaac Reed.

To be sold at Vendue, on Thursday the last Day October inst. or at a Private Sale any Time before, at Moses Butler's in Hartford, at four o'Clock Afternoon,

ABOUT a Quarter of an Acre of Land, with a new Building thereon, suitable either for a House or Shop; adjoining Mr. Butler's Land near the Bridge in Hartford, formerly in the Occupation of Mr. Jonathan Brown.

To be sold by ANDREW JOHNSON, Of MIDDLETOWN,

A Small Assortment of Linnen and Woolen Goods, Tea, Coffee, and other Groceries, Bottled Ale, and Mountain Wine, by the Dozen, or half Dozen; for which the Country Produce of all Sorts will be taken, and the highest Prices will be allowed for Indian Corn and Rye taken in Barter for Shop Goods.

Said Johnson has to sell, Lisbon Salt (suitable for Beef) by the Hundred, or single Bushel.

WHereas a legal Assignment of the Estate of Nathanael Chapin, of Enfield, an Insolvent Debtor, hath been duly made to Mess. Isaac Low and Henry Franklin of New-York, and Silas Dean of Weathersfield, who are appointed Trustees to receive the same for the only use and Benefit of the Creditors, of the said Nathanael, agreeable to a late Act of this Colony, made to prevent Frauds in Debtors, &c. These are therefore in Pursuance of said Act, to Notify all the Creditors of the said Nathanael, to meet at his Dwelling-House, in said Enfield, on the second Monday of November next, then and there to do, and transact such necessary Business, as in, and by said Act is provided.

SILAS DEAN, one of the Trustees.
THO'S SEYMOUR, jun. in Behalf of Henry Franklin, one of the Trustees.

Just come to Hand from BOSTON, and now ready to be deliverd to the Subscribers,

The Life and Character of the late Rev. Mr. JONATHAN EDWARDS. Together with a Number of his SERMONS, on various important Subjects. Also,

Two DISSERTATIONS

I. Concerning the END for which GOD created the WORLD.

II. The Nature of TRUE VIRTUE.

By the late Reverend, Learned and Pious JONATHAN EDWARDS, A. M.

THIS is to give Notice, That some Time in the Year 1762, there was left in my Care, by Capt. John Bulkley of Weathersfield, sundry Chests which were sent here from Albany, supposed to belong to some Gentlemen in the Army; all of which have since been claimed, except one, which is still in my Hands, and ready to be delivered to the Owner, on his making out his Claim, and paying Charges.

BENJ. BIGELOW

Hartford, Oct. 15, 1765.

JUST PUBLISHED,
And to be sold at the Printing-Office in Hartford.
Price 2s. & 6d. per Doz. & 4d. Single.

Ames's genuine Almanack for the Year 1766.

STOLEN from the Subscribers of Cloverick, in Albany County, New-York Province, on Sunday the 6th Instant, the following Horse Kine, viz. A white Gelding, Five Years old, branded with the Letters IHS joined together, on his left Thigh—One sorrel Mare, with a White Mane and Tail, has a Blaze in her Face, and is mark'd on some of her Limbs thus, ЭК. The other a small Black Gelding, with some White Spots on his Back, has no Brand, about 5 Years old, and has crooked Hind Legs. Whoever shall take up the White Horse and Thief, shall receive Three Pounds, New-York Currency Reward, and Four Pounds for the other Horse, Mare, and the Thief, or Thieves, and Three Pounds for the last mentioned Horse and Mare only, paid by JOHANNIS HOGEBOOM, jun.

Or, JACOB SHAVER.

It is supposed, that they were stolen, by some Persons who had been at work at Saratoga.

Caleb Bull,

(At his STORE in HARTFORD)

Hath for SALE, at the lowest Advance from the Prime Cost, for CASH or PRODUCE,

A FRESH Supply of EUROPEAN, and INDIA GOODS, Groceries, Crokery, Cutlary and hard Wares, of various Kinds—— so numerous that common Modesty and good Manners forbids to insert Particulars in the public News Paper: although Pilgrams have had the Front to fill near one Fourth of the Connecticut Courant for the Time being. So possessed with their own Importance that a Sleeve-button, or Jews-harp may'nt be omitted; and even in their repeated, transplanted and cross-lott Harrangues, have the good Manners to charge those with Audacity, who are able to pay their Cash or Produce for Goods when purchased. But such sower-bred and vain People would appear with a better Face, did they but settle their Affairs in Country and City, and withall, reflect on the sharp Knife and square Box, favourite Objects in the Year 1762, &c. Then, if they could pay for a Jews-harp, 'twould be grand. But 'tis hoped, the longer these are among People of more Ingenuity and good Breeding, they will acquire a better Degree of good Manners, and drop their Insults, or they may expect to be laid open to the clear Sun-shine.

N. B. Said BULL fearing the Bait would be discovered, hath omitted using the Word HONEST Farmer, &c. &c. so fashionable of late; but hopes that Order will excuse him, if he treats them as such, in his Deal, and at the same Time is sensible he stands in as much Need of their Favours as other People.

Colony of Connecticut.

WHEREAS, pursuant to an Act or Law of said Colony, entitled "An Act to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for securing the Effects of Insolvent Debtors, for the Use of their Creditors, &c."——Martin Kellogg of Suffield, in the County of Hartford, an Insolvent Debtor, in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors, hath exhibited his Petition, with an Account of the Sums by him owing, and an Inventory of his Estate, &c. under Oath, before JABEZ HAMLIN, Esq; Judge of the County Court in the County of Hartford, and SAMUEL TALCOT, Esq; Justice of the Peace and Quorum in said County, praying to have the same disposed of for the Use of his said Creditors: Public Notice is therefore hereby given, to all the Creditors of the said Martin Kellogg, to appear at the Dwelling-House of Mr. David Bull, Inn-holder in HARTFORD, in said County, on Wednesday, the 6th of November next, to shew Reason, (if any they have) why an Assignment of the Estate of the said Martin Kellogg should not be made, and his Person discharged according to Regulation and Provision in said Act.

October 14th, 1765.

FOR EUROPE,

The Snow MINERVA, WALTER SHADE, Master, now lying in Connecticut-River, and will be ready to take in Freight at Middletown, by the 25th Instant.

FOR Freight or Passage, apply to THOMAS DAVIDSON, and CO. in Hartford, or said Master on Board.

paid in that Article, are desired to send in by that Time at furthest; and those who are indebted to us, are desired to settle their Accounts with Cash, so that we may be enabled to let the honest Farmer have some Money, for the Product of his Industry. The exporting of the Produce of this Colony, immediately to foreign Markets, deserves the Attention of every Well-Wisher to it. As a late Ad-

Money they take, in the various Ways of Trade, among honest Farmers, Artificers and Seamen; we say, consider, which are the greatest Benefit to the Community, these or those who carry every Sixpence they get, to the neighbouring Provinces, in Cash? and have even the Audacity to try, to make People believe, they are the Pillars of the Common-Wealth, and Supporters of the State.

8000 Hogshead Staves, White-Oak, and 2000 Feet of Cherry-Tree Boards, for which the Market Price will be given.

THO'S DAVIDSON & CO.

N. B. We have still on Hand, a neat Assortment of English, and West-India Goods, which we will exchange Cheap for Flax-Seed, and other Country Produce, such as Wheat, Rye, Indian Corn, &c. Pork in Hand, will be esteemed as Cash. Salt exchanged by us, for Flax-Seed, &c. &c.

Hartford; Printe
sold by Tho's G opposite the S House.

hended, before an abandoned ſet of villains, diſtributed through the towns of America, could be perſuaded of the value of it. Nothing but coercive means can do it. Rouſe then, my countrymen, and let them know coercive means ſhall be uſed! Shall ſuch a [illegible] V——n as the S——le I——d S——p M——n, in open violation of his oath, of his honour, as a member of your community, and of your eſſential rights and privileges, ſend for the accurſed Stamp papers, and now bid you kiſs his a—e? I ſay, ſhall he do all this with impunity? Shall he do it and live? Or indeed ſhall any villain among you purchaſe any of his damnable wares and live? The firſt of November is very nigh, let not your courage cool, nor your reſentment fail.——Don't be terrified at any thing, let not a few hectoring bullies, the C——s of m——n of w——r, ſcare you; they, like the Devil, are chained, and cannot go beyond their limits. Indeed, fear nothing but ſlavery, love your LIBERTY, and fight for it like men who know the value of it. If you once loſe it, it never will be regain'd, and children yet unborn, will be eternally curſing your memory.

GOD bleſs GEORGE the third, King of Great-Britain, and King and Lord of America. May his reign be long and glorious. God bleſs the Britiſh parliament with a happy and glorious underſtanding.

N. B. It is Voted and Reſolved, by the reſpectable populace, That out of their body, 30 perſons be choſen, to inſpect and ſee, both by night and day, how many Stamp papers ſhall be landed out of the Cygnet man of war, and make report to this board.

It is voted and reſolved, That the C——r of N—— ſhall uſe none of them in his office, upon pain of our higheſt diſpleaſure.

It is voted and reſolved, That if he will clear out no veſſels upon paper without Stamps, that he ſhall be drove out of town with a high hand.

It is Voted and Reſolved, by this reſpectable board, That any merchant clearing out his veſſel upon St—p papers, ſhall meet with our higheſt diſpleaſure.

* * *

LONDON, Auguſt 10.

The houſe of Burgeſſes at Virginia met at Williamſburg in the beginning of June, and came to ſeveral warm Reſolutions relative to the Stamp-Duty impoſed on America, in which they declared, That no taxes are to be impoſed on them without the conſent of the General Aſſembly; and concluded with reſolving, 'That any perſon who ſhall, by 'ſpeaking or writing, maintain, that any 'perſon or perſons, other than the General 'Aſſembly of that colony, have any right 'or power to impoſe any taxation whatever, 'they ſhall be deemed enemies to that, his 'Majeſty's colony.'

Thurſday one Care, a waterman, laid a wager, that he and his dog would jump from the center-arch of Weſtminſter-bridge, and be both at Lambeth within a minute of each other. The dog, on ſeeing his maſter go off, jumped immediately after him into the the river, ſeized him by the nape of the neck, and would not let go his hold, till he had by force landed him at the bridge-foot, on the Surry ſide, to the great diverſion of the ſpectators. A gentleman preſent offered five guineas for the dog, which was refuſed.

Wedneſday morning a young couple went to St. Martin's church, in order to be married, attended by four bridemen, and the ſame number of bridemaids, where the bride groom no ſooner arrived, than he earneſtly looked at the church for ſome minutes, and then thought proper to elope; and though a ſtrict enquiry has been made, he has not been ſince heard of by his intended bride.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman at Bourdeaux, to his Friend in Limerick, July 6, 1765.

"The attention of Bourdeaux is now taken up by a famous phyſician, who cures moſt diſorders by the means of ſimples, by looking into the eyes of any perſon, he not only tells what diſorders they may have, but thoſe they have already undergone; at what time, and how they were treated for it; he is never out upon theſe occaſions. A young couple, people of faſhion, that were married about a month, attended him a few days ago; the lady had ſome complaints, ſhe gueſſed the cauſe of them, but went for diverſion to conſult the Doctor. After due inſpection, he aſked her, whether he might tell her diſorder before the gentleman then preſent (meaning her huſband) who ſtood by, enjoying his wife's innocent mirth. She anſwered with a ſmile in the affirmative; So the Doctor began, telling her, that ſhe was then about 18 years old, that at the age of 15 ſhe was brought to bed of a daughter, and the year following of another; that ſhe took remedies which indeed diſguiſed her ſituation, but drove the milk back into her blood, and bro't on diſorders, which would ſhortly manifeſt themſelves. The lady fainted away; the gentleman ſneaked off, and has not been heard of ſince. What is very remarkable, no ladies have ſince aſked the Doctor's advice, while any witneſſes were preſent."

Yeſterday a man who goes by the name of Trump, and belongs to one of the Hampſtead ſtages, eat five pounds and and a half of beef ſtakes, and two large bunches of onions, fried, at an alehouſe in Grey's-inn lane, a three-penny loaf, and drank two pots of porter for a trifling wager. His dinner is generally three pounds of ſolid meat, and one pot of porter, with bread, &c. in proportion; but he neither eats breakfaſt or ſupper.

PHILADELPHIA, October 17.

We hear from North-Carolina, that the Stamp Maſter for that province, ſoon after he heard of his being appointed to that office, and the uneaſineſs it cauſed in the breaſts of his countrymen, like a good patriot, who diſdains to lend a helping hand to enſlave his country, let the bribe be ever ſo great, generouſly gave up that deteſtable office, the very name of which grates upon the ear of every lover of his country.

NEW-YORK, October 24.

Yeſterday was opened the Market under the Exchange, for Home Manufactures. The Deſign was not ſufficiently known in the Country, and from the Shortneſs of the Notice, there was neither the Plenty nor Variety expected; tho' ſuch a Number of Buyers appeared, of all Ranks, that it is not doubted but they would have bought for large Sums. There was Plenty of Women's Shoes of different Makers, which had a quick Sale, and Hyſe's Make were totally diſcredited by all the Judicious. Brown bleached Linen and Diaper Cambrick, Thread Stockings, and Caps, and Woolen Yarn Stockings were quickly ſold——A great Demand was made for more of theſe Articles and alſo for Woolen Cloths and Stuffs of all Sorts, New-England Checks, Gloves and Mittens——And it is hoped, that next Market Day, being Wedneſday the 6th of November, the Country Markets will ſupply the great Demand.

A few days ago, an expreſs from the General Aſſembly of Georgia, arrived in this City with inſtructions from them, relating to the general congreſs now holding here.

Upon the Convention of the Commiſſioners from the ſeveral Governments, in this Place, they made Choice of the Honourable Timothy Ruggles, Eſq; for their Preſident, and Mr. John Cotton for their Secretary.

Extract of a letter, dated Cape Nichola, on Hiſpaniola, September 19, 1765.

——"A Spaniſh Schooner is juſt arrived from Baraco, on the Iſland of Cuba, with the Remnant of the Crew of the French Frigate La Bayoneſe, mounting 32 Guns. The Hiſtory of this Affair is this: The Inhabitants of Old Cape St. Louis refuſed to appear under Arms as Militia, having paid 20l. per Head to be exempted. This Frigate was ſent down (in Company with another) having on board this Veſſel 165 Soldiers from the Regiment of Quercy, (and as many on board the other) in order to compel them to it. But notwithſtanding, they were incapable of doing it; and the Reſult was, they were ordered back: And off the Platform they met with a Gale of Wind; not being expert enough to wear their Ship, they put before the Wind, and being [illegible] they did not know where they were, and about one in the Morning, they ran aſhore upon the Point called La Galette, about 8 or 9 Leagues to the Leeward of Cape [illegible] where 180 of them periſhed; only 25 Soldiers and 45 Seamen were ſaved, and the Ship entirely loſt."

On Tueſday Evening arrived the Ship Edward, Captain William Davis, in 9 Weeks from London, and ſix Weeks and two Days from Falmouth, with whom came Major Cary, of the Royal Americans, and his Lady; Mr. Webb, another Gentleman of the Army, Mr. Kendrick, Merchant, and Mr. Brownjohn, of this City, Mrs. Nichols, of Amboy, and two or three others, came Paſſengers; by ſome of whom we learn, That Sir HARRY MOORE, Governor of this Province, was on board the Minerva, Capt. Tillet, lying at Portſmouth, and expected to ſail from thence about the Time Capt. Davis ſailed from Falmouth, and therefore may be daily expected here. The Duke of Cumberland Packet boat was arrived from this Port in three Weeks Paſſage.——The Captains Haviland, Berton, and Jacobſon, were to ſail from London, for this Port, in about a Week after Capt. Davis——and the Earl of Halifax Packet, Capt. Bolderſon, in about ten Days. On the Paſſage, [illegible] Capt. Davis, [illegible] new Brig, from Philadelphia, bound to Liſbon, the Day after another from the ſame Place for Briſtol, and the next Day another from Newcaſtle, bound to Philadelphia. The new Miniſtry were in general much approved by the Public, whoſe Attention had been ſo much taken up with the talk occaſioned by the late extraordinary Change, that our moſt juſt and heavy Complaints of Oppreſſion, had as yet, ſcarcely attracted the public Notice——indeed they had not then heard that our Diſtreſſes were ſo grievous, and our Complaints ſo extenſive and unanimous. (Which may ſerve as an Example to ſhow the Abſurdity of the Pretences of our being repreſented by thoſe who can feel no Part of the Burdens and Difficulties they would impoſe upon us;—or that we could be repreſented at all, even if we choſe Perſons for that Purpoſe in an Aſſembly too remote to have timely and neceſſary Notices of our Circumſtances, or to be properly under our Influence.)—However it was the general Talk in London, that we ſhould be eaſed in the Stamp Duties (Nothing but giving up the Pretence to the Right of taxing us, can eaſe us.)——And ſome ſay it was a Wager commonly offered in the Coffee-Houſes, of One Hundred Guineas to Ten, that the Stamp Act would be repealed as ſoon as the Parliament met, which was to be about the Middle of November.—The Queen was delivered of a third Prince—and the Emperor of Germany was dead.——Capt. Davis, who bro't us, laſt Voyage, the News that the Stamp Act was paſſed, has now brought the Stamps themſelves, intended to enſlave us.—They were ſhip'd ſo privately, that not a Paſſenger in the Ship knew of their being on board, till a Man of War here came on board to take Care of their Security.

As ſoon as it was known that the Stamps were really arrived, all the Veſſels in the Harbour lower'd their Colours, to ſignify Mourning, Lamentation, and Woe. Alas! What have we done to merit ſuch Treatment from our Mother Country, and our Brethren? Have we deſerved to be thus degraded and diſhonoured, and uſed by them, as the moſt inveterate Enemies? What ſtrange Infatuation has prevail'd in their Councils! to diſtreſs, ruin and enſlave us, when our Rights and Privileges are preciſely the ſame, and our Intereſts inſeparably united.

It is reported, that the Governor ſent to Mr. M'Evans, deſiring him to take Care of the Stamps, and that he anſwered, he had nothing to do with them. At preſent, as we are informed, there is not one of the Perſons appointed, from New-Hampſhire to Georgia, that will execute the odious Wines, Briſtol Beer, Jamaica Spirits, Antigua Rum, Molaſſes, Shrub, alſo Variety of blue and white, and enamelled China Bowls, Iriſh Linens, ſilk Handkerchiefs, Checks, Tapes, Needles, China Baſkets, and other Articles too tedious to mention.

OLD Madeira, Liſbon, Fyall, and Teneriff Wines, by the Quarter Caſk or Five Gallons; Jamaica Spirits, Weſt-India Rum, Geneva, Loaf, Lump, and Muſcovado Sugars, by the Barrel or leſs Quantity, and old Weſt-India Rum by the Hogſhead.

; ſo that the Stamps are a Commodity no Body knows
t to do with, and are more minable, and dangerous to ddled with, than if they infected with the Peſtilence.
more dangerous to buy or or meddle with a Stamp, it is to encounter all the gers and Penalties attending
Want of them. AMEN.

ILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.

On Saturday laſt Captain land's ſhip with the p'd papers on board,
e up to this city, at-led by the Sardine man
ar. On the firſt ap-ance of thoſe ſhips round ceſter point, all the veſ-n the harbour hoiſted colours half maſt high,
ells begun to ring, be-irſt muffled, and every tenance added to the arance of ſincere mourn-
r the approaching loſs
IBERTY. In the af-on ſeveral thouſand cis met at the State-
e, to conſider the pro-ways and means for nting that unconſtituact of parliament (the ACT) being carried execution; the firſt
re was to ſend ſeven
eir number to Mr.
es, ſtamp-deſtributor is province, to requeſt
to reſign that office.
ured them no act of uld tend to carry that to execution here, un-vas generally compli-
h in the other colonies,
fuſed to ſign any ren at that time: On entlemen's return to tate-Houſe, and reg this anſwer, the ny were inſtantly
orted with reſentment, is impoſſible to ſay
lengths their rage
have carried them,
t the Gentlemen who on Mr. Hughes re-
ted him in the light eared to to them; at nt of death; his ſi-
raiſed their com-
, and inſtead of re-
inſtantly to his houſe oſitive anſwer, they to make their requi-
n writing, and gave Hughes till Monday
e reply; in conſe-
of this determinati-
ort paper was drawn ſent to him, and on y the deputies re-
from him a writing was brought to the Houſe, and there read
t concourſe of peo-
follows:

WHereas, on Saturday evening laſt, a paper was ſent to me, expreſſing, that 'a great 'number of citizens of Philadelphia, aſſembled 'at the State-Houſe, do demand of Mr. John 'Hughes, diſtributor of Stamps for Pennſylvania, 'that he will give them aſſurance under his hand, 'that he will not execute that office, and expect 'that he will give them a fair, candid and direct 'anſwer by Monday next, ten o'clock, when he 'will be waited on for that purpoſe.'

I do therefore return for anſwer to theſe Gentlemen, and all their aſſociates, that I have not hitherto taken any ſtep tending to put the late act of parliament into execution in this province, and that I will not either by myſelf or my deputies, do any act or thing, that ſhall have the leaſt tendency to put the ſaid act into execution in this province, until the ſaid act ſhall be put into execution generally in the neighbouring colonies, and this I am determined to abide by.

JOHN HUGHES.

This paper from Mr. Hughs at firſt gain'd the approbation of three hozzas, but many people are much diſſatisfied with it ſince, as they think he ought to have reſign'd his office without reſervation.——The ſtamp'd papers are taken on board the men of war, which prevent them from being expoſed to the reſentment of an injured and enraged people.

BOSTON, October 24.

Yeſterday the Great and General Court met here according to Adjournment; and we hear that moſt every Member of the Honorable Houſe of Repreſentatives have received Inſtructions from their Conſtituents; and that they are of the ſame Import with thoſe already publiſhed.

A large Quantity of ſtamped Paper and Parchment came in Capt. Hunter, who arrived here laſt Saturday from London; Which have ſince been depoſited in Caſtle William.

By a Letter from London, we learn, that Complaint is made of ſome Parcels of Pot-Aſh that went from hence laſt Spring being falſely pack'd; and that for the future that Article from hence will be thoro'ly inſpected, which will be attended with great Loſs and Expence.

We hear that the Merchants & Friends to America in England, were determined to uſe their utmoſt Endeavours the next Seſſion of Parliament, in order to get the Stamp-Act repeal'd.

Laſt Thurſday the Compliment of a ſpecial Writ for Damages, was paid the Lieutenant of the Man of War, who arreſted and detained the Ship John Galley, Capt. Helme, on Board of whom came the firſt Draught of Stamps.

NEW-HAVEN, October 25.

The Gentlemen nominated to ſtand for Election in May next, are The Hon. Thomas Fitch, Eſq;—Hon. William Pitkin, Eſq,—Ebenezer Silliman, Eſq; Jonathan Trumble, Eſq;——Hezekiah Huntington, Eſq;—John Cheſter, Eſq; Benjamin Hall, Eſq,—Jabez Hamlin, Eſq;—Matthew Griſwold, Eſq;—Shubael Conant, Eſq;—Eliſha Shelden, Eſq; Eliphalet Dyar, Eſq;—Jabez Huntington, Eſq;--Col. William Pitkin,--Mr. Roger Sherman,--Col. Robert Walker,--Mr. Abraham Davenport,--Mr. David Rowland,--Capt. William-Samuel Johnſon,--Col. Joſeph Spencer.

The General Aſſembly of this Colony have lately paſſed a Number of Reſolutions to aſſert and vindicate the Charter and other invaluable Privileges which juſtly belong to this loyal Government.

HARTFORD, October 28.

Thurſday the 14th of November next, is appointed to be obſerved as a Day of public Thankſgiving throughout this Colony.

Yeſterday we had a ſevere Snow-Storm.

ALL Perſons Indebted to the Eſtate of Mr. [illegible] Lord, late of Hartford, Deceas'd, are deſired to make Payment to us the Subſcribers, Executors to his laſt Will; and all Thoſe who have Demands on ſaid Eſtate, are deſired to bring them in, that they may be adjuſted.

SARAH EDWARDS,
SOLOMON SMITH,
SAMUEL TALCOTT, jun.

By the Honorable
JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq;
Judge of the County Court, for the County of Hartford, in the Colony of Connecticut;

NOTICE is hereby given, That an Application, in Writing, exhibited by one of the Creditors of SAMUEL DRAKE of Hartford, in ſaid County, (an Abſconded and concealed Debtor) for not leſs than Twenty Pounds; being proved by ſaid Creditor's Oath, in Purſuance of an Act made and paſſed in the General Aſſembly of ſaid Colony, on the ſecond Thurſday of May, 1765; intitled, "An Act for preventing Frauds in Debtors, and ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors, and for the equitable Diviſion of the Eſtates and Effects of ſuch Debtors, to and among their Creditors." A Warrant hath iſſued, directed to all, and every the Sheriffs, the Under-Sheriffs and Deputies, and the Conſtables of the ſeveral Towns, within this Colony, to attach, ſeize, and take all the Eſtate and Effects of the ſaid Samuel Drake, for the Uſe and Benefit of his Creditors. And that unleſs the ſaid Samuel ſhall diſcharge his juſt Debts, or give Security therefor, within three Months from the Date of ſaid Warrant, that is to ſay, from the 15th Day of October Inſtant, for the Satisfaction of ſaid Creditors, for the Payment thereof; all the Eſtate of the ſaid Samuel, ſo ordered to be attached, ſeized and taken, will be ſold for the Benefit of the ſaid Creditors.

Middletown, October 15th, 1765.

TO THE PRINTER.

IN the Month of November 1760, there was inhumanely thrown on the Bank of the South-Battery in New-York, (ſuppoſed to be from ſome Albany Boat or Sloop) a Provincial Soldier; who as ſoon as he was found, had the beſt Care taken of him, by one of the Aldermen of the City of New-York, but the Soldier being unable to ſpeak, neither his Name, or the Place of his Reſidence could be found out——In a few Days he expired, and was decently interr'd by the ſaid Alderman, at the Expence of the City. There was found in ſaid Soldier's Pocket, a ſmall Memorandum, or Journal Book, whereby it appears, that he had Dealings (before, and in the Year 1760) with ſeveral Perſons ſuppoſed to live near Connecticut River; and by his Journal, kept in 1760, that he belonged to ſome Part of the Colony of Connecticut.——He was of a middling Size, and Stature, and ſuppoſed to be about 22 Years of Age.

This is therefore to inform the Public, that if any ſuch Soldier, is miſſing from any of the Towns in this Colony, in the Campaign of 1760, that by applying to Capt. Hugh Ledlie of Windham, ſomething more of the Particulars relating to ſaid Soldier's Death and Burial may be known: and the Journal Book (which contains Accounts to a conſiderable Value) will be delivered to the proper Claimant by ſaid Ledlie.

N. B. There is no Demand for any Charge, againſt the ſaid deceas'd Soldier's Eſtate, at New-York.——I received the above Memoradum Book from New-York, the 10th of October Inſtant, and promiſed to get the Above inſerted in one or more of the Connecticut News-Papers, for the Information of the above deceas'd Soldier's Relations, Friends, &c.

HUGH LEDLIE.

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, December 30, 1765. No. 53.

As at this juncture every ſpeculation written on the other ſide the water reſpecting America, tends in ſome meaſure to gratify the ardent expectation of the Coloniſts, we preſume the following extracts from a late Engliſh print, will not be unacceptable to our readers, both as they contain ſentiments which have been broached here, and convince us we are not without friends even in that part of the world, and as we may thereby form ſome judgment of the additional colouring that will be given them, when they come to know all!

The author after having made ſome remarks on a court pamphlet, wrote in vindication of the late miniſtry, which are foreign to the affairs of America, proceeds thus.

WAS it not theſe very men who moſt judiciouſly found out the method to ruin the trade of North-America, by which the People there are not only beggar'd, but an end put to any demand for manufactures from Britain, as they can have no money to pay for them.---This honeſt Mr. G-----e G------le, was not content to hinder Spaniſh guarda coſtas from being diſturbed in ruining our trade, but he ſent ſhips of war to prevent our ſettlements from getting a ſhilling of Spaniſh money, in exchange for our manufactures, even though brought in Spaniſh bottoms. This, indeed, [illegible] a ſtroke of either want of common ſenſe, or common honeſty, that I can't imagine how it ever could enter into the head of any Britiſh miniſter, and therefore I believe it was a meaſure that came from Verſailles, and was planned by the ſame French miniſters who planned the terms of peace, in order to ruin us effectually, and throw the trade, by which Spaniſh money was to be had, into the hands of France and Holland.-----------The trade of North-America took off before this diabolical contrivance, about two millions of our manufactures yearly, and as every [illegible] years the inhabitants double, in ſixty or ſeventy years the demand muſt have encreaſed in proportion; and as by our poſſeſſions there, we can be furniſhed with almoſt every thing we can want, France knows that if we keep well with them, we muſt ſoon be the moſt powerful nation in Europe, and therefore are contriving every method to make us quarrel with them; and I look on all the ſchemes, contrived by the late miniſtry to oppreſs our ſettlements in that part of the world, to take their riſe from their friends at Verſailles.

Was it not theſe very now pretended patriots, who by their own authority, without conſent of Parliament, ordered the commiſſioners of cuſtoms to order their collector to exact four and half per cent. on the produce of our new acquiſitions in America, after they were declared part of the Britiſh dominions?---By the calculation made by Joſhua Gee, and others ſince made, it appears we are out of pocket yearly ſeven or eight hundred thouſand pounds for timber, hemp, flax, tar, and other naval ſtores, from the Baltick and Norway, all which we can have from our ſettlements. We are at double that ſum in expence for French wine and brandy, every farthing of which is ſpent to ruin us, and to deſtroy the liberties of Europe; theſe we can have from our own ſettlements, by improving them properly: in ſhort we can have every thing we want, if we encourage them; and as the French know that a good correſpondence between them and us would make us the greateſt nation in Europe, they and the Devil together put it into the late miniſters heads to have regard to their power to break that natural affection for their mother-country.---

PHILADELPHIA, December 12.

By the Captains Rees and Davidſon, who arrived laſt Week from Barbados, we learn, that the Inhabitants of that Iſland have tamely ſubmitted to the Loſs of their Liberty and Property, by a favourable Acceptance of STAMPED PAPERS. Some Bills of Loading are already come from thence, marked with the BRAND of OPPRESSION.-----Had one Spark of the Spirit of Liberty exiſted in that Iſland, certainly the many noble Examples lately ſet by the Sons of Liberty, in theſe Northern Climes, would have rouſed it to Action, and not ſuffered thoſe People, by their Puſilanimity to draw on them the Reſentment of their fellow Sufferers. To be ſucceſsful in the Oppoſition to this ſevere Law, all the People who are to be affected by its Operation, ſhould be unanimous; and when any of them prove degenerate, it behoves the Remainder to reſent it by every Means in their Power. The Means are now aſſuredly in the Power of theſe Colonies, by with-holding from them the Proviſions that are neceſſary for their Support; and indeed the very Nature of their Crime entails this Puniſhment, as no Individual can be ſecure in his Property that ſends thither a Ship with unſtamped Clearances. And it is remarkable, that thoſe very People who ſo readily yield Obedience to the arbitrary Dictates of their Superiors, have been vigorous in executing the Powers of their Government; and in every Inſtance, where Accident, Ignorance, or the new adopted Policy of a Britiſh Miniſter has enabled them, they have not failed to plunder the poor North-Americans of that Property they had juſtly and hardly earned by the Sweat of their Brows, while theſe very Sons of Rapine had been wallowing in Eaſe and Plenty.

By Capt. Davidſon we alſo received a STAMPED News-Paper of the 2d of November.---It being the firſt STAMP which had ſhewn its ugly Form in this Province, in the Evening it was expoſed to public View at the Coffee-Houſe, and then ſuſpended, not by a Golden, but an Iron Chain, to which was affixed a Pair of Handcuffs, in the middle of the Room; the Company, which was very large, then formed a Circle, and Fire was ſet to the Paper, with a Wiſh, It might be the laſt ever ſeen in America, to which the whole Company gave their hearty Approbation by three huzzas.

A Letter from Barbados ſays, they are determined to ſeize all Veſſels coming without Stamp-Paper.---May they be without Proviſions till the Stamp-Act is repealed.----May St. Chriſtophers never want what North-America can aſſiſt them in.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentlemen in Barbados, dated November 5, 1765.

"The cruel Stamp-Act now begins to Stamp away our Money. It is an Act highly deſtructive of American Liberty, and every loyal Patriot ought to enter his Proteſt againſt it. The ſpirited Conduct of the North-Americans, on this Occaſion, has ranked them among the foremoſt Sons of Liberty. Loud Complaints have been made by us againſt the Weſt-India Members in Parliament;---their tame Acquieſcence to this Act, is a clear Demonſtration that the AMOR PATRIÆ, for which the Roman Decii fell, poſſeſſes but a ſmall Place in their Hearts. Barbados, above all the other Weſt-India Iſlands will be ruined by this Law. The Stamp-Duties are all to be paid in Specie; and we have ſuch a Scarcity of Caſh, that when Twelve or Fifteen Thouſand Pounds is annually ſent Home for Stamp-Duties, our Trade muſt inevitably periſh."

By Capt. Kennedy, from Edmonton, in North-Carolina, which he left the 24th ult. we learn, that no ſtamped Paper had then arrived there; and that Mr. M'Cullough, the Gentleman who was firſt appointed Diſtributor of Stamps for that Province, had not only reſigned that deteſtable Office, but that one Doctor Huſton, who had been fixed on ſince as the Officer, had alſo declared, he would have nothing to do with an Office that was ſo diſagreeable to his Country.---Capt. Kennedy was cleared out as uſual; and all other Buſineſs going on in the cuſtomary Way, the General Court being ſitting when he came away.--

We now, with Pleaſure can acquaint our Readers, that a Market for all Kinds of HOME MANUFACTURED GOODS, will be opened To-morrow Morning, at Nine o'Clock, on the North Side of Market-ſtreet, one Door below Water-ſtreet; where there may then be had, a Variety of FINE, HOME-MADE BROADCLOTHS, &c. The ſaid Market will be kept open by WILLIAM SMITH, from Nine o'Clock in the Morning till Noon, every Monday, Wedneſday and Saturday; ſo that thoſe who would encourage our own Manufactures, may no longer be at a Loſs for a Supply; and the Makers may, at all Times, meet with the moſt ſpeedy Sale. All Cloths, &c. directed to the ſaid WILLIAM SMITH, with the loweſt Prices affixed, will be taken due Care of, and the Money paid, as ſoon as they are ſold.

Lately arrived at Boſton, from London, Capt. Scott, in 7 weeks; by whom we have the following Advices.

P A R I S, October 4.

The Sieur Antoine de Beauterme, who accompanied the Sieur Antome his father to the Gevaudan, is arrived here poſt with the body of the wild beaſt that made ſuch ravages in that country, and has had the honor to preſent it to the King laſt Tueſday. Several of the inhabitants of the neighbouring towns, who had been attacked by the beaſt, went to view it before it was brought away, and all declared it to be the ſame animal which had long cauſed great terror amongſt them.---He is 32 inches high, and 5 feet 7 inches and a half long, and weighs 130lb. The moſt experienced huntſmen are of opinion, that it was a real wolf, and had nothing extraordinary either in its ſize or form. It was firſt ſhot in the eye by the Sieur Antoine at a diſtance of 50 yards, and fell, but ſoon recovered itſelf, and was making up to M Antoine with great fury, when it was ſhot dead by the Duke of Orleans's game-keeper, named Reinchard.

From the Public Ledger, London, Oct. 21.

SOH! the Bomb has burſt in North-America and the Stamp Diſtributors are, by the Exploſion, all blown out of their Places. What a Miſcarriage of Policy has this proved to the good old Woman the late Budget-Monger and Financier, who is now become ſo ſouſed in the ſuds as to be diſgraced, as a Politician, forever.

Poor Meſſieurs Anti-Sejanus, Detector and Co. [Writers in Favor of the late Miniſtry] what, in the Name of Wonder, will become of your mighty Maſters and their Cauſe? Their darling Project blown up, now annihilates all Hope; for the People who only deſpiſed them before, begin now heartily to hate them: So that their Caſe is at Length become a moſt deſperate one indeed.

What, Gentlemen, let me aſk you, can you have farther to ſay for your Maſters? You have all got upon a Quick-ſand, and your Bark of a Cauſe muſt quite bulge. I know but of one Expedient left you to try for ſaving it, and that is, by roundly aſſerting the American Mobs have been ſpirited up by the preſent Adminiſtration; which will at leaſt appear as plauſible as that which was ſaid to have been uſed on a ſimilar Occaſion, which was, that the Favourite had ſpirited up the late Spitalfields Mob.

Oct. 14. It is reported that a great Perſonage has declared, that no more places nor penſions ſhall be granted on the Iriſh Eſtabliſhment, either for life or for years.

One of the vacant blue ribbons it is ſaid will be given to Lord Albermarle.

Lord Holderneſſe ſucceeds the late Duke of Dorſet as warden of the cinque ports, &c.

We hear the American colonies intend to apply next ſeſſions of parliament, for leave to export ſoap to Great-Britain and Ireland; where they have arrived to ſuch perfection in this manufacture, as to excel conſiderably the beſt Caſtile.

We hear the quantity of pot aſhes imported this year from the New-England governments amounts to near 1000 tons, which will produce here between 30 and 40,000 l. ſterling.

We are informed that no leſs than four principal places of trade in the Weſt-Indies, will ſpeedily be declared free ports.

A true ſtate of the number and quality of manufactures, at preſent carried on in all the Britiſh colonies in America, is preparing to be laid before an auguſt aſſembly.

Oct. 18. It is ſaid the ſupplies neceſſary for the enſuing year will not exceed one million, and that the whole will be furniſhed by the bank of England.

Oct. 21. His Majeſty has been pleaſed further to prorogue the parliament to the 17th day of December next, at which time they are certainly to ſit for the diſpatch of divers weighty and important affairs.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman at Virginia, to his Friend in London.

DEAR SIR,

I Have juſt Time to incloſe you the Reſolutions the Houſe of Burgeſſes (in Virginia) came into very lately with Reſpect to the Stamp-Duty, immediately on the Receipt of a Copy of the Act of Parliament from England, on which the Governor diſſolved the Aſſembly.---The Americans are highly exaſperated: And it would take a very great Force to oblige them to an Obſervance of the Act, were they obſtinately to refuſe it. As a By-ſtander, I think the Act ill-timed, their Trade with the Weſt-Indies being ruined, the Act preventing their making and iſſuing any more Paper Currency, enforced ſo, that you cannot conceive the diſmal Situation the Provinces are in for Want of Money of every Kind.

I wiſh myſelf and Family with you in England; as from the preſent diſagreeable Situation of Affairs there may be ſo much Reaſon to dread Anarchy and Confuſion.

To the Printer of the Public Advertiſer.

SIR,

THE unhappy Diſturbances in America, in conſequence of the Stamp-Duty, are the Reaſon that I ſend you the following Extract of a Letter, dated Boſton, Auguſt 22.

--------"Did we not ſecond your Deſigns in your unmeaning Expedition againſt Carthagena, by ſending 4000 Men thither; which you there uſed up? Or have you forgot our giving you a Peace, by taking Cape-Breton in 1745, and thereby delivering you from your Enemies? The Succours that we gave you at Martinico are too recent to have eſcaped your Memory: And if the North-Americans had not ſeaſonably arrived at the Havannah when a raging Diſtemper carried off your Troops, 'tis preſumed the Place could not have been taken.

'Tis true, you took Quebec, in Conjunction with the Royal Americans, who during that War, had above 15,000 Men in the Field. Now you, on your Side of the Water, make a Merit of taking Canada for our Sakes. ---but you know better,---and that it was for your own Sakes.-----

For theſe above-mentioned Services you have rewarded us with inſupportable Taxes, and even infernal ones, Stamp-Duty, &c.----And that you, our tender Parent, who, Mr. G-------- ſays, has nurſed us in our Infancy, ſhould not be wanting in Acts of Kindneſs to us, you have long ſince favoured us with pouring out your Neceſſaties upon us;---I mean, by emptying all your Goals, and ſending us your Excreſſences, who practice Murder and Robbery here; for the Roads between Philadelphia and New Jerſey are more dangerous to paſs than ever Hounſlow Heath was; fifteen of theſe Wretches (who you favoured us with the 30th of laſt March from Newgate) are luckily taken.

Such are ſome of the precious Returns from our indulgent Parent for our many Services."

B O S T O N, December 16.

In Capt. Scott came Paſſenger, Nathaniel Potter, Eſq; Secretary to his Majeſty's Garriſon at Michilamachana and to the Weſtern Indians: Mr. Potter left London the 23d of October laſt, and is going directly to New-York—Major Rogers, we hear, is appointed Governor Commandant of Michilamachana and its Dependencies, and Agent for the Weſtern Indians, and is expected in America in a few Weeks, but will not proceed to his Command till the Spring—He had the honor to kiſs his Majeſty's Hand the 17th October, when he took leave of the Court. We are told the late Proceedings in America, on account of the Stamp-Duties, are a common Topic of Converſation at Home, not only in Coffee-Houſes and upon 'Change, but at the Court itſelf—That the Populace here are not more warm and zealous to oppoſe thoſe Duties, than they are there to defend and juſtify them for ſo doing, eſpecially the mercantile Part of the Nation, who already very ſenſibly feel the ill Conſequences of that BLIND STEP, as they term it, of the late Miniſtry—That the preſent Miniſtry appear to be convinced, if not of the Folly, yet of the utter Impracticability of impoſing ſuch Duties at preſent, on the Colonies, and diſpoſed to redreſs their Grievancies, as ſoon as poſſible; and it is not doubted that at the next Seſſion of Parliament the Stamp Act would be ſuſpended.

We hear that Governor Rogers has a Salary of £. 600 a Year ſterling, and has Orders to draw on General Gage at New-York for upwards of £. 5000 Sterling for his paſt Services.—Mr. Potter has a Salary of £. 200 Sterling per Annum.

The Engliſh Prints from October 1. to the 14th, are on board the other Veſſels that ſail'd the Day before Capt. Scot, ſo that we cannot learn the particular Time when the News was received in England of the great Diſturbances in America, on Account of the Stamp Act, &c. In one of the Prints of the 17 October we find his Excellency Governor Bernard's Speech in Council, on the 5th of September laſt.---The Providence Gazette Extraordinary of Saturday ------ of Auguſt, with the Motto Vox Populi, Vox Dei, underneath, Where the Spirit of the Lord is there is Liberty, quoted, but without Remarks. The Reſignation of Mr. Ingerſol Stamp Diſtributor of Connecticut. The Account publiſhed in our Paper of Sept. 5th, of the Deſtruction of his Honor the Lieutenant Governor's Manſion Houſe, &c. &c.—No Remarks in Print made in England on our Affairs, ſince the Accounts had been receiv'd---The mercantile Part of the People, 'tis ſaid, approve of our Proceedings: The Miniſtry at preſent entirely on the Reſerve.

Dec. 19. The King has been pleaſed to [illegible] tion given at St. James's 18th October for proroguing e Parliament to the 17th Day of December, then to ſit Weſtminſter, for the Diſpatch of divers weighty and portant Affairs.

A conſiderable Quantity of Stamp Paper for this Pronce, was offered to be ſhipped on board Capt. Scott, nowing it would be highly diſagreeable to his Owner d the People here, he utterly refuſed to take them.--veral other Parcels for different Parts of the Continent, re offered to be ſhipped, but not one Maſter of Veſſel und to America, would upon any Account receive them board.

It is with great Pleaſure and Satisfaction that we can form the Public that the Merchants and Traders at Sa-n and Marblehead have likewiſe ſigned the Reſolutions d Agreements we inſerted in our laſt; and 'tis ſaid the ntlemen of the other Trading Towns in this Province ll alſo do the ſame.

A Merchant of the firſt Rank in the Town, re-ſhip'd one of the laſt Veſſels for London, above Three Hun-d Pounds Sterling worth of Goods on account of Mo-y's being ſo ſcarce that they would not vend.

Tueſday laſt Capt. Bates arrived at Salem from Tortola, thout ſtamp Papers: When he ſailed, there was no amps nor Stamp Maſter arrived.

We hear that on the 4th Inſt. at Night, a Fiſhing Schoo-r belonging to Marblehead, bound there from the Banks Newfoundland, ran aſhore on the Cape, and as ſoon ſhe ſtruck, the Men (9 in Number) took to the Boat, ith a Deſign of reaching the Shore; but the Surf runng very high the Boat overſet, and they all periſhed. Lad that was left on board, was found dead the next orning forward of the Windleſs.

N E W - Y O R K, December 19.

On Saturday Evening arrived the Duke of Cumberland acket Boat, Capt. Boſt u, in 7 Weeks and Two Days from almouth, by whom we have Engliſh Papers to the 17th of October; but they contain ſo little of any Conſequence to us, that hey are hardly worth the reading.----All the Powers in urope ſeem to be attentively employed in repairing the Devaſtations of the late Wars, and putting their Dominions into the eſt Condition, eſpecially France and Spain, who are recruiting nd increaſing their Navy with all poſſible Diligence, tho' it oes not appear that any new Differences are likely to ariſe oon,.....unleſs the Non-payment of the Canada Bills, and the Manilla Ranſom, ſhould occaſion them...But we have Matters f much greater Importance to engage us at Home....Great Numbers of Manufacturers are out of Employ, or unable to live by their Buſineſs...Great Diſcontents prevail, as well in England as in America, the diſtreſſing of which by Taxes and Reſtraints upon Trade, has proportionable diſtreſſed the People in England. The Diſcontents from all Parts of America, were doubtleſs well known in London, tho' we have Reaſon to think that the Printers have had particular Orders not to mention them in their Papers. There are indeed ſome publiſhed of the Tumults in Boſton and Newport;---but they are mentioned only as the Riots of a common Mob, contrary to the general Senſe of the People.......Private Letters from London, we are told, adviſe, That the great Men (ſuch only, we may ſuppoſe, as were concerned in the Stamp Act) were exceedingly irritated at the Accounts of the Tumults in America, and were determined to enforce the Act.

Extract of a Letter from St. Kitts.

"We the Inhabitants of St. Kitts have followed the rue loyal Spirit of the North-Americans, by burning nd totally deſtroying the Stamps: You never ſaw Peole more ſpirited than what we were on that Occaſion: The North-American Sailors that belonged to Sloops and Schooners in the Road, behaved like young Lions. The People in the Iſland of Nevis followed our Example, and were ſo enraged that they burnt two Houſes, and went ſo far as to burn the King's Boat that was lying upon the Bay: This laſt Step, I think, was too daring. And on the 5th of November, being Gunpowder Plot, the Stampmaſter and his Deputy, were carried in Effigie through the Town, and in the Evening burnt in the Common Paſture: The Evening concluded with an elegant Super, Drums beating, and French-Horns playing; and the aſt Toaſt given was, Liberty and Property, and no Stamps."

Extract of a Letter from an eminent Houſe in London, two of which are Members of Parliament, to a Merchant in this City, dated Sept. 10, 1765.

"The Account you ſend us of the State of Affairs with you, gives us very ſenſible Concern, and we hope the preſent Miniſtry will, at the Meeting of Parliament, take the neceſſary Steps for your Relief."

On Tueſday Evening, a great Multitude of People appeared and paſſed through moſt of the Streets in this City, attending and carrying a Gallows, on which hung the [illegible] Mr. G. G------le, Lord C--v-le, and Gen. M-rr-y; the Firſt for being one of the principal Authors of the Stamp-Act, the Second for having endeavoured to enforce it by ordering our Veſſels to be ſtopp'd, and the Third for having executed the firſt ſtamp'd Inſtrument that has appeared in this Place, and for having uttered (as was reported) many opprobrious Speeches againſt the Inhabitants for oppoſing the Act.

The middle Figure (Mr. G---v-lle) was dreſſed in ſcarlet Robes, with a Boot at his Shoulder, out of which appear'd the Devil, preſenting him the Stamp-Act.

The two other Figures were dreſſed in laced Cloaths and Hats. Labels were affixed to all of them, to ſignify their Character and Offences. They were at laſt carried into the Fields, where a Fire was kindled, and they, with the Gallows, were all conſumed together.

It was obſerved upon this Occaſion, that there appeared two Parties, who oppoſed each other, though each of them were profeſſed Enemies to the Stamps; but it was fear'd that ſuch a Diviſion, at a Time when the Stamp Act really operates ſo far towards our Deſtruction, as to ſtop all Buſineſs, would be the moſt likely Means to complete the Matter, and bring it to have its full Effect.

Dec. 22. Friday laſt the Gentlemen of the Law in this City, had a Meeting, when they came to a Reſolution to carry on Buſineſs as uſual, without paying any Regard to the STAMP-ACT; and we hope the Gentlemen of the Faculty in the neighbouring Provinces will follow ſo laudable an Example.

From St. Chriſtophers we have received the News-Papers without Stamps as uſual; and we have the Pleaſure of informing our Readers, that the patriotic Spirit increaſes among theſe free People; that there is hardly a Man among them, from the higheſt to the loweſt, who does not openly ſhow his hearty Abhorrence of the Stamp Law; and that, on the fifth of November, the Inhabitants had a grand Entertainment there, when the Effigies of ſeveral Perſons were hung up and burnt, who were ſuppoſed to be the principal Contrivers and Promoters of that moſt oppreſſive Act.

London-Coffee-Houſe, Baltimore-Town, Maryland,
December 10, 1765.

To the SONS OF LIBERTY, in New-York, Greeting.

WE your Brethren on Behalf of ourſelves and many more, HEARTILY return you our moſt grateful and ſincere Thanks for your Vigilance in apprehending and bringing Zachariah Hood, Eſq; Stamp-Maſter for this Province, to a Senſe of his Treachery to his Country, and for cauſing him before a Magiſtrate on his Oath, to renounce the deſpicable Employment, Per Order,

MARYLANDER.

A N N A P O L I S, December 10.

We have received information from Frederick County, that at the laſt Court there, the Magiſtrates taking into Conſideration the bad Conſequences that would attend a Stop being put to the ordinary Courſe of Juſtice, if any Notice was taken of the STAMP ACT---(which had never been legally tranſmitted to them) They in a very full Court Unanimouſly Reſolved and Ordered, That all the Buſineſs and Proceſs of that Court, ſhould be tranſacted in the uſual Manner WITHOUT STAMPS, and that ſuch Proceeding ſhould be good and valid. The Clerk of the Court apprehending Damage to himſelf if he made any Entry, or iſſued any Proceſs, without Stamped Paper, refuſed to comply with the Order of the Court; upon which the Court ordered him to be committed to Priſon for Contempt. He then ſubmitted and was diſcharged and proceeded on Buſineſs as formerly.

◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆

H A R T F O R D, December 30.

On Tueſday laſt there was a Meeting of the Repreſentatives of the reſpectable POPULACE of Hartford County, in this Town.---- --They adjourn'd to Wedneſday the 8th of January, when they are to meet here again.

We hear that the Cuſtom-Houſe in New-London was opened laſt Week, and that Veſſels are cleared out there as uſual, without STAMPS:-----And that the Juſtices and Lawyers, in that County, go on with Buſineſs in the old Way.---

We hear from Saliſbury, that about a Fortnight ago, Mr. Eliſha Forbes of that Town receiv'd a violent Kick from a Horſe, of which he died in a few Hours.

Laſt Friday Se'nnight, was found in her Houſe, in New-Haven, lying on a Fire, dead, the Widow Smith:----On examining her Body, ſeveral Wounds were found; by which it was determined that ſhe had been murdered.-----Her only Son, is taken up, on Suſpicion of having been the Perpetrator of the horrid Fact, and is confined in Goal for Tryal.

PHILADELPHIA, December 19.

Friday laſt arrived here the ſchooner Charming Nancy, Capt. Mullowney, from Halifax. About noon it was reported at the coffee-houſe, that a gentleman in this city had received a ream of ſtamped paper from Halifax, and that Capt. Mullowney had brought ſome to clear out his own veſſel; whereupon a deputation of 10 or 12 gentlemen was ſent from the coffee houſe to demand the papers, but the ream proved to be only half a ſheet, with eighteen peace worth of oppreſſion, which was a cover to that gentleman's letter, and he delivered up as ſoon as demanded; they then waited on Capt. Mullowney, and aſked if he had any ſtamped paper, to which he anſwered in the negative; they then deſired him to go with them to the coffee-houſe, which he conſented to, and there made oath as is inſerted below; the half ſheet was then ſuſpended and burnt amidſt the acclamations of a great number of gentlemen. In the afternoon a ſtamped news-paper from Halifax, was hung up in the coffee-houſe, with theſe labels, on one ſide, Liberty, Property, and no Stamps. May this be the fate of every enemy to Liberty. On the other ſide, Liberty triumphant, and Oppreſſion in Chains. And in the evening, Capt. Mullowney's oath being read, the paper was ſet on fire, accompanied with loud huzzas.

Philadelphia, ſſ. WHEREAS it is this day reported, that I have brought in with me, & now on board my veſſel, the ſchooner Charming Nancy, from Halifax, ſundry ſtamped papers, as well for clearing out my ſaid veſſel in this port of Philadelphia, as for other purpoſes: Now I do hereby declare, That I have not brought with me any ſtamped papers of any kind, for the purpoſes aforeſaid, or for any other purpoſe whatever (the ſtamped papers neceſſary for clearing out the ſaid veſſel from Halifax excepted) & that to my knowledge there are not any ſtamped papers of any kind (except as before excepted) on board the ſaid veſſel.

JOHN MULLOWNEY.

Sworn before me, in Philadelphia, the 13th of Dec. 1765.

GEORGE BRYAN.

The ſtamp paper is diſtributed at Halifax by one Hinſhelwood. who is a priſoner in his own houſe, and is guarded by a party of ſoldiers night and day, leſt he ſhould fall a victim to the juſtly enraged people, who threaten his life, and have conveyed letters to him, deſiring him to prepare for another world, for he ſhould ſoon quit this.

Capt. Cogſwell, from Newberry, the 5th of December, in lat. 40 long. 68, 50 ſpoke the brig Hawke, Capt. Morton, from this port for the Weſt-Indies, who on Tueſday the 3d inſt. had a gale of wind, which did his veſſel ſome damage, by ſplitting her ſails, &c.

AT a Meeting of the Heart and Hand fire Company, in Philadelphia, the 5th Dec. 1765.

WE the members of ſaid company taking into our ſerious conſideration the late unconſtitutional and oppreſſive STAMP-ACT, and further conſidering that John Hughes, Eſq; a member of this company, is the perſon appointed to diſtribute the DETESTABLE STAMPS in this Province (and ſtill continues to hold the ſaid commiſſion, in contempt of the general voice of his country and fellow citizens) have unanimouſly agreed, that unleſs Mr. Hughes do immediately reſign his ſaid odious commiſſion, without any equivocation, evaſion or mental reſervation, he ſhall be no longer continued a member of this company, but be held in the utmoſt contempt by each of us. And at the ſame time we think it our duty to declare, that this our reſolution does not proceed from any diſlike to Mr. Hughes's perſon or private character, but purely againſt his diſgraceful office.

Signed, by order of the company.

DAVID HALL, Clk.

A copy of the above was left at Mr. Hughes's houſe by four of the members, he being from home; and after his return, the Clerk waited on him for his anſwer, which was in the following terms, viz. That he had no anſwer to give the gentlemen; that they had done what they thought proper in the affair; and that he ſhould take his own time to do what he thought proper.

AT a Meeting of a large Aſſembly of the reſpectable Populace in New-London, the 10th of Dec. 1765, the following Reſolves were unanimouſly come into.

RESOLVED 1ſt. That every Form of Government rightfully founded, originates from the Conſent of the People.

2d. That the Boundaries ſet by the People in all Conſtitutions, are the only Limits within which any Officer can lawfully exerciſe Authority.

3d. That whenever thoſe Bounds are exceeded, the People have a Right to reaſſume the exerciſe of that Authority which by Nature they had, before they delegated it to Individuals.

4th. That every Tax impoſed upon Engliſh Subjects without Conſent, is againſt the natural Rights and the Bounds preſcribed by the Engliſh Conſtitution.

5th. That the Stamp-Act in ſpecial, is a Tax impoſed on the Colonies without their Conſent.

6th. That it is the Duty of every Perſon in the Colonies, to oppoſe by every lawful Means, the Execution of thoſe Acts impoſed on them,—and if they can in no other Way be relieved to reaſſume their natural Rights, and the Authority the Laws of Nature and of God have veſted them with.

And in order effectually to prevent the Execution thereof it is recommended,

1ſt. That every Officer in this Colony duly execute the Truſt repoſed in him, agreeable to the true Spirit of the Engliſh Conſtitution and the Laws of this Colony.

2d. That every Officer neglecting the Exerciſe of his Office, may juſtly expect the Reſentment of the People; and thoſe who proceed may depend on their Protection.

3d. It is preſumed no Perſon will publickly, in the Pulpit or otherwiſe, inculcate the Doctrine of paſſive Obedience, or any other Doctrine tending to quiet the Minds of the People in a tame Submiſſion to any unjuſt Impoſitions.

4th. We fully concur with the reſpectable Body of the Populace in all their Reſolves made at Windham the 26th November, 1765, and publiſhed in the New-London Gazette.

The Printer is deſired to publiſh, the foregoing Reſolves, and alſo that another Meeting of this reſpectable Body is appointed to be held at the Meeting-Houſe in Lyme on the 2d Tueſday of January next.

At a Meeting of the Merchants and Traders at the Britiſh Coffee-Houſe in Boſton, on Monday the Ninth Day of December, 1765.

WE the Subſcribers, Merchants and Traders in the Province of the Maſſachuſetts-Bay, taking into Conſideration the many Difficulties and Diſtreſſes we now labour under as a trading People, owing to the late Reſtrictions and Prohibitions made by ſeveral late Acts of the Parliament of Great-Britain to regulate the Colonies; which Difficulties are further encreaſed by the Stamp-Act, ſo called; and foreſeeing the Impracticability of making Remittances for any Manufactures that ſhall be imported into this Province from Great-Britain ſo long as the ſaid Acts are in Force, DO Voluntarily come into the following Reſolutions and Agreements, viz.

Firſt, RESOLVED and agreed, That in all Orders we may ſend to Great-Britain for Goods, we will direct our Correſpondents not to ſhip them unleſs the Stamp-Act is repealed, excepting Hemp, Canvas, Salt, Coals, Grindſtones, Pipes, empty Bottles, Wool-Cards, Brimſtone, Copperas, Dying-Stuffs, and Utenſils for carrying on Manufactures, and ſuch Articles as may be abſolutely neceſſary for carrying on the fiſhery.

Secondly, RESOLVED and Agreed, That we will without Delay countermand any Orders we may have already ſent to Great-Britain for Goods, unleſs the Stamp-Act be repealed, excepting the Articles mentioned above.

Thirdly, RESOLVED, That we will not vend any Goods that ſhall be ſhipp'd to any of us after the firſt Day of January next, on Commiſſion from Great-Britain, unleſs the Stamp-Act be repealed.

Fourthly, That theſe Reſolves and Agreements ſhall be binding on all and each of the Subſcribers, who do hereby, each and every Perſon, for himſelf, upon his Word of Honor, agree, that he will ſtrictly adhere to all the foregoing Articles, from the Time the Subſcribers hereto amount to the Number of Two Hundred or more Perſons in Trade in this Province; and upon this Condition we oblige ourſelves until the Firſt Day of May next, when a Meeting of the Subſcribers ſhall be called to conſider whether the further Continuance of this Obligation be neceſſary.

Fifthly, It is moreover RESOLVED, That we will not purchaſe any Goods that may be imported into this Province by any Perſons whatever, for Sale, contrary to the Spirit of the above Agreement; but that we will take every prudent Meaſure in our Power to diſcourage the Sale of ſuch Goods.

[To which upwards of 250 have already ſubſcribed.]

LONDON, October 16.

With all that has been, or can be written to influence the public mind, it continues ſteady in theſe points; a high reſpect and affection for their Sovereign, a fixed averſion to the favourite, a ſtrong contempt for the late miniſtry, a ſuſpended judgment concerning the preſent, a perfect confidence in Mr. Pitt and his friends, a full conviction of the fatal tendencies of a ſyſtem of ruling by corruption, and an eagar impatiecne to ſee ſpirit and genius operating, in wiſe and extenſive meaſures, for national glory, proſperity, and ſecurity.

Hartford: Printed by Thomas Green.

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, January 6, 1766. No. 54.

NAPLES, JULY 19.

THE whole province of Chietti hath been overwhelmed by the terrible ſtorm already mentioned. On the morning of the 24th of June, all the houſes of the territory of Mentepiano fell down, the water having waſhed the earth away from underneath them, ſo that they were ſwallowed up. The inhabitants, to the number of 2000, eſcaped towards the country; but the ſumit of the mountain of that territory fell on them, and the mountain itſelf became level with the ground. One third of the inhabitants were buried under the ruins; the abyſs which opened extended two miles in length and half a mile in breadth. Five Religious were ſent to give abſolution to the dying perſons, who cried out from amongſt the ruins in a very lamentable manner. Some were ſunk up to the waiſt, others to the neck, ſome entirely covered, others cruſh'd or buried alive. Terror is ſpread throughout all the environs; and the more ſo, as the canton named Sarre has met with nearly the ſame fate.

Extract of a letter from Chietti, capital of Abruzzia, July 1.

" Of 800 perſons who inhabited the village of Rocca-Monteprano (which was waſhed away by a torrent, accompanied by an earthquake, on the 24th ult.) not 20 eſcaped. The puterfaction of the dead bodies cauſed ſuch a ſtench, that its feared the air will be corrupted. A river about two miles from that place is ſtopt in its courſe by the vines, trees and earth which the torrent has drove thither. Its waters are become green and tainted, and it is very neceſſary for the ſalubrity of the air to remove ſpeedily the obſtacle which retains them."

Extract of a Letter from Tetuan.

" The Regency of this City has received this Day, by an Expreſs, diſpatched from Larrache, the News, that within theſe few Days a French Squadron of ten Ships of War had attempted the Bombardment of that Place but with very little Succeſs; that the Mooriſh Troops of the Garriſon, and the Environs, under the Orders of the Bacha Habil, made a Feint of retiring, in order to impoſe upon the French, and engage them to a Deſcent; that the latter ſeeing the Fire of the Mooriſh Cannon ſlacken, and that none of them appeared, fitted out ſixteen Boats, which went up the River, and ſet Fire to a French Prize, equipped for cruiſing; that the Moors divided into two Bodies, and concealed behind their Fortifications on both Sides of the River, might have prevented the burning of this Prize, but the Bacha Habil thought it better to ſuffer them to continue their Expedition; that accordingly the Enemies advanced for ſome Miles and ſet Fire to ſeveral Veſſels at Anchor, among which was a Chebec of the Rais Salah; that then the Moors preſented themſelves, of a ſudden, on both Sides of the River; that while 200 of them were employed in extinguiſhing the Flames, the reſt fired with ſo much Briſkneſs on the French Boats, that in the Impoſſibility of returning and reſiſting the Rapidity of the Current, they ſtruck their Flags, and demanded Quarter, which was granted them by the Moors; that upwards of 2000 of the latter then threw themſelves into the River, with their Poniards in their Mouths, in order to get to the French Boats; but that the French hoiſted out a-new their Colours, and began to fire again upon the Swimmers, whom they endeavoured to maſſacre, in order to prevent their boarding; that the Moors, however, who were upon Land, aſſaulted the Enemies in ſuch a Manner, on all Sides, that they obliged them for the third Time to ſtrike their Flags and demand Quarter; that many of the Swimmers having by this got on board the Boats, and killed there near 150 of the Crew; the Bacha refuſed to liſten to any further Propoſitions, but gave Orders to ſave the Priſoners; that the ſixteen Boats fell into the Power of the Moors; that the Number of French killed was about 500, and the Loſs on the other Side was near 100 in killed and wounded. Soon after a French Frigate arrived at the Mouth of the River and made ſeveral Signals for recalling the Boats, none of which rejoined the Squadron. Another Letter ſays, that the Loſs of the French is much more conſiderable."

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman at Canton (China) to his Friend in London, by the Valentine, dated June 20, 1765.

AT the End of laſt Month we had remarkable high Tides, which ſwept away above Four Thouſand Houſes in the Neighbourhood; and ſwallowed up a whole City, with Ten Thouſand of its Inhabitants, in the next Province, where the Water roſe above thirty Feet."

NEWCASTLE, September 28.

It is very remarkable, that on Wedneſday ſeveral pokes of coals were brought from Durham to this town by one of the common carriers, and ſold on the Sandhill for 9d. a poke, by which he cleared 6d. per poke. The old proverb, "'Tis needleſs to carry coals to Newcaſtle," being in this inſtance falſified.-----However, we hope this grievance will be ſoon remedied, as ſome of our Pitmen are now gone to work, and it is hoped the reſt will ſoon follow their example.

LONDON, October 1.

Wedneſday evening laſt two men were robbed at Eaton, by a ſingle footpad; after the robbery, the men got aſſiſtance, purſued the villain, and found him concealed in a hedge; on his making reſiſtance, they ſtabbed him with a ſword, on which he ran away, but he was fired at and taken, and being carried before Richard Grape Eſq; of Dawney, was committed to priſon.

B O S T O N, December 26.

We hear that on Saturday laſt his Honor the Lieutenant Governor deſired Leave from his Excellency the Governor, in Council, to reſign the Office of Judge of the Probate fo. the County of Suffolk, either abſolutely or for a limitted Time, as ſhould be judged proper; and it is ſuppoſed, a Succeſſor will be appointed at the next General Council.

At an Adjournment of a Meeting of the Freeholders and other Inhabitants of the Town of Boſton on Saturday laſt, the Committee who were choſen to preſent the Memorial inſerted in our laſt, to his Excellency the Governor in Council, informed the Town that they had a Hearing upon the Subject Matter thereof the Night before; they then delivered to the Town a Copy of the Reſolutions of the Honorable Board thereupon; and after ſome Debates the Meeting was adjourned to this Day, at 10 o' Clock in the Forenoon, in order to conſider what further legal Steps ſhall be taken to obtain Redreſs of the Grievance complained of.

This Day ſe'nnight his Majeſty's Sloop Tryal, Captain Wallis, ſail'd for her Station at South-Carolina. Remains in the Harbour, the Fortune and Jamaica Sloops of War.

Monday Morning ſail'd the Ship Boſton-Packet, Capt. Marſhall, for London, with a fair Wind. In her went Paſſengers, the Rev. Mr. Whitaker, John Williams, Eſq; Mr. Thomas Broomfield, and the Rev. Mr. Occum.

Capt. Marſhall is the firſt Ship that has cleared out for London without ſtamp Papers ſince Nov. 1ſt.

Extract of a Letter from New-London in Pitt County, North-Carolina, dated Nov. 18, 1765, to his Friend in Boſton.

"We have certain Accounts from Newbern, that the Chief Juſtice of the Superior Court plumply refuſed to act in that Office, unleſs they would allow him to act agreeable to the Stamp-Act; upon which all the Sons of Liberty far and near, to a very great Number, and of all Ranks aſſembled at his Houſe, entered the ſame, ſeiz'd him in his Bed, brought him out forthwith, and obliged him to declare upon Oath that he would do all that lay in his Power to prevent the Stamp-Act taking Place, and that he would have nothing to do with that deteſtable Act, and that all Buſineſs ſhould go on as before; all which he readily complied with.

P. S. The above is Fact and may be relied on."

Part of another Letter from the ſame Government.

"We have the Stamp Act and Officer in as much Deriſion here as in any Province on the Main. The Officer dares not receive his Commiſſion, altho' it is arrived here for him."

From Providence in Rhode-Iſland Government we learn, That the Inferior Court was held there laſt Week, when the Buſineſs of the Court went on as uſual, without Stamps, and tis ſaid the People throughout that Government have ſolemnly declared they never will uſe any Stamp Paper.

We hear from Taunton, that a few Days ago as one Mr. Sprague was paſſing from that Town thro' Freetown, with a Load of Butter and Cheeſe in a Horſe Cart, put up in an uncommon Box, which cauſed an Old Woman to be very inquiſitive to know what he had got in it, but he ſeeming unwilling to ſatiſfy her Curioſity, made her ſtill more anxious, and at laſt upon her promiſing in the ſtrongeſt Manner that ſhe would not expoſe him, he told her that he had got the Stamp'd Paper there, and was going to leave it at one Mr. Cranes's, an Inn-Keeper in Dartmouth; upon which ſhe ſaid ſhe was very ſorry to hear it, but again promiſed not to divulge the Secret. Mr. Sprague then went on ſelling his Butter and Cheeſe till he got near Mr. Canes's Houſe, which he found ſurrounded by ſeveral Hundred People, who had threatned to pull it down, and upon his approach was alſo ſurrounded by the Multitude, who demanded the Box to be opened; but upon diſcovering nothing but Butter and Cheeſe, and Mr. Cranes allowing them to ſearch his Houſe, their Rage was metigated, and after ſome Expoſtulation they diſperſed.

B O S T O N, January 2.

The Weather has been extreme cold this Week—No Arrival to bring any Intelligence.—Laſt Night we had a conſiderable Storm,——a great Quantity of Snow fell, whereby we are in Hopes of having good Sledding, which is generally very ſerviceable to Town and Country in the Seaſon thereof.

Three Veſſels which left the Downs in October are not yet arrived here, viz. Daverſon, Jarvis, and Bazin.

Saturday laſt the following Accident happened at a Houſe in Brattle-ſtreet, near Cornhill, viz. a Fire being left in the Nurſery, with ſome Linen hanging before it, the Linen caught a-fire and preſently communicated the ſame to the Hangings of the Room, which convey'd it to a Bed, which was conſum'd, together with the Bed-Cloths, before it was diſcover'd and extinguiſh'd. And,

On Tueſday Night a ſimilar Accident happened near Hanover-Square, South-end; it being a ſevere cold Seaſon, a Woman thinking to keep her Child the leſs expoſed to the Inclemency of it, put it in a Cradle cloſe to a Hearth, whereon there was a ſmall Fire of Coals, ſhe herſelf lying at the other End of the Room; but in the Middle of the Night ſhe was awakened by the crying of the Child and the Room's being full of Smoak; when behold! a Spark of Fire had flew into the Cradle, burnt the Foot of the ſame, part of a Blanket and a couple of Handkerchiefs that lay thereon, &c. but the Child eſcap'd untouch'd.

Extract of a Letter from a principal Manufacturer in Nottingham (in England) to his Friend here, dated September 17, 1765.

—"Very ſorry we are to hear from all Hands, ſuch grievous but juſt Complaints from your Side the Water—And having the Opportunity of converſing with a great Man, one of the Lords of Trade, took the Liberty to enquire what could induce them to impoſe a Cuſtom-Houſe Oath upon the Captains of his Majeſty's Frigates cruiſing in and about the Weſt-Indies,—He frankly acknowledged it was a very falſe Step, and did not doubt but it would be laid aſide for the future.—And as the mercantile Part of your Fellow-Subjects in this Country are under more peculiar Engagements to join their Endeavours to procure your Redreſs from the Wiſdom of Parliament, we will hope to ſee Trade again reviving and flouriſhing amongſt you."

We hear that Foſter Hutchinſon, Eſq; is appointed Special Judge of Probate for the County of Suffolk, during the Abſence of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, not exceeding the Term of Twelve Months.

We hear the Court of Common Pleas will be held here according to Law this Month.

The Court of Vice-Admiralty for this Province is open for the uſual Buſineſs.

We hear that Warrants for abſconding Debtors agreeable to a Law of this Province, will be iſſued as heretofore.

At an Adjournment of a Meeting of this Town.

December 26. 1765.

THE Town being acquainted by ſeveral Gentlemen preſent, that the Courts of Probate within this Province would be opened; that the Sheriff of the County of Suffolk had ſerved and was ſtill ready to ſerve all Writs brought to him, and that the Court of Common Pleas for ſaid County next in Courſe to ſit, would meet and proceed in Buſineſs; and that Mr. Sheriff Greenleaf and Mr. Molineux could give the Town further Satisfaction relative to theſe Particulars——

It was therefore Voted, that Mr. Sheriff, and Mr. Molineux be deſired to inform the Town reſpecting theſe Matters;—Mr Sheriff accordingly declared that he had duly ſerved all the Writs which had been given him for Service to this Day.—And Mr. Molineux, that having diſcourſed the Judges of the Inferior Court, he had no Reaſon to doubt but the aforeſaid Court, would at their next Term proceed to Buſineſs as uſual.—

Upon a Motion made and ſeconded, Voted, That when this Meeting be adjourned, it ſhall be to Thurſday the 16th of January next.—

Stephen Greenleaf, Eſq; Sheriff of the County of Suffolk, having informed the Town that he and his Deputy Mr. Benjamin Cudworth, had each of them Yeſterday received a Letter tending to the Diſorder of the Town, which being read at the Deſire of the Town, it was thereupon Voted unanimouſly, That ſaid Letters were highly abuſive, inflamatory, and tending to the Deſtruction of all good Order and Government, and that they abhor & deteſt them, and that they will be at all Times ready to aſſiſt the Civil Magiſtrates and ſupport all Officers in the Execution of their Truſt according to the Laws and Uſage of this Land, and alſo properly to Reward the Perſon or Perſons who ſhall diſcover and detect the Author or Authors of ſaid Letters or either of them upon Conviction.

Then the Queſtion was put, Whether the Town would now adjourn which paſſed in the Affirmative, and the Meeting was accordingly adjourned to Thurſday the 16th of January next. 3 o'Clock, P. M.

Advertiſement. THE Committee of the True Born Sons of Liberty, throughout this Province, being met at their own Appartment, in Hanover-Square, near the Tree of Liberty judged it of the utmoſt Importance to the good Cauſe to declare publickly their deepeſt Abhorance and Deteſtation of two abuſive and threatning Letters, lately ſent to the Sheriff of this County, and his Deputy; as tending to the Deſtruction of that Liberty, which her True born Sons are determined at all Hazards, to defend and maintain: That they hold the Author or Authors in thorough Contempt; and think themſelves moſt groſly injured in the villainous uſe made of that venerable Name of Liberty in ſaid Letters; And, that they heartily join in the Reſolution of the good People of this Town, in Town-Meeting lately aſſembled, "to aſſiſt the Civil Magiſtrate, and ſupport all Civil Officers, in the Execution of their Truſt, according to the Laws and Uſage of this Land."

We hear the Great and General Court of this Province is to meet at the Court-Houſe in this Town, on Wedneſday the 15th of January, being the Day they were prorouged to.

Portſmouth, New-Hampſhire, December 30.

Yeſterday the Scarborough Maſt-Ship, Capt. Hugget, ſailed for London.

Capt. Salter who arrived here on Friday laſt from Barbados, has brought the G------r's Let-paſs, with the ignominious Enſigns of CREOLE SLAVERY: The Sons of LIBERTY have it in Poſſeſſion, and propoſe to put it to a proper Uſe, that ſhall ſerve to ſhow Poſterity their Abhorrence of a People who can tamely ſubmit themſelves to the Yoke of Servitude, and entail on their Generations to come, the Curſe of all Freeborn Britons.—Let us all in American Colonies with one Mind with-hold our Connection with ſuch SLAVES, and let them want the comfortable Enjoyment of every delicious Dainty from us, till they are brought to a State of Deſpondency, without Caſh, without any Thing but ſtinking Fiſh and falſe Doctrines.

It is with Pleaſure we can inform the Public, that ſeveral Veſſels that were cleared for Barbadoes, have altered their Voyages upon hearing this ſcandalous News.

A Number of Perſons at Piſcataqua lately entered the Ships commanded by Captain Long and Clapp, and cut and hack'd the Joyner's Work in ſuch a Manner as entirely to ruin the ſame.—It is thought to be on account that the Joyners who were employed belonged not to the Town, as the following Notification had been poſted up in ſeveral Places, viz.

"THIS is to inform thoſe that have hitherto employed Country Joyners, not to employ them any more; for ſuch Perſons that does may depend on it for a Truth that We Joyners belonging to Town is determined to make a bold Puſh."

N E W P O R T, December 23.

Laſt Friday Capt. Battar arrived here in 42 Days from Jamaica. He was cleared out at Port Royal, with a Stamped Clearance, the Inhabitants of that Place, we are ſorry to ſay, having permitted the Uſe of Stamps: But at Kingſton, Veſſels were cleared out as heretofore, without any Regard to the Stamp-Act, and the Inhabitants were determined to oppoſe it.

Upon hearing that the Inhabitants of the Iſland of Barbados had tamely ſubmitted to the Stamp Act, a Merchant of this Town, noted for his public Spirit, altered an intended Voyage to that Iſland, and ordered his Veſſel, which was cleared out before the 1ſt of November, to St. Chriſtophers.

Several Gentlemen in this Town have ſent Orders to New-York, for purchaſing a Quantity of Broadcloth, manufactured in that Province, for their own Wear.

⁂ The New-York Poſt not arrived, at this Publication.

Auguſtus Deley,

Tobaconiſt (from New-York)

HAS lately ſet up his Buſineſs in Hartford, near the North Meeting Houſe, and keeps conſtantly for Sale, ALL Sorts of TOBACCO, fit for Chewing, or Smoaking; ſuch as Hog-Tail, Pig-Tail, and Shagg in Papers, or by the Pound, on the moſt reaſonable Terms.

N. B. Said DELEY takes in, and cutts good Tobacco, on Shares.

A neat SLEY and HARNESS,

To be ſold. Enquire of the Printer.

ALMANACKS, for the Year 1766. To be ſold by the Printer hereof.

L O N D O N, October 16.

About two months ago, a lady big with child, paſſing by an eminent butcher's at the Weſt-end of the town, obſerved the maſter of the ſhop cutting a fine rump of beef into ſtakes, which ſo ſtruck her imagination that ſhe ſtood to look at him a conſiderable time: her behaviour being taken notice of by the butcher's wife, who happened to be ſitting in the ſhop, ſhe good naturedly begged the lady would walk in, and aſked her in the cuſtomary manner, if ſhe had leaſt inclination for any of the ſtakes. The lady thanked her, and ſaid, "I have no inclination to eat any; but you will think me very ſtrange, when I tell you, that I wiſh earneſtly to ſlap your huſband's face with ſome of them:" to this the good woman anſwered, "My huſband, Madam, is a very good humoured man, and if you really have a deſire of that kind, I make no doubt but he will oblige you." Upon this the huſband was called, and being informed of the lady's wiſh, readily conſented, ſwearing heartily the boy ſhould not be ſpoiled on his account. The lady, after ſhe had gratified herſelf, withdrew; and the butcher, before the concluſion of the week, received a preſent of a pipe of Madeira, accompanied with a genteel letter, thanking him for his extraordinary civility.

We hear that the deſſenting gentleman, who was lately refuſed being married, becauſe he would not repeat the worlds, With my Body I thee worſhip, as mentioned in the papers, has brought an action of damages againſt the clergyman; the lady to whom he was to have been married being a great fortune.

Advices from Paraguay and Braſil ſay, that the Jeſuits, whoſe ſettlements in that part of the world contain 800,000 Indians, in the moſt abſolute ſubjection to them, have had ſeveral conſiderable ſkirmiſhes with their next neighbours the Spaniards, to the great loſs of the latter, of whom they are determined to be independent.

To the P R I N T E R.

I RUN over to communicate to you and neighbour Quidnunc the following intelligence, which I have juſt received from a gentleman that now waits half ſtarved at my ſhop: 'Tis a ragged Mid, juſt come up from Portſmout to receive thirteen and four-pence, in full of his ſecond dividend of the Havanna prize-money. N. B. He only loſt one eye and half a leg in the expedition.

They write from Quebec, that the veſſels fitted out laſt ſpring by order of his Excellency General Murray, to diſcover if Lake Superior had any navigable communication with the South Seas, as was the current opinion, have returned, after a fruitleſs expedition of three months: during which Mr. Brooks an eminent divine and mathematician, has taken exact obſervations of the coaſts of this great Lake, little inferior to the Caſpian Sea, and abounding with iſlands ſome of which are ſeveral leagues in circumference: theſe iſlands are all void of inhabitants, but full of beavers and other animals, valuable for their ſkins.

It is whiſpered, that two great perſonages were lodged ſo near the court, that it might be the better known, this time, who and who viſited the illuſtrious pair; and that the frequency of viſits (from ſome perſons in particular) might be reſtrained, as it would be the heighth of ill-breeding, and a great affront to be viſitants at one part of the Palace oftener than at another.

It is ſaid at preſent that two Scots Peers, of noble families, deſcended from, or allied to the antient Monarchs of that kingdom, are in courtſhip with, and competitors for one of the richeſt heireſſes in G. Britain, of a ſubject.

They write from Peterſburg, that letters have been received from certain Ruſſia merchants trading to North Tartary, of a late diſcovery having been made of an iſland ſuppoſed from various circumſtances to be the very place from whence America was firſt peopled,—that continent being but at a little diſtance; and the firſt migration is thought to have been made by large bodies of floating ice, the inhabitants who live by fiſhing, being ſometimes carried off to ſea thereon, even at this day.

The Proverb ſays, "No bite like the country bite." Some days ſince a countryman was driving a flock of geeſe through Highgate for London, two gentlemen picked one out of the flock, and were told two ſhillings was the very loweſt price for it!" thinking they had got a good bargain, thay readily gave the countryman two ſhillings, who, while pocketing it, laughed very heartily; the gentlemen being anxious to know what induced him to be ſo merry, the countryman replied, "Why then, Meſter, I'll tell you, that gooſe you have now bought had been before my barn door above fifteen years, and I laugh to think what a fine tender bit you'll have in eating it;" at which the gentlemen were not a little mortified.

BOSTON, (Hanover-Square) Dec. 18, 1765.

Meſſ'rs DRAPERS,

Your inſerting the following Letter ſent on Monday Evening laſt to the Honorable Andrew Oliver, Eſq; Commiſſioner for diſtributing Stamps in this Province, with the Proceedings occaſioned thereon, will oblige

THE TRUE SONS OF LIBERTY.

Hanover-Square, Dec. 16, 1765.

SIR,

THE reſpectable Inhabitants of the Town of Boſton, obſerve your Anſwer to an anonimous Letter publiſhed in Meſſ'rs Edes and Gill's News-Paper of To-day, which we don't think ſatisfactory; therefore deſire that you would, To-morrow, appear under Liberty Tree, at 12 o'Clock, to make a public Reſignation. Your Non-compliance, Sir, will incur the Diſpleaſure of

The True-born Sons of Liberty.

N. B. Provided you comply with the above, you ſhall be treated with the greateſt Politeneſs and Humanity. If not-----------!

And Yeſterday Morning was found poſted up in the moſt public Part of this Town an Advertiſement, of which the following is a true Copy.

" St--p! St--p! St--p! No.

Tueſday Morning, Dec. 17th, 1765.

THE true-born Sons of LIBERTY are deſired to meet under Liberty Tree at XII o'Clock This Day, to hear the public Reſignation, under Oath, of Andrew Oliver, Eſq; Diſtributor of Stamps for the Province of the Maſſachuſetts-Bay------

A Reſignation? Yes."

In Conſequence of which Mr. Secretary Oliver, about 9 o'Clock Yeſterday Morning, ſent his Compliments to a Number of Gentlemen, Merchants, &c. with a Deſire that they would attend upon him at the Time appointed; and accordingly, the Gentlemen Selectmen of the Town, with the Merchants and principal Inhabitants of the Town, to the Amount of upwards of 2000, aſſembled at the Tree of Liberty at the Time appointed; and when there, received a Note from Mr. Secretary, of which the following is an exact Copy:

" Mr. Oliver preſents his Compliments to the " Gentlemen aſſembled at the Tree of LIBERTY,
" and acquaints them that it has been propoſed to
" him to make his Reſignation at the Town-Houſe.
" If this be agreeable to them, he will meet them
" there at 12 o'Clock---If not, he will come up, as
" was firſt propoſed, and give them all the Satisfac-
" tion they can deſire.
" Tueſday 11 o'Clock."

But this not being ſatisfactory to the Aſſembly, it was deſired he would come up under the TREE, and there declare it; upon the Return of the Meſſenger, he came up, at the Time appointed, and declared as follows, viz.

WHEREAS a Declaration was Yeſterday inſerted in my Name and at my Deſire, in ſome of the Boſton News-Papers, that I would not act as Diſtributor of the Stamps within this Province, which Declaration I am informed is not ſatisfactory;

I DO hereby, in the moſt explicit and unreſerved Manner declare, that I have never taken any Meaſures, in Conſequence of my Deputation for that Purpoſe, to act in the Office; and that I never will, directly or indirectly, by myſelf or any under me, make uſe of the ſaid Deputation, or take any Meaſures for enforcing the Stamp-Act in America; which is ſo grievous to the People.

ANDREW OLIVER.

Boſton, 17th Dec. 1765.

Copy

SUFFOLK, ſſ. Boſton, Dec. 17th, 1765.

The Honorable ANDREW OLIVER, Eſq; Subſcriber to the above Writing, made Oath to the ſame.

(Signed) RI: DANA, Juſt. Pacis.

After which three Cheers were given, and then Mr. Secretary made a ſhort Speech to the following Purport, viz. " That he had an utter Deteſtation of the Stamp-Act, and would do all that lay in his Power to ſerve this Town or Province; and deſired that they would no longer look on him as an Enemy, but as another Man."

After which three Cheers were again given him ----and Hanover-Square was clear in 10 Minutes.

Extract of a Letter from London.

---------" The Lords have lately exerciſed their Power againſt three Printers pretty ſmartly. During the Riots of the Weavers, a News-Paper gave an Account of their aſſembling near the Houſes of Parliament, where they received a Meſſage from the Lords, " That their Complaints would be conſidered." This Account of the Meſſage was conſtrued a Breach of Privilege, and the Publiſhers of the News-Papers were ordered under the Black-Rod, and each to pay One Hundred Pounds, with their Fees; which amounted to Thirty Six Pounds more each. One of theſe unlucky Three had alſo this Paragraph, " We hear the French King is to ſend over a Part of the Gens d'Armes to aſſiſt his good Friend the D. of B. againſt the Weavers." The Duke of Bedford negociated the Peace, and was malicioully charged with ſuffering French Silks to be brought over in his Retinue, he alſo ſpoke againſt the prohibiting the Importation of that Commodity as a moſt ineffectual Bill; all this was ſufficient to incur the Vengeance of the Weavers, and the above Piece of Wit was ſaid to be levelled at him, for which the Publiſher paid another Hundred Pounds."

B O S T O N, December 19.

Laſt Week two Fiſhing Veſſels arrived at Cape Ann from the Grand Banks; they inform that great Numbers of French were Fiſhing on the Banks, who were very inſulting, and did conſiderable Damage to many of our Fiſhermen, by running foul of their Veſſels, &c. They alſo inform, that on Tueſday ſe'nnight they met with a very violent Gale of Wind, in which they had the Miſfortune to have two Men waſhed overboard from each of their Veſſels, among whom was the Skipper of one of them.

The Public are cautioned to beware of counterfeit mill'd Dollars, as ſome ſuch are now paſſing among us.----They are dated 1756, and may be eaſily diſcovered, being only Pewter caſt in Imitation of a Dollar, and want 5 Pennyweight of the true Weight.

PORTSMOUTH, December 13.

Laſt Wedneſday ſe'nnight being the day after the ſnow ſtorm we had here, a great number of wild Geeſe flew over this town, on their way as is ſuppoſed to a warmer climate, but having tarried too long in this cold country, or the winter ſetting in ſooner than they expected, many of them loſt their way, and ſuch a quantity of ice on their wings that they could not reach any farther than Newbury-Port, where we hear three or four hundred was taken up in the river there, moſt of which were alive.------One perſon took up as many as ſold for 150l. Maſſachuſetts old tenor,

N E W - P O R T, November 25.

Laſt Week the Rev. EZRA STILES, Paſtor of the Second Congregational Church in this Town, received a Diploma, for a Doctorate in Divinity, from the Univerſity of Edinburgh.

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, January 13, 1766. No. 55.

THE following Letter, wrote by an eminent Merchant in London, to a noble Lord in the preſent Miniſtry, relative to the diſtreſſed Situation of the Colonies, we doubt not will be very agreeable to the Public.

MY LORD,

THERE are ſome particular things in which I would be more particular than I could be in the ſhort hint I ſent your Lordſhip, and without an intention to reflect on any one miniſter, as I am ignorant who were the authors of the late meaſures, juſt delineate them as they lay in my mind, for your Lordſhip's conſideration.

The popular cry was, that we had been at a great expence to drive away the French, and ſave the Americans, it was but reaſonable they ſhould refund part of that expence.

This pretence took with many unthinking people, who did not conſider, that wherever the enemy made their ſtrongeſt efforts, there the grand expence would ariſe.

Suppoſe this effort had been made in any other part of the Britiſh dominions; for inſtance, had they landed in Scotland, and made a rapid progreſs as they did in the laſt rebellion, would you after the war was over, have tax'd all the counties from which they were driven, with any new tax to refund that particular expence, or thoſe who during the courſe of the war furniſh'd a reaſonable quota both of men and money, exerted themſelves to the utmoſt; and our whole expence center'd again in England, as all the money ſpent on the fleet, and in our colonies, certainly did? Doth not ſuch a demand appear very abſurd? Was not this expence incur'd to preſerve his Majeſty's dominions, and preſerve our trade, as well as ſecure American property, and [illegible] ſo intimately connected with them?

What ſums have been expended the laſt war to preſerve Hanover? (which never return to Great-Britain more) Do you now the war is over make a demand on them, or any other of the German Princes, for ſaving them from the ravages of the French?

Why then ſhould our infant colonies, labouring under their ſeveral provincial debts, contracted for the common cauſe, and who furniſhed men for every expedition, be ſingled out and loaded with ſuch a burthen? A burthen far ſuperior to their ability. A burthen which will eventually terminate on England; which every merchant connected with America, and the thouſands of manufacturers employed by thoſe merchants, muſt alſo feel, under which they will groan, and by which they will be ruined.

Another thing is, ſending troops to defend America, which indeed has a great appearance of care over them, but really is as abſurd as it is needleſs. To ſend regular troops to a people, who in a former war, not only defended themſelves, but fitted out an expedition, which ſucceeded in taking the French capital fortreſs of Louiſbourg, and thereby furniſhed their Mother country with a Premium to purchaſe peace.

A people who in the laſt war, without any regular troops to aſſiſt them, defeated the French regulars under Dieſkau; and had they been timely ſupported, would have drove the French out of Canada, without that heavy expence which is now complained of, and America call'd on to refund: an expence which was chiefly occaſioned by the ſupine neglect, and timmed efforts of the miniſtry of her mother country; which gave time for the French to pour in troops on the continent of America.

Can this people with nothing but Indians behind them, from whom they have defended themſelves 100 years, when French regulars are entirely removed from the continent, have any occaſion for regular troops to defend them? If they are not neceſſary, it is creating a large expence, to carry and ſupport an uſeleſs, nay I am ſorry to ſay, a diſſolute ſet of men, to live in idleneſs among them, and deprave the manners of the people, which is of no ſmall importance in infant colonies, when the utmoſt induſtry is neceſſary to their own well-being, and their utility to their mother country.

If the calling on America to refund expences, neglect and timidity occaſioned, and expences which aroſe for the defence of his Majeſty's dominions, and the ſecurity of our commerce; and if regular troops are not neceſſary for the defence of that people, the whole ſyſtem of laying taxes falls on the ground, and there is no pretence for doing of it in violation of their charters; charters, that will ever be held ſacred by all true Engliſhmen, eſpecially by thoſe whoſe forefathers fled into the wilderneſs to avoid the intolerable oppreſſion and arbitrary power of the faithleſs Stuarts, who look'd on the people's charters as waſte paper.

It appears the late miniſtry were determined to load America with taxes, without any regard to their charters; this they muſt needs think would ſit hard on a brave and free people, whoſe liberty inviolably maintain'd, would always occaſion an acceſſion of people to cultivate our extenſive acquiſitions, as well as conciliate the minds of the Canadians to an Engliſh government: taxes would, I ſay, ſet hard on them, eſpecially ſuch as would impoveriſh the whole country, occaſion great diſcontent and animoſity: Therefore to [illegible] the popular odium, and the [illegible] of above a million of an oppreſs'd people, and [illegible] for their defence, land forces were neceſſary to be quarter'd among them, and cruizers on their coaſt to prevent illicit trade; but in reality to keep the colonies in awe, and carry into execution the oppreſſive meaſures, which ſome people have ſpoke out; the colonies are growing rich, and muſt be kept under; which I believe your Lordſhip has heard.

How abſurd is this! doth not, and will not all the riches of the colonies [illegible] England, and make us rich and powerful? has it not really done ſo already? On the contrary, if you ſtunt the growth of the colonies, don't you hurt yourſelves? Is giving the dead palſy to the limbs, the way to promote the health of the body?

Whatever fallacious reaſonings may be uſed, there is a mutual intereſt between Great-Britain and her colonies, which will ever unite them; while ſentiments of liberty prevail and are purſued, and the monſter oppreſſion baniſh'd from the head and heart of an Engliſh miniſtry, and they act in character as Engliſhmen.

Here is a [illegible] connection worth maintaining and cultivating, which if duly improved, will furniſh us with the treaſures of the ſouth, and the neceſſaries of the north; that riches and power, which alone can ſecure us by a Family Compact of her own, which will bid defiance to the [illegible] of Popiſh powers.

The laſt thing I ſhall trouble your Lordſhip with at preſent is the equity of our taxing America, which I will fairly ſtate as it lies in my mind.

All the colonies but Georgia and Nova-Scotia, were originally ſettled by perſons drove from their native country, in thoſe reigns which by oppreſſion ſtain'd the glory of Britain; though by the like oppreſſive meaſures, ſhe was ſupplied with manufacturers from the neighbouring continent, to our unſpeakable advantage.

Yet oppreſſion was ſo much the [illegible] of thoſe times, that it drove out a number of the King's ſubjects, who took ſhelter in a deſart, that they might enjoy their civil and religious liberties uncontrouled and unmoleſted; they were then in a ſtate of nature, under no civil government but what they form'd themſelves. When they had eſtabliſhed their ſeveral ſettlements, out of regard to their mother country, they ſent home their ſeveral agents to tender their new acquiſitions to their mother country, on certain conditions then agreed on by the ſeveral parties, and ratified by their ſeveral charters, which they look on as ſacred; and make their boaſt of, like our magna charta of England.

If you conſider the thouſands that have been expended in ſettling Georgia and Nova-Scotia, you will better judge of the merit of the colonies that ſettled themſelves without any expence to their mother country; without ſuch a ſurrender therefore, Great Britain could have no pretence to any authority over them, for the right was founded in compact, and the ſame compact that gives Great Britain any rightful authority over them, ſecures the privileges ſtipulated in that compact; which is the ſole right of taxing themſelves by their own repreſentatives, in which all their charters agree, however in other circumſtances they may differ: Therefore any attempt to break in upon their charters, muſt meet with the ſame reception from them, as an Engliſh miniſtry would find from a violation of our Magna Charta. Can you wonder then at any thing that has happened in Virginia, or any of the other Provinces, by invectives againſt a miniſtry that violate their Magna Charta, and deprive them of the privileges of Engliſhmen? An army is neceſſary therefore to carry ſuch meaſures into execution, though not neceſſary for the people's defence.

It was always the ambition and glory of the houſe of Hanover to maintain the privileges of Engliſhmen inviolable; and it will be a ſtanding mark of infamy on any miniſter that ſtains that glory by any violation of them in America.

I ſubmit to your Lordſhip's determination which is his Majeſty's intereſt, to rule in the hearts of a free people in America, as well as in England; or by deſtroying their medium of commerce, which they have been uſeful for above 100 years, and by laying burthens upon them which they cannot but look upon as acts of arbitrary power, which makes them ſlaves inſtead of Engliſhmen.

If at any time there is a neceſſity of raiſing money from the colonies, let it be intimated by the ſeveral governors to their reſpective Aſſemblies, as was annually the caſe during the war, it will be cheerfully done, and preſerve that natural deep veneration and love, which they bear their King and Mother Country.

If the facts repreſented to your Lordſhip appear evident, and the reaſoning juſt, their importance will apologize for this great freedom taken with your Lordſhip, in opening the unreſerved ſentiments of,

My Lord,
Your Lordſhip's moſt obedient humble Servant.

◆ ◆ ◆

NEW-YORK, December 26.

Yeſterday arrived a Veſſel, belonging to this City from Liſbon, laſt from Falmouth, and has brought the Exeter Chronicle to the 1ſt of November; from which, and private Advices, we find, that the Diſſatisfaction and Tumults, in America, were become at laſt pretty generally known, and were as generally approved in England. The following Articles are extracted from the Papers.

LONDON, Oct. 22, to Nov. 1.

Laſt Friday a Captain refuſed to take on board his Ship two Cart Loads of Stampt Paper for America, declaring he could not land them when he arrived there without great Danger of having his Ship burnt.

We are aſſured, by perſons of undoubted authority, that Weſt-India and American orders for goods, about this time of the year, have not been ſo ſmall as at preſent in the memory of man.

A Letter from Boſton in New-England mentions, that among other ſchemes of public œconomy, a reſolution has been taken to import no more corn ſpirits from England, in order to encourage their own diſtilleries.

Some American advices, juſt received, inform, that martial law was upon the point of being introduced in two of the colonies, on account of the continued diſturbances at the Stamp-duty, when the poſt came from thence.

From the frequency of councils lately held at Whitehall and St. James's, a report ſtrongly prevails, that ſomewhat of greater importance than the affairs of the American colonies, or even an approaching change in the miniſtry, is now under conſideration.

It is ſaid a ſloop of war is now fitting out at Chatham, to carry over the ſtamp paper for the American colonies; which will alſo be made uſe of in tranſporting naval and military ſtores to New-England.

It has been remarked, that we are now acting the ſame part againſt ourſelves, as we declared war againſt the Spaniards for in the year 1739.

We hear that American commiſſions for Engliſh mercantile goods, have been near 600,000 leſs this ſummer, than has been known for 30 years paſt.

It is now ſaid, that the French court has behaved with ſo little conſiſtency, not only concerning the Canada bills, but certain other important negociations between the two Crowns, that it is not certain at preſent, whether Great-Britain will deign to ſend them any Embaſſador at all.

It is reported, that a certain Noble Lord's proprietary lands, in one of the American colonies, have been proved to have produced upwards of 50,000l. ſterl. per annum for many years.

We are informed, that ſeveral of the moſt eminent council are already retained, on account of the important affairs of the American colonies.

It is reported that as ſoon as the Parliament meets ſome conſiderable Alterations will be made in the American Stamp-Duty.

It is ſaid a patriotic Member of an auguſt Aſſembly, intends to move, that in future Proſecutions on the Part of the Crown, ſuch Verdicts as are founded on preſumtive, not poſitive, Evidence, may be declared null and void.

We are told, that ſuch a Change of the Military Governments in North-America, including alſo the High Courts of Admiralty, is ſoon likely to be effected, as will render the future Adminiſtration of the Britiſh Colonies more agreeable to our Fellow Subjects on that Continent.

We hear the Purſers of ſome capital Ships of War have laſt Week indented at the victualling Office for ſix Month's Proviſions and Stores: From whence it is conjectured that ſome Expedition of Length is upon the Carpet.

We hear the Government have contracted for a very large Quantity of Gunpowder.

It is rumoured that 900 Seamen are ſpeedily to be raiſed for the government's Service.

It is ſaid, that beating Orders were iſſued laſt Week, which occaſions many Speculations.

The large Contracts made by the Officers belonging to the Navy Office in Time of Peace, are talked of in many different Ways at the Weſt End of the Town.

Yeſterday Morning his Grace the Duke of Richmond ſet out from his Houſe at Privy-Garden, Whitehall, for France. It is ſaid his Grace will viſit Dunkirk in his Way, in order to ſee that the Fortifications of that Place are entirely demoliſhed, before he goes to Paris.

A few Days ago his Excellency the Portugueſe Ambaſſador received Diſpatches of Importance from Liſbon; ſince which it is reported, that ſome Engliſh Men of War will be ſpeedily ſent out on an Expedition to the Coaſt of Africa.

We hear that the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Bute will ſet out this Week for Bath, where he intends to ſtay till the Parliament meets.

The Captain in the 14th Regiment was, by Hebeas Corpus, brought from Wincheſter Goal laſt Tueſday, and after proper and moſt minute Examinations, admitted to Bail by Lord Chief Juſtice Mansfield.

Extract of a Letter from Portſmouth, Oct. 27.

"We have ſome Talk here of fitting out a Fleet, but for what Deſtination we know not."

New-York, December 26.

On Saturday the 21ſt laſt, as the Keepers of the New Goal were locking up the ſeveral Wards, ſome of the Priſoners (Debtors) roſe upon them, knocked them down, forced the Keys from them, opened the Doors, and made their Eſcapes......It is ſaid the Priſoners concerned in this Eſcape, have dropp'd Papers about Town, declaring that they ſhould not have formed ſuch a Deſign, had it not been that Buſineſs was at a Stand on Account of the Stamp Act, and they had no Proſpect of a Diſcharge by the uſual Methods of the Law........The whole Number miſſing is twelve, among whom, probably, are ſeveral, who made uſe of the Opportunity, without being privy to the Deſign. But a conſiderable Number, who might have done the ſame, choſe to remain behind, till they ſhould be diſcharged by the Methods the Law has provided, or by the Compaſſion of their Creditors. Some of theſe ſame Priſoners had the like Opportunity once before, when ſeveral Priſoners made their Eſcape, a Year or two ago.

On Saturday Night laſt, between Twelve and One o' Clock, a large Number of armed Men went on board the Minerva, Capt. Tillet, lying on Rotten Row, and demanded the Stamp'd Papers, ſuppoſed to be on board, belonging to the Colony of Connecticut: but were aſſured, that they had been on the 11th Inſtant, deliver'd into Fort George; notwithſtanding which, they ſearch'd the Veſſel in every Part, and finding there was none on board, returned without doing any Miſchief.

Friday laſt the Gentlemen of the Law in this City had a Meeting, when they came to a Reſolution to carry on Buſineſs as uſual, without paying any Regard to the Stamp Act.

Yeſterday arrived Capt. Schermerhorn, from Charles-Town, South Carolina, by whom we have the News-Papers to the 31ſt October, (ſince which we cannot find that any News-Papers have been printed there) and the Reſolves of the General Aſſembly on the 22th of November (which will be in our next) By theſe Papers, private Letters, and the Report of the Captain, we find, they are as firmly determined againſt the Reception of the Stamp-Act as we are. There were above 100 Sail of Veſſels, moſtly belonging to England, for Freight, lying there without Employment, the Merchants being determined not to load them, and the Inhabitants not even to threſh their Rice, but let it remain in the Straw, till they can ſhip it without Stamps. They generally expreſſed the higheſt Approbation of the Behaviour of the People in New-York and the Northern Provinces, which they have in ſeveral Reſpects imitated. We have before publiſhed ſome Account of their Proceedings; the following is a Copy of the Paper ſigned by the Stamp Officers, and delivered before about 7000 Perſons, who aſſembled on that Occaſion, expreſſed their general Satiſfaction. The Delinquents are ſince reſtored to the Favour of their Country.

"SOUTH-CAROLINA.

"WE George Saxby, appointed inſpector, and Caleb "Lloyd, diſtributor of the ſtamps and ſtampt papers under the ſtamp-act for the province aforeſaid, do ſolemnly declare and proteſt before God (and ſo may he help "us) that we, nor neither of us, will directly or indirectly, by deputy or otherwiſe, take upon us, or either "of us, to execute or cauſe to be executed, the Office of "diſtributor of the ſtamps or ſtamp papers, or inſpecting "of the accounts of ſtamp-duties in the province aforeſaid, or any thing incident or relating thereto, until "a united application has been received from his majeſty's "colonies in America, and till it may be known whether "the Parliament will either determine to enforce or repeal "it. All this we declare without evaſion or equivocation, "and deſire it may be made public. Witneſs our hands "and ſeals at Fort Johnſon, in South-Carolina, this "28th of October, 1765.

GEORGE SAXBY, (L. S.)
CALEB LLOYD, (L. S.")

NEW-YORK, January 2.

We are deſired to acquaint the Public, That as the firſt Wedneſday of January fell on New-Year's Day, the Market for Home Manufactures was put off till To-morrow, being Friday the 3d, when beſides the uſual Articles, there will be ſeveral Pieces of good warm Cloth; the Gentlemen who have not yet ſupplied themſelves, may depend upon this Opportunity*; the few that only pretended they could get none to buy, will be deprived of their uſual excuſe; and thoſe who have given out, that we cannot make a Quantity of Cloth, may be convinced of their Miſtake.*

Wedneſday Night, the 25th ult. the Ship York, Captain Berton, arrived here from London, but laſt from the Downs, which Place he left the 25th of October, in Company with Captain Haviland for this Port.

Part of a Letter from England to a Gentleman in New-York.

-----"Laſt Poſt brought me your Favor of the 3d June, from which, with Regret, I obſerve the bad Plight which the Meaſures of our Government have reduced your Province to, and your foreboding Apprehenſions for their Conſequences. The Hiſtory of Nations has convinced me, that States or Kingdoms, like the Productions of Nature, have their Times for commencing, growing and decaying; and as the Arts have been continually progreſſive to the Weſt, perhaps in the laſt ſucceſsful War, Old England reached the Meridian of its Glory, and the preſent uneaſy Senſations of the Weſtern World may be like the growing Pains of Youth.

New-Port, December 23.

The Spirit of Patriotiſm is not confined to the Sons of America only, but glows with equal Fervor in the benevolent Breaſts of her virtuous Daughters*; one Inſtance of which we think is worthy of Notice, viz. A Lady of this Town, tho' in the Bloom of Youth, and poſſeſſed of Virtues and Accompliſhments really engaging, and ſufficient to excite the moſt pleaſing Expectations of Happineſs in the married State, has declared that ſhe ſhould chooſe rather to be an* Old Maid, than that the Opperation of the illegal Stamp Act ſhould commence in theſe Colonies.

Philadelphia, December 26.

Sunday laſt arrived here Captain Allexander, from St. Kitts, who left that Iſland the 24th ult. and informs us, that thoſe brave Sons of Liberty glory in their Freedom, and carry on all Buſineſs without giving themſelves the leaſt Concern about the STAMP ACT: He alſo informs us, that the ſtamped Paper in the Iſland of Antigua is, by the General's Orders, guarded by 100 Men, and the Inhabitants forced to accept of them, tho' ſorely againſt their Wills.

BOSTON.

Extract of a Letter from the Southward.

---"You may depend upon it, Robert Ogden, Eſq; reſigned his Seat as Member, and conſequently that as Speaker, to avoid an Expulſion, and to pacify the People, more eſpecially his Townſmen. So far he has acted prudently. He delivered in a canting Apology for his Conduct, which has been publiſhed; how much Truth there is in it, the Gentlemen of the Congreſs can beſt tell."

WHEREAS purſuant to an Advertiſement, publiſhed in the public News-Paper of this Colony, that Gideon Granger, Warham Peaſe and Martin Kellogg, all of Suffield, in the County of Hartford, Inſolvent Debtors, who have ſignifed by Writings under their Hands, with the Major Part of their Creditors, to the Hon. Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, for the County of Hartford, and One of the Aſſiſtant Judges of ſaid Court, that they are willing to ſurrender up all their Effects, for the Benefit of their Creditors, and have deſired that Truſtees may be forthwith appointed. And we the Subſcribers have been appointed accordingly.

Public Notice is hereby given to all the Creditors of the ſaid Granger, Peaſe, and Kellogg, to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. Elijah Kent, Innholder in Suffield, on Monday the 10th of February next, at 2 o'Clock in the Afternoon; to proceed in ſuch Way and Manner as the Laws of this Colony directs, entituled, "An Act for preventing Frauds in Debtors, and for the ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors for the Uſe of their Creditors."

Samuel Kent,
Seth Austin,
Graves Loomis,
Truſtees for Gideon Granger.
Samuel Kent,
Martin Ashley,
Jedediah Bliss,
Truſtees for Warham Peaſe.
Joseph Pease,
Samuel Kent,
Truſtees for Martin Kellogg.

To be ſold at the Heart and Crown, Hartford,
Ames, Hutchins, and Ellſworth's Almanacks, for the Year 1766.

To the PRINTER.

REMARKS on the TIMES.

January 1ſt, A. D. 1766.

"Our Senate meets, at Parties, Parties bawl,
"And Pamphlets ſtun the Streets, and load the Stall." *

REMARK I.

WHEN political Enthuſiaſm runs high, men need be very watchful. There is Enthuſiaſm as well in many other Things, as in the Affairs of Religion: When Men's Pulſes get out of Order, it ſets their Bodies a trembling, and thereby they many times act very ſtrange Poſtures. Set a Man upon a Precipice, where his Head ſwims, and 'tis a Wonder if he doth not fall off, amongſt the moſt ragged Cliffs.

"The civil Torrent foams, the Tumults reign." *

REM. II. The beſt Plans of Government, and compleateſt Models of civil States will ſuffer by Tumults, and are ſubject to be overthrown, when ſelf-deſigning Men, and Men of a hot, enthuſiaſtical Turn of Mind, are at the Head of public Commotions.

The Sentences now in Vogue are Liberty, Property, and no STAMPS.

REM. III. Thoſe who can't frame their Mouths, to pronounce theſe three Words properly and diſtinctly, are in ſome Danger of coming off and ſharing the Fate of thoſe Benjamites, at the River Jordon, who, inſtead of ſaying Shibboleth, pronounced it Sibboleth.

REM. IV. At a Time when the Torrent runs high, and the State is unſettled, low, ſelf-deſigning Men, puſh themſelves forward at all Adventures, hoping for nothing more than Self-promotion, tho' at the Ruin of the Public.

"Poor Chremes can't conduct his own Eſtate,
"And thence has undertaken Europe's Fate;
"An Incapacity for ſmaller Things;
"This makes him model Realms, and counſel Kings." §

REM. V. At a Time when civil Enthuſiaſm runs high, every Man is a Politician; Then the Cry is, The Government is in bad Hands: I know,------and I know,------is to be heard in every Cot,-----------and it is high Time to ſet Things in better Order. At ſuch a Time, Inſolvents and Bankrupts, raiſe their Heads, their Hopes and Tongues, and cry, and pronounce Liberty, &c. very loud and diſtinct. In ſuch a State of Things, Men riſe, not by Merit, but becauſe they make a great Noiſe, and uſe many bold Words, and threaten to do great Things, which they can never perform. Hence, REM. VI. Men raiſed to Promotion, by the Spirit of political Enthuſiaſm, when the Tide ebbs, and Emotions of Pulſe, and Heat of Blood ceaſe, are like to fall from their Heighth, and ſink into a State of Contempt.---For when the Populace find themſelves miſtaken, they can ſoon turn the Torrent, and pour out all their Rage on their once ſuppoſed favourite Friend. Hence nothing more uncertain and fluctuating than popular Eſteem.

"Narciſſus the Tartarian Club diſclaims,
"Nay, a Free-Maſon, with ſome Terror names,
"-------------------------------------,
"Narciſſus is the Glory of his Race;
"For who does Nothing with a better Grace." ¶

REM. VII. In ſuch a Time as this, warm ſelf-deſigning Men will be mingling themſelves into all Companies, and mix and join themſelves to all Parties: and when their Conduct is fully ſcan'd for a conſiderable Time they have done Nothing. They are conſtantly acting over the ſame Farce, at the End of ſix Months they are juſt where they began; unleſs it may be they've darkened ſome Characters, or by caſting Duſt in the Air, have hurt ſome weak Eyes.------Indeed there is another Sort of theſe Men, who are conſtantly running up and down, doing Nothing, yet all the Time are watching all Parties, and if they can find a Vacancy, they are ready to fill it, if it be to the ſacrificing the Intereſt of the Public on either Side; they care not on which hand the Chaſm opens, if they can but ſtep in to advance their private Intereſt.-------And thus it probably is at the preſent Day. The Force of the Mobility runs high, and perhaps Liberty, &c. is pronounced louder by ſome, who but a few Months ago were ſoliciting the Office of Stamp-Diſtributer, &c. than by almoſt any other Perſon. Such Men are like a Court-Favourite, i. e.

"He's cautious, Sir, he's ſubtle, he's a Courtier,
"He's now for you, now for another,
"For both, and neither: He's a Summer-Inſect,
"And loves the Sunſhine: On his gilded Wings,
"While the Scales waver, he'll fly doubtful round you;
"And ſing his Flatteries to both alike:
"The Scales once fix'd, he'll ſettle on the Winner,
"and ſwear his Pray'rs drew the Victory." ‖

Hence, REM. VIII. An honeſt Man is in Danger of being impoſed upon, and deceived, by a Club of deſigning, crafty Men. Nothing is more fatal to the Well-being of Society, than Diviſions and Factions; and nothing is more likely to ſtir up Diviſions, and create Jealouſies, than Parties of Men combining, and forming Schemes of Oeconomy diſtinct from the ſettled Conſtitution of the Country.

CONCLUSION.

Far, very far from being a Friend to the bringing in of Stamp'd Paper, is the Author: No! let us abide by the united Tacit and explicit Reſolution of all the Governments, i. e. Not to receive that intolerable Yoke, which we can never bear, but be prudent: Don't let blind Enthuſiaſm, or a low, mean, party-Spirit, like a Torrent, ſweep all before it.--------What if ſome upſtart Gentlemen, (out of Buſineſs) have itching Minds to diſplay their Gifts in Public, by making or mending Reſolves, now too much in Vogue: Let them employ their aſpiring Genius for themſelves, and not for the Counties, leſt the Public ſuffer hereafter, through their Ambition. Hear a celebrated Poet,

"See Commons, Peers, and Miniſters of State,
"In ſolemn Council met, and deep Debate!
"What god-like Enterprize, is taking Birth?
"What Wonder opens on th' expecting Earth?
"'Tis done! with loud Applauſe, the Council rings!
"Fix'd in the Fate of Wh--rs and Fiddle-Strings."

Univerſal Paſſion, Sect. III.

---

* Dr. Young's Letter to Mr. Pope.

§ Univerſal Paſſion.

The Author has uſed the Word Enthuſiaſm, by which he would be underſtood to mean Heat of Imagination, or blind Zeal.

¶ Love of Fame.

‖ The Brothers, in Young's Poetical Works.

◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆

Philadelphia, December 26.

On Thurſday Morning laſt, the Schooner Three Friends, William Smith, Maſter, lying in one of our Docks, was diſcovered to be on Fire; when a Number of the Inhabitants immediately aſſembled, and got it extinguiſhed, without any Noiſe being then made about the Affair. But, in the Evening of that Day, the ſame Veſſel was hauled off into the Stream, and about three o'Clock the next Morning, was ſeen to be on Fire again from the Shore; upon which the Alarm was given, and ſome Boats were immediately manned with Ship-Carpenters, who went to her Aſſiſtance, and on going a board, found only one Man (Smith) in the Veſſel, who ſeemed a good Deal confuſed, and appeared to be in Liquor, the Veſſel burning very violently, with the Hatches ſhut, which were immediately opened; they then cut away her Foremaſt, ſcuttled her, cut the Cable, and towed her aſhore on the Bar, by which the Fire was ſuppreſſed.....The people ſtaid by her till Day-Light, when ſome of her Cargo was brought aſhore, in very ſtrong Boxes, well nailed up, which, on being opened, the Contents proved to be nothing elſe but Pieces of Rozin, Rozin Staves, ſome Pewter, a few Silk Handkerchiefs, and Straw, packed up together. Of theſe Sorts of Boxes, there were ſeveral on board, filled with the ſame Sort of Cargo, and no other Kind of Goods found in the Veſſel.....This occaſioning ſome Suſpicions that all was not right, but that ſomething baſe was intended by ſome body; the Perſon that paſſed for the Owner of the Veſſel, a Foreigner who was alſo concerned, and the Captain, were all taken up, and carried before the Chief Juſtice, who, after Examination, ordered them to Goal, where they now remain......The Veſſel was got off the Bar, but much damaged.

On Sunday Night a Piece of Parchment, with a Stamp to it was purified by Fire at the Coffee-Houſe, in the Preſence of a full Company, who expreſſed their ſatisfaction therewith.

◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆

Auguſtus Deley,
Tobaconiſt (from New-York)

HAS lately ſet up his Buſineſs in Hartford, near the North Meeting Houſe, and keeps conſtantly for Sale, ALL Sorts of TOBACCO, fit for Chewing, or Smoaking; ſuch as Hog-Tail, Pig-Tail, and Shagg in Papers, or by the Pound, on the moſt reaſonable Terms.

N. B. Said DELEY takes in, and cutts good Tobacco, on Shares.

◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆

A neat SLEY and HARNESS,
To be ſold. Enquire of the Printer.

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, January 20, 1766. No. 56.

Ingerſoll

To the Printer of the PUBLIC LEDGER.

EVERY good Engliſhman will at all times be an advocate for the liberty of the Preſs. Public Knowledge and public Freedom depend alike on its preſervation; and in ſhort we owe to it the chief of the bleſſings which we now enjoy.

What but free enquiry, which has ever been the inherent right of Engliſhmen, becauſe none can be conſidered as Freemen who are denied the fair uſe of their reaſon; I ſay, what but free enquiry has obtained and ſecured our religious and civil liberties, or made us a learned, wiſe, or flouriſhing people.

Yet this right of free enquiry and diſcuſſion, to which we have been indebted for almoſt every bleſſing that we enjoy, may be extended in corrupt practice to Licentiouſneſs, and by Licentiouſneſs become endangered; for like every other right that is valuable in fair uſe, it may become injurious from abuſe; and therefore the abuſe of any right whatſoever ought by no means to be countenanced.

The man who would attempt to abridge the liberty of the Preſs, which is the right of free enquiry, and fair diſcuſſion, may be conſidered as deſerving of univerſal deteſtation. But ſurely no one can think ſcurrility and ſlander are included in the liberty, becauſe ſuch practices are indubitably puniſhable by law, and therefore they ought not to be countenanced or practiſed; nor can they be ſerviceable to any public cauſe whatever; nor are they ever the practices of gentlemen becauſe reproachable for illiberality.

Foul tongues are the weapons in controverſy of the rabble: but weighty arguments are thoſe of men of knowledge and breeding. It is for vulgar women to rail; men of intelligence ſhould reaſon: and even the different modes of ridicule diſtinguiſh the ſwordſman from the aſſaſſin, the man of wit from the buffoon, by the apparent difference of principle and character in the exerciſe of their talents.

The end of all enquiry, or diſcuſſion, as far as either can affect the public, muſt be to encreaſe uſeful knowledge, or to eſtabliſh real truth; neither of which can be effected, but by accurate reaſonings on fair principles, or the evidence of experiments, or facts. But the man becomes deſpicable who ventures to aſſert falſhoods, as he will abſolutely become odious who is ſcurrilous or abuſive.

All ſocial liberty is rational, as in reaſon it was founded: and therefore the true friends of Freedom will always take offence at its being groſsly abuſed, becauſe that which in its nature is good when perverted, becomes an evil that requires a cure; and there can be no cure applied to abuſe Liberty, without weakening its eſſence: for which reaſon it muſt be neceſſary to guard it from Licentiouſneſs.

There appears to be much cauſe of fear, that many advocates for Liberty, and eſpecially that of the Preſs, have too imperfect ideas of it, and therefore know not how rightly to diſtinguiſh between its real uſe and abuſe. Hence do we ſee the Preſs too often proſtituted to the indulgence of rank venom, in its diſcharges of ribaldry, falſhood, invective, and ſcurrility, for which there can be no liberty, either in ſpeaking, writing, or printing; which exceſſes moſt appear in political diſcuſſions and party altercations.

But it is to your credit, that you diſcountenance all ſuch modes of repreſentation, and methods of diſputation; and it is greatly to be wiſhed that your example was more followed, as then the public would be benefited by more rational diſcuſſions, and no outcrys would be heard at the Licentiouſneſs of the Preſs; which practice may endanger its true invaluable liberty, without the poſſibility of its doing real ſervice to any cauſe; for applications to reaſon may be productive of much good, while thoſe that are made to paſſion or prejudice can only produce evil, and ſurely the poſſeſſion of a bleſſing ſhould not be hazarded by the indefenſible abuſe of it.

I am, Sir, Your humble ſervant,
PUBLICOLA.

NEW-HAVEN.

WHEREAS I have lately received two anonymous Letters, calling on me (among other Things) to give the Publick ſome further Aſſurance with regard to my Intentions about exerciſing the Office of Diſtributer of Stamps for this Colony, as ſome others have done ſince receiving our Commiſſions or Deputations of Office for that Purpoſe; and that I confirm the ſame by Oath. And altho' I don't think it beſt ordinarily to take Notice of ſuch Letters, nor yet to take Oaths upon ſuch Kind of Occaſions; yet (as I have good Reaſon to think thoſe Letters came from a large Number of People belonging to this Colony, and do reſpect a Subject of a very intereſting Nature, and the preſent Times being peculiarly difficult and critical, and I myſelf at no Loſs or difficulty about making known my Reſolutions and Intentions reſpecting the Matters aforeſaid) I have concluded to make the following Declaration and to confirm the ſame by an Oath; that is to ſay,

1. I never was nor am I now deſirous, or even willing, to hold or exerciſe the aforeſaid Office, contrary to the Mind and Inclination of the general Body of People in this Colony.

2. I have for ſome Time been and ſtill am perſuaded, that it is the general Opinion and Sentiment of the People of this Colony (after mature Deliberation) that the Stamp Act is an Infringement of their Rights and dangerous to their Liberties, and therefore I am not willing, nor will I, for that and other good and ſufficient Reaſons, as I ſuppoſe, (and which I hope and truſt will excuſe me to thoſe who appointed me) exerciſe the ſaid Office againſt ſuch general Opinion and Sentiment of the People; and, generally and in a Word, will Never at all, by myſelf or otherwiſe, officiate under my ſaid Deputation. And as I have ſo I will, in the moſt effectual Manner I am able, apply to the proper Board in England, for a Diſmiſſion from my ſaid Office.

J. Ingerſoll.

New-Haven, ſſ. Jan. 8, 1766.

THEN perſonally appeared Jared Ingerſoll, Eſq; and made Oath to the Truth of the foregoing Declaration, by him ſubſcribed.

Before me, DANIEL LYMAN, Juſt. Peace.

As to the Letters and Papers which I lately delivered out of my Hands, I beg Leave to acquaint the Publick that I did not expect there would have been any Publications of them (eſpecially of any particular detached Sentences) but by me, or by mutual Conſent; --- that thoſe Paragraphs which have lately been publiſhed in the New-London Gazette, I conceive to be, in ſome Parts, by ſome Miſtake, differently worded from the Originals, and commented upon very differently from what I imagine would be thought the true meaning was the whole of ſaid Letters and Papers publiſhed together. This I intend ſhall be done as ſoon as I ſhall recover the Papers again; and in the mean Time ſhall hope the Publick will not undertake to make a full Judgment in the Matter. And this I think may well be done, as thoſe particular Letters at which Umbrage has been taken are recalled; and it, by Miſtake or otherwiſe, any Thing was ſaid in them that was liable to a Conſtruction diſ-favourable to the Colony or to any particular Perſons, I ſhall be always ready to put every Thing to right whenever They ſhall call upon me for that Purpoſe; and to prevent all Trouble of the Kind for the future, ſhall take Care to write no Letters abroad (until Times are more ſettled than they now are) without firſt ſhewing them to ſuch Gentlemen as, at this Day, will be entirely confided in.

J. I.

NEW-YORK, January 9.

The Spirit of Liberty, in Oppoſition to the Stamp-Act, has been no leſs conſpicuous in Georgia than in the other Colonies. The Stamps for that Place were arrived at Charleſtown, and were to be ſent over in his Majeſty's Ship Speedwell; and Mr. Angus, the Officer appointed for their Diſtribution was alſo arrived there. The Gentlemen Sons of Liberty, of Georgia, had concluded to wait on him at his Arrival and deſire his Reſignation of the odious Office, whereby bad Conſequences might be prevented.

Thurſday Morning, 9 o'Clock. We have juſt received certain Intelligence, that about 12 o'Clock laſt Night, a Company of arm'd Men went on board Capt. Haviland's Brig, lying at or near Croger's Dock, and after obliging the People to deliver up the Keys, and get Lights, they opened the Hatches, ſearch'd the Veſſel from Stem to Stern and ſeized the Stamped Papers for this Province and Connecticut, amounting to 10 Boxes, with which they loaded a large Boat, and proceeded with them up the River to the Ship-Yards, where they broke the Packages to Pieces, and with ſome Tar-Barrels and other Combuſtibles, made a Bonfire of them and their Contents.---When the Whole was entirely conſumed, they all quietly diſperſed, without doing any Miſchief, or even alarming the City.

We hear that Col. Robertſon, who was lately appointed Barrack-Maſter-General for North-America, is appointed Lieut. Governor of Canada, and that Governor Murray is ordered Home.

Governor Rogers, well known for military Atchievements in the late American War, is come over in the Packet.

NEW-YORK, January 16.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in London, to his Friend in this City, dated Nov. 9, 1765.

"I am fully ſenſible of the Malignity of the late Meaſures, and your------has well delinated the Authors. Your Zeal is commendable; but you ſhould not impute your Grievances to the Whole, which were impoſed by the Influence of a Miniſtry univerſally deteſted, and now removed, and the new Miniſtry intirely in your Favour.......An entire new Syſtem in your Favour is adopted, and the truly Noble Lord DARTMOUTH at the Head of the Board of Trade, your Friend out of Judgment, being fully convinced of the mutual Intereſt of the Colonies and their Mother Country; ſo that a few Months will give a new Face to your Affairs....

"I contributed my Mite to his Information, and he was ſo condeſcending as to call on me and thank me, and opened his Sentiments without Reſerve.---He is a charming Man."

Extract of a Letter from London, Dated January 9.

"The new Miniſtry are determined to relieve you, and I hope a few Months will make a great Alteration in your American Affairs."

A few Days ſince a Negro Man belonging to Mr. Trail, of New-Rochelle, killed a Woman, his Houſe-Keeper, by a Blow with a ſmall Ax on the Head, of which Wound ſhe expired; the Villian immediately fled, and concealed himſelf in a Hay-ſtack, where he was found after diligent Search, tried by three Juſtices of the Peace, and ordered to burnt: Which Sentence was put in Execution at New-Rochelle laſt Week.

We have heard, that the Stamp-Act, as if calculated to ſpread Uneaſineſs and Confuſion throughout all his Majeſty's Dominions, has produced ſome freſh Tumults at Albany; an authentic Account of Particulars is not come to our Hand, but our beſt Intelligence is as follows, viz.

That on Saturday the 4th Inſtant, many of the Inhabitants of Albany, having heard that Mr. Van Scaack, of that Place, Merchant, had applied for the Office of Diſtributor of Stamps there, a Number of them went to him and demanded a Reſignation of the Office if he had it, and a ſolemn Engagement that he nor any for him ſhould ever act in it.---That he would not enter into ſuch an Engagement without ſome Reſerve, in Caſe the Act ſhould hereafter take Place; which by no Means ſatisfying the People, ſeveral hundreds of them aſſembled the next Monday Evening, and again inſiſted on his abſolute Renunciation of his Office; which he not complying with, they put a Halter about his Neck, drag'd him through the Town, and is was thought would abſolutely have hang'd him, if he had not found Means to make his Eſcape, and take Sanctuary in the Fort. This ſo enraged the Multitude, that they return'd to his houſe, and demoliſhed all his Furniture that they would find, to the Value of 4 or 500l.

--Two other Perſons there, we hear, had alſo applied for Employments in the Stamp Office, one of which was very roughly uſed, and the other had fled.

BOSTON, January 9.

It is reported that one of his Majeſty's Ships was ſoon to ſail from England, for theſe Parts; and that an American Gentleman was to embark with Diſpatches for the ſeveral Governments on this Continent.

'Tis reported that a Veſſel is arrived at Cape Ann from the Mount, the Maſter of which ſays, that the Spaniards having taken a Diſlike to the French, had drove them away from that Place.

Laſt Week one John Ward, a Journeyman Barber in this Town, was committed to Goal, for a Rape on the Body of Elizabeth Allen, an Infant between 9 and 10 Years of Age, and otherwiſe much abuſing her, at the Houſe of William Ricaſh on Wentworth's Wharf.

NEWPORT, January 13.

Since our laſt his Majeſty's Ship Cygnet, commanded by Philip Durell, Eſq; ſailed from this Port for New-London.

◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆

HARTFORD, January 20.

Yeſterday Afternoon, the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. Eliſha Treat of Wetherſfield was entirely conſumed by Fire, together with the greateſt Part of the Furniture, while all the Family were at Meeting. The Fire had got to a great Head before it was diſcovered.

By the Capts. Oſborn, arrived at Newport Bartlet at Boſton Grice at Marblehead, and the Lord Hyde Packet at New-York, from England, there is the following Advices, LONDON, Oct. 26.

SOME letters from North America aſſert, that the colonies were already threatned with another Indian war.

Yeſterday Benjamin Robert Turbot, lately pardoned on condition of tranſportation, embarked on board a ſloop for Boſton in New-England.

Oct. 31. It is ſaid that the ſtate of the Britiſh colonies will be thoroughly inveſtigated next ſeſſion of parliament, in order to redreſs ſome grievances in them, which have been lately much complained of.

It is ſaid that two great men are already ſick of the great offices they hold, having found men and meaſures in ſuch a manner, as that it will be ſome time before they are put right.

Several ſhips and ſloops of war are ſoon to be fitted out and ſent to the coaſt of North-America, but their orders, and upon what enterprize, is not yet made known.

A ſtrong report prevails, that the hon. Mr. Grenville will have an honorable appointment before the meeting of an auguſt aſſembly.

Nov. 2. We are greatly concerned to give our readers the following melancholly article of his Royal Highneſs William Auguſtus Duke of Cumberland, who died ſuddenly at his houſe in Upper Groſvenor ſtreet, on Thurſday night, about eight o'clock, in the 45th year of his age, being born April 15, 1721, greatly regretted by all lovers of Liberty.

There was no levee yeſterday at St. James's, on account of the death of his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland. The news of this melancholly event was carried to his Majeſty, ſoon after it happened, by Lord Albermarle, which greatly ſurprized and affected his Majeſty, who had ſeen his Royal Highneſs but a few hours before, to all appearance in perfect health.

Yeſterday the principal ſecretaries, and other great officers of ſtate, the nobility and foreign miniſters waited on his Majeſty at the Queen's palace, with their complements of condolance on the death of his Royal Uncle.

Yeſterday evening the body of his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland was opened by Ceſar Hawkins, Eſq; ſerjeant ſurgeon to his Majeſty, Mr. Middleton, &c. in order to be embalmed.

Yeſterday orders were ſent to both Theatres to ſuſpend acting till further notice.

A ſilver mine, it is ſaid, has been diſcovered in North America, which is like to prove of the laſt advantage to this kingdom.

Major Rogers has not yet ſet out for his government in America, notwithſtanding what has been ſaid on that head in the public papers.

Yeſterday diſpatches were received from Com. Palliſſer, commander in chief at Newfoundland; they are ſaid to contain very flagrant inſtances of a breach of treaty by the French.

On Thurſday morning his Grace the Duke of Richmond, Lord George Lenox, and their retinue, embarked at Dover for France.

The circumſtances at and previous to the death of his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland, are variouſly related, but the moſt authentic account ſeems to be as follows: At noon his Royal Highneſs was at court, after which he dined with Lord Albemarle in Arlington ſtreet, and drank tea with the Princeſs of Brunſwick at St. James's. He then went to his own houſe in Upper Groſvenor ſtreet, in order to be preſent at a council, which had been appointed to be held there that evening. As ſoon as he came in he ordered coffee; and when it was brought, he complained of a pain in his ſhoulder, and had a very cold and remarkable ſhivering fit. He ſaid he felt himſelf much worſe than ever he was before, and deſired to be laid on the couch, which was accordingly done, and Sir Charles Wintringham, the King's phyſician, was ſent for; who being come, it is ſaid, adviſed bleeding. Here the reports are a little puzzling; for one ſays, that his Royal Highneſs was let blood; and another ſays the contrary. It is however certain that the ſhivering fit returned; and that in about 20 minutes after, his Royal Highneſs departed this life, without making the leaſt ſign or motion. This was paſt ſeven o'clock. It is added, that the Duke of Newcaſtle and the Earl of Northington, were come to his Royal Highneſs's, in order to aſſiſt at the intended council.

It is not yet publickly known for certain, whether his Royal Highneſs has left any will.

It is thought by many people that the remainder of certain difficulties to Mr. Pitt's coming into the Adminiſtration will be ſhortly removed; and that this country will be once more made happy by the wiſdom and ſpirit of his counſels.

All reports, as well as hopes of Lord N-------d's being to enjoy an eminent public ſtation, it is ſaid, are now entirely at an end.

Some perſons affect to give out that a certain very unpopular nobleman now ſeriouſly begins to think of retiring.—This tale has often been given out.

Letters from Hanover ſay, that the Right Honorable the Counteſs of Yarmouth, died worth half a million ſterling.

Nov. 5. We are told, that the expediency of allowing American repreſentatives in an auguſt aſſembly, has been the ſubject of ſeveral late important councils at the weſt end of the town.

There are at this time three blue ribbons vacant, viz. the Duke of Cumberland's, the Duke of Devonſhire's and the Duke of Dorſet's. Alſo three red ribbons, viz. the Duke of Cumberland's, the Duke of Bolton's, and Sir Charles Howard's. Except the Sovereign, Lord Bute is the only perſons who is a knight companion of two orders.

The diſorder that ended the life of one of the beſt of Princes, was called the Somnoſency.

Laſt night a privy council was held at the right hon. Mr. Secretary Conway's on affairs of importance; and this day there was another grand council at the Cockpit, Whitehall.

From the LONDON GAZETTE.

Lord Chamberlin's office, Nov. 2. Orders for the court's going into mourning on ſunday the 10th inſt. for his late Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland, viz. The ladies to wear black ſilk or velvet, fringed or plain linen, black or white fans, and white gloves. The men to wear black, full trimmed, fringed or plain linen, black ſwords and buckles.

It is ſaid his Royal Highneſs the Duke of York will be appointed chief of the council of Regency, in the room of his deceaſed uncle.

The conſumptive caſe of his royal highneſs Prince Frederick William his Majeſty's youngeſt brother, is attributed to a too quick growth.

Nov. 7. This morning a little after three o'clock a moſt terrible fire broke out at a Barber's the end of Biſhopſgate ſtreet, near Cornhill, which conſum'd upwards of a hundred houſes.

It now rumoured that an auguſt aſſembly will be ſummoned to meet ſeveral weeks ſooner than was expected, on affairs of great importance.

It is ſaid that the grand council ſummoned to meet this day at St. James's, is to take under conſideration ſome important advices from America.

Col. Barre is now talked of to ſucceed Thomas Pitt, Eſq; at the board of Admiralty.

Nov. 9. It is expected that the reduced officers of his Majeſty's marine corps, will in a few days be ordered to join their reſpective diviſions at Portſmouth, Plymouth, and Chatham. And we hear all ſhips of war, in commiſſion, are to take on board their full complement of marines, as in time of war.

It is confidently ſaid, that the French have actually 15,000 of the beſt troops cantoned along their coaſts, oppoſite to England, and that they continue to augment the ſame, but with what view is not known.

In yeſterday's North-American packet was receiv'd a News-paper, under the title of "The Conſtitutional Courant, &c. It contains ſeveral Eſſays relating to the Stamp Act, all of which are merely loyal, and by the Introduction ſeem to have been refuſed by the Printers of the regular News-papers at New-York. Is has an emblematical Head-Piece of a Snake or Serpent cut into ſeveral pieces, on each of which are the initial Letters of the Names of the ſeveral Colonies; and over it are the Words Join or Die, in large Letters.

BOSTON, January 16.

By a Gentleman from Pownalborough, we are informed of the following Accidents happening at the Eaſtern Parts of this Province laſt Tueſday ſe'nnight, viz.

Mr. Elijah Packard (formerly Miniſter at Scituate) was froze to death in walking over the Neck from Kennebeck to Sheepſcut.---Mr. Henry Lear, and one Mr. Renken, an aged Man, fell thro' the Ice on Kennebeck River, and were drowned.-----Two Indians were found burnt to death in their camp near Fort Halifax.---Alſo, Two Negro Men fiſhing in an open Boat near Falmouth, were froze to death.

SOUTH-CAROLINA.

In the Commons Houſe of Aſſembly, the 29th of Nov. 1765.

THIS Houſe, ſincerely devoted, with the warmeſt Sentiments of Affection and Duty to his Majeſty's Perſon and Government; inviolably attached to the preſent happy Eſtabliſhment of the Proteſtant Succeſſion; and with Minds deeply impreſſed by a Senſe of the preſent and impending Misfortunes on the People of this Province; eſteem it their indiſpenſable Duty to their Conſtituents, to themſelves, and to Poſterity, to come to the following RESOLUTIONS, reſpecting their moſt eſſential Rights and Liberties, and the Grievances under which they labour, by Reaſon of ſeveral late Acts of Parliament.

I. RESOLVED, That his Majeſty's Subjects in this Province owe the ſame Allegiance to the Crown of Great-Britain, that is due from his Subjects born there.

II. That his Majeſty's liege Subjects in this Province, are entitled to all the inherent Rights and Liberties of his natural born Subjects within the Kingdom of Great-Britain.

III. That the Inhabitants of this Province appear alſo to be confirmed in all the Rights afore-mentioned, not only by their Charter, but by an Act of Parliament of the 13th of George II.

IV. That it is inſeparably eſſential to the Freedom of a People and the undoubted Right of Engliſhmen, that no Taxes be impoſed on them but with their own Conſent, given Perſonally, or by their Repreſentatives.

V. That the People of this Province are not, and, from their local Circumſtances, cannot be, repreſented in the Houſe of Commons of Great-Britain. And farther, That, in the Opinion of this Houſe, the ſeveral Powers of Legiſlation in America were conſtituted, in ſome Meaſure, upon the Apprehenſion of this Impracticability.

VI. That the only Repreſentatives of the People of this Province, are Perſons choſen therein by themſelves; and that no Taxes ever have been, or can be, conſtitutionally impoſed on them, but by the Legiſlature of this Province.

VII. That all Supplies to the Crown being free Gifts of the People, it is unreaſonable and inconſiſtent with the Principles and Spirit of the Britiſh Conſtitution, for the People of Great-Britain to grant to his Majeſty the Property of the People of this Province.

VIII. That Trials by Jury, is the inherent and invaluable Right of every Britiſh Subject in this Province.

IX. That the late Act of Parliament, intituled "An "Act for granting and applying certain Stamp Duties, and "other Duties, on the Britiſh Colonies and Plantations in "America," &c. by impoſing Taxes on the Inhabitants of this Province; and the ſaid Act, and ſeveral other Acts, by extending the Juriſdiction of the Courts of Admiralty, beyond its antient Limits; have a manifeſt Tendency to ſubvert the Rights and Liberties of the People of this Province.

X. That the Duties impoſed, by ſeveral late Acts of Parliament, on the People of this Province; will be extremely burthenſome and grievous, and from the Scarcity of Gold and Silver, the Payment of them abſolutely impracticable.

XI. That, as the Profits of the Trade of the People of this Province ultimately center in Great-Britain, to pay for the Manufactures which they are obliged to take from thence, they eventually contribute very largely to all the Supplies granted there to the Crown: And beſides, as every Individual in this Province, is as advantageous at leaſt to Great-Britain, as if he were in Great-Britain; and as they pay their full Proportion of Taxes for the Support of his Majeſty's Government here (which Taxes are equal, or more, in Proportion to our Eſtates, than thoſe paid by our Fellow-Subjects in Great Britain upon theirs) it is unreaſonable for them to be called upon, to pay any farther Part of the Charges of the Government there.

XII. That the Aſſemblies of this Province have, from Time to Time, whenever Requiſitions have been made by his Majeſty, for carrying on military Operations, either for the Defence of themſelves, or that of America in general, moſt chearfully and liberally contributed their full Proportion, of Men and Money, for theſe Services.

XII. That, tho' the Repreſentatives of the People of this Province had equal Aſſurances and Reaſons, with thoſe of the other Provinces, to expect a Proportional Reimburſement, of thoſe immenſe Charges they had been at, for his Majeſty's Service, in the late War, out of the ſeveral parliamentary Graces for the Uſe of America; yet, they have obtained only their Proportion of the firſt of thoſe Grants; and the ſmall Sum of Two Hundred and Eighty-five Pounds Sterling received ſince.

XIV. That notwithſtanding, whenever his Majeſty's Service ſhall, for the future, require the Aids of the Inhabitants of this Province, and they ſhall be called upon for that Purpoſe in a conſtitutional Way, it ſhall be their indiſpenſible Duty, moſt chearfully and liberally, to grant to his Majeſty, their Proportion, according to their Ability, of Men and Money, for the Defence, Security, and other public Services of the Britiſh American Colonies.

XV. That the Reſtrictions on the Trade of the People of this Province, together with the late Duties and Taxes impoſed on them by Acts of Parliment, muſt neceſſarily greatly leſſen the Conſumption of Britiſh Manufactures amongſt them.

XVI. That the Increaſe, Proſperity, and Happineſs of the People of this Province, depend on the full and free Enjoyment of their Rights and Liberties; and on an affectionate Intercourſe with Great-Britain.

XVII. That the Readineſs of the Colonies to comply with his Majeſty's Requiſitions, as well as their Inability to bear additional Taxes, beyond what is laid on them by their reſpective Legiſlatures, is apparent, from the ſeveral Grants of Parliament, to reimburſe them Part of the heavy Expences they were at in the late War in America.

XVIII. That it is the Right the Britiſh Subjects of this Province, to petition the King, or either Houſe of Parliament.

ORDERED, that theſe VOTES and RESOLUTIONS be printed, and made public, that a juſt Senſe of Liberty, and the firm Sentiments of the Loyalty, of the Repreſentatives of the People of this Province, may be known to their Conſtituents, and tranſmitted to Poſterity.

BY ORDER OF THE HOUSE.
PETER MANIGAULT, Speaker.

In the Commons Houſe of Aſſembly, the 29th Day of November, 1765.
THOMAS FARR, jun. Clerk

WHEREAS purſuant to an Advertiſement, publiſhed in the public News-Paper of this Colony, that Gideon Granger, Warham Peaſe and Martin Kellogg, all of Suffield, in the County of Hartford, Inſolvent Debtors, who have ſignified by Writings under their Hands, with the Major Part of their Creditors, to the Hon. Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, for the County of Hartford, and One of the Aſſiſtant Judges of ſaid Court, that they are willing to ſurrender up all their Effects, for the Benefit of their Creditors, and have deſired that Truſtees may be forthwith appointed. And we the Subſcribers have been appointed accordingly.

Public Notice is hereby given to all the Creditors of the ſaid Granger, Peaſe, and Kellogg, to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. Elijah Kent, Innholder in Suffield, on Monday the 10th of February next, at 2 o'Clock in the Afternoon, to proceed in ſuch Way and Manner as the Law of this Colony directs, entituled, "An Act for preventing Frauds in Debtors, and for the ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors for the Uſe of their Creditors."

SAMUEL KENT,
SETH AUSTIN,
GRAVES LOOMIS,
Truſtees for Gideon Granger.
SAMUEL KENT,
MARTIN ASHLEY,
JEDEDIAH BLISS,
Truſtees for Warham Peaſe.
JOSEPH PEASE,
SAMUEL KENT,
Truſtees for Martin Kellogg.

To be ſold at the Heart and Crown, Hartford:
Ames, Hutchins, and Ellſworth's Almanacks.

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, January 27, 1766. No. 57.

LONDON, November 5.

BY an Act of the Firſt of his preſent Majeſty, for the Support of his Houſhold, the ſum of 723,000l. is ordained to be paid out of the aggregate fund, eſtabliſhed by the firſt of George II. during the continuance of 50,000l. to the Princeſs Dowager of Wales, 15,000 l. to the late Duke of Cumberland, and 12,000l. to the Princeſs Amelia. By the death of his Royal Highneſs this 15,000l. becomes now part of the Civil Liſt for ſupport of his Majeſty's Houſhold. It was granted him by an Act of the Twelfth of the late King. By an Act of the Nineteenth of George II. the ſum of 25,000l. was ſettled on his Royal Highneſs, and the Heirs Male of his Body, for the ſignal Services done by him to his Country: This was alſo made payable out of the aggregate fund; and which by his Royal Highneſs's death, without Heir, Male, is ſunk, and becomes a part of the public Revenues.

The Friends of the preſent adminiſtration ſay, that the death of his royal highneſs the Duke of Cumberland will not make the leaſt alteration in their ſyſtem.

Nov. [illegible] We [illegible] aſſured that the gentlemen who opened the body of his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland, found in the Right Ventricle of the Brains Coagulation of extravaſated Blood, about the ſize of a Pidgeon's Egg. All the noble parts were found and good, except an Oſſification of the Membrance, that divides the lobes of the Brain.

His Royal Highneſs has been afflicted with an Hydrocele in the Scrotum, from which a quart of water had been taken.

On the whole, it is apprehended that the death of his royal highneſs was owing to a rupture of ſome blood veſſel in the Brain.

The [illegible] Cumberland in the Rangerſhip of Windſor Foreſt.

We are informed, that a reputable Merchant Weſt of Temple-bar, will clear by the enſuing Mourning upwards of 10,000 l. on account of his having, with all his Servants, ſet out on Thurſday Night laſt, and bought up by contract, in the Country, an immenſe Quantity of Goods, ſome Hours before they could poſſibly have received any News from London.

Nov. 7. When the melancholy news of the Duke of Cumberland's death reached Windſor town, it was received with the utmoſt concern by all ranks of people, and eſpecially by the labourers on his Royal Highneſs's works, who cried out they had loſt their greateſt benefactor. It is ſaid, that when a certain oeconomical nobleman lately obſerved to the Duke, that he could very well do without ſuch number of workmen, who coſt him a prodigious ſum, his Royal Highneſs replied, but can theſe poor people do without me? An anſwer worthy the benevolent heart that gave utterance to it.

When a great perſonage was aſked, very lately, concerning the diſorder he had the unhappineſs to labour under, the anſwer was, that he feared it would be impoſſible for him, in his then ſituation, to laſt many days, and added, 'had it been my fate to have been the ſon of a poor man, I ſhould in all probability, have long ſince recovered.'

Notwithſtanding the late orders that have appeared concerning the court-mourning to be worn on the preſent melancholy occaſion, a great number of perſons have given direction for the deepeſt mourning; which they are determined to wear, to ſhew their reſpect to the memory of ſo great a man as the Duke of Cumberland, to whoſe eminent ſervices the Britiſh nation owes, in a great meaſure, its preſent happy conſtitution, and whoſe death cannot be too much lamented by all true friends and lovers of their country.

His Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland obſerved an uniform regular method with his labouring people at Windſor; he never gave them more pay than others of the Nobility and Gentry in the neighbourhood, but rather leſs, as he ſaid that would encourage other labourers to raiſe their wages; but this he ſufficiently made up, by ordering them every day table-beer at noon, bread and cheeſe, and generally twice a week a hot dinner gratis. This was what his Royal Highneſs called Old Engliſh Hoſpitality.

The reports are various concerning the tendency of the late very frequent councils at Whitehall and St. James's; and politicians will now have it, that an univerſal change of men and meaſures is actually under conſideration.

LONDON, Nov. 9.

On Friday morning the judgment obtained by Mr. Dryden Leach in the Court of Common Pleas, in conſequence of his verdict found at Guildhall in December 1763, againſt Meſſ. Money, Watſon, and Blackmore, three of his Majeſty's Meſſengers, (who entered his houſe, and arreſted and impriſoned him, under a general warrant iſſued by the Earl of Halifax, late one of his Majeſty's principal Secretaries of State, as the Printer of the original North-Briton, No. 45.) was affirmed by the unanimous opinion of the Court of King's Bench, upon a Writ of Error and Bill of Exceptions brought by the Defendant.

By this important deciſion, Mr. Leach now recovers his 400l. damages, with all coſts of ſuit.

This is the firſt final determination of the numerous actions which have been commenced againſt the Secretaries of State and Meſſengers, &c.

There are ſeveral other cauſes which depended upon the fate of Mr. Leach's, and conſequently the reſpective Plaintiffs will now receive their damages and coſts.—The cauſe between Mr. Wilkes and Mr. Wood it is apprehended will be finiſhed this term.

A very popular Speaker in a certain auguſt Aſſembly is ſaid to have refuſed a joint Vice Treaſurerſhip of Ireland; and it is added, that he generouſly declared he never would [illegible] done for his Safety.

It is rumoured that certain late French memorials have been couched in a language, which but too plainly denotes the opinion this crafty court entertains of our preſent diſtracted ſituation, both at home and abroad.

A petition to his Majeſty is ſigned by Mr. Garrick, and all the principal Actors of Drury-lane houſe, in favour of the unfortunate Turbot, now under ſentence of death in Newgate, for ſtealing a pint mug. This unhappy young man was ſon to the Comedian of that name, who formerly played at Drury-lane Theatre; and was, it ſeems, led into this his firſt fact, by the preſſing neceſſities of a moſt unutterable diſtreſs, his wife being juſt delivered of a child, and he not only out of all manner of buſineſs, but without a ſixpence in the world, to furniſh either of the miſerable wretches with the ſmalleſt ſuſtenance in ſo affecting a ſituation.

A Gentleman of the higheſt theatrical eminence having made great intereſt to obtain his Majeſty's pardon (which has been moſt graciouſly granted) for Turbott, under ſentence of death for ſtealing a ſilver Cup; a perſon aſked one of the Players, remarkable for his Drollery, what the delinquent was condemn'd for; to which the Actor replied, "Only for taking a Cup too much, which as my Friend Joe "Miller has obſerved on a like occaſion, has been the caſe "of many an honeſt Fellow."

Several large wagers are laid at the weſt end of the town that ſome conſiderable changes in the miniſtry will take place before the meeting of the parliament.

Laſt Night about eleven o'clock, the remains of his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland were removed to the Prince's Chamber, adjoining to the Houſe of Peers. St. Paul's bell began about ten, and continued during the removal of the corpſe.

A Ceremonial for the private Interment of his late Royal Highneſs the Duke of CUMBERLAND.

Drums and Trumpets
Sounding a ſolemn March, with Banners attached to the Trumpets and Drums, and adorned with proper Military Trophies; the Drums to be covered with Black.
Knights Marſhals Men
Gentlemen Servants to his Royal Highneſs.

Page of the Preſence.
Page of the Back Stairs.
Pages of Honour.
Phyſician.
Chaplains.
Equerries.
Officers at Arms.
Comptroller of his Royal Highneſs's Houſhold. | Treaſurer of his Royal Highneſs's Houſhold.
An Herald.
Lord Chamberlain of his Majeſty's Houſhold.
An Officer of Arms.
The Gentleman of the Horſe to his Royal Highneſs.
The Coronet,
A Gent. Uſher. | borne by a King of Arms | A Gent. Uſher.
The BODY,
Covered with a black Velvet Pall, adorned with eight Eſcutcheons, under a Canopy of black Velvet, born by eight General Officers.
The Pall to be ſupported by four Barons.
A Gentleman Uſher. Garter. A Gentleman Uſher.
Supporter, a Duke. | The Chief Mourner, a Duke. | Supporter, a Duke.
The Train born by a Baronet.
Ten Earls Aſſiſtants.
A Gentleman Uſher.
The Lords of the Bed-Chamber.
Grooms of the Bed-Chamber.
Yeoman of the Guard.

We are informed that one and twenty pieces of artillery are drawn into the park, to fire minute guns during the proceſſion and ceremony this evening, which are a greater number of pieces than have been heretofore ordered upon the like occaſion.

We hear likewiſe that three regiments of foot guards are to be drawn up in St. Margaret's church-yard, to fire volleys on a ſignal given, as ſoon as the body is depoſited.

That minute guns are to be fired at the Tower.

And that the eight General Officers, who are to bear the Canopy in the proceſſion, are to be in their uniforms, having crapes in their hats and on their arms, and ſaſhes covered with crape.

The outward coffin in which the remains of the Duke of Cumberland are placed is of mahogany, and meaſures three feet three inches over, and in length ſix feet two inches.

BOSTON, January 16.

Yeſterday the Great and General Court or Aſſembly of the Province of the Maſſachuſetts-Bay met at the Court-Houſe in this Town.

This Morning His Excellency the Governor was pleaſed to make the following SPEECH to both HOUSES, viz.

Gentlemen of the Council, and
Gentlemen of the Houſe of Repreſentatives,

YOU are met together at the uſual Time for opening the Winter Seſſion: I have no immediate Commands from his Majeſty to propoſe to you; nor any thing of myſelf to recommend, but the Diſpatch of the ordinary Buſineſs of the Seſſion with all proper Expedition.

Whenever the Time ſhall come when my Service can be made acceptable to you, it will not be wanting. At preſent I have only to deſire, that, in framing ſuch Matters as muſt be ſent to me for my Conſent, you will duly conſider the Nature of my Office and the Obligations I am under not to diſpenſe with the Duties of it.

FRA: BERNARD.

JANUARY 23.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman of great Credit in London, to a Friend in this Town, dated November 1765.

"We have now the Pleaſure to acquaint you our new Miniſtry have laid a Plan for retrieving you from the Oppreſſion the old Miniſtry laid you under, which has rendered them odious to the People here; and a few Months will quite change the Face of Affairs, for they are reſolved not only to take off the Stamp-Duty and Duty on Molaſſes, but to give you ſeveral poſitive Advantages."--

An Account from England about the ſame Date, ſays, That They at Home have adopted a new Syſtem with reſpect to America, they will give all Indulgence to Trade, the Stam-Act they will in ſome Reſpects relax, but will not repeal.

It was ſtrongly reported in England we ſhould very ſoon be relieved from the late grievous Impoſitions, and that Meaſures the moſt ſalutary and beneficial to the Colonies had been reſolved upon, in ſome important Councils at the Weſt-End of the Town; as a London Paper mentions.

Monday laſt ſailed the Brig Lydia, Capt. Scot, for London, in whom went Paſſengers Mr. William Bowes, of this Town, Merchant, Major Price of the 14th Regiment, and Lieut. Miller of the 45th.

This Morning about ſix o'Clock was felt here a conſiderable Earthquake, the undulatory Motion, was from N. W. to S. E. without any perceptable Noiſe attending.

BOSTON, January 23.

Tueſday laſt a Committee of the Honorable Houſe of Repreſentatives waited on His Excellency the Governor, with the following Meſſage, in anſwer to his Excellency's Speech at the opening of the preſent Seſſion.

May it pleaſe your Excellency,

HAVING conſidered your Speech at the Opening of this Seſſion, the Houſe of Repreſentatives beg Leave to ſay, That they have the utmoſt Reaſon to confide in the paternal Care of our moſt gracious Sovereign, who ever makes the Happineſs of ALL his Subjects the great Rule of his Government.--That, as it is their indiſpenſible Duty, ſo it is their fixed Determination, in every Part of their Conduct, to make the Honor of His Majeſty, and the Welfare of His Subjects of this Province, the grand Objects of their Attention.--That while they perſevere in ſuch Steps, as have a manifeſt Tendency to promote theſe moſt valuable Purpoſes, they cannot poſſibly counteract the Nature and Deſign of your Office, nor interfere with your Obligations not to diſpenſe with the Duties of it: And that they have therefore juſt Reaſon to expect your Countenance and Conſent when it ſhall be neceſſary.

We thank you, SIR, for the kind Aſſurance you are pleaſed to give us, That "whenever the Time ſhall come "when your Service can be acceptable to us, it ſhall not "be wanting;" and we only add, That ſince his Majeſty was pleaſed to honor you with the Goverment of this his Province, we have never known the Time when your Excellency's Service would not have been very acceptable to us.

AT a legal Meeting of the Freeholders and other Inhabitants of the Town of Boſton, at Faneuil-Hall, on Wedneſday the 18th of December 1765, and continued by Adjournment to January 16, 1766; the following Votes paſs'd, viz.

WHEREAS the Inferior Court of Common Pleas for this County, together with Court of Probate, is now open, and Buſineſs going on as uſual,----VOTED UNANIMOUSLY, That the Repreſentatives of the Town be and hereby are inſtructed to uſe their utmoſt Endeavours in the General Aſſembly at the preſent Seſſion, that Meaſures may be taken that Juſtice be alſo duly adminiſtered in all the Counties throughout the Province; and that Enquiry may be made into the Reaſons why the Courſe of Juſtice in this Province has been in any Meaſure obſtructed.

It is further VOTED UNANIMOUSLY, That their Repreſentatives be alſo inſtructed to uſe their Influence in the General Court, that proper Enquiry may be made into the Behaviour of any Perſon or Perſons who by their Miſconduct have either contributed towards the Difficulties we labour under reſpecting the Stamp-Act, or have baſely neglected to uſe their upright and beſt Endeavours to relieve us from thoſe Difficulties.

From the PORTSMOUTH GAZETTE.

The Sons of Liberty being diſpleaſed with the Conduct of Mr. Meſerve, our Stamp-Maſter, and having Deliberately conſulted upon ſuch Meaſures as would beſt ſilence their Fears and uneaſineſs, and to render a future Operation to the Stamp-Act entirely ineffectual in this Province, met yeſterday at 3 o'Clock, and ſending a ſelect Committee to let Mr. Meſſerve know that a Reſignation and Delivery of his Commiſſion was expected, and he attend with it in Perſon upon the Parade near the Court Houſe in this Town: He paid immediate Reſpect thereto, and waited on the Sons of Liberty upon the Spot, who now diſtinguiſhed themſelves to be no other than the principal Inhabitants of the Town and the Repreſentatives of the Country. After a previous Introduction on the Occaſion of their aſſembling, Mr. Meſſerve reſigned his Commiſſion and Inſtructions, containing 56 Pages, which being ſufficiently expoſed to general View, were then incloſed and ſealed with proper Directions. The following Reſignation was then read, to which Mr. Meſſerve ſubſcribed on the Drum Head.

To the reſpectable Inhabitants of the Town of
NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

GENTLEMEN,

I Am very ſorry to find any Uneaſineſs ſtill remaining with you to my Prejudice: I thought ever ſince my Arrival from England, I had given repeated public Aſſurances that I would not in any reſpect make uſe of my Deputation as Stamp-Maſter for this Province; but as ſundry reports have been propagated that has raiſed ſome Jealouſies in your Minds, I do now again in this moſt public and ſolemn Manner, declare to you, that I never will directly or indirectly, by myſelf or any one under me, take any Meaſures for enforcing the Stamp-Act, and that my Deputation ſhall remain entirely uſeleſs, and I am ready to depoſit the ſame in the Hands of any Gentleman you will appoint to receive it; and this I ſincerely declare to be my fixed Reſolve, and do it voluntarily without any Equivocation or mental Reſervation whatever--and I deſire you would re eſtabliſh me in your Eſteem, and not rank me among the unworthy Members of Society.

GEORGE MESSERVE.

Portſmouth, Jan. 9, 1766.

After this he was Sworn to abide by that Declaration and that he would deliver any future Commiſſion, as Stamp Maſter that he ſhould ever receive from England, in the ſame Manner as he had now done; upon which he received three Cheers; then a Pacquet was delivered unto Capt. --------who ſails the firſt fair Wind; who was alſo ſworn to the faithful Delivery of the ſame at ſome Poſt-Office in England, on which three Cheers were again given; and theſe Sons of Freedom, ſatisfied with their own Conduct, retired to their reſpective Places of Abode, without the leaſt Diſturbance or Injury offered to any Perſon in the Town: To perpetuate the memorable Event, a Flag with the Words in large Letters, LIBERTY, PROPERTY, AND NO STAMPS, wrote thereon, was the Standard on this Occaſion, and is now fixed near LIBERTY BRIDGE, to ſhow the utter Deteſtation which an Injured People have of any Perſon who would dare to attempt to protect his Property at the Expence of his Liberty: Such infamous Deſigns, by this noble Struggle is now rendered, at leaſt for a Time utterly abortive; and may the ſame patriotic Spirit of Liberty, which now appears in the free born Sons of America, ever prevail againſt all ſuch arbitrary Meaſures as are incompatible with their conſtitutional Rights and Privileges.

AND ALL THE PEOPLE SHALL SAY AMEN.

At a Meeting of the reſpectable Populace, held at Lyme, in the County of New-London, on the Second Tueſday of January A. D. 1766.

The following Reſolves are unanimouſly agreed to, and to be inſerted in the New-London Gazette.

1. THAT we have an inviolable Right by the God of Nature, as well as by the Engliſh Conſtitution, (and is unalienable even by ourſelves) to thoſe Privileges and Immunities which by the Execution of the Stamp Act we ſhall be forever ſtript and deprived.

2. That we are, unalterably fixt to defend our aforeſaid Rights and Immunities by every lawful Way and Means, againſt every unjuſt Attack.

3. That our Averſion and Threats to any Perſon in public Character, or others in the Colony, is and ſhall be only on Account and according as they are more or leſs engaged and active, directly, or indirectly to carry into Execution the deteſtable and oppreſſive Stamp Act, which would be an indelible Stain to England's Glory, and perpetual Chains to American Liberty.

4. That ſince Mr. Ingerſol has made a public and ſolemn Reſignation of his Office of Stamp Diſtributor, and confirmed the ſame by Oath (as is inſerted in the Connecticut Courant of the 20th Inſtant) as alſo aſſurances by private Letters, though not in every Reſpect as we ſhould be glad to have heard; and tho' we had Reaſon heretofore to diſtruſt his Veracity, yet willing to extend our Charity as far as poſſible, do rely on, and confide in his Veracity that he will preſerve his ſaid Oath and Engagement inviolate.

5. That whereas Mr. Ingerſoll has reſigned as aboveſaid, no Copies of his Letters or Papers are deſired by the People of New-London County, but that the Gentleman in whoſe Hands they are, take a Copy of the whole, and keep for the Uſe of the Public, and return the Originals as ſoon as may be.

6. That whereas it is believed that the Stamp Papers for this Colony are hovering on our Coaſt on board the Cygnet Man of War ſtationed at this Colony, it is reſolved that the Sons of Liberty keep a vigilant Watch, and on any Attempt to Land the ſame, we engage our united Aſſiſtance to take and ſecure them for His Majeſty's Uſe.

7. That whereas we conceive the general Safety and Privileges of all the Colonies to depend on a firm Union in the ſupport of the Britiſh Conſtitution, we therefore do Declare we will do our utmoſt to reſiſt all ſuch Enemies to His Majeſty and the Britiſh Conſtitution as ſhall attempt to diſpoſſeſs the Colonies of their moſt ſacred Rights, and will be ready on all Occaſions to aſſiſt our Fellow Subjects in the neighbouring Provinces to repel all violent Attempts which may be made to Subvert their & our Liberties.

8. That Major Durkee in the County of New-London, be deſired to correſpond with the Sons of Liberty in the neighbouring Colonies, and from Time to Time inform them of the Sentiments of the Populace here, and receive and publiſh from them ſuch Things as ſhall be tho't of general Concern; and that the Populace in Windham and the other Counties are deſired to appoint Perſons for the ſame Purpoſe.

9. That the Inhabitants of this Colony are deſired to be cautious in believing, or adhering to any Inſinuations from deſigning Perſons, who, at Times, have endeavoured to caſt Contempt, and put falſe Conſtructions on the Meeting of the Populace, which are formed and kept up with righteous Intentions, & have had the moſt ſalutary Effects.

10. Whereas the adjacent Colonies proceed in Buſineſs without Regard to the Stamp Act; 'tis earneſtly deſired that the Civil Authority of this Colony do follow their laudable Example, as the Delay of Buſineſs will be conſtrued an implicit Acknowledgement of the Validity of the Stamp Act, and a practical Contradiction of the principal Argument urged in our Petitions at Home, for the Repeal of the ſame; and for that Purpoſe, the Eyes of all are on the Superior Court of this Colony, to give the Example to the Subordinate Authority.

11. That another Meeting of the reſpectable Body be held at the Meeting Houſe in the ſecond Society in Pariſh on the laſt Tueſday of February next.

TO THE PRINTER.

GOOD GOD, what are you doing! Ingerſoll. When the Clergy undertake to be Regulators of the State, What may we not expect!

Verily, Verily, I ſay unto them, "What doſt thou "here, Elijah?"

A Remark, on the Remarks on the Times, COURANT. No. 55.

Hartford, January 27th, 1766.

THIS may Certify the Creditors of Mr. Samuel Cole, of Farmington, an inſolvent Debtor, that a legal Aſſignment of ſaid Samuel's Eſtate is made to us the Subſcribers, authoriſed to diſpoſe of the ſame according to Law; and that therefore, they are hereby deſired to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Capt. Solomon Cowls, in Farmington, on Thurſday the 25th of February next, to proceed on Buſineſs relative thereto.

SOLOMON WHITMAN,
JOHN COLEMAN,
JAMES WADSWORTH, } Truſtees.

Hartford, January 27, 1766.

A Legal Aſſignment of the Eſtate of Samuel Holman of Hartford, an Inſolvent Debtor, is made to the Subſcribers, who are appointed Truſtees, to diſpoſe of the ſame as the Law Directs. This therefore is to notify all the ſaid Holman's Creditors, to meet at his Dwelling-Houſe in Hartford, on Tueſday, the 18th Day of February next, to proceed in Buſineſs relative to ſuch Aſſignment.

RUSSEL WOODBRIDGE,
JOSEPH MAKEN,
JOHN COLEMAN, } Truſtees.

Colony of Connecticut,
Hartford County. ſſ. } Middletown, Jan. 23d. 1766.

WHEREAS purſuant to an Act, or Law of ſaid Colony, entituled "An Act to prevent Fraud in Debtors, and for the ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors," &c. Thomas Burr of Hartford, in ſaid County, an Inſolvent Debtor, in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors, in Number and Value, hath exhibited his Petition, with an Account of the Sums by him owing, and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, of ſaid County, and SETH WETMORE, Eſq; Juſtice of the Peace, and Quorum, for ſaid County, praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of, for the Uſe of ſaid Creditors.

Public Notice is hereby given, to all the Creditors of ſaid Thomas Burr, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mrs. Abigail Shalor, Innholder in Middletown, in ſaid County, on the Eighteenth of February next, to ſhew Reaſon (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of ſaid Thomas Burr ſhould not be made, and his Perſon diſcharged, according to the Regulation of ſaid Act.

To the Printer of the PUBLIC ADVERTISER.

SIR, Nov. 4.

IF any Thing could be wondered at in Age of ſo univerſal Corruption as this is, any thinking Perſon muſt be ſurpriſed that the late Miniſtry ſhould be able to find any Human Being ſo venal, as not only to juſtify their Conduct, but wiſh the nation again under an Adminiſtration which has brought us to the very Brink of entire Ruin.

After we had by the late War deſtroyed the naval Force of our Enemies, poſſeſſed ourſelves of the Sugar Iſlands, and excluded them from the Fiſheries in North-America, by which they were deprived of what afforded them ſome Millions ſterling yearly, and 15 or 16,000 Sailors, they gave all back again to our national Enemies, after increaſing the Debt of the Nation 60 Millions ſterling, and throwing away the Lives of more than 100,000 of our braveſt Men in this ſucceſsful War, without getting any Thing from France, we were not poſſeſſed of, worth our Acceptance (only Port Mahon, for which we returned them Belleiſle) except their agreeing to withdraw their Troops from the Neighbourhood of certain foreign Dominions, with which we had no Concern.

To crown this extraordinary Treaty of Peace, they gave back all thoſe valuable Acquiſitions, which put it out of the power of France ever to diſturb us, before that they on their Part performed any Part of the ſaid Treaty, bad as it was. Dunkirk remains to this day not demoliſhed, the Canada Bills not paid, all the Money beſtowed on the French Priſoners not repaid, and the French have been making Encroachments contrary to the Treaty both on the Coaſts of Africa and Newfoundland; one ſhould think that it required very little common ſenſe to have kept theſe our Conqueſts and Pledges of the Performance on the Part of France, but ſo like Men deſtitute of Reaſon did they behave, that they took a French Promiſe for ſufficient Security, and gave them an Opportunity to break it by making them as powerful as ever, and ſinking their Country in 60 Millions more Debt......They acted the ſame Way, like Children, with Spain, in demoliſhing the Fortifications we had, to defend our Logwood-Cutters in the Bay of Honduras; ſo that the Plan they have gone on was to raiſe the Power of France, and to truſt their Country and its Trade to the Mercy of its Enemies. And when the Merchants and Traders in the Fiſhery of North-America complained of the French Encroachments, and offered to prove them before the Houſe of Commons, they refuſed to hear the Proof, being reſolved, it ſeems, to bear every thing that the French ſhould think proper to impoſe.

They in the ſame Manner diſregarded the Repreſentations from North-America, with Regard to the utter Ruin of their Trade, by ſending Ships of War as Guarda Coſtas, to prevent their being able to get Money either to carry on Trade, or to clear their Ground, or to remit Money to pay for Britiſh Manufactures; and to ſhew the Uniformity of their Proceedings no ſooner had they deprived them of their Money and Trade, than they impoſed Taxes upon them by a Variety of Stamp-Duties, without the Conſent of their Aſſemblies, who by their Charters are expreſly empowered to raiſe Taxes in the ſame Manner that the Houſe of Commons do in Ireland, that is with the Conſent of their Governors, only ſubject to the Review of his Majeſty's Council here.

By thoſe Schemes, not only the Riches and Trade of our Colonies are ruined, but they are rendered incapable to furniſh themſelves with Britiſh Manufactures, and are forced to employ the Hands employed more profitably in clearing their Grounds, in Manufactures; by which they both are hurt, and there is an End put to the Advantages ariſing to Great-Britain from their Colonies, which is of more Conſequence to us than all our other Trade together.

At the ſame Time that by theſe Steps, theſe wiſe Miniſters have ruined their Country and Colonies, they have thrown all the Caſh that came to us and them into the Hands of France, who now furniſh the Spaniards with all Neceſſaries; ſo that when one looks with Attention into the ſhameful Peace they made, into the Non-Performance of the Articles on the Part of France, into Meaſures followed ſince, to ruin our Colonies and our Trade, and to throw every advantage we and they enjoy into the Hands of France; it appears to be a regular Syſtem formed to make Great-Britain a Province of France, and muſt derive its original from the real Enemies to their Country and the Royal Family, however they have diſtinguiſhed themſelves. Their Scribblers and Flatterers are not aſhamed to ſay in the public Papers, that it is a Pity ſuch able, honeſt Miniſters were diſplaced, tho' had they continued a Year or two longer, they muſt have finiſhed what they aimed at, the Ruin of their Country.

They had effectually deprived us of Spaniſh Money, their next Step, I ſuppoſe, muſt have been the depriving us of any from Portugal, by all which together we ſhould not have had neither Seamen to man our Fleet, nor Money to pay them, and ſo muſt have ſubmitted ourſelves to France, by a Deditio, in the ſame Manner that the Carthaginians did to the Romans, and I ſuppoſe we ſhould have met with the ſame Treatment; for no ſooner did the Deditio take place, than the poor Carthaginians were ordered to deſtroy all their Shipping fit for War, and to render their Harbour unfit for Trade.

They ſo far acted like men of Underſtanding, they knew that a free People would not eaſily ſubmit to their own Deſtruction, and therefore they attempted the Deſtruction of that by their general Warrants, by which, without any Affidavit againſt any Man, every Man's Property lay at the Mercy of every dirty Meſſenger and Bailiff, and when they were complained of in the Houſe of Commons, they had the Aſſurance ſo far to defend them, as to refuſe to condemn them, tho' by them we were in the ſame Situation they are in France, and in every Country where the Sovereign is abſolute.

They likewiſe at the ſame Time had the Modeſty to impoſe Taxes without Conſent of Parliament, at every Time the Parliament was ſitting, by ordering their Underlings to levy 4 per Cent. on ſome of our Sugar Iſlands, the very Thing which ruined King Charles I. ſo that they were betraying their Sovereign, as well as ruining their Country.

To go thro' all their Blunders and Miſmanagements would be too long a Taſk; I ſhall therefore confine myſelf to North-America, about which I ſhall trouble you with my Thoughts in my next, as I would not load you with too much at a Time.

I am, Sir,
Your humble Servant,
An INDEPENDENT WHIG,
Connected with no Party.

◆ ◆ ◆

WHEREAS purſuant to an Advertiſement, publiſhed in the public News-Paper of this Colony, that Gideon Granger, Warham Peaſe and Martin Kellogg, all of Suffield, in the County of Hartford; Inſolvent Debtors, who have ſignified by Writings under their Hands, with the Major Part of their Creditors, to the Hon. Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, for the County of Hartford, and One of the Aſſiſtant Judges of ſaid Court, that they are willing to ſurrender up all their Effects, for the Benefit of their Creditors, and have deſired that Truſtees may be forthwith appointed. And we the Subſcribers have been appointed accordingly.

Public Notice is hereby given to all the Creditors of the ſaid Granger, Peaſe, and Kellogg, to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. Elijah Kent, Innholder in Suffield, on Monday the 10th of February next, at 2 o'Clock in the Afternoon, to proceed in ſuch Way and Manner as the Law of this Colony directs, entituled, "An Act for preventing Frauds in Debtors, and for the ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors for the Uſe of their Creditors."

SAMUEL KENT,
SETH AUSTIN,
GRAVES LOOMIS,
Truſtees for Gideon Granger.
SAMUEL KENT,
MARTIN ASHLEY,
JEDEDIAH BLISS,
Truſtees for Warham Peaſe.
JOSEPH PEASE,
SAMUEL KENT,
Truſtees for Martin Kellogg.

Auguſtus Deley,

Tobaconiſt (from New-York)

HAS lately ſet up his Buſineſs in Hartford, near the North Meeting Houſe, and keeps conſtantly for Sale, ALL Sorts of TOBACCO, fit for Chewing, or Smoaking; ſuch as Hog-Tail, Pig-Tail, and Shagg in Papers, or by the Pound, on the moſt reaſonable Terms.

N. B. Said DELEY takes in, and cutts good Tobacco, on Shares.

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, February 3, 1766. No. 58.

NEWPORT, December 30.

HIS Honor the Governor, the Week before laſt, received a Letter from the Lords Commiſſioners of the Treaſury, dated the 13th of September, requeſting him to obſerve the Conduct, of the Diſtributor of Stamps for this Colony, to be watchful in the Detection of any Fraud or Colluſion, that this Part of his Majeſty's Revenue be faithfully collected, &c. In Conſequence of which his Honor thought it expedient, in the preſent Situation of Things, to convene the Council, which accordingly met on Monday laſt. They were unanimouſly of Opinion, that, as the Government had never been duly informed who was appointed Diſtributor of Stamps for this Colony, it was [illegible] for Auguſtus Johnſon, Eſq; who was ſaid to be appointed to that Office. He accordingly came, and was aſked, Whether he was appointed Diſtributor of Stamps for this Colony, or not. To which he replied, "I received a Letter from the Secretary of the Stamp-Office, in London, adviſing me, that I was appointed by the Lord's of the Treaſury, Diſtributor of Stamps for this Colony, but am not qualified to execute ſaid Office, having received no Commiſſion or Warrant therefor, only I have received Blank Inſtructions for my Directions in ſaid Office."---He was then aſked, Whether he accepted the Office of Diſtributor of Stamps for this Colony, or not. To which he reply'd, "To this I will wait upon your Honors with my Anſwer To-morrow Morning in Writing."

The next Morning the Governor received a Letter from Mr. Johnſon, in which he informed his Honor, That as he had already done that which has been judged ſatisfactory to the Inhabitants of this Colony, and having done nothing ſince reſpecting ſaid Office, it was judged any thing more [illegible] Requiſition in Writing, and promiſed ſuch an Anſwer as would acquit him a Friend to the Colony. A Copy of this Letter was laid before the Council; and Mr. Johnſon being preſent, the Queſtion was repeated, Whether he accepted the Office of Diſtributor of Stamps for this Colony, or not. To which he reply'd, That he deſired a Copy of the Proceedings of the Council, and that he would give an explicit Anſwer in Writing that Afternoon. A Copy was thereupon delivered to him. In the Afternoon the Governor received a Letter from Mr. Johnſon, which was to this Effect. That he was nominated to the Office of Diſtributor of Stamps for this Colony, without his Privity, but upon finding that his attempting to execute ſaid Office would be diſagreeable to the Inhabitants, he has ſigned a Paper, purporting, that he would not execute ſaid Office without the Conſent of the People, and atteſted to the ſame, and which Engagement he was determined ſtrictly to adhere to.

The Evening of the ſame Day, ſome of the Sons of Liberty underſtanding that Mr. Johnſon had not made ſo clear an Anſwer as they might have expected, (conſidering a former Paper he had ſigned, and an Oath made in Auguſt laſt) and ſuſpecting that he ſtill had an Inclination to hold the Office, ſo odious to the Inhabitants of this Colony, went to his Houſe, to inſiſt upon an Anſwer in plain Terms, but he could not be found, and it afterwards appeared, that he had gone on board one of the Men of War in the Harbour. The next Day, in the Afternoon, Mr. Johnſton came on Shore, and made a full Renunciation of his Office as follows.

WHEREAS I the Subſcriber am appointed Diſtributor of the Stamped Papers for this Colony; I do hereby reſign and renounce the ſaid Office, and do promiſe and declare, That I will never act in the ſame, either by myſelf or Deputies, directly or indirectly, nor take any one Meaſure or Step whatever, to introduce the Stamp Act (ſo odious to the Inhabitants of America) into this Colony. Witneſs my Hand, in Newport, this 24th December, 1765.

A. JOHNSTON.

Newport, December 25th, 1765.

PERSONALLY appeared Auguſtus Johnſton, Eſq; and made ſolemn Oath, That the above is a ſincere and [illegible] Reſignation, and that he will forever hold himſelf obliged hereby. Before Henry Ward, Juſt. Peace.

Which being publiſhed in the Audience of a large Aſſembly, before the Court-Houſe, he received the Plaudit of ſeveral Huzza's and the People diſperſed.

Upon the whole, if the Gentleman had really reſigned in Auguſt, as he would have had the Public believe, how very eaſy would it have been for him to have anſwered Yes or No, when it became his Duty to make ſuch an Anſwer.

From the ST. JAMES'S CHRONICLE, of October 24.

TO the PRINTER.

SIR, October 18.

THE preſent alarming and melancholy Accounts we have from North-America, induce me to make a few Obſervations on the dangerous Criſis which the Public too plainly ſee our Affairs are brought to, in that Part of the World; by the Perverſeneſs, Ignorance, Incapacity, and arbitrary Diſpoſition of our late worthy Miniſters; who, after trying the Temper of the People of England, by every Mode of Oppreſſion, and by every Stretch of Power and Prerogative, and endeavouring, by repeated Inſults, and by the moſt flagrant Attempts upon their moſt ſacred Rights, Privileges, and Liberties, to looſen the Bonds of Allegiance, to wean their Affections from the beſt of Sovereigns, and (if poſſible) to draw them from their unſhaken and inflexible Loyalty, and to excite them to Acts of [illegible] and Rebellion: But having failed in that Attempt at home, not owing to any Amendment in them, but to the good Temper of the Times, and to the [illegible] which the People of England, to a Man, [illegible] to that ſacred Name and Character which [illegible] ringly and traiterouſly would proſtitute, by making it a Sanction and Blind to their own Infamy; were determined to try what Oppreſſion and Deſpair might drive our brave and once free Americans to; and, upon that Plan, having firſt cut off all their Sources of Wealth, by cramping their Trade, they then laid on Taxes, which from that very Cauſe it was impoſſible for them to pay, and without waiting to try the Temper and Diſpoſition of the People, and bringing them, by Degrees, from the being uſed to bear one Act of Oppreſſion, to ſubmit patiently to another, they all at once ſtruck two or three of the moſt oppreſſive, deſtructive, and illegal Strokes that any Miniſters ever dare to inflict, or any unfortunate Patients were ever deemed to ſuffer; and have ſucceeded ſo well in their Deſigns, that we find our Fellow Subjects in the Colonies have been already drove, through Rage and Deſpair, if not into overt Acts of Rebellion, at leaſt into very unwarrantable Exorbitances, and which nothing could excuſe, much leſs juſtify, but the oppreſſive, arbitrary, and abſurd Meaſures that gave Riſe to them: and the Conſequence of which would, in all human Probability, or almoſt to a moral Certainty, have been the utter Deſtruction of the Colonies, and at the ſame Time have given the Mother Country ſo deep a Wound in her Vitals, as ſhe could never have recovered, if his Moſt Gracious M———y, ever attentive to the Good and the Sufferings of his Subjects, had not, by a Meaſure which does the greateſt Honour to his Wiſdom and Judgment, and which will forever endear him to his Subjects in every Part of his Dominions, diſcarded the obnoxious, incapacitate, and inadequate Cauſers of our Misfortunes from the Offices into which they had ſurreptitiouſly obtruded themſelves, without any one of the Qualifications requiſite for the high Employments which they ſo unworthily filled, and which the whole Courſe of their abſurd, blundering and deſpotic Adminiſtration has ſufficiently convinced all Mankind of.

I am, Sir, your's, &c.

J. FREEMAN.

NEWPORT, January 13.

Our verbal intelligence, letters, &c. from England by the Captains Oſborn and Hamilton, ſeem to promiſe a ſpeedy alteration of meaſures in favor of America: That our oppoſition to the ſtamp act meets with the approbation of great numbers, and in particular with the mercantile part of the nation; and that even thoſe who expreſs the greateſt diſſatisfaction with the behaviour of the Americans, are of opinion, that the act will be repealed on the meeting of parliament: And that there is great probability of the reſtrictions upon our trade being taken off.

Capt. Hamilton when at Deal, was informed, that a fire happened in Cornhill, London, about the 6th or 8th of November, by which near 60 houſes were conſumed, and the Royal Exchange was in danger of being alſo deſtroyed thereby.

Extract of a letter from an eminent Merchant in London, to a Gentleman in Newport, dated Oct. 20, 1765.

"Our preſent Miniſtry and Lords of trade are on the eve of forwarding diſpatches, ſaid to contain freſh inſtructions to their officers ſtationed on your coaſt, reſpecting your trade with the French and Spaniſh iſlands, which, tis thought will prove very advantageous to the colonies; and we are alſo hopeful, ſome further means, may, on the meeting of our parliament, be taken to relieve ſome of your other grievances, which we are much concerned to find gives you ſo much uneaſineſs.

PHILADELPHIA, January 2.

In Capt. Sparks, came one ſmall package of ſtamped paper for Maryland, which by the indiſcretion of the mate was landed laſt Saturday afternoon on the wharf, the alarm was given and it was very near being deſtroyed, but being taken on board the veſſel again and aſſurance given by capt. Sparks, that it ſhould not be landed, but kept till the man of war ſent for them, the people were then ſatisfied. After this the people marched to the Prince George, Capt. Robinſon, who alſo had ſtamped papers on board, and demanded of him to know what quantity he had, what he intended doing with them? when he aſſured, that they ſhould not be delivered to any perſon, but would keep them on board till the man of war ſent for them.

Tueſday evening Capt. Hawker's tender came up and took the ſtamped paper from Capts. Robinſon and Sparks, and immediately ſailed with them for the man of war, ſo we are now rid of them it is hoped we ſhall never ſee them nor no others any more.

We have the Georgia papers to the 21ſt of November, by which we find that they had no ſtamped paper there, and that buſineſs went on as uſual.

Since our laſt arrived here from London four ſhips and a brig, and their whole cargoes of dry goods would not load one ſhip.

Extract of a letter from North-Carolina, Dec. 12.

"The curſed Stamp-Act will ruin us all in this province; our courts of Juſtice are ſhut up, and every kind of buſineſs ſeems at an end; general diſſatisfaction appears every where; as an inſtance of which, I will juſt mention an affair that happened a few days ago, in one of the frontier counties: The clerk of the court had lately got a ſeal engraved for the uſe of his office, and making uſe of it on ſome occaſion, the people in the neighbourhood took it for granted, without enquiring into the matter, that it was the fatal Stamp, and immediately aſſembled to the number of 200 (though in a country place) & went to the clerk's houſe, which was a pretty good one and lately built, and told him "That tho' he was one of their countrymen, they looked upon him as an enemy to the country, and that they were then aſſembled in order to make a public example of him; and that they ſhould not be ſatisfied with hanging or burning him in effigie, but they were determined to do it in reality, and to deſtroy his houſe, and every thing of his that could be found; and that they were reſolved to treat every perſon in the ſame manner who dare be bold enough to deſtribute ſuch papers or levy ſuch taxes!" It was with much difficulty that he convinced them of their error, and had it not been for two or three gentlemen that happened to be preſent, who had great influence with them, they would certainly have put the clerk to death, without giving themſelves time to enquire into the merit of the matter; ſuch is the ſpirit of the people here againſt the Stamp-Act. With hearty wiſhes for the repeal of this injurious Act, I am, &c."

Extract of a letter from South-Carolina dated Dec. 3.

"We have ſome veſſels from St. Kitts, Antigua, and Providence, cleared out there ſince the Firſt of November, without ſtamps, which our Collector will not yet admit to enter. There hath been no attempt to ſeize them, neither do I think there will."

HARTFORD, February 3.

We hear from Simſbury, that on Monday laſt, as one Mr. Martin Moſes of that Town, was cutting down a Tree, it fell againſt the Limb of another Tree, broke it off, which falling on his Head, kill'd him on the Spot. He has left a Widow—and was in the 23d Year of his Age.

Yeſterday Morning, between the Hours of Seven and Eight o'Clock, the Weather fair, there was an uncommon Noiſe, heard in the Air, (much like the burning of a foul Chimney) in this and the Neighbouring Towns and Pariſhes, it came from the S. W and paſſed off to the N. E. Its Duration was about 4 Minutes, with ſome Intermitions.

III. o'Clock, P. M. No Poſt.

A Liſt of LETTERS remaining in the Poſt-Office Hartford, January 25, 1766, never before publiſhed.

 Where the Town is not mentioned, in the following Liſt, it is Hartford.

A

ARMOR JAMES
Addams Samuel
Abbott Abiel, Windſor

B

Biggalow Mr. Ferryman
Bull Daniel
Barker Abner, Eſq; Willington
Badger Daniel Coventry
Brundige Jacob, Farmington
Brown Iſrael, Woodbury
Boardman John Weathersfield
Backus Ebenezer Windham 2
Biſſel David, Windſor
Biſſel Daniel, Eſq; Windſor
Babcock Amos Eſq; Aſhford
Barker Mrs. Sarah, Andover
Burnham Miſs Hannah, Far- (mington Benton Jacob & Amos, Har- (wington

C

Clark William Colcheſter
Calkens Stephen Sh[illegible]
Coborn John Saliſbury
Cady & Larrabee Plainfield
Caſe Thomas Lebanon
Caſe Zebulon ditto

D

Downey Edward
Deming James Weathersfield
Dean Silas ditto
Drake Gideon Windſor 3
Diggins Auguſtus ditto
Dwight Elijah Barrington
Devotion Ebenezer Windham
Dibble Charles Goſhen

E

Ewing Alexander Aſhford

F

Farnſworth Samuel 5
Faulkner Anne
Fitch James Windſor
Fuller Caleb ditto
Frink Nathan Eſq; Windham

G

Green John & Benj. Coventry
Goodman Thomas
Griſwold John Weathersfield
Griſwold Benjamin ditto
Grant Ebenezer Windſor 2
Goodrich Elnathan Litchfield

H

Headman Eben'r E. Windſor
Hooker William
Hobby Thomas
Humphry Anne
Holliſter Joſiah Sharon
Humphry Charles Simſbury
Hawley Nathan Rawmog
Hurlbutt Eliſha Windham
Harmon Joel Suffield
Hinkley Charles Lebanon 2
Hill Bryant Litchfield
Hannah James near ditto

I

Iullet Aſael [illegible]
Johnſton Obadiah Canterbury

K

Kent Samuel Suffield
Kibbee Eliſha & Zerah Enfield

L

Lee Meſſ. Whitman & Solomon (Farmington
Laraby John Plainfield

M

Mezuzan Mark
Marcy Edward E. Hartford
Miller Joſeph Weathersfield
Mills Peter Windſor
Meyon Jeremiah, jun Lebanon

P

Pitkin Col. Joſeph
Phelps Samuel Harwington
Pomroy Oliver Weathersfield
Peaſe Joſeph Suffield
Porter Nathaniel Lebanon
Penoyer John Sharon

R

Reed Iſaac Windſor
Ruſt Noah E. Hartford
Riſley Moſes ditto
Roach James Weathersfield

S

Seymor Iſrael
Shelden Daniel
Swetland Joſeph E. Hartford
Storrs Amariah Mansfield
Storrs Amariah & Experience (Mansfield
Scott Timothy Windſor
Stoughton Lemuel ditto
Stevens Joſeph Glaſſenbury
Simons Jacob Litchfield
Strong Rev. Nathan Coventry
Snow Ezekiel Woodbury
Smith Samuel Aſhford 2

T

Trumble Eſq; Jonathan Le- (banon
Thomas & Caſe Meſſ. ditto
Taylor Joſeph Colcheſter
Taylor Eſq; Eldad Weſtfield

W

Wilds Jonah Lebanon
Wood Daniel Somers
Wells Moſes Eaſt-Windſor
Welles Samuel Eaſt-Hartford
Williams Daniel Weathers- (field
Woodbridge Ruſſel

Y

Young William Woodbury

N. B. No Letters will be delivered out of the Poſt-Office, to no Perſon, without the Poſtage being firſt paid.

Philadelphia, December 30.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in London, to his Friend here, dated November 9, 1765.

"I have the Pleaſure to aſſure you, there is a Plan formed for your Relief, by the new Miniſtry, who are really Friends to America....It is not your Mother Country, it is not your King oppreſſes you; but it was the bad Miniſtry, who carried Things too far, as to bring univerſal Odium on themſelves."

In another Letter from London, of the ſame Date, it is ſaid, "In the Duke of Cumberland, the King has loſt an able Counſellor, and the Kingdom a moſt faithful Friend. —The preſent Adminiſtration are Friends to America and will ſerve it."

Beſides the above we can inform our Readers, that we have ſeen ſeveral other Letters from London by the laſt Packet, wrote by Men of Candor and Ability; the Purport of which is, that they heartily condole with us on the oppreſſive Meaſures taken by the late Miniſtry; that they applaud us for the Spirit we have ſhewn, in oppoſing theſe meaſures; that Numbers of the people of England make our Cauſe their own, and highly commend us for the noble Stand we have made in the Cauſe of Liberty; that the trading part of the Nation were very much alarmed at the Smallneſs of the Orders, as well as Remittances, from the Colonies of late owing to the Reſtrictions on our Trade, which they were reſolved to have taken off at the next Meeting of Parliament, if poſſible; and that it was not doubted, but the preſent Miniſtry would endeavour to get the Stamp-Act repealed, which had thrown the whole Engliſh nation into the moſt terrible Convulſions.

New-York, January 23.

We can aſſure the Public, from good Authority, That Lord Colvil, has lately declared, that he would not interrupt any Veſſel without Stamp'd Clearances, until he had received Orders from England for that Purpoſe.

[New-York Mercury.]

The Report which has for ſome days ſpread about Town that ſome American Veſſels had been ſeized in the Weſt-Indies by Engliſh Men of War, for want of Stamp'd Papers, is generally ſuppoſed to be entirely groundleſs, as being improbable in itſelf, and alſo on Account of the Time: The Story is ſuppoſed to have ariſen from the Seizure of an American Veſſel carried to Antigua, on Account of ſome counterband Goods, put on board at Sea by a Veſſel belonging to Bermuda, which had ſprung a Leak.

The Lord Hyde Packet, Capt. Goddard, with the Mail for Falmouth and ſeveral other Veſſels which have been for ſome Time detain'd by the Ice, Yeſterday attempted to put to Sea, but the Wind being very freſh and not fair, 5 only were able to get out, the other five put back and are expected to ſail this Morning. The Packet was one of the Veſſels that got to Sea.

The Linen Manufactory in this Government is bro't to ſuch Perfection, that a Piece of green Linen made by John Hill of this City, was ſold at our Market laſt Week, for 8s. per Yard.

Laſt week two Men in different Places in this City were found dead. The Coroner's Inqueſt brought in their Verdict, that they both died of exceſſive drinking. One of them a Pedlar from Philadelphia, died with his Head in the Lap of his Companion or Partner, who was likewiſe very drunk. The other, lately arrived from Ireland, and preparing to begin the Buſineſs of a Cartman,....confeſſed when he came home at Night, that he had in Company with 5 others, drank part of 24 Bottles of Wine, 3 Bowls of Punch and 3 Drams of Spirits; next Morning he was dead in his Bed.

NEW-LONDON, January 17.

A Sloop burthen about 70 Tons which had been three Times beat off the Coaſt in the late ſevere Weather, was run on Shore at Southampton, the South Side of Long-Iſland, on the 7th Inſtant: She had been 48 Days from Cayenna, and was bound to Providence, in the Colony of Rhode-Iſland, where ſhe was owned; the Captain's Name is Rhodes; the People, which were ſix in Number, were all froze in a terrible Manner, and incapable of managing the Veſſel: The Veſſel is loſt, but the People got ſafe on Shore.---She was a new Veſſel, but very Leaky, and was in a Set of Ballaſt.

Capt. Eliſha Hinman from this Port, is arrived at the Weſt-Indies: In his Paſſage he met with a violent Gale of Wind, which laid his Veſſel on her Beam-ends; by which Accident he loſt moſt of his Cargo off the Deck.

Laſt Friday Evening His Majeſty's Ship the Cygnet, commanded by Philip Durell, Eſq; arrived here from Newport, and is laid up for the Seaſon.

Mr. John Avery, aged above 50 Years, fell from his Horſe Yeſterday at Norwich, and ſurvived the Accident only a few Minutes, when he expired.

Cuſtom-Houſe, New-London, January 24.

Entered In; Brig Two Brothers, Waterman from Monti Chriſto.

Cleared Out, Brig Lucretia, Saltonſtall, for Guadaloupe.

CONNECTICUT.

AT a Meeting of the Inhabitants of the Town of Wallingford, legally aſſembled and held by adjournment on Monday the 13th Day of January, 1766.

WHEREAS it appears from ancient Records and other Memorials of inconteſtable Validity, that our Anceſtors with a great Sum purchaſed ſaid Townſhip: At their own Expence, planted, with great Peril poſſeſſed and defended the ſame; (and we were free born) having never been in Bondage to any, an Inheritance of ineſtimable Value.

Voted and agreed, That if any of ſaid Inhabitants ſhall introduce, uſe or improve any ſtampt Vellum, parchment, or Paper, for which Tax, or Tribute is or may be demandable; ſuch Perſon or Perſons, ſhall incur the Penalty of 20s.—to be recovered by the Select Men of ſaid Town, for the Time being, for the Uſe of the Poor of ſaid Town, —This Order to continue in Force until the next Meeting of ſaid Inhabitants in Townmeeting.

Copy examined. Atteſt. ELIHU HALL,
Moderator of ſaid Meeting.

AT a Meeting of a Number of the SONS OF LIBERTY in Wallingford, in New-Haven county, on the evening of the 13th day of January 1765. After duly form'd by chooſing a moderator and clerk the following Reſolves were come into, viz.

Reſol. 1. THAT the late act of Parliament called the Stamp-Act, is unconſtitutional, and intended to enſlave the true ſubjects of America.

Reſol. 2. That we will oppoſe the ſame to the laſt extremity, even to take the field.

Reſol. 3. That we will meet at the Court Houſe in New-Haven on the third Tueſday of February next; and we deſire all the Sons of Liberty in each Town in the County would meet themſelves or repreſentatives. There to conſult what is beſt to be done in order to defend our liberties and properties, and break up the ſtop to publick affairs.

Reſol. 4. That this Meeting be adjourned to the firſt Tueſday of February next, then to chooſe one repreſentatives to attend the ſaid Meeting.

A true Copy examined per P. P. Clerk.

Somers, January 31, 1766.

THIS may certify the creditors of George Wood, of Somers, in Hartford County, an Inſolvent Debtor, that a legal Aſſignment of ſaid Wood's Eſtate, is made to us the Subſcribers, authoriſed to diſpoſe of the ſame as the law directs. Said creditors are hereby notified to meet at Mr. Amos Sexton's Tavern, in ſaid Somers, on Wedneſday, the 19th of February next, at one o'clock in the afternoon to proceed on Buſineſs relative to ſaid Aſſignment.

SAMUEL RAYNOLDS,
ROBERT PEASE, jun. } Truſtees.
REUBEN SIKES,

Hartford, February 1ſt. 1766.

NOTICE is hereby given to all the Creditors of Nathaniel Chapin of Enfield, an Inſolvent Debtor, to meet at ſaid Chapin's Dwelling-Houſe, in Enfield, on the fourth Tueſday of February Inſtant, then to exhibit, and prove their Demands againſt ſaid Eſtate, and to tranſact what other Buſineſs ſhall then be thought neceſſary.

SILAS DEAN,
NATHANIEL TERRY junr } Truſtees.
WILLIAM ADAMS,

Kenſington, January 30th, 1766.

WHEREAS I am ſuſpicious that my Wife Prudence Tooley, will without my Knowledge or Conſent, involve me in Debt, whereby much Unneceſſary Charges and Trouble will be brought upon me; This is publickly to notify, and forbid all Perſons whatſoever, vending, trading or truſting of her upon my Credit, hereby fully manifeſting and declaring that I will never pay or diſcharge any Debt or Debts thus contracted by her, without my Knowledge or Conſent. JOHN TOOLEY.

ALMANACKS, for the Year 1766. To be ſold by the Printer hereof.

A LECTURE ON FULL-BOTTOM'D WIGS.

From the Craft's-Man, September 7.

BEHOLD how naked, how ſimple a Thing Nature is! But behold how luxuriant is Art! What Importance is now ſeated on theſe Brows! What Reverence the Features demand! What Dignity is diffuſed on the whole Countenance! This is a Compendium of Law.---Special Pleadings in the Foretop, Pleas, Rejoinders, Replications, and Demurrers in each Turn of the Head,—the knotty Points of Practice in the twiſt of the Tail,——the Depth of the Full-Bottom, denotes the Length of a Chancery Suit;——But as it is not enough to ſuppoſe a Raſemblance, and as we have more Blocks than One to try our Wigs upon, we will make an Exchange, and attempt an Oration in Praiſe of the Law.——Law! Law! is like a fine Woman's Temper;——a very difficult Study.——Law! Law! is like a Book of Surgery;——a great many terrible Caſes in it.——Law! it is like Fire and Water; very good Servants, but very bad when they get the upper-hand of us;——'tis like a homely, genteel Woman, very well to follow;——'tis alſo, like a ſcolding Wife, very bad when it follows us;——and again, 'tis like bad Weather, moſt People chooſe to keep out of it——In Law! In Law! there are Four Parts;—the quid libet,---the quod libet,---the pro quo;---and the ſine qua non. Imprimus. The quid libet, or who began firſt,—becauſe, in all Actions of Aſſault, the Law is clear, that primus ſtrokus, is abſolutus, malus, ſine jokus? Which being [illegible] and claſſically rendered into Engliſh, is, that, whoſoever he be that gave the firſt Stroke, it was abſolutely ill, and without a joke.——Secondly, the quod libet, or the damages; but that the Law has nothing to do with, only to ſtate them; for whatever Damages enſue, they are the Clients Perquiſites, according to that antient Norman Motto;—if he is caſt—or caſtandum; he is ſemper idem ruinandum.——Thirdly, the quid pro quo; ſeeing Council—giving Words for Money—or having Money for Words, according to that antient Normon Motto, ſi currat lex,—we know to perplex.——Fourthly, the ſine qua non; or, Without ſome Thing, what would any Thing be good for?——Without this Wig, what would be the Out-lines of the Law.——I ſhall illuſtrate this by a Caſe in Point, (Peer Williams, P. 96) Daniel againſt Diſhclout——Plaintiff Daniel was Groom in the ſame Family, where Defendant Diſhclout was Cook——Plaintiff Daniel had been drinking——[illegible] as Dr. Bibbibus in his Diſſertations on Bumpers, he was duplicans, that is, he was a double Man; he was not as he ſhou'd be, ipſe he; but as he ſhou'd not be, [illegible] Daniel made a forcible Entry [illegible] of Premiſes,—the Kitchen.—Now the Kitchen, according to Serjeant Plodding, as he has it in his 149 Vol. [illegible] of the Abridgment of the Statutes, Page 1296, there he ſays, that the Kitchen is Camera, neceſſaria, in uſo Cookorum, where ſhe has the Overlooking, the Conduct, the Management, the Superviſing, the ſeeing to, the Superintendance, and the Specularium, of all the Sauſpannis, Stew-pannis, Fripannis, et Stewis, Smoke-jacks, and where our Cook was at this Time, employ'd in all the Duties of her Office; where ſhe was roaſtandum, boilandum, fryandum, frigaſſeeandum, plumbpuddingandum, et mixandum: at this Time Plaintiff Daniel made a forcible Entry, &c. and demanded a Sop in the Pan——Defendant Diſhclout inſiſted on a Right of Refuſal——(a Sop in the Pan, Gemmen, is a very ſerious Thing!) and without Perquiſites what are all Honors and Places good for? nothing more than an embroidered Button-hole; and if we conſider a Miniſter of State as the Nation's Cook, then Perquiſites are the Sop in the Pan, to the Miniſters of State, with which omnium gatherum, chooſe to greaſe their Fingers.—Well Plaintiff Daniel demanded a Sop in the Pan; Defendant Diſhclout inſiſted on a Right of Refuſal: Daniel ſeized Diſhclout by the left Hand, then was the quid libet, or the Aſſault; Diſhclout took Daniel by the Right Hand, and pulled him into the Dripping-Pan; there was the Damages——the Dripping-Pan——Now if the Dripping-Pan had not been there, he could not have fallen into the Dripping-Pan; and if they had not been there, the Dripping-Pan could not have received him——and this is Law; and the Loquationſneſs of the Law, is multi loquations—foraſmuch—neverthelſs—moreover—likewiſe—and alſo.——The Liberty of the Law is the Happineſs of the Engliſh: and it is very happy for us Engliſhmen, that we have the Liberty to go to Law.——

LONDON, NOVEMBER 5.

The diſpatches received this week from his Excellency the Earl of Rochfort at Madrid, are ſaid to be extremely intereſting; they have been under the conſideration of two grand councils at the cockpit and at St. James's.

We hear the duty for rendering foreign built ſhips free in this kingdom, is propoſed next ſeſſions to be conſiderably augmented, for the encouragement of ſhip-building in our American colonies.

They write from Breſt, that a great number of machines are now employed in clearing and widening the port and harbour; that ſixteen battalions were at work upon the new fortifications, which were ſoon expected to be completed, as they were plentifully ſupplied with maſon's work from the excellent ſtone quarries in the iſland of Belleiſle.

Private letters from Holland adviſe, that the Court of Verſailles, wearied out with the expence of maintaining their eſtabliſhment in the colony of Guiana, ſituated between the rivers of Oronooko and the Amazons in America, have lately made propoſals for ceding it to the States General. It is contiguous to the Dutch ſettlement of Surinam, and contains an extent of one hundred and twenty French leagues.

We hear, that the dyes for the following medal are now engraving by an engenious artiſt of this city.

FACE. A head in profile, the hair of which is diſpoſed exactly after the intigalia of Marcus Brutus, on a rock of emerald, which was in the collection of the celebrated Antiquary Baron Stoſch, and is at this time in the cabinet of the King of Pruſſia. Inſcription; William Pitt.

Reverſe. A hand uplifted holding a rod [wand]

Inſcription. When Moſes held up his hand, Iſrael prevailed.

A few nights ſince at a ball in a large town within a few miles from London, a young lady, who had a fortune of about 2000l. which her father had ſcraped together in trade, was ſolicited to dance by a young gentleman of good perſon and addreſs, whom the lady ſcornfully refuſed to accept of for a partner; and on being aſked by ſome of her acquaintance the reaſon of her refuſal, ſhe replied becauſe he was a linen-draper, and was determined not to dance with a tradeſman; which, being buzz'd about ſhe was obliged to ſit by herſelf for a conſiderable time, no gentleman offering his ſervice, to her no ſmall mortification. At length a young gentleman, dreſſed like an officer, offering his ſervice, which ſhe joyfully accepted; but, after two or three dances, ſomebody whiſpered in her ear, that her partner's father was a butcher in ſuch a market; which had ſo much effect on the young lady's pride, that ſhe fainted away, and obliged to quit the room.

[Some American Fairs, follow their Example.

Hartford, January 27th, 1766.

THIS may Certify the Creditors of Mr. Samuel Cole, of Farmington, an inſolvent Debtor, that a legal Aſſignment of ſaid Samuel's Eſtate is made to us the Subſcribers, authorized to diſpoſe of the ſame according to Law; and that therefore, they are hereby deſired to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Capt. Solomon Cowls, in Farmington, on Thurſday the 25th of February next, to proceed on Buſineſs relative thereto.

SOLOMON WHITMAN,
JOHN COLEMAN,
JAMES WADSWORTH, } Truſtees.

Hartford, January 27, 1766.

A Legal Aſſignment of the Eſtate of Samuel Holman of Hartford, an Inſolvent Debtor, is made to the Subſcribers, who are appointed Truſtees, to diſpoſe of the ſame as the Law Directs. This therefore is to notify all the ſaid Holman's Creditors, to meet at his Dwelling-Houſe in Hartford, on Tueſday, the 18th Day of February next, to proceed in Buſineſs relative to ſuch Aſſignment.

RUSSEL WOODBRIDGE,
JOSEPH MAKEN,
JOHN COLEMAN, } Truſtees.

Colony of Connecticut,
Hartford County, ſſ. } Middletown, Jan. 23d. 1766.

WHEREAS purſuant to an Act, or Law of ſaid Colony, entituled "An Act to prevent Fraud in Debtors, and for the ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors," &c. Thomas Burr of Hartford, in ſaid County, an Inſolvent Debtor, in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors, in Number and Value, hath exhibited his Petition, with an Account of the Sums by him owing, and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, of ſaid County, and SETH WETMORE, Eſq; Juſtice of the Peace, and Quorum, for ſaid County, praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of, for the Uſe of ſaid Creditors.

Public Notice is hereby given, to all the Creditors of ſaid Thomas Burr, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mrs. Abigail Shalor, Innholder in Middletown, in ſaid County, on the Eighteenth of February next, to ſhew Reaſon (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of ſaid Thomas Burr ſhould not be made, and his Perſon diſcharged, according to the Regulation of ſaid Act.

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, February 10, 1766. No. 59.

CONNECTICUT, January 1766.

MR. PRINTER,

Great Part of the following Converſation, between an Officer of the King's, going to London, and a Coloniſt, is (in a Manner ſomething different from what has fallen under my View) to ſhew the Inſufficiency of the Arguments, and Falſity of many Things publiſhed in England from different Pens, highly prejudicial to the Colonies; with a View to conciliate the Minds of People in the Mother Country as to the Equity of the——Stamp-Act.

Your Humble Servant.

OFFICER. ON my Journey through the Weſtern Provinces, as well as here, People of all Ranks, are crying out the Stamp-Act will ruin the Country. Pray let me know what is in it has occaſioned ſuch univerſal Diſtreſs?

COLONIST. The People ſay they are in no-wiſe whatever repreſented in Parliament, yet there they are Taxed.

The new Powers given to the Court of Admiralty, are fatal to the Privilege of Juries, one of the greateſt Bulwarks againſt Tyranny and Oppreſſion.

If the Coloniſts are not miſtaken (as I think 'tis eaſy to make appear, they are not) you ſee ſufficient Cauſe for Out-crys and Diſtreſs.——When any Power on Earth has Right to tell a People we will take off your Eſtates, as we pleaſe, and at our pleaſure, determine on any of your Matters, without your Knowledge or Concurrence, we need no ſmall Penetration to diſcover the People to be in abſolution Slaviſh and miſerable; this the Coloniſts ſay will be their Caſe if the Stamp-Act takes place.

OFFICER. Are not theſe Things dreſt up to ſerve a Purpoſe? ſome of the greateſt Men in England tell you the Colonies are repreſented in Parliament, though not actually, yet virtually, and exactly in the ſame Manner, that the great and opulent Towns of Sheffield, Birmingham, &c. are repreſented. As to the new Powers in the Court of Admiralty they extend no further than to prevent an Evaſion of the Act; in every other Purpoſe you enjoy the Privilege of Juries as heretofore.

COLONIST. What is ſaid of our being repreſented as Sheffield, &c. is without Foundation—England indeed is very unequally repreſented; the deſerted Ruins of Old Sarum, where ſtands only a mean Cottage or two, ſends as many Members to the Houſe of Commons as Briſtol, a ſecond City in the Kingdom, when the great Towns of Sheffield, &c. as ſuch, ſends none; for this the Coloniſts are not to account; it ſuffices for them, that the Engliſh Conſtitution, under which they are ſettled (and to the great Liberties & Privileges of which they have undoubted Right by Birth, by Compact and by Charter) has provided, that every City, and moſt old Towns, ſend one or more Repreſentatives; beſides this, there is a more general Repreſentation, by which every City, Town, Village and Hamlet throughout the Kingdom, where are Freeholders of Forty Shillings per annum, there are Electors; and 'tis even Mr. G——'s ſays, the Elected are actually the Repreſentatives of the Electors: thus there is not a Spot in England, where are Freeholders of Forty Shillings per Annum, but there are Electors, and ſo have an actual, not a virtual Share in the Repreſentative Body, by no Means excluding the great and opulent Towns of Sheffield, &c.

What Front muſt that Man have, who ſays, exactly in the ſame Manner, are the Colonies repreſented?

As to what we yet enjoy of the Privilege of Juries, is it any Thing better (on the new Principles) than for you to enjoy a fine Eſtate, which your Neighbour has a Right to take, when he pleaſes; the Stamp-Act takes away Part what ſecures, but another Act will take away the Remainder.

OFFICER. You'l remember I am not to be conſidered in the Light of a Diſputant, rather as a Queriſt; as ſuch, I am to aſk, Are not the Colonies vaſtly indebted to the Mother Country, who we are told, has created them, planted them, nouriſht and protected them, at a prodigious Expence of Blood and Treaſure, ſo that the great National Debt ſhe now labours under, was moſtly incurred for their Sakes?

COLONIST. Theſe Charges againſt the Coloniſts [illegible] are falſe, and injurious; the New-England and other Colonies, call on the Accuſers to produce [illegible] call the Mother Country a [illegible] they deny it—[illegible] of which I will [illegible] judge by [illegible] Farthing more to protect or [illegible]

[illegible] and by ſurpriſing [illegible] bloody Wars [illegible] the moſt cruel, ſubtle and [illegible] Savages on the Earth) got firm footing in the Land, which they maintained at the Expence of their own Blood & Treaſure to the Year [illegible] but at a farther [illegible] the Mother Country in her various Expeditions againſt the Settlements both of France and Spain; this laſt involved them ſo deep in Debt that they had not been able to diſcharge the whole, when at that Period, the Maſſachuſets-Bay, projected an Expedition againſt Louiſbourg, deſiring her Siſter New-England Colonies and others to join——all New-England inſtantly united, and as I remember, ſome Aſſiſtance from New-York. Then without Requiſition, or even the Knowledge of our Mother Country, the New-England Troops attempted and finally ſubdued this capital Strength of France in America, and delivered Cape-Breton, into the Hands of our then Royal Maſter.

How dear at that Day were the Colonies to Great-Britain! With Pleaſure and Gratitude, we acknowledge Part of this Expence was repaid by the Crown, yet in Juſtice it muſt be obſerved, this is the firſt Penny theſe Colonies ever had from England. We alſo take Pleaſure to ſay, the late brave Admiral Warren came, during the Siege, and made a ſufficient Maritime Force to prevent effectually the [illegible] which it is apprehended the New-England Ships, alone could not have performed. After this nothing material, before we come to the late War, ſo glorious to Great-Britain. Here I muſt be confined to the Part borne by this Colony of Connecticut, being too little acquainted to give a particular Relation of the others.

This ſmall Colony expended near Half a Million over and above what the Crown has been graciouſly pleaſed to reimburſe; and during the War, the moſt athletic of our young Men were in the King's Service, which greatly prevented the Improvement and Profits of our Lands. The fourth Part of our Effective Men, were cut off by Sword and Diſeaſe, many Yeomans' Sons; an irrepareable Loſs to a Colony, that wants Inhabitants! What little Money we had is ſo gone, that what remains is not half ſufficient to pay our public Debt, and our Private vaſtly more weighty. The heavy Taxes already collected, have produced more Bankruptcies than had before happened from the Settlement of the Government and too many more muſt ſoon appear. The Demand for Money is ſo great, to diſcharge our Debts, that the landed Intereſt (the greateſt Intereſt of the Colony) is generally fallen full Fifty per Cent. You may depend, Sir, this is no exaggeration of our deplorable Circumſtances. The other New-England Colonies are ſaid to be equally diſtreſt, and and ſome neighbouring weſtern Provinces but little better; thus we are ſuffering by going beyond our Abilities in the King's Service. Is Great Britain ſo exhauſted, has ſhe loſt an equal Proportion of Blood, or is her landed Intereſt fallen one Half in its Value? Will her Parliament notwithſtanding theſe Things, and in the Reign of a King, the moſt tender Father of his People, cruſh below Ruin, ſuch a Number of moſt loyal, faithful Subjects already undone in his Cauſe. May it not ſafely be ſaid it cannot be.

OFFICER. Before you proceed, let me aſk, did not Great-Britain undertake this moſt expenſive War, for the Sake of the Colonies?

COLONIST. Let me relate Facts for an Anſwer to this Queſtion.

(The Remainder will be in our next.)

On the 25th ult. the Ship Hale Galley, Capt. Hatch, arrived at Boſton, in 8 Weeks from London.

LONDON, November 12.

The following is a liſt of the important changes that, 'tis ſaid, will, before the meeting of parliament, take place.

The Duke of Bedford, and Right Hon. Mr. Pitt, to be of the C——t Council, and hold no office.—The Duke of Marlborough to have a vacant Garter. Earl Temple, Secretary of State, for Southren department.—Earl of Egmont Preſident of the Council.—Earl of Gower, Lord Chamberlain.—Earl of Briſtol, Lord Privy Seal.—Earl of Halifax, Great Wardrobe.—Earl of Shelburne and Lord Lyttleton Poſt maſters General.—Rt. Hon. Mr. Grenville, Firſt Lord of the Treaſury.—Lord North Chancellor of the Exchequer.—Mr. Hunter, Sir John Turner, Mr. Thomas Pitt, Lords of the Treaſury.—The Earl of Sandwich, Firſt Lord of the Admiralty.—Admiral Kepple, Dr. Hay, Lord Carysfort, Mr. A. Hervey, and Mr. Richard Vernon, Lords of the Admiralty.—Earl Thomond, Cofferer.---Earl of Powis, Treaſurer, and Lord Charles Spencer, Comptroller of the Houſhould.--Rt. Hon. Mr. Stanley, Treaſurer of the Navy.--Rt. Hon. Mr. Ellis, Secretary at War.--Mr. Nugent, Mr. Rigby, and Mr. James Grenville, Vice-Treaſurers of Ireland.--Mr. Thurloe, Solicitor to the Treaſury.---Mr. Neville Nevill, Paymaſter of Penſions.---Mr. Thynne and Mr. Seymour of the Board of Green-Cloth.

Some other changes in the inferior offices, but are not named as fixed.

The vacant Red Garter, (by miſtake for Ribbon) late Sir Charles Howard's, we hear is intended for the gallant Sir William Johnſon, now in America.

§¶§ Several circumſtances ſerve to convince the generality of Readers, that the above articles of news are not true. They cannot think any intelligent perſon would have miſtaken Lord Weymouth's rank of Peerage.—They do not know for why Lord Huntington ſhould be diſmiſſed, who has not made himſelf obnoxious to any party, nor can they account for perſons being coupled as Councellors, who have rarely been known to agree in opinion; nor do we ſee for what reaſon the whole preſent miniſtry, who are not unpopular, ſhould be diſmiſſed, and the whole diſcarded Miniſtry, who are unpopular, and have given offence to their Sovereign, ſhould be reſtored. So that not the leaſt degree of credit is given to the intelligence.

Nov. 16. Yeſterday arrived a mail from France, by which we have the following advices, viz. From Smyrna, by way of Leghorn, that the Georgians, after having gained ſeveral advantages over the Turks, had at length come to a pitched battle with them, wherein the Turks had upwards of 600 men killed, and a great number wounded and made priſoners.

Letters from Philadelphia, Boſton, Rhode-Iſland, New-Haven, and other provinces in America, are full of Complaints of the diſtreſſes to which the ſtamp-act is likely to ſubject them, and of the riots and tumults in conſequence thereof.

'Tis reported that the Right Hon. Lord Adam Gordon will ſoon be appointed an American Governor.

The ſmall Iſland of Bermudas has followed the example of the other Britiſh colonies, in remonſtrating againſt the new ſtamp duty.

It was generally expected, when the laſt letters were received from New-England, that not one lawyer on the American continent would make uſe of the new ſtamps, lately arrived from England.

On monday evening, arrived from New-York, Lord Adam Gordon. With his Lordſhip came over John Johnſon, Eſq; ſon and heir to Sir William Johnſon, Baronet.

Nov. 22. Wedneſday the Right Hon. Lord Adam Gordon had a conference with his Majeſty's ſecretaries of ſtate, when it is ſaid, his lordſhip informed them of the preſent ſtate of North-America, and of the uneaſineſs of the people on account of the new ſtamp-act.

Nov. 23. Yeſterday there was a great Levee at St. James's, and alſo a Privy-Council, at which his Majeſty, the Right Hon. the Earl of Winchelſea, Preſident, and ſeveral principal Lords of the Council aſſiſted, which is ſaid to be on affairs relating to the plantations.

The Writers at Home ſay, "The public Papers lately are ſo filled with the Conteſts in America, &c. &c. that the Affairs of Old England appear to be overlooked, as of little concern."—One of the Writers, under the Name of PACIFICUS—(ſuch a Pacificus as is for dragooning or Maſſacre) is "for bombarding the Colonies."—A Friend to Mankind (in anſwer thereto) ſays, "He ſhould as ſoon think of laying the City of London in Aſhes, bombarding the Tower, or the Bank of England, for grumbling at the Miſconduct of a Miniſter, as the bombarding Boſton, New-York and Philadelphia, into a Compliance with the Stamp-Act," &c. &c.

BOSTON, January 30.

By Letters received by the laſt Ships from London, we learn, that one of the largeſt trading Houſes in England, have poſitively declared, that unleſs the Stamp-Act is repealed, they will diſcharge all their Workmen at the different Manufactories, and finally cloſe Buſineſs.

We hear there are Letters in Town from Perſons of Diſtinction on the other ſide the water, intimating that propoſals had been lately made to the Miniſtry that the twelve Judges of England ſhould upon ſolemn argument decide the queſtion of right in the Britiſh parliament, to impoſe taxes on the colonies. And at the ſame time; that ſome of the principal merchants being aſked what was beſt to be done reſpecting the Stamp-Act, their advice was immediately to repeal it, as the preſent exigences and temper of the colonies would not permit its execution.—That it was the intereſt of Great-Britain to ſecure the colonies by the indulgence and lenity of its adminiſtration rather than diſaffect them by reſtrictions on their liberties and trade.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in London, to his Friend here, dated November 6, 1765.

"I Am really ſorry for the Hardſhips and Diſcouragements the American Trade meets with; and ſee with you that our Manufacturers ſuffer greatly thereby:—Having lately been at Leeds, Sheffield, Brimingham, Nottingham and Leiceſter, I find an univerſal Complaint at thoſe Places as well as here, of the great Decay of Trade and the vaſt Number of Workmen ſtarving for Want of Employ:——Our Cloth Markets are now fuller of Cloths than I have ſeen them for ſome Years paſt."

The New-Hampſhire Gazette of Friday laſt, mentions, That the Inferior Court of Common Pleas carry on Buſineſs at Portſmouth without Stamps.

Saturday laſt the Halifax Packet, Capt. Rogers, arrived here in 17 Days; and Yeſterday arrived Capt. Pepper in 6 Days from Haliſax, by whom we learn, that a Number of Veſſels from different Parts of the Continent had arrived there with Proviſions, &c. who were all received without Stamps. 'Tis ſaid one Veſſel only from Newbury carried in there 700 Quarters of Beef, which was ſold at 2 and 3 Coppers per Pound and other Proviſions in Proportion.

We alſo learn that Mr. Hinſhelwood the Stamp-Diſtributer there, has wrote home to reſign his deteſtable Office, as he is held in the greateſt Abhorrence by the People there, and his Life was in great Danger, notwithſtanding he has conſtantly a ſtrong Guard about his Perſon.

Extract of a Letter from Halifax, dated Jan. 2, 1766.

"——IT gives us great Pleaſure to find the Port again opening ſo that an Intercourſe is not likely to be further interrupted—The Veſſels are addmitted to an Entry here as uſual, without exacting the Penalty of ten Pounds as preſcribed in the——Stamp Act——The Diſtributor of the Stamps with us has received Inſtructions from the Commiſſioners of the Stamp Duties, not to proſecute any Perſon upon the Penalties of the Act, but only to repreſent to them who the Perſons are that refuſe Obedience, &c.——This has the Appearance of Conviction among the Learned, on the other Side of the Water, that the Act is unconſtitutional, wherefore they ſeem to decline a legal and judicial Determination upon it.——Surely this forebodes good Tidings——I pray GOD that the next Parliament may by ſome wiſe and prudent Meaſures, remove every Obſtacle of Jealouſy between the Old and New-Engliſhmen, and the Benefits of Britons under the Britiſh Conſtitution forever hereafter be mutually enjoyed."——

Feb. 6. By Letters from Marlborough we learn, that on Sunday Morning laſt, about Sun-riſe, they were viſited with a conſiderable Shock of an Earthquake, tho' not of very long Duration.

A Gentleman from Marblehead informs us, that on Thurſday laſt Capt. Bowden arrived there from Haliſax, and having expos'd a ſtamped News-Paper, which he brought from thence, the Populace aſſembled to the Number of ſeveral Hundreds on the Training-Hill (ſo called) where they ſoon erected a ſtately Bonfire, with a Staff in the Centre, whereon they hoiſted the Object of their Diſpleaſancy, and the whole was conſumed amidſt the loudeſt Acclamations of Loyalty to the King, and Love to their Country. After this they retired to a Tavern, where many Toaſts, expreſſive of their Regard to the happy Conſtitution procur'd by their Anceſtors, were drank;—and Peace and good Harmony crown'd the Night.

NEWPORT, January 27.

Extract of a Letter from Providence, Jan. 29, 1766.

—"Capt. Eſek Hopkins is arrived from Antigua, but laſt from Turks Iſland in 23 Days, who informs that the Stamp-Officer at Antigua, Mr. Warner, declined that Office; whereupon the Governor appointed the Secretary to diſtribute the Stamp Papers: That after his Arrival at Turks Iſland, viz. on the 3d of January, a Veſſel arrived there from Antigua, which left that Place the 25th or 26th of December, the Maſter of which informed Captain Hopkins that two Veſſels had arrived at Antigua from New-York, with Proviſions, &c. whoſe Orders were not to ſell at any Iſland where the Stamp-Papers were uſed; which when communicated to the Merchants and other Inhabitants of the Iſland, they immediately waited on the Secretary, and demanded a Surrender of the Stamp Papers, which were accordingly howe aſide, and Veſſels were actually cleared out without Stamps when he came away. A noble Example this of the Owners of thoſe Veſſels, and which we hope will be followed, and all Veſſels bound to the Weſt-Indies have the like Orders."——

From the Antigua Gazette, Dec. 24, 1765.

THE Printer having applied to Mr. William Atkinſon for STAMPS, has received the following Anſwer, which he inſerts, not doubting its giving great Pleaſure and Satisfaction to every reader who is a Lover of his Country.

"SIR, December 25, 1765.

"IT is not in my Power to ſatisfy you with the Stamp-Paper you require, having laid down that Office ſome Days ago. I am, Sir,

Your Humble Servant, WM. ATKINSON.

To Mr. Alexander Shipton."

 The News-Papers before the above, from November 18, were ſtamped, but are now printed without.

* * *

Circulati, St. JAMES's, 24th October, 1765.

Duplicati.

GETLEMEN,

IT is with the greateſt Concern that His Majeſty learns, the Diſturbances which have ariſen in ſome of the Northern American Colonies; if this Evil ſhould ſpread to the Government of Rhode-Iſland, where you preſide, the utmoſt Exertion of your Prudence will be neceſſary, ſo as juſtly to temper your Conduct, between that Caution and Coldneſs, which the Delicacy of ſuch a Situation may demand on the one Hand, and the Vigour neceſſary to ſurpreſs Out-rage and Violence on the other.——It is impoſſible at this Diſtance to aſſiſt you by any particular or poſitive Inſtructions, becauſe you will find yourſelf neceſſarily obliged to take your Reſolution, as particular Circumſtances and Emergencies may require.—His Majeſty and the Servants he honours with his Confidence, cannot but lament the ill-adviſ'd Intemperance choſen already in ſome of the Provinces, by taking up a Conduct, which can in no Ways contribute to the Removal of any real Greivance they might labour under, but may tend to obſtruct and impede the Exertion of his Majeſty's benevolent Attention to the Eaſe and Comfort, as well as Well-fare of all his People.—It is hoped and expected, that the Want of Confidence in the Juſtice and Tenderneſs of the Mother Country, and the great Reſiſtance to its Authority, can only have found Place among the lower and more ignorant of the People; the better and wiſer Part of the Colonies well know that Decency and Submiſſion may prevail, not only to Redreſs Grievancies, but to obtain Grace and Favour, while the Outrage of a publick Violence can expect nothing but Severity and Chaſtiſment.——Theſe Sentiments, you and all His Majeſty's Servants, from a Senſe of the Duty to, and Love of your Country, will endeavour to excite and encourage.——You will alſo in a particular Manner call upon them not to render their Caſe deſperate.—You will in the ſtrongeſt Colours repreſent to them the dreadful Conſequences that muſt inevitably attend the forcible and violent Reſiſtance to Acts of the Britiſh Parliament; and the Scene of Miſery and Calamity to themſelves, and of mutual Weakneſs and Diſtraction of both Countries, Inſeperable from ſuch a Conduct; if by lenient and perſuaſive Methods, you can contribute to reſtore that Peace and Tranquility to the Provinces on which their Welfare and Happineſs depend, you will do a moſt acceptable and eſſential Service to your Country.——But having taken every Step, which the utmoſt Prudence and Lenity can dictate, in Compaſſion to the Folly and Ignorance of ſome miſguided People;--you will not on the other Hand fail to uſe your utmoſt Power for repelling all Acts of Outrage and Violence, and to provide for the Maintainance of Peace and good Order in the Province, by ſuch a timely Exertion of Force, as the Occaſion may require.——For which Purpoſe, you will make the proper Application to General Gage and Lord Colvel, Commanders of His Majeſty's Land and Naval Forces in America. For however unwillingly His Majeſty may conſent to the Exertion of ſuch Power, as may endanger a ſingle Subject; yet can he not permit his own Dignity, and the Authority of the Britiſh Legiſlature to be trampled on by Force and Violence, and in an avow'd Contempt of all Order, Duty and Decorum. If the Subject is agrieved, he knows in what Manner legally and conſtitutionally, to apply for Relief; but it is not ſuitable either to the Safety or Dignity of the Britiſh Empire, that any Individual, under Pretence of Redreſſing Greivances, ſhall preſume to violate the Publick Peace. I am,

With great Truth and Regard,

Your moſt Obedient Humble Servant,

H. S. CONWAY.

NEW-HAVEN, January 31.

Buſineſs has been tranſacted as formerly at the Cuſtom Houſe in this Town, for a Month paſt.

'Tis ſaid that on Wedneſday Evening laſt a Number openly aſſembled in this Town and forcibly took a Seafaring Man from a Tavern who was convicted as a mercenary Informer. A Conſtable ſoon appeared to ſuppreſs the Riot, but his Endeavours were fruitleſs. They then obliged the Man to accompany them to the Neck Bridge, where they whipp'd him and obliged him to depart the Town immediately with only the Clothes he had on, the Remainder of which they promiſed to ſend after him; and charged him never to return to this Town leſt he ſhould be ſaluted with a ſecond Part of the ſame Tune, with new Additions in a higher Strain.

Several young People of both Sexes in this Town having conceived an extream Diſlike to a new Grand-Jury-man, for being (as they are perſuaded) too rigid, inquiſitive and covetous in the Exerciſe of his Office, laſt Night the Male Part burnt his Effigy on the Green near the Court-Houſe. Numerous are the Stories told to render him odious.——

Agreeable to an Advertiſement, ſigned by a Majority of the Select Men of this Town, it is ſuppoſed there will be the moſt numerous Meeting that ever was known here, in order to petition Authority to carry on Buſineſs as formerly.

HARTFORD.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in London, to his Friend in Connecticut.

"The glorious and ſpirited Behaviour of your CountryMen, together with a late Change in the Adminiſtration, has altered the Thoughts of many, and I believe, will occaſion a new Syſtem of Politicks in Regard to America, and I hope will prove very beneficial both to the Colonies and the Mother Country. The Act for taxing you, I always thought, and have often told you, I could not think conſiſtent with the Principles of this free Government; but as far as it tends to deprive you of a Trial by Juries, I think is contradictory both in Letter and Spirit, to the 29th Chapter of MAGNA CHARTA, &c."

LITCHFIELD, February 1, 1766.

AT the Deſire of ſeveral of the Towns in this County, by their Agents, choſen and ſent here for that Purpoſe, a Meeting was called, of the Free-born Sons of Liberty, to meet at the Court-Houſe in this Town; and being aſſembled, to the Number of about forty or fifty Perſons, proceeded upon the Buſineſs for which they met: And, notwithſtanding the great Oppoſition they met with, from Col. E——r M——ſh, and one S——n S——e (whereby the Meeting was much hindered) yet they came to the Choice of five Gentlemen, who were to act as Agents, and are to join the Gentlemen from the other Towns in the County, who are to meet here, at a general County Meeting, to be held on the Second Tueſday of February, 1766, at 10 o'Clock in the Forenoon; when it is expected they will come to ſuch Reſolves as they ſhall think moſt Conducive to prevent the Thing we fear from ever taking Place among us.

The Meeting would have been conducted with the utmoſt good Agreement and Diſpatch, had it not been for the Gentlemen mentioned above, who employ'd all their Power to render it abortive, not only by conſuming the Time in long and needleſs Speeches (wherein Mr. M——ſh eſpecially diſcovered to all preſent, an inexhauſtible Fund of Knowledge, by ſeveral new-coined Words, unknown in the Engliſh Language before) but they alſo oppoſed by their Votes, almoſt every Motion that was made to forward it.

February, 6th, 1766.

WHEREAS a legal Aſſignment of the Eſtate of William Redfield of Middletown, an Inſolvent Debtor, hath been made to us the Subſcribers, who are appointed Truſtees to receive the ſame for the only uſe and Benefit of the Creditors of ſaid William, agreeable to a late Act of this Colony, made to prevent Fraud in Debtors, &c. Theſe are therefore in Purſuance of ſaid Act, to notify all the Creditors of ſaid William to meet at the Dwelling Houſe of Abigail Shalor in ſaid Middletown, on the laſt Tueſday of February Inſtant, then and their to do and tranſact ſuch neceſſary Buſineſs, as in and by ſaid Act is provided.

RICHARD ALSOP,
GEO: PHILIPS,
COMFORT SAGE, } Truſtees.

NEW-YORK, January 30.

We are deſired to inſert the following Intelligence concerning the Ilinois, which may be depended upon as authentic.

Certain Advices have been received, of the Ilinois having been taken Poſſeſſion of, early in October, by the Party who ſet out in Auguſt from Fort Pitt: The French Commandant has delivered up all the Forts, and all the Countries ceded by the Treaty (to Capt. Stirling, who commanded the Detachment) and was preparing to ſet out with a French Garriſon, for a Settlement they have on the other Side of the River.

The Intelligence from that Quarter mentions, that the Reſort of Indians at Fort Chartres in the Spring, is very great, often amounting to Four Thouſand and upwards, and the Trade there of Courſe very conſiderable; This comprehending that with the Indians on the Ouabache, which the Traders who proceed to the Ilinois Country, from the Provinces of Pennſylvania, Maryland and Virginia, muſt naturally fall into, as they paſs cloſe by them in their Route, will be an Object of great Conſideration to theſe Provinces: The Precautions neceſſary to be taken, to almoſt enſure Succeſs, is to ſet out early in order to gain the Fort, both for Security before the tumultuous aſſemblage of ſo many Indians, as well as to arrive before the French Traders ſhall be able to puſh up the Miſſiſippi: In order to effect which, they can't be too early in building their Craft at Fort Pitt; indeed the Adventurers of next Year have no Time to loſe.

Laſt Monday Capt. Viner Leycraft, jun. arrived here from Jamaica, in 5 Weeks: By him we learn that all the Men of War, except the Admiral's Ship, were out on a Cruiſe; that the Captains Guilford, Doran, and Orford, from this Port, were arrived there; as were alſo Capt. Long, and ſome others, from Philadelphia; that Capt. Campbell, in a large Sloop from Philadelphia for Jamaica, was caſt away on the Eaſt Cacuiſas; that he ſaw a large Ship aſhore at Maguana, and a Sloop lying along Side of her; and that the Negroes at St. Mary's, on the Iſland of Jamaica, were very rebellious of late.

By a Letter from Jamaica we learn, that Bread is like to be a very ſcarce Article in that Iſland.

Private Letters from England by the late Veſſels, adviſe, that great Uneaſineſs prevails among the Manufacturers in general, and all that have any Connection with them; that ſeveral Petitions were preparing to be preſented to the Parliament, as ſoon as it met, to repreſent Grievances, and obtain a Repeal of the Acts that have occaſioned them; particularly the Stamp-Act, which was becoming as odious in England as in America: That great Numbers, warmly intereſted themſelves againſt it, both by ſpeaking and writing; that the Oppoſition made to it in America, was in general highly approved in England; and it was the current Report and Opinion in London, that the Act would be immediately repealed or ſuſpended as ſoon as the Parliament met: That General Amherſt was often conſulted, and always gave Advice, and acted as a true Friend to the Colonies, contrary to the Opinion that had been conceived of him by many People in America. That there were various Opinions among the great Men, concerning the Sentiments that the Miniſtry and Parliament would have of our determined Oppoſition to the Act, and what would be their Proceedings thereupon: Some who had been ſo intoxicated with Power, as to think themſelves entitled to an implicit Obedience, whatever Contradiction might appear between their Actions, and the Deſign of their Appointment, received the News of our Proceedings with high Reſentment and Rage, and ſeemed diſpoſed to enforce the Act, whatever Abſurdities it might lead them to, or however ruinous the Conſequences to Great-Britain as well as the Colonies; but the Nation in general thought more reaſonably: And as the Act ſo plainly appeared, to be unconſtitutional and deſtructive in its nature, both to Great-Britain and her Colonies, it was thought that thoſe Perſons who had been moſt active in preventing its Execution, and thereby the Miſchiefs it would have occaſioned, will at home be conſidered as the greateſt Friends to the Engliſh Government and Nation: And that thoſe who have been moſt officious in promoting its Operation, will be conſidered in another Light, and as being more attentive to preſerve the Power of Men in Power, than the Rights and Privileges of their Country.

The Engliſh Papers abound with ſenſible Pieces in our Favor, and we are obliged to our Correſpondents for many more upon the ſame Side of the Queſtion, of American Production.

We hear Capt. Chambers brought over 8 Packages of Stamped Paper, &c. which were lodged in the City Hall.

As the Noiſe of the American Reſentment to the Stamp-Act, muſt have been known in London, before this Cargo was ſhip'd, it is very ſurpriſing that any Captain ſhould be ſo hardy as to take them on board.

MILFORD, (Connecticut) January 29.

Was taken up (ſtraggling) a Sheet of the deteſtable Stamped Paper, and on Information being given by a true and loyal Son of Liberty, the ſame was ſeriouſly taken into Conſideration, by the honorable Committee of Inſpection, and by fair Trial (without the Conſent or Approbation of the Court of Admiralty) being impeached, and found guilty of Slavery and Impoſition ſentenced to be burnt by the Hands of the Common Hangman; which Sentence was accordingly put in Execution the ſame Evening, between the Hours of Seven and Eight.

Colony of Connecticut,
Hartford County, ſſ. } Middletown, Jan. 23d, 1766.

WHEREAS purſuant to an Act, or Law of ſaid Colony, entitled "An Act to prevent Fraud in Debtors, and for the ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors, for the Uſe of their Creditors," &c. Thomas Burr of Hartford, in ſaid County, an Inſolvent Debtor, in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors, in Number and Value, hath exhibited his Petition, with an Account of the Sums by him owing and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, of ſaid County, and SETH WETMORE, Eſq; Juſtice of the Peace and Quorum, for ſaid County, praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of, for the Uſe of ſaid Creditors.

Publick Notice is hereby given, to all the Creditors of ſaid Thomas Burr, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mrs. Abigail Shalor, Innholder in Middletown, in ſaid County, on the Eighteenth of February next, to ſhew Reaſon (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of ſaid Thomas Burr ſhould not be made, and his Perſon diſcharged, according to the Regulation of ſaid Act.

Hartford, January 27th, 1766.

THIS may Certify the Creditors of Mr. Samuel Cole, of Farmington, an inſolvent Debtor, that a legal Aſſignment of ſaid Samuel's Eſtate is made to us the Subſcribers, authoriſed to diſpoſe of the ſame according to Law; and that therefore, they are hereby deſired to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Capt. Solomon Cowls, in Farmington, on Thurſday the 25th of February next, to proceed on Buſineſs relative thereto.

SOLOMON WHITMAN,
JOHN COLEMAN, } Truſtees.
JAMES WADSWORTH,

Hartford, January 27, 1766.

A Legal Aſſignment of the Eſtate of Samuel Holman of Hartford, an Inſolvent Debtor, is made to the Subſcribers, who are appointed Truſtees, to diſpoſe of the ſame as the Law Directs. This therefore is to notify all the ſaid Holman's Creditors, to meet at his Dwelling-Houſe in Hartford, on Tueſday, the 18th Day of February next, to proceed in Buſineſs relative to ſuch Aſſignment.

RUSSEL WOODBRIDGE,
JOSEPH MAKEN, } Truſtees.
JOHN COLEMAN,

Somers, January 31, 1766.

THIS may certify the creditors of George Wood, of Somers, in Hartford County, an Inſolvent Debtor, that a legal Aſſignment of ſaid Wood's Eſtate, is made to us the Subſcribers, authoriſed to diſpoſe of the ſame as the law directs. Said creditors are hereby notified to meet at Mr. Amos Sexton's Tavern, in ſaid Somers, on Wedneſday, the 19th of February next, at one o'clock in the afternoon to proceed on Buſineſs relative to ſaid Aſſignment.

SAMUEL RAYNOLDS,
ROBERT PEASE, jun. } Truſtees.
REUBEN SIKES,

Hartford, February 12, 1766.

NOTICE is hereby given to all the Creditors of Nathaniel Chapin of Enfield, an Inſolvent Debtor, to meet at ſaid Chapin's Dwelling-Houſe, in Enfield, on the fourth Tueſday of February inſtant, then to exhibit, and prove their Demands againſt ſaid Eſtate, and to tranſact what other Buſineſs ſhall then be thought neceſſary.

SILAS DEAN,
NATHANIEL TERRY jun. } Truſtees.
WILLIAM ADAMS,

Kenſington, January 30th, 1766.

WHEREAS I am ſuſpicious that my Wife Prudence Tooley, will without my Knowledge or Conſent, involve me in Debt, whereby much Unneceſſary Charges and Trouble will be brought upon me; This is publickly to notify, and forbid all Perſons whatſoever, vending, trading or truſting of her upon my Credit, hereby fully manifeſting and declaring that I will never pay or diſcharge any Debt or Debts thus contracted by her, without my Knowledge or Conſent.

JOHN TOOLEY.

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, February 17, 1766. No. 60.

Milford

(The Remainder of the Piece begun in our laſt.)

FRANCE in Violation of the Peace, with a ſtrong Hand had poſſeſs'd and built Forts to ſecure the Poſſeſſion of a very fine Country belonging to Great Britain: this ſhe held againſt all Claims and Remonſtrances from the Britiſh Court: At Length to remove theſe Encroachments, General Braddock was ſent from England—the French and Indians deſtroy'd him——this and other Inſults, on the Part of France, brought on the War. With what Truth can it be ſaid, 'twas for the Sake of the Colonies, when the Country in Queſtion was very diſtant from them, and the ungranted Property of Great-Britain. However, for once, let us ſuppoſe (what is not) that the War was undertaken for the Sake, or rather for the Protection of the Colonies; is not the Intereſt of Great Britain more concerned to protect her Colonies (who call about two Millions Sterling into her Lap, annually, for Manufactures) than ſhe is to protect Germany and Portugal: yet Germany and Portugal have been protected at a far greater Expence than this Continent. Here, with the Help of the Colonies, a Country is conquer'd ſufficient for an Empire; and under good Uſeage his Majeſty's Dominions in North America, promiſe fair one Day to render Great Britain the greateſt Monarchy under the Sun; and every Penny expended here, is returned with additional Sums for Manufactury: on the contrary, nothing is gained in Germany, and the many Millions there ſpent never to return. Portugal is an advantageous Trade, but in no Degree equal to the Colonies. After all, as before obſerved, 'twas neither for Germany, Portugal, or the Colonies, that our Mother Country enter'd into the War, her reſtleſs Enemy, violated the Peace in many Inſtances, to have borne which, would have render'd her perfectly ignominious, and this forced Great Britain to Arms. Theſe Things being truly repreſented, as I dare ſay, they really are, who of common Senſe won't acknowledge that theſe Colonies, far from being a vaſt Coſt and Burthen to the Mother Country to plant, protect them, &c. have, on the contrary, been to her, of much Advantage, in Point of Aſſiſtance, prodigiouſly enlarged her Trade, and thereby added to her Wealth and Power, beyond what can be readily conceived of.—And is it for this we are to be ſtript of our natural and covenanted Rights? Great-Britain is incapable of ſuch a Proceeding. Permit me juſt to mention a Grievance of our American Soldiery. Generous Grants of Land was made to the King's Troops (as a Reward for conquering the French Provinces, &c.) this News was received by the honeſt Americans with joyful and grateful hearts, but alas! they are ſoon told they can't read; the grant is to the King's Troops. Thus the brave Men who had taken Cape Breton, which procured Peace to Europe; had beat the French General Dieſkau, with his Regular Troops, before any Forces came from England, and ſerv'd their King faithfully, through the war, are not his Majeſty's Troops; and ſo turn'd off with a leſs Reward than the Hounds have, when the Hare is catch'd.

OFFICER. Allowing every Thing to be as you have repreſented, how is it poſſible ſome of your great Men in this Colony, can be in Favor of the Stamp-Act, and uſe their Endeavour to encourage and promote it?

COLONIST. The Truth of this, ſo near as I can obtain, is, the principal Gentlemen are indeed divided, upon the Queſtion, Is it, or is it not, expedient to adminiſter an Oath, required by the King and Parliament, in the Caſe? Thoſe in the Negative, ſay, it may not be adminiſtered: the Thing is unconſtitutional, unprecedented, ſubverſive of our natural and charter Rights; 'tis in a Degree owning, eſpouſing, and countenancing the Act; will be ſo conſtrued, and poſſibly give Encouragement for further Attempts to fix the cruel Chains forever on us and our Poſterity: Nay, 'tis a Violation of the ſolemn Oath, by which we are already engaged; therefore, we abſolutely proteſt againſt its being adminiſtered. The Gentlemen in the Affirmative, ſay, To adminiſter the Oath can, with no more Reaſon be deemed an approving, or eſpouſing the Act, than when any other required Oath is adminiſtered, in what cauſe ſoever, can be ſaid to be an approving or eſpouſing that Cauſe, and can be no Violation of our ſacred Engagement: On the Contrary, 'tis our Opinion, the Safety of this People, makes it neceſſary that the Oath be adminiſtered: What Gentleman does not know there is Danger, that a Neglect in the Caſe may be called an Oppoſition or Reſiſtance of the high Authority who requires it? And who will anſwer to the People, for ſuch Conſequences as may happen thereon? For our Parts, we dare not tempt their Ruin, nor the Loſs of their Privileges, by ſuch Neglect. Something in this wiſe, it ſeems the Gentlemen ſtood divided; but to ſay that they are divided, as to approving, or diſapproving the Stamp-Act, is a Report not only highly injurious to thoſe Gentlemen, but more eſpecially to the Colony; for, ſhould it be credited in England, that the Colonies ſtand divided or doubtful, how will it encourage their Enemies, and weaken their Friends!—Dear Sir, when you reach that happy Land, do Juſtice to the diſtreſt Coloniſts, and ſay, they are one and all determined, abſolutely determined, that the Stamp-Act has a Tendency utterly ſubverſive of their Liberties, and Privileges, as Engliſhmen, a Grievance inſupportable.

Another Thing perfectly amazes the Coloniſts: "The Money to be raiſed is for our future Protection." Did our Mother Country ſay, they forget Protection, when from Time to Time we were ſtruggling in our Blood, ſhed too plentifully and cruelly, beyond Expreſſion: Did ſhe forget it, when the Duke d'Anville, with the moſt formidable Fleet that had ever been ſeen in American Seas, whoſe Thunder ſeemed ſufficient to ſhake us into Atoms; When this mighty Fleet came to wreak on theſe Colonies the Vengeance of France, for the Loſs of Cape-Breton? Nay, did her then Miniſtry forget even to adviſe the faithful, loyal Colonies, of this impending Danger, that they might prepare to fight, or fly for their Lives; but leave us to be [illegible] and [illegible] (had not Heaven fought for us, and viſited with a mortal Sickneſs this very powerful Armament.) I forbear to ſay further of ſuch Matters; 'tis miniſterial Conduct has forced out this. And are we indeed now to be protected by Britiſh Troops, when Canada, our once capital Enemy, is become our fellow Subject, and the Savages by no Means formidable, their Numbers few, and us Canada to pay, ſupply, or join them!

There may be Danger from the new-conquered Provinces. What Danger? Allow them freely to eat the Honey and drink the Milk of the Britiſh Conſtitution uncloy'd, will they want to return to Bondage and Slavery? But allow them to be for returning, what is their Strength? Formerly the Country was inacceſſible, and France ſupporting them; now the Country is open, France, without Leave from G. Britain can give no conſiderable Aſſiſtance; & we are more than ten to one their Number. The tryed Coloniſts may ſafely be depended upon, to preſerve his Majeſty's American Dominions, againſt all Force in this Part of the World: And ſo the very avow'd Deſign of the Taxation is at an End.

OFFICER. Accept my beſt Thanks for this Intelligence. When I reach England, depend, Sir, I ſhall be no Foe to the brave Americans.

COLONIST. May you have a ſafe Paſſage to that Land which we yet delight to call the Land of our Fathers. Tell in England our State; dear Mother Country, we, her Children, aſk no Portion, only the Liberty to work for her unchained, as, for more than a Century paſt, we have faithfully done.

I cannot part, without adding, The Coloniſts are far from imputing any hard Things to the good People of England, much leſs to our moſt gracious King, the beſt of Monarchs, for whoſe Honor and Defence they ever ſtand ready, with Life and Fortune; nor to the Britiſh Parliament, the great Conſervators of Engliſh Liberty; but to the overbearing Influence of ſome then in Power, diſtaſteful to the Kingdom, who endeavoured (before the Parliament could be fully informed) to render themſelves popular, tho' at the Ruin of the Colonies. Our Confidence is, that when all is underſtood, we ſhall be delivered.

Sir, Adieu!

Monday-Night laſt arrived at Boſton, Capt. Dixcey, from London, in 35 Days; by whom we have the public Prints to the 27th of December, from which we have extracted the following Articles, viz.

From the LONDON GAZETTE.

WESTMINSTER, December 17. THIS day his Majeſty came to the Houſe of Peers, and being in his royal robes ſeated on the throne with the uſual ſolemnity, Sir Francis Molineux, Knt. Gentleman Uſher of the Black Rod, was ſent with a meſſage from his Majeſty to the Houſe of Commons, commanding their attendance in the Houſe of Peers. The Commons being come thither accordingly, His Majeſty was pleaſed to make the following moſt gracious Speech.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

"THE preſent general ſtate of tranquility in Europe, gave me hopes, that it would not have been neceſſary to aſſemble my Parliament ſooner than is uſual in times of Peace.

But, as matters of importance have lately occurred in ſome of my Colonies in America, which will demand the moſt ſerious attention of Parliament and as further informations are daily expected from different parts of that country, of which I ſhall order the fulleſt accounts to be prepared for your conſideration; I have thought fit to call you together, in order that opportunity may thereby be given, to iſſue the neceſſary writs on the many Vacancies that have happened in the Houſe of Commons ſince the laſt Seſſion; ſo that the Parliament may be full, to proceed immediately after the uſual receſs, on the conſideration of ſuch weighty matters as will come before you."

Yeſterday the Hon. Lord Camden, Lord Spencer, and Lord Digby, took the oaths and their ſeats in the Houſe of Peers.

LONDON.

Dec. 16. The Counter-Orders for Goods commiſſioned from the Britiſh Settlements in America, on account of the Stamp-Duty, are ſaid to amount to the value of 700,000l. ſterling.

We hear that as America was conquered in Germany, ſo the Favourite will at laſt be ſubdued in America, and that he will ſoon fall into the PITT, which he has long been digging for others.

The reports of the day, which are credited at the Weſt end of the Town, are, that the Right Hon. Mr. Pitt will very ſhortly join the miniſtry; but that Earl Temple will not; that a certain intended ſpeech is ſo framed, that no objections can reaſonably be made to it; and that, in conſequence, no debates will happen upon that ſubject on Tueſday next.

We hear an eſtimate of the public debt contracted during the late war, on account of the North-American Colonies, is now making out to be laid before an auguſt aſſembly.

We hear that expreſſes relative to the Stamp-duty, were on Friday ſent off to the governors of New-York and South-Carolina.

Some of the Weſt-India merchants ſeem ſo certain of affairs being ſoon happily ſettled in America, that they are proceeding to the completing of their conditional orders from thence.

Dec. 15. It is ſaid an embargo will ſoon be laid on the foreign exportation of iron ordnance and naval ſtores, except cleared out for our own ſettlements in America, or the Coaſt of Africa.

Dec. 24. By all our late advices from North-America, we learn that Miniſters of State are not more fortunate there in pleaſing the people, than they are in England; and yet 'tis certain that no man could exert himſelf more for the real proſperity and happineſs of a people, than the late Miniſter did for that of our colonies, by opening their eyes in order to ſee their true intereſt, and compelling them to a determination of becoming manufacturers, and for which every colony in gratitude ought to erect his ſtatue; and for this his ſignal ſervice done to our fellow ſubjects in America, we ought not to neglect rewarding him.

We hear that all the letters, petitions, memorials, &c. tranſmitted from the American Colonies to the Miniſtry, are now printing by high authority, in order to be laid before an auguſt aſſembly.

An eſtimate of the value of the Stamp papers lately deſtroyed by the populace in North-America, is preparing to be laid before an auguſt aſſembly: the loſs is computed to exceed forty thouſand pounds.

Thirty eight writs were iſſued by the Houſe of Commons for the Election of Members in the ſtead of thoſe who have taken places or are deceaſed.

It has been obſerved as a remarkable coincidence, that his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland, a name ſo ſuſpicious to Britiſh Liberty, departed this Life the evening before the Stamp-Act was to take place in America.

On Wedneſday, at the King's arms tavern in Cornhill, there was a very numerous Meeting of the Merchants of this City, trading to North-America, when Mr. Alderman Trecothick being unanimouſly voted to the chair, a committee was appointed (conſiſting of principal merchants, trading to each colony), to ſolicit ſome effectual remedy in the preſent diſtreſſed ſtate of the trade to the colonies, ſo eſſentially neceſſary for the ſupport of the manufactories of this kingdom.

BOSTON, February 13.

In almoſt all the Engliſh Papers are inſerted Extracts from the Charters of the Colonies.——The Reſolutions of the Houſes of Aſſemblies.——Of the Congreſs.——Inſtructions to the Members of Aſſembly from Cambridge, Plymouth, Marblehead, &c.——Reſolutions of the Merchants at New-York, and Philadelphia, not to ſend for Goods until the Stamp-Act is repealed,—As alſo all the Proceedings of the Sons of Liberty on the Continent of America, to the 7th of November. Theſe Tranſactions being well known here, it is needleſs to republiſh them.—It is ſaid People at Home univerſally approve of their Proceedings reſpecting their Oppoſition to the Taxation; only the Deſtruction of private Property they condemn. J—n H—ke in the H—e of C——s very facetiouſly called upon G— G——e as follows, "So my Lord, I perceive I have had the Honor to be hung in Effigie along ſide your Lordſhip in America,"———meaning the Affair at Liberty Tree in Boſton on the 1ſt of November laſt. A great number of Veſſels were put up for this Place, but no Freights; nor were any expected until Spring; before which Time it was hoped the Stamp Act would be repealed.

The principal Merchants trading this Way were of Opinion that Mr. Pitt and Earl Temple would ſoon be at the Head of the Miniſtry.

Publiſhed in London. The Neceſſity of Repealing the American Stamp Act demonſtrated; or, A Proof that Great-Britain muſt be injured by that Act.

We hear that ſeveral Cargoes of Deals have lately been ſhipped from the Port of London for the Weſt Indies, as the Merchants there expected all Navigation from America would ceaſe after the 1ſt of November, on Account of the Determination not to clear out Veſſels from thence on Stamp Papers.

Extract of a Letter from London.

"The preſent Adminiſtration are actuated by Motives truly patriotic, the following Fact will exhibit the moſt ſubſtantial Proof: It having been long complained that our Trade was greatly upon the Decline, ſome Gentlemen of diſtinguiſhed Abilities, were pitched upon to apply to the Manufacturers themſelves, in different Places, as the moſt effectual Means to come to the Knowledge of Facts. Sir Wm. M—h was ſome Time at Mancheſter, and other Parts of Lancaſhire, upon this very Errand: Another Gentleman, under the Direction of the Marquis of R——m was at Halifax, and other Places of the Weſt Riding of Yorkſhire. The Enquiries have ſo far ſucceeded that Memorials have been actually ſent up from the Manufacturers and Merchants; by which ſuch Meaſures are pointed out, as, it is hoped, will reſtore our Commerce to its former flouriſhing State."

Extract from another Letter.

"The Diſturbances in North America about the Stamps are very alarming, and cauſes great Uneaſineſs to thoſe Gentlemen who have large Sums due to them there: The Stagnation of Remittances for a few Months may be attended with bad Conſequences.—You are very right with Regard to the Method of that Trade from the Body of Merchants trading to the ſeveral Provinces, who, in Conjunction with thoſe concerned in the Trade thither, intend to apply to Parliament for ſome Redreſs with reſpect to the American Trade; and 'tis hoped the Government will repeal the Stamp Act, from a Conviction that the late Miniſtry have done wrong."

Extract of a private Letter from London.

"On Tueſday 24th December there was a warm Debate in the H——e of C———ns, what ſhould be done with the rebellious Americans (for 'tis the general Opinion that your Oppoſition has led you into Meaſures rather too licentious, tho' God knows I am no Friend to the Stamp-Act) Mr. G--nv-lle was exceſſively warm on the Occaſion, and urged that a large Force be ſent out to deſtroy you, to my amazement 29 of the preſent Members concurred with him; but there were 80 Members who as warmly oppoſed thoſe Meaſures, and you may reſt ſatisfied that every thing will be ſettled to your Satiſfaction very ſoon."

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in London, dated December 22, 1765.

"The Parliament met laſt Tueſday; two Days they were debating the American Riots; which many called Rebellion: The preſent Miniſtry are calm and diſpationate, willing to redreſs all Grievances; and thank God, have a Majority in both Houſes. Much Heat and Altercation will ariſe to make it a long and warm Seſſions. In my next I hope to give you ſome more favourable Accounts."

Extract of another Letter of the ſame Date.

"I am now at the Court End of the Town, and have the Pleaſure to inform you, that the City and Country are all in your Favor; I make no Doubt the Stamp Act will be repealed."

On the 13th of December a Deputation from the Merchants of London, trading to North-America, waited on the Miniſtry, to requeſt their Countenance and Support, in the intended Application to Parliament, for the Relief of the Colonies, and of the Trade to theſe Parts.—A Liſt of the Deputation is as follows. For Canada, Mr. John Strettle; Mr. Anthony Vialars, jun'r.—Newfoundland, Mr. Grey Olive; Mr. John Merry——New-Hampſhire, Maſſachuſetts, Rhode-Iſland and Connecticut, Meſſieures Barnard, Deberdt, Hayley, Lane, Harriſon and Trecothick——for New-York and New-Jerſey, Meſſ. Neate, Neave, Harris, Chambers, and Ray—for Pennſylvania, Meſſ. Barclay and Mildred—Maryland, Meſſ. Buchanan and Stewart—Virginia, Meſſ. Athawes and Hanbury—North-Carolina, Meſſ. Franklin and Bridgen——S. Carolina, Meſſ. Greenwood and Crokatt—Georgia, Mr. Charles Ogilvie and Mr. Clark—Florida, Mr. Alexander Hannay.

NEW-YORK, February 6.

At a Meeting of the Sons of Liberty, laſt Tueſday Evening, at the Houſe of Mr. Howard, in this City; a Committee was appointed (by the unanimous Conſent of the whole Body) in order to correſpond with the Sons of Liberty in the Neighbouring Colonies. The next Meeting is appointed to be held at the ſame Place, on Tueſday Evening, the 18th Inſtant.

On Thurſday laſt Capt. Mackey arrived here from Barbadoes in 22 Days: He ſays two Veſſels lately arrived there from the Continent without ſtamped Papers, and were admitted to an Entry; but that a Man of War was diſpatched to Antigua, to the Admiral, to know his Sentiments of the Matter.

Saturday laſt arrived Capt. Lindſay, from St. Euſtatia, in 22 Days, but laſt from South-Carolina in 8: He ſays, there has been much Diſturbances in Georgia about the curſed Stamp-Act, and 150 ſail of Veſſels lay ready loaded at Charles-Town, when he came away, and that not one of them could obtain a Clearance for Departure.

From the Firſt of November 1765, to the 17th of Dec. following, ſeventy-two Veſſels were entered in the Cuſtom Houſe in South-Carolina.

So that upon the whole, 'tis very probable they have in the Harbour of Charles-Town, at this Juncture, not leſs than 250 Sail of Veſſels, and perhaps 200 of that Number belonging to England.

Feb. 13. Capt. Wynn, from Holland, with Palatines, for this Port, is put into Charles-Town, South-Carolina, and was to ſail from thence hither, the firſt Inſtant.

A Frigate that ſailed from Portſmouth, for this Place, in November, with ſome Diſpatches, is alſo put into S. Carolina, having been off the Hook many Days, but could not get in; and was obliged to bear away.

By a Letter from Newbern, in North-Carolina, dated the 15th ult we learn, That the Stamped-Papers was juſt arrived at Wilmington, in that Province, in a Ship of War, and that the ſaid Ship had ſeized a Sloop from Philadelphia, that had arrived there without a ſtamped clearance; on which the Merchants ordered all the Veſſels in the Port to be laid up, amounting to about 24 Sail; and that ſeveral Veſſels at Edentown, that were on the Point of ſailing, had poſtponed the Matter for ſome Time.

HARTFORD, February 17.

Laſt Wedneſday Evening died, in the LXXIIId Year of his Age, Col. JOHN WHITING, Eſq; formerly Treaſury of this Colony.

This Morning died ſuddenly of an Apoplexy, in the LXXIVth Year of her Age, Mrs. MARY PITKIN, Conſort of the Honorable WILLIAM PITKIN, Eſq;

Extract of a Letter from London, dated Dec. 26, 1765.

"——I have not much of the political Kind, to ſend you; The Parliament has met, and adjourn'd to the 24th of January; there was conſiderable Debate in the Houſe, on forming an Addreſs, in Anſwer to the King's Speech; Mr. G——e expreſs'd himſelf very warmly on the late Behaviour of the Americans, ſtiling their Tranſactions in Oppoſition to the Stamp-Duty, OPEN REBELLION, inſtead of LATE OCCURRENCES, which the King termed them in his Speech. This occaſion'd ſundry Members to cry, To the Tower, To the Tower."

STray'd or Stolen from the Subſcriber of Granville, 13th Inſt. a dark Brown Mare, natural Pacer, trots ſome, about 14 Hands high, about 8 Years old, ſhod before, no Brand or Mark:—Whoever ſhall take up ſaid Mare, and the Thief that ſtole her (if ſtolen) and return her to the Subſcriber, ſhall be well rewarded for their Trouble, beſides all neceſſary Charges paid,

By BENJ. OLDS.

TO BE SOLD BY
THOMAS DAVIDSON,
Oppoſite the North-End of the STATE-HOUSE:

A Neat Aſſortment of Engliſh and Eaſt-India Goods, ſuitable for the Seaſon. Likewiſe Muſcovado Sugars, and Spices of ſundry Kinds: Alſo, Teneriff and Claret Wine, by the ¼ Caſk or Dozen; and a few Buſhels of Seed.

The above Goods will be ſold cheaper than any of the Kind hath been ſold in this Place, for Caſh or Country Produce, ſuch as Wheat, Rye, Indian Corn, Oats, &c. And the higheſt Price, given for the ſame. N, B. Beſt Bohea Tea, and Spaniſh Indigo, Alum, Copperas, Nails, &c. will be ſold on a very ſmall Advance.

Copy of a Letter from a Gentleman in Amenia Precinct, New-York Province, to his Friend in New-York, dated February ——, 1766.

SIR,

THE frequent Arreſts, precipitate and moſt barbarous Impriſonments; and the many public Sales of both Lands, Houſes, Live-Stock, and even houſhold Furniture, which were poſſeſſed by even the beſt Common-wealth's-men, and moſt prudent Farmers among us, are Conſiderations that demand the moſt ſerious Reflection——Men of very conſiderable Intereſts (having become Surety for large Sums of Money, to be paid to Gentlemen in New-York, barely to oblige a Friend in Connecticut) have unreaſonably ſuffered, by thoſe Gentlemen in New-York, who were foreſighted enough to procure Executions in Seaſon, ſo that they might get their Money, notwithſtanding the Stamp-Act; and thoſe Men of Intereſt are not now in a Capacity to recover their Dues in Connecticut, or elſewhere, on Account of ſaid Act. Four or Five Hundred Pounds worth of Eſtate, is bid off at Vendue, for juſt ſuch or ſuch a Sum of Money as the moſt monied Man there preſent ſeems to be poſſeſſed of——and that Sum ſeldom exceeds a Tenth of the real Worth, and the Buyer commonly appears to be the Officer, or Vendue-Maſter, frequently an Under-Sheriff, or Bum-Bailiff, and made up of the moſt Trickeſh of our Species.——A good Yoke of Oxen lately ſold at Vendue, and bid off by one of thoſe Nuſances to the Common Wealth of Iſrael, for Six Pounds only; a very good Bed, and Furniture for the ſame, for a ſingle Forty Shillings; and an exceeding good Cow, for Twenty-ſix Shillings, &c. Theſe, Sir, are ſome of our beſt Sales.—— Oppreſſion! Oppreſſion indeed! This is it in the Abſtract.——I am ſure that thoſe Gentlemen Creditors in New-York, act very unwiſe for themſelves, as well as very unmerciful and barbarous to their Fellow-creatures: For when their Debtor's Eſtates are gone, and gone too, to pay Officer's Fees, and Court-Charges, what will become of their Dues from them? Why, the revengeful will perhaps reply, then put his Body into Priſon. Well, but what if the Goal at Poughkeepſie ſhould not be ſufficient to hold him? For I muſt needs think it would not; no not a ſingle Man, unleſs this horrid Rout is ſtopt.——I am weary of my Life——The Cries of the Poor and really Needy; the Complaints of thoſe who once were poſſeſs'd of Lands, Houſes, &c. the univerſal and inceſſant Hubbub and Clamor up and down our Streets, would afford to the Beholder a lively Repreſentation of the Confuſion at ancient Babel.——And in ſhort, if ſome Remedy (in ſome Meaſure to palliate) is not ſpeedily found out, we ſhall be embroiled in Confuſion.——And where it will end I know not; but 'tis to be feared it will terminate in the entire Overthrow of all Civil Government.

February, 6th, 1766.

WHEREAS a legal Aſſignment of the Eſtate of William Redfield of Middletown, an Inſolvent Debtor, hath been made to us the Subſcribers, who are appointed Truſtees to receive the ſame for the only uſe and Benefit of the Creditors of ſaid William, agreeable to a late Act of this Colony, made to prevent Fraud in Debtors, &c. Theſe are therefore in Purſuance of ſaid Act, to notify all the Creditors of ſaid William to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Abigail Shalor in ſaid Middletown, on the laſt Tueſday of February Inſtant, then and their to do and tranſact ſuch neceſſary Buſineſs, as in and by ſaid Act is provided.

RICHARD ALSOP,
GEO: PHILIPS,
COMFORT SAGE, } Truſtees.

◆ ◆ ◆

Hartford, February 1ſt. 1766.

NOTICE is hereby given to all the Creditors of Nathaniel Chapin of Enfield, an Inſolvent Debtor, to meet at ſaid Chapin's Dwelling-Houſe, in Enfield, on the fourth Tueſday of February Inſtant, then to exhibit, and prove their Demands againſt ſaid Eſtate, and to tranſact what other Buſineſs ſhall then be thought neceſſary.

Silas Dean,
Nathaniel Terry jun } Truſtees.
William Adams,

Somers, January 31, 1766.

THIS may certify the creditors of George Wood, of Somers, in Hartford County, an Inſolvent Debtor, that a legal Aſſignment of ſaid Wood's Eſtate, is made to us the Subſcribers, authoriſed to diſpoſe of the ſame as the law directs. Said creditors are hereby notified to meet at Mr. Amos Sexton's Tavern, in ſaid Somers, on Wedneſday, the 19th of February next, at one o'clock in the afternoon to proceed on Buſineſs relative to ſaid Aſſignment.

SAMUEL RAYNOLDS,
ROBERT PEASE, jun. } Truſtees.
REUBEN SIKES,

● ● ●

Kenſington, January 30th, 1766.

WHEREAS I am ſuſpicious that my Wife Prudence Tooley, will without my Knowledge or Conſent, involve me in Debt, whereby much Unneceſſary Charges and Trouble will be brought upon me: This is publickly to notify, and forbid all Perſons whatſoever, vending, trading or truſting of her upon my Credit, hereby fully manifeſting and declaring that I will never pay or diſcharge any Debt or Debts thus contracted by her, without my Knowledge or Conſent.

JOHN TOOLEY.

LONDON, November 16.

The hon. the Earl of Shannon, we hear, has ſucceeded the Marquis of Kildare in all his public employments.

It is expected that ſome high words will ſhortly happen at Paris, between a certain Embaſſador and a French Miniſter, they being both men of ſpirit.

It is ſaid that a great naval expedition will ſoon be made under the command of an experienced Admiral.

Nov. 14. It is reported that a noble Lord, worn out in the ſervice of his country, will ſoon retire from all public buſineſs, with an appointment of 7000l. per annum.

Private letters from Madrid ſay, that the catholic miniſtry have lower'd their demands for the damage ſuſtained by the ſiege of Manilla to half a million of dollars.

We hear that a treaty is now on the carpet with the court of Spain, for the Engliſh to have liberty to reſort to and cut logwood at Rattan-Iſle, near Campeachy.

It is ſaid ſome ſymptoms of the dropſey begin to appear again in a certain great Perſonage.

From the extra attendance of his Majeſty's Meſſengers, and thoſe of the ſecretaries of ſtate, have, for ſome days paſt, given at the reſpective offices, it is reported that buſineſs of much importance is upon the carpet.

The report of the day is, that the hon. Mr. G. is about to retire from all future connections of a public nature, with a large appointment and peerage.

Letters from different parts of North-America mention, that his majeſty's ſhips of war had taken on board an extra number of ſeamen; a circumſtance which occaſioned much ſpeculation.

It is reported, that except the filling up of vacancies there will be no farther changes in the admiralty till after the meeting of an auguſt aſſembly.

We are informed that there is but little reaſon to apprehend, what the anti-miniſterial writers ſo boldly trumpet forth, that a change of adminiſtration muſt precede, or at leaſt ſoon follow the meeting of parliament.

It is reported, that all our ſea and land officers in the ſervice of a neighbouring Prince, will ſoon be recalled.

Nov. 23. Lord Charles Montague is appointed Governor of South-Carolina.

It is whiſpered, that certain papers of the laſt importance have been found in the cabinet of a deceaſed perſonage, being a compleat key to many ſecret tranſactions during the laſt ten years.

Among other acts ſaid to be in agitation for the benefit of the colonies, it is ſaid, American Lumber will be permitted to be exported to foreign European markets; that their ſoap will be made an enumerated article for exportation, and bar-iron receive a bounty.

We are credibly informed that two American governors have, in their laſt diſpatches home, ſtrongly repreſented the neceſſity of granting a temporary ſuſpenſion of the ſtamp act, until the united ſenſe of the colonies could be laid before the Grand Aſſembly of the mother country.

A letter from Madrid ſays, "The public are greatly pleaſed with the liberty which the King has granted to all his ſubjects indiſcriminately, of trading to our American Colonies."

It is now again confidently aſſerted, that a certain American Governor is actually ſuperceded.

On Sunday night ſeveral packets were ſent by the poſt for Falmouth, to be put on board the Hilſborough packet, which are ſaid to contain ſome further inſtructions to our governors abroad, relating to the new ſtamp-duties in the colonies.

Yeſterday morning died Iſaac Townſend, Eſq; admiral of the white flag.

Lord Camden, we hear, will deliver his opinion concerning the legality of warrants iſſued by Secretaries of ſtate on Wedneſday next.

We hear that in many churches, on Sunday laſt, the ſermons were judiciouſly adapted to the mournful occaſion of publick ſorrow, for the loſs of his late Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland: and particularly we are told, the afternoon preacher in one pariſh church, within the liberty of Weſtminſter, paid a juſt tribute of praiſe to the merits of that amiable Prince, by ſaying, That his country owed to him the moſt eminent ſervices, particularly by repelling the invaſion of daring rebels; whom he drove back to the barren deſerts from whence they came. That he had no friends but the friends of freedom, nor any foes but the enemies of his King, his Country, and his religion: and that his loſs at this time was a great public misfortune, when his councils were ſo needful for the ſupport of a tottering ſtate.

They write from Caithneſs, in the North of Scotland, that one Elizabeth Macpherſon, of that county died there the 29th of laſt month, aged 127 years: till the laſt three months of which ſhe retained all her ſenſes, and lived principally on butter, milk, and greens.

[illegible]

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, February [illegible], 1766. No. [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] to claim a Right to diſpoſe of their Property without their Conſent, given in a conſtitutional Way, is, in Effect to claim a Right to deprive them of all Property at Pleaſure.

V. That for innocent Subjects to be eminently expoſed to certain Ruin, by the Execution of any penal Statute, is (they conceive) utterly irreconcileable with every juſt Idea of Freedom.

VI. That God made Mankind free (as being eſſential to their Happineſs) and as by his Bleſſing, the Advantages of Engliſh Liberty have been handed down to them from their moſt virtuous and loyal Anceſtors, ſo they will endeavour, by all reaſonable Ways and Means within their Power, uprightly to preſerve, and faithfully tranſmit the ſame to their Poſterity.

VII. That they really believe, without the leaſt Shadow of a Doubt, that ſaid Act, impoſing Stamp Duties, &c. is UNCONSTITUTIONAL, and therefore neceſſarily believe that the Obſervance thereof is not OBLIGATORY upon them.

VIII. That any Office for diſtributing Stamp'd Papers in this Colony, appears odious and deteſtable to them, as being, in its Operation, utterly deſtructive of their moſt valuable Rights.

IX. That if any ſtamped Papers ſhall be imported into any Part of this Colony (which they moſt ardently wiſh might never be) they hope the ſpeedieſt public Notice thereof will be given, that the ſame may be preſerved UNTOUCH'D for his Majeſty.

X. That if any Perſon in this Colony has repreſented that the People in it, might, under any poſſible Circumſtances, become willing to have the aforeſaid Act executed upon them, or to have one Farthing of their Property taken from them, except by their own Conſent, given as aforeſaid; they are perſwaded that ſuch Repreſentation muſt have been the Reſult of extreme ſtupid Ignorance, or dictated by a malignant, apoſtate Spirit.

XI. That they will never ſuffer any Jealouſies to ariſe in their Minds, that any Perſon in this Colony is unfriendly to its civil Liberties, except upon the fulleſt, cleareſt, and moſt undeniable Evidence.

XII. That it was never any Part of the Deſign of this Meeting to endeavour to bring about the leaſt Alteration in the Legiſlative Body of this Colony.

[illegible] with an Attention equal to the Importance of the Subject, and with a Reſolution to do every Thing which the Exigency of the Caſe may require.

Attentive to every Event which affects your Majeſty, permit us to congratulate your Majeſty on the Birth of a Prince. Whatever adds to your domeſtic Happineſs, and the Stability and Encreaſe of that Illuſtrious Houſe from which theſe Kingdoms have received the moſt important Benefits, muſt always afford the higheſt Satisfaction to your faithful Subjects.

Animated by the ſame Sentiments of Zeal and Duty to your Majeſty and your Royal Family, and under the deepeſt Impreſſions of Concern, we beg leave to approach your Throne with our ſincere Condolence on the Loſs of His late Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland.

The many eminent public and private Virtues, the Extent of Capacity, and the Magnanimity of Mind, the Affection for your Majeſty's Perſon, and the eminent Services performed for this Country, which diſtinguiſhed that great and excellent Prince, as they have left a laſting Memorial in your Royal Breaſt, ſo have they made an Impreſſion never to be eraſed from the Minds of your grateful People.

The Humble ADDRESS of the Houſe of Commons to the KING.

Moſt Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majeſty's moſt dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Commons of Great-Britain, in Parliament aſſembled, beg Leave to return your Majeſty the Thanks of this Houſe, for your moſt gracious Speech from the Throne: And to aſſure your Majeſty, that we will not fail, when this Houſe ſhall be ſupplied with its Members, to apply ourſelves with the utmoſt Diligence and Attention to thoſe important Occurrences in America, which your Majeſty recommends to our Conſideration; and to exert our moſt zealous Endeavours for the Honor of your Majeſty's Government, and the true Intereſt of your People, in all Parts of your extended Empire.

Permit us, at the ſame Time, to congratulate your Majeſty on the late Increaſe of your Royal Family, by the Birth of a Prince. Your Majeſty's Happineſs and that of your People are one; and every Increaſe of your Majeſty's illuſtrious Family is conſidered by your faithful Commons, as a further Security to that Religion and thoſe Liberties we enjoy under your Majeſty's moſt auſpicious Government.

We alſo beg Leave to offer to your Majeſty our ſincere Condolence on the great Loſs which your Majeſty and this Kingdom have ſuſtained by the Death of his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland; whoſe private and public Virtues, whoſe Duty and Affection to your Majeſty, and whoſe diſtinguiſhed Merits and Services to this Country, as they made his Perſon dear to this Nation while he lived, ſo they cannot fail to render his Memory ſacred to the lateſt Poſterity.

To which they received the following moſt gracious

ANSWER:

My Lords,

"THE Aſſurances you give me of your Loyalty and "Affection are truly pleaſing to me.

"I have the ſtrongeſt Reliance on your Reſolution to do "every Thing that may be moſt expedient in the preſent "State of my Colonies in America.

"I ſee, with particular Pleaſure, thoſe Sentiments of "Zeal and Duty to me and my Family, with which you "expreſs your Satiſfaction on the Birth of my Third Son, "and your Concern for the Loſs I have ſuſtained by the "Death of the Duke of Cumberland."

Gentlemen,

"I Return you Thanks for this loyal and dutiful Addreſs.

"The Satiſfaction you expreſs in the Increaſe of my Family, and the affectionate Share you take in the great Loſs I have ſuſtained by the Death of the Duke of Cumberland, are freſh Proofs of your Zeal and Loyalty.

"Your Reſolution at the ſame Time to ſupport the Honor of my Government and provide for the true Intereſt of all my People, cannot but be acceptable to me. My Conduct ſhall always ſhew, that I conſider their Intereſt as inſeparable from my own."

The following is her Majeſty's Anſwer to a congratulatory Meſſage, ſent by the Houſe of Commons to her Majeſty, on her happy Delivery of another Prince, during the Vacation of Parliament.

"Gentlemen,

"THIS freſh Inſtance of your Duty to the King, and Attention to Me, cannot but meet with my moſt hearty Acknowledgements, and inſure a Continuance of that Affection I bear to this Nation, whoſe Welfare and Proſperity will be forever the firſt Object of my Wiſhes."

Laſt Sunday died at Bath, his Grace Dr. William Carmichael, Archbiſhop of Dublin.

To the Printer of the Public Ledger.

YOUR inſerting the following will oblige your very humble Servant, A. B.

"The Lord may tax his Villain high or low, but it is "againſt the Franchiſes of the Land, for Freemen to be "taxed, but by their own Conſent in Parliament.

COKE."

Tueſday morning the poor Remains of the 35th and 25th regiments marched from hence; the 35th regiment, they ſay, could not muſter above 32 men out of a thouſand, and the 25th not one hundred; one of the officers that was left died on his paſſage, and his wife died at Spithead, and was buried here laſt night. They ſay, that there are ſix officers, and five of their wives, abundance of ſoldiers wives, and above 100 of the buffs, lately landed at Penſacola, from whence the above poor creatures came. They give the moſt dreadful accounts that can be conceived of the above climate. There is now a tranſport ſtanding up the Offing, probably with a few more of theſe poor people.

◆ ◆ ◆

By Capt. Taylor from Hull, (arrived at Boſton) there is London Prints to the firſt of January; from which the following Articles are extracted, viz.

VERSAILLES, December 21.

THE Dauphin (heir apparent to the French crown) died at Fontainbleau on the 20th, aged 36 years. He married on the 25th of February 1745, Maria-Tereſa, Infanta of Spain, who died in child-bed on the 22d of July 1746, after having bro't into the world a Princeſs, who lived only till the 27th of April 1748. On the 9th of Feb. 1747, he married, to his ſecond wife, Maria-Joſepha of Saxony, and has left by this marriage his Highneſs the Duke de Berry, the Count de Provence, the Count d'Artois, and two Princeſſes. The King has conferred the title of Dauphin on his Highneſs the Duke de Berry, who was born the 23d of Auguſt 1754.

LONDON.

Dec. 31. Sunday, at half an hour paſt three in the afternoon, died, of a complication of diſorders, in Leiceſter fields, his Royal Highneſs Prince Frederick-William, his Majeſty's youngeſt brother, in the 16th year of his age, being born May 13th, 1750. At eleven o'clock in the morning notice was ſent to St. James's, that on account of his Royal Highneſs's being dangerouſly ill, there would be no Court nor Drawing-room.

A ſtop is put to all public diverſions on the above occaſion.

By ſome private letters received by the laſt mails, we are informed, that the King of Pruſſia is very ill of a dropſy at his palace in Berlin.

Monday laſt the Right Hon. Henry Seymour Conway, one of his Majeſty's principal Secretaries of State, was re-elected Member of Parliament for Thetford, without oppoſition.

Next Friday Mr. Wilkes will ſurrender himſelf into the cuſtody of the Marſhal of the King's Bench priſon, apartments having been fitted up lately for his reception.

Jan. 1. It is ſaid ſome very agreeable news hath been received from Liſbon, with reſpect to the Britiſh commerce with Portugal.

Private letters from Madrid mention, that from the frequent return of couriers to Lord Rochfort, and his Excellency's repeated conferences with the Catholick Miniſtry, it was conjectured ſomething of great importance was negotiating between the two Crowns.

We hear the remittances in Spaniſh dollars only, from the American Colonies, have laſt year fallen ſhort of the uſual quantity upwards of two millions.

An eſtimate of the value of forfeited eſtates in Scotland is [illegible] part of the above eſtates, ſince the rebellion, have ſo much improved, as to be worth near forty years purchaſe.

Various are the public conjectures concerning the motive for Mr. Wilkes's return to England; though it ſeems generally thought that a place of ſome conſequence will be the reward of this Gentleman's exile from his native country. Some of his adherents have already ſaddled him with an American Government, a foreign Embaſſy, a Commiſſioner of Trade, &c. according as they are influenced by intereſt or opinion; while the moſt ſanguine go ſtill higher, and appoint him a Colleague to a Gentleman lately appointed to a conſiderable place in our adminiſtration.

To the Right Honorable WILLIAM PITT, Eſq;

My ever dear and darling Friend,

IT would be needleſs to inform you of the ſeverity of the wound which I have received by the untimely death of his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland—a name that will ever be revered by all my inhabitants, excepting the pitiful remnant of Jacobites, and red hot Tories, to whom he always was a ſcourge. If ever therefore, you had the honor and intereſt of your country ſeriouſly at heart, baniſh, at this critical ſeaſon, all animoſity and reſentment—throw away your crutches, and lay your friends by——ſay to the Lord of Stow, "that I demand your joint advice, haſten to St. James's, and let us, without reſerve, contribute all that is in our Power towards healing the diviſions of the nation."——Do this, and I ſhall place the buſt of WILLIAM PITT in the temple, which I intend to raiſe, and dedicate to Liberty, William of Naſſau, and to your Royal Nameſake the Hero of Culloden.

I am moſt affectionately yours,
MAGNA BRITANNIA.

N. B. I moſt ſolemnly declare, that I have not the leaſt intention of reflecting on any in the preſent Adminiſtration, as it is compoſed of men, who ever have had my welfare moſt religiouſly in view.

The Earl Marſhal's Order for a general Mourning for his late Royal Highneſs Prince FREDERICK WILLIAM.

IN purſuance of his Majeſty's commands, theſe are to give public notice, that it is expected, that upon the preſent occaſion of the death of his late Royal Highneſs Prince Frederick-William, all perſons do put themſelves into decent Mourning; the ſaid Mourning to begin on Sunday next the 5th of January.

31 Dec. 1765. SCARBOROUGH, M.

Jan. 1. Yeſterday the Body of his Royal Highneſs Prince Frederick William was opened and embalmed by the Surgeons of his Majeſty's Houſhold.

Yeſterday there was a private Council at the Queen's palace, at which the Marquis of Rockingham, the two Secretaries of State, and ſeveral other Lords of the Privy Council aſſiſted.

There has been a report within this day or two, that ſome material changes are meditating.

It is ſaid Mr. Pitt is come to his ſeat at Hayes.

BOSTON, Feb. 20.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman of public Character, who has been indefatigable in his Endeavours to obtain Relief for the Colonies, under their preſent Burdens and Difficulties.

London, December 27, 1765.

"Having been all Day at the other End of the Town in your Provincial Service, I have only Time to acknowledge your's, &c. and don't at all wonder at the Alarm your Country has taken, at your new Laws; we are equally alarmed here, and the Conſequences that muſt neceſſarily enſue both America and England, if they are not repealed. City and Country are in Motion to aſſiſt you in obtaining a Repeal. The Merchants have choſe a Committee to petition and attend Parliament; the numerous Sea-ports, and manufacturing Towns, and your Friends will not be inactive; and I have the Pleaſure to tell you, hitherto Things look with a favourable Aſpect."

From an eminent Manufacturer reſiding in the City of London, Dec. 18.

"You will, by this Opportunity, if not ſooner, have heard of the Meeting of Parliament, and alſo have ſeen the King's Speech—what will be the Conſequence, no one can tell: I believe the great Difficulty lies to know how they can relieve you, and yet keep up the Authority of Government. The Parliament thinks it a bad Example and Precedent to repeal that Act, becauſe the People oppoſe it; and they rather fear the Conſequences in caſe they inſiſt upon its being put in Force."

Divers Sentiments ſeem to be expreſſed in the laſt Private Letters from England, reſpecting the Repeal or Suſpenſion of the Stamp Act; ſome (and yet thoſe whoſe Wiſhes are no ways inimical to America) are dubious, or rather chuſe to ſuſpend their Opinion about it, till the Meeting of a full Parliament, (the Number of Members at their laſt Meeting [illegible] in a full Parliament the Number they exceed 500.)——Others remark, that in the Pariſhes of Leeds, Wakefield, Bradford, Keighley, Halifax, Huddersfield, Rochdale, and a few of the neareſt Country Towns, there are above Five Hundred Thouſand Men, Women, and Children, all engaged in one Branch or other of the Woollen Manufacture; a Prevention of the Export of which, muſt prove greatly detrimental to them, ſhould the Colonies perſiſt in the manufacturing their own Cloths; and therefore doubt not the Act will be repealed—eſpecially, as they, as the preſent Miniſtry ſeem greatly diſpoſed to intereſt themſelves in the Welfare of the Nation——and the Merchantile Part of it very ſtudious to improve every Advantage for this deſirable End.—But however, ſeeing that all future Events are uncertain, we can only ſubmit it to the two moſt powerful Arbitrators perhaps the World can produce, viz. Time and the Britiſh Parliament.

Extract of a Letter from London, dated Dec. 26, 1765.

"My Time is greatly taken up in my Attendance on our preſent Application to Parliament.—If the Trade to your Parts cannot be redreſſed, there is an End to it.——Mr. Greenville was very warm at the opening of the Houſe, but God be praiſed he could not carry his point of fixing the Word REBELLION, on the late riotous Proceedings in your Parts.—It is generally tho't if the Stamp-Act is not repealed, it will be ſuſpended at leaſt for three Years, at which Time the preſent Parliament will be diſſolved——and then flatter ourſelves a new parliament will have the Intereſt of our Colonies ſo much at Heart, as not to take up the Buſineſs again.—Had the Merchants of your Place come to the ſame Reſolutions as thoſe of New-York and Philadelphia, to have ordered no Goods to be ſhip'd till the Stamp-Act is repealed—excepting what might have been wanted for the fitting out your Navigation and carrying on the Fiſheries, it would have had a good Effect."

By Capt. Ball, who arrived here on Thurſday laſt in 47 Days from Glaſgow, we learn, that the Merchants there had univerſally agreed to a Petition to be preſented to the Parliament of Great-Britain, for a Repeal of the Stamp-Act.

A Letter from Leeds, dated December 31, to a Gentleman here, ſays, "We are this Day preparing a Petition "to be preſented at the ſitting of Parliament, which will "be ſigned by upwards of a Thouſand Clothiers, and "hope to be relieved from the Difficulties we labour under."

Extract of a Letter from Antigua, Jan. 16, 1766.

"There are no Stamps uſed here at preſent, they enter and clear Veſſels as uſual without them;—The Stampmaſter diſtributed the Papers at firſt, but they burnt all the Paper at St. Kitts and Nevis, after which the Diſtributor here thought it not ſafe to have any thing more to do with them, and reſigned his Office.—General Thomas has joined with the Aſſemblies of the Iſlands to prefer a Petition to the King, only, to have the Stamp Act repealed; ſetting forth they ſhall not be able to carry on their Plantations if the Trade from the Colonies is ſtop'd."

It is ſaid a great General who eminently diſtinguiſhed himſelf in the late War, has declared his Opinion, that Hoſtilities will commence between England and two neighbouring Powers, in leſs than 6 Months.

NEW-YORK, February 20.

A few Days ago, our much eſteemed Governor Sir Henry Moore, obligingly gave us Intelligence at the Coffee-Houſe, That he had now a ſettled Point at Home, on the Caſe of Forſey and Cunningham, that there can be no Appeal from the Verdict of a Jury.

◆ ◆ ◆

HARTFORD, Feb. 24.

On Monday laſt (being the 17th Inſtant) departed this Life, greatly lamented, Mrs. MARY PITKIN, the amiable and excellent Conſort of the Honorable WILLIAM PITKIN, Eſq; Deputy-Governor of this Colony; and Daughter to the truly venerable Mr. TIMOTHY WOODBRIDGE, formerly Paſtor of the firſt Church in Hartford; (a Name & Family of the firſt Rank among us.) A Gentlewoman poſſeſs'd of ſingular Accompliſhments; of a clear Underſtanding, and great Wiſdom; and (which was her chief Luſtre) of eminent Piety; a ſincere Lover of GOD, and of good Men; a devout, and (when able) conſtant Attender on Divine Worſhip; of great Sobriety, yet very chearful, and agreeable in Converſation; remarkable for her Meekneſs, Humility and Condeſcenſion; her Diſpoſition moſt highly charitable; given to Hoſpitality, and full of good Works. The beſt of Wives, and tendereſt of Mothers; a rare Example of conjugal and maternal Duty and Affection; a pleaſant Relative, a faithful Friend, and moſt deſireable Neighbour; and as ſuch, muſt be greatly miſs'd by all her Acquaintance, particularly the Poor, and Diſtreſſed, who never applied to her for Relief in vain.—She had long been [illegible] frequently expreſſed a Fear of out-living her Uſefulneſs, and a Deſire of being abſent from the Body, and preſent with the LORD; but with entire Submiſſion to GOD's Pleaſure, as to the Time. She had frequently (within a few Days of her laſt) intimated her Apprehenſion of the Approach of Death, & her Reconciliation to it; [illegible] for a ſpeedy Paſſage, GOD graciouſly granted her Deſire. Having aroſe in the Morning as well as uſual, ſhe was ſuddenly (while dreſſing) ſeiz'd with an Apoplectic Fit, which in a few Hours put an End to her uſeful and valuable Life; in the [illegible] Year of her Age; having ſpent near 42 Years of it in great Happineſs, and perfect Harmony, in the Connubial State, with his HONOUR; who ſurvives to regret and mourn her Loſs. Five Children (her whole Number) alſo ſurvive, to ſhare their Father's Grief; in which, a large Circle of Friends and Acquaintance partake.—Few have liv'd more reſpected, or died equally deplored.

Her mortal Remains were inter'd on Wedneſday, attended by a great Concourſe of People and Gentlemen, &c. The Memory of the Juſt is bleſſed.

WHereas more than a ſixteenth Part of the Proprietors of the Townſhips of Middlebury, and Saliſbury, in the Province of New-Hampſhire, have made Application to me the Subſcriber, to warn a Meeting of ſaid Proprietors, to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. John Evarts, in Saliſbury, in Litchfield County, on the firſt Monday of April next, at 11 o'Clock in the Forenoon; then and there to conſult ſome proper Meaſures to further the ſpeedy Settlement of ſaid Townſhips, and to grant Rates; and to do any other Buſineſs they ſhall think neceſſary to be done at ſaid Meeting. Dated at Saliſbury, this 17th Day of February, A. D. 1766.

JOHN HUTCHINSON, Juſtice of Peace.

WHEREAS I received a Requeſt from a Number of the Proprietors of the Townſhip of Hartwood, in the County of Berkſhire, in the Province of the Maſſachuſetts Bay, to call a Meeting of the Proprietors of ſaid Townſhip, to meet at Hartford, in the Colony of Connecticut, to act on the following Articles, viz. To concert Meaſures, and come into Agreement to erect a Saw-Mill in ſaid Townſhip; and for clearing the Highways; and to appoint ſuch Agents as the Proprietors ſhall judge neceſſary: And to tranſact any ſuch Buſineſs as ſhall be tho't proper.——THESE are therefore, to Notify and warn the Proprietors of the Townſhip of Hartwood aforeſaid, to meet at the Houſe of Mr. David Bull, Inn-keeper in Hartford aforeſaid, on the Third Tueſday of March next, at Two o'Clock in the Afternoon, for the Purpoſes aforeſaid.

WILLIAM KNOX, Proprietors Clerk.

Hartford, 19th Feb. 1766.

Ames's Almanack,
To be ſold at the HEART AND CROWN, in HARTFORD.

Juſt publiſhed, and to be ſold at the Printing-Office in Hartford.
A wonderful Dream or Viſion,
concerning AMERICA.
"Your Old Men ſhall dream Dreams."

BOSTON, February 13.

From Marlborough, and Towns adjacent, we learn, that laſt Sunday ſe'nnight, about Sun-riſe, a ſtrange Meteor or Ball of Fire appeared in the Horizon, which flew with the greateſt Velocity and then burſt: The Concuſſion was ſo great that it cauſed a Trembling like an Earthquake, and was heard and felt many Miles diſtant, and ſaid by ſome to equal the Report of a Number of Cannon being diſcharged at once. As moſt People were in Bed at the Time, and could not ſee this ſtrange Phænomenon, but heard the Noiſe and felt a Tremor of the Earth, they imagin'd to be an Earthquake;—and this was what gave riſe to the Account receiv'd from Marlborough of an Earthquake, as inſerted in the Papers.

From Palmer (about 80 Miles from hence and 50 Weſt of Marlborough) we are favoured with another Recital of this remarkable Phænomenon, viz. That on Sunday the 2d Inſtant, a little after Sun-riſe, the Air being very clear, there was a Noiſe heard in the Air almoſt over their Heads, a little towards the N. E. like the Report of 6 or 7 Pieces of Cannon alternately diſcharg'd; after this the Noiſe gradually decreas'd till it became no louder than an irregular Diſcharge of a Number of ſmall Arms, the whole Duration of the Noiſe being about five Minutes, ſome ſay longer; Flaſhes of Fire attended with a Smoke was obſerved by a great many People.

[The above Meteor was ſeen at Hartford, Eaſt 30 Deg. high, going North, making an Angle of 20 Deg. with the Horizon.]

Extract of the Votes of the Honorable Houſe of Repreſentatives.

Jovis 6 Die Februarii, A. D. 1766.

THE Houſe according to the Order of the Day, entered into the Conduct and Services of the Committee on the late Congreſs at New-York: And after a Debate the Queſtion was put, Whether the Reaſons offered by Brigadier Ruggles, for his not ſigning the Petitions prepared by the late Congreſs at New-York, be ſatisfactory to this Houſe?

It paſſed in the Negative.

Then the Queſtion was put, Whether the Reaſons offered by Brigadier Ruggles, for leaving the late Congreſs at New-York, before they had completed their Buſineſs, be ſatisfactory to this Houſe?

It paſſed in the Negative.

Reſolved unanimouſly, That the Account given by James Otis, and Oliver Partridge, Eſqrs. of their Conduct at the late Congreſs at New-York, is ſatisfactory to the Houſe.

STray'd or Stolen from the Subſcriber of Granville, 15th Inſt. a dark Brown Mare, natural Pacer, trots ſome, about 14 Hands high, about 8 Years old, ſhod before, no Brand or Mark:—Whoever ſhall take up ſaid Mare, (and the Thief that ſtole her if ſtolen) and return her to the Subſcriber, ſhall be well rewarded for their Trouble, beſides all neceſſary Charges paid,

By BENJ. OLDS.

Hartford, Feb. 17, 1766.

TO BE SOLD BY

THOMAS DAVIDSON,

Oppoſite the North-End of the STATE-HOUSE;

A Neat Aſſortment of Engliſh and Eaſt-India Goods, ſuitable for the Seaſon. Likewiſe Muſcovado-Sugar, and Spices of ſundry Kinds. Alſo, Teneriff and Claret Wine, by the ¼ Caſk or Dozen, and a few Buſhels of Sand.

The above Goods will be ſold cheaper than any of the Kind hath been ſold in this Place, for Caſh or Country Produce, ſuch as Wheat, Rye, Indian Corn, Oats, &c. And the higheſt Price given for the ſame. N. B. Beſt Bohea Tea, and Spaniſh Indigo, Alum, Copperas, Nails, &c. will be ſold on a very ſmall Advance.

LONDON, December 17.

Advices of a very intereſting nature are ſaid to have been received laſt week from a Britiſh Exile, which it is apprehended will be the means of paving the way to that Gentleman's return to his native country. (Lloyd's Evening Poſt.

It is ſaid the duty on Weſt India coffee will ſoon be reduced to four pence half-penny per pound.

We hear the Government hath already been a gainer of upwards of 58,000l. ſince the act took place for regulating the trade to the Iſle of Man.

One day laſt week a ſhip was ſeen hovering off Plymouth, taking obſervations on the harbour, fortifications, &c. at that place, on which an arm'd ſloop went out and brought her into harbour. She proved to be a French veſſel.

St. James's, Dec. 21. This day the Right Hon. George Sackvile, Eſq; commonly called Lord George Sackville, was, by his Majeſty's command, ſworn of his Majeſty's moſt Honourable privy Council, and took his place at the Board accordingly.

Dec. 20. Yeſterday the Damages and Coſts recovered by Mr. Beardmore, and Mr. Meredith, his Clerk, againſt the right Hon. the Earl of Halifax, late one of his Majeſty's Principal Secretaries of State were paid by Thomas Nuthall, Eſq; to the ſaid Mr. Beardmore.

Dec. 21. Yeſterday, Lord George Sackville kiſſed his Majeſty's hand, on being appointed Vice Treaſurer of Ireland.

The fleet appointed to ſail for Newfoundland, we hear, will be ſent out the enſuing ſeaſon ſix weeks ſooner than ordinary.

From Dublin, we learn, that the parliamentary debates are carried to a prodigious height in that city, on account of a negative put upon a motion for addreſſing his majeſty about the enormous encreaſe of penſions on Iriſh eſtabliſhment.

Dec. 23. Yeſterday the Hon. General Draper arrived in Town from Ireland, and afterwards kiſſed his Majeſty's hand at St. James's, on being appointed a Knight of the Bath.

We hear that a certain great perſonage was tapped again laſt Monday, for his diſorder, no leſs than three gallons of water were taken from him. His condition before tapping was ſo weak, that it was a little doubted whether he would have been able to undergo the opperation; but it appeared neceſſary to do ſomething immediately for him, in order to give him relief, the remedy, after due conſultation, was put in practice, by command, and for this time has happily ſucceded.

A new ſhip, from New England to Liverpoole, is loſt in Carnarvon Bay.

There are more Eaſt-India ſhips now in the Downs, outward-bound, than has been known at one time for above 30 years.

We hear the ſtate and condition of the forts and factories belonging to the company of Merchants trading to Hudſon's Bay, is preparing to be laid before an auguſt aſſembly.

We hear that ſeveral of the colonies directed Agents to preſent petitions for leave to export lumber to foreign markets, without being obliged to enter their cargoes in ſome part of Great-Britain.

It is aſſured, that a Gentleman of fortune, who long reſided on the Iſland of Newfoundland, has a plan in readineſs to be preſented to parliament, for excluding the French from any trade with, or fiſhery upon, that coaſt; wherein it is demonſtrated, that the French cleared laſt ſeaſon full 150,000l. ſterling by their fiſhery and trade there.

It is reported that a navel commander on the American ſtation has been ſuperceded, on account of his conduct relating to the ſtamp-papers.

February, 6th, 1766.

WHEREAS a legal Aſſignment of the Eſtate of William Redfield of Middletown, an Inſolvent Debtor, hath been made to us the Subſcribers, who are appointed Truſtees to receive the ſame for the only uſe and Benefit of the Creditors of ſaid William, agreeable to a late Act of this Colony, made to prevent Fraud in Debtors, &c. Theſe are therefore in Purſuance of ſaid Act, to notify all the Creditors of ſaid William to meet at the Dwelling Houſe of Abigail Shalor in ſaid Middletown, on the laſt Tueſday of February Inſtant, then and their to do and tranſact ſuch neceſſary Buſineſs, as in and by ſaid Act is provided.

RICHARD ALSOP,
GEO: PHILIPS, } Truſtees.
COMFORT SAGE,

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, March 3, 1766. No. 62.

◆

NEW-YORK, February 20.

ON Thurſday evening the Sons of Liberty had a meeting, upon particular buſineſs——About 10 o'clock a letter was communicated to the company from a Son of Liberty in Philadelphia, expreſſing the utmoſt grief and aſtoniſhment, that in the city of New-York, where the inhabitants had ſo nobly diſtinguiſhed themſelves in defence of their rights and privileges, in oppoſition to the Stamp-Act, any perſon ſhould be found that had preſumed to take or diſtribute a ſtamp, and adviſing that a bond on ſtamped paper, with a Mediterranean paſs, from a merchant in this city, had been ſent to Philadelphia, where they had reſolved to deſtroy it in the moſt ignominious Manner.

Upon this intelligence, application was immediately made to the ſuſpected perſon, who declared, that he purchaſed ſaid bond with a Mediterranean paſs and certificate, which he immediately incloſed in a letter and ſent by the poſt to Philadelphia, to be forwarded to Maryland for a veſſel he was loading there. That he was not charged any thing for a ſtamp, and knew not that the bond was ſtamp'd till after he had ſent it away.

It appear'd alſo that he had afterwards, with another Mediterranean paſs and certificate, taken and executed another ſtamp'd bond, which he declared, as he paid nothing for the ſtamp, he did not conſider as having any relation to the ſtamp-act—That another merchant in town, with a Mediterranean paſs, &c. had alſo taken and executed a ſtamped bond——but was not told nor knew that it was ſtamp'd.

That there were in all, 30 of the ſaid blank ſtamp'd bonds, with as many Mediterranean paſſes, &c. ſent to the naval officer in this city from London, without any mention of their being ſtamped, in the letter that accompanied them. And that the perſon to whom they were ſent, and who had diſpoſed of them as before mentioned, had received nothing for the ſtamps.

The morning after the firſt intelligence, the people who had been long quiet in confidence of each others honour in not taking or delivering a ſtamp, were greatly incenſed againſt the authors of this breach, a multitude preſently aſſembled at the coffee houſe; application was made for the ſtamped bonds, which were all delivered, both thoſe that were filled up, and the blanks, and bro't to the coffee-houſe, where a fire was kindled by the perſon who made the firſt purchaſe of a ſtamp, and by him the whole were committed to the flames, and conſumed, in the preſence of ſeveral thouſand ſpectators.

Of the perſons concerned in taking and diſtributing theſe bonds, one entirely exculpated himſelf, by declaring upon oath, his ignorance that the bond, was ſtamped; and the other two, declared upon oath, that nothing was paid or received for the ſaid ſtamps, and that they had not the leaſt intention or thought of complying with the ſtamp act in buying or ſelling the ſaid bonds, &c. But notwithſtanding their declaration, they, having by ſuch proceedings, incurred the higheſt reſentment of the lovers of liberty and well-wiſhers of their country, they were required to ſtand forth in a publick manner, and confeſs their error, which on Saturday morning they did, by appearing on the common, before many thouſands of the citizens, &c. and aſking pardon for what they had done, proteſting their innocence as aforeſaid, in ſuch a manner as moved the compaſſion of the people, tho' before ſo much incenſed, that it was with the greateſt difficulty they were prevailed upon not to deſtroy their perſons and effects, and it was entirely owing to the efforts and prudent conduct of the Sons of Liberty of this place, and one of a neighbouring province who happened to be here, that they were preſerved and protected. As the citizens have been highly exaſperated by this inadvertance, ſhould an attempt of the kind be hereafter made here, it is very certain, that not the leaſt indulgence, or countenance would be ſhewn them, but they muſt inevitably ſtand to the unhappy conſequences that will inevitably enſue.

City of N. York. ſſ. LEwis Pintard, of the city of New-York, merchant, maketh oath, that on or about the ſixth day of February Inſtant, he applied to Charles Williams, Eſq; naval officer for the province of New-York, for a Mediterranean paſs, to be ſent to Maryland, for a veſſel he had ordered to be loaded with wheat, for the Straits; who gave the deponent one, together with a bond, certificate, &c. which papers were delivered to the deponent, in about an hour's time after they were firſt received by the ſaid Charles Williams, as the deponent underſtood, from on board Capt. Chamber's veſſel, in which they were bro't from England: Which bond, paſs, and papers, the deponent immediately ſent away to Philadelphia, to be forwarded to Maryland.

That at the time this deponent received the ſaid papers, he did not know that the bond was ſtamped, neither was he informed of it till after he had ſent the ſaid papers away. That this deponent does declare, in the moſt ſolemn manner, that at the time he received the paper above-mentioned, he did not advert to the Stamp-Act, neither did he advert to it at the time that he ſigned a bond ſhortly afterwards, when he obtained another Mediterranean paſs, and proper papers for another veſſel that he was about to ſend from this Port up the Straits, neither did he intend by taking the above-mentioned papers, to give any countenance to ſaid act—And further ſaith, that when this deponent heard that the bond which he had ſent to Philadelphia, was ſtopped and intended to be burnt, becauſe it was ſtamped; he told his friends of it, and of his ignorance of its being ſtamped at the time he took it, and deſired them to make it public, leſt his conduct ſhould be blamed therein: That this deponent has ever ſince he was acquainted with ſaid act, and now does deteſt and abhor it, and has not done any thing with intention and deſign to inforce the ſame. But on the contrary, he was one of the firſt Merchants that ſent out his veſſels and property from this port, ſince the firſt of November laſt, with unſtamped clearances; and further this deponent ſaith not.

LEWIS PINTARD.

Sworn before me this 14th February, 1766.

Whitehead Hicks.

New-York, ſſ. PErſonally appeared before me Whitehead Hicks, Eſq, juſtice of the peace for the ſaid city, Charles Williams, Eſq; who being ſworn on the holy Evangeliſts of almighty God, depoſeth and ſaith, that altho' he hath taken two bonds on ſtampt paper for Mediterranean paſſes, which accompany'd the ſaid paſſes from Europe, and executed in conſequence thereof; that he received no payment or reward for the ſaid ſtamps, nor did he mean or intend thereby to introduce or inforce the ſaid ſtamp act in this province; but did it with a motive to prevent his fellow ſubjects from being enſlaved if taken for want of ſaid paſſes; and has delivered up the whole of the ſaid ſtampt bonds which were in his poſſeſſion.

Charles Williams.

Sworn before me this 14th Feb. 1766.

Whitehead Hicks.

ACheſon Thompſon, maketh oath on the holy evangeliſts, that he is entirely ignorant of his ever having ſigned a ſtamped bond at the cuſtom-houſe, neither was he at any time informed by the officers of the cuſtoms, that any bonds he was to ſign there was ſtamped.

Acheſon Thompſon.

Sworn the 14th of Feb. 1766, before me,

Whitehead Hicks.

N. B. Mr. Thompſon's innocence appearing clearly to the Citizens, he was not obliged to make any further confeſſion, than the above affidavit.

LONDON, Dec. 28.

On the 3d inſtant died at Tour du Pin, on the Lake of Geneva, the Right Hon. Lord John-Philip Sackville, 4th ſon of the late Duke of Dorſet, and next brother to the preſent Duke.

The price of logwood has within theſe few days been conſiderably advanced, and it is ſaid the exportation will ſoon be totally prohibited, the places occupied by the Engliſh in the Bay of Honduras being greatly exhauſted.

It is whiſpered, that an illuſtrious young Lady, of the firſt rank will be eſpouſed to a Prince of the Royal Houſe of Brandenburgh.

Mr Stacy

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20.

From North-Carolina our accounts ſeem to be more alarming, with regard to the ſtamp-act, than in any of the other colonies, that being the only place we have yet heard of, where his Majeſty's Officers have acted ſo acted ſoa rbitrarily, & ſhewn ſo little regard to the trade of the king's ſubjects, having already ſeized two veſſels without ſtamps and allowing none to go out without them, tho' at the riſk of the veſſels and cargoes, of thoſe that ſhould take them, from the enraged inhabitants; who, in ſpite of their governor, and the endeavours of two captains of the king's ſhips, are reſolved to be free, being determined not to admit the ſtamps to take place among them.—Capt. Phipps, in the Diligence man of war, had taken on him the office of diſtributor of ſtamps, having made it known that they were to be had on board his ſhip, and attempted to get up to Willmington, in order to lodge them with ſome ſtamp-officer there, but being told that the people had made a raft, properly prepared to ſet him, ſhip and ſtamps, all on fire, he thought proper to return to his old ſtation at the mouth of the river, after he had got ſome craft to take out his guns, in order to lighten the veſſel, to get over ſome ſhoals that were in the way.

By Capt. Lockhart, from Barbados, there is Advice, that they expected a new Governor for that Iſland, ſaid to be Lord Fitzherbert:——That though the Barbadians had ſubmitted to the Stamp-Act, yet there were Numbers, among them, who were much diſſatisfied with it, and highly pleaſed with the Oppoſitoon it met with in North-America: That Veſſels, without Stamp Clearances, were admitted to an Entry, without any Scruple: And that the Collector of the Cuſtoms there behaves in the moſt genteel Manner, being willing to give every Indulgence to Trade in his Power; for which he is moſt deſervedly eſteemed by the Inhabitants, and by all Strangers that happen to go to that Port.

BOSTON, February 27.

On Thurſday laſt was fixed on the Tree of Liberty a Plate with the following Inſcription,—"This Tree was planted in the Year 1646, and pru'n'd by Order of the Sons of Liberty February 14, 1766."——The Ceremony of burning the Effigies and ſtampt Paper on that Day, was conducted, as then mentioned to be begun, with great Decency and good Order:—After parading the principal Streets to the North Part of the Town, with the Pageantry in a Cart, they returned to Liberty Tree, there giving three Cheers, proceeded to the uſual Place of Execution on Boſton Neck, and at about one o'Clock committed the Effigies, ſtampt Paper, &c. to Flames under the Gallows, amidſt the loud Acclamations of a great Number of Spectators, who immediately after diſperſed.——The Sons of Liberty retired to their Appartment in Hanover-Square, where his Majeſty's Health, and many other Loyal Toaſts were drank.

The Committee of the true-born Sons of Liberty for this Province having received Information that Capt. Thacher, who arrived here the Saturday before from Jamaica, had his Clearance on ſtamped Paper, iſſued the following Requeſt to one of their acting Members, viz.

Boſton, 24th Feb. 1766.
Monday, XI o'Clock.

****

THE Sons of Liberty being informed that a Veſſel has arrived here with ſtamped Clearances, from Jamaica, deſire that you would go and demand, in their Names, thoſe Marks of Grenville's Slavery; and when you have obtained them, commit them to the Flames in King-ſtreet, This Day, at One o'Clock; and for ſo doing this ſhall be your Warrant.

Signed in Behalf of the True-born SONS of LIBERTY.
M. Y. Sec.

Whereupon the Perſon to whom the above was directed, with a Number of others, immediately on the Receipt thereof, repaired to the Veſſel, and being told the Captain was gone to enter at the Cuſtom-Houſe, they proceeded thither, when the above Warrant being ſhown, the ſaid ſtamped Clearance was delivered to them; then they fixed it on a Pole, and carried it to the lower End of the Court-Houſe, where they put the Pole in the Stocks, and expoſed the Paper to public View until the Time appointed for Execution: At One o'Clock the Warrant was read with an audible Voice, the Executioner then carried the guilty Criminal to the Centre of King-Street, and with a lighted Match ſet Fire to one of the S—p-A—ts, and with that the Offspring of that Hidra-Headed Monſter: While the Smoak was aſcending the Executioner pronounced the following Words, viz.—"Behold! the Smoak aſcends to Heaven, to witneſs between the Iſle of Britain and an injured People!"—Three Cheers were then given, and the 'Change clear in a few Minutes, without the leaſt Diſorder.

The above Committee, ever intent on the Good of their Fellow-Subjects, and determined to uſe their utmoſt Efforts to prevent even the Appearance of Slavery, having heard a Report that ſome of the Badges were to be ſent in Capt. Kirkwood, who arrived here laſt Saturday, from London, waited on him Yeſterday, to know the Truth of ſaid Report; when Capt. Kirkwood declared to them, that he had abſolutely refuſed to take them when in England; and that there were no American Stamps brought in his Veſſel to his Knowledge; which he freely offered to ſwear to, and accordingly an Oath to that Purport was adminiſtred to him in the Court-Houſe, by Mr. Juſtice Dana, before a great Number of Witneſſes, who diſperſed in good Order after three Cheers were given.

The Publiſhers hereof having for the firſt Time ſince November commenced, received ſeveral Halifax Papers, with a bloody-red Stamp on each, as terrible as Death to Printers, being two Daggers thro' a Crown or under it, and the Points toward the Word AMERICA on the Top, tho't not proper to harbour ſuch unwelcome Gueſts, therefore immediately diſpatched them to the Committee of the true-born Sons of Liberty, to do with them as they may judge meet.——There was nothing new in them; and the Paper was ſo very thin and poor, that the Print was ſcarce legible.

It may be noticed, That the Stamp on the Clearance which was burnt laſt Monday on 'Change, was five Shillings Sterling.

The Maſter of a Veſſel that arrived at Salem ſome time ago from the Granades, informed, that he paid 2s. 3d. ſterling (including the Paper) for a Clearance, and the ſame Sum for each Cocket:—but the Stamp-Act ſays, only 4d. ſhall be paid for each Clearance and Cocket.—Further, the Price of the Paper marked thereon was 9d. per Quire; but thoſe who have ſeen the Paper ſay, that it's of the ſame Quality with that which is generally ſold at the Stationers in this Town for leſs than 8d. Sterl. per Quire.——The following Remarks on the ſame Affair, from a late Philadelphia Paper, may not be impertinent here.

As to Jobs, the Stamp-Act, lately forged for America, affords a very notorious Inſtance. From the Scraps of ſtamped Papers bro't here from Halifax it appears, the Commiſſioners, to whom, it ſeems, the late aſſumed Right of taxing the Colonies is in Part transferred, have valued their Paper at about Six Pounds Sterling a Rheam, which at any Stationer's Shop in London might be bought for Ten Shillings; ſo that their Profits on every Thouſand Rheams would be Five Thouſand Five Hundred Pounds. Now ſuppoſing all the Colonies on the Continent, together with the Iſlands, ſhould only take Ten Thouſand Rheams of Paper in a Year, this would afford them an annual Sum of Fifty five Thouſand Pounds Sterling.——A handſome Perquiſite! great Part of which, no doubt, the Contriver of the Act expected would fall to his Share!

NEW-YORK, February 21.

A Letter dated the 28th December at London, adviſes, That the Merchants were ſo ſure that the Stamp Act would be repealed, that they were preparing to make out their American Orders for Goods.

Another Letter adviſes, that it was currently reported, that Lord Chief Juſtice Cambden, and Mr. Pitt, had both declared the Stamp-Act to be Unconſtitutional.

A large Gallows was erected in Elizabeth Town laſt Week, with a Rope ready fixed thereto, and the Inhabitants there vow and declare, that the firſt Perſon that either diſtributes or takes out a Stamped Paper, ſhall be hung thereon without Judge or Jury.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in London to his Correſpondent in New-York.

"We are ſorry to hear of the Commotions that are already begun in America, and where and how it will end, Time only will inform: You may think it would be beſt to be in England, but Trade you muſt judge is very bad here, and am afraid we ſhall ſtarve at Home, by the unjuſt Extortions we ſeek abroad. Our News-Papers are full of Complaints from the Colonies, and that very juſtly; but ſtand to it to a Man; for I think you had better die for the Cauſe of Liberty, than to be Tools and Dupes at Home."

FEBRUARY, 27.

TO THE PRINTER.

IN Addition to your Account of an extraordinary Meteor, ſeen and heard on the ſecond Day of February, Inſtant, (taken from the Boſton Papers) I would inform you, that it was ſeen at Hartford, Eaſt 30 Deg. high, deſcending towards the North, and making an Angle of 20 Deg. with the Horizon; and at Norwich it was ſeen North 10 Deg. Eaſt 32 Deg. high, deſcending towards the Weſt, making an Angle of 60 Deg. with the Horizon. Upon Calculation of theſe two Obſervations, according to the Rules I laid down in the New-Haven Gazette, in October laſt, it appears, that this Meteor paſt along, near N. N. W. about 30 Miles high, and about 20 Miles Eaſt of Norwich, and 45 Eaſt of Hartford; and probably paſſed over Worceſter, or there abouts; and I ſuppoſe croſſed Connecticut-River above Northfield. As the Exploſion of this Meteor made a Report equal to that of the Diſcharge of many Cannon together, ſo that it was taken to be an Earthquake, by Perſons at near One Hundred Miles Diſtance. I ſhould be obliged to any Ingenious Gentlemen who can obtain more Obſervations of the Appearance of this Meteor; particularly as to the Point of Compaſs; its Altitude above the Horizon; and the Angle of its apparent Deſcent towards the Horizon: And publiſh them in ſome News-Paper; that ſo its Altitude and Courſe for ſeveral Hundreds of Miles may be more accurately determined. I ſuppoſe them to be ſolid Bodies revolving round the Earth in a regular Courſe.

THOMAS CLAP.

AN ACROSTICK.

H eavenly Poetic Muſe, deſcend and ſing,
A n Angel Mind, on your caleſtial String:
N e'r yet attempted by a Poet's Pen;
N or yet profaned by unhallowed Men.
A ngelic H——s is the charming Theme,
H ow bright her Beauty, and how ſweet her Mein!

B elov'd by ALL—pure, like the Saints ABOVE,
U nfading Bliſs, flows from her gentle Love.
L ive heavenly Nymph, long live in peaceful Days;
L ong——that Friend, who now attempts your Praiſe.

Hartford, March, 3d, 1766.

TO be ſold, a likely NEGRO MAN, about twenty-two years old, very healthy and lively; who underſtands moſt Sorts of Buſineſs, waiting and attending upon Gentlemen; he alſo perfectly underſtands the whole art of making pot-aſh, in which buſineſs he has been employ'd for ſeveral years. Any perſon inclining to purchaſe ſaid negro, may apply to David Tod, at the pot-aſh-works in Suffield, (where the negro may be ſeen) or John Walker at Hartford, and know further.

STray'd or ſtolen, from the Subſcriber, on Saturday, the 22d of February laſt, a ſorrel, or red roan horſe, five years old this ſpring, hath four white feet and houghs, whitiſh mane and tail, a large blaze in the face, one wall or white eye, and ſhod all-round, hath but a poor pace, and trots large. Whoever will ſecure, return or give information of ſaid horſe, ſhall be duely rewarded, by THO'S SEYMOUR, jun'.

Hartford, March 1, 1766.

The Subſcriber wants immediately,

A few fat Young Horſes,

about fourteen hands high, with long Tails. Thoſe who have any ſuch to diſpoſe of, may meet with a purchaſer, by applying to

THOMAS DAVIDSON.

Suffield, Feb. 24, 1766.

THE creditors of Samuel Smith, and Martin Kellogg, of Suffield, in the county of Hartford, inſolvent debtors, are hereby notified, and warned to meet, at the dwelling-houſe, of Capt. Benjamin Kent, in ſaid Suffield, on the third Monday of March next, at one o'clock in the afternoon, and exhibit their demands on ſaid eſtate, that the ſame may be adjuſted, according to a law of this colony, entituled, "An act for preventing fraud in debtors, and for ſecuring the effects of inſolvent debtors, for the uſe of their creditors, &c.

SIMEON HATHEWAY, JAMES HARMON, JOSEPH PEASE, } Truſtees for S. Smith.
SIMEON HATEWAY, DANIEL AUSTIN, JOSEPH PEASE, } Truſtees for Martin Kellogg.

Hartford, Feb. 28th, 1766.

THE Creditors of SAMUEL HOLMAN, of HARTFORD, an inſolvent Debtor, are hereby notified, that a legal aſſignment and appraiſment of the ſaid Samuel's eſtate, is made purſuant to an act of this colony, entitled "An Act for preventing fraud in debtors, and for ſecuring the effects of inſolvent debtors, for the uſe of their creditors, &c. And that therefore, they are deſired to meet on the eighteenth day of March next, at the dwelling-houſe of Mr. Gideon Benjamin, in ſaid Hartford, and exhibit their demands on ſaid eſtate, that the ſame may be adjuſted according to law.

RUSSELL WOODBRIDGE, JOSEPH MAKEN, JOHN COLEMAN, } Truſtees.

Colony of Connecticut,
Hartford County, ſs.
February 27, 1766. }

THE ſubſcribers, upon the petition of Thomas Burr, of Hartford, in ſaid county, and the major part of his creditors, in number and value, (he being an inſolvent debtor) appointed truſtees of the eſtate of ſaid Thomas, for the uſe of his creditors by the hon. Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; judge of the county court, for ſaid county, and Seth Wetmore, Eſq; juſtice of the peace and one of the quorum, for ſaid county; hereby give notice, to all the creditors of ſaid Thomas, to meet on the 25th day of March, next, at the houſe of Mr. Moſes Butler, in ſaid Hartford, at eleven o'clock, before noon, there to approve or diſapprove ſaid truſtees, and chooſe others in their ſtead, and to do all other things relating to the eſtate of ſaid Burr, which may be neceſſary and agreeable to the act of this colony, in that behalf lat ely made and provided.

JOHN KEITH,
WILLIAM TILEY,
TITUS HOSMER.

BOSTON, February 24.

The Univerſity of Aberdeen have ſent to the Rev. Mather Byles of this Town, a Diploma for the Doctorate in Divinity.

A box of Mediterranean Paſſes, for the Benefit of the Merchants of this Province, arrived here about the firſt of January laſt; but it then appearing that the Bonds which accompanied them were printed upon Stamped Paper, they were every one of them ſent away on the very Day they came to Hand, to be depoſited with the other Stamped Papers at Caſtle-William; where ſaid Bonds now remain intire, as no Officer here would venture to take them into Poſſeſſion, or to offer them to be executed.

It has been ſaid that if the Bankrupt Act ſhould be repealed before a better is provided, the merchants at home would be great ſufferers; let them ſuffer; it may prevent their again giving ſuch long credit, which has promoted extravagance and impoveriſhed the province; beſides their loſs will be wholly our gain, and it is a proverbial ſaying, that charity begins --

SCHEME of Amenia LOTTERY, 1766.

CONTAINING Twelve Land Prizes, all of which is good feaſible Land, lying in ſaid Amenia, in Dutcheſs County. Lot, No. 1, contains 3 Acres ¾, on which is a good Dwelling-Houſe, with two Rooms, one 16 Feet by 20 the walls plaſtered, the other 14 by 16, with a good Cellar, Well, and Garden; being the Houſe that Samuel Shippard now lives in; ſituated on a publick Road, about One Mile and a Half from a Meeting-Houſe, has a new Board Fence on the Front, and is very convenient for a Shoemaker and Tanner, or any other Tradeſman; Nine other Lotts of Land adjoining the Lot above diſcribed; alſo 2 Lots of Land, about ¼ of a Mile South of Lot No. 1, containing 7 Acres and ½ each; with ſundary other Articles, as may be ſeen below; all of which have been appraiſed by Mr. Abraham Payne, junr. and Enſign Ichabod Payne, of ſaid Amenia, of undoubted Veracity, who were under Oath, to make a juſt Appraiſment of the Value of the ſame, in Ready Money.

The Lottery conſiſts of 900 Tickets, at one Dollar each, of which 217 are to be fortunate; as follows;

Number of Prizes.	Prizes deſcribed.	Value of each. £.	s.	d.
1	of Lot No. 1, containing the Houſe and 3 Acres and 3 Roods of Land, 60l.	60	00	00
1	of a Houſe, [illegible] 17l.	17	00	00
1	of Ditto, - 16l.	16	00	00
2	of Lots, No. 11 & 12, each 7 Acres ½ 15l.	30	00	00
1	of Lot No. 2, 3 Acres ½ Meadow, 14l.	14	00	00
3	of Lots No. 4, 6 and 7, each 3 Acres, 3 Roods and 32 Rods, 6l. 16s. 6d.	20	9	6
1	A Surveyors Compaſs, 6l. 10s.	6	10	0
2	of a Quarter of Saw-mill, each, 6l. 5s.	12	10	0
1	of Lot No. 5, being 3 Acres, 3 Roods, and 32 Rods, - - 6l. 1s. 9d.	6	1	9
1	A Mare, - - - - 6l.	6	00	00
1	of Lot No. 3, being 3 Acres, 3 Roods, and 32 Rods, - - 5l. 17s.	5	17	00
3	of Lots No. 8, 9 and 10, each being 3 Acres, 3 Roods, & 32 Rods, 5l. 7s. 3d.	16	1	9
1	of a Cow and Calf, - 4l. 10s.	4	10	00
1	of a Sley, with a new Box, well ſhod, 4l.	4	00	00
4	of 2 Acres of Wheat, each - 3l. 4s.	12	16	00
1	of a Cow, - - 52s.	2	12	00
1	of a Saddle, - - 50s.	2	10	00
1	of a Silver mounted Gun, - 48s.	2	8	00
1	of a large Grindſtone, - - 30s.	1	10	00
1	of Jacob's Common Law plac'd, 25s.	1	5	00
1	of a large Pair of And-Irons, 20s.	1	00	00
1	of a ſmaller Pair of Ditto, . 15s.	00	15	00
5	of two Sheep, each, - 14s.	3	10	00
1	of Wild's Survey, & Salmon's Gazetter, 15s. 6d.	00	15	6
1	of Ward's Mathematicks, & Gunter's Scale,	00	15	6
1	of Doct. Waterland's Reply, & a Protractor,	00	17	00
1	of a Caſe with nine Bottles, 16s.	00	16	00
1	of Atkinſon's Epitome, and a Magnet, 14s.	00	14	00
16	Caſh Prizes, each of - 16s.	12	16	00
160	Ditto, each of - - 12s.	96	00	00

217 Prizes, } 900 Tickets at 8s. each, is £. 360 00 00
683 Blanks, }

The above Lottery to be drawn the Middle of May, next, at the Dwelling-Houſe of Capt. Michael Hopkins, in Amenia; who with Nicholas De Laverge, Eſq; and Mr. Edmund Perlee, Merchant, are appointed Managers, and Inſpectors; of whom Tickets may be had; as alſo of the ſaid Shippard. The Time of Drawing, and the fortunate Numbers will be publiſhed in the Connecticut Courant; and good Warrantte Deeds will be given of the Land, the Title being indiſputable. As the above Lottery is ſo well calculated for the Encouragement of Adventurers, it is expected, that the Tickets will meet with a quick Sale, and the Lottery be drawn at the Time appointed.

WHEREAS I received a Requeſt from a Number of the Proprietors of the Townſhip of Hartwood, in the County of Berkſhire, in the Province of the Maſſachuſetts Bay, to call a Meeting of the Proprietors of ſaid Townſhip, to meet at Hartford, in the Colony of Connecticut, to act on the following Articles, viz. To concert Meaſures, and come into Agreement to erect a Saw-Mill in ſaid Townſhip; and for clearing the Highways; and to appoint ſuch Agents as the Proprietors ſhall judge neceſſary: And to tranſact any ſuch Buſineſs as ſhall be tho't proper.——THESE are therefore, to Notify and warn the Proprietors of the Townſhip of Hartwood aforeſaid, to meet at the Houſe of Mr. David Bull, Inn-keeper in Hartford aforeſaid, on the Third Tueſday of March next, at Two o'Clock in the Afternoon, for the Purpoſes aforeſaid.

WILLIAM KNOX, Proprietor's Clerk.

Hartford, 19th Feb. 1766.

BOSTON, Feb. 27.

Extracts from the Votes of the Honorable Houſe of Repreſentatives.

Mercurii, 12 Die Februarii, A. D. 1766.

THE Houſe again entered into the Conſideration of the Conduct of Brigadier Ruggles at the Congreſs at New-York, and after a long Debate, the Queſtion was put, Whether the Houſe will proceed any further with Reſpect to the Conduct of Brigadier Ruggles at the Congreſs in New-York?

It paſſed in the Affirmative.

Thereupon Reſolved, That Brigadier Ruggles, with Reſpect to his Conduct at the Congreſs at New-York, has been guilty of Neglect of Duty; and that he be Reprimanded therefor by the Speaker.

Jovis, 13 Die Februarii, A. D. 1766.

Brigadier Ruggles appearing in the Houſe, Mr. Speaker ſaid to him as follows, viz,

Brigadier Ruggles, the Houſe laſt Evening voted that with Reſpect to your Conduct at the late Congreſs at New-York, you are guilty of Neglect of Duty; and thereupon ordered, That you ſhould receive a Reprimand from the Speaker of this Houſe. Therefore,

Sir, In diſcharge of my Duty as Speaker of this Houſe, and in purſuance of their Order, I do Reprimand you accordingly.

Sir, It gives me very ſenſible Pain, that a Gentleman who has been heretofore in ſuch high Eſtimation in this Houſe, ſhould fall under their public Cenſure.

I hope, Sir, that by your future Conduct, you will not only regain the good Opinion this Houſe have heretofore entertained of you; but alſo the good Opinion of all thoſe whoſe Diſpleaſure you may have fallen under on this Occaſion.

◆ ◆ ◆

Hartford, Feb. 17, 1766.

TO BE SOLD BY

THOMAS DAVIDSON,

Oppoſite the North-End of the STATE-HOUSE;

A Neat Aſſortment of Engliſh and Eaſt-India Goods, ſuitable for the Seaſon. Likewiſe Muſcovado Sugar, and Spices of ſundry Kinds. Alſo, Teneriff and Claret Wine, by the ½ Caſk or Dozen, and a few Buſhels of Sand.

The above Goods will be ſold cheaper than any of the Kind hath been ſold in this Place, for Caſh or Country Produce, ſuch as Wheat, Rye, Indian Corn, Oats, &c. And the higheſt Price, given for the ſame. N. B. Beſt Bohea Tea, and Spaniſh Indigo, Alum, Copperas, Nails, &c. will be ſold on a very ſmall Advance.

STray'd or Stolen from the Subſcriber of Granville, 13th Inſt. a dark Brown Mare, natural Pacer, trots ſome, about 14 Hands high, about 8 Years old, ſhod before, no Brand or Mark:—Whoever ſhall take up ſaid Mare, (and the Thief that ſtole her if ſtolen) and return her to the Subſcriber, ſhall be well rewarded for their Trouble, beſides all neceſſary Charges paid,

By BENJ. OLDS.

WHereas more than a ſixteenth Part of the Proprietors of the Townſhips of Middlebury, and Saliſbury, in the Province of New-Hapmſhire, have made Application to me the Subſcriber, to warn a Meeting of ſaid Proprietors, to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. John Evarts, in Saliſbury, in Litchfield County, on the firſt Monday of April next, at 11 o'Clock in the Forenoon; then and there to conſult ſome proper Meaſures to further the ſpeedy Settlement of ſaid Townſhips, and to grant Rates; and to do any other Buſineſs they ſhall think neceſſary to be done at ſaid Meeting. Dated at Saliſbury, this 17th Day of February, A. D. 1766.

JOHN HUTCHINSON, Juſtice of Peace.

Juſt publiſhed, and to be ſold at the Printing-Office in Hartford.

A wondeful Dream or Viſion,

concerning AMERICA.

"Your Old Men ſhall dream Dreams."

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, March 10, 1766. No. 63.

LONDON, Nov. 1.

To the Printer of the PUBLIC LEDGER.

I Am neither a native of America, nor have I any property in theſe Parts; yet I muſt own I am heartily concerned for the poor, ill-[illegible]; and though I was born and educated in England, the mother country, yet I grieve to ſee her and her colonies [illegible], than the natural and dutiful children they have hitherto proved.

[illegible] with the moſt ſovereign contempt, [illegible] Pacificus, in your paper of this day, where, under that peaceful ſignature, that [illegible] of ſlavery and defender of oppreſſion, would deprive our poor coloniſts of the ſhadow of liberty; treat their oppoſition as rebellion; and, by ſhewing the weakneſs of their power, tacitly adviſes, that they ſhould be dragooned into ſubmiſſion. With the thinking and unbiaſſed part of the world, his letter will be treated with the ſcorn it deſerves, and every lover of legal freedom will condemn his ſcandalous poſitions; but [illegible] may be ſo weak as not to think for themſelves, and that the injured Americans may not think they are without one friend in their mother's houſe, I will hunt this peaceful advocate for civil war, thro' all his mazes, and detect his ſhallow artifices.

It is the fundamental point of the Britiſh conſtitution, that "No perſon can be legally taxed but by his own conſent, given by his repreſentative." Are the Americans ſubjects of Great-Britain or not? If they are, they have undoubtedly the right of Britiſh ſubjects in common with all others. If they are not, then what right have we to [illegible] them without their conſent? [illegible] is [illegible] wrong in juſtice, reaſon, prudence and politics; unleſs we look upon them as conquered provinces, who are to be the hewers of wood and drawers of water, for their inſulting victors. Pacificus, ſays, "The original charters to their firſt ſettlers contain a ſubmiſſion to the right of their being taxed here." I always thought that charters were acts of favour, not detriment; that they conferred new privileges, not deſtroyed thoſe which were poſſeſſed before. The firſt ſettlers were free ſubjects of this kingdom, and as ſuch enjoyed every right and immunity their fellow ſubjects had a right to claim. Did they forfeit their birth right, by leaving their native country to explore wilds, and combat ſavages, for the emolument of the mother country, as well as themſelves? Did they accept of the badges of ſlavery for themſelves and poſterity, when they thought they had procured charters of favour and indulgence? Certainly no! and tell this advocate for force, that no charter granted by any King can deprive a Britiſh ſubject of his natural rights, which he can only loſe by a commiſſion of crimes, or by the authority of parliament.

When the colonies gathered ſtrength, and ſpread ſo much that taxes were become neceſſary for the ſupport of government, Houſes of aſſemblies were legally inſtituted in each ſeperate province: wherein each man aſſented to the payment of them, by his repreſentative; and what more can be expected of them? The charges of their own ſeparate governments, they defray themſelves. They contribute to their own defence, and in the beginning of their late war, did not deſire a ſingle man to be ſent to guard them, but only that their mother would ſend them arms, and give them leave to raiſe their own people to defend their own frontiers; which by the bye were not attacked on their own accounts, but on that of their mother. What more can be expected from them? Are they to be taxed at home and taxed here alſo? Surely Juſtice forbids.

Pacificus next ſays, that "It wuld be a meanneſs of a very dangerous and diſgraceful nature, to admit repreſentatives from them into our houſe of commons." I have as much reverence for the honor and dignity of that honorable houſe, as any one of my fellow ſubjects; but I cannot ſee any more diſgrace from a repreſentative for an American province, than for a little dirty Corniſh Borough; or that a man elected by ten or twelve thouſand American ſubjects, will not ſit more graceful on his ſeat than one choſen by eighteen or twenty venal voters, who live from election to election on the ſale of their own freedom and conſciences.

Pacificus next proceeds to point out the nature of the reſiſtance our colonies are able to make to the armed troops and battering cannon, which he adviſes ſhould be ſent to force their ſubmiſſion. But to anſwer his ſophiſtry at large in this letter, would engroſs too much room in your paper; and I ſhall therefore defer that diſcuſſion for a day or two longer.

JUSTICE.

◆ ◆ ◆

BOSTON, Feb. 27.

Extract of a Letter from London, dated 14th Dec.

"I AM much obliged for your ſentiments reſpecting the trouble the late act of parliament, paſt for laying duties and taxes in your part of the world, will bring upon the inhabitants thereof; I am ſenſible the merchants here will ſeverely feel the ſame, if ways and means are not found out to redreſs their grievances. 'Tis ſome ſatiſfaction to myſelf that I can ſay, I was not wanting the laſt winter in uſing my beſt endeavours jointly with the reſt of the gentlemen in the trade, in making proper application to remove thoſe evils that I foreſaw was coming upon us, and ſhall continue my endeavours with the reſt of the gentlemen of the committee, to reſtore peace with you, by an application to parliament for remedying the diſtreſſes under which the Britiſh commerce to North-America now labours. This was the reſolution the merchants [illegible] at the meeting I mentioned to you in my laſt; when they unanimouſly voted Mr. Alderman Trecothick in the chair, and [illegible] thirty [illegible] the ſeveral provinces from Canada to Georgia; of the committee of which ſix were for the four provinces of New-England. On Thurſday morning I waited as one of the deputation from the merchants with our chairman, and [illegible] others nominated for that purpoſe, on Mr. Secretary CONWAY, Mr. Chancellor of the Exchequer, Lord Dartmouth, and the Marquis of Rockingham, to requeſt their countenance and ſupport in their intended application to parliament, and have the pleaſure to ſay we met with a very genteel reception, and have their reſpective promiſe to ſupport us in our ſaid application, in any point that may be conſiſtent with the dignity of the crown, and honor of the parliament. The late proceedings at New-York, and the reſolutions of your ſeveral aſſemblies in America, reſpecting the ſtamp-act, hath put the nation in the greateſt ferment ever known in the memory of moſt people living, and you may be aſſured there will be very warm work at the meeting of the houſe, the late miniſtry being reſolved to aſſert the right of parliament in oppoſition to your reſpective charters, as the people of America are to ſubmit to the payment of internal taxes, unleſs ſuch as may be directed by the legiſlature here for the ſupport of government; the ſaid taxes to be levied by the governor, council and houſe of aſſembly, conformable to the right which they ſay is inveſted in them by their charter. This point muſt be determined before the ſtamp-act, in my opinion, as well as many others, will be repealed; and therefore, the moſt that can be expected is a ſuſpenſion of the act, that our late valuable trade to North-America may not ſuffer too much by a continuance of it, for which good purpoſe is the intent of our preſent application to parliament, as alſo to pray relief from the molaſſes-act, ſugar-act, cuſtom-houſe deputations, vice-admiralty courts, bonds given for the exportation of lumber, and thoſe acquired on the exportation of India ſilks from hence, and we conceive the greateſt hopes that we ſhall be able to make out to the ſatisfaction of parliament, that the giving encouragement to the trade of Great-Britain to North-America, deſerves the utmoſt countenance they can give to it, inſtead of its being oppreſſed in the manner it hath lately been; and when the members have given a full and impartial hearing to our ſaid petition, they will not only overlook the late unhappy proceedings of the poor deceived populace in your part of the world, but grant at leaſt the greateſt part of the relief intended to be ſet forth in our petition, eſpecially as the ſame will be backed by moſt of the maritime towns and principal cities in Great-Britain. I cannot conclude this without doing Mr. alderman Trecothick the juſtice to ſay, that he is indefatigable in the proſecuting this buſineſs, and thereby ſhewn himſelf a true lover of his country."

LONDON, Dec. 7.

When Sir Robert Walpole was miniſter, in the Spaniſh war, a ſcheme was mentioned to him of taxing the American colonies; he ſmiled and ſaid, "I will leave that for ſome of my ſucceſſors, who have more courage, and leſs a friend to commerce than I am." He added, "It has been a maxim with me during my adminiſtration, to encourage the trade of the American colonies in the utmoſt latitude (nay, it has been neceſſary to paſs over ſome irregularities in their trade with Europe) for by encouraging them to an extenſive growing foreign commerce, if they gain 500,000l. I am convinced that in two years afterwards full 250,000l. of their gains will be in his Majeſty's Exchequer by the labour and product of this kingdom, as immenſe quantities of every kind of our manufactures go thither; and as they encreaſe in their foreign American trade, more of our produce will be wanted." He ended with ſaying, "This is taxing them more agreeable both to their own conſtitution and to ours."

ANECDOTE.

"The King of Pruſſia, by means of Mr. Pitt, obtained the pardon of John Keith, Lord Marſhal of Scotland, from the late King George. Mr. Pitt improved on this, and as Lord Marſhal was well known to the grandees of Spain, and they believed him to be in their intereſt, as at that time he was the Pruſſian miniſter at that court, they communicated the family compact to him, and he, as in duty bound to his new ſovereign, communicated the ſame to Mr. Pitt.

This alludes to Mr. Pitt's being certainly appriſed of the ſecret. When Mr. Pitt propoſed the ſeizing the galloons, he was oppoſed, and queſtioned concerning his information, when, with reluctance, he ſhewed the letter from Lord Marſhal. On this the late Lord Harwick obſerved, that a halter was once round that nobleman's neck, but now more ſure; alluding to his returning to Spain, where they would have finiſhed him. Lord Marſhal was then on ſhip board at Portſmouth, on his way to Spain; Lord Egremont wrote to him; upon which he returned, and went by the way of Holland, to his government of New-Chattell without going to Spain, where he has never been ſince. The end proved the information true, and that Mr. Pitt's plan was what ought to have been adopted. Such is miniſterial intelligence. I mention this as a key to that part of the hiſtory of the times."

LONDON.

The following is abſtracted from the New-York Intelligence:

To the Honorable Cadwallader Colden, Eſq; Lieutenant Governor of New-York.

SIR,

The people of this city and province of New-York have been informed, that you have bound yourſelf under an oath to be the chief murderer of their rights and privileges, by acting as an enemy to your King and country, to liberty, and mankind, in the enforcement of the ſtamp act, which we are unanimouſly determined ſhall never take place amongſt us, ſo long as a man of us has life to defend his injured country.

Thus wicked men of old, conſpired againſt Paul an Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt, and bound themſelves under a curſe, that they would neither eat nor drink till they had killed him; but God defeated their bloody purpoſes, as we truſt he will your's; and Paul was delivered. How it fared with his intended aſſaſſins, hiſtory does not certainly inform us; but we can with certainty aſſure you of your fate, if you do not this night ſolemnly make oath, and publiſh it to the people, that you never will, directly nor indirectly, by any act of your's, or any perſon under your influence, endeavour to execute the ſtamp act, or any part of it; and that you will, to the utmoſt of your power, prevent its taking effect here, and endeavour to obtain a repeal of it in England. So help you God.

We have heard of your deſign, or menace, of firing upon the town, in caſe of diſturbance; but aſſure yourſelf, that if you dare to perpetrate any ſuch murderous act, you will bring your Grey Hairs with ſorrow to the grave; you will die a martyr to your own villany, and be, not virtually, but, really hanged as Porteous, upon a ſign poſt as a memento to all wicked Governors, and every man that aſſiſts you ſhall be put to death.

New-York, Friday, Nov. 1.

ANSWER.

THE Lieutenant Governor declares he will do nothing in relation to the Stamps, but leave it to Sir Henry Moore to do as he pleaſes on his arrival.

Council Chamber New-York, November 2, 1765.

By Order of his Honor,

G. W. Banyar, D. Cl. Cor.

The Governor acquainted Judge Levingſton, the Mayor, Mr. Beverly Robinſon, and Mr. John Stevens, being Monday the 4th of November, that he would not iſſue, nor ſuffer to be iſſued, any of the Stamps now in Fort George.

Signed,
ROBERT R. LIVINGSTON,
JOHN CRUGER,
BEVERLY ROBINSON,
JOHN STEVENS.

The Freemen, Freeholders, and inhabitants of this city, being ſatisfied that the Stamps are not to be iſſued, are determined to keep the peace of the city at all events, except they ſhould have other cauſe of complaint.

To the honorable Cadwallader Colden, Eſq; Lieutenant Governor of New-York.

LUKE xii, 15 to 20.

"The ground of a certain rich man brought forth plentifully.

"And he thought within himſelf, ſaying, what ſhall I do, becauſe I have no room where to beſtow my fruits?

"And he ſaid, this will I do, I will pull down my barns and build greater; and there will I beſtow all my fruits and my goods.

"And I will ſay unto my Soul, Soul, thou haſt much Goods laid up for many years; take thine eaſe, eat, drink and be merry.

"But God ſaid unto him, Thou fool, this night ſhall thy Soul be required of thee; then whoſe ſhall theſe things be which thou haſt provided?"

BOSTON, March 6.

Saturday laſt died at Brookline, Zabdiel Boylſton, Eſq; aged near 87 years.

Monday laſt arrived here the Cutter ſloop of war Gaſpee Capt. Allen, from Halifax.

We hear that a Veſſel arrived laſt Friday at Providence, in a ſhort Paſſage from South-Carolina, and it is ſaid, that the Sons of Liberty at Charleſtown are in high Spirits, and determined to oppoſe again to the laſt Extremity the Execution of the odious S——p A——t, ſhould any again dare attempt to enforce it.——That there hath been a great Uneaſineſs among the Seamen, who wanted their wages paid them while the Veſſels lay in the Harbour, not being able to obtain a Clearance;——but that at length, on a Petition of the Merchants and others, the Cuſtom-Houſe was opened, and Veſſels cleared as uſual. We alſo hear there had been a ſharp Conflict between the Governor and Houſe of Commons there, before the Offices could be got open.——This and ſome other Articles are, it is ſaid, contained in Papers and Letters from Charleſtown, but as no Letter is come to Town, and only one Paper, of the 18th ult. which we have not ſeen, we are not able to give the Particulars.

We hear that the principal Inhabitants of this Town are ſubſcribing an Agreement that they will not purchaſe any LAMB this Seaſon—that they will not buy any Meat of any Butcher that ſhall expoſe Lamb to Sale; and give all Manner of Diſcountenance to ſuch Butchers for the future.

Friday laſt Capt. Cochran arrived here from Monto-Chriſto, who informs, That the Spaniſh Governor had ordered all the Engliſh Veſſels to depart from thence, which they were obliged immediately to comply with, to prevent being ſeized. Several of them who were not loaded, 'tis ſaid, went to Turks Iſland.

PORTSMOUTH, March 3.

This Morning between 2 and 3 o'Clock, a conſiderable Shook of an Earthquake was felt in this and ſeveral of the neighbouring Towns.

Extract of a Letter from Kingſton in Jamaica, dated December 23, 1765.

——"There is nothing going on here at preſent but Military Duty, which we are obliged to attend in the open Parade three Days out of ſeven, and the Sun is ſo exceſſive hot that it is enough to knock a Man down.——The Reaſon of our muſtering ſo often is on Account of many rebellious Negroes in this Iſland; theſe Fellows get among the New Negroes and force ſuch to join them, and have already kill'd many white People at different Plantations, in a cruel Manner."——

NEWPORT, (Rhode-Iſland) February 24.

Extract of a Letter from Boſton:

"By a veſſel from London, in ſix weeks, we have an account of the reception of your two famous, or rather infamous men, (Martin Howard and Doctor Moffat)——They applied to ſome in power, with their complaints, and for redreſs:——They were aſked, what they had done, that the people, among whom they lived, ſhould treat them ſo rudely:——They anſwered, that they had been writing in favour of the Stamp-Act:——They were told that the Government never employed them:——But they ſaid they were willing to ſupport Government.——They were anſwered, that the Government could ſupport itſelf, and wanted not their aid; and as they never had any occaſion for their aſſiſtance, they need not make any further application, but return from whence they came.——It is ſaid, that they had been mobb'd; but the truth is, they are made the ridicule of every coffee-houſe they go into, by Old-England men, as well as Americans.—I underſtand the Doctor correſponded with Lord Bute, which is a fact not to be doubted."

PHILADELPHIA, February 27.

Yeſterday arrived here Capt. Eaſtwick from Charles-Town, in South Carolina, by whom we have Advice, that upon a Petition to the Aſſembly of that Province from the Merchants, Owners and Maſters of Veſſels there, ſetting forth the many Hardſhips and Inconveniencies they labour under, on Account of the Stamp-Law; and the ſame being taken into Conſideration by the Governor and Aſſembly; and ſeveral Letters having paſſed between the Governor and Mr. Randolph, the Surveyor General, on that Affair; it was agreed to open the Port, and clear out the Veſſels without Stamps, in the ſame Manner it is done here and elſewhere on the Continent.

By the ſame channel we learn, that the ſtampt papers, by the artifice of the governor, and the influence of ſome merchants, whoſe avaricious ſouls prompt them on to their country's ruin, was begun to be uſed at the cuſtom-houſe in Georgia; when the country people, whoſe ſouls were not contaminated by the baſe views of a little paultry wealth, but always ready to ſacrifice their lives for the continuance of that liberty they have enjoyed, and are in duty bound to hand it down to their children unimpaired, roſe and marched in a large body to Savannah, the capital of Georgia, where they inſiſted on buſineſs being done without ſtamps, which point they carried, and their port is now open.

Other advices from Georgia ſay, that though the ſtamps had taken place there for the ſhipping, yet on the inhabitants hearing of it, reſolving that they ſhould not be uſed in that Colony for any one purpoſe whatever, they went in a body, and threatned deſtruction to thoſe that ſhould offer to enforce them; upon which, we are informed, that they now clear out their veſſels as uſual, without ſtamps.

Laſt Week the Courts of Juſtice were opened at New-Caſtle, and the Buſineſs carried on in the cuſtomary Way.——The Grand Jury for the Seſſions, we hear, refuſed to be qualified, till they had Aſſurances given them, that the Buſineſs of the Pleas ſhould alſo be proceeded with.

NEW-YORK, February 27.

Extract of a Letter from Quebec, dated the 22d January, 1766.

"Laſt poſt brought G——— M——— his preparatory diſpatches for his returning home: You may judge of his concern from the effects this intelligence produced.——Immediately after peruſal, he was taken extremely ill, was twice blooded, and is at this time in a very weak condition. It was impoſſible he could receive a more unwelcome piece of news. Conſider, Sir, the awful occaſion of being ſummoned at a ſovereign's command, to render account of an adminiſtration at a time the conſcious ſoul feels the heavy weight of ſelf-conviction. The people here rejoice much, and flatter themſelves, oppreſſion and partial acts of favour, will not any more be exerciſed in theſe parts.

Juſt publiſhed, and to be ſold at the Printing-Office in Hartford.

A wondeful Dream or Viſion,

concerning AMERICA.

"Your Old Men ſhall dream Dreams."

TO be ſold, a likely NEGRO MAN, about twenty-two years old, very healthy and lively; who underſtands moſt Sorts of Buſineſs, waiting and attending upon Gentlemen; he alſo perfectly underſtands the whole art of making pot-aſh, in which buſineſs he has been employ'd for ſeveral years. Any perſon inclining to purchaſe ſaid negro, may apply to David Tod, at the pot-aſh-works in Suffield, (where the negro may be ſeen) or John Walker at Hartford, and know further.

THE laſt Tueſday of this Month (being the 25th Day) there is to be a General Congreſs of the SONS OF LIBERTY, in this Colony, to meet in Hartford, by their Repreſentatives choſen for that Purpoſe.

AN ACROSTICK.

M y Muſe deſcend, deſcend and tune my Lays;
I nſpire me once, to ſing fair Clio's Praiſe;
S oft are her Looks, her Air; her gentle Mein
S urpriſes All—All own her Beauty's Queen.

D eprive us not, ye Powers! of ſo much Merit:
O, may her Life be long, Health, Peace inherit.
L ook on the Statue † which enchants the World,
L ook on this Fair, new Beauties ſtill unfold.
Y outh, Wit and Beauty, grace the lovely Maid;

G ems! take away, their Luſtre lend no Aid.
O f Patches, Paint, let others boaſt their Pride,
O n you my Fair, they ſo much Beauty hide.
D eareſt of thy Sex, from Pride, from Envy free,
W hoſe Mind is calm, as the ſmooth Summer Sea.
L [illegible]
N one then will fail, in Virtue's Path to tread.

† Venus de Medicis.

Juſt Publiſhed in BOSTON,
(And ſold by THOMAS GREEN, oppoſite the State-Houſe, in Hartford.)
(Price Nine Pence.)

The Neceſſity of Repealing

the American STAMP-ACT demonſtrated: Or, A PROOF that GREAT-BRITAIN muſt be injured by that ACT. In a LETTER to a MEMBER of the BRITISH HOUSE of COMMONS.

Juſt Publiſh'd in NEW-YORK,
(And to be ſold at the Heart and Crown in Hartford)

CONSIDERATIONS
UPON THE
RIGHTS of the COLONIES
TO THE PRIVILEGES
Of Britiſh SUBJECTS,

Introduc'd by a brief Review of the Riſe and Progreſs of Engliſh LIBERTY, and concluded with ſome Remarks upon our preſent Alarming SITUATION.

——————Eripe Turpi
Colla Jugo; Liber——liber ſum, dic age!

THE Creditors of Warham Peaſe of Suffield, an Inſolvent Debtor, are warned to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Silas Kent, Innholder in the Weſt Society in Suffield, on Tueſday, the firſt Day of April next, at Nine o'Clock in the Forenoon; and exhibit their Demands on ſaid Eſtate, in Order to receive their firſt Dividend according to Law.

Suffield, March 10, 1766.

SAMUEL KENT,
MARTIN ASHLEY,
JEDEDIAH BLISS. } Truſtees.

A Legal aſſignment and appraiſment of the eſtate of Mr. Samuel Cole, of Farmington, an inſolvent debtor, is made, purſuant to a late act of this colony, entituled "An act for preventing fraud in debtors, and for ſecuring the effects of inſolvent debtors, &c. And therefore the creditors of the ſaid Samuel, are deſired to meet at the dwelling-houſe of Capt. Solomon Cowles in ſaid Farmington, on the third Tueſday of April next, and exhibit their demands on ſaid eſtate, that an adjuſtment and dividend, may be made, according to law.

Hartford, March 10, 1766.

Solomon Whitman,
John Coleman,
James Wadſworth } Truſtees.

TO be ſold by Daniel Brown, Eſq; 1300 Acres of Land at Sandisfield, lately call'd No. III. Eaſt from Sheffield, 300 Acres lying each Side of the Meeting-Houſe; with two Dwelling-Houſes thereon, and other Buildings; with a good Orchard, and conſiderable Improvements. Alſo, about 100 Acres lying about three Quarters of a Mile from ſaid Meeting-Houſe; with a good New Sawmill thereon, and other Improvements. Alſo, about 930 Acres of good Land, lying in ſeveral different Places.——A reaſonable Time will be given for Payment. For further Particulars, inquire of ſaid Daniel Brown, living on the Premiſes. 63

SCHEME of Amenia LOTTERY, 1766.

CONTAINING Twelve Land Prizes, all of which is good feaſible Land, lying in ſaid Amenia, in Dutcheſs County. Lot, Nº. 1, contains 3 Acres ¾, on which is a good Dwelling-Houſe, with two Rooms, one 16 Feet by 20 the walls plaiſtered, the other 14 by 16, with a good Cellar, Well, and Garden; being the Houſe that Samuel Shippard now lives in; ſituated on a publick Road, about One Mile and a Half from a Meeting-Houſe, has a new Board Fence on the Front, and is very convenient for a Shoemaker and Tanner, or any other Tradeſman; Nine other Lots of Land adjoining the Lot above diſcribed; alſo 2 Lots of Land, about ½ of a Mile South of Lot Nº. 1, containing 7 Acres and ½ each; with ſundary other Articles, as may be ſeen below; all of which have been appraiſed by Mr. Abraham Payne, junr. and Enſign Ichabod Payne, of ſaid Amenia, of undoubted Veracity, who were under Oath, to make a juſt Appraiſment of the Value of the ſame, in Ready Money.

The Lottery conſiſts of 900 Tickets, at one Dollar each, of which 217 are to be fortunate; as follows;

Number of Prizes.	Prizes deſcribed.	Value of each.	£.	s.	d.
1	of Lot Nº. 1, containing the Houſe and 3 Acres and 3 Roods of Land, &c.		60	00	00
1	of a Horſe,	17*l.*	17	00	00
1	of Ditto,	16*l.*	16	00	00
2	of Lots, Nº. 11 & 12, each 7 Acres ½	15*l.*	30	00	00
1	of Lot Nº. 2, 3 Acres ½ Meadow,	14*l.*	14	00	00
3	of Lots Nº. 4, 6 and 7, each 3 Acres, 3 Roods and 32 Rods,	6*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.*	20	9	6
1	A Surveyors Compaſs,	6*l.* 10*s.*	6	10	0
2	of a Quarter of Saw-mill, each,	6*l.* 5*s.*	12	10	0
1	of Lot Nº. 5, being 3 Acres, 3 Roods, and 32 Rods,	6*l.* 1*s.* 9*d.*	6	1	9
1	A Mare,	6*l.*	6	00	00
1	of Lot Nº. 3, being 3 Acres, 3 Roods, and 32 Rods,	5*l.* 17*s.*	5	17	00
3	of Lots Nº. 8, 9 and 10, each being 3 Acres, 3 Roods, & 32 Rods,	5*l.* 7*s.* 3*d.*	16	1	9
1	of a Cow and Calf,	4*l.* 10*s.*	4	10	00
1	of a Sley, with a new Box, well ſhod,	4*l.*	4	00	00
4	of 2 Acres of Wheat, each	3*l.* 4*s.*	12	16	00
1	of a Cow,	52*s.*	2	12	00
1	of a Saddle,	50*s*	2	10	00
1	of a Silver mounted Gun,	48*s.*	2	8	00
1	of a large Grindſtone,	30*s.*	1	10	00
1	of Jacob's Common Law plac'd,	25*s.*	1	5	00
1	of a large Pair of And-Irons,	20*s.*	1	00	00
1	of a ſmaller Pair of Ditto,	15*s.*	00	15	00
5	of two Sheep, each,	14*s.*	3	10	00
1	of Wild's Survey, & Salmon's Gazetter,	15*s.* 6*d.*	00	15	6
1	of Ward's Mathematicks, & Gunter's Scale,		00	15	6
1	of Doct. Waterland's Reply, & a Protractor,		00	17	00
1	of a Caſe with nine Bottles,	16*s.*	00	16	00
1	of Atkinſon's Epitome, and a Magnet,	14*s.*	00	14	00
16	Caſh Prizes, each of	16*s.*	12	16	00
160	Ditto, each of	12*s.*	96	00	00

217 Prizes,
683 Blanks, } 900 Tickets at 8*s.* each, is £. 360 00 00

The above Lottery to be drawn the Middle of May, next, at the Dwelling-Houſe of Capt. Michael Hopkins, in Amenia; who with Nicholas De Laverge, Eſq; and Mr. Edmund Perlee, Merchant, are appointed Managers, and Inſpectors; of whom Tickets may be had; as alſo of the ſaid Shippard. The Time of Drawing, and the fortunate Numbers will be publiſhed in the Connecticut Courant; and good Warrantie Deeds will be given of the Land, the Title being indiſputable. As the above Lottery is ſo well calculated for the Encouragement of Adventurers, it is expected, that the Tickets will meet with a quick Sale, and the Lottery be drawn at the Time appointed.

WHEREAS I received a Requeſt from a Number of the Proprietors of the Townſhip of Hartwood, in the County of Berkſhire, in the Province of the Maſſachuſetts Bay, to call a Meeting of the Proprietors of ſaid Townſhip, to meet at Hartford, in the Colony of Connecticut, to act on the following Articles, viz. To concert Meaſures, and come into Agreement to erect a Saw-Mill in ſaid Townſhip; and for clearing the Highways; and to appoint ſuch Agents as the Proprietors ſhall judge neceſſary: And to tranſact any ſuch Buſineſs as ſhall be tho't proper.——THESE are therefore, to Notify and warn the Proprietors of the Townſhip of Hartwood aforeſaid, to meet at the Houſe of Mr. David Bull, Inn-keeper in Hartford aforeſaid, on the Third Tueſday of March next, at Two o'Clock in the Afternoon, for the Purpoſes aforeſaid.

William Knox, Propritetor's Clerk.

Hartford, 19th Feb. 1766.

Colony of Connecticut,
Hartford County, ſs.
February 27, 1766. }

THE ſubſcribers, upon the petition of Thomas Bert, of Hartford, in ſaid county, and the major part of his creditors, in number and value, (he being an inſolvent debtor) appointed truſtees of the eſtate of ſaid Thomas, for the uſe of his creditors by the hon. Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; judge of the county court, for ſaid county, and Seth Wetmore, Eſq; juſtice of the peace and one of the quorum, for ſaid county; hereby give notice, to all the creditors of ſaid Thomas, to meet on the 25th day of March, next, at the houſe of Mr. Moſes Butler, in ſaid Hartford, at eleven o'clock, before noon, there to approve or diſapprove ſaid truſtees, and chooſe others in their ſtead, and to do all other things relating to the eſtate of ſaid Bert, which may be neceſſary and agreeable to the act of this colony, in that behalf lately made and provided.

JOHN KEITH,
WILLIAM TILEY,
TITUS HOSMER.

Hartford, Feb. 28th, 1766.

THE Creditors of SAMUEL HOLMAN, of HARTFORD, an inſolvent Debtor, are hereby notified, that a legal aſſignment and appraiſement of the ſaid Samuel's eſtate, is made purſuant to an act of this colony, entitled "An Act for preventing fraud in debtors, and for ſecuring the effects of inſolvent debtors, for the uſe of their creditors, &c. And that therefore, they are deſired to meet on the eighteenth day of March next, at the dwelling-houſe of Mr. Gideon Benjamin, in ſaid Hartford, and exhibit their demands on ſaid eſtate, that the ſame may be adjuſted according to law.

RUSSELL WOODBRIDGE,
JOSEPH MAKEN,
JOHN COLEMAN, } Truſtees.

Suffield, Feb. 24, 1766.

THE creditors of Samuel Smith, and Martin Kellogg, of Suffield, in the county of Hartford, inſolvent debtors, are hereby notified, and warned to meet, at the dwelling-houſe, of Capt. Benjamin Kent, in ſaid Suffield, on the third Monday of March next, at one o'clock in the afternoon, and exhibit their demands on ſaid eſtates, that they may be adjuſted, according to a law of this colony, entituled, "An act for preventing fraud in debtors, and for ſecuring the effects of inſolvent debtors, for the uſe of their creditors, &c.

SIMEON HATHEWAY,
JAMES HARMON,
JOSEPH PEASE, } Truſtees for S. Smith.
SIMEON HATEWAY,
DANIEL AUSTIN,
JOSEPH PEASE, } Truſtees for Martin Kellogg.

WHereas more than a ſixteenth Part of the Proprietors of the Townſhips of Middlebury, and Saliſbury, in the Province of New-Hampſhire, have made Application to me the Subſcriber, to warn a Meeting of ſaid Proprietors, to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. John Evarts, in Saliſbury, in Litchfield County, on the firſt Monday of April next, at 11 o'Clock in the Forenoon; then and there to conſult ſome proper Meaſures to further the ſpeedy Settlement of ſaid Townſhips, and to grant Rates; and to do any other Buſineſs they ſhall think neceſſary to be done at ſaid Meeting. Dated at Saliſbury, this 17th Day of February, A. D. 1766.

John Hutchinson, Juſtice of Peace.

The Subſcriber wants immediately,

A few fat Young Horſes,

about fourteen hands high, with long Tails. Thoſe who have any ſuch to diſpoſe of, may meet with a purchaſer, by applying to

THOMAS DAVIDSON.

◆

STray'd or ſtolen, from the Subſcriber, on Saturday, the 22d of February laſt, a ſorrel, or red roan horſe, five years old this ſpring, hath four white feet and houghs, whitiſh mane and tail, a large blaze in the face, one wall or white eye, and ſhod all-round, hath but a poor pace, and trots large. Whoever will ſecure, return or give information of ſaid horſe, ſhall be duely rewarded, by Tho's Seymour, jun^r.

Hartford, March 1, 1766.

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, March 17, 1766. No. 64.

SOUTH-CAROLINA.

n the Commons-Houſe of Aſſembly, 22d of Jan. 1766.

ORdered, That a meſſage be prepared to be ſent to his honor the lieutenant governor, to know if his onor has received the ſtamp-act, either from the ſecretaries f ſtate, lords of trade, or in any other authentick manner. ccording to order the following meſſage was prepared, viz.

May it pleaſe your honor,

THIS houſe humbly deſire that your honor will be eaſed to inform them, if the act, commonly called the mp-act, has been tranſmitted to your honor, by the ſecretaries of ſtate, lords of trade, or in any other authentick nner. In the commons-houſe of aſſembly, 22d Jan. 1766. order of the houſe, PETER MANIGAULT, Speaker.

His honor's anſwer.

Mr. Speaker and gentlemen,

IN anſwer to your meſſage juſt now received, I acquaint u, that the American ſtamp act was not tranſmitted to , by the ſecretary of ſtate, or lords of trade. I received rom ſuch authority as leaves no room to doubt of its auenticity.

WILLIAM BULL.

Ordered, That the following meſſage be ſent to his ho- the lieutenant governor.

May it pleaſe your honor,

THE meſſage we received this morning, is by no means ſatisfactory as we think this houſe had a right to expect, m your honor's candor: We muſt therefore renew our plication to you, and humbly deſire to know, from what hority, and at what time, your honor received the act mmonly called the ſtamp-act.

In the commons-houſe of aſſembly, the 23d Jan. 1766.

By order of the houſe, PETER MANIGAULT, Speaker.

His honor's anſwer.

Mr. Speaker and gentlemen,

CONFESS myſelf ſurprized, at an expreſſion in your ſage juſt now received, ſeeming to charge me with want candor, in my anſwer of yeſterday. As I endeavour to with candor on all occaſions, public and private, I can y now be more explicit, as to the perſons from whom ceived the ſtamp-act; the hon. Mr. Leigh, his Majey's attorney-general for this province, arrived here from gland laſt June, and he firſt communicated to me American ſtamp-act, which he brought from London; about the end of Auguſt laſt, I received it from his ellency Mr. Boone, governor of this province; from which authorities, I have no room to doubt of its aucity. 23d January, 1766.

WILLIAM BULL.

Friday, 24th day of January, 1766.

Ordered, That the following addreſs be preſented to his or the lieutenant governor.

May it pleaſe your honor,

N the firſt of your meſſages received on Thurſday laſt acquaint us, that the "American ſtamp-act was not ranſmitted to you by the ſecretaries of ſtate, or lords of ade," and yet your honor declares, "you received it om ſuch authority as leaves you no room to doubt of s authenticity," and upon our deſiring to know what authority was, your honor informs us in your next age, that the act which Mr. Leigh brought from Lon- was firſt communicated to you by him in June laſt, that in Auguſt you received one from Mr. Boone, goor of this province.

e hope your honor will pardon us, for being of opi- , that neither of theſe ways of receiving any act, afng the people of this province, was ſuch a notification of as to oblige a governor to enforce the execution ; for we cannot but think more highly of the dignity ur honor's ſtation, than to imagine, that the attorneyal's barely communicating to you a copy of any act rliament, extending to America, that may come to his s, would neceſſarily oblige your honor to put it in tion; and with regard to Mr. Boone, we are very your honor cannot but join with us in thinking, that he is out of this province, he has nothing to do its government, and therefore the act could not have to you from him as governor, or in any other chathan from a private gentleman.

veral inſtances might be mentioned to your honor, of eople of this province having ſuffered peculiar, and great hardſhips, and thoſe too for no ſmall length of merely from the accidental detention, or miſcarrif governmental informations in proper form; and as has undoubtedly been the caſe, it proves, that certain s are abſolutely neceſſary in all matters of government, ſpecially in ſuch as relate to the authentication of new of ſuch immenſe conſequence.

Upon the whole, this being a matter of the higheſt conſequence to the peace and happineſs of all the people of this province, & materially affecting the trade of G. Britain.

We moſt humbly and earneſtly intreat your honor, to reconſider it, and not ſuffer the buſineſs of the province to be any farther interrupted, or our merchants hindered from complying with their engagements to the tradeſmen and manufacturers of Great-Britain; for we would not willingly think your honor would unneceſſarily haſten our diſtreſs upon us; and we have ſtill further reaſon to flatter ourſelves with ſucceeding in this application to your honor, as ſeveral of the governors of the northern provinces particularly thoſe of Virginia, Penſylvania, and North-Carolina, (who poſſibly may have even received copies of the act in due form) have ſome conſiderable time ſince, ſet the example.

His honor's anſwer.

Mr. Speaker and gentlemen,

WHAT you deſire of me is a matter of the greateſt importance; and therefore would chuſe to avail myſelf of the opinion of his Majeſty's council. I will lay the matter before them on Monday next, and will return you an anſwer on Tueſday.

WILLIAM BULL.

Tueſday the 28th January, 1766.

Mr. Speaker and gentlemen,

THE addreſs which I received from you laſt Saturday, I laid before his Majeſty's council, for their advice thereupon. As it was a matter of very great importance, I thought it my duty to require the attendance of all the members, and they were all preſent except one, who was prevented by ſickneſs. And I now acquaint you with the reſult of their deliberations, as my anſwer to your addreſs.

His Majeſty's council are unanimouſly of opinion with me, that the ſtamp-act received in this province, printed by his Majeſty's printer in London, is authentick; and conſequently I was obliged to take the oath thereby enjoined, under very ſevere penalties, and diſſabilities, which the council were required to adminiſter.

And after a moſt ſerious attention to, and mature conſideration of, the matter of your application, which employed both the morning and afternoon of yeſterday, his Majeſty's council, by a majority of five to two, are of opinion, that the ſituation of this province is not ſuch, as will juſtify my complying with your requeſt.

Although it is not in my power to grant what you ſo earneſtly deſire, I give you my ſtrongeſt aſſurances, to confirm your opinion, that I would not willingly haſten any diſtreſs upon this province, that I will obſerve the utmoſt caution, to avoid every ſtep that may tend that way.

WILLIAM BULL.

NEW-YORK, March 13.

Saturday, the firſt Inſtant, the Ship Ellis, from London, bound for Philadelphia, was caſt away on Abſequon Beech; and one Mr. Wilſon (lately appointed Comptroller of the Cuſtom-Houſe at Amboy) and one of the Seamen, were drowned. As ſoon as the Veſſel ſtruck, great part of the Cargo was thrown over board to lighten her, moſt of which drove aſhore: The Ship with Part of the Cargo, will be loſt.

On Monday arrived Capt. Wynne, from Holland, laſt from Carolina, with Palatines.

We hear from New-Rochelle in Weſt-Cheſter County, that a Negro Woman belonging to Mrs. Rodman of that Place, was laſt Week deliver'd of a Negro Child, after which ſhe continued as well as Women in her Circumſtances generally are, for 3 or 4 Days, when ſhe was taken in Labour again, and deliver'd of a Mulatto Child.

Upon a ſuppoſition that the cannon upon the battery in this city were ſpiked by order of lieutenant governor Colden, his effigie was exhibited laſt Thurſday, ſitting upon a piece of ordnance (properly mounted) with a drill, conſtructed in ſuch a manner as to be continually working; at his back hung a drum, as a badge of his former profeſſion: On his breaſt was fixed a paper, on which were the following lines,

I'm deceiv'd by the devil, and left in the lurch;
And am forc'd to do penance, tho' not in a church.

After it had appear'd in the principal ſtreets of the city, attended by many thouſand ſpectators (altho' it rained great part of the time) it was carried to the common, where a fire was immediately made, and the whole conſumed by 5 o'clock in the afternoon, amidſt the acclamations of the multitude, who diſperſed directly after.——The affair was conducted with ſuch order and decorum, that no perſon ſuſtained the leaſt damage. N. B. the public are deſired to take Notice, that the cannon ſtill remain ſpiked; and it is expected that no further Hint will be neceſſary.

THE Creditors of SAMUEL HOLMAN, of HARTFORD, an inſolvent Debtor, are hereby notified, that a legal aſſignment and appraiſement of the ſaid Samuel's eſtate, is made purſuant to an act of this colony, entitled "An Act for preventing fraud in debtors, and for ſecuring the effects of inſolvent debtors, for the uſe of their creditors, &c. And that therefore, they are deſired to meet on the eighteenth day of March next, at the dwelling-houſe of Mr. Gideon Benjamin, in ſaid Hartford, and exhibit their demands on ſaid eſtate, that the ſame may be adjuſted according to law.

Feb. 28th, 1766.

RUSSELL WOODBRIDGE,
JOSEPH MAKEN,
JOHN COLEMAN, } Truſtees.

WHereas more than a ſixteenth Part of the Proprietors of the Townſhips of Middlebury, and Saliſbury, in the Province of New-Hampſhire, have made Application to me the Subſcriber, to warn a Meeting of ſaid Proprietors, to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. John Evarts, in Saliſbury, in Litchfield County, on the firſt Monday of April next, at 11 o'Clock in the Forenoon; then and there to conſult ſome proper Meaſures to further the ſpeedy Settlement of ſaid Townſhips, and to grant Rates; and to do any other Buſineſs they ſhall think neceſſary to be done at ſaid Meeting. Dated at Saliſbury, this 17th Day of February, A. D. 1766.

John Hutchinson, Juſtice of Pe

We are favoured with the following Memorandum, from a Gentleman lately arrived from Charleſtown, So. Carolina.

The governor of S. Carolina (after much altercation between him and the aſſembly) conſented to give a certificate, importing that the perſon appointed to diſtribute ſtamped papers in that province, refuſed to deliver them, which certificate being delivered to the naval officer, by the maſter, he is admitted to give bond in that office and of conſequence to paſs through the other offices without ſtamps.—One or two veſſels with theſe clearances, were ſailed for Portugal, and four for England lay in the road when I came away, and would depart the firſt opportunity.

The Sons of Liberty in Charleſtown, were come to a reſolution, that no rice ſhould be ſuffered to be ſent from that port to Georgia, as the inhabitants of that province had tamely received the Stamps. This reſolution, if adhered to, will greatly diſtreſs them, as I am well aſſured there is at this time in that province (Georgia) not leſs than eighty ſail, a great part of them chartered veſſels, and now lying on high demurrage, without any thing to load them.

At a meeting of the Sons of Liberty, the night before I left Charles-Town, information was given that a ſchooner loaded with rice for Georgia had ſtolen down in the night, but had not got to ſea, on which they ſummoned the owner and maſter, and obliged them to bring her up again and diſcharge it.

BOSTON, March 18.

Laſt Saturday the Nova-Scotia Packet, Capt. Rogers, arrived here in 6 Days from Halifax, by whom we received the Halifax News-Papers to Feb. 27, without Stamps—The Printer there, has advertiſed that all the Stamp-Paper for the Gazette is uſed up, and no more to be had; and that he would ſupply his Cuſtomers as uſual at the ſmall Price of 12s. that Currency per Ann. without Stamps.

March 13.

A number of Gentlemen have been choſen by the Town to procure Subſcriptions for not purchaſing Lamb the enſuing Seaſon.

A Number of Scotch Gentlemen having been choſen into the Office of Conſtable for the Town of Boſton, at the annual Meeting of the Freeholders on Monday laſt; theſe Gentlemen not only accepted the Office, but in Honour thereof named a new Ship belonging to ſome of them, at her launching, the Conſtables-Galley.

Tueſday laſt His Majeſty's Court of Judicature, Court of Aſſize and General Goal Delivery, was opened in this Town, being the Day fixed by Law, for the County of Suffolk.

"We hear that a Church in Caſco-Bay (not the Epiſcopal) has flouriſhed to ſuch a Degree, that ſince June laſt, upwards of Thirty Perſons have been added thereto."

Monday Night in a Snow Storm, Capt. Collyer in a Brig from the Straits going into Marblehead, ſtruck on a Ledge of Rocks, and ſunk before the People had opportunity of ſaving any Thing beſides their own Lives, a Quantity of Dollars that was in a Cheſt with a Cargo of Salt were loſt, as alſo the Veſſel.

Capt. Smith in a Schooner from Philadelphia we hear was alſo caſt away near Cohaſſet Rocks; the Veſſel and Cargo, conſiſting of 1000 Barrels of Flour, &c. were loſt. The Maſter, Mr. Blair a Paſſenger, and the Hands belonging to the Veſſel, with great Difficulty ſaved their Lives.

We hear that Capt. Jarvis, who was blown off this Coaſt laſt Winter, is arrived at the Vineyard, with ſeveral North Carolina Veſſels bound to this Port, all which are ſoon expected round from thence.

Tueſday night a ſloop from Piſcataqua for Caſco-Bay, with Pork and Corn, was loſt off Friar's-Iſland.

Colony of Connecticut. }

WHEREAS, purſuant to an Act or Law of this Colony, entitled, "An ACT to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors for the Uſe of their Creditors," &c.—

WILLIAM HURLBURD, of Suffield, in the County of Hartford, an Inſolvent Debtor, in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors; hath exhibited his Petition, with an Account of the Sums by him owing; and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court in the County of Hartford; and SETH WETMORE, Eſq; Juſtice of the Peace and Quorum, in ſaid County; praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of, for the Uſe of his ſaid Creditors: PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given to all the Creditors of the ſaid William Hurburd, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. David Bull, Innholder in Hartford, in ſaid County, on Wedneſday, the 9th Day of April next; to ſhew Reaſon (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of the ſaid William Hurlburd ſhould not be made, according to the Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Statute.

Middletown, March 14th, 1766. 64

Juſt Publiſhed, and to be Sold at the Printing-Office, Hartford; (Price 4d.)

Some Reaſons that influenced

the GOVERNOR to take, and the COUNCILLORS to adminiſter the OATH, required by the ACT of PARLIAMENT; commonly called The STAMP-ACT.

Humbly ſubmitted to the Conſideration of the PUBLIC.

NOTICE is hereby given to all the Proprietors of the Townſhip of PANTON, in the Province of New-Hampſhire, in New-England, that at a legal Proprietor's Meeting of ſaid proprietors, holden on the firſt Tueſday of December, A. D. 1765, was agreed upon and voted, a Rate or Tax of Ten Shillings, Lawful Money, on the Right of each original Proprietor: I do hereby give public Notice to ſaid Proprietors that they reſpectively pay their Rate or Tax, to me, on, or before the Thirteenth Day of May next, enſuing the Date hereof. Dated in Canaan, this 27th Day of February, A. D. 1766.

64 DAVID HOLCOMB, jun. Collector.

STolen out of the Stable of Uriah Stevens of Canaan, the Night after the eleventh Inſtant, a bright bay MARE, about thirteen Hands, and Half High, Scar on her left Side, white Spot on one of her hind Feet, about the Bigneſs of a Dollar, long Mane and Foretop, paces and trots, no Brand, low in Fleſh, five years old this Spring. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid Mare, and the Thief that ſtole her, and ſend Word to the Subſcriber, or return her, ſhall have a reaſonable Reward for their Trouble, and all neceſſary charges paid by

64 BENJAMIN HEWIT.

Suffield, Feb. 24, 1766.

THE creditors of Samuel Smith, and Martin Kellogg, of Suffield, in the county of Hartford, inſolvent debtors, are hereby notified, and warned to meet, at the dwelling-houſe, of Capt. Benjamin Kent, in ſaid Suffield, on the third Monday of March next, at one o'clock in the afternoon, and exhibit their demands on ſaid eſtates, that they may be adjuſted, according to a law of this colony, entituled, "An act for preventing fraud in debtors, and for ſecuring the effects of inſolvent debtors, for the uſe of their creditors, &c.

SIMEON HATHEWAY, }
JAMES HARMON, } Truſtees for
JOSEPH PEASE, } S. Smith.
SIMEON HATEWAY, } Truſtees for
DANIEL AUSTIN, } Martin Kel-
JOSEPH PEASE, } logg.

Colony of Connecticut, }
Hartford County, ſs. }
February 27, 1766. }

THE ſubſcribers, upon the petition of Thomas Burr, of Hartford, in ſaid county, and the major part of his creditors, in number and value, (he being an inſolvent debtor) appointed truſtees of the eſtate of ſaid Thomas, for the uſe of his creditors by the hon. Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; judge of the county court, for ſaid county, and Seth Wetmore, Eſq; juſtice of the peace and one of the quorum, for ſaid county: hereby give notice, to all the creditors of ſaid Thomas, to meet on the 25th day of March, next, at the houſe of Mr. Moſes Butler, in ſaid Hartford, at eleven o'clock, before noon, there to approve or diſapprove ſaid truſtees, and chooſe others in their ſtead, and to do all other things relating to the eſtate of ſaid Burr, which may be neceſſary and agreeable to the act of this colony, in that behalf lately made and provided.

JOHN KEITH,
WILLIAM TILEY,
TITUS HOSMER.

A Legal aſſignment and appraiſment of the eſtate of Mr. Samuel Cole, of Farmington, an inſolvent debtor, is made, purſuant to a late act of this colony, entituled "An act for preventing fraud in debtors, and for ſecuring the effects of inſolvent debtors, &c. And therefore the creditors of the ſaid Samuel, are deſired to meet at the dwelling-houſe of Capt. Solomon Cowles in ſaid Farmington, on the third Tueſday of April next, and exhibit their demands on ſaid eſtate, that an adjuſtment and dividend, may be made; according to law.

Hartford, March 10, 1766.

Solomon Whitman, }
John Coleman, } Truſtees
James Wadſworth }

Amenia Lottery Tickets,

To be ſold by the Printer hereof.

THE Creditors of Warham Peaſe of Suffield, an Inſolvent Debtor, are warned to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Silas Kent, Innholder in the Weſt Society in Suffield, on Tueſday, the firſt Day of April next, at Nine [illegible] ſaid Eſtate, in Order to receive their firſt Dividend according to Law.

Suffield, March 10, 1766.

SAMUEL KENT, }
MARTIN ASHLEY, } Truſtees.

TO be ſold by Daniel Brown, Eſq; 1300 Acres of Land, at Sandisfield, lately call'd No. III. Eaſt from Sheffield, 300 Acres lying each Side of the Meeting-Houſe; with two Dwelling-Houſes thereon, and other Buildings; with a good [illegible] Improvements. Alſo, about 100 Acres lying about three Quarters of a Mile from ſaid Meeting-Houſe; with a good New Sawmill thereon, and other Improvements. Alſo, about 930 Acres of good Land, lying in ſeveral different Places.——A reaſonable Time will be given for Payment. For further Particulars, inquire of ſaid Daniel [illegible]

Ejus Charta Nova

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, March 24, 1766. No. 65.

From the PENNSYLVANIA GAZETTE.

To the PRINTER.

THE Revenues of a State are a Portion which each Subject gives of his Property, in order to ſecure and have the comfortable Enjoyment of the Remainder. Nothing requires more Wiſdom and Prudence, than the Regulation of theſe [illegible], both with Reſpect to the Quantity and Manner of levying it. In eſtimating the Quantity, Regard ſhould be had to the Neceſſities of the State and the Abilities of the People; and in aſcertaining the Mode of raiſing, Care ſhould be taken not to endanger the Liberty of the Subject, nor render the Enjoyment of what remains inſecure, and leſs comfortable. If a Prince and his Miniſtry have the whole of fixing the Sum, there is a great danger that Paſſion, Luſt, Ambition and Avarice will often be blended with, or often miſtaken for, the Neceſſities of the State, and that the People will be oppreſſed to gratify Minions and Flatterers. And as Ambition is boundleſs, and Paſſion hard to be controuled, as thoſe who ſurround Princes are more frequently marked for Profuſion and Rapaciouſneſs, than for Moderation and Regard to public Intereſt, there never will be wanting Pretences of haraſſing the Subjects with Taxes, until they are impoveriſhed and ruined. The Murmurs of the People againſt thoſe iniquitous Exactions, would only occaſion an Increaſe of penal Laws, which are always unfavourable to public Liberty.

Hence the Excellency of that Conſtitution, which places the Diſpoſal of public Money in the Power of the People's Repreſentatives, who at the ſame Time that they ſupply the real Wants of the State, will always be careful to provide for their own; that is, the People's Liberty, Happineſs and Proſperity.

[illegible] People cheerfully acquieſce in whatever is granted, as they have a Confidence, that no more than enough is required, and as they ſee thoſe who made the Grant bearing an equal Share of the Burthen.——Should any Inequality happen to take Place, thoſe who are oppreſſed have an eaſy Way of making known their Complaints. And ſhould any Thing be done diſagreeable to the general Voice of the People, they have frequent Opportunities of doing themſelves Juſtice, by changing their Repreſentatives at the next Election, and chooſing others, who will redreſs their Grievances.

But ſhould theſe Repreſentatives engroſs to themſelves every lucrative Poſt, and monopolizing all the moſt profitable Branches of Trade, and then becoming independent, impoſe Taxes on the People, from which they themſelves were exempted, or burthen their Fellow Subjects, to eaſe themſelves, it is not to be imagined the People would yield ſo eaſy an Acquieſcenſe, or, without murmuring, ſubmit to ſuch iniquitous Meaſures.

For this Reaſon, admitting the Colonies were virtually repreſented in Parliament (a Poſition than which nothing can be more abſurd) any Tax impoſed on the Colonies muſt be deemed grievous, after the Reſtraints laid on our Trade, and the ſevere decrees paſſed to prevent us from exerciſing even the common and neceſſary Arts of Life. Witneſs the Statutes againſt Hatters, Steel Furnaces, Slitting and Plating-Mills, &c. &c. &c. It would be farther diſagreeable when conſidered, as it always would be, an encreaſing our Burthens, to lighten their own. So that Self-Intereſt, which is a Security to a free People againſt their Repreſentatives loading them with Taxes, would always be a powerful Motive for exacting from us. Beſides, it would be dangerous to Liberty, as our remote Situation will throw us more into the Power of Tax-gatherers, while our Cries and Complaints were too far diſtant to be much regarded.

Let but the Claim now made be eſtabliſhed, and the Parliament, inſtead of Repreſentatives, become the abſolute Monarch of the Colonies, all our Property will then be at their diſpoſal; every Right and Privilege muſt be annulled, which is judged in the leaſt compatible with the Execution of their Decrees. Thus the ſame Statute which impoſes a Tax on the Colonies without their Conſent, deprives the Tranſgreſſors of the Statutes of a Trial by Jury, and ſubjects them to the Will of an arbitrary Judge of a Court of Admiralty, in order, no Doubt, that Fear may depreſs our Spirits, and extinguiſh every Spark of Liberty and [illegible]. Remonſtrances will be in vain; well, if ever admitted. The Petitions from theſe very reſpectable Colonies, [illegible] were [illegible] Winter refuſed a Reading, by [illegible] againſt [illegible], only becauſe they ſeemed to admit a Doubt of the Power of Parliament to tax the Colonies. Blind and abſolute Obedience will be expected from us. The bearing one Burthen will be urged as an Argument for laying on another; ſo that the only Indulgence we can hope for or expect, will be ſuch as Tyrants exerciſe towards abject Slaves, whom they ſuffer to live, and enjoy ſome ſmall Share of Property, that they may have Subjects to rule over, and from whom they may levy new Exactions.

Freedom thus gone, Slavery with all its horrid Train, immediately takes Place. None will be eager to increaſe his Wealth, who has not a Security of enjoying it. When the more a Man is worth, the more he will be taxed, or even fancies he will be, he will grow idle, diſcontented and deſponding, and rather chooſe to live poor and lazy, than labour to make his Taſk-maſters rich. Sloth and Idleneſs will therefore ſucceed Induſtry and Wealth. Inſtead of the Sound of the Tool mechanic, will be heard the Groans of Oppreſſion. The ſame Cauſe that brought Thouſands from Europe, to ſettle theſe Haunts of Savages, will drive them back, or ſeek Shelter deep in the Woods. Learning, which is about to fix her Abode here, will quickly retire, and riſing Arts be depreſſed.

Since therefore public Happineſs is ſo cloſely united with public Liberty; and as Liberty is inſeparable from a Security of Property, and an equal Diſtribution of Juſtice and [illegible]; let us, while yet we are free, aſſert our Rights. The Happineſs of Millions yet unborn, as well as of the preſent Generation, depends on our preſent Conduct and Reſolution. We profeſs an unfeigned Allegiance to our King; let us exert ourſelves in its Support. We acknowledge a Subordination to that auguſt Body the Parliament of Great-Britain; let us ſhew them all Reſpect and Honour, not as abject Slaves, but as Fellow Subjects, and Men who are reſolved to ſtand faſt in the Liberty wherewith God has made us free.

◆ ◆ ◆

PHILADELPHIA.

Extract of a Letter from Antigua, dated Jan. 21, 1766.

"I found not the leaſt Difficulty, ariſing from my papers not being ſtamped, as the people in general inſtead of calling us a D——d ſet of rebellious R——s, now applaud, the noble ſpirit in, and grand oppoſition made, by the once ſenſeleſs, inſignificant, but now great North-Americans. The ſtamps were diſtributed about 16 days, much againſt the inclination of the people; not by the Good Gentleman who was appointed, but by a man who was walking down to the water ſide and ſaw the bale laying on the wharf, altogether neglected for three days; Out of a charitable diſpoſition took them up and diſtributed them as long as his Countenance would permit."

Extract of a Letter from Barbados Jan. 23, 1766.

"We are in a terrible Situation here, by the Country ſubmitting to be enſlaved by the Stamp-act, and what is worſe, no Diſtributor, but the ſtamp Paper came out a Conſignment from England——There is a general Cry, againſt its being in Force, but the People are ſo puſillanimous, that none will enter into the executive part. An Iſland, the firſt Engliſh Settlement in America, who has more undoubted Rights to plead for Liberty, than the neighbouring Colonies, by their ſalutary Charter, yet to give up their Privileges and Immunities, is hardly to be borne with. The Freight of Goods muſt be paid in Rum, our Iſland being already drained of Caſh. The hidious Stamp-act will carry off, it is thought, 13000l. in 6 Months time."

Extract of a Letter from Barbadoes, dated Jan. 23. 1766.

“Your Fears of our Collector and the Men of War, are wrong founded; Veſſels without ſtamped Clearances are entered as uſual, for our Collector is, in a few Words, a good Man, and deteſts the Stamp-act as much as I do, or any Body elſe——Your brave People of the Continent, as well as our Neighbours of St. Kitts and Nevis, will and ought to be recorded in Gold Letters, and will ſhine in hiſtory; when I am ſorry to ſay it, the mean ſpirited Folks of my Country muſt be aſhamed to ſhow themſelves any where.”

Extract of another Letter of the ſame Date.

“I informed the People of the Town with the Reſolutions of the Philadelphians, and their Determination not to ſend any Veſſels here ſoon, on Account of our ſubmitting ſo tamely to the Stamp-Act; which occaſioned Proviſions to ſtart ſurprizingly in two Days. I enquired of the Collector and Comptroller, if Veſſels were liable to be ſeized that came without Stamps; and they told me there was not the leaſt Danger, for they would enter Veſſels without ——My Countrymen all ſeem uneaſy now, and are ſorry that they accepted the Stamps; and I do believe that if ſome of the leading Men would ſhew an Example, they would ſoon put a Stop to the Stamps——The Officer has ſold upwards of 500l. ſterling in Paper, ſince November 1, 1765.

KINGSTON, (in Jamaica) October 26, 1765.

The People here are in a perfect phrenzy on account of the ſtamp-act, and declare they will ſooner forfeit their lives than thoſe privileges, the foundations of which were laid in the blood of their anceſtors, namely the right of taxing themſelves!

Among other topics of general diſcourſe the following queſtion ſeems moſt to engroſs the public attention:

“How would the British houſe of Commons receive an act from the houſe of Lords for laying any duties?” The inference from which queſtion is, “Why ſhould we ſubmit to taxes not laid by ourſelves?”

On Monday laſt arrived at New-York, the Harriot Packet Boat, Capt. Boulderſon, in ſeven Weeks from Falmouth, which he left the 21ſt of January, and has brought London Prints and Letters to the 18th of January, from which we have the following Advices, viz.

ON Tueſday the 14th of January, the Parliament having met according to Adjournment, His Majeſty made the following Speech to both Houſes of Parliament.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

WHEN I met you laſt I acquainted you that matters of importance had happened in America, which would demand the moſt ſerious attention of Parliament.

That no information which could ſerve to direct your deliberations in ſo intereſting a concern might be wanting, I have ordered all the papers that give any light into the origin, the progreſs, or the tendency of the diſturbances which have of late prevailed in ſome of the northern Colonies, to be immediately laid before you.

No time has been loſt, on the firſt advice of theſe diſturbances, to iſſue orders to the Governors of my Provinces, and to the Commanders of my forces in America, for the exertion of all the powers of Government in the ſuppreſſion of riots and tumults, and in the effectual ſupport of lawful authority.

Whatever remains to be done on this occaſion, I commit to your wiſdom; not doubting but your zeal for the honour of my Crown, your attention to the juſt rights and authority of the British legiſlature, and your affection and concern for the welfare and proſperity of all my people, will guide you to ſuch ſound and prudent reſolutions, as may tend at once to preſerve thoſe conſtitutional rights over the Colonies, and to reſtore to them that harmony and tranquility, which have lately been interrupted by riots and diſorders of the moſt dangerous nature.

If any alterations ſhould be wanting in the commercial œconomy of the Plantations, which may tend to enlarge and ſecure the mutual and beneficial intercourſe of my Kingdoms and Colonies, they will deſerve your moſt ſerious conſideration. In effectuating purpoſes ſo worthy of your wiſdom and public ſpirit, you may depend upon my moſt hearty concurrence and ſupport. The preſent happy tranquility, now ſubſiſting in Europe, will enable you to purſue ſuch objects of our interior policy with a more uninterrupted attention.

Gentlemen of the Houſe of Commons,

I have ordered the proper eſtimates for the current ſervice of the year to be laid before you. Such ſupplies as you may grant ſhall be duly applied with the utmoſt fidelity, and ſhall be diſpenſed with the ſtricteſt œconomy.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I earneſtly recommend to you to proceed in your deliberations with temper and unanimity. The time requires and I doubt not but your own inclinations will lead you to thoſe ſalutary diſpoſitions. I have nothing at heart but the aſſertion of legal authority, the preſervation of the liberties of ALL my ſubjects, the equity and good order of my government, and the concord and proſperity of all parts of my dominions.

LONDON.

January 18. It is ſaid the Right Hon. Lord Adam Gordon, will ſoon be appointed to embark for Liſbon, to negociate a Treaty of great importance between the two Crowns.

Copenhagen, Decem. 31. The King of Denmark lies at the point of Death.

Briſtol, Jan. 11. On Monday was a meeting at Merchant's Hall.....And the ſame evening another meeting of Gentlemen who had the intereſt of the American Colonies much at heart; who both drew up petitions, ſetting forth the diſtreſſes of the Colonies, the interruption of commerce and ſtagnation of trade in Great-Britain, &c. The petition of the laſt mentioned Gentlemen was ſign'd by the Mayor, Aldermen, and principal inhabitants of the city, and Samuel Sedgly and Henry Cruger, Eſqrs, were requeſted to wait on our repreſentatives therewith.

Jan. 14. On Saturday laſt landed at Dover, the celebrated Monſ. J. J. Rouſeau, who was ſome time ago baniſhed from Geneva, and has undergone many perſecutions ſince from the bigots of various perſuaſions.

The report of Mr. Wilkes's return is entirely without foundation——The room fitted up for him, is now converted into a Coffee Houſe.

We are informed an inquiry will ſoon be ſet on foot, by what right France pretends to the liberty of a trade and ſettlements on Hudſon's Bay.

They write from Jamaica, that the Baymen at Honduras have tranſmitted great complaints againſt the irregular proceeding of the French, who are ſaid to have upwards of forty ſail, from Martinico, employed in the logwood trade.

NEW-YORK, March 20.

Extracts of ſundry Letters from London, by the Packet.

Letter 1ſt, dated 16th January, 1766.

“I Wrote on Saturday—— to acquaint you our new Miniſtry were Friends to America, and that I hope for no leſs than a total Repeal of the oppreſſive Acts, which ſince have become more evident by the Debates of the Houſe on Tueſday, when Mr. Pitt appeared openly in your Favour, and gave ſuch Reaſons (not only for a Repeal, but aſſerted your Privileges as Engliſhmen, back'd with ſuch Arguments) as ſilenc'd all Oppoſition: I am Witneſs to the good Diſpoſition of the Miniſtry, as I am choſen ſpecial Agent on this Occaſion for one of the Colonies.”

Letter 2nd, January 16.

——Few imagin'd Mr. Pitt would have been at the Houſe, but I have the Pleaſure to write you that he was——and made a moſt excellent Speech in Favour of the Colonies: He denied that they were repreſented in Parliament,——ſaid it was unconſtitutional to lay internal Taxes upon them,——that as to the legal Part of the Act, he ſhould reſerve himſelf to anſwer ſuch Gentlemen as were of the Law, at their next Debate on that Subject. That he was of Opinion that the Colonies ought to have as extenſive a Trade as we could poſſibly give them.——In ſhort, he never made a Speech equal to this——it has given great Spirit to the American Cauſe, and will, I doubt not, confirm many Members who tottered in their Opinion.

Mr. Greenville was very warm againſt the Colonies, and is for enforcing the Act.——Yeſterday I attended the Houſe again.——A Motion had been made that all Advices to the Adminiſtration, from the Governors and others, ſhould be laid before the Houſe, and they were accordingly laid on the Table: Then a Motion was made That they ſhould be printed: This occaſion'd many Speeches——deſiring that the Names of the Governors and others ſhould not be printed, nor the Places from whence dated; for that ſuch Perſons would fall under the Reſentment of the Americans, and perhaps their Lives and Properties might be endanger'd: That ſome Governors were dependent on the People for their Salaries, which they might be deprived of for giving ſuch Advice here,——for it ſeems ſome of them have wrote very ſevere Letters againſt the Colonies. Mr. Grenville, Nugent, and ſeveral others, oppoſed the Suppreſſion of any Names, and were for having the whole printed——ſaying that this Kingdom was able and would defend ſuch Governors and others, for being loyal Subjects, and doing their Duty among a People who were in open Rebellion:——This Word REBELLION, was uſed by ſeveral others. It was at laſt reſolved that the ſaid Letters and Advices from America, ſhould be printed, leaving out ſuch Parts as might lead to a Diſcovery of the Perſons who wrote them.——To morrow the North-American Merchant's Petition will be preſented ——Mr. N. and I are ordered to attend the Committee: Many other Petitions are come to Town; that of Leeds and Halifax will be preſented to-morrow by L. G. Sackville, but I believe no more will be ſaid or done, than to put down a Day to conſider them. The 28th Current, is ſet down for American Affairs, then I think the American Remonſtrance will be delivered. I ſhall conſtantly attend the Houſe. There are ſeven or eight Perſons among us, who do not ſign our Petition, among which Number I am, as we perhaps ſhall be called to the Bar of the Houſe to be examined, when we had better not be Petitioners.

I have the Honor of many Letters from the Great, as well as frequent Conferences with many Members. I have juſt received a Letter from, and have been with Col. Barre above an Hour. He is our good Friend, and an able one, and ſeconds our Petition. In ſhort, the Merchants trading to America, ſpread a great Circle, and are now ſupported by Mr. Pitt; which together with the good Diſpoſition of the Miniſtry, has greatly confirmed our Hopes to obtain a Repeal of the impolitic Stamp-Act, and alſo an Enlargement of your Trade, as well as Alterations in the Vice Admiralty Courts——but don't be too much elated, we are not yet certain;——we have only Reaſon to hope and expect from preſent Appearances.——I wiſh to God I may be able in my next to adviſe you of the Repeal; every Thing material I ſhall from Time to Time, let you know, which as a Lover of your Country will, I doubt not, be agreeable to you.

When the Addreſs to the King on his Speech was read, a Mr. Harris ſtood up and ſaid, that all that Part which related to America was in too mild Expreſſions; for that they were in open Rebellion againſt the Supreme legiſlative Authority of King, Lords, and Commons.—But he had not one to ſecond him and therefore the Addreſs paſſed Nem. Con. &c.

Letter 3d, Jan. 18.

“On Tueſday laſt the Parliament met——Immediately after the King's Speech, they proceeded upon American Affairs, and went farther into them than intended, as the Debate ought to have been confined to the Subject of the Addreſs;——Mr. Pitt came to the Houſe, and has declared firmly for the Repeal of the Stamp-Act, upon principle: He concludes that the Parliament have only a right to impoſe Taxes in their repreſentative Capacity, not in their legiſlative Capacity; and proves it by the Lords and King having no Pretence to grant Monies——Therefore, as the Americans are not repreſented (which in my Opinion he prov'd likewiſe, for I was in the Houſe) they certainly cannot be taxed by the Parliament of England, tho' they (the Parliament) have in all other Reſpects, a full Sovereignty over America.——However, the Affair is put off for a full Conſideration of the Houſe, till Wedneſday Sen'night, for which Purpoſe a Call of the Houſe is on Tueſday Sen'night.——My Opinion is now more confirm'd of an abſolute Repeal; and indeed before the Houſe met, I had a full two Hours Converſation with Lord ————— upon the Subject, and clearly ſaw how inclin'd the Adminiſtration was to repeal it.”

Many other Letters, from Members of Parliament, principal Merchants, and other Gentlemen, are to the ſame Purpoſe; and inform us, that Mr. Pitt, having made a moſt noble Speech in our Favour, he was anſwered with much Acrimony by Mr. Greenville, who inveigh'd bitterly againſt the Colonies, branding their Proceedings with the Name of Rebellion and other injurious Epithets; and ſhow'd his Rage and Inveteracy, like another William Pim, or Pacificus. He was replied to, expoſed and confuted by Mr. Pitt, who with great Smartneſs and Judgment ſpoke for an Hour and a Quarter. In the Courſe of his Speech, he declared the Stamp-Act to be the moſt impolitic, arbitrary, oppreſſive and unconſtitutional Act, that ever was paſſed——that it might naturally have been ſuppoſed it would give the greateſt Uneaſineſs, and meet with the moſt violent Oppoſition among a People entitled to all the Rights and Privileges of natural Subjects within the Realm of England. At the ſame Time he highly blamed the violent Diſorders committed in America, and added, that if after the Removal of their juſt Cauſes of Complaint, they were wanting in Reſpect to the legal Authority of Great Britain, he himſelf would be one of the firſt to offer himſelf to embark on board a Man of War to bring them to a right Senſe of their Duty.

ISAAC BULL, of Litchfield,

DESIRES thoſe Perſons that intend to ſend their Children into his Family to be educated the enſuing Summer, to ſend in their Names by the 9th or 10th of April next. For Particulars, enquire of William Stanton, Poſt-Rider.

March 18th, 1766. 65

Juſt Publiſhed in BOSTON,
(And ſold by THOMAS GREEN, oppoſite the State-Houſe, in Hartford.)
(Price Nine Pence.)
The Neceſſity of Repealing
the American STAMP-ACT demonſtrated: Or, A PROOF that GREAT-BRITAIN muſt be injured by that ACT. In a LETTER to a MEMBER of the BRITISH HOUSE of COMMONS.

◆ ◆ ◆

Juſt Publiſhed, and to be Sold at the Printing-Office, Hartford; (Price 4d.)
Some Reaſons that influenced
the GOVERNOR to take, and the COUNCILLORS to adminiſter the OATH, required by the ACT of PARLIAMENT; commonly called The STAMP-ACT.
Humb'y ſubmitted to the Conſideration of the PUBLIC.

BOSTON, March 20.

The Superior Court of Judicature &c. having diſpatched all ſuch Affairs as required an immediate Deciſion, particularly Complaints, and as Charleſtown, Ipſwich and Plymouth Courts of Common Pleas are coming on, Friday laſt was adjourned with unanimous Conſent of the Bar, and all Parties concerned, to the third Tueſday of April, to finiſh ſuch ſpecial Matters as require a full Court. So that all the Courts of Juſtice in this Province are now to all Intents and Purpoſes open.

Thurſday Night came on as ſevere a Storm of Snow as any we had the Winter paſt, Wind at N. W. and very high, which continued till Saturday Forenoon, of longer Duration than has been known for many Years; during the Time a great Quantity of Snow fell, which rendered the Roads almoſt impaſſible, as it drifted very much. Several Chimnies were blown down, but providentially no Lives were loſt by their fall; two of which were very remarkable Preſervations, viz. ſundry Perſons who had juſt breakfaſted, had ſcarcely got out of a Room, before the Chimney fell, and carried all before it to the Ground, and a Man at work in a Kitchen, had no ſooner quitted it than the Chimney fell, and carried all before it into the Cellar. We hear that two or three Gentlemen belonging to Norwich in Connecticut, who ſet out from hence on Friday laſt to return home, very narrowly eſcaped periſhing in the Storm, the Snow having buried their Horſes, they ſtruggled and got to ſome Rail Fences, and after great Difficulty in ſeveral Hours they reach'd a Houſe in Walpole, where they hired ſome Men to go to the Place where they had left their Horſes, and dig 'em out, which was accompliſhed.

HARTFORD, March 24.

His Honour our Governor with the Advice of the Council, has been pleaſed to iſſue a Proclamation, appointing Wedneſday, the Sixteenth Day of April next to be obſerved as a Day of public Faſting and Prayer throughout this Colony.

NEW-LONDON, March 14.

Laſt Wedneſday morning, on information given, that ſeveral veſſels lately arrived from Barbados and Antigua, had lodged certain papers STAMP'D with the emblems of ſlavery, at the cuſtom-houſe in this port: The Sons of Liberty immediately collected at the uſual place of parade, to know what was expedient in the matter; and after due conſideration, it was unanimouſly agreed that a committee ſhould be choſen to make ſtrict enquiry after the abovesaid paper, and any other ſtamp'd papers, as the worſhipful Board were ſuſpicious ſeveral were on board ſaid veſſels, &c. In conſequence of which ſaid committee immediately waited on the Collector, and in a genteel manner, in the name of the Sons of Liberty, demanded an inſtant ſurrender of any STAMP'D papers lodged in his office; which were immediately delivered with the utmoſt politeneſs. The committee then marched through the town in triumph, with the ſtamps guarded, being pierced and erected on a pole, to the worſhipful board: where they were, together with ſundry of the like kind brought by ſundry paſſengers in ſaid veſſels, delivered to a committee choſen to take charge of ſaid ſtamps; after which the meeting was adjourn'd to three o'clock, at which time being again met, a court was created, and jury impannel'd to try the criminals, and after duly conſidering the merits of the cauſe, the jury brought in their verdict GUILTY.—The court then weighing the nature of the offence, adjudged ſaid criminals, and paſſed ſentence, "to receive thirty nine ſtripes at the public whipping poſt, and be committed to the flames without further delay,"—as a teſtimony of utter ignominy and contempt.—Whereupon ſaid ſentence was duly executed in the preſence of the court, and amidſt the acclamations of a numerous aſſembly, whoſe hearts were filled with the moſt ardent wiſhes for the honor, health and welfare of GEORGE the Third, the beſt of Kings, and his illuſtrious family—Succeſs of the Mother Country—Freedom and unanimity in the Britiſh Parliament. At the concluſion 3 cheers were given and the company diſperſed without the leaſt diſorder.

Capt. Wattles from Antigua, about the 20th ult. ſpoke with a Snow from the Iſle of Wight, bound to the Weſt-Indies; and upon the Captain's being aſked, What News from England with Regard to the Stamp-Act? he replied, with a good deal of Aſſurance, "You need give yourſelves no Trouble about the Stamps, for by G— they'll be cram'd down your throats by and by."

At a Meeting of the Sons Liberty, held at Canterbury, in Windham County, on the Fourth Day of March, A. D. 1766, Reſolved, that in Order to promote Harmony and Union in this Colony, and ſecure to ourſelves our moſt invaluable Privileges, which we hold under our moſt gracious Sovereign King GEORGE IIId.

Voted,

Iſt. THAT this Meeting do fully concur with, and adopt the Plan for a general Congreſs to be held (as voted at Preſton) on the laſt Tueſday of March Inſtant, and deſire the Sons of Liberty in each Town in this Colony to ſend One, or not exceeding Two of their Number to attend the ſame.

Voted IIdly, That Col. Iſrael Putnam of Pomfret, and Capt. Hugh Ledlie of Windham, be a Committee for correſponding with the Sons of Liberty in the neighbouring Provinces.

* * *

THE Creditors of Warham Peaſe of Suffield, an Inſolvent Debtor, are warned to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Silas Kent, Innholder in the Weſt Society in Suffield, on Tueſday, the firſt Day of April next, at Nine o'Clock in the Forenoon; and exhibit their Demands on ſaid Eſtate, in Order to receive their firſt Dividend according to Law.

Suffield, March 10, 1766.

SAMUEL KENT,
MARTIN ASHLEY,
JEDEDIAH BLISS. } Truſtees.

NOTICE is hereby given to all the Proprietors of the Townſhip of PANTON, in the Province of New-Hampſhire, in New-England, that at a legal Proprietor's Meeting of ſaid proprietors, holden on the firſt Tueſday of December, A. D. 1765, was agreed upon and voted, a Rate or Tax of Ten Shillings, Lawful Money, on the Right of each original Proprietor: I do hereby give public Notice to ſaid Proprietors that they reſpectively pay their Rate or Tax, to me, on, or before the Thirteenth Day of May next, enſuing the Date hereof. Dated in Canaan, this 27th Day of February, A. D. 1766.

64 DAVID HOLCOMB, jun. Collector.

Amenia Lottery Tickets,
To be ſold by the Printer hereof.

Colony of Connecticut. }

WHEREAS, purſuant to an Act or Law of this Colony, entitled, "An ACT to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors for the Uſe of their Creditors," &c.

WILLIAM HURLBURD, of Suffield, in the County of Hartford, an Inſolvent Debtor, in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors; hath exhibited his Petition, with an Account of the Sums by him owing; and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court in the County of Hartford; and SETH WETMORE, Eſq; Juſtice of the Peace and Quorum, in ſaid County; praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of, for the Uſe of his ſaid Creditors; PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given to all the Creditors of the ſaid William Hurburd, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. David Bull, Innholder in Hartford, in ſaid County, on Wedneſday, the 9th Day of April next; to ſhew Reaſon (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of the ſaid William Hurlburd ſhould not be made, according to the Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Statute.

Middletown, March 14th, 1766. 64

STOLEN out of the Stable of Uriah Stevens of Canaan, on the Night after the eleventh inſtant, a bright bay MARE, about thirteen Hands, and Half High, Scar on her left Side, white Spot on one of her hind Feet, about the Bigneſs of a Dollar, long Mane and Foretop, paces and trots, no Brand, low in Fleſh, five years old this Spring. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid Mare, and the Thief that ſtole her, and ſend Word to the Subſcriber, or return her, ſhall have a reaſonable Reward for their Trouble, and all neceſſary charges paid by

64 BENJAMIN HEWIT.

TO be ſold by Daniel Brown, Eſq; 1300 Acres of Land at Sandisfield, lately call'd No. III. Eaſt from Sheffield, 300 Acres lying each Side of the Meeting-Houſe; with two Dwelling-Houſes thereon, and other Buildings; with a good Orchard, and conſiderable Improvements. Alſo, about 100 Acres lying about three Quarters of a Mile from ſaid Meeting-Houſe; with a good New Sawmill thereon, and other Improvements. Alſo, about 930 Acres of good Land, lying in ſeveral different Places.——A reaſonable Time will be given for Payment. For further Particulars, inquire of ſaid Daniel Brown, living on the Premiſes. 63

A Legal aſſignment and appraiſement of the eſtate of Mr. Samuel Cole, of Farmington, an inſolvent debtor, is made, purſuant to a late act of this colony, entituled "An act for preventing fraud in debtors, and for ſecuring the effects of inſolvent debtors, &c. And therefore the creditors of the ſaid Samuel, are deſired to meet at the dwelling-houſe of Capt. Solomon Cowles in ſaid Farmington, on the third Tueſday of April next, and exhibit their demands on ſaid eſtate, that an adjuſtment and dividend, may be made, according to law.

Hartford, March 10, 1766.

Solomon Whitman,
John Coleman,
James Wadſworth } Truſtees.

THE Creditors of SAMUEL HOLMAN, of HARTFORD, an inſolvent Debtor, are hereby notified, that a legal aſſignment and appraiſement of the ſaid Samuel's eſtate, is made purſuant to an act of this colony, entitled "An Act for preventing fraud in debtors, and for ſecuring the effects of inſolvent debtors, for the uſe of their creditors, &c. And that therefore, they are deſired to meet on the eighteenth day of March next, at the dwelling-houſe of Mr. Gideon Benjamin, in ſaid Hartford, and exhibit their demands on ſaid eſtate, that the ſame may be adjuſted according to law.

Feb. 28th, 1766.

RUSSELL WOODBRIDGE,
JOSEPH MAKEN,
JOHN COLEMAN, } Truſtees.

Juſt Publiſh'd in NEW-YORK,
(And to be ſold at the Heart and Crown in Hartford)
CONSIDERATIONS
UPON THE
RIGHTS of the COLONIES
TO THE PRIVILEGES
Of Britiſh SUBJECTS,
Introduc'd by a brief Review of the Riſe and Progreſs of
Engliſh LIBERTY, and concluded with ſome
Remarks upon our preſent Alarming SITUATION.

——Eripe Turpi
Colla Jugo; Liber—liber ſum, dic age!

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, March 31, 1766. No. 66.

LONDON.

The humble Addreſs of the Houſe of Lords, January 15.

Moſt Gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majeſty's moſt loyal and dutiful ſubjects, the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament aſſembled, beg leave to return our hearty and moſt unfeigned thanks to your Majeſty, for your moſt gracious ſpeech from the throne.

We gratefully acknowledge your Majeſty's goodneſs and condeſcenſion, in ordering to be immediately laid before us, all the materials of information, which may ſerve to direct our Proceedings upon the very important objects which your Majeſty has propoſed to our conſideration.

We cannot avoid expreſſing our ſatisfaction in your Majeſty's parental care and vigilance, in loſing no time to iſſue the neceſſary orders, for exerting the ſeveral powers of government in the ſuppreſſion of riots and tumults, and the ſupport of order and legal authority. Concurring heartily with your Majeſty's ſalutary intentions, we will exert our utmoſt endeavours to aſſert and ſupport your Majeſty's dignity and honor, and the legiſlative authority of this kingdom over its colonies; and will take into conſideration the moſt proper methods to provide for the reſtoration of the tranquility of thoſe colonies, which has been diſturbed by ſuch violent and dangerous commotions.

We congratulate your Majeſty, that the ſtate of tranquility, ſo happily ſubſiſting in Europe leaves us at leiſure to attend to the mutual commerical concerns of your Kingdoms and colonies.

Permit us, Sir, to condole with you on the loſs your Majeſty, and your Royal Family has ſuſtained, by the premature death of his Royal Highneſs Prince Frederick William; whoſe amiable qualities, and early attainments, afforded ſo pleaſing a proſpect of happineſs to your Majeſty, and of advantage to your Kingdoms.

Our deliberations will, we truſt, be conducted with that prudence and temper which your Majeſty ſo graciouſly recommends. You will find, Sir, that our ſentiments correſpond with your Majeſty's gracious intentions towards all your ſubjects; and that all things which may tend to re-eſtabliſh tranquility and order, and to cement the ſeveral parts of the Britiſh dominions in a cloſe connection and conſtitutional dependance, ſhall be the firſt objects of our attention; that ſuch a firm authority may be eſtabliſhed, and ſuch a general ſatisfaction diffuſed over every part of your extenſive empire, as ought to diſtinguiſh the government of ſo wiſe, ſo juſt, ſo beneficent a prince.

His Majeſty's Anſwer.

My Lords,

I Thank you for this dutiful and loyal addreſs.——Your firm and temperate reſolution to ſupport the dignity of my crown, and the legiſlative authority of this kingdom over its Colonies; your care at the ſame time to re-eſtabliſh order and tranquility in thoſe Colonies, and your regard to the proſperity and happineſs of all my people, ſhew diſpoſitions which are altogether worthy of your wiſdom, and which cannot fail of producing the moſt ſalutary effects both at home and abroad. You will find me unalterably fixed in the ſame intentions. Your affectionate condolence on the death of my brother affords me [illegible] conſolation on that melancholly occaſion.

The Humble Addreſs of the Houſe of Commons to the KING.

Moſt Gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majeſty's moſt dutiful and loyal ſubjects, the Commons of Great-Britain in Parliament aſſembled, return your Majeſty our moſt humble thanks for your moſt gracious ſpeech from the throne.

It is with the higheſt ſenſe of your Majeſty's goodneſs we acknowledge that care for the welfare of your people, and that confidence in the loyalty and affection of your faithful Commons, which your Majeſty ſhews in the early communication, your Majeſty has been pleaſed to order, of the neceſſary informations relative to the diſturbances in America. Your reliance on the wiſdom & duty of Parliament in a matter of ſo great importance, and the attention ſhewn by your Majeſty in referring to our deliberation and advice the joint concern of your Majeſty's royal authority, the rights of your parliament and the happineſs of your ſubjects are at once objects of our higheſt admiration and gratitude.

It is our duty, as it ſhall be our care, to imitate that temper and equanimity which appear in your Majeſty's conduct, by mixing with our zeal for the honor of your Majeſty's government, and with our juſt regard for the dignity and authority of Parliament, the utmoſt attention to the important objects of the trade and navigation of theſe Kingdoms, and the tendereſt concern for the united intereſts of all your Majeſty's people.

It is with inexpreſſible grief we are again called upon to condole with your Majeſty, on the death of another Prince of your Royal Family, whoſe amiable diſpoſition, and whoſe early virtues in the firſt dawn of life, while they ſhewed him worthy of the illuſtrious race he ſprung from, muſt now double our regret for his untimely loſs.

The general ſtate of peace and tranquility ſo happily reigning in all parts of Europe, muſt give the greateſt ſatisfaction to every one, who has any concern for the true intereſt of this country, or who feels for the general happineſs of mankind.

Our aſſiſtance ſhall not be wanting to aid your Majeſty with our advice, and to ſtrengthen your authority for the continuation of that harmony, ſo happily preſerved by the wiſdom of your Majeſty's Councils, and the influence of your mild auſpicious goverment.

We aſſure your Majeſty, that we ſhall, with the greateſt cheerfulneſs, grant your Majeſty the ſupplies neceſſary for the current ſervice of the year; having the firmeſt reliance on the promiſe your Majeſty is graciouſly pleaſed to make of ſeeing them duly applied, with that oeconomy which your own wiſdom will direct, and which the circumſtances of this country ſo ſtrongly demand.

The unanimity and diſpatch, which your Majeſty is pleaſed to recommend, we ſhall, from motives both of duty & inclination, endeavour to make the rule of our proceedings; being ſenſible, that nothing can more immediately tend to add weight to the deliberations of Parliament, or efficacy to their reſolutions.

And as the conſtant tenor of your Majeſty's conduct ſhews that the happineſs and proſprity of your people are the ſole objects of your concern, we ſhould be equally wanting in duty to our Sovereign, and care for our own honor, did we a moment neglect our part, in promoting all ſuch wiſe and ſalutary meaſures as tend to reflect dignity on your Majeſty's Government, and fix the welfare of your people on the moſt ſolid foundation.

* * *

Colony of Connecticut. }

WHEREAS, purſuant to an Act or Law of this Colony, entitled, "An ACT to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors for the Uſe of their Creditors," &c.

WILLIAM HURLBURD, of Suffield, in the County of Hartford, an Inſolvent Debtor, in Conjunction with the major Part of his Creditors; hath exhibited his Petition, with an Account of the Sums by him owing; and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before JABEZ HAMLIN, Eſq; Judge of the County Court in the County of Hartford; and SETH WETMORE, Eſq; Juſtice of the Peace and Quorum, in ſaid County; praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of, for the Uſe of his ſaid Creditors; PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given to all the Creditors of the ſaid William Hurlburd, to appear at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. David Bull, Innholder in Hartford, in ſaid County, on Wedneſday, the 9th Day of April next; to ſhew Reaſon (if any they have) why an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of the ſaid William Hurlburd ſhould not be made, according to the Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Statute.

Middletown, March 14th, 1766. 64

Amenia Lottery Tickets,
To be ſold by the Printer hereof.

NEW-YORK, March 27.

This Week the Town has been twice ſurprized by the Arrival of unexpected extraordinary News from England. The firſt was on Monday laſt, when the Poſt brought a Letter from a Gentleman in Philadelphia to his Friend here, as follows,

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.

"THE Brig Mary Ann, Capt. Young, from Falmouth, this Minute came up; he left Falmouth the 4th of February. The Poſt had juſt come in, but he never inquired the News he brought,—which might have decided the Fate of America. He has brought one Paper (a Country one) in which are Articles from London to the 28th of January. All that concern us, are as follows:

LONDON, January 23.

We hear that Tueſday next is appointed for re-conſidering the Stamp-act.

All the eminent lawyers (one excepted) are ſaid to be clearly and ſtrongly of opinion that the Britiſh parliament has an undoubted right to lay taxes in America.

Petitions from Briſtol, York, Liverpool and other trading places, have been preſented, complaining of the hardſhips they labour under by the great decay of trade to America.

Jan. 25. We hear that the fleet fitting out for North-America, will conſiſt of 45 men of war, which are to prevent the encroachments of the French, and for enforcing the laws of Great-Britain over her Colonies, in caſe it ſhould be thought neceſſary. [Rather it is ſuppoſed to relieve thoſe in America.]

It is currently reported, that 8000 ſeamen will ſpeedily be wanted to man the fleets now fitting out in the ſeveral ports in this kingdom.

It is ſaid that the importation of corn and grain from the Britiſh Colonies in America, duty free, is granted by parliament for a certain time.

Jan. 28. We hear the number of ſeamen this year will be 16,000 the ſame as laſt year.

Yeſterday Mr. Pitt attended the Houſe.

The moſt ſtrong and apparent effects of diſ-union, have lately been obſerved among the preſent miniſtry.

It is ſaid a new miniſtry is forming, notwithſtanding what is given out to the contrary.

We hear an eminent lawyer, has delivered it as his opinion, that a great patriot who ſpoke againſt the American Stamp duty, ought to have been ſent to the Tower.

Laſt Sunday night there was a meeting of the principal perſons of the preſent miniſtry, as is ſaid upon the affairs of America.

Very conſiderable wagers have been laid within theſe few days, relative to the American Stamp-act, and it is remarkable, that the odds in general, are againſt the Repeal.

The above is all the news in the paper.

A Packet from New-York, in 7 weeks, was arrived.

*This Intelligence was ſo entirely different from all our late Advices from England, which had given the moſt ſanguine Hopes of an immediate Repeal of the Stamp-Act, &c. that it ſpread a general Conſternation; and in the firſt Surpriſe, was underſtood to inform us, That our Friends in England had been overpowered, that the Enemies of Liberty, of the Engliſh Conſtitution, of the Colonies, of Great Britain, and of our Sovereign, had taken Advantage of the Vices and Prejudices of an infatuated Nation, to triumph over the Efforts of the virtuous few, that labour'd to preſerve it....That all was loſt at home, and we were devoted to deſtruction....That it was determin'd to inforce the Stamp-Act, and that Ships and Forces were coming againſt us for that Purpoſe....While this terrible Apprehenſion prevailed, we had the Pleaſure to obſerve, that not a Man diſcover'd the leaſt Inclination to recede from his Oppoſition to the Stamp-Act...On the contrary, a double Portion of the Spirit of Liberty ſeem'd to glow in every Breaſt....Many who before ſeem'd neuters now declar'd themſelves, and the general Sentiment was evidently....*DEATH, RATHER THAN A SUBMISSION TO THE STAMP-ACT, AND LOSS OF OUR RIGHTS AND LIBERTIES. Such were the Effects of our firſt Surpriſe. But a little Attention to the Particulars of the Intelligence, ſoon convinced us of its uncertainty, and Improbability; and that there was Reaſon to believe it came from ſome of the Stamp-Anti-Conſtitutionaliſt Party, as what they wiſh'd, rather than what was, or was like to be.

But on Tueſday by an Expreſs ſent on Purpoſe from Philadelphia, the following Letter was brought to Town, and immediately publiſhed, viz.

Copy of a Letter from a Gentleman in Philadelphia, to his Friend in New-York.

PHILADELPHIA. Monday 4 o'Clock.

SIR.

"THIS moment came to town, Thomas Willing, Eſq; from Maryland, who informs me, and brings the underwritten;

That a Brig from Cork, was arrived at Choptank River, on Tueſday the 18th Inſtant, the Captain of which brought a Cork paper, in which was a paragraph taken from a Dublin paper, copied into the Cork paper, of a letter from a Member of Parliament in London, to his friend in Ireland, dated the 28th of January; the ſubſtance of which was,

"That every thing relating to the affairs of America, were ſettled---The Stamp-Act repealed,
"and requiſitions to be made to the reſpective Colonies, for the ſupport of the American eſtabliſhment.

I now moſt heartily congratulate you, and have ſent off an expreſs with this great and intereſting affair. Your's &c. W. B."

The Veſſel from Cork, we are told, had 40 Days Paſſage, ſo that as to Time, the Account may poſſibly be true in the Main...that is, that the Stamp Act is actually repealed;..... but it is ſtill a little doubtful, whether a Letter dated the 28th of January could give an authentic Account of it.

We muſt beg our Readers Patience a few Days for the particular Circumſtances of the Repeal.

To the PRINTER.

A Place in your Paper for the following Account of a Piece of boyiſh Humour, will oblige ſeveral of your Cuſtomers.

New-York, 25th March, 1766.

JUDGE, Sir, what were my Reflections, when my Son, about 6 Years of Age, accoſted me in the following Manner this Evening,—Papa, did you ſee the Mob of Boys that went by juſt now? How many do you think there were, don't you think there were near a Thouſand? Yes, I do, my Son, But what was the Meaning of it? I'll tell you, Papa, Yeſterday, after School, one of our Scholars told us that there was bad News come from England; that the Stamp Act was to be forced down; and that the Lawyers were againſt us; one of them had ſaid, that one Great Man who had ſpoke in our Favour, ought to be ſent to the Tower; upon which they all agreed to make an Effigie of the Lawyer directly; one of the Company ſaid he knew where was a dead bearded Goat, that he had heard Lawyers compared to Wolves in Sheep's Cloathing, and that a Goat being next kin to a Sheep, might very well repreſent a Lawyer. Upon that they agreed to hang him up in the Evening, to one of the Sign-poſts near the Houſe of Mr. De Banco Regis; but while they were buſy the Neighbours came out and prevented them, it was thereupon agreed to wait till to-day, after the ſecond School, and then to conclude upon the Puniſhment he ſhould have; accordingly this Afternoon a great many met, and after Trying him, it was agreed, that he ſhould be dragg'd through the Streets, with a Rope round his Neck, and that no private Property ſhould be touch'd; (which was duly done) after that they were to meet, and agree to let the elder Sons of Liberty know, that they would oppoſe the Stamp-Act with their Lives and Fortunes; while they were executing the Sentence, the News came that the Stamp-Act was repealed, which made them all ſo merry, that the little Boys who could hardly ſpeak, liſped out, The TAMP ACT ISPEALED.

WHereas an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of Thomas Burr, of Hartford, an inſolvent Debtor, is duly made to us the Subſcribers, Truſtees of his Eſtate, for the Uſe of his Creditors, appointed by Virtue of the late Act of the Aſſembly of this Colony, made to prevent Fraud in Debtors, &c. We do hereby give public Notice to all the Creditors of ſaid Burr, that we ſhall meet at the Houſe of Moſes Butler, Innholder in Hartford, on the third Tueſdays of April, May, June and July next, enſuing; where the Creditors are deſired to bring, or ſend in their Claims duly proved, and authenticated; and thoſe who are indebted to ſaid Eſtate, are deſired to ſettle their Accounts with John Kieth and William Tiley, (who have ſaid Burr's Accounts in keeping) forthwith, as they cannot be poſtponed, and Suits of Law upon them will be diſagreeable. And every Creditor is deſired to furniſh the Truſtees with ſuch Intelligence as will enable them to make the moſt of ſaid Burr's Eſtate, for their Uſe; which will be thankfully acknowledged, by

JOHN KEITH,
WILLIAM TILEY, } Truſtees.
TITUS HOSMER.

66

Auguſtus Deley,

(At the Sign of the Black Boy, Near the North Meeting-Houſe in Hartford)

CONTINUES to carry on the Buſineſs of manufacturing TOBACCO, in all its Branches.—Where all Perſons may be ſupplied with Hog-Tail, Pig-Tail, and Shagg Tobacco, on the moſt reaſonable Terms. He takes in, and manufactures good Tobacco for chewing or ſmoaking, on Shares.———Said DELEY hopes thoſe who intend to take large Quantities of his Tobacco, will give him timely Notice, that he may be in Readineſs to ſupply them.

BOSTON, March 27.

A Letter from St. Euſtatia mentions, that a Veſſel was arrived at St. Kitts in a ſhort Paſſage from London, and brought an account that the Stamp-Act was repealed: Capt. Thompſon who arrived here laſt Week from the Weſt-Indies, met with a Ship from Rotterdam with Palatines, and which had put into the Iſle of Wight, bound from New-York, who informed him that the Stamp-Act was repealed: Altho' we doubt not that it is really repealed, yet we cannot aſſure our Readers that theſe Intelligences are a Confirmation thereof; but hope ſoon, very ſoon, to have a more direct Account.

We hear that a Perſon in a neighbouring Government lately refuſing to pay a Debt for which he was attached, becauſe the Writ was not ſtamped, the Populace immediately upon hearing thereof aſſembled, and having the Fellow before them, paſſed the three following Votes, and Reſolves, viz.

Vote 1. That this Man is not a Chriſtian.

Vote 2. That he ought to be of ſome Religion.

Therefore, 3dly Voted, That he be a Jew.

Whereupon, Reſolved, That he be circumciſed.

This Reſolution ſo terrified the poor Creature, that he begged Forgiveneſs for his Imprudence, and promiſed to behave better for the future; he was then permitted to make a Confeſſion of his Faith; upon which the Sentence was remitted, and he diſmiſſed.

At a General Meeting of the Delegates of the SONS OF LIBERTY, from a great Majority of the Towns, in the Colony of CONNECTICUT, holden at HARTFORD, the 25th Day of March, 1766.

THE SONS OF LIBERTY, conven'd at this Time, animated with an ardent Love of their Country, the deepeſt, and moſt affectionate Senſe of Duty, and Loyalty to their Rightful Sovereign King GEORGE IIId, and with the greateſt Eſteem of, and Reſpect for the Conſtitution & authority of Great-Britain; eſteem it a proper Expreſſion of their Duty on this Occaſion, to declare their reſpectful Approbation of, and hearty Acquieſcence and Concurrence with the loyal, prudent, virtuous and ſpirited Declarations and Reſolves of the Honorable Houſe of Repreſentatives of this Colony, at their Seſſion in October laſt, relative to the unconſtitutional Nature, and deſtructive Tendency of the late American Stamp-Act; and expreſſive of their Loyalty to their ſaid Rightful Sovereign, and of all the Principles and Sentiments therein contained.

They alſo declare the ſame hearty Approbation of the noble and generous Exertion of that Spirit of heaven-born Liberty which has diſplayed itſelf among our neighbouring American Colonies, as has appeared by the ſame kind of Declarations and Reſolves of their ſeveral repreſentative Bodies; and the Sons of Liberty of ſaid Colonies, diſcovered in a variety of Ways, not inconſiſtent with the principles of Duty and Loyalty.

And do further declare, their hearty Deſire to keep up and maintain, a moſt friendly Correſpondence with the loyal Sons of Liberty in our neighbouring Colonies, for the Purpoſe of perpetuating the Union and Harmony ſo happily eſtabliſhed; and to maintain the common Liberty which We, and They, by the Providence of GOD, and the Conſtitution of Great-Britain, have Right to enjoy.

And, That Col. Iſrael Putnam, Maj. John Durkee, Capt. Hugh Ledlie, Meſs's Thaddeus Burr, Jonathan Sturgis, Samuel Bradley, jun. John Brooks, and Le Grand Cannon, are appointed a Committee, for the Purpoſe aforeſaid.

Voted Nimine Contradicente,

WM. PITKIN, jun. Clerk.

◆

As the late Meeting of the Sons of Liberty in Hartford, will doubtleſs occaſion much Speculation in the Colony, the following Account of a Part of their Proceedings, communicated by Some, who were Members of the ſame, may doubtleſs be agreeable to the Public.

SOON after the Meeting was formed, and the Spectators deſired to withdraw——ſeveral Motions were made, enquiring for what Purpoſe they were aſſembled; it was anſwered, that as there was a Diſſatisfaction in the Colony, it was propoſed, whether a Change in the Miniſtry (as it was termed) might not be neceſſary among us: After the Queſtion being repeated, the Gentlemen who firſt opened the Matter, explained themſelves, ſo far as to ſay, they meant to collect the Minds of the People, for Unity, and by that Means be able to give the Freemen a Lead in the enſuing Election; ſince, ſhould they run upon different Men, the Perſons deſired might not be elected, by the Freemen. To this it was replied, that no ſuch Matter was notified in the public Warning which was general, that they were not properly inſtructed to proceed in this Affair; that ſuch Procedure would be very unconſtitutional, and tend in an undue Manner to influence the Minds of the Freemen, and be fraught with the worſt of Miſchiefs, as it would tend to produce infinite Diſquietudes among the People, and lay a Foundation for perpetual Feuds and Animoſities, in every future Election; eſpecially as a Step of this Kind would not only be eſtabliſhing a pernicious Precedent, unknown to, and unpractiſed by, the virtuous Founders and Supporters of this Colony; and that the preſent Meeting was but a very partial, or rather, no juſt Repreſentation of the Freemen. It was further urged, that any Method of this Kind, taken to influence the Minds of the Freemen, or to give them a Lead in Election, was an undue Influence, and that, being under the Solemnity of an Oath, they ſhould be left abſolutely free.———No ſolid Anſwer was given to theſe Arguments, and the Meeting adjourn'd to Nine of the Clock next Morning. Met next Day according to Adjournment; and without entering anew into the Argument, ſoon divided into Counties, and agreed, that moſt of the Freemen would vote for ——— ——— to be Governor, and for ——— ——— to be Deputy Governor. The County of Litchfield declared their Diſſent from this Procedure, by a Majority of Nine againſt Four: Many Members in Hartford County, were in the Negative. When the Motions of the Council came under [illegible], it was ſaid that it was not prudent to make [illegible] in the Body Politick at once, but [illegible] their own [illegible]. The [illegible] Counties much more generally [illegible] than [illegible] other Part of the Government.

The foregoing Narrative is [illegible] Point of Light. Yet give me Liberty to propoſe this one Query, How [illegible] Gentlemen concerned in theſe extraordinary [illegible] reconcile [illegible] that [illegible] of Liberty [illegible] to be the Object [illegible] deny to the Body [illegible] the Liberty of [illegible] according [illegible]

[illegible] 31.

[illegible]

[illegible] of Suffield, an Inſolvent [illegible] to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of [illegible] in Suffield, on Tueſday, the firſt Day of April next, at Nine o'Clock in the Forenoon; and exhibit their Demands on ſaid Eſtate, in Order to receive their firſt Dividend according to Law.

Suffield, March 10, 1766.

SAMUEL KENT,
MARTIN ASHLEY, } Truſtees.
JEDEDIAH BLISS.

ISAAC BULL, of Litchfield,

DESIRES thoſe Perſons that intend to ſend their Children into his Family to be educated the enſuing Summer, to ſend in their Names by the 9th or 10th of April next. For Particulars, enquire of William Stanton, Poſt-Rider.

March 18th, 1766. 65

◆

Juſt Publiſhed, and to be Sold at the Printing-Office, Hartford; (Price 4d.)

Some Reaſons that influenced the GOVERNOR to take, and the COUNCILLORS to adminiſter the OATH, required by the ACT of PARLIAMENT; commonly called The STAMP-ACT.

Humb'y ſubmitted to the Conſideration of the PUBLIC.

TO be ſold, a likely NEGRO MAN, about twenty-two years old, very healthy and lively; who underſtands moſt Sorts of Buſineſs, waiting and attending upon Gentlemen; he alſo perfectly underſtands the whole art of making pot-aſh, in which buſineſs he has been employ'd for ſeveral years. Any perſon inclining to purchaſe ſaid negro, may apply to David Tod, at the pot-aſh-works in Suffield, (where the negro may be ſeen) or John Walker at Hartford, and know further.

From a Supplement to a PROVIDENCE GAZETTE EXTRAORDINARY, of March 12, 1766.

Mr. PRINTER,

"Quid domini facient, audent cum talia fures?"

AN inſolant and ignorant fellow in the mother country, who calls himſelf Paciſicus, has lately in a London paper, vented his ſpleen againſt the governments of Virginia and New England, in terms ſo dirty and unmannerly, that they will hardly bear a repetition. It hath been judged that ſo impudent and ſtupid a railer, ought not to receive the honor of an anſwer; however, leſt ſome perſons, who pay more veneration to every thing publiſhed in England than they generally deſerve, ſhould be diverted from the grand and important point of a poſitive refuſal to comply with the terms of the moſt ungracious ſtamp-act, in conſequence of any arguments or ſuggeſtions in that moſt audacious piece, I have thought proper to make a few remarks upon it. And here I muſt apologize to the public, as well as to the printer of a paper, which hath been heretofore diſtinguiſhed for chaſtity of language, for the terms in which, by the neceſſity of the caſe, I am conſtrained to anſwer this writer. I knew I had a dirty piece of work on my hands, and entered upon it with pain; but as it appeared to me to be a neceſſary ſervice, I engaged in it notwithſtanding the filth I ſhould have to encounter.

And here, in the firſt place, I cannot but obſerve the arrogance and ſelf-importance of the man. He talks as if he and his ſodality, were tenants in common, not only of the colonies and their effects, but alſo of almoſt every thing in Britain. In the courſe of his lordly work, he has theſe expreſſions, our parliament—our colonies—incline us to deſiſt—our houſe of commons—our Weſtern dominions—our opponents—our iſlands—our troops—our Covent-Garden ladies——our embattled ſquadrons—our pointed cannon—our advancing armies—the tap of our knuckle—our colonies again—our plantations—our national dignity—our conſtitution—our houſe of commons, again—our morals—our church—our transports——our common-wealth—our real patriots.———How he came by his authority and dignity in Britain, is unknown; but we Americans, whether pale-faced Virginians, or ſour NON CONS, are confident, that he has no ſuch poſſeſſions or power here as he aſſumes. Where are his colonies——his plantations———or his iſlands? I wonder that when he was making out his claim, he had not challenged the negroes, cattle, money, and houſhold furniture of the coloniſts.

His threats about viſiting the colonies with troops, embattled ſquadrons, pointed cannon, and advancing armies, are infinitely daring and ſeditious. Hoſtilities upon the colonies from him and his brother conſpirators, would be the blackeſt rebellion, and the moſt aggravated treaſon.—Doth he imagine that the common people of England can invade the King's American ſubjects, without being liable to hanging, embowelling, quartering, and the whole cookery provided for traitors? When our moſt gracious ſovereign ſhall think fit to urge our obedience to laws of parliament, all that duty will be paid to him, which becometh his free ſubjects; but when the mob begin to lord it, and threaten violence, what ſpecies of contempt ought not to be ſhewed them? Let Pacificus come himſelf, and endeavour to force the emaciated Virginians, or the pumpkin gentry of New-England, as he in ſcorn calls them, to deliver their purſes;—he might find that ſuch a corrupt, effeminate and profuſe Engliſhman, as his principles ſhew him to be, was no match for a hardy, virtuous, and dextrous American. If he ſhould come at the head of his advancing army, to rob us of our moveables, what if he ſhould be encountered from the woods by our half brothers the Indians, (as he calls them)—who then would be likely to want a cavern, to hide his ſhaking limbs in, and to ſave his SCALP?

The ſcribblers of the garret for a late wicked miniſtry, like their maſters, have diſcovered a matchleſs effrontery. Beſides their indecent reflections on the great departments of his Majeſty's empire, they have not failed to ſquirt forth their threats; as if the tinkers, weavers, graziers, and in general the commonalty of England, could at pleaſure make war upon us. It is thought that the royal prerogative is already confined enough, without this new invaſion from the rabble. It is hoped and expected that ſuch ſeditious perſons will meet with ſeverity and chaſtiſement, as ſoon as the crown ſhall become acquainted with their traiterous machinations.

The author inſults New-England with a charge of their ſanguinary laws and unmerciful diſpoſitions. Here is a good place to return upon him the ſanguinary laws and unmerciful diſpoſitions, which forced the Puritans to leave their native country, and to ſeek refuge in the new-found world, among ſavages. The cruelties practiſed upon our foreſathers, for no other cauſe than ſome difference in opinion in religious matters, drove them out from their habitations into the wilds of America, where having planted themſelves, they multiplied, and brought their new country to a tolerable ſtate of improvement, and condition of inhabitancy; which they had no ſooner done than ſome of the mother-country people, infinitely corrupted in their principles and manners, publiſhed to the world their deſigns of taking away our goods and chattles, acquired by exceſſive labour and toil, without any help from the parental ſtate;—and have the aſtoniſhing boldneſs to declare openly, even in their parliament, that all the profits of our labour and colonization, ought to go to, and center in, the ſaid mother country.

As to the admiſſion of American repreſentatives into the Britiſh parliament, it is hoped it will never take place; and we are quite willing to free the mother country gentry from any apprehenſions of being diſgraced by ſuch a meaſure, or of being thereby endangered in their morals or hierarchy: For firſt, we take it that all governments of countries ought to be topical, and that legiſlation cannot be carried beyond the limits of the country to be governed, without a departure from the moſt evident rules of civil government. And ſecondly, we are ſo confirmed in an opinion of the corruptibility of human nature, more eſpecially where the ſeducers have the national treaſures in their hands, ready to apply, as particular intereſts may require, for depraving men from their duty, that we could not be perſuaded to delegate our concernments into the hands of any perſons arrayed in fleſh and blood, where their virtue muſt, in all probability, meet with ſo ſevere a trial. As to the morality of the nation being endangered from the quarter of Virginia, I would only obſerve, that if a true eſtimate was formed of the induſtry, parſimony, thrift, œconomy and virtue of the Virginians, I believe that repreſentatives from that colony could not have any national effects on morals, except to reform them. I hope the church will never be in danger from New-England. Perhaps an attention to danger from Rome might be more ſerviceable to ſave the church, than any further perſecution of the harmleſs independents of New-England, who want only to enjoy their poſſeſſions and religion, at this remote diſtance, in peace and quietneſs.

Pacificus comforts himſelf in a tame ſubmiſſion to the ſtamp-act on the part of all the American colonies, except Virginia and New-England. Before this time he may be convinced of his miſtake, inaſmuch as the news of the union of all the colonies to oppoſe the operation of that act, as far as they are able, muſt have long ago reached England. But ſuppoſe only thoſe two dominions ſhould refuſe to be enſlaved, it might prove a harder jobb to force them than this ignorant ſcribbler ſuppoſes. The yellow ſhadows of Virginia, and pumpkins of New-England, as he is pleaſed to call them, would doubtleſs convince the rude herd formed againſt them, that their virtue, love of their country, fortitude, and above all the juſtice of their cauſe, would ſuddenly bring to the moſt horrid deſtruction all ſuch as were combined to ſeize on their rights, liberties, and privileges.

The menaces which have ſo liberally been poured forth againſt us, not from authority, but from the common ſubjects of the King, are unſpeakably provoking, and deſerve not only our contempt, but a ſignification, that if they ſhould attempt to put them in practice, ſuch a defence of our lives and liberties would moſt certainly take place, as would, in all probability, end in the utter ruin and overthrow of the aggreſſors.

Providence, March 10. A PUMPKIN.

NOTICE is hereby given to all the Proprietors of the Townſhip of PANTON, in the Province of New-Hampſhire, in New-England, that at a legal Proprietor's Meeting of ſaid proprietors, holden on the firſt Tueſday of December, A. D. 1765, was agreed upon and voted, a Rate or Tax of Ten Shillings, Lawful Money, on the Right of each original Proprietor: I do hereby give public Notice to ſaid Proprietors that they reſpectively pay their Rate or Tax, to me, on, or before the Thirteenth Day of May next, enſuing the Date hereof. Dated in Canaan, this 27th Day of February, A. D. 1766.

64 DAVID HOLCOMB, jun. Collector.

STolen out of the Stable of Uriah Stevens of Canaan, the Night after the eleventh Inſtant, a bright bay MARE, about thirteen Hands, and Half High, Scar on her left Side, white Spot on one of her hind Feet, about the Bigneſs of a Dollar, long Mane and Foretop, paces and trots, no Brand, low in Fleſh, five years old this Spring. Whoever ſhall take up ſaid Mare, and the Thief that ſtole her, and ſend Word to the Subſcriber, or return her, ſhall have a reaſonable Reward for their Trouble, and all neceſſary charges paid by

64 BENJAMIN HEWIT.

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, April 7, 1766. No. 67.

LONDON.

WE have been favoured with the following letter from an eminent Planter in Jamaica, to a gentleman of great conſequence in England, which will ſhew the true ſtate of that Iſland more plainly than any thing which has hitherto appeared in print.

Jamaica, July 25, 1765.

Dear Sir,

"According to your deſire, and to my promiſe when in England, of giving you my ſentiments freely when any thing of importance ſhould occur; it is with unfeigned concern I inform you, that our public affairs ſeem now to be in the moſt diſtracted ſtate, and I fear in the moſt dangerous ſituation they ever were in ſince the firſt ſettlement of this Iſland into an Engliſh colony. I need not tell you that the differences between the governor and the aſſembly, produced ſome haſty reſolutions on the minutes of the houſe as well as ſeveral prorogations and diſſolutions; we are chooſing a new aſſembly to meet the 13th of next month; the bulk of the people are divided into two parties, one for, the other againſt, (according to the phraſe in faſhion) Pri- [illegible] reſolution of the Britiſh Parliament, to force ſucceſſive local taxes upon us, without our conſent, or repreſentatives, and of courſe as ſome of us did think in violation of the rights and liberties of Britiſh ſubjects.

"When I conſider the gradual riſe in the price of ſlaves from Africa, of Plantation neceſſaries and utenſils from Britain, Ireland, and N. America, ſince the year 1759, the loſſes in crops by alternate extremes of droughts, Hurricanes and Floods, ſince that period, the low prices of our produce, during the time the Crown had poſſeſſion of the French ſugar Iſlands, and many other cauſes, I am convinced that the property now poſſeſſed by the planters in this Iſland, owes upwards of two third parts of its value to Britiſh Merchants, Jews, and others at different rates of intereſt from five to ten per cent. per annum accumulating.

"When it is further conſidered that our neceſſary annual contingencies, public and parochial, aſſeſſed by our Legiſlature here, exceeds one hundred thouſand pounds ſterling in time of peace, and during a war, or any inſurrection among the negroes, requiring martial law, that ſum is enormouſly increaſed.

"That the whole capital of this Colony, land, houſes, ſlaves, and other moveables included, according to the valuation upon eſtates between man and man, when bought and ſold, does not exceed twenty-two millions ſterling; that the ſlaves who cannot be rated at their higheſt value, above one third part of that capital are in fact the value of the whole; as the land and houſes are uſeleſs without them; that in all caſes of diſ- [illegible]

'the Mother-tree.' I will conclude this letter with a quotation from Howell's Pre-eminence of Parliaments, viz. 'What greater immunity and happineſs can there be to a people, than to be liable to no laws, but what they make themſelves, to be ſubject to no contribution, aſſeſſment, or pecuniary levy whatſoever, but what they vote, and voluntarily yield unto themſelves:' and with this melancholy reflection, that although Britons on your ſide the globe, have reaſon to avail themſelves of the bleſſings mentioned by that author, we have now cauſe to bewail the loſs of them.

WHereas an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of Thomas Burr, of Hartford, an inſolvent Debtor, is duly made to us the Subſcribers, Truſtees of his Eſtate, for the Uſe of his Creditors, appointed by Virtue of the late Act of the Aſſembly of this Colony, made to prevent Fraud in Debtors, &c. We do hereby give public Notice to all the Creditors of ſaid Burr, that we ſhall meet at the Houſe of Moſes Butler, Innholder in Hartford, on the third Tueſdays of April, May, June and July next, enſuing; where the Creditors are deſired to bring, or ſend in their Claims duly proved, and authenticated; and thoſe who are indebted to ſaid Eſtate, are deſired to ſettle their Accounts with John Kieth and William Tiley, (who have ſaid Burr's Accounts in keeping) forthwith, as they cannot be poſtponed, and Suits of Law upon them will be diſagreeable. And every Creditor is deſired to furniſh the Truſtees with ſuch Intelligence as will enable them to make the moſt of ſaid Burr's Eſtate, for their Uſe; which will be thankfully acknowledged, by

JOHN KEITH,
WILLIAM TILEY, } Truſtees.
66 TITUS HOSMER.

Amenia Lottery Tickets,

To be ſold by the Printor hereof.

To the PRINTER.

The Author of the following receipt, being a well-wiſher to the public, and having for a conſiderable number of years paſt had ſome experience both in making and dreſſing All-Wool Cloth; and apprehending that a regular management of wool, before it is made into cloth, may be of great advantage to the public, humbly offers the following (if it may be thought worthy,) to be inſerted in the public prints.

A RECEIPT FOR MAKING ALL-WOOL CLOTH.

IN the firſt place, let your wool be good, and well ſorted from all coarſe locks, then colour it, it being much better than colouring in the cloth, then pick it as open as you can, and if the colour be blue clip off the ends that are of a different colour, then card it into bats with good cards, then lay your bats in a long heap on a floor, the ends even, and lay a board on them, and knock on the board, and begin at one end of the bats and pick them as fine as you can with your hands, then mix your wool well together with your hands, then card your wool into rolls with fine narrow cards, then let your warp be twiſted ſo hard as to weave well, and let your filling be twiſted the contrary way to the warp, and ſomething ſlack and ſoft, and let ſpinner and weaver be very careful that no lint come at your wool or yarn, and let your cloth be cloſe wove, and included with a liſt fifteen or ſixteen threads wide on each edge and acroſs each end, of a different colour.

In making white cloth, let the above rules be obſerved, except clipping the ends of the wool.

To the Printer of the Connecticut Courant.

IT has been fully proved, ſince the paſſing of the STAMP ACT, that it is unconſtitutional and inconſiſtent with the Privileges of an Engliſhman, that any Man, or Body of Men, ſhould be taxed, without his or their Conſent, perſonally, or repreſentatively. Upon which my Church of England Neighbours raiſe a Clamor, that "By the Laws "of C-nn-c---t, they are taxed without their Conſent. "That by one Act of our L-g-ſl-t-re, they are obliged to "pay Taxes by the ſame Rule, and in the ſame Proportion with the Congregationaliſts of the Society in which "they live; by another Act, they are utterly debarred "the Privilege of voting in raiſing the Taxes, of which "they muſt pay their full Proportion; by which Means "a Tax of £.1500 per Annum is laid on the Profeſſors "of the Church, in this C-l-ny, by their Neighbours, "whilſt 3000 Churchmen are excluded their Votes in "granting Pariſh Rates, only by their profeſſing themſelves "Members of the Church of England; being qualified on "every other Account; which is an Hardſhip that Diſſenters never ſuffered in England, on Account of their Religion." If ſome able Lawyer will ſhew that the Church-Men of C-nn-c---t are not handled as unconſtitutionally by the two Acts I have mentioned, as the Plantations are by the Stamp-Act, he will enable me to give an Anſwer to the Church of England Male-contents; and thereby greatly oblige

His, and your humble Servant,

COLONUS.

NEW-YORK, April 3.

We have certain intelligence from Philadelphia, that a Veſſel is arrived there, the Captain of which reports, that on the Coaſt he ſpoke a Veſſel from London, bound to Virginia, and that the Captain told him the Stamp-Act was not repealed the 4th of February laſt, but it was generally expected it would be ſhortly.

We hear by two Gentlemen juſt arrived from Maryland, that they had not heard of the Arrival of the Ship there, with the News mention'd in our laſt.

The following Paragraph from the Maryland Gazette, of the 20th of March, is probably the Matter that gave Ground to the Report.

Juſt at the Minute of laying this Form on the Preſs for Publication, we have received a Dublin Paper of January 11, and under the London Head, is the following Article, dated January 14. "The great Conteſt concerning "the American Stamp-Act, we are aſſured, is "already compromiſed to the Satisfaction of all "Parties. The Stamp-Act, it is ſaid, will be "repealed; and the Supplies are to be raiſed by "a Taxation to be impoſed by the American "Aſſemblies themſelves, in whatever Way "ſhall be found moſt agreeable to themſelves."

PHILADELPHIA.

Extract of a Letter from London, Jan. 16.

"IN my laſt I told you the Parliament would meet upon the 14th.—After his Majeſty's Speech, recommending the Situation of the Colonies to the Conſideration of that auguſt Aſſembly, was delivered, the Commons returned to their own Houſe; and, in Conſideration of an Addreſs to the Throne, took Occaſion to comment a little upon the Purport of the Speech.—Mr. Grenville, with his wonted Regard to the Colonies, uttered many ſevere Things againſt the rebellious Americans, which drew on a Reply from Mr. PITT.—The firſt named Gentleman ſpoke near an Hour and a Half, expatiating largely upon the late Proceedings of the Coloniſts, and recommending it to the Houſe to make them ſenſible of their Dependence upon Great-Britain, and Subjection to any Law ſhe ſhould think proper to impoſe upon them. This was anſwered by the Great and Immortal PITT, in a Speech, wherein he even exceeded himſelf. Perſuaſion flowed from his Tongue, and Conviction of the Truth of his Arguments ſeemed to tread cloſe upon it. He began by declaring that at his coming into the Houſe, he did not intend to ſay what he now found himſelf obliged to utter; deſiring to reſerve his Opinion till the grand Queſtion came to be diſcuſſed on a future Day; but that, as an Opportunity now offered, he was glad of the Occaſion of delivering his Opinion to the Houſe; eſpecially as his infirm State of Health rendered it impoſſible for him to promiſe that he ſhould be able to attend at a future Day; that he was happy to demand their Attention to what he might offer in Favor of an injur'd and oppreſſed People. He then proceeded to declare, that he thought the Tax illegal, unjuſt, unfair and impolitic. Illegal, becauſe the People on whom it was laid, could give no aſſent to it, as they were not repreſented in Parliament. Impolitick, to lay Burdens upon a People, from whom the greateſt Advantages are derived to the Mother Country, and whoſe Returns from thence, in the Courſe of Trade, have amounted annually to Two Millions Sterling; an Advantage not derived from Commerce with any other Part of the Globe.—(Here he recapitulated the Conduct of the Miniſters, in regard to America, during the ſeveral Reigns.) And the Loſs of this Trade is to be compenſated, by what? By perhaps Fifty Thouſand Pounds returned annually into the Exchequer, and obtained, poſſibly, by the Deſtruction of Thouſands of brave Subjects. This, ſaid he, is a Stroke of Policy, founded on the ſame grovelling ſordid Motives, which ever diſtinguiſhed that Gentleman's (pointing to Mr. Grenville) Adminiſtration. He obſerved, in anſwer to the common Objection of the Colonies contributing towards the Expence incurred in their Defence, that Great-Britain had ſurely more in View then a generous Motive, when ſhe undertook their Defence; that ſhe had the ſtrongeſt Regard to her own Safety, in the Preſervation and Enlargement of Trade and Territories.

"It is impoſſible to give you the whole of a Diſcourſe which laſted above two Hours and a Half, in which he ſpared not George Grenville. The Eloquence he diſplayed in Behalf of the Colonies, is amazing, and had the Affair been put to the Vote, he would ſurely have carried his Point.—What does not America owe to ſo kind, ſo warm an Advocate in her Cauſe!

"Though America has found ſo able an Advocate, yet it is difficult to ſay how this Affair will be determined: I mean the Right of impoſing Taxes. Mr. G. [illegible] reſerved his Arguments till the 28th Inſt. when the Queſtion is to be fully and finally diſcuſſed.

"If it be allowed that the Colonies can only be taxed by their own Repreſentatives, how great a Happineſs muſt it be eſteemed, that they are not repreſented in Parliament; where any Number of Repreſentatives they could ſend, would only ſubject them to every Inconvenience from the Inequality of Numbers, without obtaining a ſingle Advantage?

"The Preſs daily gives Something new on the Subject; many of the Productions ſtupid enough. A new ſenſible Piece, printed in America, entitled, "The Propriety of impoſing Taxes upon the Colonies," dated in Virginia, has juſt made its Appearance. Many aſcribe it to Delany, of Maryland."

BOSTON, April 3.

Extract of a Letter from London, Jan. 16.

"I wrote you on Saturday, to acquaint you our American Affairs wear a very favourable Aſpect: But on Tueſday Mr. PITT, in a long Speech opened in our Favour, obviated all the Objections of the old Miniſtry, and aſſerted your Right of internal Taxation in the ſtrongeſt Terms, and declared, nothing leſs than a total Repeal would anſwer the ſalutary End in View: Nay, that it was the Intereſt of Great-Britain to extend your Commerce, and open every Market for your Produce. The London Merchants Petition is delivered, the ſeveral Parts of the Country will follow, as well as your Petitions, which have had their Uſe privately with the Miniſtry, into whoſe Hand I immediately put them; and as I have been informed, they have been put into the Hands of the old Speaker, Mr. Onſlow. I waited on him Yeſterday, had ſome free Converſation with him; he was very explicit in the Favour of America. The Miniſtry are kind enough to detain the Packet, that the Merchants and Agents may write to America, to relieve the Anxiety of the People there."

"The manufactures in England begin already greatly to feel the effects of American reſolutions not to import any goods from England, ſeveral ſhipwrights, caulkers, and every other branch in the ſhipping, down the river, not having employment even for their apprentices; and we are told that one conſiderable ſtocking manufacturer near the city has diſcharged no leſs than forty workmen within theſe few days."

Juſt One Year is now elapſed ſince we received the Reſolutions of Parliament, by Capt. Calef, for laying on the Stamp-Duties in America; and as the ſame Veſſel has been hourly expected, we were in hopes that as we firſt gave the diſmal Account thereof, we ſhould on this Day have been able to give Joy to our Readers in the Repeal of them;—but a Day or two will, we doubt not, bring a Confirmation of theſe good Tidings, notwithſtanding the Paragraphs in the London Prints.

Upon a Report from Philadelphia of the Repeal [illegible]

[illegible] a Pocket of Dollars, which was on board of Capt. [illegible] Dollars, beſides Cloathing.

Laſt Thurſday Night one Mrs. Banks was delivered at the Alms-Houſe in this Town of three Children, two Boys and a Girl, which we hear are [illegible]

We hear from Concord, That a few Days ago [illegible] Years old, was killed there which weighed 1054 lb.

HARTFORD, April 7.

A Perſon from Springfield, informs us, That on the Night after the 20th ult. the Dwelling-Houſe of the Rev'd Mr. Samuel Hopkins, of Hadley, was intirely conſumed by Fire, together with all the Furniture (except one Bed) a valuable Library, &c. to the Value, as is ſuppoſed, of at leaſt One Thouſand Pounds lawful Money. The Family narrowly eſcaped with their Lives. Mrs. Hopkins, who had been newly brought to Bed, was forced to flee out at a Window, and to take Refuge in a Barn. Several of the Children had but juſt Time to leap out at a Window, before the Room in which they lodged was all in Flames.

Laſt Thurſday Morning, about Two o'Clock, a ſmall Shock of an Earthquake, was felt by ſeveral Perſons in this Town. It "was ſo violent at New-Haven, that it ſhook the Saſhes of the firſt Brick College and other ſolid Buildings. It was attended with a Noiſe reſembling diſtant Thunder. A Perſon who was abroad at the Time, ſays the Noiſe came from the North and departed ſoutherly.

Juſt Publiſh'd in NEW-YORK,
(And to be ſold at the Heart and Crown in Hartford)
CONSIDERATIONS
UPON THE
RIGHTS of the COLONIES
TO THE PRIVILEGES
Of Britiſh SUBJECTS,
Introduc'd by a brief Review of the Riſe and Progreſs of
Engliſh LIBERTY, and concluded with ſome
Remarks upon our preſent Alarming SITUATION.
Eripe Turpi
Colla Jugo; Liber---liber ſum, dic age!

PROVIDENCE, March 12.

On the 4th Inſt. Eighteen DAUGHTERS OF LIBERTY, young Ladies of good Reputation, aſſembled at the Houſe of Doctor Ephraim Brown, in this Town, in Conſequence of an Invitation of that Gentleman, who diſcovered a laudable Zeal for introducing Home Manufactures. There they exhibited a fine Example of Induſtry, by ſpinning from Sunriſe until Dark, and diſplayed a Spirit for ſaving their ſinking Country rarely to be found among Perſons of more Age and Experience. The Doctor provided an elegant plain Dinner, and other Refreſhments for the fair Company; but they expended but very little Time in dining, and chearfully agreed to omit TEA, to render their Conduct conſiſtent.—Beſides this Inſtance of Patriotiſm, before they ſeparated, they unanimouſly reſolved that the Stamp-Act was unconſtitutional,——that they would purchaſe no more Britiſh Manufactures unleſs it be repealed, and that they would not admit the Addreſſes of any Gentleman, ſhould they have Opportunity, without they were determined to oppoſe its Execution to the laſt Extremity, if Occaſion required. We hear another Meeting of theſe Daughters of Liberty with many more, is intended to be held at the Court-Houſe, ſome Time in April next, there to ſpin a handſome Piece of Linen, as a Premium to be given the Perſon who ſhall raiſe the greateſt Quantity of good Flax in the County of Providence, in the Year 1766.

WILMINGTON, North-Carolina, Feb. 26.

Notwithſtanding what paſſed, relative to the attorney general's opinion on the ſeizure of the ſloops by capt. Lobb, for want of ſtamped clearances, as mentioned in our laſt, the inhabitants remained greatly diſſatiſfied, more particularly at Mr. attorney's anſwer to the 3d query, where he ſays, "if proſecutions are intended againſt theſe veſſels, they muſt be ſent to Halifax, &c." And concluding in theſe words, viz. "Upon the whole it is my opinion, that it is the duty of the collector to proſecute on the information he has received." In conſequence of which opinion, the people from ſeveral of the counties round aſſembled at Wilmington, on Tueſday the 18th of this inſtant, appointed officers to take the command, compelled them to act, and entered into the following aſſociation, which was ſigned by all the principal gentlemen, freeholders, and other inhabitants of ſeveral counties, viz.

NORTH CAROLINA.

We the ſubſcribers, free and natural born ſubjects of George the Third, true and lawful King of Great-Britain, and all its dependencies (whom God preſerve) whoſe ſacred perſon, crown and dignity, we are ready and willing, at the expence of our lives and fortunes to defend, being fully convinced of the oppreſſive and arbitrary tendency of a late act of parliament, impoſing ſtamp duties on the inhabitants of this province, and fundamentally ſubverſive of the liberties and charters of North-America; truly ſenſible of the ineſtimable bleſſings of a free conſtitution, gloriouſly handed down to us by our brave foreſathers, deteſting rebellion, yet preferring death to ſlavery, do, with all loyalty to our moſt gracious ſovereign, with all deference to the juſt laws of our country, and with a proper and neceſſary regard to ourſelves and poſterity, hereby mutually and ſolemnly plight our faith and honor, that we will at any riſque whatever, and whenever called upon, unite, and truly and faithfully aſſiſt each other, to the beſt of our power, in preventing entirely the operation of the ſtamp-act.

Witneſs our hands, this 18th day of February, 1766.

On Wedneſday the 19th they proceeded to Brunſwick, where their numbers were ſoon increaſed to upwards of a thouſand, and had intelligence of ſeveral hundreds more on their march to join them. On their arrival at Brunſwick, in order to remove all apprehenſions on the part of his excellency the Governor, the following letter was delivered him, by two gentlemen ſent for that purpoſe, viz.

SIR,

The inhabitants diſſatiſfied with the particular reſtriction, laid on the trade of this river only, have determined to march to Brunſwick, in hopes of obtaining in a peaceful manner, a redreſs of their grievances from the commanding officer of his Majeſty's ſhips, and have compelled us to conduct them; we therefore think it our duty to acquaint your Excellency, that we are fully determined to protect from inſult your perſon and property; and that if it will be agreeable to your Excellency, a guard of gentlemen ſhall be immediately diſpatched for that purpoſe. We have the honor to be, with the greateſt reſpect,

SIR, your Excellency's

Feb. 19, 1766. moſt obedient humble Servants,

To his Excellency Col. William Tryon,
Governor and Commander in Chief of North-Carolina.

On Thurſday the 20th. a conference was held with the commanding officer of his Majeſty's ſhips, and the collector, and in the afternoon matters were happily accommodated, and a promiſe obtained, that the port ſhould for the future be freed from the particular reſtrictions heretofore laid on it, at leaſt until the arrival of the Surveyor-General of the cuſtoms, and that veſſels ſhould be entered and cleared as uſual.

On Friday the 21ſt, a party of men was ſent for the collector, naval officer, and comptroller of the cuſtoms; the collector and naval officer were brought, and information was received, that the comptroller was at the Governor's; upon which a gentleman was diſpatched to demand his attendance, which he refuſed to comply with; and the people being informed that he was detained by the Governor, a letter was then ſent to requeſt that his Excellency would be pleaſed to let him attend: They received for anſwer, that the comptroller was employed by his Excellency on diſpatches for his Majeſty's ſervice, and that any gentleman who had buſineſs with him, might ſee him at the Governor's houſe.

A party was then immediately diſpatched to fetch him, and marched directly to the Governor's: They halted near the houſe, by order, and a gentleman was ſent from [illegible] to the comptroller, to deſire he would not put the people to the diſagreeable neceſſity of entering his Excellency's houſe; with a promiſe, that if he would come out, no injury ſhould be offered his perſon, which he at laſt complied with. The party then joined the main body, and marched immediately into the town, drew up in a large circle, placing the cuſtom-houſe officers in the center, where they all took oath, that they would not, directly or indirectly, by themſelves, or any other perſon employed under them, ſign or execute in their ſeveral and reſpective offices, any ſtamped papers, until the Stamp-Act ſhould be accepted of by the province. All the clerks of the county, lawyers, &c. preſent, were ſworn to the ſame effect.——The people then immediately diſperſed, in order to repair to their ſeveral places of abode.

It is well worthy of obſervation, that few inſtances can be produced, of ſuch a number of men being together ſo long, and behaving ſo well; not the leaſt noiſe or diſturbance, nor any perſon ſeen diſguiſed in liquor, during the whole time of their ſtay at Brunſwick, neither was there any injury offered to any perſon, but the whole affair conducted with decency and ſpirit, worthy the imitation of all the SONS OF LIBERTY throughout the continent.

In conſequence of matters being accommodated, with regard to opening the port, the ſloops Dobbs, Ruby, and Patience, under ſeizure, for want of ſtamped papers, were delivered up to the owners, and arrived at this town on Friday the 21ſt inſtant.

NEW-YORK, March 27.

The following is a liſt of the veſſels that ſailed for Ireland with Flaxſeed, in 1766.

Brig ———	Capt. Johnſon,	Dublin	410
Snow ———	Capt. ———,	Do.	650
Do. ———	Capt. Sample,	Do.	735
Brig ———	Capt. Wallace,	Do.	660
Do. ———	Capt. Alcock,	Do.	[illegible]
Snow ———	Capt. Forbes,	Do.	[illegible]
Do. ———	Capt. Cockran,	Do.	[illegible]
Ship Newry	Capt. Ruſſel,	Newry	[illegible]
Do. ———	Capt. M'Vicher,	Do.	[illegible]
Brig ———	Capt. Montgomery,	Do.	774
Ship ———	Capt. Brennan,	Do.	690
Brig ———	———	Do.	200
Ship Pitt	Capt. Allen	Belfaſt	848
Brig ———	Capt. Martin,	Do.	456
Snow ———	Capt. Moore,	Do.	694
Ship Jupiter	Capt. Hamilton,	L. Derry	[illegible]
Do. Nancy	Capt. Chevers,	Do.	[illegible]
Brig Boſcawen,	———	Do.	720
Ship Prudence	———	Colrain	900
Do. Prince of Wales	———	Cork	720
Snow Two Friends	———	Ballyſhannon	[illegible]
Do. ———	———	Glaſgow	210
Do. ———	———	Galway	380
Hogſheads of Flaxſeed			[illegible]

◆ ◆ ◆

Auguſtus Deley,

(At the Sign of the Black Boy, Near the North Meeting-Houſe in Hartford)

CONTINUES to carry on the Buſineſs of manufacturing TOBACCO, in all its Branches.—Where all Perſons may be ſupplied with Hog-Tail, Pig-Tail, and Shagg Tobacco, on the moſt reaſonable Terms. He takes in, and manufactures good Tobacco for chewing or ſmoaking, on Shares.——Said DELEY hopes thoſe who intend to take large Quantities of his Tobacco, will give him timely Notice, that he may be in Readineſs to ſupply them.

ISAAC [illegible],

DESIRES thoſe Perſons that intend to ſend their Children into his Family, to be educated the enſuing Summer, to ſend in their Names by the 9th or 10th of April next. For Particulars, enquire of William Stanton, Poſt-Rider.

March 18th, 1766.

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, April 14, 1766. No. 68.

BOSTON, March 31.

The following is the Copy of a Letter from Col. BARRE, Member of Parliament, to JAMES OTIS, Eſq; as Chairman of the Committee appointed to tranſmit him the Thanks of the Inhabitants of this Metropolis, for his Patriotic Speech at the laſt Seſſion of Parliament in favour of the Colonies.

SIR,

IT is with the higheſt ſenſe of the honor done me, I acknowledge the receipt of your letter dated Boſton, N. England, Sept. the 20th, with the unanimous reſolution of the committee incloſed, containing expreſſions of approbation from the metropolis of his Majeſty's ancient and loyal province of the Maſſachuſetts-Bay, which are exceeding flattering to me.

During the laſt war, the courſe of my profeſſion gave me frequent and pleaſing opportunities of obſerving attentively the ſpirit, loyalty, and attachment of his Majeſty's North American ſubjects, in ſupport of a war begun in defence of the limits of North-America, and continued to the honor and immortal glory of this nation in every part of the world.

My natural attachment to this country, a regard to it's commercial intereſts, to it's improvement in time of peace (which ſo greatly depends on the eſtabliſhing our late extended commerce upon thoſe generous and ſteady principles, which a happy experience and the information of thoſe moſt materially concern'd can ſuggeſt) and to the uniting of our ſtrength in caſe of any future rupture, has and will ever make me deſirous of promoting every meaſure that may contribute to theſe good effects, & of ſtrongly deprecating thoſe of a contrary tendency.

My conduct in Parliament ſo obligingly referred to, being the real ſentiments of my heart, was the natural reſult of theſe conſiderations. The terms in which they were delivered were ſuch as the particular [illegible] of the time and place firſt ſuggeſted, and ſuch as I cannot poſſibly, at this diſtance, charge my memory with. They were not premeditated, nor are they perhaps worthy to be remembered. I muſt therefore beg your mediation, Sir, with the reſpectable body whoſe pen you hold, to excuſe my troubling them with an imperfect repetion of words in themſelves of little uſe in North-America: But if there ſhould be any call for the like exertion in Europe, I beg leave through your means to aſſure them that no conſideration ſhall make me forget my duty, whenever an occaſion preſents itſelf, of promoting to the utmoſt of my abilities, the united intereſt of Great-Britain and her Colonies.

As long as the inhabitants of Maſſachuſetts-Bay will continue to regard the motives of my conduct, and not the conſequences, I do not deſpair of retaining, what I ſhall ever eſteem among the greateſt rewards, their approbation, of which I cannot have a more honorable or diſtinguiſhing mark than that contained in the laſt part of their reſolution. A flattering requeſt which I ſhall comply with as ſoon as poſſible.

My being abroad the whole ſummer prevented me from having the honor of receiving your letter ſooner than the end of December: This circumſtance I beg may be communicated to the gentlemen of the committee and to your other reſpectable fellow-citizens: At the ſame time you will accept, I hope, of my ſincere thanks, for your very polite manner of communicating to me their ſentiments, and for the trouble you have had on the occaſion.

I am, with the greateſt reſpect and perſonal regard, Sir, your moſt obedient and moſt humble ſervant,

Lond. Jan. 11, 1766. ISAAC BARRE.

To the honorable JAMES OTIS, Eſq;

ENTERTAINMENT.

WISE men have long ſaid, as common-ſenſe inſtructed them to ſay, that the chief ſecurity Great-Britain could have in her North-American colonies, with their progreſſive increaſe of ſtrength from population, would be found to conſiſt in their diſ-union, from rival intereſts and their diſcordant religious principles, and therefore ſhe would have nothing ſo much to dread as an eſtabliſhed harmony among them. But what would never probably be effected by a voluntary agreement among themſelves, is now accompliſhed by an ill-judged meaſure of the mother-country's to involve them in a common calamity of oppreſſion.

In this light the ſtamp-duty and admiralty-courts were, from the firſt, conſidered by many men as meaſures that would be conſidered a common oppreſſion, as would alſo the reſtraints that were laid upon their trade; and therefore ſuch men do not wonder at the effects that have been produced, not only in diſcontent and diſturbances, but alſo in what ſhould be far more alarming, public calls on each other, in their very news-papers, to union in a common ſenſe of oppreſſion; for ſuch they have expreſly conſidered all the meaſures of the late miniſtry with regard to them; ſo that the open cry among them has become, Liberty, Right and Defence.

The North-Americans, we ſhould conſider, are yet a rough and hardy people, uneffeminated by the luxury, and uncontaminated with the vices, that are preparing the inhabitants of the mother-country to become ſlaves. They have a ſtrong paſſion for freedom, which is here loſt in a luſt for pleaſures the moſt contemptible in their natures: ſo that they idolize thoſe bleſſings which, from degeneracy, we diſregard. It can never, therefore, be wiſdom in us, to kindle in them a fire of patriotiſm in oppoſition to ourſelves, which in its wildeſt exceſſes, plain reaſon ſhould convince us would never be deſtitute of exterior ſupport, as there is not a trading ſtate of Europe, which muſt not wiſh to ſee North-America in a trading ſtate of independence, or which we can rationally think would not contribute every means in their power, to her eſtabliſhment therein. Such an event, as we may rationally conclude, being much more deſirable to rival ſtates to Great-Britain, than to the North Americans themſelves, becauſe with the downfall of our American empire, there muſt become a complete down-fall of our power and proſperity, as we ſhould then have our chief purſuits to begin anew from the time of the reformation under ten-fold diſadvantages, and with ten-fold imbecility.

True policy conſiſts in wiſely managing a people, and not forcibly compelling, or trampling on them, eſpecially a people who have a ſtrong ſenſe of freedom impreſſed on their minds and hearts; ſuch an one, as, if matters are raſhly puſhed to extremities, will provoke deſperation, the very greateſt of all evils to be dreaded in a people.

It cannot rationally be conceived that our colonies can have any deſire to ſhake off their dependence on us, if they are treated by us as real brethren; and ſo we muſt treat them or we ſhall make them our real enemies. I do not pretend to ſay what they are able to bear as burthens in common with us, or what we ought to expect from them; but this I am well convinced of, from reaſon and conſideration, that they will never ſuffer themſelves to be oppreſſed, if they have any means in their power, however deſperate, to avoid it; becauſe they have a right to think themſelves freemen, and it cannot be expected, but that as ſuch they will act; and where is the man among us who can have reaſon to ſuppoſe otherwiſe?

What taxations a people can bear, and what they may be willing to bear, are ever to be conſidered as matters highly intereſting from being of the laſt importance to the welfare of a ſtate. They are points to which the moſt deſpotic of all governments muſt attend, as daily occurrences throughout the world, will ſerve to convince men of the leaſt accurate obſervation. And a man may divine, without ſupernatural aſſiſtance, that unleſs cautious policy prevails in the ſeveral courts of Europe, which are connected with America, the time cannot be far diſtant when the inhabitants of thoſe regions will become independent of the people of theſe; for let the train be but once touched, and the whole mine will blow up; as they will be alike ready to catch the flame from one another, at leaſt upon the continent; though our colonies are perhaps at preſent, the leaſt diſpoſed to it of any, from their hitherto having the feweſt cauſes of complaint; and in the way the contingent goes, it may be ſuppoſed the iſlands will ſoon follow.

NEW-YORK, April 10.

By Letters from Charleſtown, S. Carolina, we are adviſed, That a Ship, Capt. Burnet, was juſt arrived there from Briſtol, which he left about the 7th or 8th of Feb. when by their laſt Advices from London, Diſputes on the Stamp-Act ran very high between the Lords and Commons, the Majority of the Lords againſt the Repeal, and a great Majority of the Commons for it; That many high and menacing Words had paſſed between Mr. Pitt and Sir Fletcher Norton, who oppoſed the Repeal; and that the whole Nation was in an Uproar about it. No Veſſel was ſtopped or detained in England for Want of Stamps, nor was any ſuch Thing fear'd; for in a Policy of Inſurance made for Carolina, at 50s. per Cent. the Words are, That, "This Inſurance is agreed, that in Caſe of loſs or Average "the Inſurers ſhall admit of unſtamp'd Bills of Lading "as Proof of Intereſt, and be liable for any Detention "of Seizure, on Account of the Stamp-Act." That the Carolineans perſiſted in their unanimous Reſolution, to ſuffer no Rice to be carried from thence to Georgia, nor to have any Intercourſe with thoſe baſe Traders of that Province, who had taken the Stamps for their Shipping.

On Tueſday laſt, an Expreſs arrived from Philadelphia, with Letters to ſeveral Gentlemen in Town, with the following Extracts of two Letters from Maryland, which had been ſent from thence by Expreſs to Philadelphia; and is generally believed to be an authentic Account of the Repeal of the Stamp-Act. Extract, &c.

Baltimore, April 5 o'Clock at Night.

"Capt. Leonard Brook arrived Yeſterday in Patuxant River, and has brought Letters from Meſſrs. J. and R. Day, eminent Merchants in London, trading to this Province.

The following is the Copy of a Letter from Mr. George Maxwell, a Gentleman of Character and Veracity.

Benedict, April 4, 1766.

"Dear Sir,

"Capt. Brook is arrived; he hath brought no Papers, but Meſſrs. J. and R. Day writes me the 8th of February, "We ſincerely congratulate you on the REPEAL "of the Stamp-Act, which thanks to God, is juſt now reſolved here by a great Majority in Parliament.

"I am, &c.
"George Maxwell."

"I think now there is no Doubt to be made, and ſincerely wiſh you Joy.

Your's, &c. W. B."

We hear from New-Jerſey, that on the 25th of March laſt, a barbarous Murder was committed there on the Road between Woodbridge and Piſcataway, upon a Man who was travelling on Foot from New-York to Philadelphia, and by a Paper found in his Pocket, appeared to have been one of the back Settlers whoſe Habitation and Effects were deſtroyed by the Indians, on which Account he had been recommended to the charitable Aſſiſtance of the Public.

It appeared that he had changed or ſhewn 4 or 5 ſeven Pound Bills upon the Road, and that two Men dreſſed like Sailors, who were likewiſe travelling the ſame Way, ſometimes before and ſometimes behind him, and often joined his Company, and from Woodbridge, at their Requeſt travelled with him.——That they called at ſeveral Taverns, and went from the laſt in the Night.—He ſeemed inclined to ſtay there all Night, but was perſuaded by the Sailors to go on to Brunſwick.—It is ſuppoſed they murdered him ſoon after. A conſiderable Quantity of Blood was found in the Road, and a bloody Stick near it: The ſame Night theſe two Sailors called up the Ferryman at Brunſwick, and croſſed the Ferry, and as they went over, were quarrelling together about the Diviſion of ſome Money. The Body of the murdered Man was dragged out of the Road, over a Fence, and covered with Leaves, &c. where it lay a Week, and was diſcovered by a Man who accidentally croſſing the Fence at the ſame Place jumped upon the Body. The Murderers are not yet taken up.

Extract of a Letter from Philadelphia, dated laſt Thurſday.

"We have arrived this morning, the brig Manſfield, Bosn, from Falmouth. This veſſel left Falmouth the 4th of February in company with capt Young, who arrived ſome time ago. He has brought a Paper of the 30th of January; and one letter from London, dated January 30, of which the following is an extract. "Nothing is finiſhed about the Stamp-Act, but it muſt ſoon terminate one "way or other, as both Houſes go upon Nothing till it is "determined." In the public papers there is nothing remarkable. One article ſays both houſes of parliament ſat till after eleven on Tueſday night, and ſat late again laſt night.

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.

Friday laſt Captain Barnes arrived here from Barbades, who informs, that on the ſecond of laſt month, the ſnow Penn, Captain Harkies, of this Place, arrived there from Briſtol, but laſt from Madeira in four weeks, with Lord Hopton on board, who is going to make the tour of the Weſt-India iſlands; from whence his Lordſhip deſigned to viſit America, for the benefit of his health.

By Capt. Barnes we learn, that the Barbadians are heartily tired of their ſtamps, which has worked them to ſuch a degree, that they are only ſhadows of men.—They will now clear out any veſſel without ſtamps.

Yeſterday arrived the brig St. James, capt. Miller, from Lucia in Jamaica, who informs us, that the Negroes in the Town of St. Mary, in that iſland, to the number of 20 or 30, the latter end of January, in the night time, aroſe, ſet ſome houſes on the ſkirts of the town on fire, with a deſign to alarm the white people, and in the confuſion to have murdered them; one Mr. Benleſs being the firſt that appeared, the Negroes fell on him and butchered him, which gave the alarm to the others, who were preparing to quit their habitations: Mr. Benleſs's overſeer then fired and killed two of the black raſcals, one of which was the ring-leader, the reſt then quarrelled among themſelves about the choice of one to lead them on, which roſe to ſuch a height that they murdered one another, and only two eſcaped the general ſlaughter, but they were purſued and taken the next day.—At the ſame time and place the Negroes belonging to Mr. Douglaſs, of the port of Kingſton, collector, attempted to murder their maſter, but he happily eſcaped, being informed of the deſign by a Negro not concerned in the plot: The Negroes as ſoon as [illegible] found their ſcheme was diſcovered, made off [illegible] to the woods. Mr. Douglaſs and a party, [illegible] gone in queſt of them. The ſhip Earl of Guilford, Captain Martin, belonging to London, bound from the coaſt of Guinea, for Jamaica, with 300 ſlaves on board, was, about the middle of Feb. caſt away on the iſle of Aſh, the ſouth ſide of Hiſpaniola, the crew, and 250 of the Negroes were ſaved and carried to Jamaica, by a French veſſel, where they arrived ſafe the firſt of March; the veſſel is loſt.——The brig —— Captain Jauncey from New-York, put into Montego bay, for water, the 5th of March, and ſailed the next day for Penſacola.

Portſmouth, (New-Hampſhire) April 7.

Laſt Evening a COMET was diſcovered in the Weſtern Hemiſphere a little to the N. W. of the Pleiades or Seven Stars; Its Appearance was dim, and its Tail, which was ſhort, was directed almoſt perpendicularly upwards. It ſet about a Quarter after Nine.—The Curious it is hoped will improve this Hint to farther Diſcoveries.

BOSTON, April 10.

We hear from Hardwick, that a few Days ago the Hon. Brigadier Ruggles being with a Number of Men whom he had employed to fell ſome Trees, one of the Trees falling ſooner than expected, ſtruck the Brigadier before he could get out of the Way, whereby he was greatly bruis'd, and had ſeveral Ribs broke, as alſo one of his Arms in two Places.

We hear from Monſon that as a Number of People were gathered to aſſiſt a Neighbour in removing the Frame of a ſmall Houſe, the Frame fell down, with a Number of Men on it; whereby one Daniel Kibbe was ſo much wounded, that he expired within a few Hours after: The others eſcaped unhurt.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman at the Eaſtward, dated April 3.

"Poor Mr. King has been attacked by a Set of Villains, who have broke his Windows, damaged his Houſe, and ſtole Notes and other Papers to the amount of 700 l. lawful, have ſince ſent him very threatning Letters, in caſe he ſhould attempt finding out the Authors, and to add to their Villainy have ſtiled themſelves the Sons of Liberty."—

Extract of a Letter from Halifax, dated March 31.

——"Yeſterday arrived here the Egmont armed Show, Lieut. Graham, ſent out Expreſs by the Lords of the Admiralty laſt October, and had got on our Coaſt, but loſt her Mainmaſt, and was forced to bear away to Antigua to refit.——She has brought a Packet to Lord Colvill, and is to ſail in two Days to Gen. Gage, and then directly to London; that was her Orders; but what is in the Diſpatches has not yet tranſpired."—— Another Letter from Halifax, ſays, "We have Advice from Newfoundland, that the French are fortifying St. Peter's; and it is thought that ſome of the Ships in the Harbour will proceed there to enquire into the Matter."

Another Letter ſays, "The Men of War are all now fitting out, and to be ready for the Sea in 24 Hours Notice."

Captain Hatch, in his Paſſage from hence to Halifax, had every Thing waſhed off his Deck.

Advertiſements.

A Quantity of the beſt Kind of RAISINS, to be ſold by Retail, cheap for Caſh, by Benjamin Gardiner.

THE Creditors of William Hurlberd of Suffield, an Inſolvent Debtor, are hereby warned to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Silas Kent, Innholder in the Weſt Society in Suffield, on Thurſday, the firſt Day of May next, at Nine o'Clock in the Forenoon, in purſuance of An Act of this Colony, entituled, "An Act to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors for the Uſe of their Creditors, &c.——

April 14, 1766.

Graves Loomis,
Ebenezer Harmon, } Truſtees.
James Harmon,

◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆◆

Juſt Publiſhed, and to be ſold by Thomas Green, at his Printing-Office in Hartford (Price 10*d.*)

The EXAMINER examined:

A Letter from a Gentleman in Connecticut, to his Friend in London; in Anſwer to Letter from a Gentleman in London, to his Friend in America,—intitled,—The Claim of the Colonies to an Exemption from internal Taxes, impoſed by Authority of Parliament, examined.

LONDON, January 13.

Part of a letter from Marſeilles, dated Dec. 7.

"The French every now and then ſteal home a ſhip or two from foreign Ports, where they have been built for them: Some few days ago a ſhip of 64 Guns, and a frigate pierced for 30 Guns, arrived at Toulon from Genoa, where they have been built on account of the French; there is another ſhip of the line at the ſame place, about half finiſhed; and a third had the keel laid when the above was launched. They are likewiſe very buſy in their dock yards at Toulon; and without making any eclat, you may depend on it, this nation are uſing their utmoſt diligence, in getting their marine to be a little better able to face the Engliſh, than they found they were the laſt war; and if they can but a little longer negotiate off the payment of the Canada bills, it is not improbable they will then find another ſort of argument to prevent their paying them at all."

Jan. 15. We hear the gentlemen entruſted with the affairs of the colonies, have been ſtrictly enjoined to petition that the Vice Admiralty courts on their preſent eſtabliſhment may be aboliſhed, and trials by juries inſtituted in the room thereof, in all caſes of litigation between the ſubject and the crown.

It is likewiſe ſaid, that the American agents have orders to petition for a ſolemn confirmation of their reſpective colony charters under his preſent Majeſty.

Friday laſt a Footman, belonging to Major Matthews, ſhot himſelf at his Maſter's Houſe, in Dean-Street, and not at Lord Bute's Houſe, as mentioned.——The following Remark concerning the Deceaſed is ſomething Singular: He entered on his Service on Friday, was born on a Friday, was married on a Friday, his eldeſt and youngeſt Sons were born on a Friday, ſhot himſelf on a Friday, and the Undertaker's Name is Friday who has the burying of him, and it is ſaid he will be buried on Friday, in Friday Street.

Jan. 18. The cutters will not be diſcharged, but even an additional number employed, in conſequence of the late encouragement given to the Engliſh ſmugglers by the French court.

An additional bounty per ton on the ſhips employed in the whale fiſhery, will be granted; and alſo extending to N. American veſſels.

They write from Madrid, that 13 Capital Ships of War are now building, with great expedition, in the ſeveral Ports belonging to his Catholic Majeſty.

We are aſſured from Paris, that the moſt poſitive Orders have been ſent by that Court to all the different Dock-Yards in the Kingdom, to haſten, with all poſſible diſpatch, the Conſtruction of the ſeveral Veſſels and Frigates of War now upon the Stocks, that there may be a ſufficient Number of them to put to Sea early in the Spring. The Orders it is ſaid, occaſioned various Conjectures.

We hear the duty of one ſhilling per pound upon teas will be taken of, and 20 per cent. ad valorem, will be added; by which means the common teas will be cheaper, ſmuggling greatly reduced, and the revenue from that commodity greatly encreaſed, as it would not be worth a ſmuggler's while to attempt at fine teas.

The ſhips of War now building at Genoa for the ſervice of France, are ſaid to be part of a ſtipulated number, thirty in all, contracted for in the year 1760, to be navigated by Genoeſe ſailors into the neareſt port in the Mediterranean.

The French ſtill continue to buy up our ſwift going ſhips; and there is one of them now in the river, loaden with cannon and other military ſtores, it is ſaid, is bound to one of their colonies.

A violent ſhock like that of an earthquake happened at Long-Brenton, within 4 miles of Newcaſtle, which disjointed all the houſes in town, being built of ſtone, upon a free-ſtone rock; the inhabitants fled from their houſes into the fields and ſtreets, expecting their fall every minute; the ſtreet opened and cloſed again from end to end; the fields and a gentleman's garden ſunk above two feet, and great part of the great Killingworth moor ſhared the ſame fate, but no lives were loſt. This was occaſioned by the noted colliery of Long Benton having been compleatly wrought out. It is a cuſtom in working collieries, to leave as much coal as they dig away; but being a coal of great character in London, they worked the coal pillars away, and fixed wood ones in their ſtead, which not being able to ſupport a rock of two miles ſquare, and ſeventy five fathoms thick, being the depth of the coal pit, the whole ſunk down together.

HARTFORD.

Laſt Monday, Col. William Pitkin, and John Ledyard, Eſqs were elected by the Freemen of this Town; Deputies, to repreſent them at the next General Aſſembly of the Colony.

There has been lately killed at Willington, in this County, a Hogg, under Two Years old, that weighed, 451. lb.

LONDON.

The Parliament of Ireland having prohibited their diſtillers from uſing corn, we hear large orders are received here to buy molaſſes for thoſe parts; and from the ſcarcity and dearneſs of corn with us, it is probable our Parliament, when they meet, may follow their example, as the diſtillery conſumes ſo great a quantity of corn which our poor wants: the ſugar refiners ſhould alſo take care of their molaſſes, as that article muſt riſe greatly if this event takes place.

College of Philadelphia, March 6, 1766.

Whereas John Sergent Eſq; Merchant in London, and Member of Parliament, hath preſented to this College two Gold Medals; one to be given for the beſt "Claſſical Performance, at a public Commencement," and the other for the beſt "Reciprocal Advantages of a perpetual Union between Great Britain and her American Colonies."——

Notice is hereby given, by Order of the Truſtees, that both theſe Medals will be diſpoſed of at the enſuing Commencement in May.

The following was ſpoken extempore by a Daughter of Liberty at Providence, to a young Gentleman, who appears to have ſollicited Marriage, but not being inclined to oppoſe the Execution of the Stamp-Act, meets with this cruel Repulſe, viz.

I.

Awhile fond Damon, prithee tarry,
Nor woe me to thy eager Arms,
Thinkeſt thou, this is a Time to marry,
When our dear Country's in Alarms?

II.

In holy Wedlock ſhall we join
Our Hands, when fierce Oppreſſion braves:
Or canſt thou wiſh to have me thine
To propagate a Brood of Slaves?

III.

No: furbiſh up thy Armour bright,
And let me firſt thy Valour ſee;
Who for his Freedom fears to fight,
I fear will never ſtand by me.

IV.

Then buckle on your truſty Sword;
I plight thee now my faithful Word,
And when your Freedom's Foes are fled
To take thee to my Virgin Bed.

March 23d, 1766. PHILELUTHERA.

Juſt publiſhed, and to be ſold at the Printing-Office in Hartford.

A wondeful Dream or Viſion, concerning AMERICA.

"Your Old Men ſhall dream Dreams."

SCHEME Of Amenia LOTTERY,

CONTAINING Twelve Land Prizes, all of which is good feaſible Land, lying in ſaid Amenia, in Dutcheſs County. Lot, N°. 1, contains 3 Acres ½, on which is a good Dwelling-Houſe, with two Rooms, one 16 Feet by 20 the walls plaſtered, the other 14 by 16, with a good Cellar, Well, and Garden; being the Houſe that Samuel Shippard now lives in; ſituated on a publick Road, about One Mile and a Half from a Meeting-Houſe, has a new Board Fence on the Front, and is very convenient for a Shoemaker and Tanner, or any other Tradeſman; Nine other Lots of Land adjoining the Lot above diſcribed; alſo 2 Lots of Land, about ¼ of a Mile South of Lot N°. 1, containing 7 Acres and ½ each; with ſundary other Articles, as may be ſeen below; all of which have been appraiſed by Mr. Abraham Payne, junr. and Enſign Ichabod Payne, of ſaid Amenia, of undoubted Veracity, who were under Oath, to make a juſt Appraiſment of the Value of the ſame, in Ready Money.

The Lottery conſiſts of 900 Tickets, at one Dollar each, of which 217 are to be fortunate; as follows;

Number of Prizes.	Prizes deſcribed.	Value of each.	£.	s.	d.
1	of Lot N°. 1, containing the Houſe and 3 Acres and 3 Roods of Land,	60*l.*	60	00	00
1	of a Horſe, - -	17*l.*	17	00	00
1	of Ditto, - -	16*l.*	16	00	00
2	of Lots, N°. 11 & 12, each 7 Acres ½	15*l.*	30	00	00
1	of Lot N°. 2, 3 Acres ½ Meadow,	14*l.*	14	00	00
3	of Lots N°. 4, 6 and 7, each 3 Acres, 3 Roods and 32 Rods,	6*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.*	20	9	6
1	A Surveyors Compaſs,	6*l.* 10*s.*	6	10	0
2	of a Quarter of Saw-mill, each,	6*l.* 5*s.*	12	10	0
1	of Lot N°. 5, being 3 Acres, 3 Roods, and 32 Rods, - -	6*l.* 1*s.* 9*d.*	6	1	9
1	A Mare, - - -	6*l.*	6	00	00
1	of Lot N°. 3, being 3 Acres, 3 Roods, and 32 Rods, - -	5*l.* 17*s.*	5	17	00
3	of Lots N°. 8, 9 and 10, each being 3 Acres, 3 Roods, & 32 Rods,	5*l.* 7*s.* 3*d.*	16	1	9
1	of a Cow and Calf, -	4*l.* 10*s.*	4	10	00
1	of a Sley, with a new Box, well ſhod,	4*l.*	4	00	00
4	of 2 Acres of Wheat, each -	3*l.* 4*s.*	12	16	00
1	of a Cow, - -	52*s.*	2	12	00
1	of a Saddle, - -	50*s.*	2	10	00
1	of a Silver mounted Gun, -	48*s.*	2	8	00
1	of a large Grindſtone, -	30*s.*	1	10	00
1	of Jacob's Common Law plac'd,	25*s.*	1	5	00
1	of a large Pair of And-Irons,	20*s.*	1	00	00
1	of a ſmaller Pair of Ditto,	15*s.*	00	15	00
5	of two Sheep, each, -	14*s.*	3	10	00
1	of Wild's Survey, & Salmon's Gazetter,	15*s.* 6*d.*	00	15	6
1	of Ward's Mathematicks, & Gunter's Scale,		00	15	6
1	of Doct. Waterland's Reply, & a Protractor,		00	17	00
1	of a Caſe with nine Bottles,	16*s.*	00	16	00
1	of Atkinſon's Epitome, and a Magnet,	14*s.*	00	14	00
16	Caſh Prizes, each of -	16*s.*	12	16	00
160	Ditto, each of - -	12*s.*	96	00	00
217 Prizes, 683 Blanks,	900 Tickets at 8*s.* each, is		£. 360	00	00

The above Lottery to be drawn the Middle of May, next, at the Dwelling-Houſe of Capt. Michael Hopkins, in Amenia; who with Nicholas De Laverge, Eſq; and Mr. Edmund Perlee, Merchant, are appointed Managers, and Inſpectors; of whom Tickets may be had; as alſo of the ſaid Shippard. The Time of Drawing, and the fortunate Numbers will be publiſhed in the Connecticut Courant; and good Warrantie Deeds will be given of the Land, the Title being indiſputable. As the above Lottery is ſo well calculated for the Encouragement of Adventurers, it is expected, that the Tickets will meet with a quick Sale, and the Lottery be drawn at the Time appointed.

Auguſtus Deley,

(At the Sign of the Black Boy, Near the North Meeting-Houſe in Hartford)

CONTINUES to carry on the Buſineſs of manufacturing TOBACCO, in all its Branches.—Where all Perſons may be ſupplied with Hog-Tail, Pig-Tail, and Shagg Tobacco, on the moſt reaſonable Terms. He takes in, and manufactures good Tobacco for chewing or ſmoaking, on Shares.———Said DELEY hopes thoſe who intend to take large Quantities of his Tobacco, will give him timely Notice, that he may be in Readineſs to ſupply them.

WHereas an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of Thomas Burr, of Hartford, an inſolvent Debtor, is duly made to us the Subſcribers, Truſtees of his Eſtate, for the Uſe of his Creditors, appointed by Virtue of the late Act of the Aſſembly of this Colony, made to prevent Fraud in Debtors, &c. We do hereby give public Notice to all the Creditors of ſaid Burr, that we ſhall meet at the Houſe of Moſes Butler, Innholder in Hartford, on the third Tueſdays of April, May, June and July next, enſuing; where the Creditors are deſired to bring, or ſend in their Claims duly proved and authenticated; and thoſe who are indebted to ſaid Eſtate, are deſired to ſettle their Accounts with John Kieth and William Tiley, (who have ſaid Burr's Accounts in keeping) forthwith, as they cannot be poſtponed, and Suits of Law upon them will be diſagreeable. And every Creditor is deſired to furniſh the Truſtees with ſuch Intelligence as will enable them to make the moſt of ſaid Burr's Eſtate, for their Uſe; which will be thankfully acknowledged, by

JOHN KEITH,
WILLIAM TILEY,
TITUS HOSMER. } Truſtees.

66

Juſt Publiſh'd in NEW-YORK,
(And to be ſold at the Heart and Crown in Hartford)
CONSIDERATIONS
UPON THE
RIGHTS of the COLONIES
TO THE PRIVILEGES
Of Britiſh SUBJECTS,
Introduc'd by a brief Review of the Riſe and Progreſs of Engliſh LIBERTY, and concluded with ſome Remarks upon our preſent Alarming SITUATION.

———Eripe Turpi
Colla Jugo; Liber---liber ſum, dic age!

Monday, April 21, 1766. No. 69.

The Connecticut Courant.

BOSTON, April 17.—Yeſterday the Ship London-Packet, Capt. CALEF, arrived here from London, who bro't Prints and Letters to the 21ſt of February; which contain the following Articles:—

LONDON, February 4.

THE annual expences of the eſtabliſhments of the Britiſh Colonies in America, and alſo the debts incurred by the ſaid Colonies, are lying before an auguſt Aſſembly for their inſpection.

Feb. 5. It is ſaid the young and old part of Adminiſtration do not agree extremely well in their principles, and that one of them is for harſh methods with America.

His Majeſty is perfectly recovered of his late indiſpoſition.

The Hon. Houſe of Commons did not break up till near four o'clock yeſterday morning.

The grand queſtion, Whether the Britiſh Parliament have a right to tax the Americans, has been determined in the affirmative, almoſt unanimouſly.

An eſtimate of the value and quantities of rum annually deſtilled in the American colonies from Weſt-India produce, for ſupplying the New-England and Newfoundland fiſheries, is preparing to be laid before an auguſt aſſembly. It is ſaid to exceed fifty thouſand gallons.

Petitions have been preſented from the Manufacturers of broad-cloth at Melkſhan, in Wilts, praying relief under the preſent decay of their trade to North-America.

Petitions have alſo been received from the Blanket-Weavers at Witney, in Oxfordſhire, complaining of the great decay in their trade to North-America.

It is reported, that Lord Mount Stewart, eldeſt ſon of the Earl of Bute, will ſoon be appointed to a Sine cure poſt of great profit in North-America.

Feb. 6. We hear the ILLUSTRIOUS FIVE is become a favourite Toaſt in abundance of companies.

Yeſterday the houſe of Commons were very full, and they ſat late; a great number of Peers were preſent to hear the debates.

The Right Hon. Mr. Pitt was among the laſt Members, who on Tueſday morning retired from the houſe of Commons.

By the neareſt calculation which can be made, from the number of French veſſels now fitting out, and their known numbers of hands, it has been computed at Guernſey that full 18,000 ſeamen will be employed by that nation, this ſummer, on the Banks of Newfoundland.

Feb. 7. The Hon. Houſe of Commons ſat from Wedneſday noon till paſt two o'clock yeſterday morning, on the American Papers, &c. The further debates on this important affair are adjourned to this day.

We are told an Act of Bankruptcy is on the carpet, calculated for the uſe of the American Colonies.

Feb. 8. It was yeſterday morning ſtrongly reported, that two ſeperate ſquadrons would ſoon be appointed to ſail for North-America.

Orders are ſaid to have been this week tranſmitted to the ſeveral naval Commanders in America and the Weſt-Indies to hold themſelves in readineſs to ſail from their reſpective ſtations on the leaſt notice.

This Day a Mail will be made out at the Poſt-Office for New-York, to be forwarded by the Duke of Cumberland, Capt. Goodridge.

On Thurſday laſt the Univerſity of Oxford, in full convocation, conferred the following degrees by diploma, viz. The Degree of Doctor in Divinity, on the Rev. Mr. Henry Caner, Miniſter of King's Chapel at Boſton: The ſame degree on the Rev. Mr. Auchmuty, Rector of Trinity Church in New-York: The ſame degree on the Rev. Mr. Thomas Bradbury Chander, Miſſionary of Elizabeth Town in New-Jerſey: And the degree of Doctor in Civil Law, on Mr. William-Samuel Johnſon, an eminent Practitioner of the Law in New-England, and many years Maſter of Arts in both the New-England colleges.

Feb. 10. The Act for reſtraining North-American Paper Currency, it is confidently ſaid will be repealed this ſeſſions.

We hear that at a late meeting of ſome Merchants, at the King's Arms, upon an important queſtion, a motion was made for petitioning his Majeſty to enforce the Stamp-Act, but the queſtion being put, the numbers on dividing ſtood thus:—Againſt the motion, 274—For it, 134.

Laſt week a packet was received from the Hon. Henry Franklin, his Majeſty's Conſul General for the protection of the Britiſh commerce in Portugal.

Feb. 12. We hear the exports to North-America, in the articles of cordage, grindſtones, and iron poſt only, which uſed to be in great demand from the Colonies, are now decreaſed to the amount of a very conſiderable ſum; the above articles being manufactured for home conſumption Boſton, Philadelphia, and at moſt of the other provinces.

We are confidently aſſured, that a very conſiderable quantity of black cloth is returned from North-America, the Colonies having no occaſion for it, as they are determined not to wear any mourning; and it is aſſerted, by the beſt authority, that near 50000l. of the manufactures of this kingdom will very ſoon be returned from thence.

Feb. 17. It is reported, that a pretty warm remonſtrance has been received of the Court of Verſailles, relative to the late proceedings of the Engliſh at Turk's Iſland.

It is confidently aſſerted, that the French have actually at this time in commiſſion ſixty men of war, two thirds of which are of the line.

It was yeſterday morning reported at the weſt end of the town, that the court of Liſbon have made ſome extraordinary demands on England.—On the other hand, it is ſaid, that England will, on no account, grant the ſtipulated ſuccours to his moſt faithful Majeſty before a total removal of all the obſtructions which have been thrown in the way of the Britiſh commerce with Portugal, in order to favour our natural rivals the French and Dutch.

It is reported that an intereſting queſtion, of the higheſt conſequence to the peace and happineſs of a conſiderable body of Britiſh ſubjects, will be decided this day.

We hear nothing is yet determined in regard to the deſtination of the men of war now fitting out, two thirds of which are at preſent neither manned nor commiſſioned. The extraordinary expence of theſe naval preparations, has, however, been calculated to coſt England near one hundred thouſand pounds.

We hear the merchants are diſappointed in ſome expected large remittances in ſpecie from Jamaica, where the attempts to recover the former lucrative Spaniſh trade have not been attended with ſucceſs, that branch having unhappily got into another channel.

The ſtating of a ſingle queſtion, has put an end to diſputing on a certain point, in moſt parts of the town, which is the following one. What makes the diſtinction between Freemen and Slaves, but that the former give what is needful for common ſupport, and the latter have nothing but what can be taken away from them without their conſent, or againſt their own wills?

The number of Land Forces that are to be kept on foot for the ſervice of the preſent year are to conſiſt of 17,306 effective men, which is leſs than what was kept on foot for the laſt year's ſervice.

Feb. 18. Yeſterday there was the fulleſt Houſe of Commons ſince the preſent meeting of Parliament.

Authentic letters from Portugal, mention, that the Spaniards are every where increaſing the ſtrength of their marine.

BOSTON, April 17.

Extract of a letter from London, Feb. 8, 1766.

"The preſent moſt worthy Adminiſtration devote a good deal of Time and Attention to American Matters, and as no Conſultations can be had while the Houſe is ſitting, ſome of us are obliged to devote all our Mornings and Evenings to that Service;—and while the Houſe ſits we attend conſtantly in the Lobby to implore and conjure every Member that paſſes to befriend us.

"The Petitions from the Colonies cannot be received from their Impropriety.—They are ſigned by Committees of Provinces who ſhew no Authority from the Petitioners, and are beſides conſidered as coming from Perſons improperly (at leaſt) joined.—Had each Aſſembly petitioned in the Name of their own Conſtituents, they would have been received.

"That upon the whole it ſeems probable that whatever is done, will be done upon the Petitions of the Merchants and Manufacturers, of which about 20 have been preſented from different Places.

"The late Miniſtry have an abſolute Majority in the Houſe of Lords, and it has been feared would Yeſterday have one in the Commons.

"On Monday our Examination comes on for the London petition, when we expect to be thoroughly tortured."

Extract of another Letter from London, Feb. 13.

"All our reliance is on the preſent Miniſtry, who to a Man, are for a full Repeal; but againſt them are united Lord B——'s and Mr. G———'s Factions, who have, the former particularly but too apparently an Influence of a dangerous Nature; in ſhort I really know not how it will end."——

Extract of a Letter, dated London, Feb. 13, 1766.

"Both Houſes of Parliament are cloſely employed on American Affairs, and what is to be the Reſult of all, is the intereſting Queſtion not yet reſolved. Some Reſolves have paſſed both Houſes almoſt unanimouſly, viz. That the King, Lords and Commons of this Realm have always had, and ought to have the undoubted Right to tax the Simſbury, April 17, 1766.

On Friday the 11th Inſtant, died the Widow Judith Pettibone, Mother to Jonathan Pettibone, Eſq; of Simſbury, of an Apoplectic Fit, in the the 87th Year of her Age; ſhe was an ardent Lover of GOD, and all devout Perſons; and one that diſtinguiſhed herſelf by a conſtant Attendance on divine Worſhip; ſhe was very charitable to the Poor, and all in Diſtreſs, and a Perſon of great Uſefulneſs. She was apprehenſive, (tho' without any viſible Signs of Fear) of her approaching Diſſolution, and diſcovered an entire Submiſſion to the Will of GOD. In her Life ſhe had the Pleaſure to ſee the fifth Generation, and left three Children, 22 Grand Children, and 53 Great Grand Children, to regret and lament the Loſs, as do all that had Acquaintance with her.

THE Creditors of William Hurlburd of Suffield, an Inſolvent Debtor, are hereby warned to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Silas Kent, Innholder in the Weſt Society in Suffield, on Thurſday, the firſt Day of May next, at Nine o'Clock in the Forenoon, in purſuance of An Act of this Colony, entituled, "An Act to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors for the Uſe of their Creditors, &c.——

April 14, 1766.

Graves Loomis,
Ebenezer Harmon,
James Harmon, } Truſtees.

Colonies—That dangerous Riots and Tumults have ariſen in the Colonies—That theſe Riots and Tumults have been greatly encouraged by certain Reſolves of the ſeveral Aſſemblies in the Colonies—That the King be addreſſed to give Inſtructions to his Governors to require of the ſeveral Aſſemblies to make Reſtitutions to thoſe who have ſuffered by the late Riots and Inſurrections—and that thoſe Perſons, who have been active in endeavouring to ſupport the Act impoſing Stamp Duties on the Colonies, be taken into the Royal Favour and Protection. It will doubtleſs give you Pleaſure to know, that the Great PITT, Mr. Barre, and two or three other, oppoſed the firſt Reſolve, in the Houſe of Commons; Mr. Pratt (now Lord Campden) Lord Shelburne, Lord Torrington, Lord Cornwallis, and one or two other Lords, oppoſed this firſt Reſolve alſo in the Houſe of Lords—But the Reſolve of the Right of Taxation is made—The intereſting Queſtion, whether a Repeal or not, is not yet come on, but probably it will in a few Days. The Miniſtry are all in your Favour, as is Mr. Pitt, Mr. Barre, and ſome others in the Houſe of Commons; but all depends upon the Effects which their Reſolutions may have upon the Trade of this Nation—this will certainly govern, and herein lies your whole Dependence, and I apprehend, your Safety.

"14th in the Evening—favourable Accounts juſt received from the other End of the Town, which ſtrongly indicate a Repeal."

Extract of a Letter from London, dated Feb. 15, 1766.

"The Stamp Act is now in a fair Way to be repealed in a few Days, owing to Mr. PITT's out doing his uſual Out doings in the Cauſe of Liberty and his Country. It is impoſſible for me to remember a quarter Part of his Speech lately in the Houſe, but it was like himſelf, 'twas equal to all we could wiſh, and more than could have been expected He told the Houſe of Commons, that the Parliament had no Right to tax the Colonies, and that the Act muſt be repealed, nothing leſs would do, and the ſooner it was done the better: He addreſſed himſelf to all the Men of landed Eſtates, and adviſed them if they would not repeal the Act, to ſell their Eſtates immediately, for that they would ſink in Value a Quarter Part in a few Months, and advanced many Arguments againſt the Legality and the Expediency of the Act. He ſpoke with more Eloquence than ever did Cicero, for near two Hours, aſſerted the Rights of America, and proclaimed their Loyalty and Readineſs on all Occaſions during his Adminiſtration to levy with Chearfulneſs all the legal Demands that were made upon them to aſſiſt the Crown. In ſhort, all the Powers of that great Man were exerted againſt a very ſtrong Party, and has made more Friends among thoſe who know and love the Intereſt of their Country, and more Enemies among the Greenvillians than ever; and if every Province in America does not erect a laſting Mark of public Honor to the Savior of Great Britain and themſelves, they never deſerve to be aſſiſted again when on the very Brink of Deſtruction.——I hope to congratulate you in my next on the abſolute Repeal of the Act, tho' the Petitions of the American Congreſs are rejected, and both Houſes have voted that they have a Right of taxing the Colonies, only five Lords againſt it, Torrington, Cornwallis, Shelburne, Campden and Paulet."

Extract from a Letter from London.

"There are three Parties in the Houſe of Commons. One are for ſevere Methods—Another for a Repeal; but for previous Reſolves to aſſert the Right and Power of Parliament. The Third which includes the Miniſtry, for a Repeal without any previous Reſolves at all.———But in order to ſecure the Repeal, were obliged to agree to the Reſolves. By this Means 'tis apprehended they will be ſecure of a Majority on the great Queſtion. In this Light 'tis hoped the Americans will take the Reſolutions.

However the Strength of Mr G—n—l's Party has been tried, by his moving to enforce the Act, which was rejected by a Majority of above two to one in the Houſe of Commons, and in the Houſe of Lords the Motion was withdrawn.

The Miniſtry detain the Packet that it may carry the News of the Repeal; and have ſeveral other Regulations in Favour of America; and I really think them your Friends."

Extract from another Letter from London.

"Since my laſt there have been great Debates about American Affairs, and many ill-natur'd Things flung out againſt America that I thought it abſolutely neceſſary to preſent your Petition; eſpecially as laſt Year your Petition by ſome Means miſcarried. I accordingly waited on General Conway, our Secretary of State, with that to his Majeſty, which he ſaid he would preſent. That to the Houſe of Commons I put into the Hands of our Member for Middleſex, a Man of conſiderable Influence in the Houſe, and Chairman of the American Committee, who was ſo well pleaſed with the Petition, that he undertook to preſent it to the Houſe, which he introduced and read twice over with his Remarks thereon. It was taken up and ſupported by Mr. Pitt; but the Houſe objected to the Congreſs; and therefore, after two hours Debate, it was dropped, without being either accepted or rejected.

But General Conway deſired me to aſſure my Friends in America, it was not from any Diſreſpect to them, but purely from the Form. That to the Houſe of Lords, I delivered to Lord Dartmouth; but the Houſe would not accept it, becauſe it was a Memorial, which that Houſe never accepts.

There are many other Letters in Town, not only of the ſame import, but alſo comprehending other Particulars, which we have neither Time to collect or Room to inſert.

BOSTON.

Sunday laſt we were rejoiced with an Account of the Repeal of the Stamp-Act: This was by a Letter from Meſſi'rs R. and J. Day, Merchants in London, to Mr. Maxwell, a Merchant in Maryland, forwarded by Expreſs to Philadelphia; from thence by Water to Newport, Rhode-Iſland; from which Place it was diſpatched by Expreſs to the Sons of Liberty in this Town: This Account bearing Date Feb. 8. was premature; as was alſo an Account from Piſcataqua, with the Advice via St. Kitts, that it was repealed the 10th Feb. as is evident from the London Prints of later Date: But,

We have now better Grounds for publiſhing this Good, Great and Important Intelligence, as we have it from Capt. Calef, viz.

That he was deſired to wait in the Downs 'til the Poſt came down on Saturday, 22d Feb. in which Time he received the following Letters:

Extract from a Letter to Captain Calef, while he lay at the Downs, from a Merchant in LONDON.

London, 18th February, 1765.

THE Committee for the Maſſachuſetts, &c. dined at the King's Arms in Palace Yard Yeſterday, when they received a Meſſage from Lord Rockingham, intimating that a Repeal had been agreed to the preceeding Evening in Council, and every other Mean that could be thought of for Relief of the Colonies, would be immediately taken into Conſideration—The Houſes in the Trade are ſo confident that Friday next will terminate this Affair to our Wiſhes, that they have began this Day to prepare their Orders which depended on the Repeal—this is unſpeakably ſatisfactory, and I ſincerely congratulate all our Friends on this happy Turn.

"London, Feb. 21, 1766.

Now near 12 o'Clock at Night, I am at the New-England Coffee-Houſe, in anxious Expectation of News from the Weſt End of the Town; but ſhall not have the Happineſs of ſending you (in this Letter) any Thing new; yet, I doubt not, it will finally be ended to-night."

After Capt. Calef received theſe Letters he intended to wait until next Night's Poſt, but the Wind blowing hard, he was obliged to put out,—On his Paſſage he ſpoke with Capt. Montgomery in a Snow from Cork bound to Philadelphia; who ſailed from Cork 18 Days after Capt. Calef left the Downs; and informed him he had a London Paper on board, which was brought to Cork the Day before he ſailed; wherein was an Account of a TOTAL REPEAL of the—STAMP ACT on the 21ſt February.

THE SELECT-MEN have received with Pleaſure, Accounts of the Reſolutions of the Parliament, for repealing the Stamp-Act;—and as ſoon as they ſhall receive certain Advice, that an Act for this Repeal had paſſed the uſual Formalities, they will fix the Time for GENERAL REJOICINGS, and give the Public timely Notice thereof.

NEW-YORK, April 17.

A Sloop, Capt. Emory, arrived ſince our laſt, ſhe was the only one of three that eſcaped ſeizure by the Spaniards at Saltertuda.

On Friday the Sloop Live Oak, Capt. Lawrence, came up in 22 Days from the Havannah; (having on board 21,000 Dollars, private Property) by whom we learn, that the Spaniards ſailed from that Place above three Months ſince, to take Poſſeſſion of New-Orleans; and that a New Governor arrived at the Havannah the Day before he ſailed

HARTFORD, April 21.

His Honor, the Governor has appointed the Rev. Mr. Jonathan Lee, of Saliſbury, to Preach the Election-Sermon on the 8th of May next.

HARTFORD, April 19, 1766.

Mr. GREEN,

I was very much pleaſed with that inimitable Piece of Female Patriotiſm, you publiſhed in your laſt Courant; a Poem ſo nervous, ſo ſpirited and elegant, we ſeldom find even in the moſt elaborate Eſſays of the other Sex: If we add the Conſideration of its being an extempore Performance, it can't fail to meet with that univerſal Plaudit it juſtly deſerves: And what ſtill more recommends it (tho' I can't ſay is altogether to be accounted for) is, that it bears ſo near a Reſemblance to a Piece of Poetry, wrote by a young Lady in England, to a Gentleman who ſollicited her to marry him, in the Time of the Rebellion, that ſome of my Neighbours think the ſame Muſe dictated the one, as the other; only, they ſay, the American Lady has this Advantage, that whereas ſhe had the Favour of an inſtantaneous Inſpiration, the Britiſh Lady was oblig'd to have Recourſe to Labour and Study. However that be, I dare ſay, it won't be at all diſagreeable to our fair Author, to ſee her Siſter-Poeteſs appear in your next Paper. I therefore take the Liberty to ſend you the following, from the London Magazine.

And am, &c.

MISODOLOS.

(ſee the Margent)

By a Lady in England, to a Gentleman, who had ſollicited her to marry him in the Time of the Rebellion.

I.

AWHILE, fond Damon, prithee tarry,
Nor woe me to thy eager Arms;
Or think'ſt thou this a Time to marry,
When Britain's all in wild Alarms?

II.

In holy Wedlock ſhall we join,
When Uproar and Rebellion braves?
Or canſt thou wiſh to have me thine,
To propagate a Brood of Slaves?

III.

No: Furbiſh up your Armour bright,
And let me firſt your Valour ſee;
Who for his Country fears to fight,
I fear will never ſtand by me.

IV.

Then buckle on your truſty Sword,
And when our Country's Foes are fled,
I plight you now my faithful Word
I'll take you to my Virgin Bed.

Jed. Strong Esq

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, April 28, 1766. No. 70.

BOSTON, April 21.

Friday laſt Capt. Cahoon arrived here in 5 Weeks from Glaſgow; on Saturday Capt. M'Lean in 35 Days from Belfaſt; and Yeſterday Capt. Jacobſon, in 6 Weeks from London, who brought Prints to the 6th of March; from which we have the following Advices, Viz.

LONDON, February 12.

ON Saturday laſt a Nobleman, at the Head of one of the public Departments, and who for his ſeaſonable Interpoſition on this Occaſion deſerves to have a Statue of Gold erected to his Memory, forced himſelf into a great Lady's Cloſet, and there told her in the roundeſt Terms, that if a certain Perſon was permitted to drive on Matters much longer to greater Extremity, that the Conſequences would, probably, be fatal to the ſaid Perſon, as he could not anſwer for it, but he might be maſſacred, &c. and in all Appearance highly dangerous to the Peace and Tranquility of the Kingdoms: That his Attachment to his Sovereign and the Royal Family upon the Throne, would not permit him to be ſilent, and he begged for God's Sake that his Information might be properly attended to. On this the Perſon in Queſtion, and another much greater were ſent for who ſat up all Night with the Lady in Conſultation; after which it was reſolved, that Mr. Pitt and the preſent Miniſtry ſhould have a Charte Blanche to do as they pleaſed; that a certain offenſive Act ſhould be repealed; that the great Commoner and C. Townſend, Eſq; ſhould be appointed joint Secretaries; that the Duke of Grafton ſhould be made Maſter of the Horſe, General Conway and his Grace of Newcaſtle have honourable Appointments, the Marquis of Rockingham be continued in his Poſt, and the reſt of the Miniſtry be properly provided for. A certain noble Family not far from Hyde-Park-Corner, are to be left entirely out.

VIENNA, Feb. 3. This Day died, greatly lamented, Field Marſhal Count Daun, Commander in Chief of all the Imperial Forces.

LONDON.

Feb. 18. Authentic Letters from Portugal, mention, that the Spaniards are every where greatly increaſing the Strength of their Marine.

We are informed, that one Manufacturer in the Shoe Way in this City, ſince the Reſolution of the Americans to wear their own Manufactures, has been obliged to reduce the Number of his Workmen from about 350 to leſs than 50. And that another in the Stocking Trade has been obliged to diſcharge as large a Proportion of his Workmen on the ſame Account.

Feb. 19. It is ſaid one Million, four Hundred, ninety-two Thouſand ſeven Hundred eighty-eight Pounds, nine Shillings and eight Pence, will be granted for the Service of the preſent Year.

The French Iſlands in the Weſt-Indies were greatly diſtreſſed for Proviſions when the laſt Letters were received, their uſual Supplies from North-America having been for a long Time retarded.

Feb. 21. Very large Orders in the Stationary Branch have this Week been countermanded from North America, where, we hear, one Paper Manufactory has lately been eſtabliſhed at New York, and another at Philadelphia, which will ſoon be able to ſupply moſt of the neighbouring Colonies.

Feb. 25. Yeſterday a conſiderable Body of North-American Merchants again went up to Weſtminiſter.

It is ſaid an extraordinary Packet will be appointed to ſail this Week for New-York.

Saturday as ſoon as the news relating to the American Stamp-Act reached the city, the Bells of St. Michael's, Cornhill, and thoſe at Bow-Church, &c. were rung.

Saturday the captains in the Weſt-India trade diſplayed their colours on board their reſpective veſſels in the Thames on the above occaſion.

It is confidently reported, that not only the Affair of the Stamp-Act, but alſo thoſe of the Currency and foreign Trade of the Colonies will be regulated in ſuch a Manner, as will enable them to clear their Arrears with the Merchants of Great Britain, and the future Connections between this Kingdom and the Americans will be more advantageous than heretofore.

Feb. 27. They write from Gibraltar, that great Devaſtation has been made on the Barbary Coaſt, near Ceauta, by the late dreadful Hurricane.

LONDON, March 4.

Extract from the Votes of the Hon. House of Commons [illegible] to the Reſolves for Repealing the Stamp-Act.]

Reſolve VII. "That it is the Opinion of this Committee that all Perſons, who by Reaſon of the Tumults and Outrages in North America, have not been able to procure Stamped Paper, ſince paſſing of the Act for laying certain Duties of Stamps in the Colonies, ought to be indemnified from all Penalties, and Forfeitures, which they have incurred by writing, ingroſſing, or printing, on Paper, Vellum, or Parchment, not duly Stamped, as required by the ſaid Act, under proper Reſtrictions."

More buſineſs has been carried on at the Wharves and Keys on the River Thames, this week, than has been done in any four weeks put together ſince October laſt.

The report of a Spaniſh war is now ſo current at London, that ſeveral merchants who have effects there, have made inſurance on them; one houſe in particular made out a policy for ten thouſand pounds value.

March 6. Yeſterday a body of two hundred members of the houſe of commons carried up the bill to the houſe of peers, for repealing the American Stamp-Act. An inſtance of ſuch a number going up with a ſingle bill, has not been known in the memory of man.

Yeſterday there was a very full houſe of Lords, ſeveral of the nobility having come to town on Tueſday to give their attendance.

Both houſes of parliament adjourned from yeſterday till to-morrow.

Great debates are expected to-morrow in a noble aſſembly, on an important affair now depending.

It is ſaid a bill for the better ſecuring the dependency of the Colonies on the Mother Country, is in agitation.

It is ſaid the ſubject of eſtabliſhing a mint for the coining of ſilver money at New-York, for the better regulation of American currency, will ſoon be bro't under conſideration.

About 11 o'clock on Thurſday night a gentleman was ſo certain of the determination of an important affair, that he back'd his opinion by the offer of 250l. againſt 125 l.

DUBLIN, (in Ireland) March 4.

Extract of a Letter from London, Feb. 22.

"The Houſe of Common: after employing 3 hours and an half preparatory to the debate on the American queſtion: Mr. C——y began it, and having expatiated ſome time on the ſituation of America and this country, inferred that it was neceſſary to REPEAL the ſtamp and admiralty Act immediately; and made a motion to that Purpoſe: he was ſeconded by Mr. C———per, Sec----y to the T——y. To him C. Jenk--n replied, he acknowledged the imperfection of the Act and moved that the words Alter and Regulate ſhould be inſerted inſtead of the word Repeal. Mr. El——t then roſe in Favour of the act: Mr. B——ke (your countryman) replied, he was remarkably great: About 11 o'clock Mr. Pitt (who went to the houſe in flannels and crutches) aroſe; he ſpoke an hour in favour of the Repeal, and in the courſe of his ſpeech paid great complements to Mr. Con——y and Mr. B——ke. G. G——le was the next ſpeaker, he was intereſted to defend his meaſures as he adviſed the act, and ſo far as he had any foundation to proceed upon was not entertaining.--The queſtion between one and two was called for. On the diviſion the number in favour of the Repeal was for it 275, againſt it 167, Majority 108.

Extract of a private Letter from London, Feb. 22.

Laſt Night our great Aſſembly voted for the Repeal of the Stamp-Act. They did not break up till three this Morning. The Bells of Bow-Church rung merrily on this Occaſion, the Majority of the People being for it. Above 300 Merchants of the greateſt Property went to the Houſe on the Occaſion, the Majority for the Repeal was 108.

LONDON, February 25.

They write from France, that the very large levy of militia now making in that kingdom, occaſions abundance of Conjectures there.

Friday morning, by eight o'clock, the ſeats in the houſe of Commons were begun to be taken for the members, by pinning down a ticket with their names, in ſuch ſeats as they choſe, which were reſerved for them till Prayers began. There were 442 members preſent.

The Houſe of Commons did not break up till two o' Clock on Saturday morning. Mr. Pitt continued in the houſe all the time, tho' ſo lame with the gout as to make uſe of Crutches: when he left the houſe he was huzza'd by many then preſent.

Saturday laſt there was an univerſal joy to be ſeen in the countenances of every lover of trade in the city, on the hopes of the Stamp-Act being repealed, that the merchant as well as the mechanic, may once more hope to be able to pay their juſt debts, and the many factors be enabled to employ the poor, who have been too conſiderable a time deſtitute of the common neceſſaries of life. The bells in moſt Churches, rang from morning till night; and the following houſes were illuminated, viz. Mr. Hoſe's, ſhoemaker in Cheapſide, where were exactly forty-five lights; a hoſier in the ſame neighbourhood; the Carolina and Pennſylvania coffee-houſes in Birchinlane; the New-York, Grigſby's, Portugal, Edinburgh, and Amſterdam coffee-houſes; and the Cook tavern and eating houſe.

BOSTON, April 21.

Extract of a Letter from a Merchant at Glaſgow, dated Feb. 28.

—"I have the Pleaſure to inform you (if you have not already received Information) that the Stamp Act is now Repealed.—This we have by a Letter from Mr. John Glaſsford of this City, Merchant, dated from London five Days ago.—He was ſent from this Place along with two other Gentlemen to petition the Parliament, in the Name of the Merchants here to that Effect."—

Extract of another Letter, dated Glaſgow, Feb. 28th.

"We wiſh you Joy of the Repeal of the Stamp-Act, which is now certain, and we doubt not you will have heard of it before this reaches you."

Extract of a Letter from Briſtol, dated March 1.

"Never was Joy more general, or Citizens Hearts more ſenſibly touched, than ours on Monday laſt, on hearing the favourable Turn of the American Affairs. The bells throughout the City rang inceſſantly the whole Day, and in the Evening were uncommon Bonfires: Several Houſes were illuminated, the American Coffee-Houſe in particular, from whoſe Windows the Merchants trading to that Quarter of the World, generouſly threw Money to the Populace, who in Return appeared decently thankful."

Extract of a Letter from Glaſgow, dated March 1.

—"I wiſh you Joy of the Repeal of the Stamp Act, which is now certain. I ſuppoſe you have receiv'd the Accounts of it before this reaches you. It was carried in the Houſe of Commons by a Majority of upwards of one Hundred."

Another Letter dated Glaſgow, March 6, ſays, "We congratulate you upon the Repeal of the Stamp-Act, which has occaſioned ſo much Confuſion and Diſturbance in your Part of the World, and ſo much Anxiety and Impatience for the Event in this."

Another Letter dated Greenock, March 8th.

"I have the Pleaſure of informing you that the Stamp-Act is at laſt Repealed, which I doubt not will be great Joy to you and all the Colonies."

By a Gentleman who came Paſſenger in Capt. Jacobſon, we are favoured with the following authentic Account of a Bill having paſſed the Houſe of Commons for repealing the Stamp-Act, viz. "That on February 21ſt the Houſe met, which Time there was great Debates relative to the right of Parliament in taxing the Americans; and about two o'clock on Saturday Morning (the 22d) the Queſtion was put for repealing or continuing the Stamp-Act, and on the Houſe being divided the number for repealing were 275, thoſe againſt it were 176, ſo that there was a majority of 108 for repealing the Act.—On Monday Morning the 24th February, Mr. G——le took an Opportunity when moſt of the Members (who on the Saturday Morning before were for repealing the Act) were abſent, to make a Motion that the Bill might be re-committed to a Committee of the whole Houſe; which ſome of the abſent Members ſoon heard of, and immediately ſent Meſſengers and wrote Letters to their Friends, which bro't them directly to the Houſe, ſoon after which the queſtion was put, and the Houſe divided, and on counting the Numbers for and againſt repealing the Act, they found that there was the ſame majority for repealing that there was the Saturday before.—On Monday the 3d of March, the Bill was engroſs'd and on Tueſday the 4th it was read a third Time in the Houſe of Commons, and paſs'd there by a majority of 128.—On Wedneſday the 5th it was carried to the Houſe of Lords and read, where it met with a very favourable Reception.—It was on Thurſday the 9th read a ſecond Time, and it was thought it would paſs at the third reading, and meet with the Royal Aſſent before the End of next Week."——

NEW-YORK, April 24.

From many private Letters by the laſt Veſſels, we have collected the following Particulars, viz.

That the Gentlemen deputed from the Manufacturing and Sea Port Towns, to make Reports and Repreſentations to Parliament, to obtain a Repeal of the Stamp-Act, exerted themſelves to their utmoſt, ſoliciting every Member as if pleading for their Lives.—That many of thoſe before whom this grand Affair was to be decided, diſcovered a ſurprizing Ignorance of America, Trade, &c.

That on the 11th Mr. Trecothick was ordered to the Bar of the Houſe of Commons, where he was repeatedly examined for 3 and Half Hours, the laſt Queſtion Lord Strange (our Enemy) aſk'd, was this—Did he think the Americans would not rather ſubmit to the Stamp-Act, than remain in the Confuſion they were in?—This being voted an improper Queſtion—he was ordered to withdraw; after ſome Debate he was again called in, and aſk'd whether the Americans would acquieſce if the Act was metigated? He anſwered, that it was his Opinion that no Modification would reconcile them to the Act, nor any Thing ſatisfy them leſs than a total Repeal. This inflamed Grenville's Party, who honor'd us with the Appellation of inſolent Rebels,—and they ſhewed their Teeth and Reſentment ſo furiouſly, that we have no Reaſon to doubt, they will worry us if ever they ſhould have Power to do it, tho' the Conſequence ſhould be, not only the Ruin of particular Merchants, but of England itſelf, and all its Dominions.

That the Debt from the Continent to England has been ſhewn to be 5 Millions Sterling,—which Grenville endeavouring to diſprove, made the Examination ſo tedious. All the principal Manufacturing Towns ſent Petitions for a Repeal of the Stamp-Act.—A Manufacturer from Leeds, was ordered to the Bar, who ſaid, that ſince the Stagnation of American Trade, he had been forced to turn off 300 Families out of 600 whom he conſtantly uſed to employ.—This Fact had great Weight, joined to many more Evidences of the ſame Kind.—The Country Members were alarmed at ſo many poor People's want of Employment,—which, if any Thing, would occaſion a Repeal of the Act.

The preſent Miniſtry have all declared the Expediency of repealing it, ſince if it is enforced, there will be 20,000 unemployed poor petitioning for its Repeal to prevent them from ſtarving. From theſe concurrent Cauſes there appeared no Doubt of a Repeal, eſpecially if we fulfilled our Engagements of having no Engliſh Goods till it is completed. ——And therefore our Friends in England hope we will abide by our Reſolutions. They likewiſe think that the Repeal would not have been ſo tediouſly procraſtinated, had no ſhips been ſent till the Affair was decided, for the infamous Grenville declared he would try to keep it off for ſix Weeks, in hopes that we ſhould ſubmit—ſaying, that our venturing to ſend Ships away at ſo great a Hazard was a Proof we were tired of the lawleſs State we were in.

It was about the 11th of February confidently reported, that the preſent Miniſtry were under great Doubts and Diſcouragement from the dreadful Power of Lord Bute, which they daily and hourly experienced, together with their own Want of Influence, and of that Support which they had been poſitively promiſed in repealing the Stamp Act. L. B. and L. S. publicly declared that they were impowered by ———to declare that his private Wiſh was not for a Repeal as it would be derogatory to the Honor of the Crown, and the Dignity of Parliament, to repeal an Act that had been ſo diſreſpectfully treated, without firſt exerciſing their Authority to enforce it.—On this, and finding that the Dukes of Y. and G. all the Lords of the B——C—— and Officers of the H——d, together with 9 Biſhops, were for carrying Fire and Sword to America, ſaying, that ſince they ſnarl, and begin to ſhew their Teeth, they ought to be knock'd out before they are able to bite:—The preſent Miniſtry had a Meeting, and concluded to reſign, but firſt to know the———Sentiments from his own Mouth——That the M—— of R—— and L. S. went together to the———where the M—— told him of the Report propagated by B. and Strange, and deſired to know if they had Authority for ſuch a Report or not,—that if they had, he and moſt of the preſent Miniſtry might beg Leave to reſign, ſince if the Act was enforced, it would be attended with Bloodſhead and other dreadful Conſequences.——Being aſked if it was not probable that by a Modification, the Act might be inforced without Bloodſhed; he declared his Opinion that it could not, and that nothing but a total Repeal would reſtore public Tranquility.——He was then told, that upon a Repreſentation of the Utility of the Act, and that with ſome Alterations it might be executed. His—— had expreſſed his Deſire that it ſhould be enforced—But if it could not be done without Bloodſhed peaceably—it was his ſincere Deſire and Intention that it ſhould be totally repeal'd.

The following is a Copy of Grenville's Motion in the Houſe for enforcing the Act. He was ſupported by 134, among whom were Sir C——s H——d——y, (in Return for the Kindneſs and Reſpect ſhewn him in America) and Gen. A-b--m-by, (the Hero of Ticonderoga) 274 oppoſed the Motion.

Mr. Grenville's Motion in the Houſe of Commons.

THAT it is the Opinion of this Committee, that an humble Addreſs be preſented to his Majeſty, in Conſequence of the above Reſolutions, to expreſs the Indignation and Concern of this Houſe, at the dangerous Tumults and Inſurrections, which have been raiſed, inflamed and carried on, in ſeveral of the Colonies in North-America, whereby, the Execution of a Britiſh Act of Parliament has been actually defeated, the Powers and Dignity of his Majeſty's Government ſet at Defiance, and the legal, conſtitutional Dependence of the ſaid Colonies on Great Britain, impaired and violated. To expreſs our entire Confidence in his Majeſty's Royal Wiſdom and Firmneſs, that he will give effectual Orders, and take all proper Meaſures for preventing any Attempt of the like dangerous Nature for the future, and for carrying into Execution all Laws and Statutes, relative to the ſaid Colonies and Plantations, enacted by the ſupreme Legiſlature of theſe Kingdoms; to recommend to his Majeſty's Protection and Favour, his loyal and dutiful Subjects in North-America, who have manifeſted their Deſire to comply with, and to aſſiſt in the Execution of the Stamp-Act paſſed in the laſt Seſſion of Parliament, for impoſing certain Duties of Stamps in the ſaid Colonies, and with the other Statutes of the Realm; and to aſſure his Majeſty that this Houſe will in a Parliamentary Way, firmly and ſteadily ſupport his Majeſty in all ſuch Meaſures as ſhall be neceſſary for vindicating the Rights of Parliament, and for reſtoring Order and Tranquility to the Colonies.

After many long and warm Speeches upon the above Motion, "About Ten o'Clock, when the Houſe were almoſt worried out, old General HOWARD ſtood up, at his Martial Appearance, a profound Silence enſued, he ſpoke (I don't pretend to give you the Words, only the Subſtance) to this Effect, that he ſhuddered at the unnatural Motion, he hoped in God it would not ſucceed; leſt he ſhould be ordered to execute it, and before he would imbrue his Hand in the Blood of his Countrymen, who were contending for Engliſh Liberty, he would, if ordered, draw his Sword, but would ſooner ſheath in his own Body.—Secretary Conway ſaid (tho' not at the ſame Time) that he would ſooner cut off his Right Arm, than ſign an Order for Soldiers to enforce the Act."

Before the debate on Grenville's motion, things were in a ſtate of great uncertainty and fluctuation, the moſt knowing were at a loſs what to expect.——One day the miniſtry would have the advantage, the next Grenville's party would ſeem to prevail,——and then of courſe no repeal: But ſince that debate, appearances were more favourable. As ſoon as the ſtamp act is out of the way, the ſugar act, and other deſtructive reſtraints on American trade, will be conſidered: It is imagined every thing we aſk will be granted; as the eyes of the nation are at laſt opened, to ſee the advantages that Great-Britain will receive by granting us an almoſt unlimited trade, where it does not in the leaſt interfere with Britiſh manufactures. That it was ſaid French ſugars, &c. will pay no duties on importation, to the colonies, but muſt be put in the king's warehouſes; and the proprietor be obliged to re-ſhip them in a ſtipulated time, to any part of the world. That the duty on molaſſes will be reduced to one penny pr. gallon, and that the Weſt Indies were collecting all their force to prevent the paſſing theſe acts in your favour, but there was little reaſon to fear they would ſucceed againſt us.

BOSTON, April 2[illegible].

Advertiſement Extraordinary.

Great GEORGE and PATRIOT PITT forever ſing.

THIS is to certify all whom it may concern, in Europe, Aſia, Africa or America, that all Rejoicings and Exhibitions of Joy throughout this Continent on Occaſion of the Repeal of the Stamp-Act, be they general Illuminations, Ringing of Bells, Bonfires, Firing of Cannon, or other Fireworks, will be merely in Duty and Loyalty to our moſt gracious Sovereign, in Reſpect, Love and Gratitude to his wiſe and patriotic Miniſtry, and in Honor of the immortal Pitt, the Illuſtrious Five, and all thoſe, and thoſe only, who are and were for repealing that deteſtable Act as unconſtitutional, and in the higheſt Triumph over and Contempt of, an infernal, atheiſtical, popiſh, Jacobite and Tory Crew on both Sides the Atlantick, who, by the Providence of Almighty God, are totally, and 'tis to be hoped everlaſtingly fruſtrated in their diabolical Purpoſes towards Great Britain and her Colonies.

Extract of a letter from a Rev. Divine in London, dated March 5.

"Bleſſed be God the Act is repealed, after a terrible Struggle—O that Boſton, that America may be truly thankful and humble, and frugal, and not inſult the Parliament in their Rejoicings, for this would render you odious to thoſe who have been your firm Friends. Thus much I am authoriſed by Dr. C---r to write, who was deſired by the Miniſtry to write to his Friends to the ſame Purpoſe."

Extract of a Letter from London, dated Feb. 8.

"I muſt inform you, that your Friends in Parliament have ſaid to me, that tho' they have done this for you, your future Happineſs depends upon yourſelves. Mr. G--l has propheſied the moſt ungrateful Returns to the Mother Country for this Lenity of Parliament, but I hope he will be diſappointed as to all the Colonies. Pretty certain I am that your Province will, being a brave free People, and not Slaves."

Extract of a Letter, dated London, March 1.

"You will receive by the Pacquet a Letter ſign'd by the Committee of North-American Merchants, a Copy of which is ſent to the principal Towns of the Continent, by which you'l ſee what has been done in and how that Affair is ſituated, as alſo what are their Sentiments upon it: For our Parts we ſincerely hope, you and all North-Americans will act ſuch a Part on this Occaſion, as will do honour to yourſelves and us, and convince the People of England that you are faithful and loyal Subjects, and ſincerely attach'd to this Country."

Extract of a Letter of the ſame date as the preceeding.

"The humble Remonſtrances which your Province had heretofore ſent hither, againſt the Bill impoſing Stamp-Duties in America paſſing into a Law, was well received by the King and Council, and the ſame was delivered by the Council to Mr. Gr——le, then firſt L——d of the T——y and a leading Man in the Houſe, in order to be laid before the Parliament; but this he thought proper to decline, and the Houſe never ſaw, 'til now, what it is thought would doubtleſs have prevented the Act from being paſſed; for which Diſobedience of the Order of Council, and daring to ſecret Papers which he was directed to communicate, it is tho't he will be impeached before the Riſing of the Houſe."

Capt. Shand for this Place, was to ſail the 8th March. Capts. Blake and Coffin, about the Middle of March; and Captain Marſhal in a Week after.

HARTFORD, April 23.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in Glaſgow, in Scotland, to his Brother in this Town, dated March 8, 1766.

"'Tis now near a Fortnight paſt, ſince our Houſe of Commons voted for repealing your Stamp-Act, by a majority of above One Hundred, at which the mercantile Part of Britain rejoices, as yours will do—Our landed Gentry, and idle Politicians were all for enforcing the Act: it is right that your Trade is now ſet at Liberty from all Reſtraint; though I'm well perſuaded the tumultuous Practices in America, will introduce Garriſons and Troops among you very ſoon."

We hear from Hooſoc, that about ten Days ſince, one Mr. Wright of that Place fell from a Saw-Mill, by which Accident he unfortunately loſt his Life.

On Monday the 10th Inſtant, a Waggon run over a Child of Mr. Samuel Sardam of Saliſbury, and cruſh'd it inſtantly to Death.

Laſt Monday Night the Dwelling-Houſe of Mr. Timothy North, of Farmington, was conſum'd by Fire, together with all the Furniture.

And, laſt Thurſday the Dwelling-Houſe and Barn of Mr. Amos Richardſon of Coventry, was burnt down; all the Family were from home when the Fire broke out, which had got to a great Head before it was diſcovered.

We are credibly informed, that there has been made in the Town of Goſhen, (in this Colony) ſince the 20th of February laſt, from the Sap of Maple-Trees, Thirty Thouſand wt. of Sugar, which is ſold currently at the Rate of 8 Dollars per 100 wt. Three Perſons, in Six Weeks, made 36,00 wt. of the like Kind of Sugar in Norfolk.

Laſt Thurſday, as one Joſeph Richards, a French Neutral (ſo call'd) was aſſiſting in raiſing a Spout, to a Houſe in this Town, a large Billet of Wood, (that was ſet under a Ladder, to keep it off from the Roof of the Houſe) accidentally fell on his Head, and fractured his Scull, of which he expired in a few Hours after.

LONDON, January 28.

To the Honorable the Commons of Great-Britain in Parliament aſſembled.

The Petition of the Merchants of London, trading to North-America.

Humbly ſheweth,

THAT your Petitioners have long been concerned in carrying on the Trade between this Country and the Britiſh Colonies on the Continent of North-America.

That they have annually exported very large Quantities of Britiſh Manufactures conſiſting of Woolen Goods of all kinds, Cottons, Linens, Hard-ware, Shoes, Houſhold Furniture, and almoſt without Exception, of every Species of Goods manufactured in theſe Kingdoms; beſides other Articles imported from abroad, chiefly purchaſed with our Manufactures, and with the Produce of our Colonies; by all which, many thouſand Manufacturers, Seamen, and Labourers have been employed, to the very great and increaſing Benefit of this Nation.

That, in Return for theſe Exports, your Petitioners have received from the Colonies, Rice, Indico, Tobacco, Naval Stores, Oyl, Whalefins, Furrs, and lately Pot-Aſh, with other Commodities; beſides Remittances by Bills of Exchange and Bullion, obtained by the Coloniſts in Payment for Articles of their Produce not required for the Britiſh Market, and therefore exported to other Places.

That, from the Nature of this Trade, conſiſting of Britiſh Manufactures exported, and of the import of raw Materials from America, many of them uſed in our Manufactures, and all of them tending to leſſen our Dependence on neighbouring States, it muſt be deemed of the higheſt Importance in the commerical Syſtem of this Nation.

That this Commerce, ſo beneficial to the State and ſo neceſſary for the Support of Multitudes, now lies under ſuch Difficulties and Diſcouragements, that nothing leſs than its utter Ruin is apprehended, without the immediate Interpoſition of Parliament.

That, in Conſequence of the Trade between the Colonies and the Mother Country as eſtabliſhed and as permitted for many Years, and of the Experience which your Petitioners have had of the Readineſs of the Americans to make their juſt Remittances to the utmoſt of their real Ability, they have been induced to make and venture ſuch large Exportations of Britiſh Manufactures as to leave the Colonies indebted to the Merchants of Great-Britain in the Sum of ſeveral Millions Sterling.

That, at this Time the Coloniſts, when preſſed for Payment, appeal to paſt Experience in Proof of their Willingneſs, but declare it is not in their Power at preſent to make good their Engegements, alledging, that the Taxes and Reſtrictions laid upon them, and the Extenſion of the Juriſdiction of the Vice-Admiralty Courts eſtabliſhed by ſome late Acts of Parliament, particularly by an Act paſſed in the Fourth Year of his preſent Majeſty's Reign, intituled an Act for granting certain Duties in the Britiſh Colonies and Plantations in America—and by an Act paſſed in the Fifth Year of his preſent Majeſty's Reign, intituled An Act for granting and applying certain Stamp-Duties and other Duties in the Britiſh Colonies and Plantations, in America, with ſeveral Regulations and Reſtraints, which, if founded in Acts of Parliament for defined Purpoſes, are repreſented to have been extended in ſuch a Manner as to diſturb legal Commerce, and haraſs the fair Trader, have ſo far interrupted the uſual and former moſt fruitful Branches of their Commerce, reſtrained the Sale of their Produce, thrown the State of the ſeveral Provinces into Confuſion, and brought on ſo great a Number of actual Bankruptcies, that the former Opportunities and Means of Remittances and Payments are utterly loſt and taken from them.

That your Petitioners are, by theſe unhappy Events, reduced to the Neceſſity of applying to this Honourable Houſe, in order to ſecure themſelves and their Families from impending Ruin—to prevent a Multitude of Manufacturers from becoming a Burden to the Community, or elſe ſeeking their Bread in other Countries, to the irretrievable Loſs of this Kingdom—to preſerve the Strength of the Nation entire—it's Commerce flouriſhing—the Revenues increaſing, our Navigation, the Bulwark of the Kingdom, in a State of Growth and Extention, and the Colonies, from Inclination, Duty and Intereſt, firmly attached to the Mother Country.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray the Conſideration of the Premiſes, entreating ſuch Relief, as to the Wiſdom of the Honorable Houſe ſhall ſeem expedient.

And your Petitioners ſhall ever pray.

THE Creditors of William Hurlburd of Suffield, an Inſolvent Debtor, are hereby warned to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Silas Kent, Innholder in the Weſt Society in Suffield, on Thurſday, the firſt Day of May next, at Nine o'Clock in the Forenoon, in purſuance of An Act of this Colony, entituled, "An Act to prevent Frauds in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors for the Uſe of their Creditors, &c.——

April 14, 1766.
Graves Loomis,
Ebenezer Harmon, } Truſtees.
James Harmon,

Auguſtus Deley,

(At the Sign of the Black Boy, Near the North Meeting House in Hartford)

CONTINUES to carry on the Buſineſs of manufacturing TOBACCO, in all its Branches.—Where all Perſons may be ſupplied with Hog-Tail, Pig-Tail, and Shagg Tobacco, on the moſt reaſonable Terms. He takes in, and manufactures good Tobacco for chewing or ſmoaking, on Shares.———Said DELEY hopes thoſe who intend to take large Quantities of his Tobacco, will give him timely Notice, that he may be in Readineſs to ſupply them.

A Quantity of the beſt Kind of RAISINS, to be ſold by Retail, cheap for Caſh, by Benjamin Gardiner.

Juſt Publiſh'd in NEW-YORK,
(And to be ſold at the Heart and Crown in Hartford)

A Defence of the Epiſcopal

Government of the CHURCH: Containing REMARKS On two late, noted Sermons on Preſbyterian Ordination.
By JEREMIAH LEAMING, A.M.
Miſſionary at Norwalk, from the venerable Society for the Propagation of the Goſpel in foreign Parts.

REV. Chap. ii. 2. Thou haſt tried them which ſay they are Apoſtles, and are not.

1 COR. xii. 28 and 29. GOD hath ſet ſome in his Church, firſt Apoſtles, ſecondly Prophets, thirdly Teachers. Are all Apoſtles? Are all Prophets? Are all Teachers?

Amenia Lottery Tickets,

To be ſold by the Printer hereof.

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, May 5, 1766. No. 71.

8

BOSTON, May 1.

Letter from a Gentleman of Character, dated London, March 1, 1766.

AFter various difficulties, violent ſtruggles and wonderful changes, it is at preſent highly probable that a total repeal of the Stamp Act will take place, for which a Majority of 108 hath appeared in the Commons, after the utmoſt efforts made by the contending parties, the greater part, if not the whole being influenced by European rather than American reaſons. The preſent miniſters are for the repeal; but upwards of 30 placemen, and all the Scots ſave two, have voted againſt them. In the houſe of Lords the tide of power ebbs and flows ſtrongly.—In a committee of the whole houſe the opponents of the miniſters have carried two queſtions of no great conſequence againſt them by a very ſmall majority. Here the abſent Lords cannot vote by proxy; but upon the report, and all other occaſions, when they ſit as a houſe, [illegible] they may, and then it is ſaid there is a certain majority in the miniſtry. Lord Cheſterfield, who by reaſon of his great deafneſs, and other infirmities, has not come to the houſe for ſome years, lately came and took the oaths, to qualify himſelf to depute another Peer to vote by proxy for him, in order that the repeal of the Stamp Act may not fail thro' want of his vote, and I am told to day that, if able, he purpoſes to come in perſon at the great debate, and make his ſpeech upon the occaſion, wherein, tho' it will be impoſſible for him to reply to thoſe whom he cannot hear, I expect we ſhall have ſomething very notable ſaid by a man ſo remarkable not only for his wit, but thoſe great abilities, and that noble public ſpirit which he has ſhewn on ſome occaſions. I am alſo juſt now told that the Chancellor, who totis viribus, oppoſed the repeal, has changed his mind.——"

The Ship Boſton-Packet, John Marſhel, Commander owned here by John Hancock, Eſq; Merchant; was the firſt Ship that cleared out at this Port without Stamped Papers after the firſt of November, and we hear was Entered at the Cuſtom-Houſe in London, without any the leaſt Difficulty.

As ſome Perſons may imagine that the Veſſels which arrived here lately from England, brought Goods for Merchants who had engaged to countermand their Orders until the Stamp-Act was repealed; Such Perſons are informed that the above Orders were ſent in Captain Marſhall, who arrived in London the Middle of February, and were not received until after the Goods now imported were engaged for, packed and ſhipped.

On Friday laſt came to Town and was ſhipped on board Capt. Davis for England, a Ton of Pearl Aſhes, made by Mr. Henry Barnes at Marlborough, a Sample of which was viewed by the Dealers in that Commodity, who declared it ſuperior to the foreign Pearl Aſhes uſually imported here from England.

Extract of a Letter from an eminent Houſe in London, to a Gentleman in this Town, dated March 6th.

—"Capt. Jacobſon ſailed yeſterday from Graveſend, as the Wind is S. W. I expect this will overtake him in the Downs to-morrow, and the chief Purport thereof is to acquaint you, that the Bill for repealing the Stamp-Act was read for the laſt Time in the Houſe of Commons on Tueſday laſt; and after many Debates pro and con, which laſted from three in the Afternoon to one o'Clock in the Morning, the Bill was paſſed for the Repeal of the Act by a Majority of 128; on which we ſincerely congratulate you as well as the reſt of our American Friends, as thinking we have in a great Meaſure got over the Buſineſs we have been ſoliciting for; however, we have a great deal to do before ſaid Vote is carried into a Law, as we expect, conformable to what we wrote you in our laſt, the ſame Buſineſs to go over again in the Houſe of Lords.—The Bill was carried to them Yeſterday attended by the 250 worthy Members who voted for the Repeal of the Act, and a Deputation from the Committee of Merchants, attended with our Petition for the Repeal of the Act, which was delivered by Lord Dartmouth, with a very genteel Speech applicable to the Occaſion, and the Petition was well received by the Houſe.—The principal Speakers againſt the Bill were Lord Temple, Lord Littleton, and for it the D. of Newcaſtle, D. of Grafton, and L. Egmont; however, it was read for the firſt Time, the ſecond Time reading is ordered for to-morrow, and the Committee of Merchants is to attend; and I conceive the greateſt Hopes that we ſhall get the Act finiſhed by the middle of next Week, unleſs their Lordſhips ſhould come to a Reſolution to examine Witneſſes for Proofs of Facts ſet forth in the Petition; if ſo, we ſhall have the ſame Dance to go over again in the Houſe of Lords, as we have had before the Houſe of Commons: However, you may aſſure yourſelf it will center in nothing worſe than keeping us longer in Suſpence, having a certain Majority in the Houſe, tho' but ſmall; and his Majeſty's Inſtructions to his Miniſtry is to conſent to the Prayer of our Petition, provided the Lords ſhould join with the Commons in a Repeal of the Act."——

NEW-YORK, April 14.

The Sons of Liberty in this city having reaſon to ſuppoſe, that there were on board the ſhip Prince George, Capt. Hathorn, which arrived here on Monday laſt from Briſtol, ſundry goods of Engliſh Manufacture, imported contrary to the general agreement made and ſigned by the merchants and traders of this city on the 31ſt of October laſt, "To direct their correſpondents not to ſhip ſuch goods, to countermand all the orders they had ſent for any ſuch," except crates, and caſks of earthen ware, grindſtones, Pipes, and ſuch other bulkey articles as owners uſually fill up their veſſels with, "and not to vend any goods or merchandize ſent upon commiſſion from Great Britain, ſhipped from thence after the firſt of January laſt, unleſs the ſtamp-act ſhould be repealed, or the ſaid agreement abrogated at a general meeting to be held for the purpoſe." Yeſterday about noon, ſome of their body waited on the captain, who after being informed of the ſaid agreement, and deſired to declare his cargo, and to whom belonging or conſigned; readily complied with the requeſt, and produced an Invoice of 50 caſks of bottled beer, 2399 buſhels of ſalt, 50 weys, and 60 chaldrons of coal, belonging to the owners of the ſaid ſhip, ſhipped on their account, one third to their own uſe, the other two thirds conſigned to two merchants in this city. Which invoice he declared upon Oath, before alderman Filkins, contained the whole of his cargo imported in the ſaid ſhip, and by his conſent, and the conſents of the gentlemen to whom the reſt of the cargo was conſigned, the whole was delivered into the cuſtody of the Sons of Liberty of this Place, to be by them branded with the New-York Arms, and by the firſt opportunity, re-ſhipped and ſent back to the owners in Briſtol.

Philadelphia, April 24.

Tueſday laſt the Brig Lark, Capt. Roberts arrived here from Liverpool, and having Goods on board, ſhipped contrary to the Agreement entered into by the Merchants and Traders of this City in November laſt; the Committee of Merchants immediately met, and agreed to have thoſe Goods locked up in Stores, till they ſhall hear of the Repeal of the Stamp-Act. The Goods were ſhipped by a Merchant in Liverpool on his own proper Account.

HARTFORD, May 5.

Laſt Wedneſday, the Rev. Theodore Henſdale, was ordained to the Miniſterial Office, over a Congregation in Windſor. The Rev. Mr. Clark of Kenſington, preach'd on the Occaſion.

A CHALLENGE is hereby given by the Subſcribers, to ASHBEL STEEL, and JOHN BARNARD, with 18 young Gentlemen, South of the Great Bridge, in this Town, to play a Game at BOWL for a Dinner and Trimmings, with an equal Number, North of ſaid Bridge, on Friday next.

WILLIAM PRATT,
DANIEL OLCOTT.

N. B. If they accept the Challenge, they are deſired to meet us at the Court-Houſe, by 9 o'Clock in the Morning.

Colony of CONNECTICUT. April 30th, 1766.

WHereas purſuant to an Act or Law of this Colony, intituled "An Act to prevent Fraud in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors for the Uſe of their Creditors," &c. Joſiah Caſe, late of Middletown, now of Suffield, in the County of Hartford, an Inſolvent Debtor, in Conjunction with the Major Part of his Creditors, hath exhibited his Petition, with an Account of the Sums by him owing, and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, in the County of Hartford, and Seth Wetmore, Eſq; Juſtice of the Peace and Quorum in ſaid County; praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of for the Uſe of his ſaid Creditors: Public Notice is therefore hereby given, to all the Creditors of the ſaid Joſiah Caſe, to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mrs. Eſther Wetmore, Inn-holder in Middletown, in ſaid County, on the Second Tueſday of June next; to ſhew Reaſon, if any they have, why an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of ſaid Joſiah Caſe ſhould not be made, and his Perſon diſcharged according to the Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Act.

From the Votes of the Houſe of Commons:

Lunæ 24 Die Februarii, 1766.

A Petition of the Mayor, Aldermen, Citizens, Merchants, Tradeſmen, and Manufacturers, of the City of Worceſter, whoſe Names are thereunto ſubſcribed, was preſented to the Houſe, and read; ſetting forth, that the preſent ſtagnation of Trade to the Britiſh Colonies in America, occaſioned, as the Petitioners apprehend, by the late Stamp-Act, and other Reſtrictions affecting that Tade, is ſeverely felt by many of the Petitioners, & fills them with the moſt alarming Apprehenſions, foreſeeing in a great Meaſure there own, and the enevitable Ruin of Numbers of their Fellow Subjects, if ſome effectual Means are not immediately applied to recover and preſerve ſo ineſtimable a Branch of Commerce to theſe Kingdoms; and therefore praying the Houſe to take the Premiſes into Conſideration, and give ſuch Relief as to the Houſe ſhall ſeem meet.

Ordered, That the ſaid Petition be referred to the Conſideration of the Committee of the whole Houſe, to whom it is referred, to conſider further of the ſeveral Papers, which were preſented to the Houſe by Mr. Secretary Conway, upon the 14th, 22d, 27th, 28th, and 31ſt Days of January laſt, and the 5th, 10th, 17th, and 21ſt days of this inſtant February and by Mr. Chancellor of the Exchequer, upon the 3d, 10th, 19th, and 21ſt Days of this inſtant February, by his Majeſty's Command.

The Order of the Day being read, for the Houſe to reſolve itſelf into a Committee of the whole Houſe to conſider further of the Supply granted to his Majeſty;

Reſolved,

That this Houſe will, upon Friday Morning next, reſolve itſelf into the ſaid Committee.

The Order of the Day being read, for the Houſe to reſolve itſelf into a Committee of the whole Houſe, to conſider further of Ways and Means for raiſing the Supply granted to his Majeſty; Reſolved,

That this Houſe will, upon Friday Morning next, reſolve itſelf into the ſame Committee.

The other Order of the Day being read;

Mr. Fuller reported from the Committee of the whole Houſe, to whom it was referred to conſider further of the ſeveral Papers, which were preſented to the Houſe, by Mr. Secretary Conway, upon the 14th, 22d, 27th, 28th, and 31ſt, Day of January laſt, and the 5th, 10th, 17th, and 21ſt Days of this inſtant February, and by Mr. Chanceller of the Exchequer upon the 3d 10th, 19th, and 21ſt, Days of this Inſtant February, by his Majeſty's Command the Reſolution which the Committee had directed him to report to the Houſe; which he read in his Place, and afterwards delivered in at the Table, where the ſame were read and are as followeth, viz.

Reſolved,

1. That it is the Opinion of this Committee, that the King's Majeſty, by and with the Advice and Conſent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons of Great Britain, in Parliament aſſembled, had, hath, and of Right ought to have, full Power and Authority to make Laws and Statutes, of ſufficient Force and Validity to bind the Colonies and People of America, Subjects of the Crown of Great Britain, in all Caſes whatſoever.

Reſolved,

2d. That it appears to this Committee, that Tumults and Inſurrections of the moſt dangerous Nature have been raiſed, and carried on, in ſeveral of the North-American Colonies, in open Defiance of the Powers and Dignity of His Majeſty's Government, and in manifeſt Violation of the Laws and Legiſlative Authority of this Kingdom.

Reſolved,

3. That it is the Opinion of this Committee, that the ſaid Tumults and Inſurrections have been greatly countenanced and inflamed by Votes and Reſolutions, paſſed in ſeveral of the Aſſemblies of the ſaid Provinces, highly injurious to the Honour of His Majeſty's Government, and tending to deſtroy the Legal and Conſtitutional Dependency of the ſaid Colonies on the Imperial Crown and Parliament of Great Britain. Reſolved,

4th. That it is the Opinion of this Committee, that ſuch Perſons, who, on Account of the Deſire which they have manifeſted to comply with, or to aſſiſt in carrying into Execution, any Acts of the Legiſlature of Great Britain, relating to the Britiſh Colonies in North America, have ſuffered any Injury or Damage, ought to have full and ample Compenſation made to them for the ſame, by the reſpective Colonies in which ſuch Injuries or Damages were ſuſtained. Reſolved,

5th. That it is the Opinion of this Committee, that the Houſe be moved, to reſolve and declare, that all His Majeſty's Subjects, reſiding in the ſaid Colonies, who have manifeſted their Deſire to comply with, or to aſſiſt in carrying into Execution, any Acts of the Legiſlature of Great Britain, relating to the Britiſh Colonies in North America, have acted as dutiful and loyal Subjects, and are therefore intitled to, and will aſſuredly have, the Protection of the Houſe of Commons of Great-Britain.

Reſolved 6. That it is the Opinion of this Committee that all Perſons, who by Reaſon of the Tumults and Outrages in N. America, have not been able to procure ſtampped Paper, ſince paſſing of the act for laying certain Duties of Stamps in the Colonies, ought to be indemnified from all Penalties, and Forfeitures, which they may have incurred by writing, ingroſſing, or printing, on Paper, Vellum, or Parchment, not duly Stamped, as required by the ſaid Act, under proper Reſtrictions.

Reſolved,

7th. That is is the Opinion of this Committee, that the Houſe be moved, that Leave be given to bring in a Bill to repeal an Act paſſed in the laſt Seſſion of Parliament, intituled, "An Act for granting and applying certain Stamp Duties, and other Duties, in the Britiſh Colonies and Plantations in America, towards further defraying the Expences of defending, protecting, and ſecuring the ſame; and for amending ſuch Parts of the ſeveral Acts of Parliament, relating to the Trade and Revenues of the ſaid Colonies and Plantations, as direct the Manner of determining and recovering the Penalties and Forfeitures therein mentioned."

The firſt Reſolution of the Committee being read a ſecond Time; a Motion was made, and the Queſtion being put, that the ſaid Reſolution be poſtponed; It paſſed in the Negative.

Then the ſaid Reſolution was agreed to by the Houſe.

The three next Reſolutions of the Committee being read a ſecond Time, were agreed to by the Houſe.

The Fifth Reſolution of the Committee, that the Houſe be moved, to reſolve and declare that all his Majeſty's Subjects reſiding in the ſaid Colonies, who have manifeſted their Deſire to comply with, or to aſſiſt in carrying into Execution, any Acts of the Legiſlature of Great Britain, relating to the Britiſh Colonies in North America, have acted as dutiful and loyal Subjects, and are therefore entituled to, and will aſſuredly have, the Protection of the Houſe of Commons of Great Britain, being read a ſecond Time;

The Houſe was moved accordingly.

Reſolved,

That this Houſe doth reſolve and declare, that all His Majeſty's Subjects reſiding in the ſaid Colonies, who have manifeſted their Deſire to comply with, or to aſſiſt in carrying into Execution, any Acts of the Legiſlature of Great Britain, relating to the Britiſh Colonies in North America, have acted as dutiful and loyal Subjects, and therefore are intitled to, and will aſſuredly have, the Protection of the Houſe of Commons of Great Britain.

The Sixth Reſolution of the Committee being read a ſecond Time, was agreed to by the Houſe.

The ſubſequent Reſolution of the Committee, that the Houſe be moved, that Leave be given to bring in a Bill to repeal an Act paſſed in the laſt Seſſion of Parliament, entituled, "An Act for granting and applying certain Stamp-Duties, and other Duties, in the Britiſh Colonies and Plantations in America, towards further defraying the Expences of defending, protecting and ſecuring the ſame; and for amending ſuch Parts of the ſeveral Acts of Parliament relating to the Trade and Revenues of the ſaid Colonies and Plantations, as direct the Manner of determining and recovering the Penalties and Forfeitures therein mentioned, being read a ſecond Time;"

And a Motion being made, that the ſaid Reſolution be re committed;

The Houſe was moved, that Part of an Act, made in the 5th Year of the Reign of Queen Anne, intituled An Act for the Union of the Two Kingdoms of England and Scotland, might be read.

And the ſame was read accordingly.

Then the Queſtion being put, that the ſaid Reſolution be re-committed;

It paſſed in the Negative.

Then the Houſe was moved, purſuant to the ſaid Reſolution.

Ordered,

That Leave be given to bring in a Bill to repeal an Act, paſſed in the laſt Seſſion of Parliament, intituled, "An Act for granting and applying certain Stamp-Duties, and other Duties in the Britiſh Colonies and Plantations in America, towards further defraying the Expences of defending, protecting, and ſecuring the ſame; and for amending ſuch Parts of the ſeveral Acts of Parliament, relating to the Trade and Revenues of the ſaid Colonies and Plantations, as direct the Manner of determining and recovering the Penalties and Forfeitures therein mentioned;" and that Mr. Fuller, Mr. Secretary Conway, Mr. Pitt, Mr. Townſhend, Mr. Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir George Savile, Lord John Cavendiſh, Mr. Thomas Townſhend Junior, Mr. Onſlow, Mr. Attorney General, Mr. Solicitor General, Mr. Cooper, Mr. Alderman Beckford, Mr. Huſſey, Mr. Prowſe, Sir William Baker, Mr. Cooke, Sir William Mereſith, Colonel Barre, and Mr. Burke, do prepare, and bring in the ſame.

A Motion was made, and the Queſtion being put, that it be an Inſtruction to the ſaid Gentlemen, that they do make effectual Proviſion, in the ſaid Bill, for preſerving the juſt Rights and Authority of the Britiſh Legiſlature, by directing all Votes and Reſolutions of the Aſſemblies of any of the American Colonies, repugnant to the ſaid Rights and Authority, to be eraſed and expunged before the ſaid Repeal ſhall take Place in ſuch reſpective Colonies;

It paſſed in the Negative.

Ordered,

That a Bill, or Bills, be brought in, upon the firſt and ſixth of the ſaid Reſolutions; and that Mr. Fuller, Mr. Secretary Conway, Mr. Chancellor of the Exchequer, Lord John Cavendiſh, Mr. Thomas Townſhend, Junior, Mr. Onſlow, Mr. Attorney General, Mr. Solicitor General, and Mr. Cooper, do prepare, and bring in the ſame.

Ordered,

That the ſecond, third, fourth, and fifth, of the ſaid Reſolutions, be humbly laid before his Majeſty.

Reſolved,

That an humble Addreſs be preſented to His Majeſty, humbly to deſire that His Majeſty will be graciouſly pleaſed to give Directions, that the ſaid Reſolutions be tranſmitted to the Governors of his Majeſty's Colonies and Plantations in America, to be by them communicated to the Aſſemblies of their reſpective Governments.

Ordered,

That the ſaid Addreſs be preſented to his Majeſty, by ſuch Members of this Houſe, as are of his Majeſty's Moſt Honorable Privy Council.

LONDON, February 18.

A great number of Spitalfields weavers have ſhipped themſelves for America; their melancholy circumſtances obliging them to ſeek that bread abroad which they cannot get at home.

It is aſſerted many important reſignations are now depending on the event of the American Stamp Act.

Laſt ſaturday cards were ſent to ſeveral perſons of diſtinction, congratulating them on the preſent proſpect of mild meaſures being expected to be purſued with Reſpect to America.

The Rev. Mr. Samuel Occum, of the Mohawk tribe of Indians, is expected in London in a few days; the ſhip he ſailed in having been ſeen in the channel.

March 3. Laſt week ſome cuſtom-houſe officers ſeized a box, which they thought contained ſome French lace, and carried it to the cuſtom-houſe, but on opening it, there jumped out upwards of 100 rats, for it contained nothing elſe.

Yeſterday four Cod about 11 lb. each, were ſold for ten guineas, and a large Scait for 3l. 10s.

A few nights ſince his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Glouceſter was made a Free-Maſon, at the horn-tavern, palace-yard, Weſtminiſter,

---

Annapolis, (in Maryland) April 7.

Tueſday evening about VII o'clock, a COMET made it's Appearance, at N. W. by W. about 18 Degrees from the Horizon, and 18 or 20 below the Pleiades. Laſt Night it appeared again, nearly in the ſame Point and Height, and it did not diſappear 'till it got almoſt below the Horizon.

Yeſterday the Provincial Court was adjourn'd to Monday the 21ſt Day of July next.

Next Monday Three Weeks, the General Aſſembly of this Province is to meet here: And we are aſſured that a Motion will be made, to procure from London at the Expence of this Province, the Statue of the great and good Mr. PITT, Cheſter-Town, April 7, 1766.

To Mr. JONAS GREEN.

SIR,

LAST Evening, on receiving the moſt agreeable News here, of the Repeal of the Stamp-Act, a few Gentlemen, that met on that intereſting Occaſion, opened a Subſcription for the Purpoſe of erecting a Monument at the City of Annapolis, in Maryland, (being the Seat of Goverment and the moſt publick Place in the Province) to the Honour of Mr. PITT, to ſtand to lateſt Time, in grateful Remembrance of his Patriotick Defence and Support of the Rights, Liberties and Privileges of Britiſh Americans; Thirty Guineas were preſently ſubſcribed, and we doubt not a very conſiderable Sum will ſoon be raiſed in our County, and we hope the Gentlemen of every County in the Province will do the like. We wou'd propoſe that ſome one Gentleman in each County ſhould be appointed to receive the Subſcription Money, and that a Day ſhould be ſet for thoſe Gentlemen to meet at Annapolis, and agree upon a Plan for executing the Work in the beſt and moſt reſpectable Manner the Sum of Money raiſed will afford.

We hope the ſame grateful Senſe of that worthy Gentleman's very extraordinary Merit, will be ſhewn in every Colony on this Continent. Yours &c.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.

The ſnow Nancy, Walter Kerr, maſter, mentioned in our laſt, left Briſtol the 17th of January, and King Road the 3d of February following, bound for this port; About the beginning of March they fell in with the ſloop Ann, John Jones maſter, of and from Rhode-Iſland, bound for Jamaica, but being in great diſtreſs, Captain Kerr took ſaid Jones and his people on board the ſnow, and proceeded on his voyage until the 5th inſt. when he got ſoundings in 25 fathom water at 9 o'clock in the evening, and by obſervation had that day he was to the ſouthward of Cape Henlopen and ſtood a N. N. Weſt courſe until 12 o'clock when he laid the ſnow too in 15 fathom water.—At four o'clock in the morning ſhe ſtruck on Herreford Bar, about ſeventeen miles to the northward of Cape-May being carried thither, as is ſuppoſed, by a ſtrong current, for the captain and others on board judged they were on the overfalls in the mouth of our Bay, and endeavoured by filling the ſails, to preſs her over, but ſoon found their miſtake by ſeeing the land very near to them. On this ſome of the people, contrary to the captain's orders cut away the maſts, and others got into their boats, cut their gripes, and the ſea ſoon waſhed them overboard; then cutting or ſlipping the falls drove to the ſhore where four men landed, viz, Hutchinſon the carpenter, Magnus Sinclair, John Gowans and John Stanſbury which were all that were ſaved out of twenty eight perſons, for the wind blowing a violent hard gale by this time, at N. E. and N. E. and by N. no aſſiſtance could be given them from the ſhore; the veſſel unfortunately heeled off towards the ſea which broke over her 30 feet high, and the diſtreſſed people obliged to continue on her deck until four o'clock in the Afternoon, hanging by the quarter deck rails, and upper gunnel, &c. as ſhe lay on her beam ends; but at low water they made a raft, and as is ſuppoſed, all got on it, expecting the tide of flood to drive them on ſhore, the raft came there well ſecured; and a hen koop laſhed to the upper part, with their cloths ſtuffed in it; coming a ſhore underneath the raft, ſhewed it had overſet, and the people all periſhed; twelve of their bodies having been ſince found, and decently buried. The perſons drowned by this unfortunate wreck are, Captain Walter Kerr, John Oliver, his mate, ——Forteſcue, an apprentice, and five others of the ſhip's crew. John Jones, maſter, Andrew Maſon, mate, John Brown, David Muttony, and Peleg Wood, all of the ſloop Ann, taken up at ſea: Captain William Wilſon, his wife and child, Captain John Corſer, Mr. Robert Smith, (a young lad brother to the Reverend Doctor Smith, of this place) the Reverend Mr. Wilſon, the Revd. Mr. Giles of New York, Mr. Mott, a tanner, of Connecticut, and the maſter and two mates of a Rhode-Iſland brig, that was ſold in Briſtol, names forgot. No letters or papers have been found and very little of the veſſel or cargo ſaved: Upon the whole, the circumſtances of this affair make it one of the moſt melancholly loſſes that ever happened on this coaſt.

We are confidently aſſured that the courts, at Charles-Town, S. Carolina, are opened and all buſineſs goes on there without Stamped paper.

Juſt Publiſh'd in NEW-YORK,
(And to be ſold at the Heart and Crown in Hartford)

A Defence of the Epiſcopal

Government of the CHURCH: Containing REMARKS On two late, noted Sermons on Preſbyterian Ordination.

By JEREMIAH LEAMING, A. M.
Miſſionary at Norwalk, from the venerable Society for the Propagation of the Goſpel in foreign Parts.

REV. Chap. ii. 2. Thou haſt tried them which ſay they are Apoſtles, and are not.

1 COR. xii. 28 and 29. GOD hath ſet ſome in his Church, firſt Apoſtles, ſecondly Prophets, thirdly Teachers. Are all Apoſtles? Are all Prophets? Are all Teachers?

◆ ◆ ◆

Auguſtus Deley,

(At the Sign of the Black Boy, Near the North Meeting Houſe in Hartford).

CONTINUES to carry on the Buſineſs of manufacturing TOBACCO, in all its Branches.—Where all Perſons may be ſupplied with Hog-Tail, Pig-Tail, and Shagg Tobacco, on the moſt reaſonable Terms. He takes in, and manufactures good Tobacco for chewing or ſmoaking, on Shares.——Said DELEY hopes thoſe who intend to take large Quantities of his Tobacco, will give him timely Notice, that he may be in Readineſs to ſupply them

HARTFORD, May 5.

Letter from the Committee of Merchants in London, trading to North-America, directed to George Wyllys, Eſq; and the Reſt of the Merchants at Hartford

LONDON, Feb. 28, 1766.

GENTLEMEN,

AFTER much Anxiety, we have at length the Pleaſure to acquaint you that a Bill is now in the Houſe of Commons, for repealing the Stamp-Act: It was read the ſecond Time Yeſterday.

We alſo look forward to ſome beneficial Regulations and Extenſion of the Trade of America; which we hope may be obtain'd in the Courſe of this Seſſion of Parliament; during which, the moſt ſerious Attention and Application ſhall take place on our Part, to every Point which may tend to the general Good.

Permit us now, Gentlemen, to lay before you our Sentiments on the preſent State of Affairs, to ſubmit them to your good Judgment, and to requeſt, that, ſo far as they agree with it, you will be pleaſed to inculcate the Propriety of the Conduct we recommend.

It has been a conſtant Argument againſt the Repeal, that in Caſe it ſhould take Place, the parliamentary Vote of Right will be waſte Paper; and that the Colonies will underſtand very well, that what is pretended to be adopted, on mere commerical Principles of Experience, is really yielded through Fear, and amounts to a tacit, but effectual Surrender of its Right, or at leaſt to a tacit Compact, that it will never uſe it.

In this Line of Argument, every Debate, and every Queſtion, from Oppoſition, has run, how material, how neceſſary therefore is it, that the Event ſhould not ſupport, or even ſeem to ſupport, thoſe Arguments.

The Event will juſtify thoſe Arguments in the ſtrongeſt Manner, if the Colonies ſhould triumph on the Repeal, and affect to ſeize the yielding of Parliament, as a Point gained over parliamentary Authority. The Oppoſition from whom the Colonies have ſuffered ſo much, would then throw in the Teeth of our Friends, See your Work; It is as we ſaid; it is but too well proved, what uſe the Colonies make of your weak and timid Meaſures. On the contrary, if Duty, Submiſſion and Gratitude, be the Returns made by the Colonies, then our Friends my exult, they may ſay, We are in the Right; is it not as we ſaid; See the Colonies regaind to this Country; by our Moderation; regained, with their Loyalty, their Affections and their Trade.

It is needleſs to ſay, how extremely preferable the latter Suppoſition is to the firſt; how much more deſireable for this Country, and for the Colonies.

You muſt be ſenſible what Friends the Colonies have had in the preſent Miniſtry; and are doubtleſs informed, what Pains they have taken to ſerve them; It is Juſtice likewiſe to them, to inform you that they have had great Difficulties to encounter in the Cauſe; the principal of which, was unhappily thrown in by the Colonies themſelves: We mean the intemperate Proceedings of various Ranks of People on your Side of the Water; and the Difficulties of the Repeal would have been much leſs, if they had not by their Violence in Word and Action, awakened the Honour of Parliament, and thereby involved every Friend of the Repeal, in the Imputation of betraying the Dignity of Parliament. This is ſo true, that the Act could certainly not have been repealed, had not Men's Minds been in ſome Meaſure ſatisfied with the Declaration of Right: If therefore, you would make the proper Returns to your Country: if you have a Mind to do Credit to your Friends and ſtrengthen the Hands of your Advocates, haſten, we beſeech you, to expreſs filial Duty and Gratitude to your Parent Country,—Then will thoſe who have been (and while they have the Power we doubt not will be) your Friends, plume themſelves on the Reſtoration of Peace to the Colonies, Union, Trade, and reciprocal Advantages to them and to us: But if violent Meaſures are continued, and Triumphs on the Point gain'd; if it is talked of as a Victory; if it is ſaid the Parliament have yielded up the Right, then indeed your Enemies here will have a compleat Triumph.—Your Tax Maſters probably be reſtored; your Friends muſt certainly loſe all Power to ſerve you; and ſuch a Train of Ill Conſequences follow, as are eaſier for you to imagine than for us to deſcribe. At leaſt ſuch Meaſures on your Side, will greatly tend to produce theſe Effects. We have no Doubt that you will adopt the contrary Conduct, and inculcate it to the utmoſt of your Influence; to which we ſincerely wiſh the moſt extenſive Regard may be paid, and that uninterrupted mutual Affection may continue between Great Britain and her Colonies, to the lateſt Ages.

We are, with unfeigned Regard,
Gentlemen,
Your affectionate Friends, and Humble Servants,

(The above Letter was ſigned by Thirty principal Merchants, reſiding in London)

We are credibly informed, that all the Veſſels belonging to this Government, that went to Saltortuga, are returned in Safety to their different Ports.

NEW-YORK, May 1.

Laſt Saturday Morning the Duke of Cumberland Packet, Capt. Goddridge, arrived here from Falmouth in 7 Weeks.—

Extract of a Letter from an American Gentleman in London, to his Friend in New-Jerſey.

London, Feb. 25, 1766.

——"I moſt joyfully congratulate you on ſo unexpected a delivery from ſlavery and civil diſſention by a repeal of the ſtamp act; which was carried in the commons the 21ſt inſtant, by a majority of 108 votes, and as a ſupply bill muſt paſs the lords of courſe. The providential change of the m----y, from the moſt abandoned and execrable, to a ſet of as honeſt, upright, & amiable perſonages as were to be found in the nation, ſeemed to be the foundation for our deliverance. But their power would have proved unequal to the taſk, had not our glorious Hero, our former deliverer, ſtood forth; and almoſt alone, ſupported our feeble unfaſhionable dying cauſe. He ſtruck at the root; he openly denied the right of Parliament to impoſe internal taxation on the colonies. With the eloquence of a Demoſthenes,—with the cool reaſoning of a Hambden,—with the warmth of an American enthuſiaſt, did this Great Man plead our deſperate cauſe, and that of liberty, in defiance of r—l favour, popularity, friends, relations, dangers and diſeaſe. For hours could I expatiate, in heaping encomiums upon this ſaviour of our country; but you will hear them from all quarters.———

Tho' private friendſhip would be a ſufficient inducement for me to addreſs you at preſent; yet I have now another motive, which is, and ever ought to be eſteemed the greateſt, I mean, the good of my country. Know then, that we have been ſacrificed and ſold by our ag---s. If there be an exception, I believe yours is the man; But he has not power to do it, and therefore deſerves no thanks. It is beyond deſcription (to me as well as to many others aſtoniſhing) that the colonies ſhould, as they have hitherto done, truſt their moſt important intereſts with ſuch perſons. Do you imagine the people of England poſſeſſed with a ſpirit of divination or intuition, ſo as to diſcern truth from falſhood, by hearing only one ſide; which is, and always will be the caſe, ſo long as the m——y can ſilence the ag--ts, while our enemies roar againſt us at leiſure, and repreſent us in ſuch colours, as their intereſt or malice ſuggeſts. I ſay nothing but what falls infinitely ſhort of what might be ſaid, perfectly conſiſtent with truth. It is certainly the duty of every leading man in the colonies, to uſe his utmoſt influence, for the appointment of able perſons, who have natural attachments and connections in the colonies; and that they be ſent as ſuch men ought to be—INDEPENDENT—by all allowances ſufficient to make them ſo."

Let not the object vaniſh from your ſight,
Remember, 'tis your country's ſafety.
VOLTAIRE.

Amenia Lottery Tickets,
To be ſold by the Printer hereof.

Jedidiah Strong Esqr
Litchfield

The Connecticut Courant.

Monday, May 12, 1766. No. 72.

HARTFORD, May 12.

Laſt Thurſday being the Anniverſary Election, (agreable to the Royal Charter granted to this Colony) the following Gentlemen were elected, viz.

Hon. WILLIAM PITKIN, Eſq;
GOVERNOR.
Hon JONATHAN TRUMBLE, Eſq;
DEPUTY-GOVERNOR.

ASSISTANTS.

HEZEKIAH HUNTINGTON, Eſq;
[illegible]
SHUBAEL CONANT, Eſq;
ELISHA SHELDON, Eſq;
ELIPHALET DYER, Eſq;
JABEZ HUNTINGTON, Eſq;
* WILLIAM PITKIN, jun. Eſq;
* ROGER SHERMAN, Eſq;
* ROBERT WALKER, Eſq;
* ABRAHAM DAVENPORT, Eſq;
* WILLIAM-SAMUEL JOHNSON, Eſq;
* JOSEPH SPENCER, Eſq;

*[The Gentlemen, with an * prefix'd to their Names, are new Members.]*

JOSEPH TALCOTT, Eſq; Treaſurer.
GEORGE WYLLYS, Eſq; Secretary.

The following is a Liſt of the Houſe of Repreſentatives.

Hartford.
[illegible] Pitkin,
choſen an Aſſiſtant.
Mr. John Ledyard.
New-Haven.
Mr. Roger Sherman,
choſen an Aſſiſtant.
Mr. Samuel Biſhop, jun.
New-London.
Capt. Jeremiah Miller.
Mr. William Hillhouſe.
Fairfield.
Mr. Lothrop Lewis,
Col. John Reed.
Windham.
Maj. Jedediah Elderkin,
Capt. Samuel Murdock.
Litchfield.
Col. Ebenezer Marſh,
Capt. Iſaac Baldwin.
Norwich.
Mr. Iſaac Tracy,
Major John Durkee.
Stamford.
Mr. Abraham Davenport
choſen an Aſſiſtant.
Capt. Charles Webb.
Stonington.
Maj. Amos Cheſebrough
Mr. Paul Wheeler.
Greenwich.
Capt. Jabez Sherwood,
Capt. Meſſenger Palmer.
Groton.
Capt. Moſes Fiſh,
Capt. Benadam Gallop.
Kent.
Mr. John Ranſom,
Mr. Eliphalet Cumſtock.
Stafford.
Mr. Daniel Alden, jun.
Capt. Iſaac Pinney.
Milford.
Capt. John Fowler,
Mr. Robert Treat.
Coventry.
Mr. Phineas Strong,
Mr. Ephraim Root.
Danbury.
Capt. Daniel Taylor,
Mr. Samuel Dickenſon.
Farmington.
Capt. John Strong,
Mr. Jonathan Root.

Preſton.
Capt. Samuel Morgan,
Col. Samuel Coit.
Colcheſter.
Mr. Daniel Foot,
Capt. Peter Bulkley.
Harwinton.
Capt. John Wilſon,
Capt. Abijah Catlin.
Pomfret.
Mr. Jonathan Dreſſer,
Col. Iſrael Putnam.
Saliſbury.
Capt Thomas Chitenden
Mr. Joſhua Porter.
Killingly.
Mr. Bryant Brown,
Mr. Benjamin Leavens.
Simſbury.
Capt Jonathan Pettebone
Capt. John Caſe.
Newtown.
Mr. Richard Ferman,
Capt. Henry Glover.
Say-Brook.
Col. Samuel Willard,
Capt. John Mordock.
Woodſtock.
Capt. Nehemiah Lyon.
Mr. Ebenezer Payne,
Ridgefield.
Mr. William Lee,
Mr. Nathan Olmſted.
Waterbury.
Mr. Joſeph Hopkins,
Capt. Stephen Upſon.
Woodbury.
Mr. Daniel Sherman,
Capt. Increaſe Moſeley.
Haddam.
Maj. Hezekiah Brainard
New-Milford.
Mr. Buſhnel Boſtwick,
Capt. Samuel Canfield.
Suffield.
Capt. Samuel Kent,
Mr. William King.
New-Hartford.
Capt. Iſaac Kellog,
Mr. Martin Smith.
Guilford.
Mr. Nathaniel Hill,
Mr. Nathaniel Ruggles.

New-Fairfield.
Capt. Eleazer Hubbel.
Mr. Ephraim Hubbel.
Cornwall.
Mr. Noah Rogers,
Mr. Heman Swift.
Durham.
Capt. James Wadſworth,
Mr. Nathan Camp.
Lyme.
Mr. John Lay,
Mr. Samuel Seldon.
Voluntown.
Mr. John Gordon,
Capt. Robert Dixſon.
[illegible]
Mr. John [illegible]
Capt. Samuel Gilbert.
[illegible]
Mr. [illegible]
[illegible]
Capt. Benjamin Sumner,
Capt. Jedidiah Fay.
Eaſt-Haddam.
Mr. Dyer Throop.
Stratford.
Capt. Robert Fairchild,
Capt. Ichabod Lewis.
Lebanon.
Mr. William Williams,
(Clerk.
Mr. Benajah Bill.
Wallingford.
Capt. Macock Ward,
Capt. Samuel Hull.
Enfield.
Mr. Edward Collins,
Mr. Ephraim Terry, jun.
Plainfield.
Mr. Elisha Payne,
Maj. Ezekiel Pierce.
Branford.
Capt. William Hodley,
Mr. Samuel Ruſſel.
Canterbury.
Capt. Jabez Fitch,
Mr. Stephen Froſt.

Norwalk.
Mr. Thomas Fitch, jun.
Mr. Joſeph Platt.
Goſhen.
Capt. Moſes Lyman,
Capt. Ebenezer Norton.
Mansfield.
Mr. Benjamin Champlin
Mr. John Salter.
Middletown.
Mr. Seth Wetmore,
Mr. Richard Alſop.
Windſor.
Mr. Alexander Wolcott,
Mr. Matthew Rockwell.
Derby.
Mr. Daniel Holebrook,
Capt. Abel Gun.
Torrington.
Mr. John Cook,
Mr. Noah Wilſon.
Wethersfield.
Capt. Eliſha Williams,
Capt. Thomas Belding.
Tolland.
Capt. Zebulon Weſt,
(Speaker.
Capt. Samuel Chapman.
Sharon.
Capt. John Williams,
Capt. Caleb Jewet.
Glaſtenbury.
Maj. Elizur Talcott,
Mr. William Welles.
Canaan.
Col. David Whitney,
Capt. Charles Burrel.
Bolton.
Capt. Thomas Pitkin,
Capt. Benjamin Talcott.
Killingworth.
Capt. John Perſon,
Col. Aaron Elliot.
Willington.
Capt. Abner Barker,
Capt. Timothy Pearl.

At the General Election, laſt Thurſday, the Hon. WILLIAM PITKIN, Eſq; being choſen Governor, in the Room of the Hon. THOMAS FITCH, Eſq; (who had ſuſtained that Poſt with Honour, for Twelve Years paſt) He took his Leave of the Aſſembly, the ſame Day, by the following SPEECH.

GENTLEMEN OF THE ASSEMBLY,

"WHEN I was firſt elected to the Office I have ſuſtained till now, I not only had an affecting Senſe of the good Opinion the People entertained of me; but alſo conſidered the Voice of the Freemen, as a Call of Providence; therefore, thought it my Duty to undertake to ſerve my King and Country in that Arduous and Important Truſt. And on the Deſire of the Electors, have laboured therein twelve Years. In the Whole of this Time I have ſtudiouſly endeavoured, to the utmoſt of my Ability, to maintain the Privileges, and promote the Intereſt and Welfare of the Colony; giving continual Attendance to the Buſineſs aſſigned me, in the various intricate, as well as more common Branches thereof.

Through the Courſe of a long War, and by Reaſon of other Occurrences intermixed, during that Period, it is well known the Difficulties attending my Office, were peculiarly great and burdenſome: Yet, as I was called to continue in that Service, by the repeated Voice of the Freemen; I was animated to exert myſelf with unremitting Application, to do every Thing in my Power, to fulfil the Truſts repoſed in me.—I had alſo the Satisfaction of having an Opportunity to ſpend my Time and Strength, for the public Good, and of believing my Services were in general acceptable; until of late, it has been my Lot to be ſo unhappy, as to have the Freemen differ from me in Sentiment, and therefore they have excepted againſt my Conduct, more eſpecially with Regard to one particular Affair; tho' in that Matter I can truly ſay, I never was more concerned for the Security of the Privileges of the Colony, than at that Time; and that my Intentions were really upright. Neverthelefs, altho' I have been, and am diſpoſed, from Principle, to ſerve the Public, to the utmoſt of my Capacity, when properly called thereto: Yet, on the other Hand, I have at all Times endeavoured to maintain ſuch a Temper of Mind as to be free and willing, whenever ſuch Call ſhould ceaſe, to ſubmit to the Directions of Providence therein.—And therefore, as the Freemen have now thought proper publicly to ſignify they have at preſent no further Service for me, I cheerfully acquieſce in this Diſpenſation for a Retirement. Being therefore, in Conſequence thereof, now to take my Leave of the Aſſembly, I embrace this Opportunity, to return my Thanks to the Aſſembly, and their Conſtituents, for thoſe many Marks of Eſteem and Reſpect ſhewn me, wiſhing Divine Counſel and Wiſdom may continually attend both you and them.

Council-Chamber, Hartford 8th May, 1766.

Colony of CONNECTICUT. April 30th, 1766.

WHereas purſuant to an Act or Law of this Colony, intituled "An Act to prevent Fraud in Debtors, and for ſecuring the Effects of Inſolvent Debtors for the Uſe of their Creditors," &c. Joſiah Caſe, late of Middletown, now of Suffield, in the County of Hartford, an Inſolvent Debtor, in Conjunction with the Major Part of his Creditors, hath exhibited his Petition, with an Account of the Sums by him owing, and an Inventory of his Eſtate, &c. under Oath, before Jabez Hamlin, Eſq; Judge of the County Court, in the County of Hartford, and Seth Wetmore, Eſq; Juſtice of the Peace and Quorum in ſaid County; praying to have the ſame diſpoſed of for the Uſe of his ſaid Creditors: Public Notice is therefore hereby given, to all the Creditors of the ſaid Joſiah Caſe, to meet at the Dwelling-Houſe of Mrs. Eſther Wetmore, Inn-holder in Middletown, in ſaid County, on the Second Tueſday of June next; to ſhew Reaſon, if any they have, why an Aſſignment of the Eſtate of ſaid Joſiah Caſe ſhould not be made, and his Perſon diſcharged according to the Regulation and Proviſion in ſaid Act.

THE Subſcribers to whom Mr. John Hopſon of Colcheſter, in Hartford County, hath aſſigned and made over all his Eſtate, real and perſonal in Truſt, for the Uſe of all his Creditors in juſt Proportion, hereby give Notice to all Perſons indebted to ſaid Hopſon, or for whom he hath advanced Money on Execution, to ſettle the ſame with Aaron Kellogg and Amaſa Jones, of ſaid Colcheſter, forthwith, by paying their Debts, or ſecuring the ſame by their Obligations: And all his Creditors are deſired to ſend in to ſaid Truſtees their ſeveral Claims duly proved. And ſaid Truſtees further give Notice, that they will meet at the Houſe of Mr. John Tainter, Innholder in ſaid Colcheſter, on the laſt Tueſday of May next, and the ſecond Tueſdays of July and Auguſt nex, to attend the Buſineſs of their Truſt; when and where their Accounts and Proceedings ſhall be expoſed to any Creditor who deſires to examine the ſame.

Colcheſter, April 12, 1766.

AARON KELLOGG,
AMASA JONES,
TITUS HOSMER.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in London, to his Friend in America, dated January, 1766.

FOR ſome Days, previous to the Meeting of Parliament, a Report had been circulated, that the Miniſtry had changed their Minds with Regard to the Stamp-Act, and inſtead of repealing, were bent upon enforcing it. If this Report did not take its Original amongſt the Favourites of a certain nothern Nobleman, it was much indebted to them for its Progreſs, which was ſo great as to affect the Stocks. The King's Speech, on the Meeting of the Parliament, on the 14th, gave ſome Colour to the Suggeſtion; but when the Gentlemen had ſpoken, who moved for the Addreſs, and ſeconded it, nothing could be clearer, than that the Miniſtry had perſiſted in their Intentions to promote the Repeal. The Friends of the Gentlemen lately in Power, applaud the King's Speech, and approved of the propoſed Addreſs, which, as uſual had purſued the Speech exactly; but they took great Offence at the Tenderneſs of the Expreſſion that the two firſt Gentlemen had made uſe of concerning America. Mr. N--g--nt particularly inſiſted, that the Honor of the Kingdom was concerned to compel the Execution of the Stamp-Act, until the Right was acknowledged, and the Repeal ſolicited as a Favour. He computed the Expence of the Troops now employed in America for their Defence, as he called it, to amount to Nine-pence in the Pound of the Land Tax, to this Kingdom, while the Produce of the Stamp Act would not raiſe a Shilling a Head on the Inhabitants of America; but that a Pepper Corn, in Acknowledgment of the Right, was of more Value than Millions without it. He failed not to expatiate on the extreme Ingratitude of the Colonies, and concluded with charging the Miniſters with encouraging Petitions to the Parliament, and Inſtructions to Members from the trading and manufacturing Towns, againſt the Stamp Act. Mr. PITT, who, according to the before-mentioned Report, was not to have attended the Houſe any more, but to have been created an Earl, was the next Speaker. Every Friend to his Country rejoiced to ſee him where he was, and to ſee him in ſuch perfect Health. As he always begins very low, and every Body was in Agitation on his firſt riſing, I could not hear his Introduction, till he ſaid, "I came to Town but Yeſterday; till I heard read in this Houſe, I was a Stranger to the Tenor of his Majeſty's Speech, and the propoſed Addreſs. Unconnected, unconſulted, I have not the Means of Information, I am fearful of offending thro' this Miſtake, and therefore beg to be indulged with a ſecond reading of the propoſed Addreſs." The Addreſs being read, Mr. PITT went on. He commended the King's Speech, & approved of the Addreſs in Anſwer; every Gentlemen left by it at perfect Liberty to take ſuch a Part concerning America as he might afterwards ſee fit, One Word only he could not approve of. "Early, is a Word that does not belong to the Notice that the Miniſtry have given to Parliament of the Troubles in America; in a Matter of ſuch Importance, the Communication ought to have been immediate. I ſpeak without Reſpect to Parties. I ſtand up in this Place ſingle and unconnected. As to the late Miniſtry (turning himſelf to Mr. G--n--lle, who ſat within one of him) every Capital Meaſure they have taken has been entirely wrong. To the preſent Gentlemen, to thoſe at leaſt whom I have in my Eye (looking at the Bench where Mr. Conway ſat with the Lords of the Treaſury) I have no Objection, I have never been made a Sacrifice of by any of them. Their Characters are fair; and I am always glad when Men of fair Characters engage in his Majeſty's Service. Some of them have done me the Honor to aſk my poor Opinion before they would engage; thoſe will do me the Juſtice to own that I adviſed them to engage. But, notwithſtanding, I love to be explicit, I cannot give them every Confidence; pardon me, Gentlemen, (bowing to the Treaſury Bench) Confidence is a Plant of ſlow Growth in an aged Boſom; Youth is the Seaſon for Credulity; comparing Events with each other, reaſoning from Effects to Cauſes, methinks I plainly diſcover the Traces of an over-ruling Influence over them. There is a Clauſe in the Act of Settlement, that every Miniſter ſhould ſign with his Hand, the Advice which he gives to his Sovereign; would it were well obſerved. I have had the Honour to ſerve the Crown; if I could have ſubmitted to Influence, I might have continued to ſerve it, but I could not be reſponſible for others. I have no local Attachment. Indifferent, whether a Man had been rocked in his Cradle on this Side, or on the other Side of the Tweed. I ſought for Merit wherever it was to be found; it was my Boaſt, that I was the firſt Miniſter who looked for it, and found it in the Mountains of the North. I called it forth, and drew out into your Service an hardy and intrepid Race of Men; Men, who left by your own Jealouſy, a Prey to the Artifice of your Enemies, had gone nigh to overturn the State in the War before the laſt. Theſe Men, in the laſt War, were brought to the Combat at your Side; they ſerved with Fidelity, as they fought with Valour, and conquered for you in every Part of the World. Deteſted be the national Reflections againſt them! They are groundleſs, illiberal, unmanly. When I ceaſed to ſerve his Majeſty as a Miniſter, it was not the Country of the Man by which I was moved, but the Man of that Country wanted Wiſdom, and held Principles incompatible with Freedom.

"It is a long time, Mr. Speaker, ſince I attended in Parliament. When the Reſolution was taken in this Houſe to tax America, I was ill in my Bed, when the Act paſſed, I was ill in my Bed, if I could have endured to have been carried in my Bed, ſo great was the Agitation of my Mind for the Conſequences, I would have ſolicited ſome kind Hand to have laid me down on this Floor, to have born my Teſtimony againſt it. It is now an Act that has paſſed. I would ſpeak with Decency of every Act of this Houſe; but I muſt beg the Indulgence of this Houſe to ſpeak of it with Freedom. I hope a Day may ſoon be appointed to conſider the State of the Nation with reſpect to America. I hope that Gentleman will come to the Debate with all the Temper and Impartiality that his Majeſty recommends, and the Importance of the Subject requires; a Subject of greater Importance than ever engaged the Attention of this Houſe; that Subject only excepted, when, near a Century ago, it was the Queſtion whether you yourſelves were to be Bond or Free.—In the mean Time, as I cannot depend upon Health for any future Day, ſuch is the Nature of my Infirmity, I will beg to ſay a few Words at preſent, leaving the Juſtice, the Equity, the Policy, the Expediency of the Act to another Time, and will only ſpeak to one Point. A Point which ſeems not to have been generally underſtood, I mean to the Right—Some Gentlemen (alluding to Mr. N-g-nt) ſeem to have conſidered it as a Point of Honor. If Gentlemen conſider it in that Light, they loſe all Meaſure of Right and Wrong, to follow a Deluſion, that may lead to Deſtruction. It is my Opinion that this Kingdom has no Right to lay a Tax upon the Colonies; at the ſame Time, I aſſert the Authority of this Kingdom over the Colonies, to be Sovereign and Supreme, in ever Circumſtance of Government and Legiſlation whatſoever. They are the Subjects of this Kingdom, equally entitled with ourſelves to all the natural Rights of Mankind, and the peculiar Privileges of Engliſhmen. Equally bound by the Laws, and equally participating of its Conſtitution. The Americans are the Sons, not the Baſtards, of England. But according to the Conſtitution of this free Country, Taxation is no Part of the governing or legiſlative Power. The Taxes are a voluntary Gift, and Grant of the Commons alone. In Legiſlation the three Eſtates of the Realm are alike concerned, but the Concurrence of the Peers and the Crown to a Tax, is only neceſſary to cloath (or cloſe) with the Form of Law, the Gift and Grant of the Commons alone, poſſeſſed of the Commons in theſe Days. In ancient Days, the Crown, the Barons, and the Clergy were the three Eſtates; the Barons and the Clergy gave and granted to the Crown; they gave and granted what was their own. At preſent, ſince the Diſcovery of America, other Circumſtances permitting, the Commons are become the Proprietors of the Lands. The Crown has diveſted itſelf of its great Eſtates. The Church, God bleſs it, has but a Pittance. The Property of the Lords, compared with the Commons, is as the Drop of Water to the Ocean. This Houſe repreſents thoſe Commons, the Proprietors of the Lands, and thoſe Proprietors virtually repreſent the reſt of the Inhabitants; then, therefore, in this Houſe, we give and grant what is our own—But in an American Tax, what do we do? We your Majeſty's Commons of Great-Britain, give and grant to your Majeſty, What? Our own Property. No, we give and grant to your Majeſty the Property of your Majeſty's Commons in America. It is an Abſurdity in Terms. This Diſtinction between Legiſlation and Taxation, is eſſentially Neceſſary to Liberty.—The Crown, the Peers, are equally legiſlative Powers with the Commons. If Taxation be then a Part of ſimple Legiſlation, the Crown, the Peers, have Rights in Taxation as well as yourſelves, Rights, which they will claim, which they exerciſe, whenever the Principle can be ſupported with Power.

"There is an Idea in ſome, that the Colonies are virtually repreſented in this Houſe. I would fain know by whom an American is repreſented here. Is he repreſented by a Knight of a Shire of any County in the Kingdom? Would to God that reſpectable Repreſentation were augmented to a greater Number! Or, will you tell him he is repreſented by a Repreſentative of a Borough, which perhaps was never ſeen by its Repreſentative? A Borough, perhaps, which no Man ever ſaw, this has been called the rotten Part of the Conſtitution. It cannot now endure out the Century. If it does not drop of itſelf, it muſt be amputated. But the Idea of the virtual Repreſentation of America in this Houſe, is the moſt contemptible Notion that ever entered into the Head of Man. It does not deſerve a ſerious Refutation.

"The Commons of America, repreſented in their ſeveral Aſſemblies, have ever been in Poſſeſſion of the Exerciſe of this their Conſtitutional Right of giving and granting their own Money—They would have been Slaves if they had not enjoyed it. At the ſame Time, this Kingdom, as the ſupreme governing and legiſlative Power, has always bound the Colonies by her Laws, by her Regulations, Reſtrictions in Trade, in Navigation, in Manufactures in every Article whatſoever, except that of taking their Money out of their Pockets without their Conſents. Here then I would draw a Line, Quam ultra citraque nequit conſiſtere rectum.

A conſiderable Pauſe enſued after Mr. PITT had done ſpeaking. Mr. CONWAY then got up. He ſaid, 'He had waited to ſee whether any Anſwer would be given to what had been advanced by the right Hon. Gentleman; reſerving himſelf for the Reply. But as none had been given, had only to declare that his own Sentiments were entirely conformable to the Right Hon. Gentleman's; that they were ſo conformable, he ſaid, is a Circumſtance that affects me with the moſt ſenſible Pleaſure, and does me the greateſt Honor. But two Things fell from that Gentleman which give me Pain. Whatever falls from that Gentleman, falls from ſo great a Heighth as to make a deep Impreſſion. I muſt therefore endeavour to remove it. It was objected that the Notice given to Parliament of the Troubles in America, was not Early. I can aſſure the Houſe the firſt Reports were too Vague and Imperfect to be worthy the Attention of Parliament. It is only of late that they have been preciſe and full.

'An over-ruling Influence has alſo been hinted at. I ſee nothing of it. I feel nothing like it. I diſdain it for myſelf; and, as far as my Diſcernment can reach, for all the reſt of his Majeſty's Miniſters. I did not ride into Place upon a ſtalking Horſe; now I am in, was I ſenſible that I had done ſo, I would turn the Reins and ride out again.'

Mr. PITT ſaid, in Anſwer to Mr. CONWAY. "The Excuſe is a valid one; if it is a juſt one, that muſt appear from the Papers now before the Houſe. The Gentleman has ſpoken of riding into Place, and riding out of Place. I commend his Spirit of Independence. My Advice to him is, NOT TO BE RIDDEN.

In this Interval, Mr. G--n--le had reſerved himſelf. He avoided meddling with the Doctrine of Taxation being confined to the Houſe of Commons, and being grounded on the free Gift of the colative Body, through the Medium of their Repreſentatives; neither did he attempt to defend the virtual Repreſentation of America, but began with cenſuring the Miniſtry very ſeverely, for delaying to give earlier Notice to Parliament of the Diſturbances in America. He ſaid, 'They began in July, and now we are in the Middle of January. Lately they were only Occurrences (the Word uſed in the King's Speech on the 17th December) they are now grown to Diſturbances, to Tumults and Riots, I doubt they border upon OPEN REBELLION; and if the Doctrine I hear To-day be confirmed, I fear they will loſe that Name, to take that of a Revolution; the Government over them being diſſolved, a Revolution will take Place in America.

'I cannot underſtand the Difference between external and internal Taxes; they are the ſame in Effect and only differ in the Name. That this Kingdom is the Sovereign, the ſupreme legiſlative Power over America is granted, it cannot be denied, and Taxation is a Part of that ſovereign Power; it is one Branch of Legiſlation; it is, it has been exerciſed over thoſe who are not, who were not repreſented; it exerciſed over the Eaſt-India Company, the Merchants of London, the Proprietors of the Stocks, and over great manufacturing Towns; it was exerciſed over the Palatinate of Cheſter, and the Biſhoprick of Durham, before they ſent any Repreſentatives to Parliament. I appeal for Proof to the Preambles of the Acts which gave them Repreſentatives, the one in the Reign of Henry the Eighth, the other in that of Charles the Second.' Mr. Grenville then quoted the Statutes exactly, deſired they might be read; which being done, he reſumed his Diſcourſe.

'When I propoſed to tax America, I aſked the Houſe whether any Gentleman would object the Right; I repeatedly aſked it, and no Man would attempt to deny it. Protection and Obedience are reciprocal. G. Britain protects America; America is bound to yield Obedience; if not, tell me when the Americans were emancipated? When they want the Protection of this Kingdom, they are very ready to aſk it: That Protection has always been afforded them, in the moſt full and ample Manner. The Nation has run itſelf into an immediate Debt to give them their Protection, and now they are called upon to contribute a ſmall Share towards the public Expence! an Expence ariſing from themſelves, they renounce your Authority, inſult your Officers, and break out, I might almoſt ſay, into Acts of open Rebellion.

'The ſeditious Spirit of the Colonies, owes its Birth to the Factions in this Houſe. Gentlemen are careleſs of the Conſequences of what they ſay, provided it anſwers the immediate Purpoſes of Oppoſition. We were told that we trod on tender Ground. We were bid to expect Diſobedience. What was this but telling the Americans to ſtand out againſt the Law? To encourage their Obſtinacy with Expectations of Support from Home; let us only hold out a little, they would ſay, our Friends will ſoon be in Power. Ungrateful People of America! Bounties have been extended to them when I had the Honor to ſerve the Crown, while you yourſelves were loaded with an enormous Debt. You have given Bounties on their Lumber, their Iron, their Hemp, and many other Articles. You have relaxed in their Favour the Act of Navigation, that Paladium of the Britiſh Commerce; and yet I have been abuſed in all the public Prints, as Enemy to the Trade of America. I have been particularly charged with giving Orders and Inſtructions to prevent the Spaniſh Trade, and thereby ſtopping the Channels by which alone North-America uſed to be ſupplied with Caſh for Remittances to this Country. I defy any Man to produce any ſuch Orders or Inſtructions. I diſcouraged no Trade but what was illicit, what was prohibited by Act of Parliament.'

Mr. PITT began with prefacing, "That he did not mean to have gone any further upon the Subject on that Day; that he had only deſigned to throw out a few Hints, which Gentlemen who were ſo confident of the Rights of this Kingdom to ſend Taxes to America, might conſider, and perhaps might reflect in a cooler Moment, that the Right was at leaſt equivocal: But ſince the Gentleman who ſpoke laſt had not ſtopped on that Ground, but had gone into the Whole; into the Juſtice, the Equity, the Policy, the Expediency of the Stamp-Act, as well as into the Right, he would follow him through the whole Field, and combat his Arguments on every Point."

'He was going on, when Lord Str--ge got up, and called both the Gentlemen (Mr. PITT and Mr. Grenville) to Order; he ſaid they had both departed from the Matter before the Houſe; which was the King's Speech; and that Mr. PITT was going to ſpeak twice in the ſame Debate, although the Houſe was not in a Committee. Mr. George Onſlow anſwered that they were both in order, as nothing had been ſaid but what was fairly deducible from his Majeſty's Speech, and appealed to the Speaker. The Speaker decided in Mr. Onſlow's Favour.

"Mr. PITT ſaid, "I do not apprehend I am ſpeaking twice. I did expreſsly reſerve a Part of my Subject, in order to ſave the Time of the Houſe; but I am compelled to proceed in it. I do not ſpeak twice, I only finiſh what I had deſignedly left imperfect; but if the Houſe is of a different Opinion, far be it from me to indulge a Wiſh of tranſgreſſing againſt Order. I am content, if it be your Pleaſure, to be ſilent." Here he pauſed, the Houſe reſounded with GO ON, GO ON. He proceeded:

"GENTLEMEN, SIR, I have been charged with giving Birth to Sedition in America. They have ſpoken their Sentiments with Freedom againſt this unhappy Act. That Freedom has become their Crime. Sorry I am to hear the Liberty of Speech in this Houſe imputed as a Crime, but the Imputation ſhall not diſcourage me; it is a Liberty I mean to exerciſe; no Gentleman ought to be afraid of exerciſing it; it is a Liberty, by which the Gentleman who calumniates it, might himſelf have profited. He ought to have deſiſted from his Project. The Gentleman tells us, America is obſtinate, America is almoſt in open Rebellion. I rejoice that America has reſiſted. Three Millions of People, ſo dead to all the Feelings of Liberty, as voluntarily to conſent to be Slaves, would have been fit Inſtruments to make Slaves of the reſt. I came not here armed at all Points with Law Caſes and Acts of Parliament, with the Statute Book doubled down in Dog's-Ears, to defend the Cauſe of Liberty; if I had, I would have cited the two Caſes of Cheſter and Durham; I would have cited them to have ſhewn, that even under arbitrary Reigns, Parliaments were aſhamed of taxing a People without their Conſent, and allowed them Repreſentatives. Why did the Gentleman confine himſelf to Cheſter and Durham? He might have taken a higher Example in Wales. Wales, that never was taxed by Parliament, until it was incorporated. I would not debate a particular Point of Law with the Gentleman; I know his Abilities; I have been obliged to his diligent Reſearches; but for the Defence of Liberty, on a general Principle, upon a conſtitutional Principle, it is a Ground on which I ſtand firm, a Ground on which I dare meet any Man. The Gentleman tells us of many who are taxed, and are not repreſented; the India Company, Merchants, Stock-holders, Manufacturies: Surely many of theſe are repreſented in other Capacities, as Owners of Lands, or Freemen of Boroughs. It is a Misfortune that more are not actually repreſented; but they are all Inhabitants, and, as ſuch, are virtually repreſented. Many have it in their Option to be actually repreſented; they have Connections with thoſe that elect, and they have Influence over them. The Gentleman mentioned the Stock-holders, I hope he does not reckon the Debts of the Nation as Part of the national State.

"Since the Acceſſion of King William, Miniſters, ſome of great, others of more moderate Abilities, have taken the Lead in Government." [He went through the Liſt of them, bringing it down till he came to himſelf, giving a ſhort Sketch of the Characters of each.] "None of theſe, (he went on) ever dreamed of robbing the Colonies of their Conſtitutional Rights; it was reſerved to mark the Æra of the late Adminiſtration, not that there were wanting ſome, when I had the Honour to ſerve his Majeſty, to propoſe to me to burn my Fingers with an American Stamp-Act. With the Enemy at their Backs, with our Bayonets at their Breaſts, in the Day of their Diſtreſs, perhaps the Americans would have ſubmitted to the Impoſition; but it would have been taking an ungenerous and unjuſt Advantage.

"The Gentleman boaſts of his Bounties to America, and thoſe Bounties intended finally for the Benefits of this Kingdom. If they are where is his peculiar Merit to America. If they are not, he has miſapplied the national Treaſure. I am no Courtier of America. I ſtand up for this Kingdom. I maintain that Parliment has a Right to bind, to reſtrain America. Our legiſlative Power over the Colonies is Sovereign and Supreme. If it ceaſes to be Sovereign and Supreme, I would adviſe every Gentleman to ſell his Lands, if he can, and embark for that Country. When two Country's are connected together like England and her Colonies without being incorporated, the one muſt neceſſarily govern. The Greater muſt rule the Leſſer, ſo rule it, as not to contradict the fundamental Principles common to both. The Gentleman underſtands not the Difference betwen internal Taxes and external, I cannot help it. But there is a plain Diſtinction betwen Taxes levied for the Purpoſes of raiſing a Revenue, and Duties impoſed for the Regulation of Trade for the Accommodation of the Subject, although in the Conſequences ſome revenue might immediately ariſe from the latter. The Gentleman aſks 'when the Colonies Emancipated,' I deſire to know when were they made Slaves? But I dwell not upon Words——While I had the Honour of ſerving his Majeſty, I availed myſelf of the Means of Information which I derived from my Office, I ſpeak therefore from Knowledge, my Materials were good, I was at Pains to collect, to digeſt, to conſider them, and I will be bold to affirm, that the Profits to Great-Britain from the Trade of the Colonies through all its Branches, is Two Millions a Year, this is the Fund that carried you triumphantly through the laſt War. Three ſcore years ago, Eſtates that were at Two Thouſand Pounds a Year Rent, are now at Three Thouſand. Thoſe Eſtates then ſold from Fifteen to Eighteen Years Purchaſe, the ſame may now be ſold at Thirty, you owe this to America. This is the Price that America pays you for her Protection. And ſhall a miſerable Financier come with a Boaſt that he can cunningly Filch a Pepper Corn into the Exchequer, to the Loſs of Millions to the Nation.

"I dare not ſay how much higher theſe Profits may be augmented, but omitting the immenſe increaſe of People by natural Population, in the northern Colonies, and the Emigration from every Part of Europe, I am convinced the whole commerical Syſtem of America may be altered to Advantage, you have prohibited where you ought to have encouraged, you have encouraged where you ought to have prohibited, improper Reſtraints have been laid on the Continent, in favour of the Iſlands, you have but Two Nations to trade with in America—would you had Twenty. Let Acts of Parliament in Conſequence of Treaties remain, but let not an Engliſh Miniſter become a Cuſtom-Houſe Officer for Spain, for any foreign Power! Much is wrong, much may be amended for the general Good of the Whole.—Does the Gentleman complain he has been miſ-repreſented in the public Prints? It is a common Misfortune. In the Spaniſh Affair in the laſt War I was abuſed in all the News-papers for having adviſed his Majeſty to violate the Laws of Nations with Regard to Spain, the Abuſe was induſtriouſly circulated even in hand Bills. If Adminiſtration did not propagate the Abuſe, Adminiſtration never contradicted it. I will not ſay what Advice I did give the King, my Advice is in Writing, ſigned by myſelf, is in Poſſeſſion of the Crown, but I will ſay what Advice I did not give to the King. I did not adviſe the King to violate any of the Laws of Nations, as to the Report of the Gentleman's preventing in ſome Way the Trade for Bullion with the Spaniards, it was ſpoke of ſo confidently, that I own I am one of thoſe who did believe it to be true.

"The Gentleman muſt not wonder he was not contradicted, when as the Miniſter he aſſerted the Rights of Parliament to tax Americans. I know not how it is, but there is a Modeſty in this Houſe that does not chuſe to contradict a Miniſter. Such Gentlemen ſhould get the better of that Modeſty. If they do not, perhaps the collective Body may begin to abate of its Reſpect for the Repreſentative. Lord Bacon has told me that a great Queſtion would not fail of being agitated at one Time or another. I was willing to agitate that of the German War, my German War as they called it, at the proper Seaſon, every Seſſion, I called out, has any Body any Objections to the German War? no-body would object to it, one Gentleman only excepted, ſince removed into the upper Houſe, by Succeſſion to an ancient Barony (meaning Lord Diſpenſer, formerly Sir Francis Daſhwood) he told me he did not like my German War, I honor the Man for it, and was ſorry when he was turned out of his Poſt.

